Unfortunately, Sir, unlike my hon. friend, the Member for Butere, I do not have ready answers for some of these very cross-grained questions. However, I would like to say this. It is a fact that this money already has been borrowed, and an agreement has been signed. I think the interest that Members would have for discussing it now must be only two points: (1) that we have had a general complaint in the past—the Minister for Finance will agree with me—where Members have complained, and even the people they represent do complain at times, there is an unfair distribution of services throughout the country. I think it is in the interest of Members, and this House generally, that when such a large sum of money is borrowed from overseas, then the Minister should be able to say that this loan—whose payment is going to be borne by the whole population of this country, all the tax-payers—will be distributed equitably throughout the whole nation. I do not say, for instance, that the Minister should form some magic and establish a cattle project in Lake Victoria, in the lake, but I am saying that the Minister, when he comes to answer to this proposal, should tell the nation that he has had his advisers and his technicians in and they have all had the courage to distribute the development in every area of the nation. In other words, it is no good saying, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that because of certain factors only two or three areas have been selected as experimental areas, or as the most suitable for the next two or three years. It is a question, really, of making quite sure that any money we borrow from outside, is well distributed throughout the whole country so that the tax-payers, when they come to repay this money, will have had the benefit from it.

(2) I would also like to say here that I am not quite so sure that there has been enough study done before the borrowing was carried out. This is following my first point. Sometimes we do borrow money just because somebody is ready to lend the money, without having done enough background study to find out what we are going to do with this money. It is all very well to have livestock development projects as some theoretical development projects in mind, without having studied thoroughly as to what area of the country should be considered for the first project. Sometimes we do borrow this money and then after we have had the money, then we sit down—sometimes even our cronies—and say, “Well, now that we have this money, what would you, Member for Kisumu Rural, like us to do in your area?” This is the kind of thing we do not want; we want this to be done properly and in advance.

The Minister for Finance has tried to do his best, particularly in the past one year but whenever we want to borrow this kind of money we should not borrow this money just because there is someone ready to lend it; we should borrow money because we ourselves have had the time to sit down and discuss with our own internal experts and find out what we want to do with the money. We do not want to borrow just because somebody is interested in lending us money.

It seems to me this is a rather straightforward proposal, Sir, in the form of a question and I am sure my hon. friend, the Minister for Finance will answer adequately. I would like him to be very specific, and especially if he has not thought of covering as many areas as possible with this kind of development, then he should rethink so that we can have this, what we have been preaching about: equitable distribution.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to support.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Deputy Speaker, thank you very much for giving me this opportunity to say just a few words on this Motion. I do not want to repeat what the other speakers have said and I am advising the hon. Member that in future, such things could be solved through a question. I think we should also make an amendment of some kind to the Act which prompted this Motion so that when such papers are laid on the Table, to avoid long debate on this kind of thing, details required by the loan could be included on the paper. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say a few words on what my friends, the hon. Assistant Minister for Tourism and the hon. Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs, have said on loans.

It is true that because of our currency law, there is a lot of money in the country that cannot go out. It is also true that if this money was borrowed by Government it could carry short period— It could only be borrowed on some particular kind of project that would realize profits immediately for payments. However, the type of project that this loan was requested for, the Swedish International Development Authority, and this loan from the World Bank Government, is the type of development that needs long period and you cannot possibly realize this project by borrowing money locally which will require about ten years in repayment and the interest is high. This is because it is a type of loan that is going to be given to wananchi or wenye inchi—

An hon. Member: Wenye inchi is the right word.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Yes, wenye inchi is the word—in commerce we talk about wenye inchi and not wananchi—so that they would have a long time to repay the loan. This is because developing ranches is not a very easy thing. It does not bring up profits quickly. The hon. Member himself indicated to us that this loan had to be repaid by the year 2018. That is a long period and no local bank here would agree that Government borrows money from it and then pay it within that long period at an interest of 2 per cent. That is why on some projects, Government feels it is necessary to go and borrow money from outside where the interest—what we call, “some easy money”—could be obtained which could help our people to develop.

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry]

We agree there is money in the country which could be utilized, and it is being utilized by those who can have short-term period loans. I would like to inform the hon. Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs that countries like America which are lending us money, also live on debts. It was only recently when Britain ran into difficulty with their currency and they had to borrow a large amount of money. Therefore, it is not right to say that Kenya is the only country that is borrowing money; even these giants borrow money for their own development. The type of journeys they make to the moon which do not bring any profits, are made with "easy money" loans, borrowed from other countries and institutions, so that they can make the fantastic expenditure they put on the flights to the moon.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I just wanted to inform the hon. Members that our own resources could do on some particular or some kind of projects, but others, it would not be possible to have the finances we have here to service. So the reason why Government has this particular one is because of the little interest it carries and because of the long period we are given in repayment so that we can develop the livestock industry in this country. As Members say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is only right, as the Motion states, they are these marginal areas where this money is going to be spent. I am surprised that the hon. Member, the former Assistant Minister for Finance, who is now the Assistant Minister for Housing and who was in the Ministry of Economic Planning and Development, failed to detect that most of this money is in his own province; where the livestock routes are going to be established, water points for watering animal routes are to be established, all these are detailed as it has been said in the yellow book, Development Estimates for Year 1970/71, book.

With these remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg also, to support this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for giving me this opportunity to speak, and I think to correct the impression that some Members have that these sums were not correctly tabled in this House. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, first of all, I would like to suggest that the Mover of the Motion and all those Members who have spoken out of ignorance, should check in the yellow book on the items of: D1, D3, J2, J9 and K5, these in fact, would show the extent to which we use or we have voted these funds for the current year. These items will be repeated every year for the next five years during the duration of the loan.

Nevertheless, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I welcome the opportunity to give more details concerning this very important loan which affect our livestock areas which, perhaps, could have not been given, if the hon. Member had just put up a question. The loan is divided into four parts. The first part, (a) being that of the range development and which will be about $3.78 million or £1.3 million which will consists of long-term and short-term loans by the Agricultural Finance Corporation to four groups of ranching areas: that is commercial ranches, individual company and group ranches, in range areas to include the following areas for those of you who are interested: Kajiado, Taita, Taveta, Kwale, Kilifi, Machakos, Laikipia, Nakuru, Nyandarua and Nyeri District, for the hon. Member from Nyeri.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want at this point to challenge the hon. Ayah in what he said about our having to go into loan agreements without prior consideration of studies. I would like to assure this House that a loan by the World Bank or any reputable financial institution like the Swedish International Development Authority takes a very long time indeed before it is actually tabled in this House. In fact, this particular loan took more than two years to negotiate. Therefore, it is not just a question of cooking up figures and tabling them in the National Assembly. These are combinations or details of long, long negotiations including visits, both in Kenya and all the areas to be affected by the particular loan and also visits to negotiate with these financial institutions. Therefore, to suggest that there could have been a possibility of arriving at a loan agreement or signing a loan agreement without the preparatory work, this I can only suggest would be a misunderstanding of the issues concerned.

The intention in the ranch development section of the loan would be to support 20 group ranches, 10 companies, 10 individuals ranches, 20 commercial ranches spread in these regional areas which I have just read. Unfortunately, what we have found is that we cannot really use these categories other than the form of guidance. This is because when you come for example, the group ranches; the taking up of the farms is not as fast as we would have originally liked because people seem to prefer the development of individual ranches as opposed to group ranches. There are, of course, other problems connected with the adjudication of land in areas like Kajiado, and I am most grateful, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the hon. Members of those areas have been very, very helpful.

Now, part (b) of the loan, Deputy Speaker, concerns the Livestock Marketing Division, which [The Assistant Minister for Agriculture] will amount to $1,080,000 or just nearly £360,000, which will be the credit to be utilized by the Livestock Marketing Division, in my Ministry, for the development of our facilities for livestock movement and marketing, in the North-Eastern Province of Kenya, where hon. Khalif comes from, also in Kajiado and Narok Districts; I think you will agree there is merit in restricting the utilization of those funds, in those areas, which will be the main sources of livestock.

I think, hon. Khalif, you have no excuse for having not noted this, because it is perhaps, one of the largest injections of development capital, for which no repayments will be required in your own area. That is: ranch development, stock routes, stock holding grounds and water development areas and I think you are having a very good chunk of these funds, which will be more than welcome, I am sure.

Part (c) of the loan, Mr. Deputy Speaker, concerns the range water survey and development. This amount to $800,000, which will be used for the survey and development of water facilities, again in North-Eastern and other ranch development areas covered in part (a), that is Kajiado, Kilifi at the Coast, Nyeri and Nyandarua areas. A scheme provided by the United States Agency for International Development — The United States Agency for International Development have carried out a survey already in the North-Eastern areas, covering Mogadishu Grazing Block, and the Government is negotiating with donors for the implementation of this project already.

An hon. Member: Mogadishu is in Somalia!

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Yes— Well, it is really on the border.

Part (d), Mr. Deputy Speaker, covers auxiliary technical services which will be connected with the development and expansion of the Range Management Division in my own Ministry, and also the supporting Veterinary Services, that will be required to develop the project.

There is also something like $720,000 of the funds, which are at present not allocated, purposely because we think that we should have a sum of reserve money like this, to play about with, in terms of those four sections; which may require more money, and perhaps will come out as we expend the loan.

I would also like to say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we will require a lot of support from the hon. Members who come from these areas, to ask the farmers and the ranchers in these areas, to co-operate with Government, in particular the setting up of stock holding grounds and the fencing of these stock holding grounds; the administration of them and also the designing and the development of the stock routes in all the areas. So far, I think we are assured of that assistance, and I am sure that it will continue to be forthcoming.

I therefore, would like to say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we consider that this Motion really is a question of you asking for more information, which we have no cause to hide, and in addition to tabling the Development Estimates which were done, the others are explanatory notes, which are available for anybody who wants to consult them.

Thank you.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would also like to criticize the Ministry in charge or the Ministry concerned, because, Sir, loans like imports into this country are of our greatest concern, in that we are trying to get money from outside this country; we are also trying to get goods from these countries, which we are producing; we are trying to get loans which we can raise locally, and this is a very unfair state of affairs. It is only fair that with effect from today onwards, the Government should adjust its own policy, on loans that it is badly in need of. It is meaningless if, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we can get some money locally here and then our Government continues to go out and mortgage our country for a mere nothing. Why can Government not lower the rate of interest because we have two advantages in this particular kind of raising money locally. First, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we can utilize our resources internally, and secondly, we can reinvest the interest which the other countries outside Kenya are expecting from our country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are failing hopelessly, to understand the policy of our Government in that, Sir, it appears as though they do not understand the language of Kenyans. They seem to be more conversant in the international language of monetary systems. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if they are not aware of the implications created by economic structure, they should ask or seek advice from us, who are capable, to tell them what is going on.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, just look at the so-called economists, who cannot even think that our country, and it is— Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is completely paradoxical for a government to say that the country is developing; the economy is booming, and so on and so forth, and yet, Sir, there is a contradiction of that; that is to say, the country is being faced with a menace of unemployment every day. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if you do not have something, and you do not know what you can do, so that you may have it, why continue going for help, as if you were lazy? I believe our Government is not lazy; I believe Kenya citizens are not lazy; why should they be made victims of laziness by always— Even if it is a loan of £2 million, you want, you have still to go abroad for it, and you have no shame whatever, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

An hon. Member: What are you talking about?

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Sir; I am seeking your guidance here because our friend, the hon. Karungaru is talking on an entirely different matter. He does not seem to restrict himself to the Motion; is he in order to question whether it was proper to borrow money or not; that has nothing to do with the Motion, Sir?

Hon. Members: Yes!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Well, he is obviously going out of bounds a little; he had better come back to something inside the Motion.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I hope that the lawyer is aware of the future problems which are facing this country.

The other thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that if one has been reading the papers recently, he will find that we have been abused by one Member in the House of Commons—Mr. Walls—he was saying that we happened to have expelled one European from Mombasa who was at loggerhead with one of our Assistant Ministers. He was not even ashamed of himself and he was even asking his Government to be at loggerhead with the Kenya Government because the Kenya Government was relying upon their laws—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! That is not the problem. The Motion specifically refers to a breakdown of money borrowed from the Swedish Government and the International Development Authority. Perhaps, your discussion is outside that Motion.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was trying to point out the future danger of this kind of loan law. This is because we are discussing the loan and it is not a loan where we have raised money locally, but it is a loan where we have raised money from abroad. That is why, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am emphasizing this point because I would like them to take note of it and take note of it in time.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, whereas we would like development throughout the Republic, we would hate to hear everyday that we are discussing a Motion like this one because, if there was a proper communication between the Member who raised this matter and the Minister concerned, surely, a matter like this one should not have come into this House. This means that some Members are not doing or carrying out their homework properly because this is a matter which one could easily find out from the Ministry. I understand that there is now a yellow book and one of the Assistant Ministers who has been speaking, a former Assistant Minister in the Ministry of Economic Planning and Development, cannot even understand what he planned for and where money should be utilized! This is the so-called contradiction of a kind of conflict of interests. This must stop forthwith as we do not want this kind of language here.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if we are to speak the truth and save this nation, then we must be prepared to tell the truth. If one tells the truth here and the following day he is told that or the whole idea is being discharged or done away with completely as if it never existed; then this makes a nonsense of the whole matter, and we do not want it. We would welcome anybody who is prepared to tell the truth despite the fact that it is bitter, we are prepared to swallow that bitterness if we are told the truth of the whole matter in all sincerity and honesty. However, Sir, when I say something, a Minister in the Front Bench might simply say, "Look at this Member!" simply because he is not holding any Government Office—I mean, the whole thing is being discharged anyhow. This is not the kind of attitude we would like to be developed in this House. We would like any Member of this House to give to each other a sincere hearing so that one might know when the Member is being constructive or not. It is not a matter of discharging the whole thing and leave it in the air and yet we continue to breathe it everywhere we go.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to advise the Ministry concerned also—as one of the earlier Ministers said—to go into the question of the existing Act because it has been the normal procedure for the Minister for Finance to come into the House and lay papers on the Table and he could easily get away with everything. However, now that the House has already expressed its concern in the matter that it is interested in knowing how this money which has been borrowed would be utilized, then it is only fair that that Act should be amended in order that, in future, we may avoid this kind of Motion appearing before the House as it has now appeared today.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have no quarrel with the Motion and, therefore, I beg to support.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cheronu): Mr. Deputy

[The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Speaker, Sir, I think this is a fairly straightforward Motion which, although it should have been in the form of a question, perhaps it was put in this form in order to enable more detailed information than it would otherwise have been possible to be given to the hon. Member and the House. I, therefore, suggest that since this information has been provided in great detail by the Ministry responsible for this matter, that is the Ministry of Agriculture, then I would like to propose that the Mover of this Motion be now called upon to reply.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Yes, I think I will accept that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

(Question, that the Mover be now called upon to reply, put and agreed to)

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to thank all the Members who have spoken in support of this Motion and, in particular, I would like to thank the Assistant Minister for Agriculture for having given us a straightforward answer. I also appreciate the remarks he made about the reason why the Motion was brought in this particular way.

One of the disadvantages about putting up questions is that you are not allowed to argue on whatever replies you get and if you are dissatisfied, then, the only remedy is, if you get a chance to raise the question on Adjournment, which also does not solve anything because you will argue some more and then the Minister will also argue some more and then everything will be left in the air. The advantage of having a Motion like this one is clearly recognized by our Standing Orders which give us an opportunity to raise any queries regarding any papers laid on the Table by a Member of this House. I think that many Members were interested in airing their views and in drawing out more information from the Government so that I do not think that this move was unwelcome, as the Minister for Commerce and Industry indicated that he would have liked to avoid this type of Motion. There is no reason to avoid this type of Motion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because it may not always be necessary to ask questions or even propose a Motion about any paper laid in this House. If the Members read a certain paper and then they are satisfied then there is no need to move a Motion, but it is precisely because our Standing Orders envisage the possibilities that the Members might want certain points to be clarified or might want certain things to be debated upon. That is why it is provided that a Motion like this can be brought up as a business of this House instead of as a Private Member's Motion, which should have been the case, if this had been an ordinary Private Member's Motion.

Therefore, I thank the Minister for the information he has given. We are not entirely to blame for asking for this breakdown because we have always tried to get the Government to give us a breakdown of everything. Every time the Development Plan comes before this House, we have urged the Government to give us a detailed breakdown of the Development Plan. Every time the Development Estimates come before this House and, I think, another one is coming before this House very soon, we always ask the Government to give us a breakdown. Now, if the Government anticipates this wish of the Members and every time gives us a detailed breakdown without being asked to do so, then it would reduce the questions which would be asked in this House.

I thank the Members who have spoken in support of this Motion and I am not suggesting that it will always be necessary to bring up a Motion like this, but I would suggest that if Papers are laid on the Table which are not self-explanatory then, of course, we cannot avoid questions in this particular House. I hope that as a result of this Motion, the Government will give us more details in future in all the Papers they lay down. I also welcome the observations made by the Assistant Minister for Housing about the agreement entered into by the Government and spending the money which the tax-payer has to repay later on. I noted when moving this Motion that this Agreement was signed in September, 1968 and it was laid on the Table of this House more than two years later. I think this situation has to be avoided and in future, as soon as any agreement has been signed, it should be laid on the Table as soon as possible so that if hon. Members want to question it, they can then follow it up before a great deal is done which cannot be undone. Happily there is nothing which we would wish to have undone in this particular instance, but I hope that the Government will note our points.

Therefore, with these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question of the Motion put and agreed to)

MOTION

APPROVAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE
REPORT—1967/68 AND 1968/69—PART I

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order to lump the two Reports by two different Committees in one Motion? Can they not split up and each one discussed separately?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I think we are discussing Part One of the Report of the Public Accounts Committee in this Motion.

Mr. Seroney: There is the 1967/68 Report and the 1968/1969 Report. The point is, do we have to discuss these reports together? They are done by two different Committees and they may raise different issues.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I think this matter must have been considered by the Sessional Committee. I am not sure why the 1967/1968 Report comes into this one. I cannot quite remember who the Chairman of that particular committee was, but he is out of this Parliament therefore— However, Mr. Wariithi not being in this present Parliament surely, it was for the Sessional Committee to consider the suitability of the present Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee to propose both Reports and their adoption. This does not rob the hon. Members of their chances to discuss both Reports consecutively.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move the following Motion.

THAT, House approves the recommendations contained in Part I Reports of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the years ending 30th June, 1967/68 and 1968/1969 respectively.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the question that has just been raised by the hon. Member for Tinderet concerns the Report of the Public Accounts for 1967/1968, and I would like to say that the Chairman of this Committee was Mr. Wariithi who is not now a Member of Parliament. At the same time when Parliament was dissolved as you know the Public Accounts Committee at that time had not finished their Report. That is why it was not presented at that time. However, whatever bit was finished, the present Public Accounts Committee dealt with the few items that remained and adopted this Report in the hope that this Parliament would consider it and adopt it.

Sir, the Public Accounts Committee of which I am the Chairman met on ten occasions to examine the Kenya Government Accounts for the year 1968/1969 and a verbatim record of the evidence by the officers who appeared before the Committee was taken. The minutes of these meetings are also attached to the Report for the hon. Members to note. Hon. Members have these two reports. They have been put in their pigeon-holes and they have read the Report of the Controller and Auditor-General on which this Report is based. So that it is very simple and quite clear and straightforward on what type of recommendations the Committee has given— You will see that these Reports are very short. The reason for it being short is because more details are in the Report of the Controller and Auditor-General and also in the verbatim reports. I regret to say that the verbatim report of the Public Accounts Committee is not available at the moment, but it is going to be available to the hon. Members very soon indeed.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, during our meetings the Public Accounts Committee scrutinized how the Kenya Government money is being spent. In fact, it is not quite correct to say “Kenya Government money”, but it is more appropriate to say the “public funds” because the public pays the money and they expect services to be provided by the offices of the Government to them. This Parliament also authorizes expenditure on public funds. The civil servants are expected to spend the money in accordance with the authority of this Parliament.

Now, one thing that came into light during the meetings of the Public Accounts Committee is that to a certain extent the authority of this Parliament had been ignored. You will see in this Report that there has been a lot of excess expenditure, that is, so much money spent above what has been voted by this Parliament sometimes even without the authority of Parliament. The situation has become so bad that it is deteriorating, in fact. You will find that during 1967/1968 there were 11 votes with excess expenditure, but during the following Financial Year, 1968/1969 there were 12 votes with excess expenditure. Therefore, you will see really that the Ministries concerned, instead of being more careful in spending public money, have gone out of their ways to spend more than what this Parliament has authorized or more than what the Treasury has authorized. It is for that reason, therefore, this Public Accounts Committee had this to say:—

The Committee is very concerned with this very serious situation where public funds are being spent without the authority of Parliament. It appears that there is a complete lack of control over expenditure and the situation is deteriorating instead of improving. In fact, some of the Ministries have repeated Excesses in spite of previous warnings. The Committee urges the Treasury to ensure that its Supply Officers are aware of the requirements.

This situation is very serious and when you go into the reports of the various Ministries that have overspent, you will see the various recommendations that the Public Accounts Committee has made.

However, I think it is a very serious thing that the authority of Parliament should be ignored. I think we must be very firm on this to ensure that in future overexpenditure will not be allowed and where it occurs, the officers concerned must meet the necessary disciplinary action. Every time, Sir, and I am sorry to say this, the Public Accounts Committee makes certain recommendations but they do not seem to have been followed by anybody. The Controller and Auditor-General made certain recommendations and expressed certain fears on this matter, but it appears that the Accounting Officers who are responsible for controlling the public expenditure do not take a serious view of this matter. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, Parliament is always there and if an accounting officer finds that he needs more money, he should come back to Parliament and ask for more money. However, instead of coming back to Parliament, they decide to spend more money without the authority of Parliament. There are other cases where the Parliament gives authority for expenditure but only expenditure in various items under certain Votes. However, you will find in such cases, if an officer wishes to transfer expenditure from one Vote to another, which has been authorized by the Parliament, he has to get permission from the Treasury. We have found that in such cases they do not care to go to the Treasury for authority. They have ignored the directives of the Treasury. The circulars from the Treasury, stating how the money should be spent and the procedures to be followed, are very, very clear and they are there in the Ministries. However, it is most disappointing to my committee and, I think, also to the Members of this House to find that there have been such expenditures without the authority from either the Parliament or the Treasury.

There has also been a lot of extravagancy and misuse of public funds. We have, however, made recommendations on those items and you can read them yourselves. I will give you certain examples of these extravagancies and misuse of public funds: An amount of K£556-9-50, was paid to a member of Electoral Commission. This member never attended one single meeting and all the time he was being paid a salary. What happened is that this member of the Electoral Commission was appointed as a member and was never told when the meetings were to be held and, therefore, he money from the public funds without providing the required service to the public. We have definitely said, as a committee, that we deplore the manner in which this matter was handled, after the appointment had been made, thereby resulting in the payment of public money without the public receiving a service for it.

The committee was not, however, satisfied with never attended the meetings. Now, he was paid the explanation given to justify this expenditure and, therefore, urges the Government to take disciplinary action against the officers concerned and further urges the Government to streamline the machinery for these appointments. Therefore, you can see how public money is being spent in our Government without providing services to our people.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

If I may quote another example, Mr. Speaker. Sir, under the Ministry of Health, where money has been misused again. This is a case, where an officer of the Government, whose services were terminated, by the accounting officer, without the authority of the Public Service Commission, continued to receive salaries and housing allowances without working, after his appointment had been terminated. This, obviously is a very serious matter. This officer continued to do so until very late when this matter was discovered. Therefore, the committee is of the opinion that the dismissal of this public officer, without the authority of the Public Service Commission was wrong and contrary to the Public Service Regulations. This matter is made even more serious by the fact that after the dismissal of this public officer, the public funds continued to be paid in the form of salary and housing allowance. The committee recommends that this money should be recovered because it was wrongly spent. We cannot allow this kind of expenditure of the public money to continue in this way. I am only giving you a few examples.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is another example in the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife where an officer of the Government went overseas and was given an imprest. During 1967/68 and 1968/69, an imprest amounting to Sh. 12,500 and Sh. 68,057/15 respectively was given. This money was issued for official duties overseas. Out of this imprest, a sum of Sh. 38,640 was accounted for as having been spent on cocktail parties for overseas travel agents, tour operators and Pressmen to promote Kenya's tourism while another sum of KSh. 12,851 is described as having been spent on inter-city taxi travelling. No invoices were produced. That is why the committee feels that this is a great mistake of delaying the repayment of the imprest for such a long time and not surrendering them during the Financial Year in which they were issued. As you know, if you are given an imprest, as a civil servant, you are expected to refund the money or to account for it within a Financial Year. In this case there was a long delay. However, that is not a very important point. What is important is, as far as the question of expenditure on entertainment is concerned, the committee is not satisfied with the evidence given by the accounting officer because he could not produce any documentary evidence to show that this money was actually spent on promotion of tourism. Therefore, the committee cannot recommend this money to be paid from the public funds until such a time as supporting evidence is received.

These are some of the cases and you will find many of them in this report. A public officer thinks that he can just spend Government money and thinks that his words will be taken for granted. Sir, these are some of the observations which I would like the Members to take various views on and accept the recommendation we have given. We have gone into this matter very carefully, as I said in the beginning, and we have met many times and we consider that the recommendations we have given are fair and just to all parties concerned. We have given them in the public interest.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we went into the details of various matters, for instance, in the Ministry of Local Government we noticed that the accounts of the county councils have not been submitted for a very long time. We also noticed that several county councils have not had their Estimates approved by the Minister for Local Government for a number of years, hence, stopping the development of the county councils in question. There were also a lot of misappropriation of funds by the county council officials. For instance, in the case of Sirikwa County Council, we found that the treasurer, who was responsible for keeping the accounts had gone away because he was an expatriate and the receipt books were not accounted for and, therefore, our Government is not able to tell whether there were any losses of money in this county council. That is only an example because there are many other county councils which we found to be in a similar position. Therefore, we have made a recommendation to the effect that the Ministry of Local Government should take a serious view of these matters and improve the situation of the county councils, especially the control of finances. We could not understand how the Estimates of county councils could not be approved for five or six years in some cases and one wonders how a county council could expand without having the Estimates approved by the authority concerned.

The Ministries which were found to have more or less in excess without the authority of this Parliament were: the State House, Foreign Affairs Branch, Office of the Vice-President and Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Agriculture and Animal Husbandry, Ministry of Health, Ministry of Works, Ministry of Power and Communications, Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife, Ministry of Lands and Settlement, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, Ministry of Cooperatives and Social Services and Ministry of Education. Nearly all of them. They are 12.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the information of the House, and all these figures are on record, during the year 1967/68 and 1968/69, an amount of K£1,093,165-12-59 was overspent by the Ministries concerned, the ones I have just mentioned, as against K£136,877-7-59. So you can see how the expenditure, without the authority of Parliament, has been rising instead of being reduced and in spite of various recommendations made by the Public Accounts Committee and this Parliament.

There has, also, been lack of financial control in missions abroad—our Embassies. I want to quote from the Report of the Auditor-General where he says:—

“In paragraph 29 of my Report for 1967/68, I expressed concern over several purchases of furniture and carpets for Kenya Embassies abroad which I considered to be extravagant. A recent visit to three Embassies revealed a very disturbing state of affairs. The lack of financial control in general was appalling while the actual dishonesty of some officers and misappropriation of cash were disquieting. Further, the stores records were not properly maintained and at one Embassy, I was unable to satisfy myself that the vehicles on charge to the Embassy were being solely used on official running.”

We went into this question and we found out that there were unsatisfactory arrangements about the financial control in our Embassies and that some embezzlement has also taken place. We were assured in this one by the Accounting Officer concerned that the people who were responsible for embezzling the finances of our foreign missions were known, and that action was being taken against them. We were also assured that in future, better financial arrangements will be made.

However, I would like to say that we do not want to be given mere assurances. We would like to see, in the next Public Accounts Committee, a report that things have been actually, streamlined and these kinds of things were not happening again.

Mr. Speaker, in order to give Members time to speak, these are some of the few points that I wanted to bring to light since I cannot speak on every item. However, I would like to speak on one very serious matter which also reveals how some Government officials and maybe some Ministers, have been responsible for extravagance and misuse of public funds. I would like to mention the former Minister for Agriculture in particular—we are discussing 1968/69 Report. This is the question of mismanaged and abandoned farms. We went into this question in very, very great detail and we found that a sum of K£402,532 has been lost by the Kenya Government. The reason is: when a mismanaged or an abandoned farm was taken over by the Government—in this case by the Ministry of Agriculture, the Government spent money on developing that farm. A lot of money was spent. After the farm had come to a better state, it was handed over to the owner without recovering the money that the Government had, actually, spent on that farm.

In some cases, the Government was trying to recover the money by selling the crop or the cattle that were on those farms. In actual fact, even if the Government had not recovered all its money, and the farm was sold, all the proceeds from the sale of the farm was given to the original owner of the farm. So, the question we were asking among ourselves in the Committee is: "Why could the Government not recover the money they had already spent on the farm from the sale of that farm and then give the balance to the farmer?" We were told that the law could not allow that. Then we asked ourselves, "Why could the law not be amended to enable the Government to recover." A lot of money was lost that way.

We were also disturbed to find out that some of the owners of the abandoned farms were made managers—and they were paid big salaries—of the same farms. The question then was, "If the man could not manage his own farm so that the Government was forced to take it because of mismanagement, how could he be expected to manage it under the State law." These kinds of things, Sir, we regret to say, we were very disappointed to find that they were going on in our country. It is most disturbing. Thank God, the question of mismanaged and abandoned farms is no longer there because I believe that they have all been sold now and if they have not all been sold, only a few remain.

Mr. Speaker, I beg, therefore, to move that the Members do adopt the Motion. Thank you.

Mr. ole Nampaso: Mr. Speaker, I rise to second the Motion.

Being a member of the new Public Accounts Committee, we had several meetings where we sat down talked about these accounts, in the committee, which is responsible for the public money. We found a lot of misuse of money, as it has been said by the Chairman of the Committee. Every time we called the accounting officer of the Ministry concerned, and the Auditor-General. We then went through the accounts very slowly scrutinizing how the funds have been used. In actual fact, we found a lot of money was being misused by the accounting officers or by the Ministries concerned without the accounting officers taking care or the initiative to see how the money was being used.

I am sure that all Members of this House have a report of this Committee, because every Member found a copy of the report in his pigeon-hole. I am also sure they have studied how the money has been spent by the Government. I am sure if they have gone through this report very slowly and very carefully, they have found a lot of reports on each Ministry. Some accounting officers from some Ministries have to refund money to the Ministry, if it had been misused. If I could, Mr. Speaker, quote a few parts, you will see in a certain Ministry vehicles ordered from overseas. When they are ordered, the Ministry or the accounting officer of the Ministry concerned had certified the voucher that he had received the vehicles while they were still overseas. He had certified that the record was correct. However, when the Auditor-General came to check on the accounts, he wanted to see the vehicles—whether they had arrived and their registration numbers and so forth. Unfortunately he found and he was told that the vehicles had not yet arrived.

"How did you certify the voucher and say that it is correct and everything has been received?"

Such mistakes, although the vehicles have been received—okay—because they had been told by the Auditor-General to see that these vehicles have been delivered to the Ministry concerned—we do not want them to occur in future. How can an accounting officer certify something without having seen it received by the Ministry?

Another example which I could quote here, if you see under the Ministry of Labour the Auditor's Report paragraph 59:—

"A loss of cash amounting to K£479-12-00 occurred at the office of a Senior Labour Officer, Nairobi. I understand that this loss was due to administrative weakness which I am informed, have since been corrected.

The Committee is satisfied that the administrative weaknesses which occasioned the loss have been corrected and hopes that efforts will be made to recover the loss. The Committee is advised that there are several controls which would prevent this kind of thing happening and hopes that the Accounting Officer will exercise the controls and resources available."

