EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report is issued pursuant to the Article 240 (7) of the Constitution and Section 16 of the National Security Council Act (2012) to apprise Parliament on the State of Security in the country over the last one year. During the period under review, the country has faced a number of challenges that posed a significant security threat to the well-being of the nation.

The threats to national security can be evaluated from the national, regional and global levels. Key among the threats included continuous perpetration of terrorist attacks, and kidnapping by the Al-Shabaab militia that culminated in the deployment of the Kenya Defence Forces (KDF) in Somalia to protect our sovereignty, territorial integrity and safeguard our national interest. This marked a new phase in the war on terrorism and has led to the liberation and continuing pacification of large areas previously controlled by the Al-Shabaab.

Other major threats which continue to occupy our security agencies are radicalization of Kenyan youths into violent extremism, resource-based conflicts among pastoralist communities, poaching of wildlife, violent crimes, trafficking of human, drugs and contra-band, organised criminal gangs, proliferation of illicit arms, cyber-crimes, natural and man-made disasters, road accidents, environmental vulnerabilities, and the influx of refugees.

In addressing these security challenges, the Government has undertaken a number of measures. These measures include strategies on: counter-terrorism, cyber security, counter radicalisation, road safety, the 100 days Rapid Result Initiative on the fight against crime, food security, and eradication of corruption. In addition, the government has fast-tracked the police reforms, including improving the capacity and welfare of officers, restructuring of the former provincial administration, and created a multi-agency special unit to combat poaching and trafficking.

Other measures undertaken by the Government are the introduction of the Nyumba Kumi initiative, the creation of a multi-agency national disaster response unit, establishment of a modern National Command and Control Centre, as well as a forensic laboratory. Furthermore, the Government has undertaken measures to enhance regional security initiatives, including commencing work towards the repatriation of refugees, undertaking cross-border disarmament programmes, and revised the firearms act to enhance deterrence. Combined, these efforts have yielded a reduction of 8% in crimes, compared to the year 2012.

In spite of these positive efforts, the country is faced with a number of challenges that impact on the delivery of national security. These include a high prevalence of youth unemployment and poverty, a steady erosion of the social fabric and values, inadequate resource allocation relative to the threat levels and the desired modernisation of the security agencies, socio-economic challenges as well as weak legislation. Notable also is the pervasive instability in neighbouring countries, which results in the movement of small arms and light weapons, as well as human displacement in the form of refugees into the country.

In view of the above, there is, therefore, need for enhanced synergy between all arms of Government, in particular the criminal justice system, and other actors, including leaders, and the citizens to work together towards the achievement of a safe and secure environment that will facilitate socio-economic and political development, as envisioned in Kenya Vision 2030.

1.0 INTRODUCTION

The Kenya Constitution 2010, Chapter 14, Article 238 (1), defines National Security as; “the protection against internal and external threats to Kenya’s territorial integrity and sovereignty, its people, their rights, freedoms, property, peace, stability and prosperity and other national interests”. In this context, therefore, National Security encompasses social, economic, cultural and political well-being of the nation and individual citizens.

Under Article 240 (7) of the Constitution, and the National Security Act, 2012, Section 16, the National Security Council is obliged to give an Annual Report to Parliament on the State of Security in Kenya. This report, therefore, highlights security threats that the country faced over the last one year, outlines the measures the Government undertook to address the threats and elaborates on the challenges the government is facing in countering these threats. The Report also recommends measures aimed at addressing the challenges on a sustainable basis.

Section I of the report covers the current security threats and addresses national, regional and international threats as well as their implications to National Security. Measures taken to address them and achievements made are contained in Section II of the Report. Section III addresses the challenges that are faced by the Government in mitigating the threats, while Section IV dwells on recommendations to combat the threats. Section V concludes by highlighting the way forward in realizing a secure and prosperous country.

2.0 CONTEXTUALISING NATIONAL SECURITY

Today the world is facing complex, interlocking security challenges that transcend national, regional and international environments. These challenges delay and hinder the full realisation of aspirations to attain state and human security across the world. Kenya is no exception to this reality. During the year under review, Kenya faced a number of security threats emanating from both international and local scenes.

At the national level, the country faced major threats that included resource-based conflicts, organized criminal gangs, and violent crimes. At the regional and International level, the country also faced major threats that included terrorism and radicalization, poaching, drug and human trafficking, and cyber-crime.

Kenya is located in one of the world's most fragile regions. In the recent past, some of our neighbouring countries have experienced serious security and political challenges that have impacted negatively on our national security. To mitigate these threats, the Government has undertaken a range of initiatives that include, revamping and reforming of the security sector, enhancing public participation in the provision of security, and cooperation with regional and international partners to pursue peace and security beyond our borders.

As envisaged in Vision 2030, and elaborated in the Medium Term Plan, the Government has laid a firm foundation for an enabling environment to transform Kenya into a medium income country, with a high standard of life, with guaranteed security that translates Kenya into an attractive destination for business investment and tourism.

3.0 MEASURES TAKEN TO ADDRESS THE SECURITY THREATS

3.1 Transnational Threats

Kenya is faced with a number of transnational threats. Primary among this is international terrorism occasioned by the Al Shabaab and its links with Al Qaeda and its affiliates. While piracy has been contained by the efforts of Kenya Navy, it remains a threat to watch. In addition, many global criminal cartels have increasingly attempted to make Kenya a transit point for human and drug trafficking, including narcotics and psychotropic substances.

To address threats, the Government is enhancing the capacity of security agencies and partnering with other players to neutralize perpetrators and collaborators of these crimes and secure Kenya's national interest. The Government has also taken the war to the terrorists by deploying the Defence Forces to Somalia under the UN/AU mandated African Mission in Somalia (AMISOM). The entry of KDF into AMISOM was a game changer. So far, it has liberated more than eighteen towns including Kismayu which was a strategic supply point for the Al Shabaab. This has greatly degraded the capability of the Al Shabaab, and set the foundation for the next phase of operation.

Within the borders, the Government has taken firm counter-terrorism measures leading to the apprehension of 150 terrorist suspects whose cases are on-going. In addition, security agencies have foiled many terrorist attacks. In view of this, the Government commends the gallant security officers who continue to put their lives on the line to secure our beloved country.

The threat of terrorism is assuming a new dimension with the growing radicalization of youths within the country, creating a new face of terror. In this regard, the Government has taken firm measures to deal with proponents of violent extremism who are recruiting and indoctrinating youth into extremism. The Government has also launched a counter-radicalization strategy in collaboration with the local leaders, faith and community based organizations to sensitize the citizens and rehabilitate the affected youths.

In the war against drugs, the government has arrested and prosecuted 1087 cases, out of which 245 have been finalised. A number of drug dens were identified and raided, and 90 drug barons and traffickers arrested and prosecuted. 30 drug barons were also deported to their respective countries and the Government continues to monitor closely the activities of suspected local drug barons.