Mr. Speaker, with such issues, misuse of money by accounting officers was not rectified immediately until the Auditor-General came to find the mistake. Really, we have warned these people and I am sure if they have read the Report, they must be very careful, indeed. Now, if people do not care about their jobs and possibly these accounts are left to junior officers to process and thereafter the senior officers do not examine the accounts to certify that they are correct they may be asked to pay by themselves and not actually the Ministry concerned. Accounting Officers must be given a warning about this one.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you go on scrutinizing this Report, you find a lot of misuse of public funds. With regard to the year 1967/68, although the former Members of the Committee are not here, the present Committee scrutinized every account and found that the accounts were correct. They were, of course, certified by the Ministries concerned together with the Controller and Auditor-General to be correct.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to second and support the Motion.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Murgor: Thank you Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all I would like to thank the Mover of this Motion for the way he made the recommendations.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say something about overexpenditure. What happens, Sir, is this: take, for example, field officers who send their estimates to their respective Ministries. Now, when they send these estimates, they know exactly what they are asking for and the jobs the money is going to be spent on. What happens is that when these estimates get to the Ministry, the various Ministries cut them down. After they have cut them down, they send them to the Treasury whereby, in a majority of cases, it cuts them down further. Now, what happens in the end is that certain services which are essential have nothing to do except to continue uninterfered with. Take for example the police. Sir, as far as the police are concerned, you never know when crimes are going to rise up, and you never know when crimes are going to come down. Therefore, when they go up the money the police have been given runs short. As a result police officers only stay in the offices instead of following up criminals because they have no money. Sometimes when reports are made to the police that certain crimes have been committed somewhere, the police say that they have no transport and when you ask them why they do not have transport, they say "We have no money." They cannot go out because if they do, without authority for more money, they may be surcharged. That is one reason why sometimes the over-expenditures arise. I have always laid the blame on the accounting officers who may not have explained their cases properly to the Treasury. Secondly it is the Treasury who, in the majority of cases, are very difficult to accept the estimates sent to them by the various departments of the Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I said, it is very difficult for officers in the field to do their jobs properly if they have not been given the money they have asked for. On the other hand, as I said, it is the fault of accounting officers of Ministries who do not explain properly for what reasons they want the money.

Sir, I do not see any reason why the Ministries should not request Parliament for further sums of money to be spent before they overspend. They can foresee that there is going to be an overexpenditure and therefore why do they not request or put forward their requirements before overspending occurs? That is why, Sir, this House very often complains why should overexpenditure arise and why should money be overspent before the authority of this House! I take it that this House is right in complaining about the overexpenditure. Again, Sir, I think where there are no good accountants, such things occur. It is the accountants who, normally, inform the accounting officers the position of accounts of a given Ministry.

Another thing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to speak about is payment of officers who have been dismissed. Now, this is a very serious matter because in some cases junior officers, sometimes, dismiss verbally their subordinate officers. For example, in the Provincial Administration, a junior district officer may dismiss a chief or a sub-chief verbally by simply telling him that your services are done away with. He does not take the trouble to inform the higher authorities. As the hon. Mover said, the Public Service Commission is never informed and so what happens? The District Commissioner knows nothing about it, the Provincial Accountant know nothing about it and the dismissed officer continues to draw his salary through his bank because his salary is usually sent by cheque to his bank and therefore it is very difficult to know whether or not he is still in the service. On the other hand, the officer who is appointed to take over from him may stay for a year without getting a salary because it is not known by the Ministry or the head office that he has been appointed. As I said, in the first place, no authority or approval for the dismissal of the subordinate officer has been granted by a senior officer of the Ministry, nor has the Public Service Commission been informed about the dismissal. The dismissed officer, therefore, continues to draw a salary—as hon. Gatuguta said—drawing a salary when he is not actually doing any Government work while on the other hand somebody else in his place is working but he is not drawing any salary. It is only known later on when the new officer complains about why he has been working without getting a salary that in the end these things are disclosed to the effect that somebody has been drawing a salary without working for it. That is, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what happens sometimes in the field.

Another thing which is very serious, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the question of the misuse of imprests. In normal circumstances, if an officer is given an imprest, he is supposed to go and do the job he is supposed to do and when he comes back, he has to show how he spent the money and the balance should be returned. Now, in recent days in the majority of cases, we have seen some officers take advantage of imprests by using them as their own money. They use the imprests as if they were their own money. Later on, these things come to light when auditors go out to check only to discover how some imprest money is missing or has been misused. Although, sometimes, it is replaced, it is totally wrong to use public money in the form of imprest as if it were personal money. As the Mover said, sometimes, even though the auditors make their reports, not very much is done there which means the Accounting Officers are not very serious sometimes with their work.

As far as the approval of the county council's Estimates is concerned, this has been the most serious affair for a very, very long time because as the hon. Mover said, some development works or work have been interfered with. Some area councils have not been able to move ahead; they have not been able to develop their areas because their estimates that they passed to the Ministry of Local Government are not approved in time. Sometimes they are told, "What you spent last year, probably what you should spend now and nothing more." The Estimates for one year after the other remain unapproved for a very, very long time. What has been going on very seriously is the auditing of the county councils' money. As in the case of Sirikwa County Council, which was mentioned, this took a very long time and was not ready until the officer who was in charge had left and gone away overseas and later on a lot of money was discovered missing. If the Ministry of Local Government had been efficient enough, none of that money would have disappeared. I think it is now time for them to begin doing their work more seriously and see to it that they do not interfere with the development of various county councils because this has been a very bad situation.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few words I beg to support.

Mr. Mwicigi: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I would first of all like to thank the Mover for the good report he has presented here and also his committee which has worked very hard to see the report produced.

Mr. Speaker, I want to underline one point in this report and this is in connexion with Excess Votes. We have noted that the warning given last year is the very warning that is now given by the committee. I do not see the value of the warning because since the first warning was given the situation has deteriorated and I feel some drastic steps must be taken by the House to see that this trend is going to be arrested. It is perhaps a good idea to think about how this can be controlled. Perhaps one thing which this House should do is to refuse to approve this excess money. However, since the money has already been spent it is going to be very awkward to arrest this, I think the best idea in this will not be to refuse to approve it but to make it a criminal offence against the accounting officer who exceeds his Vote. This is likely to check these officers who are free in approving or overspending the money which the House should first of all approve.

Mr. Speaker, the other point I also wanted to Press here is in connexion with the Local Government for not approving the accounts of local authorities. If the accounts of local authorities are not approved, they do not know how they can proceed with their business and I feel that the Ministry of Local Government should move a little faster in assessing the local authorities in approving these accounts. We have noted that county councils are the worst spenders of public money while at the same time they are nearest to the masses; they are nearest to wananchi and they are also the backbone of developments. Their money is not wisely spent and that may have some relationship with accounts which are not approved by the Local Government. I would feel that some action should be taken in each direction.

Mr. Speaker, Sir with these few remarks I support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is one of the most important documents we have here taking into account the speech made by the Leader of this country, the hon. Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, who is a Member of this House when he made it quite clear in his speech that it is the responsibility of this House to look into the expenditures and safeguard the public money. We will be failing in our duties miserably, Mr. Speaker, if hon. Members do not take keen interest in trying to detect some of the faults we have here. Sir, I would like to contribute by first drawing your attention to the Report of the Public Accounts Committee of the Government of Kenya Accounts for the year 1967/68. If you look on page two, of that, Sir, you will see under the heading, "The Excess Votes reflected in 1967/68 Accounts were as follows—"

And then they give the Ministries and so forth. If you also look at the note of the views of the Committee the Public Account Committee, it says here, Sir, "The Committee notes the alarming rise in excess over the last financial year, which is about four times what it was, and recommends the following:—

- (a) The Treasury should revise financial orders to control funds in the hands of Accounting Officers which are non-voted amounts.
- (b) The Committee will, in future, refuse to allow excess where officers show non-compliance with existing financial control systems.
- (c) The Treasury should examine and where necessary amend the financial system."

This is in 1967/68. I draw your attention, again Mr. Speaker, to the Report of the Public Accounts Committee of the Government of Kenya for the year 1968/69. On page four, this time—the last year's was on page two but this year's is on page four. Here, Sir, under "The Excess of Vote . . .", you will find that almost all the Ministries which were mentioned in the Report of 1967/68 are the same ones also mentioned in that of 1968/69. Still under "The Excess . . ." the committee—probably this time—says the following:—

"The Committee is very concerned with this very serious situation where public funds are being spent without the authority of Parliament".

Here, Mr. Speaker, the Committee warned and also gave ways and means of how the public funds could be better controlled and thereby incur less loss in the expenditure. It appears that our officers did not make note of it.

Again the Public Accounts Committee comes in once more in 1968/69. This has a more serious observation whereby money was spent without the authority of this House. Mr. Speaker, speaking as a parliamentarian, and speaking as the representative of the people of this country, and being a tax-payer on top of all that, Mr. Speaker, I think this is a serious thing which we have to concern ourselves with. Even the President of this Republic has made it known that it is our responsibility in this House to be quite firm as far as the public expenditure is concerned. To make the matter worse, Mr. Speaker, the Members of the Public Accounts Committee are the Members of this very honourable House. So, in the whole final analysis, Mr. Speaker, as much as we would like to blame the civil servants for these excesses we must, at the same time, Mr. Speaker, blame the Members of this committee and probably this House for not being firm and ready to take some drastic steps to ensure that these votes are not overspent.

In 1968/69, the total excesses were £1,093,165. If you could add up this, Mr. Speaker, you would find that this amount would help a great deal even for providing or starting small-scale cottage industries which could provide employment for the unemployed, or to try and give the less fortunate children who have no parents or guardians to help them to have free education up to Standard VII. But you find that this is used — If you would look at the Auditor's Report you would find that some of the money was used for buying watches, clocks—you see, Mr. Speaker, this is a very interesting situation. It is interesting and absurd which this House cannot try and—

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Ochwada): But you are in a glass house.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, I am serious, but the hon. friend of mine, Mr. Ochwada, says that I am in a glass house. The saying, Mr. Speaker, means that once you are in a glass house you do not throw stones because if you do then your house will be demolished. But, Mr. Speaker, where am I in a glass house? In this report, Mr. Speaker, you will find that there is no place where you will find that hon. Shikuku, the Member for Butere, consumed the public money. I have never even made a false claim anywhere.

Mr. Speaker, I am talking of the excesses of Ministries. If one hon. Member mentions the Ministry of Home Affairs, of course, it is one of the Ministries I am talking about. So Mr.

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

Speaker, we have to look at ourselves and we have to speak on behalf of the people to tell them that there is something which is definitely wrong.

It is even more serious when you spend money without the authority of this House because this House is then completely undermined. There is no point in saying that this House is the supreme authority of this country if all expenditures are not approved by this House.

One of the hon. Member says that there was even an increase on the part of the civil servants' salaries to the tune of £100 each. This was not for for all civil servants but it was confined to the Permanent Secretaries—the superscales.

When some of us point out these things they say we are not good. They say that all the civil servants are being undermined, but now we are specific—we are on the superscales, who got £100 increases. Have you ever heard of it in the whole world? This was without the authority of this House. When the Members consolidated their allowances there is a hue and cry. They even tell the people. "Oh, the Members have increased their salaries." Mr. Speaker, Sir, was the salary ever increased? This was not so; it was only consolidated. As a matter of fact, when you work out—I was doing the exercise—you will find that the Members lose because if we were to sit for 365 days in a year, multiply that by £6, the amount of money the Members would draw in this country will be abominable. But now we can sit for 365 days but we shall still get sitting allowance of Sh. 2,000. It will never be more than that. But if it were to be on £6 per day, multiply that by 365— So, in other words, even if Members were to sit more days they will get the same amount of money, whereas in the past, if they sat more days they earned more. But this one has been approved by the authority of the country. But the increase of £100 to the permanent secretaries and the superscale fellows was not approved by this House. If you do not know, you better know now. It is time hon. Members did a bit of homework because we are the custodians of the Republic and we have to know what happens.

Mr. Speaker, I say this because it is in the Speech of His Excellency that we must safeguard the public funds. That is what I am doing now. Now, Sir, the paragraph I have just read you says, "without the authority of Parliament". I quote, Mr. Speaker, "It appears that there is a complete lack . . ." "Complete! This is the report by a body which is appointed by this supreme authority. "There is complete lack of control . . ." "Complete lack". ". . . of expenditure, and the situation is deteriorating instead of improving."

In fact, some of the Ministries have repeated excesses in spite of previous warnings. Now, Mr. Speaker, I think we have to pull up our socks. We need the money for various developments. We need money for this thing or the other to enable our people to realize the fruits of independence. But when we look at these excesses, Mr. Speaker, they are very few— When you read the Controller and Auditor-General's Report you will find that there are some very flimsy and very unreasonable excesses which should not have been allowed to take place at all.

Mr. Speaker, I realize that there are sometimes certain circumstances which confront some of the civil servants to make decisions which, probably, they may not have time to bring before the National Assembly. But when you read the Controller and Auditor-General's report you find that some of them are so bad that they are not in the interests of the nation or the public. This is the stage where we, as the Members of this House, the Members of the supreme authority, carry the responsibility of this country so that when it goes to the dogs it is not, in most cases, those that are given the duty to implement the decisions and resolutions passed by this authority. It is us who will have to take back the empty cans.

It is usual, Mr. Speaker, that when there is any chaos, or when there are any problems, it is the politicians and it is the political government that is always faced, the Ministers, the Members of—

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will continue later. Thank you, Sir.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

DISPLACEMENT OF LANDOWNERS AND PAYMENT OF COMPENSATION IN MURANG'A DISTRICT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will a Minister please move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Omamo): seconded.

(Question propose)

Mr. Wachira: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the answer given by the Minister for Natural Resources in reply to a question about forest areas in Murang'a I would like once again to raise this matter.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are four forest areas in Murang'a or in Makyuu Constituency. The areas concerned are Kawaharura which is known as Karura Forest in Location 17, Kangure Forest in

[Mr. Wachira]

Location 15, Kiamuti Kirima Forest, and Kiambicho Forest in Location 20. Mr. Speaker, Sir, while I call these forests, they are commonly known in my area as not forests because these places are owned by landowners who inherited this land from their grandfathers. I am one of those. My grandfather was born in Kangure Forest and his grave is there. My father was born in the same area and I was also born in the same area. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it so happened that in 1954, as you know there was a state of emergency, a colonial Government officer—a Mzungu District Officer came into our area and told us to vacate the area because Government wanted to take that land. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we sent a delegation of 20 people including myself and the secretary of the delegation. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that was in 1954—I said 1954—for the information of what I am talking about. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what happened to the delegation was that the chairman of the delegation and myself were detained on the same day and we were not released until 1959. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a pity to know that the comrades, the ten people who were with us paid for this land, if it were to be paid for, because they never returned home. They were killed by the Colonial Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, 1958 when land consolidation was first being done at Murang'a, we gathered these fragments and to our surprise, when land consolidation was being repeated in 1959 at the same place, we were denied the right of taking part in the fragmented gathering up of these pieces. As you can see, Sir, the four places known as forest areas which I know is our land were taken away from us without compensation. These people have no land. About 800 people were displaced and they have no place where they can get their food or where they can get cash crops or money to educate their children.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that this was done by a Colonial Government but it is shocking to understand from the answer given by the Minister that even our Government is not prepared to look into these grievances. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know the Minister concerned does not know everything about this matter but I will tell him that in 1959, when he claimed that the land was taken away and no compensation was given—in 1959 there was not a single inch of land in Kikuyu land which was not owned. It is shocking to hear from a very well educated Minister who tells me that these pieces of land had no owner. It is high time that this House considered these poor people who have no place to live. Mr. Speaker, Sir, you can understand that in 1954 when we were arrested and 10 people killed—what happened there after is that a General Service Unit team was sent to these areas and burned all the houses and killed and shot at sight. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this operation I lost my uncle, my brother and my lovely sister. It is matter of life that our Government should at least either give these people land somewhere else in the settlement area or compensate them because it is such a sad affair that when I talk about it, I feel like moving or flying like an aeroplane

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel I should not go any further other than request Government or the House requests Government that people concerned in this area be compensated for this land and that they be given alternative plots where they can live and at least educate their children.

It seems as if these people are not remembered. When the Minister was answering the question I noticed that he was either uninformed or the answer he was given would have done better or would have been a good answer if we were talking of forests like Nyandarua and the rest. But these so-called forests, these four places are not real forests. The places are right in the locations. What happened,— I understand or I am told that the Mzungu decided to take these pieces of land because they were known as strong areas of Mau Mau. If it were not for Mau Mau, I doubt whether we would have had Uhuru which we are now enjoying.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

Before I sit, Mr. Speaker, hon. Kahengeri will second me and also Mr. Mwicigi.

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know I am telling a just Minister something about these forests in this Motion and I know that he is a Minister who is serving under a just Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, 800 people are involved in this matter. 1954 was not the time that the Minister could classify as the time that these areas had no owner. It is not true that in 1954 there was a piece of land anywhere in Kikuyuland that was not owned by anyone. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister referred to the former African District Council and said that it was the authority that passed over the areas to the Central Government. The African District Council was very often chaired by dictator chairmen, the district commissioners and the Minister knows who they were. Now, these people owned the land—we are protecting foreigners in this country in our Constitution that their property should be safeguarded. If we are protecting the foreigners who owned pieces of land in our country—so that we cannot even take an inch of it before we pay full compensation—why can we not pay full compensation to our own people when we want to take a piece of land from them. This is the big question that the Minister, perhaps, this evening will have to tell the nation. I know that he is quite just and he is going to resolve that but I want to point to him one little thing. In 1959 when the fragmentation was done by the land department, the fragmentation was also done on these pieces of land and it was only refused in 1960 when, again, the consolidation was to be done and the chairman, the dictator chairman I mentioned, refused that the consolidation should be done. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it is the duty of the just Minister in the just Government of men to look into this question and see why these people were not compensated. How did it happen that a big area of land which many years ago was occupied by the indigenous people of this country—I mean the Africans—was taken by the Central Government without paying anything to them? Perhaps, the 800 people who were displaced are scattered all over the Murang'a area; and perhaps are the people who are starving down at Ithanga Hill and they still remember that the land that belonged to them was taken by the Central Government. Today, they are crying and say, "Well, we have the just Government—our own Government—why is it that the Government does not look into this question?" I urge the Government to go into this question of the 800 people involved in this matter and see whether it was the district commissioner who just wanted to take the land from the people because he wanted to aggrieve them saying, "All right, we shall throw it to the Central Government!" Now it is the Central Government of our own people which we are asking to look into this question.

I think, the Mover of this Motion is not asking the Government just to say, "Take the land or take the compensation while something is being done". However, I think he is asking the Government to look into this question and see the history of the area and then see what happened and ultimately decide on something instead of just saying, "This land was owned by nobody and, therefore, the African District Council of the time handed it to the Central Government"!

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. Mwiggi: Thank, you Mr. Speaker. I happen to be familiar with the area which the Mover of the Motion is talking about; and I would like to assure the House that the atmosphere in the area is very tense.

There is a problem of people who once owned land but they are dislocated and they now want somewhere to live and it is impossible to have it. What is involved are four hills with an area of 3,000 acres which were owned by about 800 people before; and during the emergency they were moved out of those better areas—those hills—partly as a form of punishment and partly to facilitate consolidation—and they were put in villages. When they wanted to go back, they were told that the Government had taken over those parts. Those people are still landless and they are now urging the Government to do something about it; give them back their land now that the colonialist has gone or compensate them for what previously belonged to them. Mr. Speaker, Sir, these poor people are not asking for extra land because they have no land at all and they are not asking for an area to build summer homes or summer cottages but just a plot where they can live and can be able to plant something to live on—for themselves and their children. I think Government should be considerate and in the name of human rights they should surrender these hills and give them back because the Government can exist without these four hills and besides they are going to be occupied by her citizens. The Constitution protects the individual ownership—private ownership. Since these lands are privately owned or were privately owned before mbeberu came, the Government should look at this and consider the constitutional elements involved and find out whether these wrongs should be corrected. With these considerations I feel that our Government should do something about it. Those people are citizens of this country and are waiting for justice.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with those few remarks, I beg to urge the Government to do something about these people.

Mr. Gichoya: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I stand to support the Motion for Adjournment on a single principle: that although we are told that this land belongs to the Government, actually, Government belongs to the people. If the Government belong to the people, then why should they be rendered destitutes by a Government which belongs to them? Here in Kenya, we have generally, the problem of squatters: the people who were not allocated land by anybody and so they had to stay in some cases, on land that belonged to somebody else. However, again on the side of ownership of land, when we take the former settled areas, it was actually, stealing during the daytime because the man who did it had the powers, backed by his own Government, the Colonial Government.

These people, in 1954, as we understand, they were about 800 and the land was segmented or cut into pieces for their own settlement. Why were they not settled? What are the other alternative arrangements made to make them settled? This is exactly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, why I have stood up to support the idea of trying to help these people who actually thought they had a right to stay where they were, and assuming that they would be settled in those areas, they were never settled. Could they be given an alternative arrangement for settlement? If there is no alternative arrangements, then the answer is simple, let them live where they were. After all, are they not tax-payers of Kenya? Are they not citizens of Kenya? Secondly, it is an area which is adjacent to what used to be known as the "Native Reserve" or "native areas". Mr. Speaker, Sir, these natives are actually, the owners of land. We are the owners today, the former natives and they are so called, "citizens" but I prefer to be called a native to a "citizen" a native of the Republic of Kenya so that the people who have been given the nativity by a piece of paper may understand that they do not belong to this area and they should, if they can make arrangements, to go back to where they originally came from.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in order to give the Minister an opportunity to tell us what he had in mind in trying to solve this problem of unemployment. I put it like that because when you have a small-holding, and I believe the Minister for Natural Resources has a small-holding in his own home; if he is landless he should cover a small part of any forest of Kenya for his own small-holding so that he may have a place out and claim, "This is my own home".

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I believe that the case of those people has been put forward clearly and the Minister will also sympathize with the sentiments.

The Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Omamo): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. When the hon. Member gave notice that he would raise this matter on the Adjournment, I thought that the hon. Member, who, Mr. Speaker, I trust as an honest man, had a new approach, a new idea and completely good news, to tell this House. However, now that he has spoken, and his Motion seconded, I must admit, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that I am rather disappointed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the argument that a grandfather's grave is in a certain area, is not in itself, proof that the great grandson or sons should go and live there, despite the changes that have taken place. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I could use this argument, and say that my great grandfather's grave lies in Southern Sudan, and I could claim that I want land in Southern Sudan. However, so much has taken place, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that my argument would not hold water.

There is a suggestion, that this land comprising the four forest areas was taken without compensation. As I replied, and as I repeat now, this land was acquired by Central Government, using a legal process; a legal process which involved, not only the African District Council at that time, but also other land boards. I do not want to say that this was the best way of dealing with the situation, but this House and this Government has been presented with a fait accompli. Here is a process that has taken place; you now want me to undo what has taken place, and I would like to suggest, most politely, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that I will find it extremely difficult. It has been suggested that Government does not appear to be sympathetic. This, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I deny. Our Government is very sympathetic when we discuss land matters.

Historically, Kenya is known to be rather sensitive about questions connected with land; land ownership, who should own this, who should acquire this, etc., etc. This is not a new story in this Chamber; we know it. However, what I would like to refute is the suggestion that our Government is not sympathetic when the question of land is brought up. I have never suggested, myself, that the land in question was without owners. What I have repeated and what I would like to reiterate is that: whoever it belonged to, it was taken over through a legal process. I have already said that this land went to the hands of the Central Government through the normal process, at the time, and I would like, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to lay on the Table of the House, all the relevant minutes and all the correspondence, that transferred, and which, finally, gave the Central Government the authority to acquire the four pieces of land, and finally gave them to the Ministry of Natural Resources, for afforestation.

(The hon. Mr. Omamo laid the document on the Table)

Mr. Speaker, Sir, a suggestion has been made that the Government should think of ways and means of finding land for settlement. Fair enough! Let them say so, but to suggest that I should hand back the land already under forest is to me rather too strong a suggestion. If land is required for settlement, the hon. Members should know the procedure and they should also know which Ministry to approach. The stand of the Ministry of Natural Resources is that we are here to increase and not to decrease the forest estates of this nation.

[The Minister for Natural Resources]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, a suggestion has been made that compensation should be considered for these wananchi. However, in my opinion, it would be the most difficult task if it could be done. What I would like to argue is that it is quite unnecessary at this juncture because, if it is just a question of land, the House should be assured that there is quite a lot of land which could be used for settlement.

One hon. Member suggested that these areas are the so-called forests. I think we should be careful when we select this type of words. The so-called "forest" are real forests afforested for the needs of wananchi in Murang'a. This is the type of forest that we find in Kapondo/Kasipul in South Nyanza; this is the type of forest that we find in Kisii; this is the type of forest that we find in Elgeyo-Marakwet, a district whose 60 per cent of land is under forest.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it has also been suggested that this area should go to the 800 people. Were they families or were they individuals? I wish I could be informed. But, suppose they were individuals and they are 800 in number, the hon. Member suggested that the acreage is 3,000 acres; it is not, Mr. Speaker, Sir. It is 2,362 acres. This figure divided by 800 would give each family 1.9525 acres; which, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is too small. I would, therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, like to suggest that this question about settlement; this question about compensation would appear to be a reasonable question but compensation in my opinion is out. Settlement can be considered if a case has been prepared, supported by the established organizations and should naturally be channelled and looked into by the Minister for Lands and Settlement. This is the Ministry that wananchi everywhere know as the Ministry of Ardhi na Makao.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The following Paper was laid on the Table:—
The Settlement Fund Trustees Annual Report 1967-68.

(By the Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement Mr. G. G. Kariuki on behalf of the Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angaine))

NOTICE OF MOTION

ASSISTANT MINISTER TO BE CALLED DEPUTY MINISTER

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT since Government intends to train its promising sons into actually effective leaders of tomorrow's Kenya, this House calls upon the Government to introduce a Bill for an amendment of the Constitution of Kenya in order to delete the words, "Assistant Minister" and substitute in the place thereof the words, "Deputy Minister".

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 75 (1317)

DISCHARGE OF CONSTABLE SYENGO MUI

Mr. Kitonga asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House why compensation or gratuity had not been paid to Constable No. 7875, Syengo Mui, who had been discharged in 1959 on medical grounds after he had suffered an eye injury caused by his fellow constable, and lost total sight of one of his eyes.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. According to our records, ex-police Constable No. 7875, was Kamau Nduati of Fort Hall District who was dismissed from the force on 3rd June 1959 after a criminal conviction. It is therefore requested that the hon. Member give the correct force number of ex-Constable Syengo Mui to enable us to trace the records. We do not maintain records by names.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister deny or accept that the number he has mentioned in his answer is the real number of Syengo Mui because I got the information from the Police Headquarters and the Commissioner of Police did agree that this is the right number? Further to that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that Constable Kamau Nduati, whom he mentioned in the reply, was the same person who was convicted for the crime of injuring Constable Syengo Mui? Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that this was the right number of Constable Syengo Mui and that he was confused by whoever gave him the information.

Mr. Matano: No, Sir, I do not agree. As I said earlier, we went through the records and we found that this number belongs to a different man altogether. Therefore, I do not agree with the hon. Member's allegation.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, you do not have to rise on a point of order if you want to ask a question.

Mr. Kitonga: No, Mr. Speaker, the answer from the Assistant Minister was not quite clear. I did not understand him—anyway, Mr. Speaker, thank you very much. If the Assistant Minister promises that he will reply to this question in this House tomorrow, I will see the Commissioner of Police for a second time because I am sure this is the real number but the Assistant Minister is confusing the House by saying that this is the number of Kamau Nduati. Mr. Kamau Nduati, I believe, is the person who committed the same crime. Will the Assistant Minister promise to give the reply to this House tomorrow?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, that, in fact, is a good point of order, Mr. Kitonga. We will put off this question until you clarify that point.

(Question deferred to another day)

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! No! No more point of order. Next question.

(Question No. 130 (1429))

STATE LODGES IN THE COUNTRY

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister of State, President's Office if he would tell the House how many State Lodges there are in the Republic and how many are proposed to be built between 1970 and 1974 and where.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There are six State Lodges in the Republic. There are no plans to build more State Lodges in the near future.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, out of these six State Lodges, could the Assistant Minister tell us how many were built after 1964 and how much it cost Government to build them?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member should know that is a different question altogether. All that is known, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that these lodges are found in Eldoret, Nakuru Sagana, Mombasa, Kisumu and there is also a State Lodge in Nairobi. As as I have already said, there are no plans to have more State Lodges in the near future.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell us whether all these lodges are manned; and if so, whether there is any need for manning some of them, particularly those that are never used by the President?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all these lodges are actually in good use and all that the hon. Member should know is that these lodges were built for the use of the Head of State and they are in good use.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, without intending to oppose the Head of State, because we cannot oppose the Head of State, will the Assistant Minister please tell us how these lodges are used?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows that the lodges are being used by His Excellency the President when he visits the areas concerned, and this is a known fact, Sir.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell this House whether the State could sell some of these lodges because His Excellency does not use some of them, for example the one in Kisumu?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that does not arise because, when His Excellency the President will visit Nyanza Province, or that area, he will use the State Lodge which the hon. Member has mentioned.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that in all these State Lodges there are workers who maintain them, and hence public money is spent in paying them salaries, would the Assistant Minister tell the House how many times His Excellency the President has stayed in the Kisumu State Lodge?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have answered— Well, that is a different question altogether. However, all that I would like to tell the hon. Member is that any time when the President will visit that area he will stay in that particular State Lodge—and the hon. Member knows this!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think the question was: how many times has he stayed in that particular State Lodge?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that was the question which the hon. Member raised but—Mr. Speaker, Sir, all that I would like to tell the hon. Member is that any time when His Excellency the President will visit that area he will make use of that State Lodge at Kisumu.

Mr. arap Saina: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Assistant Minister to confuse the House by telling us something which does not answer the question, although he is not sure of the dates or the times when the President stayed at the Kisumu State Lodge?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The problem is that Mr. Munyi is replying to a question which has not been asked at all. Nobody asked, "When will this lodge be used"? However, the hon. Members want to know whether it has ever been used; and if so, how many times.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member would like to know how many times it has been stayed in I think what he should do is to table a question specifically on that because I think it is a different question altogether.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Munyi, I do not think that it is a different question at all because it is related to what you said before. Obviously in trying to find out what the lodges are used for you must have tried to find out what has been happening with these lodges—that seems to be the natural inference.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mwithaga!

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when a Minister, or an Assistant Minister for that matter, does not know the answer to a given question, or he thinks the question is rather hypothetical or otherwise, is it not fair that he does not answer that question because we cannot compel him to answer it?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is not the first time we have had this kind of difficulty; but there is no point in trying to answer a question which has not been asked by anybody. However, the best thing to say is that you do not know; but if you know, you should tell the House. If you do not know, there is nothing disgraceful about not knowing.

Next question.

Question No. 167 (1498)

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE GENERAL SERVICE UNIT

Mr. Marete asked the Minister of State, President's Office if he would tell the House the Ministry under which the General Service Unit falls.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The General Service Unit is under the Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to the answer which the Assistant Minister has given, it does not show clearly the difference in respect to training of the General Service Unit personnel from other forces. We know exactly under what Ministry the police or the military forces fall but we do not know under what Ministry the General Service Unit falls although he says that it is under the Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to ask the hon. Member to clarify his point.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Marete, could you make clear exactly what you are asking?

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we know under what Ministry the police force and the military fall. However, we do not really know under what Ministry the General Service Unit falls.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You were given the reply, Mr. Marete.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wanted to know exactly what the General Service Unit is because we do not know its work although it is under the Vice-President's Office and the Ministry of Home Affairs.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is the General Service Unit there for?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the General Service Unit is there to maintain law and order and it is well-known for its ability to discharge that important duty.

Mr. Jilo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Assistant Minister is not answering the question clearly because what I know is that the General Service Unit does a military job since it is only the police force which maintains law and order in this country. Can he tell us what is the actual work of the General Service Unit in the country?

An hon. Member: You were one of the General Service Unit personnel!

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, even the word itself—General Service Unit—implies that it is a unit for maintaining law and order and it has been doing that ever since it was created.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. If the General Service Unit is under the Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs, as the Assistant Minister says in his reply, why then does the Office of President deal with the question?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this question was tabled and directed to the Office of the President, which is supposed to do anything concerning organization or reorganization of the Government. I have, therefore dealt with it.

Mr. Kholkholle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister, in his earlier reply, said that the work of the General Service Unit is to maintain law and order. Does he mean to tell this House that the Kenya Police force are not able or are not efficient enough to maintain law and order in this country?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have already said, the General Service Unit is supposed to do the work which cannot be done by the police. General Service Unit is, therefore, there to assist the Kenya Police do the work which it cannot do—maintaining law and order.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that the General Service Unit is under the Vice-President's Office and the Ministry of Home Affairs, can he deny, right now, that the General Service Unit is under the Office of the President?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to deny that very categorically.

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am seeking your guidance here. We know that whenever a question is put to the wrong Ministry by hon. Members always transfer it to the relevant Ministry. How did it happen that this question was taken to the Office of the President and they now deny that the General Service Unit is under them?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Munyi made it clear that the President's Office, or rather the President, if you like is responsible for organization of Government and, therefore, he decides under what Ministry or department any unit of the governmental system will be put. So, they are responsible for that organization. Since you wanted to know under what Ministry the General Service Unit falls, then the Ministry in charge of seeing where these departments are put is the Office of the President and that is why Mr. Munyi replied.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am rather surprised because the Assistant Minister has just said that he cannot deny categorically— He has also said that the General Service Unit is under the Ministry of Home Affairs. Mr. Speaker, Sir, now

[Mr. Kitonga]

I do not know which, of the two answers is correct. If he still sticks to the fact that the General Service Unit is under the Ministry of Home Affairs, will he tell us what is the difference between the duty done by the General Service Unit and the regular police force? Will he tell us that?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already answered that when I said that the duty of each of our Armed Forces is defined. That is what I have said Mr. Speaker, Sir. I have denied categorically what was alleged by the hon. Member from Kitui, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, we cannot spend all the time on one question, because we have to keep moving on.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister in order to challenge me by saying that the statement I made is not true—that the General Service Unit does fall under the Office of the President, yet we know that this is the Ministry responsible for the General Service Unit but not the Ministry of Home Affairs?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is not a good point of order, unless you want to give some evidence to show that the Assistant Minister misled the House.

NOTICE OF MOTION FOR THE
ADJOURNMENT

MATTER OF REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 130: STATE
LODGES IN THE COUNTRY

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, due to the unsatisfactory reply to Question No. 130, if the questioner agrees I wish to raise the matter on a Motion for the Adjournment?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Any objection, Mr. Marete?

Mr. Marete: No objection.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am referring to Question No. 130?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Do not try to push us back. There is no need to do that.

Question No. 149 (1470)

SHORTAGE OF FOOT-AND-MOUTH VACCINES

Mr. arap Saina asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House in view of the fact that there was an acute shortage of Foot-and-Mouth Disease vaccines and realizing the current outbreaks of the disease—

- (a) what action he had taken to see that vaccines for all types of Foot-and-Mouth Disease are available in the country; and

- (b) whether there had been any vaccination carried out in the areas where the outbreak of the disease had been reported.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There is an adequate stock of vaccines for all types of Foot-and-Mouth Disease and all reported cases of disease outbreaks are handled promptly. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the question need not have been brought to this House. At present, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for your information, there is Foot-and-Mouth quarantine in the Soi area and inoculation has been carried out and the infected animals isolated. However, vaccination is not compulsory and only those farmers who wish to have their cattle vaccinated or those who can be persuaded to do so are taking advantage of the provision.

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister that there are adequate stocks of vaccines, will he tell this House why cattle entry to the Eldoret Agricultural Society Show has been cancelled for the last two years because of outbreak of Foot-and-Mouth Disease?

Mr. Wanjigi: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not hear what the hon. Member said? However, what was the county council to show?

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry for what the Assistant Minister has done, because I thought he heard what I had said. In his reply he said that there is an adequate supply of Foot-and-Mouth Disease vaccines; will he explain to this House the reason why there was no vaccination in time to allow cattle to be entered in the Eldoret Agriculture Show organized by the Agricultural Society of Kenya?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have just said, Uasin Gishu area is not a compulsory vaccination area. You vaccinate if and when you want. Therefore, the disease can break at any corner of that district and it is for this reason the Uasin Gishu Show was affected by lack of any entry because of the quarantine restriction.

Mr. ole Leken: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the understanding that this disease is very infectious, and through my experience as a rancher I have found that we lose quite a lot of cattle as deaths of cattle infected by this disease is as high as five per cent, and the yield of milk goes down by 40 to 50 per cent and, in fact, the infected cattle abort up to about 20 per cent or 25 per cent, what action is the Minister taking to see that he introduces compulsory Foot-and-Mouth Disease vaccination all over the Republic instead of restricting it to certain areas?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I have answered that question in this House before. We have already started to isolate areas of compulsory inoculation including, for example Nakuru District, Laikipia District and Trans Nzoia District. Our aim, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is to gradually extend the areas of operation until we can cover the whole country. However, I think the House will appreciate that it is a terribly expensive exercise and it cannot be undertaken at once.

Mr. ole Leken: Right now, for the information of the Minister, in Kajiado District there are so many places where outbreaks of this infectious disease are taking place. We are told that there are enough vaccines, let us say, type "O" and type "A" but another very new type has just come out, that is type "SAT"—that is, South African type two. What is the Assistant Minister doing to see that we do not get all these branded types spread all over the country?

Mr. Wanjigi: There is nothing new about SA 2 type of Foot-and-Mouth Disease; we have known it for quite a long time. It is only that it is not as prevalent a disease as the type O and A, but we do have vaccines for the same.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the word that was used by the Member who has interrupted parliamentary?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I do not think I heard the use of the word. Let us skip it for the time being and I hope it will not be repeated again.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, according to the Assistant Minister's reply and since this disease has become terrible in Kenya, is the Assistant Minister really answering in order to enlighten the country or is he just answering because he has to answer? Last week when I asked whether there was any person who could cure this sort of disease, the same Assistant Minister assured us that the Government was trying to get a qualified person in endeavour to see if they can arrest the disease—Foot-and-Mouth Disease.

Therefore, can the Assistant Minister tell us what policy they have now, since he is answering differently as regards the same type of question?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, I am sure the hon. Member can be of great assistance to Government if he were to bring this man to us because—

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you sit down, Mr. Kitonga.

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, we are investigating through our own channels as to what the hon. Member has disclosed to this House. As soon as we are satisfied that he has something we can use, I am sure we will not miss any opportunity.

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the seriousness of Foot-and-Mouth Disease in the entire Republic, and in view of the fact that it is expensive to produce vaccines for Foot-and-Mouth Disease, particularly of the South African type strain, could the Assistant Minister tell this House whether his Ministry is going to have any plans for subsidizing vaccination so that we can get rid of all the disease in the Republic?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, the price, in fact, of these vaccines for Kenya is already subsidized. For example, to countries where we export vaccine, it is probably twice the cost.

Mr. ole Leken: Arising from one of the replies by the Assistant Minister, could he tell us—because one of his replies was a bit vague, where he said "We are gradually coming to areas where compulsory service is not now being done."—how long it will take to make sure that all the areas in the Republic, particularly the areas which are potential areas for cattle, are covered? When will this be?

Mr. Wanjigi: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, I cannot answer that question off-hand because it is dependent on whether we do get successful results on financial negotiations we are carrying on, and also the requirement of (?) that will be required to cover this.

Question No. 150 (1476)

FUTURE PLANS FOR MARIMBA FARM

Mr. Marete asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House, since Marimba Farm in Nkuene Location had been under the County Council of Meru as an experimental farm for cattle, what the future plans were in connexion with it.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Marimba Farm mentioned by the hon. Member is a very valuable asset for experiments on cattle-breeding, the results of which are useful not only to the Meru people but to the entire nation. It is, therefore, my Ministry's appeal to the Meru local authorities that they let us retain the farm for that purpose. It would be detrimental to the nation to give up the experiment we are carrying out on that farm, and I would, therefore, also appeal for the support of the hon. Member in putting across the Government's view to the country.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, now that this farm was given by the wananchi of Nkuene Location and they were informed that the cows that would be kept there would be sold to them when they are ready for sale. I mean that when a cow bears a calf—I do not mean a heifer—it is killed instead of being sold to the wananchi there who gave this farm to the count council.

Now, Sir, what is the use of this farm—this farm for experimental work—to the wananchi who gave it free? He is saying—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Please sit down and wait for the reply.

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, I think there is a provision that if there are any cattle to be sold from the farm the local people would be given the first refusal. However, I think the most important aspect of retaining such a farm is not necessarily the off-take from the herd, it is the results that may or will be found in terms of feeding trials, breeding exercises to benefit the Meru area. This is much more important than the 20,000 or 30,000 cows that may come out of it.

Question No. 145 (1457)

ROAD SUPERINTENDENT: WESTERN PROVINCE

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Ebu. Not there?

Question No. 159 (1487)

TRANSPORT LICENCES' APPLICANTS IN SIAYA AND KISUMU

Mr. Okudo asked the Minister for Power and Communications if he could tell the House—

(a) how many people had applied for Transport Licensing Board licences from Siaya and Kisumu Districts from 1964 to 1970;

(b) how many per district had been granted such licences up to this time.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Transport Licensing Board licences are granted to routes which, in most cases, cut across the boundaries of districts. Therefore, it is not possible to say how many licences were issued for Siaya or any other district in Kenya.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that answer which I think is evading the question, would the Minister tell this House whether it is true or not that in the form for application people who apply do give their addresses? Is it not possible from those addresses to know whether the applicants are from Siaya or Kisumu District? Sema.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very difficult to know which district the applicant comes from by his address because you may have people living in Mombasa applying for a route that goes between Siaya and Kisumu or Nakuru. They may use a different address. This is not a yardstick by which we can decide. Therefore, we have not used it at all.

Sir, we do not have provincial or district records. So it is not possible to tell this House the number of people who applied for Transport Licensing Board licences from Siaya or Kisumu districts from 1964 to 1970.

Secondly, likewise, the number of licences granted in 1964 are not known. It is possible to tell the number of Transport Licensing Board licences granted on one particular route which, in many cases, will not include just one district.

Mr. Njiru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that Asians are using poor Africans' names to acquire Transport Licensing Board licences all over the country?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is one of the weaknesses that we are trying to avoid in granting licences to persons. I am very grateful that the Member has asked this question.

In the Ministry and the Government we very much deplore the fact that many Africans apply for Transport Licensing Board licences and they are given these by the Board, but they do not use these licences themselves, they hire these licences to rich Asians, Arabs or Europeans. This includes, with due respect, some Members of Parliament and high ranking officers, and so on. We would like to make it quite clear that Members of Parliament should show a better example to the citizens in this matter.

Hon. Members: Very serious!

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe that this is a very serious allegation made by the hon. Minister, that hon. Members of this House are being used by the Asians, which, in fact, is an insult.

Now, Sir, could the Minister, if he is aware of this substantiate his allegation by naming one Member who is being used by Asians?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I am sure, Mr. Ngala realizes that this is a very serious thing to say. It is a very serious accusation. Mr. Mutiso's request is quite reasonable, that if you know of any case you had better say which one.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Or withdraw and apologize.

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not say things without knowing them; after all, this is

[The Minister for Power and Communications] my Ministry. Therefore, if the Members will not be embarrassed I will table a list which will give details of Members, even Assistant Ministers, who are being used in this way. I hope the Members will not be embarrassed. I will produce the list.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! There is no need to get too excited. Mr. Ngala's offer is fair enough. He is prepared to lay on the Table a list of the people he is referring to and Members will have an opportunity to read the list for themselves.

This is a very serious matter and I take a very serious view of it. It is not something to take too lightly because it reflects rather badly on the House, if what Mr. Ngala says is true.

Mrs. Onyango: Mr. Speaker, will it be in order for me to request the Minister to include also the names of the Ministers when he lays the list which will contain the names of the Assistant Ministers and Members of Parliament?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What I understood Mr. Ngala as saying is that he will lay a complete list as he can get.

Question No. 160 (1490)

POLICY ON RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Power and Communications if he could tell the House what the clear-cut policy for rural electrification was.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government policy for rural electrification is two-fold: (a) to supply electricity wherever and whenever the demand is sufficient to justify a supply of electricity at an economic rate.

(b) To supply electricity at a non-economic rate where it becomes very necessary and subject to the availability of the funds allocated for this purpose, which is currently £80,000 p.a.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, can I then take it for granted from the Minister that if ever I come across a justifiable project or area which requires electricity, the power will be installed without any delay?

Mr. Ngala: Sir, my Ministry has various teams from the Power Company who are investigating areas where such projects could be taken up viably. If the Member knows some areas where such projects can be taken up viably, I would be very pleased to know and will investigate. Only on the merits of being viable projects, it would be provided under part (a) as I have indicated in the reply.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, would the hon. Minister please tell this House, when he talks of viability, why the people of Moruguru Location in Nyeri, where the power station is, have not been given electricity up to now and yet the lines pass through their plots and over their homes?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very interested in looking into the provision of power in the thickly populated areas such as Nyeri and such others, that have the economic capacity to pay for the power. If the Member would care to give me details of the area he is worried about, I will cause an investigation to be carried into this particular case.

However, sometimes power passes over some parts of the country and homes of certain people, and people wonder why it is not stepped down. The reason for this is that stepping down the power costs a lot of money and sometimes the local people who may wish to have it may not be in a position to pay for it.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Arising from that answer from the Minister, that he will consider a place where there is a need, could he assure the House that Kabarnet District Hospital which has no electricity will be included in the list of priorities?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as far as Kabarnet is concerned, Kabarnet is not economically viable as far as the provision of power is considered. However, under the amenities scheme we have put Kabarnet. It is under the non-economic scheme.

Question No. 161 (1491)

ORDERING OF POST OFFICE EQUIPMENT FROM UNITED KINGDOM

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Power and Communications if he would tell the House—

(a) why it was that post office equipment was invariably ordered from the United Kingdom;

(b) who determined, and how, the terms of the contracts of expatriate officers working with the Posts and Telecommunications Corporation.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) As hon. Members know, this country on independence inherited systems and equipment which had been manufactured in the United Kingdom. These systems are still in operation and they have to be maintained and expanded. Hence, the need to continue ordering equipment from the United Kingdom.

[The Minister for Power and Communications]

However, it might please hon. Members to know that the ordering of our postal equipment is now made the subject of world tender and any manufacturing country can, if it wishes, tender to supply the required equipment. In fact, most of our recent projects have been contracted to countries other than the United Kingdom. As these tenders are competitive it is almost a common rule that the most attractive tender is accepted.

(b) The recruitment of expatriate personnel and their terms of contract is the responsibility of the Corporation in consultation with the Communications Council in the Community and in conjunction with the foreign governments who aid the scheme.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, considering the size of Britain and its economy, would the Minister tell this House whether Great Britain will, in any case, compete effectively on a world tender for such equipment with other nations like Japan, America, France or West Germany, if there are no other strings attached?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, I want first of all to do away with the allegation that gives the appearance that there could be strings. There are no strings at all attached to this. The tenders, are worldwide; they are submitted by any country that wishes to submit its tenders; a corporation or a company from any country and on the merits of its quality and virtues and offers of cost, they are given. This is something, which I think the United Kingdom—we are not dealing with the United Kingdom as a country, we are dealing with different companies—are as capable of competing as any other country in the world.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister says that we inherited this system from the Colonial Government, Britain, why is it necessary that we continue with this system? If that is not the case, would the Minister not agree with me that we should now diversify this system so that we do not necessarily have to think that Britain has the best equipment?

An hon. Member: Why is it always Britain?

Mr. Ngala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, of course, we think we should now change to any other country which is suitable, which is capable of supplying us with the right equipment. However, the hon. Member would be the first one to agree with me that it is uneconomic to order such equipment that would come and the like "a round peg in a square hole", because of what we have inherited. I am trying to do my best—for example, Japan has supplied a lot of equipment to our Posts and Telecommunications system. This is because Japan has won one of the tenders and it is open to all countries to compete. I agree with the hon. Member that we should not be confined to the United Kingdom just because we are a former colony of the United Kingdom. We are doing our best.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Mulwa.

An hon. Member: He is not here.

Question No. 145 (1457)

ROADS SUPERINTENDENT: WESTERN PROVINCE

Mr. Ebu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I apologize for coming late.

Mr. Ebu asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House whether he was aware that Western Province has a fully-fledged roads superintendent; and if so, why Nyanza Province roads superintendent comes to supervise the badly gravelled roads in Western Province.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Kuguru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Questioner was late and I beg to reply. About our supervisory staff, Kisumu is the headquarters for Nyanza and Western Provinces. As for allocation of our staff, supervisors and so on, these personnel transferred from Western Province to Nyanza Province, and because of the extensive construction of roads, these people are being transferred in order to expedite the completion of the construction. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of transferring people to help the person who is there is often necessary.

Mr. Ebu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that the roads in question are not the major construction work that is being undertaken by the Ministry of Works, but are the roads where work is being done by some local contractors?

Mr. Kuguru: Yes, I am aware that these roads are being done by the contractors. However, whatever we do, whenever we give contracts to other people, our people go to supervise, and therefore it is necessary to increase the supervisory staff wherever we are constructing a road. I think the hon. Member for that area should be grateful because we are sending more people to complete the construction of these roads.

Mr. Barmalel: Mr. Speaker, Sir, why is it that an engineer from Kisumu has to work on Kericho roads which should be worked on by an engineer from Nakuru, Rift Valley?

Mr. Kuguru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the arrangement in our Ministry is such that we have about six divisions: Kisumu—

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, I believe the Assistant Minister has not understood the supplementary question because the question wants to know why a roads superintendent goes to supervise the other roads superintendent in another province; it is as simple as that.

Mr. Kuguru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I understand and I was giving a reply that our staff are allocated this work. If Nyanza and Western Provinces, which also include Kericho and West Narok, is considered to be quite a large area and if the work is to be carried out properly there is a need of equal distribution of work among the supervisory staff. Therefore, I have understood the question. In order to complete our work in time so that the roads can be brought up to standard, we have to move these people.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, it is quite clear that it is not a question of one roads' superintendent superintending another one; it is the badly gravelled roads that he meant. Mr. Kuguru has made it quite clear. He is in addition to the one who is already there.

We must go on now. We do not have much time. Anyone authorized to ask Mr. Mulwa's question?

Question No. 164 (1494)

CLOSURE OF TOURIST HOTELS IN THE COUNTRY

Mr. Kivuitu, on behalf of Mr. Mulwa, asked the Minister for Tourism and Wildlife if he would tell the House—

(a) why hotels which are supposed to be tourist attractions like Tsavo Inn and Dolphin Hotel have closed down or were about to do so; and

(b) whether the Minister is aware that the average African in Kenya cannot make use of the hotels in this country because of the high prices.

The Assistant Minister for Tourism and Wildlife (Mr. Jan Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The reply to part (a) of the question is: I am not aware of the closure or contemplated closure of Tsavo Inn and the Dolphin Hotel as alleged by the hon. Member. I am, however, aware that there is a temporary financial crisis in the Inns of Africa Limited, a company which owns and operates the hotels in question. This has since been resolved and both the hotels are functioning normally.

Part (b) of the question, Mr. Speaker, Sir, tourism is an international trade and most of our international hotels and lodges are geared to serve tourists because high international standards must be met. In these circumstances development and operational costs are high and this results in relatively high prices. These hotels and lodges are open to everyone and are not restricted for the use of foreign visitors only.

The price varies from one hotel to another and it is within these prices—

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are not hearing very well; I do not know whether the Assistant Minister is too near the microphone or not. We can only hear the noise but we cannot get the words.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It could be the fault of the microphone— I do not know.

The Assistant Minister for Tourism and Wildlife (Mr. Jan Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will try again. I am referring the part (b) of the question and I hope the Members have heard part (a).

Tourism is an international trade and, as most of our international hotels and lodges are geared to serve tourists, high international standards must be met. Due to these circumstances, development and operational costs are high and this results in relatively high prices. These hotels and lodges are, however, open to everyone and are not restricted for use by foreign visitors only. The prices vary from one hotel to another, and there is, within this price range, an opportunity for the local people to afford hotel services.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell us, because I could hardly understand him, whether it is true or not, that these hotels that are mentioned here are on the verge of closing down or about to do so? I think I heard something, here, to that effect.

Mr. Jan Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer is no; I only mentioned that there were certain financial crises in the original companies which were operating the hotels. The hon. Member would know that a limited liability company could have a change of shareholders and directors. However, as far as the hotels are concerned, these are functioning normally as before.

Mr. Kahengeri: Arising from one of the Assistant Minister's answers, is it not true that some of the hotels put their prices up deliberately so as to keep out the Africans because they know they cannot afford it?

Mr. Jan Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is completely unfounded. As I said, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are hotels of different categories in different areas. For instance, Sir, in Mombasa and along the beach, there are hotels which are suited to different pockets. However, I have said, Sir, tourist hotels must have international standards maintained and, therefore, the prices in these hotels are higher; but there is alternate accommodation everywhere in the country, which is nice and clean and comfortable and which would suit the pocket of our people.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

HARASSMENT OF KAMWENJA FARM SQUATTERS

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Why are Nyeri Police constantly harassing Kamwenja squatters by arresting them, including children, under the Trespass Act whereas they have lived on this farm for many years and some of the people arrested were born at Kamwenja Farm, which is owned by Mathari Catholic Mission?
- (b) Will our Government, on humanitarian grounds, order the immediate release of all those people who have already been committed to prison from Kamwenja Farm and stop any further harassment of the squatters until it can find them plots of land of their own?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) It is not true to state that the police are constantly harassing the inhabitants residing on Kamwenja Farm. Only 29 persons were arrested during 1970, of whom 3 were arrested for trespass and 26 for illegal grazing. So far, this year, a total of 37 cases of trespass and 15 cases of illegal grazing, have been dealt with. In all cases the management has complained to the police, who have acted in accordance with the law.

(b) There are no persons in prison, as alleged by the hon. Member.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect to the hon. Assistant Minister, can I bring him a list of those people who have already been committed to prison at King'ong'o from Kamwenja Farm, under this Act, and if I do so can he promise to get them released immediately?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my information is that there are no people who have been sent to prison from Kamwenja Farm, on these counts. However, if the hon. Member has a good case, and he can produce a list of names of people who have been imprisoned and the reason why they have been imprisoned, well, Sir, I am prepared to go into the matter and see what we can do about it

Mr. ole Leken: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would Government give first priority in settlement, on the understanding that these people are in a very difficult position, to these people who are being harassed day and night?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I said earlier, nobody is being harassed. It is wrong to assume anybody is being harassed. There are some people who are illegal squatters; illegal squatters, Mr. Speaker, I may clarify here, are people who—Anybody who was on a farm, particularly this one, before 1965, is regarded as a resident of that place. However, anybody who went there after that date—These are people who flock onto these farms, and bring their animals with them and spread diseases. Now, these are the types of people that we call illegal squatters, and we try always to stop them from interfering with the property of other people.

Mr. Muregi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that some of these residents, who have been harassed by the police, were born on that farm as far back as 30 years ago?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware of this, and the reason why the police took action on some of the residents who were actually born there was because of the question of illegal grazing. They went on grazing on other people's land; they broke the law, and the law took its own course—the law was applied.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree with me—he says we should not use the word harassment—that the police from Nyeri, when called by the Bishop, go to Kamwenja, go there at two o'clock in the morning, or four o'clock, and arrest even old women and young children? If this is not harassment—detaining children who are under seven years—what does he call it? These people, formerly, when the Italian Mzungu was there, they were not being harassed; and now after an African Bishop has taken over they are being harassed—Why?

Hon. Members: Why?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said if there was any police action in that area, it was due to illegal grazing and also due to people staying there without permission. Now, of these other things, which the hon. Member alleges to have happened in that area, Sir, I am not aware.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. arap Saina.

DISTRICT AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEES AND PROVINCIAL AGRICULTURAL FUNCTIONS BOARDS

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Agriculture the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) What led to the sudden stoppage of all District Agricultural Committee functions as well as those of their respective Provincial Agricultural Boards in the following Districts:—

Kitale; Kakamega; Kisumu; Eldoret; Kapsabet; Embu; Kericho; Nyandarua and Laikipia?

- (b) Why did the Ministry's Central Agricultural Board Executive Officer sack 20 African secretarial and clerical staff working with District Agricultural Committees and Provincial Agricultural Board and left one Asian, in Kericho District Agricultural Committee, and one European in Kitale District Agricultural Committee, to continue working?
- (c) What will the Minister now do to get farms which are in the process of being sold and are awaiting Divisional Land Board approval?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The District Agricultural Committee functions have not, at all, been stopped. However, as a means of control of badly needed meagre funds of the committees, the committees have been directed to meet less often. That does not mean less work for them: the directive is countrywide and does not only apply to the areas quoted by the hon. Member.

(b) The dismissal of secretarial and clerical staff of the District Agricultural Committees and Provincial Agricultural Boards, which was also a countrywide exercise, was partly due to lack of funds and partly the result of an exercise undertaken to determine the necessity of such staff who were considered unnecessary since these committees and boards could function without them since they rely mainly on their executive officers rather than on the secretaries and clerks. It is, however, not true to say that there was any Asian or European not affected by that exercise.

(c) The third question of the hon. Member does not, therefore, I submit, arise, as the District Agricultural Committees and the Provincial Agricultural Boards are functioning normally.

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that answer given by the Assistant Minister, and in view of the fact that he has stated that only sub-committees were suspended, is he aware that the Chief Executive Officer of the Central Agricultural Board, Mr. Bhandari, and the Principal Finance Establishment Officer of the Ministry of Agriculture did not submit their estimates in time, and as a result the Ministry has ordered them to submit Supplementary Estimates, which has brought about the dismissal of the secretarial and clerical staff?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Questioner is very interesting in raising this matter. All I can say is that the Ministry of Agriculture, like any other Ministry, formerly brought into this House what our requirements were. To arrive to the Budget which was debated in this House, the Treasury would have to go through each Ministry and reduce as much as they could from the Ministries requirements so that we could get a balanced Budget. In such an exercise any Ministry, and in this particular case our Ministry, particularly the Central Agricultural Board, was affected in that instead of getting £18,000, for instance, we were able to get only £10,000.

So it is not true to say that certain officers in the Ministry had forgotten or did not take their responsibility in producing the Estimates in the manner required. However, as usual, when we find, as a Government, that certain expenditure is necessary, we then bring in Supplementary Estimates. To this end I should like to say that the Central Agricultural Board, recently, has received £2,000 more and we expect a Supplementary Estimate to come in here some time so that we might get more money for the services we are required to perform.

Mr. arap Saina: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is your point of order, Mr. Saina?

Mr. arap Saina: Is the Assistant Minister not incorrect, firstly because of avoiding the fact that his Ministry submitted the Estimates and secondly, because of saying that this House will be receiving a Supplementary Estimate? What for?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This will be Supplementary to the previous Estimate and it is nothing new.

Next question, Mr. Kadir.

SHORTAGE OF SUGAR IN ISIOLO DISTRICT

Mr. Kadir: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Commerce and Industry the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Is the Minister aware that there has been a shortage of sugar in Isiolo District since February 25th 1971?

[Mr. Kadir]

(b) What immediate action is the Minister going to take to correct the situation?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Commerce and Industry;

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, may I first of all request the Chair to allow me to answer this question together with a pending question which is coming and which is identical to this one; which is asked by the hon. Member for Moyale—Question No. 272. The wording is identical. Could I take both of them together?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No; first of all I think what you should have done was to point this out to my officers. They would have sorted it out. However, when you say they are identical, I doubt whether they could be identical. I really doubt that.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): I just received the question this afternoon from the hon. Member for Moyale when I was coming here.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You are required to answer this question. If it covers the other one, then we will drop that.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): In that case, Mr. Speaker— Mr. Speaker, I will then answer that question and also request the hon. Members from North-Eastern Province and Eastern Province to note the answer which I am going to give because they are worried about the situation of sugar in that part of the Republic.

The shortage of sugar in that area was first of all—during February—caused by shortage of railway rolling stock. However, it has been worsened because of the ruling from the Kenya National Trading Corporation that the Kenya National Trading Corporation's sugar agents in those areas will not buy sugar, even if they have money, until they have repaid the outstanding loans which they owe the Kenya National Trading Corporation.

Mr. Kadir: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply that the sugar agents for the Kenya National Trading Corporation have failed to pay the money which they owe the Kenya National Corporation, will the Minister give a directive to the Kenya National Trading Corporation to employ other agents instead of those existing agents so that the people of that area can get sugar?

Mr. Osogo: I have given that directive and the Kenya National Trading Corporation is receiving applications. However, this time they must show their capability of handling this particular commodity and then we will give them the agency.

Mr. Ahmed: Arising out of the reply, is the Minister aware that this shortage of sugar is there because the Kenya National Trading Corporation gives the agency of the supply of sugar for the whole province to only one person and, therefore, if that man has no money then there will be no sugar? Is he aware?

Mr. Osogo: I am not aware of that, Mr. Speaker. Sugar is railed from Nairobi to Nanyuki Kenya Trading Corporation's depot. In Isiolo District, where the hon. Member who is asking this question comes from, there are two Kenya Trading Corporation distributors who have been handlers of this commodity. However, because they owe Kenya National Trading Corporation more than Sh. 500,000, they have been stopped from handling the sugar.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

PAYMENTS TO SPORTS FUND IN MURANG'A

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Wanjigi not there?

(Question dropped)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Murgor.

C.P.E. FAILURES

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Education the following Question by Private Notice:—

(a) Will the Minister tell this House why many young children who fail the Certificate of Primary Education Examination are not allowed to repeat even in areas and schools where there are vacancies?

(b) What plans or alternatives has the Ministry for such children?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. First of all, under part (a), I would like to make it very clear that no child fails Certificate of Primary Education and I must correct the impression conveyed by the hon. Member that the repetition of Certificate of Primary Education should be considered as a right.

I cannot possibly accept that because this country cannot afford it yet. However, Certificate of Primary Education repeaters are allowed to rejoin Standard VII each year whenever the position allows in individual schools. The criteria for readmission must, of necessity, vary from district to district due to peculiar local problems and the demand for places by repeaters.

[The Minister for Education]

I am satisfied that the right thing is being done by my field officers.

(b) It is not quite clear what this second part of the question refers to.

If it means what facilities has my Ministry devised for absorbing Certificate of Primary Education leavers who could not get places in secondary schools and teachers' colleges, the answer is: at the moment there are no facilities. If, on the other hand, the hon. Member means arrangements for Certificate of Primary Education and the successful candidates to gain places to repeat Certificate of Primary Education examination, it is permissible to have Harambee Standards VIIIs for repeaters. The need is for more classrooms and desks in Harambee secondary schools.

Mr. ole Marima: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister agree with us that the reason why children seek to repeat in schools is because sometimes they are too young to go on or they have not made the grade to be admitted to high schools and, therefore, they want that one more chance; and not because they can get a place in Form I and continue with life well from there?

Mr. Towett: The problem seems to be, even in my own constituency— The problem is this: those children who are in Standard VI, if, say, they are 50, want to move to Standard VII where there are 50 places. If there were less than 50 pupils in Standard VI, there will be room created in Standard VII because there were not enough pupils in Standard VI. Under such circumstances, Sir, considerations can be made for those who are young and who have not gained enough points to go to secondary schools to repeat.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, would the Minister agree that the solution to this problem of repeaters would be the abolish of Certificate of Primary Education Examination itself?

Mr. Towett: Earlier on, Sir, I said that no child fails Certificate of Primary Education Examination. That implies that, whether there is Certificate of Primary Education or not, it does not affect this. I agree with the hon. Member that we should abolish Certificate of Primary Education Examination but there will still be no room in Form I's for those pupils after the abolition of Certificate of Primary Education Examination.

Mr. arap Chumo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister issue a directive so that the headmaster of every primary school is responsible for processing the affairs of those who may repeat, rather than this being handled by the district education officer who may not know the situation in every place of a location? Could he give a directive so that the headmaster of every primary school is allowed to handle these affairs?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in my opinion, an assistant education officer will know which schools in a particular location have room for repeaters rather than a headmaster of a school where there is no room at all in Standard VII.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that these children are many, and arising from the Minister's reply that they should be given places in Harambee secondary schools, and the fact that the Harambee secondary schools are not enough and these children turn into rogues, drunkards and what-have-you, can the Ministry then consider extending the primary education by another two years so that these children are helped?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, do we extend it below Standard I or above Standard VII. I will be ready to extend it, Sir, when I have the necessary funds and when this House gives me that money.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We must go on now. Next Order.