These arrests led to the seizure of large consignments of assorted drugs as follows;

Drug Seizures for the Year 2013

Type of Drug	Quantity seized
Cocaine	18.534 kilograms
Heroin	74.310 kilograms, 1249 sachets
Methamphetamine	9.762 kilograms
Ephedrine	39.161 kilograms
Bhang	17,080.5 kilograms, 4538 rolls, 1,909 stones, 155 brooms and 40 plants

In the effort to reduce the consumption of illicit brews and the operation of unlicensed alcoholic businesses, the Government, through NACADA, took a number of stringent measures which resulted in the following achievements:

- 79 raids conducted in unlicensed drinking places and 455 people arrested and prosecuted and fined a total of KSh. 1,168,900;
- 178,401,235 litres of illicit brews were netted, 3,193 brewers were arrested, and 13,085 illicit brew drinkers also arrested;

In addition to this, the Government is investing more resources in rehabilitation of youths affected by the drug menace.

3.2 Proliferation of Illicit Arms

Instability in some parts of the Horn of Africa and the Great Lakes Region continued to be one of the key sources of external threats to Kenya. This has resulted in the proliferation of over 500,000 illicit small arms into the country thus increasing accessibility of firearms to criminals. The Government is reviewing the Firearms Act to provide for stiffer penalties to persons possessing illegal firearms, marking of firearms to facilitate ease of tracing; and strengthening of intelligence mechanisms in urban areas. The Government is also endeavouring to initiate a comprehensive regional disarmament program under the East African Protocol on Cattle Rustling to mop up the illegal arms.

3.3 Refugees

The influx of refugees has occasioned security challenges since terrorist groups have changed the humanitarian character of the refugees' camps, infiltrating them to recruit, train and co-ordinate terrorist activities from the safety of the refugee camps.

To address this challenge, the Government is partnering with neighbouring countries through regional, bi-lateral and multi-lateral initiatives to address this crisis. On 10th November, 2013, the Government together with the Government of the Federal Republic of Somalia and the United Nations High Commission for Refugees signed a Tripartite Agreement, governing the repatriation of more than 600,000 refugees before 2016. Under the agreement, the Tripartite Commission will be launched in April this year to embark on the immediate repatriation of refugees which is a critical process to peace and security in Kenya and in the stabilisation and reconstruction of Somalia.

The Government has also participated in many international peace conferences on the issue of refugees and has continued to mobilise the international community to support the reconstruction efforts in Somalia aimed at bringing Somalia into the international socio-economic and political arena.

The current refugee population as per our register stands at 665,746 distributed as follows:

Location	Number of Refugees
Dadaab Refugee camp	403,000
Kakuma Refugee Camp	148,000
*Nairobi	65,214
*Mombasa	45,000
*Malindi	2,198
*Nakuru	2,278
*Isiolo	270
TOTAL	665,746

 These are registration centres that were closed on 25th March, 2014 and refugees ordered to report to the designated refugee camps.*

3.4 Regional Peace Initiatives

Kenya continued to demonstrate the highest level of commitment on matters of peace and security aimed at enhancing peace and security, not only in the region, but in the entire continent of Africa. Kenya continues to work together with other regional countries to actualise the framework for sustainable peace.

In relation to this, the Government pledged of USD 1 Million at the AU summit in Addis Ababa to the African Peace Fund. This was the first such offer by an African country, demonstrating Kenya's leadership role in peace and security. The money was handed over to the AU Commissioner for Peace and Security, during the Ministers and Chiefs of Defence Meeting of the Council of Ministers of Defence under the regional umbrella body, the Eastern Africa Standby Force (EASF) in Nairobi.

The International Conference on the Great Lakes Region (ICGLR) aimed at implementing the Pact on Security, Stability and Development (PACT), signed by eleven Heads of State from Angola, Burundi, Central Africa Republic (CAR), Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), Kenya, Rwanda, Republic of Congo, Sudan, Uganda, Tanzania and Zambia. In relation to this, Kenya has been in the forefront in brokering peace accords aimed at stabilizing the Great Lakes Region.

On South Sudan, Kenya as the chair of the IGAD sub-committee on Sudan and guarantor of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement has been at the forefront in brokering peace between President Salva Kiir and his former Vice-President Dr. Riek Machar. The country has facilitated the release of seven of the eleven leaders detained and provided humanitarian assistance to the people of South Sudan.

On the international scene, Kenya remains among the top ten countries that contribute peacekeepers and observers in troubled spots. Kenya's peacekeepers have participated in assisting civil authorities maintain order in the Middle East, the Balkans, Africa and Asia. The missions have been carried out on the request of the UN, the Commonwealth and the African Union. Countries where Kenya has sent peacekeepers and observers include Sudan, Ethiopia, Eritrea, Kuwait, East Timor, South Sudan, Somalia, Iran, Iraq, Zimbabwe and Sierra Leone. Others are former Yugoslavia, Democratic Republic of Congo, Morocco, Namibia, Liberia, Angola, Chad, Rwanda, Mozambique, Burundi and Uganda.

3.5 Resource-Based Conflicts

The practice of cattle rustling is a leading source of insecurity, especially among the pastoral communities. The practice is driven largely by cultural beliefs and failure by some communities to embrace peace building and conflict resolution mechanisms. The situation is compounded by the easy availability of illegal arms and commercialization of the vice.

To address this challenge, the Government is implementing multi-sectoral strategies which include: use of both manual and electronic cattle branding, pasture management systems, sinking boreholes, construction of dams and water pans, improvement of infrastructure, economic diversification as well as deployment of adequate security personnel and continuous peace building and conflict management mechanisms. In this respect, the government has been able to engage the political leadership of these communities to sensitize the communities to embrace peaceful coexistence.

3.6 Tackling Violent Crimes

There have been cases of violent crimes particularly car-jackings, violent robberies, and kidnappings in urban areas. Overall crime reported in 2013 was 71,832 cases which was a decrease of 6020 cases or 8% as compared to 2012 which recorded 77852 cases. The criminals are increasingly using sophisticated weapons and gadgets to operate and communicate. In this regard, the Government has put appropriate measures to address the threats. Among these measures, the Government has established the National Command and Control Centre, installed CCTV cameras in strategic areas in Nairobi and later in other major towns, acquired 1,200 additional police vehicles, increased the number of police recruits from 7,000 to 10,000 per year, installed the 999 and 112 digitized emergency lines, acquired communication equipment and increased police visibility by improving police to population ratio from 1:760 to the current 1:530.

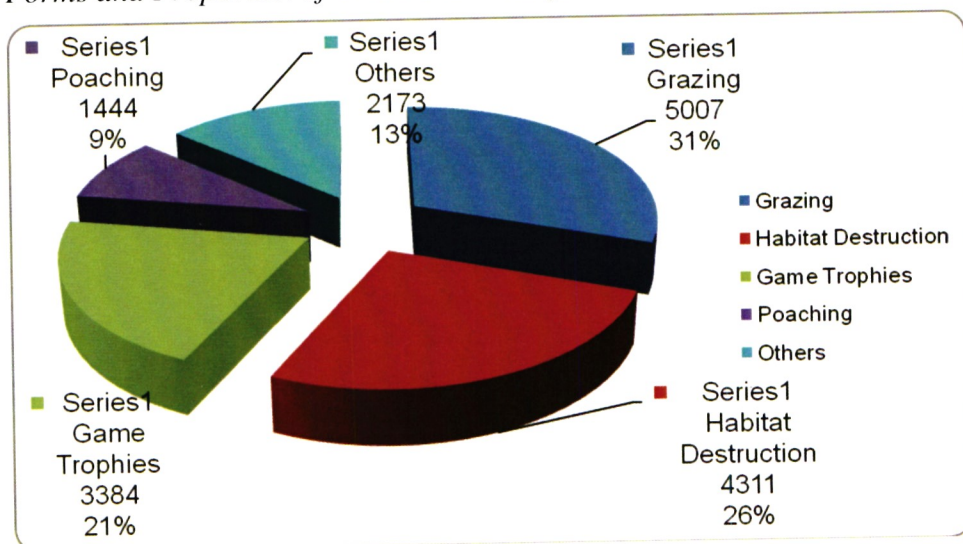

In addition, the Government continues to pursue legislative, policy and institutional reforms within the security sector which has so far resulted in; the enactment and operationalization of the National Police Service Act 2011, the National Police Service Commission Act, 2011 and the Independent Policing Oversight Authority Act, 2011. Further to this, there have been strides in the establishment of internal/external police accountability units, review of the Police Training Curriculum, introduction of a new recruitment system which establishes sub county recruitment committees, vetting of serving Police officers, development of a police code of conduct, increment of Police salaries, introduction of insurance medical cover for police officers and their dependants and upgrading of ICT equipment and infrastructure.

The Government is also enhancing participation of the public in security management through community policing by introducing the “Nyumba Kumi” initiative. This initiative is a strategy of anchoring community policing at the household level aimed at bringing Kenyans together in clusters defined by physical locations, felt needs and pursuit of common ideals. The strategy is intended to: establish an active partnership between law enforcement agencies and the community for purposes of realizing safer communities; jointly solving problems; promoting transparency and accountability; building sustainable confidence and mutual trust among actors; and, preventing crime and violence, and reduction of public fear. (See Annex A - Attached)

3.7 Anti-Poaching Measures

Wildlife crime has evolved over time and the situation is presenting increased challenges to wildlife conservation in the country. As is the general trend globally, the region and the country is witness to the emergence of new challenges in wildlife security. The rise in demand for wildlife products in the international market has led to a resurgence of elephant and rhino poaching and a shift in terms of poaching areas and modus operandi where snaring, poisoning of wildlife and poaching at night is rapidly taking over from the traditional use of firearms and poaching during the day in some areas that hitherto never experienced poaching.

Forms and Proportion of Threats to Wildlife

To enhance wildlife security, strengthen law enforcement and address wildlife crime, the Government through the Kenya Wildlife Service (KWS) has put in place specific security strategies to address the above challenges which continue to threaten the country's invaluable wildlife resource. These strategies include; identification, surveillance and profiling of trophy dealers; arresting and prosecuting offenders; security operations to hunt down poachers; establishment and strengthening of specialized security units which are deployed throughout the country; deployment of canine unit at Jomo Kenyatta and Moi International Airports; formation and deployment of Inter-Agency Elite Anti -Poaching Unit in poaching hotspots and reaching out to local communities to be partners in wildlife law enforcement and conservation.

On legislation, the government facilitated the enactment and implementation of the Wildlife Conservation and Management Act, 2013 with stiffer penalties and emphasis on enhanced use of technology at ports and airports to detect trafficking in wildlife trophies.

Under the Convention on International Trade on Endangered Species (CITES), the Government is collaborating with international stakeholders to stamp out the demand for poached trophies, and to agree on common standards for prohibiting the vice. (See Annex B - Attached)

3.8 Combating Cyber Crimes

Cyber-crime has become a major threat to National Security. Cyber-attacks are becoming more sophisticated and they have a significant impact on public and private sector operations worldwide. With major ICT advances, the Government of Kenya is operating in an evolving risk environment which presents substantial security challenges.

In efforts to combat the threat posed by cyber-crime, the Government has formulated a Cyber Security strategy and Master Plan which take a proactive approach to the country's security needs to support National priorities. The strategy offers a comprehensive framework for measuring, managing and nurturing a national security program. In addition, the CSMP also incorporates the core components of a comprehensive and integrated cyber security program, from vision to capability implementation.

To address the challenge of financial crimes perpetrated through ICT, the Government has operationalised the Proceeds of Crime and Anti-Money Laundering Act. This has resulted in the establishment of the Financial Reporting Centre, Financial Intelligence Unit and the Asset Recovery Agency. These institutions have gone a long way in tackling financial related crimes in the country.

Decisive measures have been taken to deal with crimes perpetrated through mobile phone technology. Major crimes have been resolved and foiled through the use of this technology, including rescue of kidnapped Kenyans. The Government has also enacted the Kenya Information and Communication Act, which has provided for the enforcement of SIM Card registration and stiffer against perpetrators of mobile phone crimes.

3.9 Implementation of the Rapid Results Initiative (RRI)

In response to the recent upsurge in crime, the Government launched the Rapid Results Initiative (RRI) in the security sector to maximize results from the existing human, financial and material resources to effectively and efficiently offer security services to Kenyans. The 100 days RRI will cover a broad area and has been divided into the ten (10) thematic areas, namely: Crime Reduction, enhancing accountability, streamlining issuance of National Identity Cards, suppressing cyber related crimes, promoting peaceful co-existence among communities, elimination of poaching, enlisting support of citizens in combating crime, road safety, elimination of drugs and substance abuse and disaster management and response. So far notable progress has been achieved since the inception of the programme in February 2014. (See Annex C - Attached)

3.10 Security Sector Reforms

To ensure sustainable security and embrace modern methods of guaranteeing public safety and security, the Government has introduced a wide range of reforms in the security sector. These include the training of officers, purchase of modern equipment, and boosted mobility of police offices through leasing of vehicles. The Government is also revamping the Marine Police Unit and the Police Airwing, is establishing the Forensic laboratory, a National Security Data Centre, introduced the Integrated Population Registration System (IPRS) and constructing additional correctional facilities as well as housing for the security sector.