MOTION

APPROVAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE
REPORT, 1967/68 AND 1968/69 PART I

THAT this House approves the recommendations contained in Part I Reports of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the year ending 30th June 1967/68 and 1968/69 respectively.

(Mr. Gatuguta on 16th March 1971)

(Resumption of Debate interrupted on 16th March 1971)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Shikuku, you were speaking.

POINT OF ORDER

CIRCULATION OF LETTERS TO MEMBERS BY OUTSIDERS

Mr. Tsuma: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to point out something here and this is in connexion with what appears to be the tendency of some people in Kenya here of circulating letters, writing to Ministers and writing to Members of Parliament, posting them and then we find them in our pigeon-holes.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday in the afternoon, when I went to my pigeon-hole, I found a letter posted in Nairobi here on 12th March 1971, which is last Friday and this is when we had gone home. This letter appears to have been cyclostyled, signed by some three or so members of the public. It seems to be addressed to four Ministers of this country whose names are: Dr. Mungai, Dr. Waiyaki, Mr. James Gichuru and the Mr. Koinange. Now, this letter appeared to be accusing or putting across some ideas. Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Tsuma, you see, this is the kind of thing which does not help because I cannot follow what you are saying. You came to see me and you promised to show me the letter before you raised this issue here but I have not seen the letter yet. So, what do you expect me now to do when you promised to let me see the letter first and then, maybe, I would know when you raise it what it all means. I am not likely to be of much use to you now.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I intended to follow your advice but was unable because the letter is still with Dr. Mungai. I will give it to you tomorrow, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Then the best thing is to wait until I have seen it.

Mr. Tsuma: He has promised to give me back that letter tomorrow, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Shall we go on now. Order, Mr. Tsuma. You just do what you have promised to do.

Dr. Waiyaki: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I heard the hon. Member mention my name but I happen to have a letter here which does not have my name and I think he is talking about the same thing. This letter, which I have here, does not at all mention Dr. Waiyaki.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, I think we should not let this letter disturb us now. We may deal with it later.

Mr. Shikuku.

(Commencement of debate on Motion)

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday, when the House adjourned. I was busy trying to draw your attention to the Public Accounts Reports.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I had drawn your attention to page three of 1967/68 Public Accounts Committee Report, when the Committee warned that there was an alarming rise in excess expenditure which was about four times what it was in the previous year and put forward some recommendations which I read out yesterday. Mr. Speaker, Sir,

I went further and looked at page five of 1968/69 Report. You will find that the committee realized that the excess, or the money spent over and above what was estimated for by this House, was to the tune of £1,093,165 and Sh. 12.59. Now, again, the committee writes and says this, and I quote:—

The Committee is very much concerned with this very serious situation where public funds are being spent without authority of Parliament. It appears that there is a complete lack of control over expenditure and the situation is deteriorating instead of improving. In fact, some of the Ministries have repeated excesses in spite of previous warnings. The Committee urges the Treasury to ensure that its supply officers are aware of the requirements and needs of the Ministries. The Committee, therefore, recommends as follows:—"

Again here, Mr. Speaker, Sir, they repeat exactly what they recommended in 1967/68. They repeat exactly the same, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I quote:—

"(a) The Treasury should revise financial orders to control funds in the hands of Accounting Officers which are non-voted amounts."

Mr. Speaker, Sir, that was the recommendation in the year 1968/69, and they said the same thing in the 1967/68 Report which I would also like to quote:—

"(a) The Treasury should revise financial orders to control funds in the hands of the Accounting Officers which are non-voted amounts."

Now, you can see from this, Mr. Speaker, that those concerned and those entrusted with the public funds are not taking heed of the Public Accounts Committee's warnings and they are repeating the same mistakes. The Public Accounts Committee has turned itself into a gramophone, repeating exactly what it says the previous year.

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of information—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): I do not mind being given information.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to put the Assistant Minister right here. We cannot say that the Treasury or anybody violated the 1967/68 Report because it has not been adopted. We are asking the House to adopt it, Mr. Speaker.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I agree with the hon. friend of mine in his information, but it happens to be that it is not helping the situation at all. The point I am trying to emphasize is that those entrusted with the public funds were warned. Whether the Report was endorsed or accepted, the fact remains that the money had been over-spent and they had been warned and they should not have repeated it in the 1968/69 Financial Year. This is the point, Mr. Speaker. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, it appears that the more we talk — And it is true; I have heard that some of the civil servants say that Members of Parliament can only talk, and that they make a lot of noise. But, Mr. Speaker, let it be recorded that we are paid solely for nothing but to put forward the views of those who elected us to this National Assembly and you can only do so when you talk and not when you merely sit in this House.

Therefore, we are doing our job and the civil servants call it talking. They spent public money and then say that Members of Parliament only talk; and when the worst comes to the worst it is the Minister, it is the Member of Parliament, it is the politician, who will be crucified and not the civil servant. It will be them who will say, Mr. Speaker, "General So-and-so, we are civil servants and we are prepared to give our services to any Government in power." Mr. Speaker, Sir, are we, in this House, going to sit back and say: "All right, we take the empty cans back and die on the altar on behalf of the civil servants?" I will say: No, because we are not Jesus. Jesus did it and no one else has dared to do it. It is only Jesus, the Son of God, who can do that—die for the sins of others. We are not prepared to die for the sins of those who have been warned and continue to misuse the public funds, thereby failing to give the people who elected us to this National Assembly what they want in terms of development and, therefore, they do not see any difference between the colonial times and now. Some of them are of the opinion that they were much better off during the colonial times. Why? Because, whenever we ask any question we are told: "There are no funds." At the same time it is quite interesting to note that funds to the tune of £1 million are just dwindling like that. When these officers are warned, they do not take heed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I go further and draw your attention to 1968/69 Report and I am referring to page five. When you refer to page two of the Appropriation Accounts under Public Accounts and the accounts for the funds for the year 1968/69, in this Auditor's Report, page two, under the heading: "Control of Expenditure".

Here the Auditor-General tells us that the number of excess votes during the year were 12 compared with 11 during 1967/68. The total amount spent in excess of that authorized by Parliament was K£1,093,165-12-59. Mr. Speaker, we have entrusted the duties to those who are supposed to execute what we have already passed in this House. However, the talk is "We are doing what the Parliament has passed for us to do." Yet what we have passed has not been done. The developments have not been done. We have not passed that they must overspend money to the tune of the amount I have mentioned. Have we? The answer is no. Now, who gives them the power if this House, the highest authority, has not done so? Who is that, then, spending this money.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of the hon. Members was trying to analyse the situation here and said that we are the bridge between the Government and the public. Then he went on to say that the House is made up of Ministers and Members of Parliament. If the House is the bridge—a bridge to what? To the Government. Then, who is the Government if the Ministers and Members of Parliament are not the Government but are just a House as a bridge. The Government must be the civil servants. Therefore, this is where, if we have not authorized them to do anything they go to this extent of by-passing this House because we are only a bridge and the Government is over there.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is going to be a serious situation here. A serious situation to the extent that we, here, the custodians of the public funds in this country, will be in very hot soup one of these days. My experience, and the absurd part of it, is that whenever anything goes wrong in various countries we have read about, (and this is contemporary history), it is only the leaders, the politicians, who always get into the jam. The others do not get into the jam. Therefore, we sit here saying hallelujah while somebody else is committing a lot of nonsense and you will find that some of them even paid money buying clocks and buying watches. This is not in the interests of the public. Yes, you can read this in these Reports. I did extensive homework on these big books here and if I want to go through them it will take me not less than seven hours. Some civil servants have bought watches and clocks. Mr. Speaker, Sir, a typical example is that you will find that in the Northern Frontier District, where we are always told they want progress and they want everything—listen to this: "In 1967/68, the Ministry of Health issued an Authority to incur Expenditure to the Provincial

Commissioner North-Eastern Province for K£10,000 to be used for building 10 health centres at K£1,000 each. Audit inspection, during the year 1969/70, revealed that although the whole amount had been spent, only two health centres had been built. Then, when you go there, as the Member for the area, they say: "Where is this serikali, bona haileti maendeleo?" "Where is this maendeleo which the Government has said? This is said after we have voted the money for it and only two come out. Then, how do we answer the public? The Auditor-General says that he has not been able to verify the balance of the money which was spent and on what it was spent, K£10,000 for 10 health centres, only two were built and all the money was spent.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I go further. As we all know, we need chairs in this country to sit on, but you will learn, from the Auditor-General's Report 1969/70, page 5, on unauthorized expenditure, the Auditor-General says—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Shikuku, I do not know whether that one has yet been discussed by the Public Accounts Committee. You cannot talk on it if it has not yet been touched.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Now, if you feel that I should not go into this one, I will go back to 1968/69, Auditor's Report again to show you some of the funny expenditures which go on even on chairs for the Government to sit on. They need those soft chairs which cost a lot of money. All the hon. Members are invited to my office to look at the chair I sit on. I do not think it can cost more than Sh. 20. It is as hard as stone.

Referring to the Auditor's report, you will find that on page 5, of Report for 1968/69, it says:—

"It is understood that the transfer traffic figures for the amount of customs and excise duties relating to goods transferred between partner states for the months of May and June 1968, were excluded in the amount of 1967/68 and those of May and June 1967, included in the account. As a result, a sum of approximately K£1,375,000 might have been paid to two of the partner states instead of Kenya."

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is how we lose money. The Auditor tells us that because somebody was not careful enough, this country has lost approximately, K£1,375,000 which, was probably paid to our two sister states instead of coming here. Then, we say, "We have no money". When we say that we want a clinic, we are told "There is no money".

Mr. Speaker, we have to look very carefully. I have taken pains to read these books and what they reveal would almost bring to somebody a very, very, high blood pressure, taking into account the needs of the people of this country. It is very absurd when we need and indeed we require those civil servants to whom I think, Sir, this Government pays very handsome money with all the hope that they will do their job so that the nation can develop if they play their part properly. Now, Sir, when they do not play their part properly and instead lose an amount like K£1,375,000—this is quite a lot of money if you put it into shillings. We say, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we cannot do this; we cannot do the other when we are not even doing our best to get money for whatever we have to do.

They will say, Sir, that Mr. Shikuku is critical of the civil servants. The question, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that Mr. Shikuku is voted to this National Assembly to safeguard the moneys—the public funds—of this country. This in fact, was said by Mzee in his Speech recently, and if I do not do that, then I am failing hopelessly in my duty. This, therefore, is exactly what I am doing.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I now draw your attention to the Ministry of Health, still on page 8 of the 1968/69 Auditor's Report. At the same time, Sir, if you look at the Public Accounts Committee's Report of 1968/69—the chairman will agree with me because I have done a lot of homework looking at both sides—on pages 13, paragraph 57 of the Auditor's Report, under the subhead, "Unauthorized Termination of Appointment" you will see what I would like to talk about, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I quote:—

"In February 1969, an officer of the Ministry had his services terminated by the Accounting Officer without the authority of the Public Service Commission. The officer, however, continued to receive his salary and house allowance even though he was not rendering any service to Government for the period he was improperly dismissed. The action of the Accounting Officer in this case is, in my opinion, highly undesirable and extravagant I have not been informed of the action taken to resolve the situation."

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, here is an amount of money spent on somebody improperly dismissed without the knowledge of the Public Service Commission: a body which is also paid—

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we heard yesterday about the same money and the same amount, and now Mr. Shikuku is talking about it. Now, is he not repeating the same thing? Mr. Shikuku should go ahead and tell us new points.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, let us try to avoid repetition: but perhaps Mr. Shikuku has more points to make on the same question.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am old enough in this House to know that repetition is completely against our Standing Orders. At the same time, Sir, any time I quote something, I have a different point to make. If only the hon. Member could listen to what I am going to say, he would realize that it is a different case altogether.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will find that if this is the case, many people may have been improperly dismissed. Even recently, Sir, one person from my constituency working in North-Eastern Province was dismissed to make way for a local man in that area to be employed: not because of any mistake. Now, Sir, how does it come about that a person is being dismissed for no reason other than the fact that it is felt a local man in that area should replace him?

Mr. Araru: Yes, it was all right because he had been imported. He was being localized.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, some hon. Members may take this as a joke: but how we know whether this particular person was dismissed and the local man was, probably, employed at a lower rate so that the balance went into somebody's pocket? Who knows? Probably in the Public Accounts Committee's Report of 1970/71 we may find something to that effect. This is a very serious situation where officers entrusted with public affairs are misusing their powers to humiliate and discriminate against other citizens of this country.

Sir, I go further and draw your attention to the same page, page 58 of the Auditor's Report, under the subhead "Treasury Reallocation Warrants". Mr. Speaker, Sir, I quote:

"The Appropriation Account for Vote 12—Ministry of Local Government—reflects overexpenditure on three subheads amounting to K£1,443,265".

Sir, I am only interested in overexpenditures which range into over a million pounds: I do not mind about those overexpenditures which are under K£1 million. If you listen to me, Sir, you will find that I am only talking of, say, K£1 million and something. Now, if you add up all these over K£1 million overexpenditures, you will be shocked at how much money has been lost.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I go further and draw your attention to paragraph 59 of the Auditor's Report of the 1968/69 as recorded in the Public Accounts Committee's Report. Under the subhead "Suspense Account", you will find, Sir, that there is also an overexpenditure. However, I do not want to waste your time there because I am only looking for those overexpenditures which are over K£1 million.

Now, Sir, you will find in the Public Accounts Committee's Report, on page 17, under "Awarding Contracts" there is a lot of funny games going on. With your permission, Sir, I quote:—

"In May 1965, a contract was entered into between Government and a construction company for the construction of two roads. About a year later, Government loaned a sum of K£70,000 to the company to save it from going into liquidation. About three months before the conclusion of the contract the company requested for a variation in the price of the contract and received an amount of K£100,000 over and above the original figure contracted for."

When you read the Auditor's Report—this is under the Ministry of Works—you will find something very interesting. Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the Ministry of Works the Auditor-General's Report says: "I am, however, assured by the Accounting Officer that he is satisfied that the Government's interest did not, in this instance, suffer and he considers the present procedure of adjudication and awarding of contracts adequate". Here is a case where an increase in the estimates was asked for by the company and then we paid this money—we feel that it was a very queer state of affairs because even the committee itself was not quite sure what had happened in the deal. It may be that somebody in the Ministry organized something somewhere with the contractors and then something was increased and, of course, the balance must go somewhere. We must never allow this sort of thing. There are many instances, Mr. Speaker, Sir, where people know where they are supposed to get materials, but they do not go and get the materials from the bodies which the Government is aware of but instead they go to the private sectors where they get the material at double the price or at over the above estimated price. Of course, the balance we do not know what happens to it!

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we cannot go on this way because we have to be very, very serious and say things quite openly here. Furthermore, an unauthorized expenditure—this is under the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting—An Appropriation Account for Development

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

(Head D12) does not include expenditure of £89,947 11s. 50 cents. which had not been included in the Approved Estimates. This sum was spent by way of credit and has been shown in the Footnote to the account. Mr. Speaker, Sir, how often have we had this exercise? How often have we warned those who are supposed to carry out our duties as far as money is concerned, not to overspend money in an unauthorized manner? Mr. Speaker, the exercise is not helping. If you look through this book and read it with the Public Accounts Committee Report, you will find that something is definitely wrong with our system. You will find that even the Accounting Officers agree and admit that it is through inefficiency and inexperience that these mistakes happen. Now, why do they happen? Who promoted these people in these positions, and which costs us so much money, if they were all that inexperienced and ignorant of the job they were supposed to do? Was it through the Public Service Commission? Are we to believe that the Public Service Commission has ceased to see sense as to who is able? In some cases, Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will find that somebody has been promoted even without the knowledge of the Public Service Commission! These are the types of people who make these terrible mistakes and which cost the Government a fortune. You will see that the Treasury even goes as far as saying that this man was promoted without the authority of the Public Service Commission and he has spent so much on his promotion, but the Ministry has agreed to do away with him. Why should people be promoted without going through the Public Service Commission? Is it not through, probably, "brotherization", "friendinization" (?) or "clanization" that we have hopeless fellows who spend our money and eat our money which we badly need?

An hon. Member: You are part of them! Tell them!

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the hon. Members talk here and say that we are part and parcel—God knows of what. But, I am the Member for Butere, twice elected in this National Assembly and I may come back the third time again because I do not come through deceiving the public whom I lead. I must give them the truth. The truth must be made known to the people of this country. We must not be told that we have not done this, that or the other. We have voted money for whatever the people want us to do, but the money has disappeared somewhere. Therefore, is it not only fair that the public should know that the money has been consumed? Moreover, it is not the fault of any Member, nor the fault of the Speaker in this House, that there is no progress because money is disappearing somewhere. We know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that even some of the civil servants—the Permanent Secretaries and others in the superscale—increased their salaries by £100 without the authority of this House. Do you see how daring these guys are! They consume our money and even increase their salaries! Then, we are told that politicians make noise, politicians wanapiga kelele! However, kelele yetu is calculated to reveal what they do in order to hinder the progress of this country. When we fought for the independence of this country, Mr. Speaker, it was for the betterment of our people and not for a few individuals who sit in the big chairs and who spend fortunes to buy these chairs. One chair, in one of the Reports, you will find cost us Sh. 11,000—actually over Sh. 11,000; the chair which swings round when somebody is sitting on it! Over Sh. 11,000 is spent on a chair; a chair that swings around in the office when someone is sitting on it!

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the public must know who is their enemy. The enemy of the public is not the politician who is always accused of making noise, but is those who are entrusted with the public funds, to develop this country, but consume it. That is the enemy, but they are always accusing us of being the enemy.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Sir, I have been very attentive when the Assistant Minister has been speaking and he has said that those civil servants who are senior in the offices sit on chairs which each cost Sh. 11,000. Would the Assistant Minister substantiate by giving one example of such a chair and say where it is because this is very serious?

An hon. Member: He knows it!

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): The hon. Member did not understand me because I said that money spent on chairs just for sitting on was well over Sh. 11,000; I did not say it was one chair costing Sh. 11,000. I did not say that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Members could only look at the Auditor-General's Report, they would find—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Mr. Shikuku, you will remember I said that if you are referring to the Report of the Auditor-General for 1969/70, then that is out of order. Our Standing Orders clearly state that you cannot anticipate the discussion of a report that will still be brought to this House; which will be subject to investigation by the Public Accounts Committee.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I read about this from these two books and I am sure I came across an amount well over Sh. 11,000 spent on chairs for sitting on in the offices. Therefore, I would like the hon. Members to try and read these Reports because they are about five or six chairs in these Reports.

(The hon. Shikuku laid the books on the Table)

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what I was trying to develop is that we, in this country, and I, personally, have no malice against anybody; but anybody, be he my brother, my sister or my mother for that matter, when he goes on—

Mr. Mwicigi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since the hon. Member has been talking since yesterday afternoon, may we have an indication as to when he is going to stop repeating himself so that he can give the others a chance to speak?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I cannot give that indication until he repeats himself while I hear. I am not in a position to say whether he has repeated himself or not because I have not been here.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member should read the Standing Orders; he just assumes that he understands them when he knows practically nothing. However, when one puts on spectacles like he is doing, he thinks he is intelligent; only to find, later, that he is not!

Now, Sir, I have not repeated anything and the Standing Orders provide that in these types of Motions you can talk even for seven days provided you do not repeat yourself. I wish he would read his Standing Orders!

Now, I am drawing your attention to the Ministry of Health again, on page 13: Lack of control over expenditure. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to read the rest, but this is what the Committee says: "The Committee considers this to be a case of complete negligence". I have not said that. I have not said that. It is hon. Mwicigi who looks almost—

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Committee considers this to be a case of complete negligence and failure to recognize that public funds should not be spent in this manner. This could, in fact, lead to Government losing money and sometimes being cheated that goods have been delivered when, in fact, they have not been delivered.

Mr. Mwicigi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member reads to us the very Report of which everybody has a copy.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The hon. Member is entitled to draw attention to particular sections of the Report. If he does not do that you will never know exactly what is happening.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am just trying to teach the hon. Member how to debate in this House, and he had better keep quiet.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Report goes on:

"This is a very serious practice which should cease immediately, and the procedure laid down by the Financial Instructions should be followed strictly."

Here is a case where they say that so much money has gone to such-and-such a thing, but the materials or whatever articles were ordered have never been received. If the hon. Member, who talks about unemployment, cannot look into this—being the Chairman of the Unemployment Commission Committee—and see how money is being misused, which money could help to alleviate unemployment, then he should have been the Chairman of the Unemployment Committee.

Mr. Mwicigi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if the hon. Member was listening when I was talking in this House, not taking as much time as he's taking, he would have noted that I said all he is saying, but I took a shorter period. That is my point of order.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! Mr. Mwicigi. I will not allow that kind of thing to continue. You will no longer interrupt Mr. Shikuku.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious thing because in this Ministry a sum of £4,209 was spent in respect of vehicles which were not delivered until well after the end of Financial Year, thereby rendering the certificate on the voucher that the goods had been received in good order meaningless.

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

Here is money calculated to meet "X" articles. A voucher is issued when in actual fact the damned things have not even arrived. This, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is very serious, and I agree with the Committee's Report that this is the very thing which should cease immediately. But, has it ceased immediately? You would be surprised, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to learn that during 1969/70—and which the Speaker has ruled that I should not touch on this again—the same thing is happening. Where do the warnings of the Public Accounts Committee go? I think that in order to save the country from these people—a few individuals and not all the civil servants—in the Civil Service who are lucky to hold such responsible positions as a result of our sweat during the struggle for independence, we must, Mr. Deputy Speaker, stop the warnings and the assurances we get, because throughout the Report of the Public Accounts Committee you will find that we have received assurances from the accounting officers that this would not be repeated and the situation is being corrected. This is found throughout this Report. That is what we are going to read.

The only thing we should do now is to change the question of warnings because even your own child, if you talk to him today, tomorrow and the day after, but he does not change, the only thing to do—

Mr. Nthenge: You have to beat him.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): I agree with hon. Nthenge. What to do is to beat him.

If we have been telling our civil servants—those who are concerned—from 1963 not to do this, and they are doing it up to this day, 1971, then, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are not trying to be like Jesus. Even Jesus got tired in a church one day and he beat some people and cleared them out of it. So we would be wrong, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we changed our tactics because even the Son of God was fed up one day in the temple and pushed out traders: he kicked them and overturned their tables. He was the Son of God. Are we not the sons of God? Is it not time, Mr. Deputy Speaker, our tactics changed whereby we stopped warning and did something to enable our people to enjoy the fruits of the independence of this country?

Mr. Deputy Speaker. I submit very strongly that from now on Government must adopt a different attitude whereby we shall punish these people and not excuse them any more because we have done that for the last seven years, and that is a long period.

In order to give my friends a chance to contribute to this Motion, I will not go through the whole thing, but I did very extensive homework on it.

I beg to support.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Sir. I do not have much to say about this report of the Public Accounts Committee. Before I go on, I have to say something concerning our area, if you may allow me, Mr. Deputy Speaker. This is in regard to the drought, especially which has affected our area. I wish to thank our Mzee, President Kenyatta, for acting, himself, through making a call to the public to help, and also the friendly countries to come out to help the people of this country who were facing a dangerous situation. I think our people are now in a better situation because of the appeals made. The people of this Republic of Kenya and other friends came out and contributed whatever they could and we are really happy. The people at home: the fathers and mothers, are now safe and they are very happy. The schools have also been helped.

If I may turn to the question of the Public Accounts Committee's Report, we have heard a lot already. We think that the report was given quite frankly. Regarding the Report of the Controller and Auditor-General, as our hon. Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office has just said, is very clearly put and we see how he is concerned over expenditures in every department of Government. However, no action was taken because they said this was a mistake. I do not call this a mistake because this is not a mistake; these are responsible people and that is why they were given the responsibilities. They were employed and given responsibilities because of their qualifications. Mr. Deputy Speaker. Then this thing was done and done by people who are clever. They are able to persuade others and say how they want these things to be done, and then call these things mistakes. They can say these things were not done from knowledge. These are not mistakes. When these people were employed, their certificates were examined and it was ensured that they were capable. So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I cannot call these things mistakes.

I want to know what action was taken, or will be taken, after these reports are produced, by our own Government. Sir, this Government is only seven years old and every time, every year, we hear that our Government goes abroad, appealing for help and negotiating for loans for development of this country. But in the part of Kenya I come from the northern part of Kenya, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the people have not seen anything new. They are just as God made them. Those who had camels follow their camels to date; those who had cows still keep cows. They do not know about agriculture, about health, about what goes on in which country. They just move about; some of them cross to the other side, some go to Ethiopia and at times you find them in Somalia. One year they are here and the next they are there and this is because of lack of education, lack of civilization. This all comes because of lack of money.

I cannot blame our Government, it has done what it can, particularly the Ministers and our beloved father of the nation. They negotiate day and night with various governments, with such governments as the United States, the United Kingdom. Every friendly country gives money which is brought here for development. But there are some people, somewhere, who have made themselves clever, those we have given responsibilities, everything, and they do these things. They have everything because we have even given them vehicles and this is included in the budget—yet they do these bad things and call them mistakes. I can never call these mistakes. These things are done in a very clever way. Some people live somewhere and make themselves rich in one year. Something must be done.

If this report is true and is accepted by all of them we should see that the Auditor-General's comments, which says that the matter has to be investigated are followed. All the public money that will be used by Committee when going to every province has to be paid. I can only say that the Government should, as a matter of urgency arrest these people and bring them before the courts. After investigation, and if these people are found guilty, all their property—I know at that times some of them change these things into and register them under the names of their mothers, wives or sisters. This is what has been happening since Uhuru. Mr. Deputy Speaker, some people make themselves clever and even borrow money from the Government and then transfer it to a second wife, or some other person's name, maybe somebody in Uganda or Tanzania. This is what is happening—

Mrs. Onyango: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, do I understand that all this money which is being misused in this way in this country is being used on the wives?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not think all the money we use in this country is used on wives. If that were the case, we would have little trouble. But I do not think that is the position.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I ask the hon. lady to excuse me because I was not trying to blame her. I was referring to those husbands who marry more than one wife. They do this so that they can transfer the money into the names of the wives. I ask the hon. lady to excuse me because I am not blaming the ladies at all.

Sir, I say categorically that this must be stopped. Some people have clever ways of doing things and these are not mistakes.

As the hon. Shikuku said, there are some people somewhere who are trying to confuse the public of this country as well as the Government. We are politicians—Some civil servants say, "Wanakwenda nyumba moja huko Nairobi, Kazi yao kufanya kelele." Some people say this. Whether we make kelele or not, we are elected and our job is to make that kelele. We are told to come here to legislate. It is only in the way we speak that we can legislate. That is all. If they call it kelele, that is all right. This is our responsibility to our constituencies, to make legislation through talking. If they think our talk is kelele, then one day this kelele this talk will go in through one eye and come out through the other.

I appeal to the Government to take immediate steps to see how some people became rich in a short time, within seven years. They have used all the public money while our poor people are still suffering, some of them have no food. Government is trying to do something for them day and night. Kanu promised there would be free education, free health and if this money had not been taken away in this manner our people would have had these free things, health and education. Today we have been told that so many schools will be taken over but nothing can be done. How many pounds and pounds of money have been taken away? Can the Auditor-General tell us how much money is lost?

We have been told that some money has been paid for furniture. Some money has been paid to somebody who has not been employed. Somebody else resigned and he was still being paid salary.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, now all these things are called mistakes. They are not mistakes. There is some responsible person who is doing these things. We know that in Government offices they go by paper and authorize people and these are the people who authorize these things, payment of this money, and so on.

So, Sir, these people must be caught and brought before justice so that we can find out who was authorized, how they were authorized to pay this money, to let this money get away.

Sir, I do not want to waste the time of this House. I beg to support very strongly.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to go into the analysis of figures, of this or that I am only going to try and ask myself, and ask this hon. House one simple question as to why this has happened. Why are the services deteriorating so badly among our civil servants? Why is this happening, Sir? This is my main question and I am going to try and answer and elaborate in my own way of thinking. If hon. Members agree with me, it is up to Government to try and bring in any correction now while the going is good because otherwise events might overtake us and we shall never be able to retract and make a correction.

Sir, without beating about the bush I would like to say that we inherited a very healthy type of Civil Service from the Colonial Government. Here I give credit to the Colonial Government. A civil servant was a civil servant. He had only to serve whatever government was in power, a political government. Today, however, Sir, our civil servants—here I wish to qualify, not all civil servants but some of them who are really entrusted with responsibility—are the people who have misguided the Civil Service as a whole. Instead of sitting at their desks, in their beautiful chairs—I do not quarrel with that if they were rendering service one 100 per cent—you find a civil servant has an estate in Nairobi, a ranch in Nyeri, a ranch in Lumbwa, a petrol station at Mtito Andei, has hotels in Mombasa and yet he is, at the same time, the highest paid civil servant. Is he really going to be dedicated civil servant for the benefit of this country, for the people who go about naked, for the people who go about hungry daily? Definitely he is not going to do that. He is only there to perpetuate his own interest and exploit the nation.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is a very serious allegation, that some civil servants have these things. We want to know who these civil servants who have the petrol stations, the ranches, and so are? Could the hon. Member substantiate?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The hon. Member gave an example of a hypothetical civil servant. He did not specify any particular person. He is giving an opinion of what he thinks is causing the trouble in the Civil Service.

Mr. Kanja: I thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for coming to my rescue. The hon.

Assistant Minister is trying to sort of confuse me. I do not say things in this hon. House out of the blue, I know what is happening, I am not insane. I represent a very big area and know what is happening.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I said earlier on, it is not for me to refer to those books but just dwell on one simple question as to why this is happening. We have created a precedent in this country, that the leadership of an individual is not measured by what he has upstairs here but the amount of money he can contribute, what he can buy here and there. This is a very dangerous state of affairs that we are living in because instead of getting people who are dedicated to serve the country, they use their own positions to enrich themselves. As a result they have no time to concentrate on their work. They add 2 and 2, and instead of getting 4 they get 5 or 10. And then they say, "Kenya is very good. Kenya is very stable. Because I have a Mercedes Benz and I live at Muthaiga, I am collecting rents left, right and centre I do not care". Yes, Sir, he does not care. I dare say, Sir, that some people, somewhere have even their bank accounts in other countries, not in Kenya, and they do not care what is going to happen. We had better correct this situation before things get worse. If we do not do that, then we are sitting on a volcano and one of these days the whole thing is going to blow up and the sufferer will be poor Kanja and poor Dr. Waiyaki, and the poor people in the villages who will have no money to pay for their voyage to go to India, Switzerland or any other country.

I know that if I make a reference like the one I am going to make just now people will say, "Oh, can he substantiate?" May I submit, and I want the Government to go and check because we are told the Government has detectives, the Government has intelligent collectors, as to what is happening. Our civil servants, including those in the Judicial Department, including our security officers, are they not really, some of them, involved in business transactions somewhere? If Kenya is attacked today, is a security officer going to worry about his affairs or is he going to start defending this country? He is not going to defend this country first; he is first going to worry about his bank balance sheet and about all his tankers which are running from Mombasa to Nairobi. We cannot afford to pay people for this kind of work, Sir. We have to correct these things. So much money is lost and every time we talk in this House, as other hon. Members have said, they will come and say, "Ah, they are making kelele. Hawa ni watu wa kupiga kelele." They are just about to say we are lunatics. Sir, we have to make them understand that we are the rulers of this country because we have the mandate of the people. We have the mandate, we did not just come in here, we did not just walk into Nairobi and then come through that entrance without the mandate of the people. Unless they change we shall witness events as has happened elsewhere. Before that happens, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we had better correct the civil servants, we had better correct the system now. If we do not do it now, then we are going to find ourselves in very hot soup, as the British say. There is going to be a tug-of-war between the Members of this House and the senior civil servants. The ordinary civil servant who has to be directed has to be told, "I direct you to do this. I direct you to pass this voucher", and the payment voucher might probably amount to something like thousands of pounds if not millions. This ordinary man passes this voucher with trembling fingers and yet what can he do if he wants to keep his job? If he refuses, he gets a sack. And, Sir, no one wants to lose his job at the present time.