The Government has re-affirmed its commitment to allocate more resources to the Kenya Defence Forces, National Intelligence Service and the National Police Service to enable them carry out their mandate more effectively. (See Annex D - Attached)

The government has also initiated reforms in border management by implementing a Multi-Agency Border command structure incorporating the Customs, and Immigration Departments. This envisages the One Stop Border Post concept and the use of Personnel Identification Security Comparison and Evaluation system (PISCES) that is poised to address the problem of international crime in the long run.

The Government continues to review relevant security related legislations aimed at harmonising the laws in order to address inherent weaknesses and enhance complementarity in the security sector. (See Annex E - Attached)

3.11 Food Security

Combination of factors has led to a reduction in food production, affordability and access. This contributes to unrest and inclination towards crime. For this reason, food insecurity remains a considerable concern. Therefore, the Government has been putting in place measures to boost food production, reduce post-harvest loss and improve storage facilities. Among these measures, the Government is implementing major irrigation projects such as the one million acre Galana-Kulalu project, has increased the level of the Strategic Grain Reserve (SGR) held by the National Cereals and Produce Board (NCPB), enhanced water harvesting as well as the provision of subsidized farm inputs to ensure food security.

3.12 Land

Historically, land ownership has been a flash point for insecurity. To address this challenge, the Government is fast tracking the issuance of title deeds to citizens, provide them with collateral to access credit and improve productivity. So far the Government has issued over 60,000 title deeds and plans to issue over 3 million in the next three years.

3.13 Road Safety

Road accidents continue to pose major challenges on our roads resulting in significant loss of life and increased medical costs as well as huge economic losses. The increase in road accidents is attributed mainly to recklessness, drunken driving, over speeding, un-roadworthy vehicles and failure to observe traffic rules. In order to curb the increasing road accidents, the Government has established the National Transport and Safety Authority (NTSA). The Government has introduced an array of measures to curb road accidents. These include the establishment of Mobile Traffic Courts to mete instant justice, the imposition of stiffer penalties for traffic offenses, introduction of Alco-blow to contain drunk driving, introduction of speed governors, regulation of night travel, and initiated review of regulations in the transport industry. These measures have led to notable progress in the reduction of the numbers of road accidents in the last one year as indicated in the following table.

Road Traffic Accidents Analysis 2012/2013

Category	2012		2013
	Accidents	Victims	Accidents	Victims
Fatal	2648	3141	2584	3191
Serious	3469	7434	2923	6299
Slight	800	5037	698	4834
Total	6917	15612	6205	14324

3.14 Disaster Preparedness

The capacity of the country to deal with disasters and emergencies has been found inadequate. Kenya is faced with a number of disasters and emergencies emanating from terror attacks, such as the Westgate attack in September 2013, major fires as that in JKIA in July 2013, and road accidents, among others. These disasters and crises cause loss of lives, destruction of properties, public anxiety, and sometimes socio-political instability. In addition, the country faces the challenges of population pressure, overgrazing, soil degradation and erosion, natural disasters, deforestation and bio-diversity threats, as well as air/water pollution, which undermine environmental security and resource base.

To mitigate the impact of disasters such as floods, droughts, famine and environmental degradation, which are a result of climate change, the Government put in place a number of measures. These include building of dykes and dams in flood-prone areas, sinking of boreholes and protection of water catchment areas. The Government has also spearheaded the formation of a multi-agency Disaster Response Unit (DRU).

The Government has beefed up security around all its strategic installations and embarked on continuous surveillance to pre-empt any plans that may target them.

4.0 CO-ORDINATION OF NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

Historically, the Provincial Administration has been pivotal in co-ordination of activities focused on peace building, harmonious existence in society and alternative methods of dispute resolutions. This role remains relevant for the achievement of sustainable peace and tranquillity. Under section 17 of the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution, the Government has been restructuring the Provincial Administration in accordance with the system of devolved government. Consequently, the Government has enacted the National Government Co-ordination Act, 2013 to revitalize the National Administration so as to play a pivotal role in peace building and conflict management in the Counties and further make it more efficient and responsive to the security needs of Kenyans. In this regard, the National Government Administrative Officers have continued to offer facilitative and coordinative support to the security agents in the country. The officers chair the various Security Committees at all administrative levels in the counties, in addition to coordinating service delivery at the Huduma Centres that have been established in the administrative centres.

To boost efficiency and service delivery the Government has provided the necessary support to the Administrative Officers to enable them coordinate implementation of the National Government service delivery in the Counties as required under Article 6 (3) of the Constitution.

5.0 CHALLENGES FACED IN ADDRESSING SECURITY THREATS

5.1 High Rate of Youth Unemployment

The current youth unemployment stands at 11.0 million. The trend of unemployment has worsened creating a pool that is targeted for recruitment for radicalisation, organised criminal gangs, and other vices, that impact negatively on national security such as cattle rustling, urban crime, terrorism and drug trafficking, prostitution, drug abuse, suicide, street families and abject poverty levels leading to informal settlements and slums in major cities and towns.

Some of the interventions undertaken to address youth unemployment challenges are; the development of the National Action Plan on Youth Employment; the National Youth Policy and enactment of the National Youth Council (NYC) Act 2009, to ensure that youth had a 30% representation in the public sector; establishment of the Uwezo Fund where youth access interest free credit facilities; Building sheds/stalls for youth, and pre-financing training; Creation of youth empowerment centres in all constituencies; and enhancement of the constituency education-bursary fund and tuition subsidy grants for youth polytechnics.

The Government is targeting a 10% GDP growth as a means to expand the economy and create employment opportunities, particularly for the youth.

5.2 Financial Limitations

Limited financial capability due to competing national priorities has made it challenging for the government to allocate adequate resources for the security sector which has been underfunded for the past 20 years. Recognising the central role of security as an enabler in national development, the Government is working with Parliament to facilitate adequate and timely budgetary allocation for this sector. This will enable the required modernisation.

5.3 Breakdown of the Social Fabric

A number of factors have led to a steady breakdown in the social fabric and values. This has accentuated family break-down, domestic violence, increase in the number of street families, crisis of identity, with the attendant negative repercussions, including a rise in social ills such as prostitution, drug abuse and commission of crimes against morality. The government is enhancing the capacity of the National Crime Research Centre to identify and deepen understanding on the emerging trends in crime, as a basis for developing effective strategies to counter this phenomenon. Further, the Government is partnering with faith and community based organisations to enhance civic virtues and positive values as well as to provide psychosocial support to victims and affected persons.

5.4 Weak Co-ordination

Addressing security challenges optimally has been hindered by lack of effective co-ordination within the criminal justice system, starting with law enforcement, prosecution, judiciary and correctional services. Consequently, there have been cases where crimes have not been properly processed – leaving suspects and culprits among communities. This has led to public frustration and anger, who in some cases take the law into their hands, sometimes manifesting in “mob justice.”

6.0 CONCLUSION

In the discharge of its constitutional mandate, the Government is committed to uphold the protection of people and property against internal and external threats, as well as the country's territorial integrity and sovereignty.

In this regard, the Government looks to the co-operation of parliament in the process of reviewing legislation to reinforce the fight against insecurity, by closing any existing gaps.

The Government is also committed to allocating adequate resources to the security agencies, to enable them to modernise and combat the current and emerging threats.

Finally, there is need for better synergy of all actors. In this regard, it is imperative that citizens adhere to the rule of law as they enjoy the progressive Bill of Rights, without compromising security. More specifically, there is need for seamless co-operation within the criminal justice system to guarantee peace and security in the nation.

FACTORS CONTRIBUTING TO INSECURITY

Among the factors contributing to high levels of insecurity are:

- The legislative framework allows for bailing out of court of hard core criminals who re-enter the community and comfortably carry on with their criminal deeds.
- Porous borders which lead to infiltration of suspected terrorists.
- Proliferation of small arms and light weapons.
- Territorial disputes.
- Negative Cultural Practices i.e. Cattle rustling.
- Unpredictable weather patterns e.g. droughts leading to Cattle rustling, Land/Intertribal conflicts as warring communities fight for grazing land.
- High unemployment and poverty levels. This makes the youth to be vulnerable to recruitment into terrorist groups as they have lucrative offers.
- Drug and substance abuse.
- Technology advancement.
- Politics driven by ethnic rivalry.

POLICE ACTION

- Major security operations in affected areas to curb criminal and other heinous acts.
- Increase in motor vehicles to improve police mobility in responding to criminal incidents.
- Number of Police Vehicles has been increased.

- Apprehension of traffic offenders and subsequent prosecution through instant mobile courts.
- Security in major vital installations and government buildings has been beefed up.
- Police officers manning all entry points in collaboration with other Kenyan security officials have been put on high alert to prevent any entry and exit of criminals to the country.
- Police hotline numbers plus senior officers mobile numbers have been given to the public to facilitate communication and prompt response to curb crimes.
- Visibility of police officers has been enhanced with a view to deterring criminals from engaging in criminal acts through increased patrols and beats.
- Suspects arrested have been arraigned before court connected to various offences.
- Peaceful meetings of Barazas to sensitize the community on co-existence have been put in place in warring communities experiencing cattle rustling and Inter ethnic/clan clashes.
- Emphasis has been on Community Policing which goes beyond the normal policing and can be a major boost to security if well embraced.

RECOVERY OF FIREARMS AND AMMUNITION/EXPLOSIVES

During the period under review police recovered several firearms and ammunition within the country while others were surrendered by members of public. The porous borders in the expansive North Eastern, Upper Eastern and Upper Rift regions led to the proliferation of small arms and light weapons. Through Police operations various suspects of robberies, poaching, murders, etc were arrested and arraigned in court. It is of importance that disarmament exercise be conducted in the affected areas.

The information is summarized in the Table below;

WAY FORWARD/RECOMMENDATIONS

- Equipping police officers with relevant and modern equipment to enable them deal with security emergencies effectively.
- Continuous joint surveillance by all relevant Government departments to monitor passengers and cargo at points of entry/exit to deter and arrest criminals, smugglers and influx of dangerous weapons.
- Application of modern crime investigation techniques e.g. forensic investigation and use of ICT needs to be promoted.
- Public service vehicles should intensify screening of passengers before boarding their vehicles especially at night.
- Use of mobile tracking devices to locate criminals involved in Terrorism, Kidnappings, Robberies, etc.
- Early intervention, crime prevention, a greater utilization of intelligence in policing.
- Increased Police visibility through the construction of additional Police facilities (35 Police Stations were constructed in Rift Valley alone).

C. SUMMARY OF SERIOUS CRIMES

1. Organized Crimes

(a) Terrorist Activities

Al-shabaab militia group posed enormous security threats after they staged multiple attacks targeting places of Christian worship, Police Officers on duty, recreational areas, shopping malls, busy streets and Government buildings/vehicles. In most cases these attacks were of cowardly acts of shooting incidents, grenade, Land mine and IED attacks especially in Nairobi, Mandera, Garissa, Wajir and Mombasa. A total of 126 deaths and 342 injuries were reported in the country. The major incident was staged in the Country's capital city, at West Gate Mall in Nairobi where a total of 71 lives were lost. Several suspects in connection with these acts have been arrested by the Police and arraigned in court.

(b) Mombasa Republican Council (MRC) Activities

The MRC menace increasingly generated heat within the Coastal Region. The group, which was proscribed together with others by the government as illegal continued engaging in activities subversive to the state. In order to gain legitimacy, the group held rallies, meetings and barazas to propagate its ideologies and rally public support. During the electioneering period, the MRC dissuaded locals from voting. The group staged attacks which mainly targeted Police officers and Election Officials. Nineteen (19) people were killed during the incidents, among the Eleven (11) Police officers. However, Security agencies' swift response saved the day as they managed to contain the situation paving way to a peaceful election. A total of 118 suspects were arrested and arraigned in court.

(c) Bungoma/Busia

Series of attacks were carried out in various parts of Western region primarily in Bungoma, Busia and Teso Divisions by groups of criminal gangs whose motive has hitherto remained unknown since late April 2013. They killed 2 people and injured 140 in the wake of that crime as highlighted below.

Date	County	Area	No Injured	No Killed	Arrested

TOTAL			140	2	232

Police action:

- The IG and his Deputies visited the scene and assured the public of peace and mobilized resources to address the issues.
- The communities in the affected areas were advised by Police with the help of the area political leaders to report and reveal identity of suspicious characters.
- Police managed to arrest 232 suspects believed to have been involved in the attacks and were arraigned in court.
- The Provincial Administration held public Barazas to sensitize the community to volunteer with information.
- Vehicles were deployed in the affected areas to ease operations
- Mobile numbers were given to the public to facilitate communication and response.
- Community policing committees has been enhanced in the stations.

Challenges

- The roads in most areas are impassable due to heavy rain and poor infrastructure.
- The public have general laxity of providing information on criminal activities.

(d) Drug Trafficking

Various types of drugs have been trafficked in the country as follows;

i) Cannabis

It grows wildly in many parts of the country and our neighbouring countries i.e. Uganda and Tanzania. Here in Kenya it's grown in Mt. Kenya, Gwasi Hills, Aberdares and Kyulu Hills. Large quantities originate from Uganda and Tanzania.

In the year under review a total of 17,080.5 kg of cannabis were seized, 40 plants uprooted 725 suspects were arrested whereby 718 were Kenyan Nationals while 7 were non-nationals.

ii) Heroin

Heroin finds its way into the country mainly through Jomo Kenyatta International Airport from India, Pakistan and Afghanistan. Intelligence and seizure statistics indicate that nationals of West Africa, Asia and East Africa are the major traffickers in the country. Locally, the drug is mainly abused in Nairobi, Mombasa and Malindi towns.