Therefore, my very humble submission to this very hon. House and to our noble Government, the Government of the people which is charged with the responsibility of safeguarding the interests and shaping the destiny of this country, is to let the civil servants remain civil servants, let their loyalty be to Kenya and to Kenyans but they should stop doing any kind of business whatsoever. If they want to become transporters, if they want to become politicians, tell them not to do that under the cover of the Civil Service.

With these very few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have expressed my opinion. Thank you.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, first of all may I congratulate my hon. friend, Mr. Kanja, for a very eloquent expression of some of the things that I myself wanted to say.

Sir, looking at these reports, I notice that three people or three bodies are involved: one, is the Accountant and Auditor-General, the other is this hon. House and the third one is the Government. Now, Sir, I would like to start by expressing my thanks to the Auditor-General for the rather wonderful work that he has done in exposing the manner in which moneys voted by this hon. House has been spent by Government. I use the word "Government" instead of "Civil Service". I am very happy that we have at least one officer in Government who is honest enough and who is brave enough to say the truth, namely, that money which has been voted by this House has been badly spent. My thanks to him.

Now, Sir, my second body involved in this venture of misappropriation is this National Assembly. I am not saying, and hon. Members should not misunderstand me, that Members of this House have misappropriated money. I am saying, on the contrary, that I think this House has not taken the Report of the Auditor-General seriously enough over the years. We are, in my opinion, Sir, custodians of public money, we levy taxes from the wananchi, we also vote the money. We say how much and for what, the money will be used. Yet, Sir, some people go and misuse this money and we in this Chamber are content only to blame, only to talk about it and do nothing else about it.

I am appealing to hon. Members of this House, my colleagues, that it is now time that this should be the last debate about money misappropriated by Government because the very same Government comes to this House year in and year out asking us to vote the money, giving us specific items which it wants to spend the money on. Yet that same Government, which is partly represented in this House, goes right ahead, misuses that money and all we are capable of doing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is to do what I am now doing: talking about it. I am not happy about this. I feel that this House has the capacity, has the power—and I think there is the urgency—and we should now stop this kind of thing, and stop it once and for all.

For instance, we have had a part of this House selected to form the Public Accounts Committee. Sir, if you read some of the remarks made by the Accounts Committee, which is a Committee of this National Assembly, you will see what it says. It says, and this is on page 21 of the 1968/69 Report, "The Committee notes the action the Accounting Officer is now taking to recover this money". Now, Sir, nothing could be more serious. The Committee "notes". Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not know, but I assume English words must have some meaning, but I do not know what meaning any committee or any person can attach to those words. They are absolutely meaningless. This is a committee of this National Assembly, and all they can say is that they note and they want us to stand up in this House and discuss their report seriously. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when we select a committee of this House, we want that committee to be serious and, of all committees, this committee is so very important because it deals with public funds, public funds that we are getting out of people who are crying day in and day out that they do not have the money, they do not have businesses, they do not have anything. We get money out of these people, we give it to the Government and we select a committee to go and look into how the money is spent, only to come back to us and say, "We note" I am really surprised that hon. Members of this House should go and sit in a committee dealing with public funds which have been misappropriated and the only thing they can talk about is: "We note". Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is why I think we, in this Chamber, are not seriously concerned about the money that has been given to us from the poor pockets of this country to spend for public services.

Now, the third body involved in this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the Government. Now, I listened to my hon. friend, the Member for Butere who is also an Assistant Minister talking as if this is the kind of thing you can throw around so that you can push the blame away from the Assistant Ministers, from the Ministers and from the top civil servants. You cannot and hon. Members should not let the Ministers and Assistant Ministers run away with this loose talk that there is somebody other than they themselves and their senior officers who are doing these things. I am getting sick and tired.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the hon. Member to describe speeches by other hon. Members as loose talk when he knows very well that when it comes to the Accounting Committee, it is the Accounting Officer for every Ministry who is responsible and not Members of Parliament?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I am not aware that the word "loose" in relation to talk in Parliament is unparliamentary. I do not think it is unparliamentary. Maybe it is a little hurting as it stands, but it is not unparliamentary.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as I have always said, I have never had the privilege of being a teacher and I doubt if the Member for Butere would have benefited even if I had taught him. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I am saying is that I do not want us to excuse an Assistant Minister or any Minister who turns up in this House and pushes the responsibility away from the Government and talks in terms of civil servants. We, as Members of this House, have the Ministers and the Assistant Ministers to account on behalf of the civil servant and, in fact, to act on their behalf. Mr. Deputy Speaker, as we sit here now, we do not have any Permanent Secretary here, we do not have any Under Secretary nor do we have any civil servants here apart from the Attorney-General. However, we have the Ministers themselves to answer for what is done by Government in this House and it is about time these people—these hon. Members of this House who happen to be Ministers—faced their responsibilities to this House and to the people they have left in their offices. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am saying this because, for example, every time we ask questions here, these questions are answered by both Ministers and Assistant Ministers, and it is no good for them—whenever they feel like it—running away from their responsibilities saying that whenever money is misappropriated, they are no longer in the Government and that it is the civil servants who are to blame. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want this honourable House to face these responsibilities that there is a Government and that Government is represented in this House and it is the agents of that Government who have misappropriated the money that has been reported to us by the Public Accounts Committee. Now, hon. Members might ask that since the money has been misappropriated, what can we do about it? Sir, my first recommendation is this:— I can see on page 40 in the Report of 1968/69, the former Permanent Secretary of Finance making the following remark:—

"It is not true for accounting officers to come before the Public Accounts Committee and say, we asked the Treasury to allow us to spend so much money but they refused. We have the power and the law behind us. We do this in good faith and we do this in order to ensure that the Government is not embarrassed afterwards."

Now, there is the law, there is the power and there is everything but this is happening because the Ministers or the Government are not looking after their Ministries' finances strictly and, in my opinion, they ought to. Accounting officers are Permanent Secretaries unless some hon. Member who is a Minister in this House can stand up here now and say they have no control over the Permanent Secretaries. Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is not correct to say so and, in fact, in my opinion, rather dishonest for a Minister or anybody else in this House to blame the accounting officers because we are represented in those Ministries, we are represented in the form of Ministers and Assistant Ministers. Why is it that these hon. gentlemen are not making quite sure that the money we have voted for is accounted for in the way we intended it to be accounted for. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I gather from an hon. Member that we are a bridge. We are a bridge for the misappropriation of public funds. This will not do.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, my first recommendation is that from now onwards, I plead with Ministers and Assistant Ministers to go right into their offices and check day in and day out with their Permanent Secretaries how the money is used. We have no other ways because, honestly this money has already been misspent. Now, if we did not have anybody in the Ministries who was responsible for this money, we would have said that this money was stolen. However, we, of course, know that we have Ministers and Assistant Ministers there. How comes it that they have waited for years to find out this and even when it was found out, it was the Auditor-General who did discover that the money was misspent? What are these representatives of ours doing in the Government? My hon. friend, Mr. Waruru Kanja made a remarkable point that those Ministers, their Assistants and top civil servants are very busy looking after their own businesses. Now, this is a straightforward fact. They are too busy. If it is said that some of the accounting officers do not understand what is said in this book, how is it that these gentlemen are able to look after their petrol stations, to look after their hotels, to look after their big firms and account for everything and, at the same time, be able to count their shillings and cents, but they are not able to account for the public funds which work they are employed to do? These gentlemen are able to look after their own money, how come that they cannot look after the public money? It is not a question of ignorance because there is no Permanent Secretary, there is no Assistant Minister, there is no Minister who can be described as illiterate. They are all presumably literate people and one can see this by the way they are able to account for the money with which they buy Mercedes Benz and no illiterate person would be able to know how much money he can spend on buying a Mercedes Benz. How is it that they cannot account for the public money which helps to employ them. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, my second recommendation is that this House should make a law so that any Permanent Secretary together with the Assistant Ministers and Ministers— Oh yes, Sir, the Member for— I am saying this because I am not going to talk about the civil servants and leave out their representatives here. The hon. Jahazi says "Oh no" but whom does he represent in the Ministry of Health if it is not this House? What does he do on behalf of this House in the Ministry of Health? Although I do not know exactly, I know that you misappropriate—an incident that is unfortunate. This is all that we know from the finances only to find an Assistant Minister coming here to say that he does not know claiming. "How should I know?" Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not want to get myself involved with my hon. friend because I know he understands these things but his mouth is tied.

I would like to recommend that any Permanent

Secretary, any Assistant Minister or any Minister in any particular Ministry where money is misappropriated should be dismissed forthwith; and having been dismissed, he should be charged in a public court because it is no good saying that the fact that the money was not put in somebody's pocket— Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether the Assistant Minister would like me to give him some minutes because I have never known him to speak any sense here; but if he wants he can go right ahead.

An hon. Member: Address the Chair!

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am always addressing the Chair. I want these officers to be accountable to someone and not to wait until the money has been overspent and then we discuss it in this House. I want some action to be taken on this. I know that we, all over the country, are all concerned that the little money that we have should—

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is hon. Member in order to generalize his ideas without mentioning specific points? For instance, this is very irrelevant. The other day there were floods in Kisumu. Could we wait until money is voted in this House in order to save those people from being washed into the sea. This is how the money is overspent.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! At the time when you came in with a point of order the hon. Member was speaking about a Minister, an Assistant Minister and a Permanent Secretary involved in the misuse of public funds as recorded in the Public Accounts Committee's records. That is where he was when you came in. I wonder whether this is what you are referring to. This is where he was generalizing: all should be expelled.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was not referring to the other moneys. He stated that the Government should not spend any money until this House approves it, although that is why the Supplementary Estimates are brought in. What I was saying is this: if there is an emergency somewhere Government is bound to spend money to save lives and in that case it is something factual and not the other aspect.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You can rise up and discuss that in the House not on a point of order but on a point of debate if you catch the Speaker's eye!

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think there ought to be a law which should oblige the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs to be in the House all the time because not only did I not say what he senses I said, but he even did not rise on a point of order. I think there should be a law requiring the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs to be here all the time, as the Leader of Government Business.

In any case, Sir, I was suggesting a second recommendation which I think in my opinion would stop this kind of thing. Incidentally, Sir, this is what we call "contingency planning" in the normal business—the Government is a business organization. I think the Government is capable of some contingency planning and, therefore, there is no need talking about floods in Kisumu—nobody has raised that issue. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my third recommendation is this: we were originally told that public servants should be able to declare their interests before they take up appointments. However, I am not aware whether this has been followed, either originally or in recent times. Therefore, I am contending that because of lack of control over the interests that public servants have in the private sector and other areas they are incapable of concentrating on their work. Therefore, I would like to recommend that public servants—I am not saying that they should lose whatever they have saved or invested but for the time that they are public servants they should divest themselves of whatever holding they have; they can transfer these to their grandchildren if they are old enough, their brothers, wives, etc.—they should not themselves get involved in the day to day running of their businesses—they should be responsible for the day to day running of the business of Government.

Finally, I would like to say once again what I said earlier: I do not want this House to go away with the feeling that any money that has been misspent was due to the civil servants initiative. It was not. Civil servants themselves are involved but they are not the only people. However, we as a House are not directly involved with the civil servants but we are directly involved with the Ministers. I personally do not want this House to keep on hammering on the business of the civil servants because they must and ought to be controlled by this House via the Ministers.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. ole Marima: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Certainly, I am not going to waste an awful lot of time on this because much of it has been exposed by the Public Accounts Committee to which I must pay tribute to and also the Auditor-General.

I just want to emphasize one thing which I think could be tied in with what other Members have said. When we come to the question of blaming or to the question of trying to find out how we misappropriate the money and how we fail in this and I wonder whether the question of inefficiency comes in? I do think the question of inefficiency comes in. However, how does it come in? I want to pose that question although I would not like to be asked to say how. I think, we generally accept that we have been employing people that are related to us or are friends, not necessarily because they are qualified, but because we are here. If, for example, I am the Permanent Secretary, I am the Minister, I am the Auditor, the district commissioner and so forth I will get my close relative regardless whether or not that relative is qualified to do that job! I think that is why there are misappropriations of money.

I think, I was robbed here by the hon. Waruru Kanja because I was about to tie the question which he raised with the other one. He has however, done it well. I just want to mention the idea which I mentioned the other day and which was mentioned by many other Members that we have to have a body that would employ everybody without having to go through a Ministry. This should be an independent body which should employ people down to the district level. It must not only be in Nairobi but it must go down to the district level. If we have this body, Mr. ole Marima, for example, will not be able, if he is a chairman of a board, to bring in his brother who has done Certificate of Primary Education Examination and failed to become an assistant accountant. We must be able to do this and there must be an independent body to scrutinize what everybody we employ, in any position in any Ministry, does. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think this is the thing which I would like to emphasize and I would like to say that if this House is going to be effective or if this hon. House is going to have its work respected, I think the mistakes which are discovered by the Controller and Auditor-General and the Public Accounts Committee of this House must be corrected and immediate action must be taken, Mr. Deputy Speaker. If anything is going to be noted by the public that we are serious, it must be in punishing people who are responsible for the misappropriation of public funds.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I rise up to thank the Chairman and the Members of the Public Accounts Committee. However, I would like to make a few observations in brief.

The Kenya Government, of course, does not wish to have anything covered. Everything must be done openly and that is the reason why this House is here to safeguard the public money. When I rose up on a point of order, I wanted to speak about a matter which could be considered as an emergency matter. However, this is something which is very important because the members of the public would like to see that taxes paid either as graduated personal tax or indirect taxation or income tax are used properly for the public interest. This House is their safeguard. That is why His Excellency the President from time to time has referred to this House and each hon. Member of this House as the custodian of the interests of wananchi. Therefore, I would also like to state here quite clearly that the Kenya Government and particularly we, in Kenya, must be proud of ourselves because we have our dealings done publicly so that there is nothing hidden.

The hon. Members must have read the Controller and Auditor-General's Report which really criticized certain activities of the Kenya Government. This is the reason why he is regarded as an independent person who should scrutinize the way in which Government spends public money. I am grateful indeed, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to the Public Accounts Committee for having done their job. I hope that where criticisms have been directed those Ministries will rectify the mistakes which they have done in the past. We hope nothing will be repeated.

I do not agree with one of the hon. Members that the failure is because we have brothers here and there. I do not have a brother in any of these places that he has mentioned. However, if it happens that—and this is a very good example—one hon. Minister, Assistant Minister or one hon. Member has his sons and daughters in the universities how can you later on prevent them from being employed in the Civil Service?

Mr. ole Marima: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think the hon. Vice-President has misunderstood me. I did not say brothers or sons who are qualified, but I said unqualified brothers and sons.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I did not have any motive, but I wanted only to clarify the point so that everybody in the House can understand that one can have very many brothers and sisters working in the Civil Service who are qualified to do what they might be doing. What is required is actually what one of the hon. Members said—to be responsible and to make sure that wherever you will be placed you will be able to do your job effectively and efficiently. Therefore, the question of tribe and brotherization or whatever-have-you, do not arise, provided one does his job properly.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there are very many things which the Members of the Public Accounts Committee highlighted and I thank them for doing so. I have always stated here that Government appreciates genuine criticisms and constructive suggestions which would go a long way in improving conditions for the future. This is the purpose. I think the purpose of the Public Accounts Committee is to make sure that during the next Financial Year the Ministries concerned will not fall victims of the same mistakes made previously. This should be our role to advise them and make them understand what they are supposed to do.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to dwell much on this, but I wanted to make it clear that the Kenya Government does not wish to cover up any mistake and everything should be done clearly in the daylight. Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I just want to clarify the point that the hon. Vice-President, Mr. Moi has just mentioned and that is the question of the use of funds where an emergency has arisen, for example, as he referred to the dangers of the floods. There does not exist a contingent fund as under section 125 of our Constitution. It states as follows:—

“you can use the money under the direction of the Treasury and the Minister for Finance pending authority from this Parliament in a Supplementary Estimate”.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Motion before us be amended by adding after the word “respectively”—that is the end of the Motion—the following words:—

“but regrets that the said recommendations do not go far enough and have not in practice checked unauthorized spending which has been spiralling from £32,479 in 1966/67 to £1,159,212 in 1969/70; and being of the opinion that continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required; hereby resolves to appoint a select committee to inquire into and recommend immediate revision of relevant Standing Orders and penal and other legislation to empower the House to enforce its authority over public expenditure and deal effectively with accounting officers and Ministers responsible for any future unauthorized expenditure of public funds”.

[Mr. Seroney]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, hon. Members have indicated what is the most unsatisfactory feature of this, what is virtually an annual exercise. Both Reports before us complain of unauthorized expenditure. If you go back, Mr. Deputy Speaker, you will find that in 1966/67, £2,000 were spent without the authority of Parliament; the following year it rose to £136,827; the following year still, that is, 1968/69, it rose to £1,093,165; in 1969/70, which is the year before the last one, it rose to £1,159,212.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not know what would be the case in respect of the last Financial Year or the current Financial Year, but it would not be too fanciful to imagine that we may end up with unauthorized expenditure of £2 million. One would like to ask, Mr. Deputy Speaker, why has this unauthorized expenditure increased and is continuing to increase. This is because every year the Auditor-General points out that this is happening but nobody pays any attention; every year the Public Accounts Committee gives warnings and hopes that it will not be repeated and yet the same thing is done again. I believe, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the mistake lies with this House.

Last year, for example, we legalized in this House unauthorized expenditure of £32,000 which was incurred in 1966/67, that is four years earlier and I am sure that this Government or the Minister is going to come to this House to ask us to legalize the unauthorized expenditure which I have read out, that is; 1967/68, 1968/69, and 1969/70 because they have to do something about it. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, one of our difficulties is we are told that it is not practicable to surcharge. I know when it comes to £1 million, I do not see how Permanent Secretaries are going to be surcharged. In this connexion, I refer Members to a resolution of this House which was passed on the 13th March 1970 which was dealing with measures to curb misuse of public funds. On that day this House resolved, and I quote:—

THAT in view of the fact that the recent Report of the Controller and Auditor-General has revealed the deterioration in the control of Government expenditure as compared with 1967/68, Financial Year, this House urges the Government to institute stern measures to curb further unauthorized expenditure of public funds by accounting officers; to increase the auditing manpower if necessary; to take disciplinary action—including surcharge proceedings against those accounting officers, who have in the opinion of the Public Accounts Committee, failed to control their Votes.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that was a resolution of this House and it would be interesting to find out whether the Public Accounts Committee, before making its recommendations which we are now discussing, had questioned the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, who accepted this particular Motion in order to find out what steps he and the Treasury have taken in pursuance of that resolution passed by this House. We are always reminding ourselves that we are supreme; however, I wonder whether it is just not like a case of an ugly woman who is very pleased to be told that she is beautiful and she believes it even though her mirror tells her that she is ugly.

This is because, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, our Constitution—

Mrs. Onyango: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order for everything bad to be put on women and yet there are ugly men too?

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with all due respect to the gracious lady, there are certain facts of life and one of them is that the fair sex are more prone to flattery than the other sex.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was saying that under the Constitution, we are supposed to control taxation and expenditure. But as far as the situation is concerned, it is true that no tax can be imposed unless we agree; so far so good. However, that is the only power we have because we cannot impose taxes on our own initiative, they have to be proposed by Government. When it comes to expenditure, we have the theoretical power under the Constitution to control that expenditure, but how often have we exercised that power? I think the whole mess which we are suffering from is attributable to the first Parliament, our predecessors, which surrendered its authority to the civil servants.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we all know about the coup d'etat which took place in Uganda in 1966, but what we do not know and what is not very often realized is the coup d'etat which took place here in Kenya between the years, 1965 and 1968. This is because during those years the authority, silently, slipped away from Parliament into the hands of a few civil servants so that the power which we have in theory but which was lost to us by the previous Parliament, at least this Parliament should do something to regain that authority, then we can always talk about Parliament supremacy if not, then that will be just talking, talking, because we are not exercising our powers.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, I would like to seek your guidance in the statement that has just been made by the hon. Member where he says that the authority, meaning the Government of Kenya, has secretly taken away powers—

An hon. Member: Silently.

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): It is the same thing.

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir I—

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): I am on a point of order.— That we have silently and secretly taken away powers of this House and given them to civil servants. This is a very serious charge to a democratic Government and we would demand a substantiation from the Member.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order, Mr. Koigi! When we are dealing with a point of order, please, Members must not stand up on another point of order, before we have disposed of that particular point of order. The hon. Member for Tinderet is called upon to substantiate on what evidence he believes that this has been done.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, now, I base my grounds for making this statement on my assessment of events and the situation that has existed from 1965 up to 1968, and replying also, on the fact that this unauthorized expenditure started in 1966, actually, and that this Parliament, and the last one, has been unable to do anything about it. I believe, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that there are certain matters of opinion, depending on personal assessment, and I am entitled to reach that conclusion in my own reading of events, between 1965 and 1968, and as a former Member of that Parliament. I do not really think that we should be diverted into sidelines, to analyse the constitutional position of the Kenya Government today.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order, Mr. Seroney! On an issue like this, it is not enough to give an opinion; once you have made a statement which we regard as a fact, that the Government has diluted the authority of Parliament secretly or quietly or however else this was done—silently—it is necessary to give, at least, one or two examples, on which you base your own feelings, or your own conviction. It is not just the way you read it; it must be apparent to other Members in the House, whatever way they read it, that that conclusion can be arrived at.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my own assessment of the situation is based on the fact in addition to this administrative exercise or lack of exercise, the Constitution, first of all, was amended by a series of amendments, which made this process possible. I am not suggesting that the Constitutional amendments, which were passed in 1966 and 1968, to regularize the position and to increase the executive power of Government; I am not saying that alone amounted to power being taken away from Ministers. However, surely, Sir, I am entitled to ask them whether I am not entitled to believe that if they were removed today, it would not make any difference to the running of the Government of Kenya, because this is a statement which I have made, Sir.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, Mr. Seroney; the question of changes in the Constitution has been subject to a two-thirds majority in this House, openly and in daylight. It has never been done quietly or silently, as you originally said. Therefore, unless you want to qualify that first statement, you have not yet substantiated to the satisfaction of the Chair, that you are entitled to that opinion which you gave us first.

Hon. Members: On a point of order!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! I am dealing with Mr. Seroney.

Mr. Nthenge: Some Members want to help Mr. Seroney!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No!

Mr. Seroney: Now, may I understand what I am being required to substantiate, Mr. Deputy Speaker?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Ngala called upon you to substantiate that (Inaudible).

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have been a Member of this House continuously since 1963, and this is my conclusion as a result of— I mentioned 1963 because we attained our independence in 1963, but I was in the other House even earlier.

However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, during these years, I have seen that our Ministers, and even Parliament, have become mere rubber-stamps for an unseen authority, and I do not know how you expect—

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, Mr. Ngala is still pursuing his point of order.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to pursue this because the hon. Member has

[The Minister for Power and Communications] made an allegation, that this Government has conducted a coup d'etat within the country, silently and secretly. This allegation has to be proved because this Government is an hon. Government, with dignity, and it reflects an image which cannot be challenged throughout the world. Secondly, this Government—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! You should not use a point of order— Order! Order! Order!

All I was allowing you to do was to pursue where you felt that the hon. Member has not substantiated the facts as he put them, of a coup d'etat secretly and quietly. However, under that point of order, you are not entitled to pursue an argument.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I feel that the hon. Member has not sufficiently substantiated what I wanted him to substantiate, because, Sir, whatever changes we have made in the Constitution here in this Chamber, we have done it with the full confidence of the Members of the House, and we have followed the provisions of the Constitution to the letter. Therefore, we—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! You are still doing the same thing, Mr. Ngala. I will call back the hon. Seroney to substantiate a little further, rather than the fact that he feels he has stayed or been in this House long enough, to get the feeling.

Hon. Members: On a point of order!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! We are dealing with Mr. Seroney. Order! I have just explained that when we are dealing with one point of order, we must go through that point of order before we go to another, and we are still— Order! You are not on the same one because Mr. Seroney has not finished.

Mr. Seroney: I will quote a few examples, Mr. Deputy Speaker. One of them affected the Minister himself; we all noted this year that we took a decision in this House and we got the Minister to agree to do something, which was later on undone, without even the matter ever being referred to us.

Hon. Members: Tankers!

Mr. Seroney: I am referring to the case of the oil tankers.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear! You wait and you will get more!

Mr. Seroney: I will also refer, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to the question of gratuities.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Seroney: I will also refer to the question of gratuities, which our committee simply noted. However, hon. Members will remember that this was an action taken without the authority of Parliament, and that it was only when Parliament, later on, became difficult, that a Bill was brought in to rectify this.

Now, those are two examples of things done without the authority of this Parliament, and these unauthorized expenditures—these four I have read out—is also another example. Therefore, I do not know what you want me to substantiate.

Hon. Members: Shame! Shame!

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): On a point of order; Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to seek your guidance on this. When we say the powers of the Chamber here, are eroded, we mean legislative powers, and if we mean legislative powers, we have not eroded any legislative powers of this Chamber, as a Government. To quote the example of me, and the heavy tankers, there was no Act of Parliament involved in the affair. This is where, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we would like to have your clear guidance. Our contention, as a Government is that we have been pure. We have not eroded any legislative powers of this Chamber. We have maintained the dignity of the Chamber. It is true that some money has been spent.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order!

In the case of substantiation, it is only necessary to give such fact then outstanding, however it looks, as you believe supports the case which you make. The hon. Seroney has, at least given one fact which is that there was money spent by Government without first getting the prior authority of Parliament. If he stops there, he has substantiated enough.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. You have just, a little while ago, on the question of food and famine relief, said that there is a contingency fund. Sometimes in the provisions of Government expenditure there are some contingencies on which Government is allowed to spend money and then come and seek consent of the Parliament. Even where a contingency is not provided for—this is very important—even where there is no provision, normally, Government can spend money and then come and seek consent of the House. If the consent of the House is obtained, are we wrong? Is this not the procedure that is followed in many Parliaments of the world? This cannot be taken against the Government's conduct, at all.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I merely want to quote the statement I made earlier on. The hon. Mr. Ngala has referred to Famine Relief and, I think, food which refers and, I think, relates to an emergency, in which case the Government is entitled to use moneys provided in the Contingencies Fund under section 125 of the Constitution and then subsequently come to the House to regularize that expenditure in a Supplementary Estimate. That is the position where the use of money as far as the Contingencies Fund is concerned. However, the matter that the hon. Seroney did bring forward was the question of gratuities, which is not necessarily in the public interest, and which cannot be regarded by any state of imagination, as money which you can use from the Contingency Fund.

I would like to satisfy myself that, in fact, gratuities were spent under section 125 of the Constitution as an emergency. I do not think that was the case.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I would like the hon. Members to exercise their mind on is: how can we exercise this authority vested in us by the Constitution—

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, we may be treading on a very dangerous line. Are you now ruling that the Government should not spend any money, other than the ones mentioned in the Constitution, without it being approved in this House and that you accept that the Government, between the years 1965/68, has secretly taken away legislative powers of this House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I have not ruled anything of that kind. We were only concerned about the substantiation and nothing more. I did not rule that the Government cannot use funds available to them. That I did not do. I merely said that as far as hon. Seroney was challenged by the hon. Minister for Power and Communications to substantiate how he thought Parliament's power had been eroded, I felt satisfied that he had quoted one case where finance was used and then powers to use it sought afterwards—not in an emergency.

Incidentally, if it helps, I would like to read it. It is, in fact, in the revised Constitution section 102, but in the Financial Orders, it was referred to as section 120. I propose to read it to help the House and the Vice-President. It says—subsection 1 of section 102 of the Constitution reads:—

102. (1) Parliament may make provision for the establishment of a Contingencies Fund and for authorizing the Minister for the time being responsible for finance, if he is satisfied that there has arisen an urgent and unforeseen need for expenditure for which no other provision exists, to make advances from that fund to meet that need.

(2) Where any advance is made from the Contingencies Fund, a supplementary estimate shall be presented and a Supplementary Appropriation Bill shall be introduced as soon as possible for the purpose of replacing the amount so advanced.

That is exactly what I have been trying to say. The hon. Member for Tinderet did not talk about this emergency but he talked about the use of funds for gratuities. I think he meant Ministerial gratuities. I hope that is what he meant. These are the only ones that have ever come up for discussion in this House. If that is the case, they are not covered in this section. They were covered by another Act, I think the National Assembly Remuneration Act. Not this particular one.

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, is it in order for a Member speaking to be interrupted unnecessarily when he makes a statement which is safeguarding the House including the Ministers?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You are out of order. You are absolutely out of order. It is precisely because a Member must be able to interrupt that there was made a provision in our Standing Orders for a Member to rise on a point of order. That gives a permission to interrupt. I cannot see anything wrong in it.

Mr. Seroney: Now, coming back to the question of control over public expenditure, I would like Members to ask themselves what control, if any, they really have. If they have, how has it been exercised over the last few years?

Our Standing Orders provide for a Public Accounts Committee. However, this Public Accounts Committee merely does a post mortem, six months after the end of the relevant Financial Year. To bring the point home more than that, the Public Accounts Committee is now about to start considering the accounts of 1969/70.

When you do a post mortem, it means, of course, that the whole thing is finished and the person is already dead. If money has been misappropriated and mistakes have been already made, all the Public Accounts Committee is to do is to issue warnings, make recommendations and hope that these mistakes will not be repeated. It is, however, common in the two reports and in the previous reports that you find the Public Accounts Committee recommending that something should not be done and they hope that it will not be done again.

[Mr. Seroney]

Mr. Speaker, this reminds me of one type of parent who has an unruly child. When this incompetent parent has an unruly child and the child misbehaves and it is simply told "Do not do it again", then the next day he is also told "Do not do it again", and the child repeats it for the fourth and fifth time, then this incompetent parent goes to his friend and asks, "What shall I do with this child because I have kept on telling him do not do this, do not do that, but he still keeps on doing it?"

We are in the same position with regard to Accounting Officers. The Auditor-General has complained, the Public Accounts Committee has complained and this House has complained time and again that the Accounting Officers exceed their votes. Now, the question is. Where is the limit? I entirely agree with what the Member for Kisumu Rural said about creating a situation whereby Ministers will have to be responsible. I say this, Mr. Speaker, because we do not want to come to this House and start criticizing civil servants because they are not here to defend themselves. The people who are responsible for any messes that go on in any Government department are the responsible Ministers. Therefore, if there had been any misconception on the part of the Permanent Secretaries that the Minister is nothing and that they are responsible or they are the bosses or the bwana mkubwa, they can just go across to Harambee House and by-pass the Minister. I think this is the opportunity this House must take to tell the Permanent Secretaries that as far as they are concerned we do not recognize them. The people we recognize are the Ministers in this House. Therefore, it is essential to assert the authority of this Parliament by making Ministers individually responsible for anything that happens in their departments. That is why in my amendment I have included Ministers because we do not want to be dealing with Accounting Officers who are not Members of this House.

Now, the amendment also talks about revising Standing Orders. I will just explain in a few words what I had in mind. The Standing Orders do provide for a Public Accounts Committee. But this Public Accounts Committee—as I said earlier—simply deals with past accounts. They wait until the Auditor-General has issued his report with regard to any Financial Year. I think we need to consider carefully about creating another body or giving the same body—the Public Accounts Committee—the power to follow up its own recommendations because it is no good the Public Accounts Committee making recommendations and then laying a report on the Table of this House and then once we have debated it everything is at an end and then they proceed with the next report.

I think there has to be somebody to follow up what the Public Accounts Committee has recommended. For instance, this report has recommended in one case which I can remember, the surcharging of a particular individual as a result of unauthorized expenditure. There should be somebody to follow it up to know whether, in fact, what the committee recommended has, in fact, been done. Also, there are reports that certain Accounting Officers have reported to the Committee that they are taking action. We would like to know, for example, whether these things are being followed up and who is to follow them up. That is why it may be necessary to amend the Standing Orders.