The total seizure in the whole country was 74.310 kg and 1249 Sachets. 162 suspects were arrested whereby 146 were Kenyan Nationals while 16 were non-Nationals.

iii) Cocaine

This drug is sourced from South American countries of Brazil, Columbia, Chile, Bolivia and Peru. A total of 18.534 kg were seized and 21 suspects arrested (Kenyans 10 and 11 non-Nationals).

iv) Methamphetamine

It's a synthetic drug produced in clandestine laboratories by use of precursor chemicals. During the year under review, one clandestine laboratory was netted on August 2013 within the outskirts of Nairobi town in Ruiru, where 3.332 grams of partly prepared powder of methamphetamine was seized and seven suspects arrested and charged. A total of 9.762 kilograms methamphetamine was seized in the country.

v) Valiums/Diazepam (Psychotropic Substances)

These are synthetic drugs which are simply bought over the counter (O.T.C.) in Chemists or Drug shops or stolen from Health centres and Hospitals. They are high pain killers causing drowsiness. They may be legally bought on prescription by a doctor. In the 2013 a total of 110 tablets, Diazepam 29, Roche 16, Mandrax 75 were seized and a total of 15 suspects arrested.

- Sustainable investigation on all incidences of drug trafficking has also been improved
- Sharing of information and criminal intelligence with other government agencies, partners and neighboring countries.

As a result of the measures put in place, several suspects have been arrested and arraigned in court.

(e) Poaching

Poaching remains one of the major threats targeting elephants and rhino tusks in the main national parks. During the period under evaluation, Nairobi recorded the highest number of cases recording 9 cases, Coast recorded 6 cases, Rift valley 4 cases, Central region recorded 3 cases and Nyanza 1 case. Security agents led by the Kenya Wildlife Service have been put in place to curb against the crime.

Police arrested 31 suspects and 577 recoveries made of various ivory and rhinoceros horns. Eleven (11) poachers were also killed during the same period.

Challenges in dealing with Poaching

- Presence of rogue businessmen who have taken control of the country and are luring poachers with good money for ivory hence a rise in poaching i.e. black markets.
- Availability of illegal firearms among communities around conservation areas noting the illegal firearms are used to perpetrate the menace.
- Herding of animals have created conducive environment for poachers to impersonate hence killing endangered species

(f) Kidnapping

The main actors in kidnapping include armed robbers and couples who have separated or divorced. In separate incidences, family maids were noted to have escaped with young children who they are charged to take care of and thereby later demanding ransom from the parents.

The targeted groups are the wealthy, elderly and young children who in most cases are vulnerable because of the inability to defend themselves.

In Nairobi the several kidnappings occurred in Kasarani, Kayole, Gigiri, Ongata Rongai, Kahawa West along Thika super highway while in Central region Kerugoya, Sagana, Makuyu, Kiambu towns were in the spotlight.

Reported cases were as follows:

S/No	Region	No. of Incidents
1	Nairobi	24
2	Central	13
3	Eastern	3
4	Rift Valley	2
5	Western	2

Police officers launched investigations and 23 suspects were arrested, while 15 victims were rescued. Some cases are pending under investigations while others are before court.

Way forward:

- Dismantling organised criminal gangs with the sole aim of eliminating their existence by giving information to the police.
- The society to impress community policing.
- Creation of jobs among the youths.
- Reporting any suspicious character especially in a parking zone.
- Proper supervision of children by their parents or guardians.
- Awareness to possible targets to avoid arriving home late.
- Providing guidance and counselling to married couples to end domestic violence.

2. LAND/INTER-TRIBAL/CLAN CONFLICTS

Inter tribal/clan a conflict was experienced in Mandera, Moyale, Trans Mara, Gabra/Borana, Garreh/Degodia and Maasai/Kisii/Kipsigis communities. This resulted in death/injuries, destruction of property and displacement of population. Most conflicts revolved around scarce resources and political interference with the advent of devolution.

In Mandera and Wajir Counties sporadic inter-communal clashes between the Garreh and Degodia communities continued to cause more injuries, loss of lives and livelihoods, and population displacements. During the 4th March 2013 general elections, the Garreh won all the seats within the county including county representatives. It is believed Degodia's are bitter about that and they vowed to make the county ungovernable for the five years. While the Garreh's after securing almost all seats boasts that they are the government and they must make sure that they evict the Degodia's from Rhamu.

In Moyale County inter-clan clashes mainly occurred between the Gabra, Burji and Borana communities. The Gabra community settled in Bori area at a place called Bosnia which the Borana community considers their grazing field. The last general elections held on March 4 left the communities more divided because one community lost in all county seats. This situation has generated into mistrust and hatred among the members of the communities leading to conflicts which have resulted into displacement of persons from their homes, setting houses on fire and closure of schools. Sixteen (16) people have so far been killed, twenty Six (26) injured (23 civilians and 3 police officers), houses were set ablaze and shops were looted. Response teams led by the Kenya Red Cross were set up at all hospitals in Moyale to help with patient care and first aid.

Challenges

- Porous Kenya–Ethiopia border has led to proliferation of small arms and light weapons.
- Inadequate personnel to cover the extensive region.
- Lack of sophisticated weaponry equipment and ammo plus vehicles for added mobility.
- Mandera County borders Ethiopia, where the Militias operate from.

3. BORDER SECURITY

Incidences of border incursions and attacks have been experienced mainly in two regions in the country i.e. North Rift and North Eastern regions. Most conflicts revolved around; Cattle rustling culture among pastoralists communities living along the border, Inter-clan clashes where same clan members living in neighboring communities reinforce their counterparts living within Kenyan borders, Scarcity of natural resources like water and pastures where Nomadic pastoralists graze their stock across porous borders, influx of refugees and increased armed conflicts and armed violence. The commonly affected areas are Todonyang, Mandera, Kibish, Lokichogio and Liboi areas where the main actors are Merille and Nyangatom from Ethiopia, Al- Shabaab from Somalia and Toposa from Southern Sudan.

4. POLICE OFFICERS KILLED ON DUTY

Violent attacks on Police Officers were on the increase during the period under review. Organized criminal gangs including Al- Shabaab and MRC militia staged these heinous acts targeting Police Stations, Posts and Police Officers. Traffic officers were also assaulted by traffic offenders as they conducted their day to day duties of overseeing free flow of traffic. This acts led to the death of 64 Police Officers and approximately 150 were injured, as illustrated by the table below:

Region	Killed	Injured

5. CATTLE RUSTLING

Incidents of cattle rustling between various communities were witnessed across the country as the warring communities scrambled for scarce resources i.e. Livestock grazing field, water and land. Other contributing factors include boundary disputes, political interference and struggle for supremacy. During the period under review, 74 cases of cattle rustling and stock theft were reported. A total of 4570 heads of cattle, 17,225 flocks of goats, 215 flocks of sheep, 339 camels and 7 donkeys were stolen. 50 people were killed while 26 others were injured.

During the period under review, Mob injustice cases recorded an increase in several areas across the country. This is largely due public perception that suspects are normally arrested and in few days time they are back to the community and thus there is need to give them instant “justice.” However, when suspects are arraigned in court by the police, courts grant them cash bail/bond as they wait for their cases to be heard. This is misinterpreted by the public to mean that the suspects have been released even after committing crime.

During the period under review, a total of 561 cases were reported. Nairobi region recorded the highest number of cases detected totaling to 123 cases and North Eastern Region with the least 1 case as illustrated in the table below:

7. DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

In regional statistics Rift Valley Region emerged the first one in domestic violence cases recording 5214 cases, followed by Eastern Region 4627 cases, Nyanza Region 4504 cases, Nairobi City Region 3505 cases, Coast Region 2871 cases, Central Region 2565 cases, Western Region 1387 cases and finally North Eastern Region with 639 cases. 8. TRAFFIC ROAD ACCIDENTS

The recent upsurge of fatal traffic road accidents on our roads is a matter of great concern not only to the security officers but to the entire Kenyan public who are worried about their safety on the roads. There are several causes of traffic road accidents but the major cause is human error. This factor is largely contributed by lack of due care and observation of Traffic rules by the drivers and passengers.

However traffic accidents decreased by 10% or 712 cases with a total of 6,205 accidents having been recorded as compared to 6,917 accidents recorded in 2012. 14,324 victims were involved in Traffic accidents compared to 2012 which had 15,612 victims. Police officers conducted operations to arrest reckless drivers and unroadworthy motor vehicles. The suspects were arraigned in court and charged accordingly. Heavy fines were imposed which led to a total of Ksh. 1,106,676,651/= (1.1 Billion).

WILDLIFE SECURITY SITUATION IN KENYA

1.0 Introduction

Wildlife crime has evolved over time and the situation is presenting increased challenges to wildlife conservation in the country. As is the general trend globally, the region and the country is witnessing emergence of new challenges in wildlife security. The rise in demand for wildlife products in the international market has led to a resurgence of elephant and rhino poaching and a shift in terms of poaching areas and modus operandi where snaring, poisoning of wildlife and poaching at night is rapidly taking over from the traditional use of firearms and poaching during the day in some areas that hitherto never experienced poaching.

In the recent past wildlife crime has been exacerbated by climate change, human population pressure and dynamics in the global economic and political order. Growing affluence and economic growth in East and South-East Asia contributed immensely to increased demand for rhino and ivory. The rising demand and price of ivory and rhino horn in the illicit market continues to drive poaching. This situation was further complicated by the approval by CITES of the one-off sale of elephant ivory by Southern African countries in 2007 and the sale of ivory stockpiles which continues to haunt wildlife security in Kenya.

Emerging Challenges in Wildlife Security

Some of the factors contributing to increased poaching in Kenya include:-

- Rising demand and prices for wildlife trophies in the illicit markets
- Proliferation of small arms and light weapons in the country, which are now used in wildlife poaching.
- Well organized and highly skilled poaching gangs (including the involvement of ex- Service men)
- Involvement of local and international well-to-do cartels in illicit trophy deals.

- Inadequate man power (rangers), skills, equipment and transport
- Human settlements around key Rhino sanctuaries (Nakuru, Nairobi, Solio, Ruma, Ol Pejeta, Ol Jogi and Meru)
- The existing rhino and elephant fences cannot deter human intrusion
- The illegal trophy dealers are taking advantage of Kenya's efficient communication system (air, seaport, road and electronic money transfer)
- Changing lifestyles (nearly all communities are involved in poaching due to high economic returns)
- Vastness of the area of coverage against the available strength (for example in Tsavo one ranger covers an average of 187 Km²).

3.0 Actions taken to Prevent and Combat Wildlife Crime

To enhance wildlife security, strengthen law enforcement and address wildlife crime, Kenya Wildlife Service (KWS) has put in place specific security strategies to address the above challenges which continue to threaten the country's invaluable wildlife resource. These strategies includes:

- Identification, surveillance and profiling of trophy dealers
- Arresting and prosecuting offenders
- Security operations to hunt down poachers
- Establishment and strengthening of specialized security units which are deployed throughout the country
- Deployment of canine unit at Jomo Kenyatta and Moi International Airports
- Training and building the capacity of law enforcement personnel
- Formation and deployment of Inter-Agency Elite Anti -Poaching Unit in poaching hotspots
- Collaboration with other agencies such as NIS, Police, Lusaka Agreement Task Force (a regional inter-governmental organization mandated to fight illicit trade in fauna and flora), Cross border collaboration with Tanzania on wildlife security.
- Reaching out to local communities to be partners in wildlife law enforcement

Despite all these efforts the country continues to experience an escalation of poaching especially of the rhinos.

4.0 Support Required

As KWS continues with the fight against poaching and other wildlife crime, greater collaborative support and assistance is urgently needed as follows:-

(i) Short and Medium Term Requirements

- b) Recruit additional rangers and achieve optimal ranger force.
- c) Provide aircraft and aerial surveillance equipment.

5.0 Conclusion

Kenya's wildlife is increasingly under pressure due to the increased threats to elephants, rhinos and other species. These crimes pose a great threat to national security and conservation efforts in addition to threatening the realisation of Vision 2030. On our part, KWS is committed to combating wildlife crime and guaranteeing security of wildlife in the country. However, winning this battle calls for concerted efforts by all. More importantly, enhanced Government support to wildlife protection, conservation and Management will contribute to the enhancement of the country's economy and support to tourism, education, agriculture, security and energy sectors leading to realization of Vision 2030.

1.4 NATIONAL TASK FORCE ON POLICE REFORMS OF 2009

The National Task Force on Police Reforms conducted country wide public consultations and visited Sweden, Botswana, UK and Northern Island to benchmark against best practice in policing. The Task Force prepared and submitted a comprehensive report to the cabinet. The report summarised reforms in four strategic areas namely:-

1. Legislative, Policy and Institutional Reforms

Reforms under this Pillar seek to provide a policy and legislative framework that gives effect to the constitution provisions of the National Police Service and restructures the National Police Service to entrench the current reforms.

2. Reforms on Police Accountability

The Objective of reforms under this Pillar is to create a mechanism to hold Police accountable to the public and the parliament for their actions while discharging their policing duties and for the promotion of fundamental rights and freedoms of citizens contemplated in the Constitution of Kenya in respect of policing.

3. Reforms on Police Professionalism

The objective is to build high professional standards and training that will enable the police to meet standards that embrace best practices in modern policing.