Again, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is what I think is a contributory factor towards these Estimates and towards these unauthorized expenditures. Hon. Members are aware that they are almost losing a battle they have been fighting for the last one and half years about getting the Estimates presented to this House in a correct and proper form. Our Standing Orders may be amended or revised in order to provide a minimum standard which we are to expect when the Minister for Finance lays his Estimates before this House in April.

An hon. Member: But you are a Member of the Estimates Committee!

Mr. Seroney: The hon. Assistant Minister has said that I am a Member of the Estimates Committee. I am not a Member of the Estimates Committee. I belong to other committees except that one.

Now, coming back to Ministers again, there is one aspect here which I think deserves the attention of the House and that is this question of making Permanent Secretaries political appointments. You may ask what relevance this has to do with what we are debating but it is relevant in this way, Mr. Speaker. Since Permanent Secretaries are no longer permanent, it means that there may be an Accounting Officer in one year and then by the time the Public Accounts Committee meets, there may be somebody else in a particular Ministry because the Permanent Secretary has been reshuffled and sent to another Ministry. Therefore, it is a point to be considered whether our system of a Parliamentary Government as we have would operate better by making Permanent Secretaries political appointments that can be reshuffled along with Ministers or whether we should not revert to the old system where Permanent Secretaries were really permanent.

I referred in my amendment to contempt of the House. Now, although we are a supreme Parliament, yet we are in a position where we cannot do anything against anybody who shows contempt for this House. The House of Commons which is the supreme authority in Great Britain has powers to commit anybody to prison who is guilty of contempt of the House of Commons and no amount of lawyers can get you out once the House of Commons has locked you up. If the House of Commons has locked you up, you can run to any number of lawyers or you can go to a judge to try and get out but you will not be able to get out. All that is required is a certificate from the Speaker showing that you are locked up for contempt of Parliament. That is why very few people in England would dare to flout the authority of the British Parliament. Here we do not have similar powers for dealing with such people otherwise we would have locked up some editors of some newspapers. However, the point I would like to establish is that we should arm this House with the necessary legal powers to deal with those guilty of contempt so, this Select Committee which I am proposing that we should appoint would look into the law and look into the existing Powers and Privileges Act to see how it could be strengthened in order to provide for methods of dealing with those who are responsible for unauthorized expenditures. This is because it should be possible to punish those responsible, firstly, because they are in contempt of the House and secondly, a specific offence called unauthorized spending should be written into the Statute Books and the same penalties should be created as those applicable to the theft of public funds. This is because this is a serious thing, Mr. Speaker, Sir. If we do that—if we arm this House to deal with contempt and if we create a new offence for dealing with unauthorized expenditure—then I am sure, Mr. Speaker, you will find that these incidents of unauthorized spending will certainly drop.

Therefore, with those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move my amendment and I think it is being seconded by Mr. Tsuma.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Before your Motion, Mr. Seroney, is seconded, there are about two things we have to do to conform to our Standing Orders. First of all, we will leave out the words "Standing Orders and". They are not necessary because there is a Select Committee in existence which can look into that. The other part is where you say: "Unauthorized spending has been spiralling from some figure, 1966/67 to another figure, 1969/70." Now, it is contrary to our Standing Orders to anticipate the work of a Committee of this House. We have a Public Accounts Committee, which has not yet dealt with this particular report you referred to and until the Public Accounts Committee has dealt with that, we cannot introduce anything, at this stage, in this particular debate which refers only to reports up to 1968/69. Therefore, if you will change those figures to conform to our Standing Orders so that the figure will spiral from K£32,479 in 1966/67 to, and then you give the figure for 1968/69. That will be in accordance to our Standing Orders.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this figure was obtained from a report of the Auditor-General, but anyway, it does not help my case one way or the other, therefore, I will replace it with the year 1968/69 and the relevant amount is K£1,093,165, instead of 1969/70 figure.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to second the amendment—

An hon. Member: Watch your tongue.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, another hon. Member here tells me to watch my tongue but he should know that my tongue is watchful.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Committee requests this House to approve certain recommendation in this document. My question, Sir, is: What are the duties of the Public Accounts Committee? To endorse what has already been spent or to look at the figures and as well reject certain recommendations by the Ministries. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here is: Who authorizes expenditure? If I may go back to the 1963 Government, we had National Assemblies, some of us were members and chairmen in charge of Ministries within those provinces and regarding the spending of money, the provincial officer under that particular Ministry could never spend a cent or authorize expenditure unless the chairman of that particular committee in the Ministry, with a collective responsibility of a committee, under the Constitution, had authorized such expenditure. Why is it that Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not done by our Ministers in the Central Government. We know that the Permanent Secretaries are the accounting officers in the Ministries. The Ministers have never taken any care to know that the money which is being spent is the public money.

While I second this Motion, I want to say that this Committee, if it is the very Committee, should be given the powers by this House to be able to look into matters of public funds. First of all, before any amount of money is spent, which we now call "unauthorized expenditure" is put before this particular Committee, the Minister, who is a political appointee, should be in a position to certify that amount is required in his Ministry because of a certain job to be done. This is why we want a committee that has powers to look into the matters of public funds.

[Mr. Tsuma]

When we come to the provinces, we cannot help talking about certain civil servants because when money is voted for any development in a province, the provincial commissioner, in that particular province, becomes the accounting officer. When this money is not spent on any particular development, the money comes back to the Treasury. No explanation whatsoever is given in this respect to show that in a particular Ministry and for a particular development, in a particular province, so much money was not spent and, therefore, it is a saving. What we only see here is unauthorized expenditure. I have been going through these reports, Mr. Speaker, and not one Ministry has not overspent any item. Every Ministry has overspent. If we go to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs—

An hon. Member: You should inform him.

Mr. Tsuma: Who is that interrupting unnecessarily? You are responsible for all that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we come to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, our Committee says: "That was an unavoidable circumstance". Why unavoidable? Why are you called a Public Accounts Committee? You are called so because you have to look into the affairs of the expenditure of the country, on behalf of this House. We want to see a report where it says: "We do not accept this".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want, if this amendment goes through, and I hope hon. Members with the Ministers included, for their safety tomorrow, approve this amendment so that what has been recommended here by this committee, if it is honest, and if the committee told the truth, to go and inquire into this and tell us why. You will find that in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, so many pounds have been overspent. It is said that the accounting officer reported that it was because of insufficient control. If I may quote: "Insufficient control and that is why so much money was overspent in Embassies". They say that it is because of someone who was not able to carry out the job. Could we be able to know who this person was and could we not know why there was not sufficient control and who was to control? We only look at a Permanent Secretary, when they find that he has stolen, then, take him to court. What about these people who go ahead spending money without even referring it to the authority and the authority is the Government and is this House. One person authorizes expenditure of so many pounds and then the committee does not take to court that person who was not able to control the funds. Why was he unable to control the funds. According to this technically, it means that he is inefficient and that person must be sacked and if he cannot explain why, then he has to go to court. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want every Ministry, in this committee, to tell us why and where or whether a Minister ever points out that here we do not have the money and therefore we cannot spend this money, or that much, unless the Government so says. Sir, what is the work of the Cabinet? Does the Cabinet not have any concern over the public funds? Why cannot we know whether public money is ever discussed in the Cabinet when Ministers are together; we call that a Government?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another hon. Member challenged the hon. Member for Butere when he was quoting figures. I, too, go with Mr. Martin Shikuku, the hon. Member for Butere.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, you find that an ambassador in a foreign country, say, Britain buys a carpet alone, for cold weather, in his house at a cost of KSh. 45,000! Cannot we be told whether this is not extravagant or not? Could we be told whether the public money is not being stolen? Yes, Sir, we do not regard this as a clever daylight robbery without violence! You find that somebody goes to Congo Kinshasa where the flight costs the Government over KSh. 2,000 and they say ". . . it is because someone was not able to exercise control and therefore this is unavoidable." Why can we not recover this money when we know the costs for flying to the Congo?

An hon. Member: Even when they go to see their girl friends?

Mr. Tsuma: Yes, and even when they go to see their girl friends, they say they are going to do this and that.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to say one thing which is very serious to this House. This, Sir, I challenge the Ministers; every Minister. You will find, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when you look at every Ministry's expenditure, say, in Western Province the money is spent on State Lodges, money is spent on travelling, so much is spent on Embassies and as a result some of these people think they are going to heaven when in fact people at home have no money. Today, we have no money for controlling famine in the country and yet our own officers go on enjoying. Now, let us come to a province like Western Province. You will find, Sir, that money is voted to put up a police headquarters, but the provincial accounting officer does not spend that money and so you find that at the end of June, the money comes back to the Treasury. The money has not been spent. If that money was to buy a comfortable chair and a carpet for the provincial commissioner's house, definitely it would have been spent; and even more.

An hon. Member: You are right.

Mr. Tsuma: In the Ministry, money is voted for water development in secondary schools, but that is not spent and as a result children go out of school because of lack of water. The money comes back here in the Treasury. Now, Sir, if the money was to buy—

Hon. Members: Carpets.

Mr. Tsuma: No, I know what I am going to say. If the money was to be spent on who is to supply the books and equipment to schools, the supply that never goes to the school, it would be spent, and even spent more but because of the horrible mess, the money comes back here. Nobody reports to us in this House. This is a serious matter. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want this committee, if given the powers and chance, to act immediately giving us details. It should go through this book and tell us what the Auditor-General says. The Auditor-General, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the only saviour of the Government. However, the Accounting Officers, who are Permanent Secretaries, deliberately refuse to give us the light when they report to the committee. They do not say that so much money was spent without authority, and without advice of an auditor. I know the auditor's work. Sir, the auditor's work entitles the Government to exercise control by taking him to court to be answerable for what he spent without authority.

Coming to the Public Accounts Committee, I know that some Members in this House, especially the Leader of Government Business does not want to see anybody capable—somebody who understands his work technically—sitting on a committee of this kind because he would be able to challenge the matter before it comes to the House.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the hon. Member speaking to allege that the Leader of Government Business does not want to see a capable person sitting on a committee? Does it mean that both he and Mr. Seroney are not capable?

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows very well that I am not on this committee and yet I am an accountant.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Tsuma if you allege that the Leader of Government Business does not want to see anybody capable serving on a committee, then, you have to substantiate that.

Mr. Tsuma: Sir, as a Member of this House, you will allow me to say what is my opinion. Therefore, this was my opinion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Before you go ahead, you will have to substantiate your allegation.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is an opinion, and if I may satisfy the House, I do not withdraw. What have I done? Sir, when the Sessional Committee meets—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, you will not continue with your speech until you have substantiated your allegation. No, I am on a point of order! Will you sit down? I am asking you to give the House an example of a case where the Leader of Government Business said or did anything to show that he did not want anybody who was capable sitting on a committee.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this was my opinion and its still remains my opinion. However, if for the good of the House—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! No, I have told you that it is not a question of your opinion. You have alleged something and the assumption is that you know what you are talking about. So, if you do not know, in that case, you withdraw. Will you withdraw that allegation.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I want to make my point and I have made it—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, Mr. Tsuma will you sit down again. It is becoming a habit with some Members when they stand up to withdraw something to give a condition. Now, that is not allowed. When you withdraw, you withdraw with no conditions whatsoever. If you put a condition, then, it is not a genuine withdrawal.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I withdraw and continue. Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member in pointing out that the Leader of Government Business does not wish to see a capable person appointed on a Committee was, in fact, implying that the Members of this Committee are not capable. This is a very serious allegation. Is he in order to imply an improper motive to the Members of the Committee that they are not capable? I have seen these men at work and, I think they are all very, very capable men. I take a very serious view of what the hon. Member said.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, you are right, Mr. Gatuguta. It could be inferred by that, therefore that those who serve on the Committees are not capable by Mr. Tsuma's standards. However, since he withdrew the remarks, we will take it that he withdrew everything.

Mr. Tsuma: I might as well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, inform my hon. friend that I did not really imply that the Members on the Committees are not capable of what they should do on the Committee. I am very sorry if he thinks so.

With these few remarks, I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not know whether you have completed your speech because you can continue next time?

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to continue next time.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All right. You will continue next time.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT
EVICTION OF SQUATTERS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will a Minister please move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo) seconded.
(Question proposed)

Mr. Seroney: In supporting this Motion that the House do now adjourn, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to remind the hon. Members briefly what the question by the Member for Parklands was all about. In Question No. 42 (1259), the Member for Parklands was trying to seek from the Minister an indication whether the Minister would introduce any legal remedies to enable the squatters on a farm which is being sold to be given first priority.

Now, we have been told time and again that it is the Government's policy that where a farm is to be sold, those who are squatters on the farm are given first priority. This is what the Assistant Minister, no doubt, referred to as a Gentleman's Agreement when he replied to the question. Now, the trouble with a gentleman's agreement, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that it only operates as long as both parties are gentlemen. This is not always the case because some of the people who are selling land are doing it with a view to raising money and leaving the country. We have had occasions when a non-citizen wants to sell the land he has been occupying, but because somebody from outside has offered him more money than the squatters, then he sells to the outsider even though it means that the squatters will thereby be evicted because they could not produce as much money as the outsider. In any case, this is only a gentleman's agreement which has no legal effect and it is quite clear that something has to be done; some legal remedy has to be provided for in order to place this so-called "gentleman's agreement" on a legal footing, in order to carry out what is, in fact, the policy of the Government. I am satisfied that it is and has been the policy of the Government that squatters should be given first priority. However, in a showdown everybody will be the first to remind you that this agreement has no legal force and that you cannot enforce it, in view of the existence of the concept of willing-buyer, willing-seller, you cannot force a land-owner to sell his land to "A" instead of "B" simply because there is a gentleman's agreement.

Now, Sir, the answer given by the Assistant Minister amounted, in fact, to saying that I, the questioner, should bring to this House a Private Member's Bill. In fact, that is a summary of what the Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement said. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister knows very well that introducing Private Member's Bills is a costly affair and that the Government is better placed to bring Bills into this House at Government expense. If the Government wants to give its policy legal effect, the best way they can do it is to co-operate with the Member for Parklands and introduce a Bill into this House in order to place the gentleman's agreement on a legal footing. That is why I considered his reply unsatisfactory because this problem is not a problem confined to any one place. You will find squatters in the Rift Valley; you will find squatters in the Central Province; you will find squatters in the Eastern Province and you will find squatters everywhere where the wazungus were given land before. I would like the Minister concerned to have a second trial at giving a more satisfactory reply than the one he gave me; that, if I wanted, I could bring a Bill before this House. Of course, I know I can do it but the Government is in a better position to do it.

Therefore, with those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the Motion.

Mr. Kivuitu: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for giving me this opportunity to speak in support of this Motion. I think the Motion is very clear and very simple. The answer given by the Assistant Minister was very unsatisfactory on various grounds, most of which have been covered by the first speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister reminded us of the constitutional provisions which provide that somebody's property is protected. I would like, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to quote the section of the Constitution which covers that so as to indicate the obvious intention of the makers of this Constitution. Of course, it was brought to us here and then we adopted it. Now, section 75 subsection (1) says:—

"No property of any description shall be compulsorily taken possession of, and no interest in or right over property of any description shall be compulsorily acquired, except where the following conditions are satisfied, that is to say:—"

Then, it goes on to give conditions. However, it goes on in subsection (4) to say:—

[Mr. Kivuitu]

"No person who is entitled to compensation under this section shall be prevented from remitting within a reasonable time after he has received any payment of that compensation, the whole of that payment (free from any deduction, charge or tax made or levied in respect of its remission) to any country of his choice outside Kenya".

Now, is it not clear that this section was not meant for people who are actually citizens and domiciled in this country. It was only meant to protect the foreigners who own property here. Is that not really the purpose of this Constitution and especially this particular section of the Constitution? If it is, then, are we here, as a Parliament, to protect the property of foreigners or the property of our own people? This is the question. And the Assistant Minister had the guts to stand up in this hon. House and begin reciting constitutions which do not exist! The Constitution protects the property of foreigners. That is why we say why cannot the Government devise a piece of legislation within the Constitution—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the hon. Member to challenge that the Constitution does not exist when he has it with him and again is it not true that he was sworn in in order to defend and protect the Constitution which he is now challenging?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, he is referring to a section of the Constitution which he does not agree with.

Mr. Kivuitu: I remember, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was the same Assistant Minister who used to be the protector of squatters but he has now become the enemy of the squatters.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the point I am trying to make is that it is possible for a provision to be made in our law, even if it needs amending the Constitution. We still can amend this Constitution. This is not the Bible. Even the Bibles these days are being produced in a version which reads like a novel. If the Bible can be amended, we can also amend this Constitution. Even the Koran's words have been proved wrong, that people cannot go to the moon. Some people have gone to the moon. This Constitution is not a Bible and it is not a Koran. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is possible to amend the Constitution so that the rights of our own people are covered and protected. Their rights are very simple. This is their country but the foreigners found this land here. Why did God not create the Mzungu here. Why did he come here and take our land which was our own land? We should be able to have the courage to introduce amendments to the Constitution which will definitely cater for the owners of this country—they are the only wananchi who are squatters.

The other thing which the Assistant Minister mentioned in his reply was that if in effect we amend this we will be allowing a servant—because he has stayed in your house for a long time—to have a right in that house. Obviously, a servant is not a squatter. I do not know where the Assistant Minister learnt his English! A house servant or a servant living in the servant's quarters is not a squatter. If he is a squatter there, then he must be a farmer, and being a farmer, all his squatters are his servants. I suppose they also cook—which means they actually do more than they are allowed by the law, and he is breaking the labour law.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the reply by the Assistant Minister was short and showed a lot of lack of interest in the welfare of the people of this country. It is because of this that this matter was raised.

All we are asking the Assistant Minister—I am sure, if it had been given to the Minister for "Action", Mr. Angaine, who is always sympathetic with the poor, the squatters and the landless, I am sure we will definitely get somewhere with this idea which we are trying to suggest to Government. Please try to work out an arrangement—Do not just tell us that we must have a gentleman's agreement. A gentleman's agreement with a buccaneer who is leaving our country and going away with all the property without paying tax, charges and levies because the Constitution says so!

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, whereas I would not like to quarrel with the Assistant Minister who replied to this question, I would like to advise him because he appears to have not been all that conversant with what is taking place in this country.

We have the Commissioner for Squatters in this country, and this Commissioner is taking care of the interests of our people, who have been subjected to being squatters in their own country. This happens, Sir, as a result of having allowed ourselves, through the so-called Constitution, I am calling it that because if it is—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Is it in order for the Member to refer to our Constitution as the "so-called"?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, it is not quite in order, Mr. Karungaru. As Mr. Kariuki reminded another hon. Member, all the Members here swore to defend the Constitution. That is, the Constitution of the Republic of Kenya. You may disagree with sections of the Constitution, but it is up to you to see to it that they are amended. But the Constitution as a whole should not be challenged.

Mr. Karungaru: This section of the Constitution is the one which is supposed to be referred to as the "so-called", and it should be amended with immediate effect.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, why do we say this? It is because instead of helping our own indigenous people we are thinking of protecting members of other nations, who are foreigners. Mr. Speaker, for how long are we going to be dominated by the philosophy of the foreigners in this country? If it is the question of a colonial hangover we would like to advise the Assistant Minister and the Minister in charge of the Ministry to change this kind of negative attitude and to help our people who have mandated them and ourselves to be in this House. Without them, gentlemen, we could never be here.

Let us be honest to ourselves and let us not pretend that we do not know the existing problems facing our own people. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have to behave like hon. gentlemen who know the problems of their own people, and it is only when we do so that we shall solve the problems now facing this country. After all, Mr. Speaker, why should we safeguard some sections of the Constitution if they do not safeguard the interests of our people. This is the question and if this situation is rectified, you will surely, Mr. Speaker, Sir, never hear an hon. Member standing up in this House trying to challenge any section of our Constitution that is supposed to take care of our people. However, this is not the case, because some sections in the Constitution do not take care of our people but rather they safeguard the positions and interests of people who do not have any interest in this country other than milking this country and sucking our blood and I do not know until what time they will do this. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it must be established that we have suffered enough and we cannot tolerate to suffer any more. It is now time for us to say that those who have never suffered should be subjected to suffering and those who have been suffering should be set free. They should be freed from sufferings of this kind and it is only in so doing that we can be regarded as proper custodians of our people in a House like this which I consider to be very honourable.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are speaking with bitterness simply because the situation has already provoked us and we do not want hon. Members who are sitting there to defend what they know pretty well is not for the interest of this country. If they are the defenders of falsehood which is known, they should start changing their attitude and know this; if they are not going to do it in good time, they will be forced to do it and if they refuse, they will be made do it when they do not want to. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was only this afternoon that we had a debate in which we have been quarrelling with the civil servants as if they are the people who are making all the mess. The Ministers are the people who are supposed to be put on the carpet and be challenged and at the same time be told that they are becoming reproachful and that they are running away from their own responsibilities. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is why the nation is now in a state of instability, and unless this is corrected and corrected in time, it will provoke us tomorrow. I only hope that we are living within the means of our own understanding and not under any hypothetical philosophy which these Ministers are trying to bring to this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. Komen: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for giving me these few minutes to support the Motion. I am very pleased that even people from Embakasi who look after planes know very well that we have a problem of squatters. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we who represent squatters, experience a great deal of difficulties because the Ministers themselves who recognize this gentleman's agreement are causing a lot of problems to us Members who represent farming areas. Mr. Speaker, you find that when squatters settle on a given piece of land, they are troubled by outsiders and these outsiders are the people who do not come to seek help from us but instead keep saying, "You are the Government and you did say that when such-and-such a farm is sold, you are the first people to be considered for that farm". However, Mr. Speaker, even if these people write a letter to the Divisional Land Board, they will never be considered. I do not know what the Minister was doing when he created this post of Commissioner of Lands. I think this post should either be cancelled or they do something about these people. We cannot go on seeing you fill books and files with names of people numbering into thousands and thousands and yet you cannot do anything for them. If you are trying to create jobs for your friends in the offices, you had better say so instead of making people line up for about ten days trying to register them and telling them that this honourable Government of ours will do something for them. Unless the Minister comes out with a solution to this sooner or later we are going to tell the wananchi that the Ministers who are here are to protect the foreigners but not the ordinary Africans, the wananchi. So, we are warning the Ministers because we are fed up with all the implications involved when you are quoting something, clinging on the civil servants.

With these few remarks, I beg to support the Motion.

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angaine): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the two gentlemen, the Mover and the Seconder of this Motion are knowledgeable people who are lawyers—though I believe—but they must understand something: they are the lawmakers in this Parliament and whatever law is made in this Parliament should be stuck to otherwise you will see me as a Minister facing the music in the court because I have not obeyed the law. Then, I will come to you and say, “My lawyers, defend me and I will give you money.” Unless the Constitution is changed in this Parliament there is nothing which the Minister for Lands and Settlement or the Government can do because we are there to respect our Constitution.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, without wasting the time of this House this is the Government's reply: The suggestion that the squatters or persons residing on farms other than the legal owners should be given an absolute right of ownership ignores the fact that the private land can only be taken from its registered owner in accordance with the provisions of the Lands Acquisition Act of 1968; the Limitation of Actions Act 1968 No. 121 and under certain circumstances the Agriculture Act, Cap. 318; and would be contrary to the safeguard in respect to property contained in section 75 of the Constitution of Kenya Act 1969—the one which you have just read to us. In the circumstances outlined by the hon. Member the persons concerned would appear to have been on the land with the consent of the owner; and consequently they could not acquire rights under the Limitation of Actions Act 1968. Indeed, it would be most unjust if in return for permitting the persons to reside on the land by the owners such persons become the owners of the land under the suggested legislation. The immediate result of the introduction of a Bill of the nature proposed would be that all landowners would be forced to endeavour to remove all squatters and licensees from their land for their own protection and ensure that no squatter comes onto the land in future. This would, of course, aggravate the situation seriously; furthermore such proposed legislation would nullify to a considerable extent the usefulness and purpose of the land and lead to most undesirable fragmentation of the agricultural land. The Government sympathizes with the problem of labourers who have been residents on a particular farm for a considerable number of years and who are required to move at a short notice. However, such a situation must be considered from all aspects and unless the legislators consider the Limitation of Actions Act 1968, inadequate, as Government does not subscribe to this view, it would be undesirable to attempt to introduce such a legislation. In order that we can meet the demands of the squatters and to do away with farm labour we should be given an opportunity of settling wananchi in good places. As the hon. Member is aware the Government is actively pursuing a farm purchase policy to accommodate as far as possible landless wananchi to farm their own land.

In the circumstances, I must state categorically, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that Government will not consider introducing legislation of this nature as proposed by the hon. Member.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reject this Motion on behalf of the Government.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We have only one minute or so.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with your permission—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The Minister has just replied.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to say only one or two words. The future of our own people the so-called or as they call them, “squatters” is in dilemma because our Government is running away from its own responsibilities and is leaving our own people to languish, to perish and at the mercy of foreign governments because of a piece of legislation in the Constitution that was enacted when we attained independence at the Lancaster House Conference. It is high time our own Government realized this and took steps to abolish or amend this piece of the Constitution so that our own people can benefit from the land which they really fought for and for the land for which their fathers and sons died for. As such they should really be entitled to a piece of land where they can be buried when they die. Otherwise, we are not going to sit back and say that all is well in Kenya when our people are suffering and Government turns round to say that there is nothing that the Ministry can do. Where will these people go, England, or to India while foreigners are occupying the whole of the land in the Rift Valley when our own people are walking on the streets.

[Mr. Kanja]

This is something which should make our Government ashamed. I have every respect for the Minister, but surely as a Government, we have to come to our senses and hold ourselves wholly responsible for the welfare of our own people but not responsible for welfare of the big tycoons sitting in London and Bombay and we continue to say we have a Government. This is a shameful thing, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the Motion.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is now time for the interruption of business. The House is therefore, adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, 18th March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

PRAYERS

NOTICE OF MOTION

STUDY AND VALUATION OF EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT considering it desirable that our educational system should play the most significant role in the development and consolidation of a truly national cultural economic, political and social system, this House urges the Government to carry out an immediate and careful study and evaluation of our educational system in pursuance of that objective and to report back to this House its findings and recommendations within six months after the adoption of this Motion.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 170 (1506)

CAUSE OF SCUFFLE AT OYUGIS TRADING CENTRE

Mr. Mbori asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House what had led to the scuffle which took place at Oyugis Trading Centre on 12th November 1970 between some African businessmen and an Asian or Asian counterparts.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ministry of Home Affairs?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. On the 12th of November 1970, Mr. Azaria Oduor, a businessman at Oyugis, went to a shop belonging to an Asian to buy some wooden shelves for his shop. The Asian refused to sell the same as he had already sold them to another person. Mr. Oduor, who was with two other Africans, started to abuse the Asian and they, furthermore, assaulted him. All three have been arrested and charged with the offences of, (1) creating a disturbance in a public place and, (2) assault causing actual bodily harm.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell the House whether there was only one shelf in the shop and that is why the fight took place?

Mr. Matano: Well, I am not aware whether there was more than one shelf but at least I know that the one which Mr. Oduor wanted to buy is the one which had already been sold to somebody else and that is where the trouble started.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that this kind of behaviour displayed by some African businessmen is not quite healthy to their counterparts wherever they may be because I believe the Asian was right to say that he had sold his property? Why should force be used to sell articles out?

Mr. Matano: Yes, I am aware, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply when he said that the goods Mr. Oduor wanted to buy had already been sold to someone else, why—if they had been already sold—were they still in the shop? Why were they not locked somewhere else?

Mr. Matano: They were still in the shop because the man who bought them had not collected them.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 154 (481)

LOANS TO CHIEFS FOR PURCHASE OF VEHICLES

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister of State, President's Office if he would tell the House—

(a) whether it was true that chiefs and sub-chiefs in some areas in the Republic are given loans to buy vehicles while in other areas, especially the less developed ones, they are not getting such loans;

(b) if this is true, why is it so; and,

(c) how many have been given loans in Baringo.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) It is not true. The criteria governing the issue of an advance, for purchasing a motor vehicle, to any civil servant is: (1) Funds must be available, (2) whether an advance will cause the officer financial embarrassment as a result of the monthly deductions—and the hon. Members know that—and (3) whether an officer requires a vehicle for the performance of his official duties. Officers on temporary terms of service are, of course, not eligible for advances for very obvious reasons.

The above conditions have to be fulfilled for all officers, chiefs included. This applies to the whole Republic.

(b) This does not, therefore, arise because of the above explanation.

(c) As far as Baringo is concerned, there is one chief in Baringo District who was given an advance to buy a car.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the answers given by the Assistant Minister, that there is only one chief in Baringo District who has been given such a loan, and as we know we have 19 chiefs in Baringo District, what happened to the remaining 18 because these people really need these vehicles for performing their official duties if that is the criteria he wants? They have large locations to look after and they cannot move on foot.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is very good and I would like to advise the hon. Member to ask all those chiefs to send in their applications and their applications will be considered on merit.

Mr. Kurgat: Mr. Speaker, Sir, considering the geographical conditions of Baringo District and as the question implies that in other areas chiefs get loans to buy cars—since if you consider Baringo District, as it is, it is not all that easy to visit every area, instead of asking the hon.—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you ask your question or if you have no question then just sit down.

Mr. Kurgat: The question is this: Instead of the Assistant Minister asking the hon. Member to tell the chiefs to send in their applications, could he authorize that all Baringo chiefs—considering the geographical conditions—are entitled to a car loan?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, as soon as they submit their applications, they will be considered on their own merit and action will be taken.

Mr. Onyulo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, did I understand him to say that the availability of funds is also a factor that makes the application not be approved, whereas it is understood that the funds with which vehicles are bought are negotiated by a certain company?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to clarify one of the points and say that we are only dealing with officers who work with Government. To give more information to the hon. Member, I would like to tell him this: there is a Government ruling that officers receiving salaries of less than £600 per year are not eligible for car advances. The reason is that the officers receiving less than £600 are not likely to bear the heavy monthly costs in repayment of any advance as this might render the officers to be financially embarrassed.

The case of chiefs earning less than £600 is being reviewed in view of their peculiar position and duties.

Chief Marogo arap Cheptain from Baringo is the one who was given this advance, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, is he aware that all junior civil servants are not allowed even to conduct businesses while the superscales are?

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the answers from the Assistant Minister, where he says that officers earning less than £600 a year cannot be advanced car loans and so on, I am interested to know from the Assistant Minister, upon what authority—part of the law or the Constitution—allowed Government to make that ruling?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my good friend is aware of Government regulations, which are different from the Constitution of Kenya. There are regulations and directives by Government.

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is based on this regulation that Government has made. I am just trying to find out from the Assistant Minister the part of the Constitution or any law passed by this House from which that regulation has arisen. That is what I am trying to ask, and I do not want all these words.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to tell the hon. Member that there is a difference between Government regulations and the Constitution. There have been a number of regulations or directives—those are different from the Constitution.

Question No. 169

CATTLE DIPS IN MARSABIT DISTRICT

Mr. Kholkholle asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House—

- (a) whether he was aware that in the whole District of Marsabit there is no single cattle dip and that is due to the people not knowing the meaning and the use of the dips; and
- (b) whether he would consider constructing one to show the people their meaning and use so that in future they could build more dips on Harambee basis.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The main reason for dipping or spraying cattle with acaricides is to prevent the spread of tick-borne diseases, in particular the East Coast Fever, which is the greatest single killer of cattle in this country.

Marsabit District is fortunate in that East Coast Fever does not occur to any great extent mainly because conditions there do not generally favour the existence of the ticks which carry this disease.

[The Assistant Minister for Agriculture]

(b) Construction of dips or spray races is a costly affair, as also is the regular use of dip fluids, and if no great advantage is gained it is a needless expense.

There is no need actually to panic over the absence of dips in Marsabit because the circumstances do not require them. However, should they become necessary the people of Marsabit will receive the necessary assistance in the construction of the necessary dips.

Mr. Kadir: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware—though he thinks that Marsabit has no need for dips—that in some settlement schemes, such as the one that were started in forest areas, there is a need for dips and the Ministry has never shown any interest in that area?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, that is a different question.