4. Administrative and Operational reforms.

The objective of reform under this pillar is to improve operational capacity of the police and address the challenges of housing, modernizing communication infrastructure and providing adequate vehicles, plant and equipments that are critical to the provision of policing services to the public. The pillar also deals with the tooling and kitting issues of the police

1.5 STATUS

1. Legislative Policy and Institutional Reforms

Under this Pillar the following has been achieved:-

i) Development of 3 laws namely

- The National Police Service Act, 2011

This is the main Police Act. The Act seeks to give effect to Article 243 of the constitution and provides for the administration of the National police service under the command and control of Inspector-General and two deputies. The Act provides for distinct roles and functions of the Kenya Police service and the Administration Police service, and elevates the CID into a semi autonomous Directorate of Criminal Investigations (DCI). It entrenches professionalism, police accountability and oversight institutions in policing. The Act repeals Cap 84 and 85 which established the Kenya Police and Administration Police Force.

- The National Police Service Commission Act, 2011

The object of the National Police Service Commission Act, 2011 is to give effect to Article 246 of the Constitution and to operationalize the commission by providing additional powers and functions. The Commission is mandated to deal with human resource management issues such as recruitment, training, deployment, transfers, promotions and disciplinary control of members of the service. The Commission is expected to carry out vetting of the serving police officers.

- The Independent Policing Oversight Authority Act, 2011

The Independent Policing Oversight Authority provides for civilian oversight over the work of the police and is mandated to hold Police accountable to the public. The Act gives effect to the provisions of Article 244 of the Constitution that provides for the police to strive for professionalism and discipline and demands them to promote and practice transparency and accountability. Further, the Act is expected to promote fundamental rights and freedoms contemplated in the Constitution of Kenya in respect of policing.

ii) Two bills are pending review by CIC before they are submitted to Parliament for debate and enactment into Law. These are:

- Private Security Industry Regulation draft Bill 2010
- The National Coroners Service draft Bill 2010

iii) The aforementioned legislations have established the following new policing institutions

- Independent Policing Oversight Authority (IPOA) – Fully operationalised
- National Police Service Commission (NPSC) – Fully operationalised
- County Policing Authorities,
- County Policing Forums,
- Community Policing Committees
- Police Service Associations
- Internal Affairs Unit

2. Reforms in Police Accountability

The following has been achieved:-

i) Internal police accountability units

A framework for establishment of a new internal accountability unit for both police service has been developed and the roll out is underway. The unit will be based outside the mainstream police facilities for ease of access by members of the public. The unit will be directly under the Inspector General and will be dealing with internal police complaints.

The Administration Police Service has established a complaints Directorate while the Kenya Police Service has strengthened their complaints Directorate.

The two services are in the process devolving and strengthening their internal affairs units in the counties

ii) External accountability

IPOA is responsible for external accountability of the Police. The authority will be responsible for investigation and recommendation for prosecution on all cases relating to complaints by members of the public against police misconduct.

3. Police Professionalism Reforms

The following reforms have been undertaken under this pillar of reforms.

i) Police Training Curriculum

A new police training curriculum has been developed with a paradigm shift that focuses on ensuring the police are equipped to improve service delivery to the public through adequate training on issues of human rights, gender, public relations and communications, community policing and partnerships.

The curriculum has introduced professional examination and certification and recommended the establishment of management boards to professionalize the management of police training colleges and examination board for assessment evaluation and certification of examinations offered by the police colleges. The curriculum extends the training period from 9 months to 15 months for basic recruit course and 21 months for cadet recruit program.

ii) New recruitment system

A new recruitment system was developed and implemented during the May 2011 and Nov 2012 police recruitment exercise. The new system establishes districts recruitment committees whose membership is drawn from the DSIC, DEO and MOH with civilian oversight from representative of the local community to enhance transparency and accountability. The National Police Service Commission, to which this recruitment mandate has been vested, is expected to continue improvement in this area.

iii) Police Training

Several training programmes have been undertaken with aim of re orienting the police to the ongoing police reforms and to impart serving police officers with skills and competencies in community policing, command and leadership, strategic and change management. The police have initiated partnership programmes with Public Universities to upgrade their skills and competencies in policing.

iv) Code of conduct

A police code of conduct has been developed and is being implemented by the Police with an aim of guiding the police officers on expected behaviour and decorum in the course of discharging their policing duties.

v) Removal of Police officers from prosecutorial duties

This was a recommendation of the Task Force whose objectives was to professionalize prosecution removing police from prosecution services. A total of 302 police prosecutors were identified. A 3 year professionalization programme was initiated during which those who are willing to transfer their services to DPP were to do so. The officers have since been gazetted individually by the Hon Attorney General Vide Legal Notice No. 172 of 2010 to give them mandate under the Constitution.

4. Administrative, Logistical and Operational Reforms

i) Police salaries increment

The Government is implementing a 3 phase pay and benefits programme whose objectives is to improve the remunerations of the police officers. The first phase was implemented in the Financial year 2010/11 and 50 percent of the second phase was implemented in July 2011. The final phase was expected during the 2011/12 financial year.

ii) Police vehicles

The performance of the Police has been greatly affected by the shortage of vehicles and equipments that are necessary for effective operations. It was observed that as at October 2009, the Kenya Police and Administration Police had a vehicle deficit of 4,000. It was therefore recommended that sufficient and appropriate vehicles be provided to the Police Services for effective operations. During the reform period, the government has continued to allocate increased resources towards the procurement of vehicles. The last two financial years 2011/12/13 the Government has allocated over 2.8 Billion for these purposes.

iii) Maritime Police equipment –

Kenya Police Maritime Unit has acquired 5 speed boats while the Administration Police Seaport Operation Unit has acquired 2 speed boats. Acquisition of ship surveillance radar by the Kenya Police is in progress.

iv) Police Air wing

A Committee of Experts was appointed in August, 2010 and mandated to assess the viability and performance of the air wing and make recommendations for improvement to enable the air wing to effectively serve the National Police Service. Among the key recommendations of the Committee were: -

- The Kenya Police Service to immediately seek KCAA certification.
- Immediate Insurance of police air crafts
- Development of a separate career and remuneration structure for police pilots and engineers.

The report is pending implementation.

vi) ICT equipment and infrastructure

Pursuant to the recommendation that the police embrace ICT as a strategy to fight crime, an ICT Technical Committee was appointed to develop a strategy for the roll out of ICT infrastructure for the National Police Service. The Committee has not completed its report owing to facilitation challenges.

vii) Community Policing

Community policing has been identified as most effective strategy in the fight against crime. It is a policing strategy for promoting partnership, trust and confidence, participation and creating good working relationship between the Police and the public in the fight against crime.

The following activities have been achieved:

- Started a capacity building and in service retraining programme for police officers in advanced courses in Community Policing in partnership with the Institute of Police Education, Lineaeus University of Sweden. Under this programme 42 officers have been trained and 10 Police officers have participated in benchmarking visits to Sweden.