Mr. Kholkholle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister is trying to make the situation not to look serious, but I would like him to tell this House, if he is sure there are no ticks in Marsabit. I am sure there are a lot of ticks in Marsabit and the cattle do suffer because of these ticks. Therefore, I would like to tell him that it is very necessary to have dips. I would now like to ask him to assure this House that he is going to construct a few dips so that he people can know the use of dips.

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Member listened to my answer, I did not say that there are no ticks in Marsabit. What I said is that there are no ticks which carry the East Coast Fever disease.

Mr. ole Leken: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, though there are no ticks which carry this disease in Marsabit we know that there are plenty of them which are parasites to the animals. They suck their blood and, in fact, cause them to lose value and also they spoil the skin of the cattle. Could the Assistant Minister consider establishing dips so that the cattle are kept in a healthy condition?

Mr. Wanjigi: No, Mr. Speaker. We cannot consider that. In fact, the greatest danger in the destruction of hides is not the ticks but is the bad management of the hides before and after the cattle have been slaughtered.

Question No. 162 (1492)

KENYA INCOME TAX DEPARTMENT

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Finance if he would tell the House—

(a) when the Minister would consider setting up a Department of Income Tax to be directly and wholly under the Kenya Government while the Income Tax Department of the Community continued to serve the Community;

(b) how much money by percentage was collected for the Community within the Kenya borders;

(c) if the money so collected was distributed proportionately or equally among the Partner States.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The answer here is "No". The Regional Department of the East African Income Tax Department is already serving Kenya and there are similar Regional Departments serving Tanzania and Uganda. There could not be a Department of Income Tax serving merely the East African Community since the Community is not a country which comprises a population separately taxed from the population of the three countries together.

(b) In the year ending June 1970, the allocation from the General Fund of the East African Community deducted from the tax collected on Kenyan manufacturing and finance companies was K£357,000. This was equivalent to 53 per cent of the total deductions from similar tax collected in Uganda, Tanzania and Kenya.

(c) The question here does not arise because the monies collected goes to financing of the General Fund common services and is not distributed to the Partner States.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister tell me why he finds it difficult to set up an Income Tax Department in Kenya to cater for Kenya alone and, as regards (c), why is the money not actually distributed to the Partner States as he mentioned?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, while I do not know if the Member has read the Treaty for East African Co-operation, I would advise him to do so because the formula for collecting money to finance the common services is spelt out there in section 68 of the Treaty.

I have already answered why we do not need an additional department, in addition to what we have now. What we have now is quite sufficient.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, would the hon. Minister tell this House why companies and individuals under collection of income tax have to be forced by circumstances to employ their own people and pay them just to do returns for the Income Tax Department instead of the Government incurring expenditure for that particular purpose?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, this of course, is a different question but all over the world the declaration of income has to be made by the one person who really should know about what income he has earned. That is the person who has earned it. The rest of us can only check whether he is telling the truth or hiding some facts.

Question No. 86 (1344)

CONSTRUCTION OF GALOLE/KITUI ROAD

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House why the construction of the road from Galole towards Kitui East had been stopped, yet it had been constructed up to the boundary of Galole and Kitui Districts.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The track from Galole to Waldira has been in existence for a very long time; it appears in the road registers as route No. C 99 at least prior to 1950. It is difficult to tell when it was built and why construction did not proceed beyond Waldira.

It is possible that since so much work has had to be done by my Ministry over the last year on many hitherto neglected public roads, members of the public may think that these routes are being built. In fact, they are only receiving some of the backlog of maintenance which was neglected in the past few years.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, according to the Junior Assistant Minister's reply—

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would the hon. Member refer to the Assistant Minister as "Assistant Minister" which is the right title, instead of "Junior Assistant Minister"?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I imagine since there are constitutional provisions which state clearly what the Ministers are they should be referred to by that term. In this case it is, "Assistant Minister". Otherwise, however, there would be no harm done.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, according to the reply from the Assistant Minister, since he says it is difficult to tell why the construction has not proceeded beyond Waldira, he is not able to tell, would he be able to tell? If he, as the Assistant Minister cannot tell, who would be able to tell?

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, I am grateful for the remarks made by the minor chief, who no longer, in fact, exists as a chief although he continues to ask the House that he should be referred to as chief. He is only an hon. Member of Parliament representing Kitui East. So, Sir, as far as I am concerned I am not offended by his remarks.

Sir, I am the only one who would be able to tell the House but I have already made the point clear, that some of these roads were constructed by the former local authorities and we had no concern there at that time. Since my Ministry took over the road maintenance we have been heavily committed to a number of useful public roads and we cannot possibly say just now as to what we are going to do, when we are going to undertake the repairs or maintenance of this particular road.

However, Mr. Speaker, as soon as funds are available we will look into it and as far as Kitui East is concerned, where the minor chief comes from—the ex-chief—I would like to say that more attention has been given to roads in Kitui East, probably more than any other constituency I know of.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us not go into more points of order. Order!

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, where he always says, "When finance is available", could he now tell us why the construction work on this road was stopped? There is no road for the drivers to take these people when they want to go to Galole. How will they go there?

Mr. Keen: You can fly to Galole if you like. You can get there by air, you can get there also by car.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not satisfied with the answers of the Assistant Minister and I wish to seek your guidance whether you can be strict and instruct him to answer me, especially with regard to paragraph one where he says, "It is difficult to tell when it was built and why construction did not proceed beyond Waldira." If he does not know, and he is an Assistant Minister in this Government, then who will know? He has not given me an answer and this is embarrassing to the Government. He had better promise to get the answer.

Mr. Keen: I have nothing to add to what I have already said, Sir.

Question No. 166 (1497)

INCREASE OF PRICE OF BEER

Mr. Mulwa asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House, taking into consideration that over 12 million bottles of beer were consumed each month in the Republic, the Minister would consider introducing a tax of one shilling per bottle, and excise which would enable him to raise about K£7.2 million per annum, which amount could be used for reducing the fees payable by parents in primary schools.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I will be giving a longish reply because this is an important question.

The consumption of beer in Kenya at the present time is approximately 48 million litres per annum or 4 million litres a month on the average. This is equivalent to about 7 million large bottles of Tusker and Pilsner per month.

I am not clear whether the Member for Makueni is proposing that the total excise duty on a large bottle of Tusker or Pilsner should be Sh. 1 or that we should impose an additional duty of Sh. 1 over and above the present rate of excise duty. If he means the former, I am sure that the Member would like to note that the current rate of excise duty on one large bottle of Tusker is 92 cents, and on Pilsner it is 93 cents. This, I hope, meets part of his problem.

If, on the other hand, the Member, as he has just shouted, is seeking for an additional tax of Sh. 1 per bottle, I would like him to note that the level of tax today is 44 per cent of the wholesale price, and if it were raised as he proposes, it would become 92 per cent of the wholesale price. At that rate, Mr. Speaker, we might get people moving to other substitutes, even more effectively, like pombe and chang'aa for power, and similar things, and I am sure we may not realize the objective the Member has in mind.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister trying to convince us that if we raise the tax on beer by Sh. 1 as I have suggested in my question, that people will stop drinking beer?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, I am not trying to convince the hon. Member about anything. I am merely stating what appear to us the normal educated guesses of how the market will behave.

If the Member for Makueni is saying that he will not stop drinking beer even if it is sold at Sh. 6, I would like to note that and hope that this might be the reaction of many people in the country. But I do not think it will.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Minister aware that we are trying to get the nation some money to run primary schools and this is something which we promised in our Kanu Manifesto? We promised that we would provide free education and we have not been able to do so.

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am fully aware that all these proposals are aimed at increasing the revenue available to the country for financing the services the Member has in mind. The only question is whether this particular method of raising the money will raise the money or raise actually less than the Member is anticipating.

Hon. Members: More! More!

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do note the interjection.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Minister has admitted that this question touches a very important issue and as he seems to be afraid of the amount of tax suggested by the hon. Member, is he indicating that a little increase of tax on beer would not be bad? If so, as he is the Minister who is in charge of raising money, what other sources does he think would be used to raise the amount of money suggested by the hon. Member so that this important issue is fulfilled as he has accepted?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think on the last part of the hon. Member's question, he is requiring us to state some budgetary proposals here and now, which I think is a little bit early by about two or three months.

On the other part, we are not afraid of the level of tax or anything. All I am saying is we know of countries where, if the tax on certain consumable goods is doubled— This is what is being proposed, Mr. Speaker, to double, not a small increase. I do not know about the Member's conception of what is small. We are being asked to double, we are not being asked for a small increase.

Hon. Members: Sh. 1.

Mr. Kibaki: Sh. 1, Mr. Speaker, is double the present level of taxation.

Sir, the hon. Members are quite within their rights to propose that they would continue to take the same quantity but would we sell the same volume of beer in the Republic?

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while the Minister says that the excise duty is 92 cents, and it is 44 per cent or something like that of the excise duty, with the remainder the Kenya Breweries are making billions of shillings as profit, Would the Minister tell us what he thinks would be the loss to the Kenya Breweries if we the consumers shouldered a heavier burden, if we increased Sh. 1 on top of the present price?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member who is himself a trader understands these matters. When the price of consumable goods is raised by taxation, the traders pass the goods to the consumers at higher prices so that the tax is, actually, paid by the consumers. This is how the traders behave, and they are expected to behave like that way as rational human beings. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, the tax would be passed on to the consumer.

As regards the profits made, well, Mr. Speaker, I have to remind the hon. Members that of the profit made by the breweries, we take 40 per cent in the form of company tax. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a fact despite the interjection by the hon. Member for Makueni, who should be ashamed of himself.

Mr. Boy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that every time the price of beer is raised the consumption of the beer has always increased?

Mr. Kibaki: I did not hear what he said.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Would you repeat your question.

Mr. Boy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that any time the price of beer is raised the volume of the beer that is consumed increases?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware. I do not know how the hon. Member is aware of that because I hear he does not drink beer. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have said— Mr. Speaker, Sir, we do know— This is the point I am making and I am not dismissing this proposal out of hand. What I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is that the doubling of the rate of tax may have an effect on the level of consumption which will mean that in the end we may not collect the same amount of revenue. That is all I am saying and I have not said any of the other things the hon. Members are suggesting.

Question No. 173 (1511)

REMOVAL OF ARABIC INSCRIPTION FROM KENYA CURRENCY NOTES

Mr. Araru asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House what led him to remove the Arabic inscription from the Kenya currency notes.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. In the old days, the three East African countries, together with Aden, had one currency. Under this arrangement Arabic characters were needed on the notes to facilitate identification of the notes in Aden and partly in Zanzibar where, as the hon. Member knows, Arabic was the language in the court of the then Sultan. When Kenya secured her independence, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we considered that Swahili and English were adequate languages within the borders of this country.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, and while not denying that English and Swahili are our languages, will he also agree or deny that Arabic is also one of the most spoken languages in Africa and we need it?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do agree that Arabic is one of the languages spoken widely in certain parts of Africa, particularly in the North; but, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are talking about Kenya currency which is printed primary for the convenience of Kenya.

Question No. 146 (1458)

DIVISIONAL AREA COUNCILS IN BUSIA

Mr. Ebu asked the Minister for Local Government if he would tell the House when Government would establish area councils in Busia based on divisions.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government has decided that area councils will cease to exist but in their stead there is to be established locational councils based on locational units. In the circumstances, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question does not arise.

Question No. 152 (1479)

DEMOTION OF EMPLOYEES OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House whether—

- (a) it was true that there were qualified people working for the local authorities all over the country who had been demoted and had their salaries reduced;
- (b) if it was so, what the Minister was doing about them.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The question of demotion did not arise when Government employed former local authorities employees who were qualified in their work. Employees were offered employment according to their qualifications and experience and their salaries have been adjusted in order to bring them in line with Government Civil Service salary scales. The adjustment of salaries cannot be interpreted as demotion because these officers now enjoy the same privileges as those enjoyed by other Civil Servants.

I cannot propose to take any further action on this matter. However, if a particular employee feels dissatisfied with his terms of service, the matter could be looked into if he brings it to my Ministry. That does not mean that it is a guarantee that he could get the money. This depends on his qualification, experience—cases could be reviewed.

Mr. Kanja: Is the Assistant Minister evading the issue as it stands, knowing very well that there is a collective responsibility and county councils are part and parcel of our Government? Why did those officers who were serving in the county councils suffer reduction of salaries when they started working with the Central Government?

Mr. Keen: I have already stated clearly that the terms of service of the local authorities were quite different from the terms of service of Government Civil Service, and therefore the newly taken over employees of the county councils had their salaries adjusted accordingly.

Mr. Ebu: Arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, is he suggesting that the Ministry of Local Government had nothing to do with whatever terms of service the local authorities offered?

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, certainly, the Ministry of Local Government had something to do with it because the salaries were approved by the Ministry of Local Government, but the terms of service were quite different from the ones of our Civil Service. Furthermore, if I may add here, some of the employees who were under the local authorities and county councils were employed on brotherization basis. All of a sudden, you will find that somebody's salary rose high up regardless of experience.

Mr. Ogalo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister substantiate his allegation that some of the councils' employees were employed on brotherization basis?

Mr. Keen: I can produce a list of a number of people, Mr. Speaker, who were given salaries which were not commensurate with their experience.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Keen. You know what you have said now is different from what you said before. If you allege that some people were favoured through brotherization you have to say how you know that. That has nothing to do with somebody having been paid more than you think he deserved. You are alleging that there was a bad motive somewhere.

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while entirely agreeing with your point here, I have already said that one of the factors was that salaries had to be adjusted in accordance with the terms of service of all other civil servants. At the same time I did mention that some of these chaps in the county councils were overpaid; this is through the local authorities not taking into consideration the experience—an employee had.

Mr. ole Leken: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have observed, with increasing concern, the allegations made on quite a number of occasions in this House in connexion with the local authorities. Amongst all the officers I happen to know who are employed in these local authorities, there is not a single officer whose appointment does not go through the Minister for Local Government, who has equal responsibilities with any other Minister in the Government. If that is the case, why should then the Minister or the Ministry approve the salary paid to these people and yet bring the blame here? Why should they approve the salary?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That raises a very wide question because we would have to go into the question of the methods of employment. I do not think we should be pulled into that—Order! I am dealing with a point of order. No, we shall not be dragged into that discussion. You can ask a question, but we cannot go into the whole question of who approves. What we are following up is what Mr. Keen said, that there was favouritism or people were employed because they happened to have brothers holding big posts or something to that effect. That is what I am asking him to substantiate?

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the House so desires, I can lay on the Table—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It was only yesterday that I said that we shall not accept conditions when somebody stands to withdraw something he had said because that is not genuine withdrawal at all.

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is the case, but I cannot substantiate right now on this Floor because I have to dig details from the files so as to produce the number of people who were overpaid.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! You cannot say that. Before you said that you should have made sure that you knew what you were talking about, Mr. Keen.

Mr. Keen: I just said so, Mr. Speaker, Sir, at random. However, I know that this has been the case. We could possibly, or my Ministry could not, have just simply agreed to pay salaries to some of the people who were highly paid, but were not up to the required standard. Therefore, we had to reduce their salaries to be in accordance with the salaries of other civil servants.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am asking— You know you are taking the time of this House. This is serious. I am saying that if you do not know of a case where somebody was favoured because someone else happened to know him, then you must withdraw that because you must have heard that the hon. Members are very sensitive about nepotism and brotherization.

Mr. Keen: That is a point I cannot withdraw, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I know for certain that there have been some cases of that nature.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Keen you will either withdraw since you cannot substantiate or, at least, I might allow you to substantiate tomorrow; but if you defiantly say that you are not going to withdraw, then you will have to leave the Chamber.

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have just said that I wanted to be given some notice so that I can be able to substantiate. I cannot substantiate right now, but I can certainly produce those names. I will do so next Tuesday.

*Question No. 165 (1495)RENOVATION OF MAGISTRATES' COURTS

Mr. Mulwa asked the Attorney-General if he would tell the House whether, in view of the fact that Magistrates' Courts were either old buildings or small improvised buildings, he would take immediate steps to renovate these buildings and build proper ones where necessary in order to have buildings for our law courts to match the dignity accorded to the judiciary.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. If my learned and hon. friend has been travelling around the country he would have seen that quite a number of new court houses have been built and a few have been renovated. I cannot do more than we have done at the moment, but if we get sufficient funds we will put up more court buildings.

However, I do not think I agree with my learned friend that buildings have anything to do with the dignity of the judiciary. I think the dignity of the judiciary has more to do with the people in the Judiciary, but not to with buildings because I remember—because I am old enough to remember—when courts used to be held under a tree when justice was being dispensed with.

Mr. Mulwa: I do accept what my learned friend has said, that they have built some new courts. With that, I agree and I give credit for that. Does he agree with me that there still remain some courts whereby the witnesses, in fact, have to be escorted and kept very far away or kept at some distance because if they are near the courts they can hear what the other witnesses are saying, because the courts are just open like that. That is the kind of thing I am talking about. I can give Kangundo Court, for example.

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am quite sure that if this country had a lot of money we would do something because we would like to see a court like the English courts in every corner of the street, but unfortunately we do not have that amount of money. As regards Kangundo, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure that, although I agree with my learned friend, we have courts there and when we have enough money we will put up more courts. However, as I had said, in the days of our forefathers justice was being dispensed with under a tree. I am sure even now when there is no court houses this same thing can be done and there would be very little inconvenience. For the information of my friend who keeps on jumping about like a jack-in-a-box—I do not know why, Mr. Speaker, Sir, an hon. Member should start jumping up and down like a jack-in-a-box while I am still on my feet. I was going to anticipate what he was just about to say, that in Western Province there are number of courts and some of them are very newly built.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Attorney-General's reply, that there were some courts held under the shade of trees, can he not agree that during those days the population was not as large as it is at the present moment? Can he agree also that when rain fell down the courts adjourned at any time and thus interrupting proceedings? In view of the fact that up to now we are still progressing—For example, in Kitale when it rains in the court, which is thatched with grass, the proceedings are interrupted. As a result hearing of cases is interrupted or delayed, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not accept the hon. Member's theory because our forefathers used snuff and the hon. Member is still using snuff—

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I seek your ruling here. When I have asked a question I expect to get a reply from the Attorney-General. In view of the fact that the Court at Kitale is thatched with grass and when it rains the judge cannot continue with the proceedings, is the Attorney-General in order, instead of answering my question, to evade my question and instead bring in snuff and whatever it was? Is this correct, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I am justified in saying what I said because the hon. Member said that times have changed and—I did say that there was a time when justice was being dispensed under a tree. The reason why I referred to my hon. friend and said that he uses snuff today is because in certain cases time does not matter. This is because certain things which used to be done 30 years ago are still being done today. I did say that in his area, where he comes from, there are a number of courts and some of them are newly built. If the court he is referring to is not completed, it will be completed when we have enough money.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

MONEY SPENT ON FAMINE RELIEF

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister of State, President's Office, the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) How much money has Kenya spent on relief from the beginning of the famine up to date?
- (b) How much has been donated locally for famine relief?
- (c) How much has been donated from abroad and by whom?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As from 17th March 1971, the sum of Sh. 1,026,078 has been spent on famine relief up to date from the Government fund.

The sum of Sh. 150,955.55 cts. has actually been donated locally for famine relief.

And part (c), the sum of Sh. 3,474,000 has been donated from outside.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Arising from the Minister's reply—

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Minister has not fully answered part (c) of the question: by whom?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I said "locally", I meant this—

Mr. Murgor: Part (c): By whom?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): These is part (c) how much has been donated and by whom?

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Nthenge! Will you keep cool?

Yes, part (c): by whom? The last part of the question.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I meant Zanzibar Government, Sh. 1,000,000; China, Sh. 600,000; and CARE—

An hon Member: What is "CARE"?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): By that I mean goods and services; articles which are equivalent to money from China are Sh. 1,029,000; Catholic Relief Service, Sh. 36,000; Red Cross Society, Sh. 714,418; Sweden, Sh. 58,575; National Bank of Lusaka, Sh. 1,050; Moniton Committee, Sh. 35,000 and others, Sh. 315 to make a total of Sh. 3,474,372.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that—

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought you had given me the first chance?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! You are interrupting and we will not be able to hear.

Mr. Araru: You had given me a chance and now you have called somebody else.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No; Never mind. I will call you later, Mr. Araru.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that this problem was reported sometime ago by the Members from the North-Eastern area and the Eastern Province, and in view of the fact that up to now there are still complaints that there is no transport to transport food to these areas, what has our Government been doing because even the foreign governments have had to be more sympathetic to our people than our own Government?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am glad that the Member has raised that point. However, we have spent Sh. 95,342 for transport only and I would like to take this opportunity, not only to thank the people and the individuals who have helped us but, at the same time, Mr. Speaker, we do not like this issue to be exaggerated more than what it is at the moment by any form of group who have been actually helping us. Any information should actually be sought from the Office of the President.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's earlier reply when he said that over Sh. 1,026,078 had been spent on famine relief, where has this money been spent; to which district did this money go?

Mr. Koinange: The information of the areas; both in the North-Eastern, Rift Valley and Coast, this amount of money has been spent there.

Now, there is one point, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I came for that matter and I am prepared—definitely prepared—to give item by item of the places which I did not bring in here of where this transport has been sent to the areas most concerned.

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the reply by the hon. Minister from the Office of the President, how does this House have specific evidence that the amount which has been contributed from other countries has properly been spent: what evidence do we really have to prove that this money has actually been well spent and there is no accusation going on?

Mr. Koinage: Would you repeat your question?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Could you repeat your question briefly, Mr. O'Washika?

Mr. O'Washika: Briefly, Mr. Speaker, and then, I would like the Minister to listen very carefully: we have been told that thousands of money or millions of pounds have been spent on famine relief. However, the only provinces which have been mentioned in this respect are the Eastern Province, North-Eastern Province, Coast Province and Rift Valley.

Now, Sir, how does the House believe exactly that the amount which has come up has totally been spent out; is there any committee which meets to examine this money?

Mr. Koinage: First of all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a committee consisting of a qualified medical officer, district officer and district assistant officer who usually go to the areas and assess whether that particular area is, in fact, definitely in need of food. That is the first point, Mr. Speaker. The second point, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think you will have to listen first and hear the whole reply.

Mr. Koinage: The second point, Mr. Speaker, is that there is a committee in the Ministry of Provincial Administration and if any hon. Member wants to go there and find out, they will find out this in the Office of the President instead.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is your point of order, Mr. Khalif?

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): My point of order is this, Sir, in view of the fact that the drought situation had now, in fact, reached devastating proportions and in view of the fact that there has been some haphazard statements—not by the Minister—but by the civil servants in the Office of the President, is it not right, Mr. Speaker, to ask you to order the Minister that henceforth he will, number one, take personal charge of the drought situation and number two, he will not allow his civil servants to make haphazard statements as spokesmen of the Government.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, I have no power to order the Minister to do that kind of thing, just as I did not have the power to stop you from saying what you have been saying although it is most unusual for Assistant Ministers to ask questions.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister did say in his reply that there are committees dealing with the distribution of famine relief food, could the Minister tell the House why these committees have not included Members of Parliament who come from the famine stricken areas because I believe the hon. Members whose areas are involved in this are the ones who brought the issue to light first.

Mr. Koinage: First of all, Mr. Speaker, this is principally the question of food distribution and I was surprised, Sir, that an Assistant Minister could have raised the question of the Government which—

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Koinage: There is no point of order.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will you sit down, Mr. Mwangale. Order! If you raise an issue, you must be prepared to go through with it. Mr. Khalif did raise a point and, in fact, directed me or rather requested me to direct the Minister to do something. Obviously, the Minister, therefore has the right of replying because something was said about him and therefore, he is entitled to say something about what was said about him.

Mr. Koinage: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was saying this: that the Assistant Ministers or Ministers who are indeed appointed by His Excellency the President should not come here—

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! I have just said that if something is said about an hon. Member the Member has a right to reply and Mr. Khalif did definitely ask me to order the Minister to do something. Now, the Minister is replying to this and I think it is only fair that you should listen and if you have any question to ask you should do so after he has finished saying what he is going to say.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No more points of order.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I have just said no more points of order.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): Allow me this one, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! No! We are dealing with a point of order.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): I will try to be brief, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! No! Not just now. One thing should be done at a time.

Did you have something to say, Mr. Koinange?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I was trying to say is that neither the Ministers nor the Assistant Ministers—who are appointed by His Excellency the President—should stand up in this House to challenge the Government. That is the first point. The second point, Mr. Speaker, is—

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Ahmed: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will you sit down, Mr. Mwangale, Mr. Ahmed and Mr. Kioko?

Mr. Koinange: The second point, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is: when the crisis of the drought went down, a Permanent Secretary who is one of the officers in the President's Office came and joined the Members as well as the District Officer and toured the areas which are affected by drought, we did not hear a word of gratitude for that. Why is this, while we know very well that these people came and saw the thing at the spot and instead of telling the Government the truth, they are not giving respect.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, we are now wasting time. Order! Now, we are taking time for nothing. We just are not getting very far. Mr. Jilo.

Mr. Jilo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while thanking Government and at the same time the Minister for having disclosed all the figures that were contributed both locally and from some sources outside, may I know the number of bags so far transported to the North-Eastern Province, Tana River District, Rift Valley Province and to other places which involved the Government Sh. 95,342 as transport charges?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect to the hon. Member, that is the information I said earlier on that I am prepared to give even if I will be required to do so tomorrow by the hon. Member.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Mulwa.

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! No more points of order. Just look at the clock and you will know what time it is now.

USE OF LAND BETWEEN HUNTER'S LODGE AND KIBWEZI FOREST BY KIKUMBULYU PEOPLE

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the the Minister for Agriculture the following Question by Private Notice:—

Since as a result of the drought in Kikum-bulyu area, cattle are dying due to lack of grass and water and since the area between Hunter's Lodge and Kibwezi Forest where 10,000 families were living until late last year when the said area was taken over by the Government and the people removed from there, is still lying fallow, will the Minister allow the people of this location to continue using this area until the Range Management Authorities are in a position to put in their cattle?

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give the following reply. First, I must correct the mistaken statement that the hon. Questioner has made in this question. The area he refers to has never been a part of the Machakos District Trust Unit. It has always been State Land. Having said that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, my investigations tells me that the families have never been more than 20. However, perhaps the 10,000 families the hon. Member is talking about are the number of cattle owned by those people living there. The answer to the second part of the question, Mr. Speaker, is: yes, Sir, we shall allow those people to graze there so long as my Range Management Department is not using that area. They are likely to move in there sometimes in July. However, as soon as we move in, I am sure the hon. Member will be the first to go and tell those people to move away from the required area.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, shall I take it that I can move now and go and tell them to start grazing?

Mr. Nyagah: I did not hear the question. Can the hon. Member repeat it please.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is. Does the Minister agree that I can even today go and tell them to start grazing in the area?

Mr. Nyagah: Please yourself. You can move in the next second.

SITTING OF RENT RESTRICTION COURT

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Housing the following question by Private Notice:—

(a) Will the Minister tell the House why the Rent Restriction Court has not been sitting for a long period despite the fact that this has caused a great deal of hardship to tenants and landlords?

(b) How soon will this court sit?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The reason is that there were some technicalities between the—

An hon. Member: What sort of technicalities?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): I am explaining.

There were some technicalities between the 1970 Act and 1971 Act. What really happened, Mr. Speaker, is that formerly, when we amended the 1970 Act, we needed a resolution of the House if we were to continue for a period of a day or an hour. But, it happened that there was a delay before the President assented to the amended Act of 1971. I am very grateful to the hon. Member for Parklands and I would like to assure him that there is an amendment coming to the House in order to make the 1971 Rent Restriction Act be in force and therefore, allowing the courts to proceed with the work which is pending at the moment.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether I should say "arising from the Minister" reply because this is a point of order in the sense that part (b) of the question was not replied to. I would like part (b) of the question to be replied to before I ask my supplementary question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said before I sat down that next week, with the permission of the House, the amended Bill will be here and I hope I shall be given the normal support which I have enjoyed in the past from the hon. Members.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply he says that there has been some technicalities. Does he mean that these technicalities were such that even the old Act could not be working before the amendment is brought to this House?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows very well that the previous Act needed a resolution of the House to continue for another year. What happened, Mr. Speaker, is that the Act was given to His Excellency, the President, rather late when the 31st December had already expired. Therefore, that is why I am saying the delay was there and this was not done.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could we know from the Minister whether so far he has Africanized the post of the Chairman of the Rent Restriction Court? Not that I am interested. I am not, but I just want to know.

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer is, No.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Munyasia.

FINANCING OF FREE PRIMARY EDUCATION
THROUGHOUT THE REPUBLIC

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Education the following Question by Private Notice:—

In view of the fact that the Minister for Education only requires the sum of £3,743,000 to enable him to give free primary education for one year throughout the Republic, could the Minister get in touch with the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning to set aside the said sum to alleviate the present critical situation caused by drought so as to enable the parents to adjust themselves until next year?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to question the source of the hon. Member's information but I must tell him that he has his figures wrong.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as far as I am aware I require an additional £6,000,000 in order to enable me to waive school fees which are accruing in our schools at the moment but not £3,743,000 as the hon. Member says. The hon. Member should have done more homework to know how we arrived at this sum. I mentioned to him in the Library that in our Std. VII classes we have 160,000 pupils. Those are single streams and if we multiply that by Sh. 72, that alone gives me £4,640,000 and not £3,743,000 as the hon. Member states. So, if the hon. Member can go and work on his figures, and if he had more patience to come to my office and do proper checking, Sir, I would have said he was doing his homework well. Now, Sir, the question I am being asked is to get in touch with the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning to set aside the money. I will do so, Sir, once I know that the House has taxed this country somewhere for the money to be made available to the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am surprised and also the House will be surprised to hear such a confusing statement by the Minister. Sir, these are the figures which I was given by the Minister when I contacted him. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister himself told me that this is the amount of money that he requires to give free education from Std. I to Std. VII. How comes it that today he is denying the accurate figures that he gave himself?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did mention very clearly in my reply that in the Library, while standing and not sitting, the hon. Member asked me how much it could cost us to give free primary education. I told him that all the Std. VII classes in the country are made up of 160,000 pupils. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said that if we had single streams—I must repeat this—from Std. I to Std. VII this would cost us £4,640,000. But, we have, in some schools, double streams from Std. I to Std. V or Std. VII. Now, the hon. Member just went hurriedly and did his homework without consulting me.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply and the Minister knowing very well that this question deals with the difficulties that there are now about drought and famine, and that the cause for this question is whether the whole nation could be exempted from paying school fees if Government could give that much and also, realizing that His Excellency, the President himself announced that certain parts of the Republic will go without paying school fees for this year, can the Minister tell us now why the whole nation should not be granted this exemption of paying schools fees for this year?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the moment the hon. Member gives me that amount, I will waive all the school fees.

Mr. Kanja: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. The hon. Minister was in the Chamber when we were discussing the question of tax on beer and other things. Surely, if we were not to misuse Government funds, this Government can afford to set aside £6,000,000 and give free primary education if we are sincere. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what is Government doing to raise that money and ask this House to vote it to them? Mr. Speaker, Sir, we will vote the Government this money so that it can utilize it for this cause.

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I am doing is to wait for that money to come to my Vote.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply and in view of the recent announcement by His Excellency the President that some drought-stricken areas will have their school fees waived, could Kerio Valley and Baringo District be included in the list.

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government has already waived school fees for the parents who are already receiving famine relief food in the areas which are most affected by famine. We have already done this, Mr. Speaker. However, if the hon. Member for Eldoret South is receiving famine relief food we shall also waive school fees for his children.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will—

Mr. Murgor: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister not confusing the House by mentioning Uasin Gishu. I was referring to Kerio Valley and Baringo District which are dry areas and which are also receiving famine food. I was asking for those two places and not Uasin Gishu.

Mr. Towett: The operative words here, Sir, are, "Seriously famine-stricken areas".

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has said categorically that if the House wishes him to waive school fees the House has to give him the money, would the Minister tell the House where the money, that His Excellency the President has said that will be given to the famine-stricken areas so that they may not pay their school fees, comes from? Who will authorize that money and where is it going to come from?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what His Excellency the President has announced will be carried out and he knows where the money will come from; maybe it will come from the Office of the Vice-President, I do not know.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, since he has said that he was waiting for that money to go into his Vote, which means that he knows where the money is going to come from, could he tell the House according to his own philosophy, when he is going to receive the money to his Vote?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the money is brought to me, even now, I will receive it.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Kivuitu.

FUTURE OF FORM IV TECHNICAL STUDENTS SCHOOL-LEAVERS

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to ask the Minister for Education the following question by Private Notice:—

What plans does the Government have on the future of the students who completed Form IV in technical schools in 1970?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Some of the students completing technical secondary school courses, go on to the advanced level courses and eventually join the Faculty of Engineering at the University of Nairobi. Others are trained as teachers, either at the Kenya Polytechnic or Kenya Science Teachers' College practical subjects. It should be noted that the completion of technical secondary school courses, does not in itself give the students the necessary final qualifications for direct employment and therefore, they continue being trained in the industries or in the established institutions of advanced learning.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that very unsatisfactory reply by the Assistant Minister, would he agree with me that the present examination which was done by the students in 1970, is G2 Examination and it is not recognized in the industries; as a result, the children who completed this class are finding it difficult to get into the industries and get further training; is that not a fact?

Mr. Mbai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with that. I have already informed the hon. Member that after the students have completed years on the technical secondary school course, those who have done very well go to institutions like the Nakuru Technical Secondary School and the Kenya Polytechnic for further and higher level training and eventually, they end in the Nairobi University. However, those who do not do so well, Mr. Speaker, Sir, they can register themselves with the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau which has the arrangement to see who they can fix these students into various industries as apprentices.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister or the Ministry of Education review the curriculum to include subjects which will enable Form IV students when they complete their course of study, to be directly absorbed in the industries instead of having them prolonged again into another training unnecessarily?

Mr. Mbai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that point is noted. However, I should inform the honourable House that under our present set-up, we have secondary vocational schools where students go to be trained for special various fields. When they get out from this training, they are easily taken into industries as apprentices.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think, we must go on now.

POINTS OF ORDER

CORRECTION OF AND APOLOGY FOR A MISTAKE CONTAINED IN A QUESTION

Mr. Mulwa: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to clarify one point arising from the question which I brought to the House on the 11th March 1971, and which was rightly pointed out by my friend, the hon. Karungaru, on the question of reports coming from Uganda that there were some people who wanted to overthrow our Government.

The question was about the alleged plot by the former Government of Uganda, as was raised by the President of Uganda, General Amin; and not the Tanzania Government as it might have been misunderstood. Therefore, Sir, this is what I wanted to clarify and I have to satisfy my friend that it was not Tanzania, but Uganda.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs (Dr. Mungai): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this question was discussed here at length, the answers were given, and there was an attempt even to correct the geographical condition of this incident and where it was said at that time, which became impossible; at the same time, maybe I used an inappropriate term which was not the pleasure of the Speaker, and I was man enough to withdraw that. Now, since Kenya has been put to some embarrassment, both in Tanzania and also in Uganda, I just wonder, Sir, whether the hon. Questioner would be man enough too, to withdraw this question and also to apologize for the embarrassment that Kenya has been caused.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): My impression was that that is exactly what the hon. Mulwa was trying to do. He was trying to point out that he made a mistake in his question. From the way he worded it, it appeared that he was talking about Tanzania when, in fact, he was talking about an issue which had nothing do with Tanzania. I think he has made it quite clear. I do not know whether we really need anything else. My assumption is that nobody can be left in doubt now as to what he meant.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs (Dr. Mungai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am talking in terms of the embarrassment that Kenya has been caused because this question was broadly written in Tanzania papers and was also broadcast in Radio Tanzania; it was also written in Uganda papers and broadcast in the Radio Uganda until the Uganda Government had to deny it and said that this information was not obtained from Uganda on Tanzania, a point which was raised over here. Therefore, I am asking that we would like to have an apology because of the embarrassment that we had caused when there are attempts in this House to correct it. Also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I mentioned that I was man enough to withdraw the statement at that time when I used a word that was not to your pleasure. Now, I think, even this House has been embarrassed and we would like to have an apology.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I think this is not a matter where there should be any conflict at all. After all, Mr. Karungaru's aim in raising that point was to have the record put right—

Mr. Kitonga: (Inaudible.).

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order!

Mr. Mulwa has agreed to come here and clear up the whole affair. I see no harm, in fact, in asking Mr. Mulwa—for the satisfaction of everybody—he would just say a word of apology if any embarrassment was caused at all. This does not do any harm at all.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I quite agree with you that this is not a matter which the Minister should be so irritated about and ask for my apology, as if he wants to equalize because he apologized. Mr. Speaker, Sir, by standing here to correct I do apologize because of the misunderstanding.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Not on that issue!

An hon. Member: Only a lawyer can do that.

Mr. Lotodo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the hon. Tsuma made an allegation yesterday and agreed that he would bring a document today can he be given an opportunity to do so?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Tsuma is going to continue with his speech; and so before he continues with his speech perhaps he will do so.

TIME NOT RIPE FOR A MINISTERIAL STATEMENT
NO BAN ON TANZANIA CURRENCY

Mr. Abubakar-Madhbuti: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in today's Daily Nation it was reported that Tanzania has banned totally the exportation of its currency and, this being the second blow to Kenya, having experienced the first one from Uganda, which is not yet healed when a sister country does the same thing making the wananchi of Kenya suffer. Am I in order with your permission to ask the Minister concerned or the Government to give a clarification on this point because some of the wananchi are going to be bankrupt?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not think it is an issue which we can raise here now because all that we know is what we have read in the Press. However, it is a matter which can be followed up with the Minister. I do not know whether Mr. Abubakar-Madhbuti has made any effort to find out what the Ministry thinks about it. However, it is not an issue which we can discuss now. Definitely, we are not sufficiently equipped now to discuss this but it might come up some other time.

CONTRADICTIONARY STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS AND CIVIL SERVANTS MADE OUTSIDE THE HOUSE—
NOT THE CONCERN OF THE HOUSE

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cheron): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to raise a matter which I hoped the Vice-President and the Minister for Home Affairs as Leader of Government Business would have clarified if he were here. Not a very long time ago, an Assistant Minister in the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife—there is no need to go into names—made a statement on tourism which was widely publicized. About two days later a contradictory statement from an anonymous civil servant was also published in the Press corrected this by implying that what the Assistant Minister had said did not reflect Government policy. That is causing a lot of confusion and with regard to this I have found many people wondering; when an Assistant Minister or a Minister for that matter and a civil servant make contradictory statements on policy, so which one is the nation entitled to believe as reflecting the policy of the Government?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Were these statements made in this House?

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cheron): No, Sir, these statements were not made in this House.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): In that case I must say that we are not involved at all. What is said outside this House is not our concern if unconnected with our business but we can deal with it outside.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday the Minister for Power and Communications undertook to lay down here a list of the hon. Members and the Assistant Ministers and maybe other officers who are being used by Asians. However, I do not see him in the Chamber and we do not, therefore, know when he is ready to do so.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not see Mr. Ngala around but I hope that he will fulfill his promise some time.

Next Order.

MOTION

APPROVAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE
REPORT, 1967/68 AND 1968/69—PART I

THAT this House approves the recommendations contained in Part I Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the years ending 30th June 1967/68 and 1968/69 respectively.

[The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

(Mr. Gatuguta (Chairman) on 16th March 1971)

Amendment proposed:—

THAT the Motion be amended by adding after the word “respectively” appearing in the end of the fourth line the following words:—

“but regrets that the said recommendations do not go far enough and have not in practice checked unauthorized spending which has been spiralling from £32,479 in 1966/67 to £1,093,165 in 1968/69; and being of the opinion that continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required; hereby resolves to appoint a Select Committee to inquire into and recommend revision of relevant penal and other legislation to empower the House to enforce its authority over public expenditure and deal effectively with accounting officers and Ministers responsible for any future unauthorized expenditure of public funds.”

(Resumption of Debate on the Motion as amended interrupted on 17th March 1971)

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I continue with this Motion I would like to reply to the question which the hon. Member posed here with regard to yesterday's letter. Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will remember that I came to your office and told you that I had not had a letter from Dr. Mungai though the question was that I should produce that letter. You advised me that in the absence of that letter from Dr. Mungai I could not continue with this. I have been to his office but I could not get it; and when I contacted him outside here he could not tell me anything about it. Therefore, I would like to say that I will not be able to raise that matter again until I have that letter.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to continue my speech on this Motion: Public Accounts Committee Reports. Yesterday, I was labouring on the work of the Public Accounts Committee. I would like to give the reason why I said that this House should be concerned about the expenditure of public money which is paid by the poor men. I will quote a case here to show how this House has not been used properly at all—this is under agriculture. There was an overdraft from the bank which was supposed to be guaranteed by this House. However, before the House was approached at all, and permission given, someone in the Ministry of Agriculture, the accounting officer, went ahead and made an overexpenditure of well over K£190,000. the Public Accounts Committee was not able to comment anything on it because the explanations sought were not enough. That is why I second this amendment which was moved by the hon. Member for Tinderet which stipulates that we should have this Public Accounts Committee empowered to scrutinize and recommend to this House on such overwhelming overexpenditure caused by individuals so that we are able to recover and so look after the money that is paid by the public.

The Minister for Education has been telling us that he has no money to enable this country to have free education for one year during the period of famine. However, if you go through this report you will find that the Government, through the same Minister, overspent but when it comes to a public issue of this kind or a question of development a Minister stands up smartly in this House and says, “There is no money!” What if it were a question of getting money so that a Minister could fly to a particular place without even having another passenger in the plane? He would definitely have the money to pay for that.

Let I forget what we are discussing I would like to say that it is about the amendment which requests this House to approve and appoint a Select Committee—it could even be the same Public Accounts Committee with the same reference and the same powers. This Committee should then report to us on overspending by individuals who are accounting officers, of enormous sums of money. This committee should go back and sit again since we do not receive sitting allowance, which should be an expenditure; it is for Government to sit again, and look at that lump sum of money that has been overspent, and recommend that figure, probably to the Estimates' Committee, and then bring it to this House, without we, hon. Members, being asked to approve what has already been noted as having been overspent without authority. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can now begin thinking in terms of local authorities— I am right to say, that it is only county councils and municipal councils in this country, which might be looking after the affairs of their money, but when it comes to the Central Government, we in this House become mere rubber-stamps, to authorize money which has already been spent by Accounting Officers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we look at—hon. Members—this file here; this file here has the verbatim report of the committee; this contains the argument of the committee; this contains the report of he Controller and Auditor-General. We are then only given papers to approve, just because we have not been able to see this; for that matter, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I congratulate the Member for Tinderet for having moved an amendment, and I would request the hon. Members to ask the hon. Minister to accept the amendment, so that even if we look through this, we will be able to know what replies the Accounting Officers were able to give to our committee. You find—

An hon. Member: Those are mere papers!

Mr. Tsuma: They are papers but they carry the report, and hon. Members, you have been here long enough and, therefore, you should know that the public pay the money in the form of graduated personal tax, income tax and the rest of it; they toil hard, and when it comes to know how this money is spent, you do not know. I am sorry my hon. friend, but will you please let me go ahead? This is a very serious matter.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Sir; is the hon. Member in order to keep on talking about papers—he calls them what-and-what-not—which we do not know, and we are entitled to know what he is discussing; is he in order to corner the whole House, looking at him as though he had something very queer—is he really in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not follow your problem, Mr. Karungaru.

Mr. Tsuma: I know—

An hon. Member: You know what?

Mr. Tsuma: I know some hon. Members like my friend, the Member for Embakasi, like to argue when a reality is mentioned; I do not know whether he is a Member of the committee, because I do not see him here.

Why I referred to this, my friend— Now, this is the Ministry of Lands and Settlement. May I quote, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Mwamzandi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker; in my understanding, the papers the hon. Member is referring to, are entirely confidential. Is he justified to have them here, as though they were here for public inspection, when we actually know they are confidential, that is the committee's report?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I think the problem here is that not many Members have yet seen these papers. They are not— I would not call them so confidential now that we have the papers, but they are the verbatim reports of the proceedings. However, they have not yet been laid on the Table and I would, therefore, ask Mr. Tsuma not to make too much use of them, because other Members have not had the opportunity of seeing them. They are available, I think, in the Library but if Mr. Tsuma would confine himself to the two booklets we had, which contain everything he requires, that will be sufficient.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much. I would ask my hon. friends to allow me to go ahead.

As you say, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if these papers are in the Library where hon. Members are allowed to go and read, and they think it is a private and confidential document, then we are completely absent, and we do not know what we are doing in this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not a confidential document at all; it is the paper that contains such reports as was discussed by our committee and, therefore, it has nothing confidential.

Mr. Speaker, Sir— I will carry them as usual.

An hon. Member: You will carry them what? What is he talking about?

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, very soon we will be asked to approve some Supplementary Estimates.

Mr. Mwithaga: You are anticipating debates!

Mr. Tsuma: We know there are Supplementary Estimates. We know that someone, somewhere, has already spent the money, and that we are going to approve Supplementary Estimates of overexpenditure. Now, this is the sort of thing we are trying to avoid. We have told the Ministers to have their fingers on their pens, go through and scrutinize every paper that contains a figure that shows the money to be spent in this country, so that when we are in this House, we have explanations from the Ministers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, you find that in one Ministry alone— And when the explanation is given, you wonder how a Permanent Secretary alone could spend money without the Minister giving permission. Now, the question is: is it true that our Ministers, who represent Government in this House, do not have any eyes at all? If they do not, it is this committee, therefore, that should have the power, and I suggest, Sir, that from now on, any expenditure of any nature, should have authorization from the Minister because each Minister should see that money voted to his Ministry is properly spent, and not only to wait until such time a Supplementary Estimate is required because of overexpenditure, and this is sent to his office, and then he brings the paper here for us to read and approve. I think this is why the Accounting Officers have had, without any reason, to spend the money because there is an allowance; there is an allowance of doing things without someone scrutinizing them at all.

[Mr. Tsuma]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are told, in this House, and when we discuss a serious matter of this nature, some hon. Members for some reasons, realizing that all of us are Members of this House, realizing that we were all elected into this House by the people, realizing that we all represent constituencies, but by chance, His Excellency appoints one, two or ten Members to be Ministers, then we are warned. There is a tendency of one standing in this House—when we discuss a serious matter—and try to say, “I warn the Members”. These sort of statements, Sir, when we discuss matters of this nature, should be left out, so that we are free to speak our minds because we represent our constituents. Mr. Speaker, we want, and I know there are some— When I refer to Ministers, there are about one or two, and when I stand to speak, I am asked to substantiate. However, I only say in general terms that we do not want to be warned in this House. We read the papers, and when we mention a matter of this kind, we are told, when one comes to reply or to speak as a Minister, he says, “I warn you Members”; that word “warn” is what we do not want. Today, we want powers to be given to this House, so that we can as well reprimand these Ministers who allow over-expenditure; for me, I say this is corruption and I do not think I am mistaken.

When you look at this, for example, the Office of the President has an overexpenditure of well over £36,000, and you find the information is that the officer controlling the Office of the State was inefficient. Here we are told we cannot question him, even if we are Ministers or Assistant Ministers. When we come to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, one Minister alone spends well over £40,000 of the money. Now, we are being asked to pass this paper here, hon. Members, which has an overexpenditure of £1 million. When we inform the public, they say, “we sent you to Parliament to speak for us; to give us money for development; to give us money for roads; to give us money for education, we shall never send you back to Parliament because you are doing nothing for us. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not our problem, it is not we, elected Members of Parliament, that stand in the way of the money that goes to the public in the rural areas. The money is in the hands of the civil servants; directly from the Permanent Secretaries, to the provincial commissioners to the district commissioners and through their hands to the countrymen in the rural areas. It is not through a Member of Parliament, a Minister or even an Assistant Minister. It is that gentleman who flies the flag in the province that handles the money.

Mr. Mulwa: A funny flag.

Mr. Tsuma: Yes, a funny flag. Those flags have spoiled this Government.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, am I in order to ask the hon. Member to say what funny flag he is talking about?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Tsuma, which is this funny flag?

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the word funny should be that the person flying the flag is the funny person. It is not for him to fly the flag when a Minister also flies the flag.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I am not satisfied with that explanation. It is not the man who is funny. According to his words, it is the flag which he referred to as a funny flag. Sir, which funny flag is this?

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to remind hon. Members that this was just by the way. I ask hon. Members to go and look at that flag. I think some of us are serious because we got independence through politics, and not the Civil Service.

Now, let me go ahead, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, what hon. Members want to know is which flag are you referring to because, I think, it might help by reminding you that you must not show disrespect to the National Flag of Kenya today. It is protected by law, in fact, but I do not know whether it is that flag or some other flag that you are referring to?

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am referring to the flag that is flown by the provincial commissioners on their cars.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Balala): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the flag flown by the provincial commissioners has a national colour authorized by the President of this Republic, shall I be in order to ask the hon. Member to withdraw that remark and apologize?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Let us not confuse ourselves here. As far as I know, the only flag which Members were worried about was the National Flag. If Mr. Tsuma is referring to some other flag which is not protected by law, then, there is nothing we can do here.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, do we understand, therefore, that the provincial commissioners who are the President's representatives in the provinces—this is known to the House—as a result of their flying that flag in the provinces, we should not regard it as a part of the national flag? Can the lawyer here explain that to the Member for Nakuru Town?

Hon. Members: Question! Question!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, there is no need to be too sensitive about this. I have explained that the flag which I know, which is protected, is the National Flag. However, there is no need for Mr. Tsuma to refer to any flag as funny or anything like that. So, if Mr. Tsuma you would confine yourself to the speech you were making that will serve the purpose. However, expenditure has nothing to do with flying flags in any case.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I think we are now just taking time for nothing. I have told Mr. Tsuma not to talk about flags because they have nothing to do with the Motion here before us.

Mr. Tsuma: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will go ahead—

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not trying to labour much on what you have said but it is not true that although an hon. Member has a personal hatred with a particular officer, say, a provincial commissioner it is a known fact that there are flags which are flown by provincial commissioners in every province? As far as you were making a clarification, Sir, is it not that such flags should, therefore, be protected and not individuals? These flags are recognized that they are flown by provincial commissioners and not by individuals as such, Mr. Speaker, Sir. It is known that they are part and parcel of the National Flag, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, we are drifting to something far removed from what we should be doing here. I have already told Mr. Tsuma to cut out all this talk about flags so that we can get on to the main business of the day.

May I remind hon. Members, that there is a tendency for some Members to interrupt when I am dealing with points of order. I have heard an Assistant Minister trying to prod another and telling him "Do not give way." That is completely out of order! It is disrespect to this Chair, and I am not going to take it lightly if it happens again.

Mr. Tsuma: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and

I would like to remind some hon. friends that I have been in politics long enough. I know that when we got our independence, I was a politician and as a result I know our flag and honour it.

Now, Sir, I was dealing with the question of the expenditure of our money. I know that when we touch the question of expenditure, it is time when we should not be silent. It is during this time that we can touch on some of the ways in which some of the public money goes. If by saying this can be one way of saving the public's money, I think, I justified in so doing.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, coming back to the question here before us I would like to point out that when we look at the offices of our embassies—I am dealing with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs—they look like a paradise. I want Ministers to do their homework by reading through this book and be able to tell us the truth because at any moment if any Government came to power tomorrow, we shall be answerable to the expenditure of public funds. When we look at the accounts of foreign embassies, we find that we are trying to make them paradises. They buy houses, they have to fly to and from Kenya, even when they are not required to do so. You find that they spend over £2,800 for their flights when they are not even required for anything; and nobody cares to see to the control of this money.

I would suggest that this House should do all it can to help the Auditor-General because he is all alone. He happens to be a civil servant, he is doing what he can, he wants to save this country but if we were to see to the actual spending, approve the expenditure and we are not prepared to help him, then we are only deceiving ourselves. In this way we do not help our Government at all.

The report we have here, which the Committee is asking us to approve has controversial ideas. The Committee says they cannot accept this and that, it has to go back, it has to be clarified, somebody has to be surcharged. Now, Sir, if this report were to be suspended, amended by this amendment moved here, only when would trouble be taken to go through the whole thing. We know that Ministries have never incurred such overexpenditure that would create chaos, but some are extravagant to the extent of making orders. This is very serious and I want an hon. Member or a Minister to challenge me if I am wrong in saying that some Ministries do order items of material from firms which have not been authorized and approved by the Tender Board. Do you think this is in order?

An hon. Member: It is wrong.

Mr. Tsuma: When a Ministry orders things from a firm which has not been authorized by the authority concerned, and you see a voucher for Sh. 20,000 to pay for carpets, to pay for Mercedes Benz cars, to pay for tyres, and these were directed to firms which were never approved by the Tender Board. Can we really save the situation in this way?

Mr. Karungaru: Under which Ministry? Tell us.

An hon. Member: Foreign Affairs.

Mr. Tsuma: Yes. Here it says, The Ministry of Foreign Affairs. A car was bought, a Mercedes Benz for an ambassador when there was no authority. That money was spent uselessly and nobody seems to care.

This is why I see, and hon. Members who will speak after me will see too, the purpose and the reason for amending this Motion. We want a committee to go through these papers as a committee so that all the overspent money should be made known to the public, not to the Ministers and the Accounting Officers only.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

In so doing we want a committee of this House to see that the reports go back, all the over-expenditure is collected in a lump sum and later when everything is examined we have a report on that. We need to examine the explanations ourselves before we can approve the reports of the Public Accounts Committee.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to second the amendment.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I will now propose the question of the deletion, namely that all the words after the word "but" in the first line and extending to after the word "and" in the fourth line be left out of the question.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am appreciative of having been afforded this opportunity to comment on this very important matter.

Sir, I am grateful to note that the hon. House has taken such an interest in the question of control over public expenditure. However, Sir, I have a few remarks that I would like to make, which I hope will be in the interests of the House. I have three main points and, strictly speaking, I am not going over all that has been said because it is largely repetitive and, in fact, a good amount of it empty the substance, the first speakers having said what should have been said.

The question of control of public expenditure, Sir, does not just relate to the question of legality and, I think, this is terribly important. 99 per cent of what we have listened to so far relates to the question of legality of expenditure. However, let us pose the question: what is the public expenditure control intended to achieve? To utilize wananchi's resources in a way that satisfies more of their demands.

Hon. Members: Oh, no! No! No!

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Onyonyka): Mr. Deputy Speaker, if this is the case, then it is important for me, however elementarily, to inform the House that unless you took into account several other aspects—Essentially I am trying to tell you how to criticize the public accounts because so far, Sir, what has been said has been only marginal to the basic question of public expenditure. I am now going to elaborate.

The legal aspect of it is one of the aspects but it will be totally misleading and, therefore, I totally oppose the amendment because it is misguided and misplaced.

Hon. Members: Oh, no! Oh, no!

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want a chance to explain. As far as I am concerned, Sir, you will be able to obtain a more efficient utilization of wananchi's resources—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! I will have to ask you to take your seat for a while.

I think the Speaker was under the wrong impression and he gave me the wrong information. In fact, what we are discussing is Mr. Seroney's amendment, not what is to come afterwards. In fact, the question I should have proposed should have been the addition of the words,

"but regrets that the said recommendations do not go far enough and have not in practice checked unauthorized spending which has been spiralling from £32,479 in 1966/67 to £1,093,165 in 1968/69; and being of the opinion that continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required; hereby resolve to appoint a select committee to inquire into and recommend revision of relevant penal and other legislation to empower the House to enforce its authority over public expenditure and deal effectively with accounting officers and Ministers responsible for any future unauthorized expenditure of public funds."

These words are to be added at the end of the Motion after the word "respectively".

(Question, that the words to be added be added, proposed)

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is what I am speaking on and I am opposing the amendment.

One of the points I am trying to make is this, in terms of substance the amendment simply misses the point. If you wanted an amendment which would make sense, then you need the kind of substance which at least would make it clear to the House, that having controlled the legal aspects you must also look into the question of allocation between different Ministries or sectors and, furthermore and even more important— This is the point that the House, Sir, has missed year after year. This is the question of unit expenditure or unit costs, and this is terribly important. A particular allocation may be worth millions, but you could expend one million to build one mile of road. Is that efficiency? What does this amendment do to the substance of the issue? Absolutely nothing. As far as I am concerned, any amendment of this nature is simply peripheral, it does not go to the core of the matter. Until such time that we are able to propose amendments that go to the core—

An hon. Member: Which core? Tell us.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, let the Back-benchers do their own homework because I will not do it for them, Sir.

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, much as I appreciate the kind of talk I heard when I was at college, is the Minister in order to tell Back-benchers to do what he calls homework. What kind of homework? Is he in order to deliberately provoke us with the teaching stuff that is—

Mr. Karungaru: And we cannot even hear what he is saying.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): There is no harm in the Minister's statement. I think he merely made a comment on some things that were being said from the Back Benches. There is nothing wrong in that.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think this particular remark has been uttered by the Back-benchers more frequently than the Front Bench. I think it should be taken in good faith.

Sir, there is another aspect of the amendment which suggests that Ministers become the accounting officers.

Hon. Members: Yes! Of course!

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): It is very interesting to hear this from a learned lawyer and a long time ago accounts clerk. Sir, I get the impression that this is perhaps spoken out of lack of knowledge of what Ministers do or are supposed to do. If they became accounts clerks, then, Sir, you will have to change their title. It is my understanding that Ministers are primarily appointed for the purpose of taking decisions relating to policy.

Mr. Mulwa: Do you? You have no control over your Permanent Secretaries.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): I think most of our—

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to inform the hon. Member that I do and since he does not know this he might just as well shut up.

I think it is very important to note that if this kind of amendment were to be accepted you would have a new set-up in the organization of Government which, in fact, would be unworkable. The distinguished or learned Members ought to know that really there is here lacking a very elementary principle, that of delegation of responsibility. If this is the objection, I would not be surprised if within a very short time the distinguished Members of this House came back here, shouting, saying, "The Ministers have now become powerful because they control even the few pennies that, perhaps, some of them pick up."

I feel very strongly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that here we might have been presented with an amendment, perhaps in good faith, I do not know, but as far as I am concerned it is a perverted, misled, misinformed kind of amendment that nobody who understands the subject of public expenditure control would support.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Perhaps, I might interject that the hon. Minister did use the words "shut up" and say that perhaps one of the virtues of parliamentary debate is to be a little careful not to use words that generate such words as "shut up".

Mr. Kurgat: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, yesterday when this amendment was moved, the Member for Tinderet used the words "post mortem". Post mortem means not a cure but rather to find out where the disease came from, or what was the problem.

I do not see what is the purpose of the Public Accounts Committee. I am emphasizing the word "public" because public means everybody including us here. It is everybody in here and outside this House. There are people in the street, people in the shanties and they are all members of the public. And this is public money. When money is voted here it is to be spent for public use.

[Mr. Kurgat]

If the Public Accounts Committee is set up— it is appointed by this House, it has a duty to carry out. I am quarrelling with several things. We are asked to approve the Public Accounts Committee Report of 1967/68. We have been asked to approve this and the Members who have tabled this are not here now. I think there are two of them and they should tell us what they passed on that day, they should tell us what happened because the new people are now asking us to approve this.

I would say I totally reject this report because there is only one person who is helping us in this problem, and this is the Auditor-General. Every year he points out that there is overexpenditure. Somebody says, "We are rectifying this". If you are rectifying a mistake, does that not mean surcharging? If it means surcharging, then we would like to know whether this money has already been recovered by the Government, or they are still paying. To rectify a mistake does not mean anything. You rectify something by warning somebody, you give him a first warning, a second warning, a third warning and I do not know whether by giving all these warnings you are recovering the money which belongs to the public.

Sir, I would not have quarrelled with the over-expenditure if this money had been used for development of this country, for projects like "manyattanization" as I hear this word used these days. If it was used for that purpose or for making boreholes, I certainly would have no quarrel. But I find that some person has bought a Mercedes with this money. It is the Government which has bought this Mercedes. But there is something I want to know: what was this man using when he went there? Was he going about on foot before they bought him this Mercedes? It is said here, "... which was not provided in the Estimates". When he went to that place was he walking on foot. I just do not understand what all this is about.

However, I think we are going a bit far by asking the civil servants to account for money which they do not know about. What I mean is, the accounting officer, according to law, is the accounting officer although he does not know what is happening in his department. Who does the overexpenditure before it is authorized? Is it the Chief Accounting Officer or is it the ordinary layman, the provincial commissioner, the district commissioner or the district officer, or even a chief? Even the use of 10 cts., is to be authorized. We have to find out here where we are because, I think, we are condemning all public servants and it is possible we may be wrong or right in our condemnation.

We would like to know, from reports in future, that what has been recommended now in the report 1967/68 we shall not see any more. We do not want to see such things any more. Anything we see from 1968/69 will have to be different and the Ministers will have to tell us now, because we are punishing one person, the Auditor-General. He recommends every year and, as was said yesterday, this expenditure is spiralling. It is rising higher and higher and we shall rise to £10 million one of these fine days. Nobody is taking heed of these things.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I understand it, the Contingencies Fund withdrawal is the responsibility of this House and to be used only in cases of emergency. However, I would like to know how the money was withdrawn from the Contingencies Fund? I know that it is lending out money and when a Ministry runs short of money it will borrow from there. But these accounting officers applied through the Ministry of Finance to use the money from the Contingencies Fund and thought they would recover it when they brought here the Supplementary Estimates. They are using money which they do not have. I have never seen anybody who uses the money he does not have! You find the accounting officers use money, money which they do not have. Do they apply here to use the money from the Contingencies Fund? This Fund is not only for emergencies, but it is for lending and one has to repay. That is the way I see it, and how it is to be used, apart from, for example, a disaster like the one of drought that we have at the present time. I think they are using far too much money and I do not know who authorized its expenditure.

I do not think I am very far from what other speakers have said, that the whole power has been surrendered. I am supporting this amendment and I would like to say that unless we bring back the power, which has been taken out, I do not know what will happen. I am not referring to a coup, I am referring to what we are regarded as. We are Members of Parliament, we are here for five years, but after five years that same civil servant will still have the power in fact, from 1967 to date the same person is in power.

I am not ashamed to say that the accounting officer, and the Minister, should be careful. The Ministers should check on the accounting officers before a person from another department comes to check and tells you that you are wrong here and there. Then when you are told what is wrong you say you will correct. What can you correct when you have used the money you did not have? Who gave the overdraft? If you apply for an overdraft from a bank you might get it because the Manager knows you will pay it back but when somebody uses an overdraft by using the name of this hon. House, and then he comes here and says, "I have used this. You give me more money". How can I give him the money? I cannot give the money if I did not approve it here in the first place.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am worried about the three cars mentioned in page six of this Report whereby the Auditor-General says that there is a particular officer in the office of the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs who wanted to use the three cars. I do not know what kind of cars they are. There is no reason given there as to why one officer wants to use three cars. I think, I will congratulate the Auditor-General because he is the person who has mentioned the fact that this officer cannot ride in three cars at a time. If he is riding in one or driving one, who is driving the other ones?

An hon. Member: Who was that person?

Mr. Kurgat: I do not need to tell you. I am telling the House including yourself that I do not know why, on page six, someone in the Office of the Vice-President uses vehicles of the Police Transport Pool and one person is using three cars. The Auditor-General insisted, and I quote, "In November 1967, the attention of the Accounting Officer was drawn to the fact that three vehicles were reserved solely for, and used exclusively by, an officer of the Ministry."

Now, Sir, this is rather difficult because it is another over-expenditure: somebody using three cars, riding in them at the same time. I do not know how that is possible.

An hon. Member: Are you supporting the Motion or opposing it?

Mr. Kurgat: Which Motion? I am supporting the amendment.

Now, Sir, on page seven is an overdraft for the Agricultural Development Corporation which is contrary to the Loans (Guarantee) Act No. 2. If this House did not approve this amount of money, how do we know where the money is even now—K£190,000. This is on page seven if anyone would like to check on this. All that money was not approved and that was contrary to an Act of this Parliament. This is very serious, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I do not have much to say until it comes to the time of the Supplementary Estimates.

With these few remarks, I support the amendment.

Mr. Mulwa: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for allowing me to say a few words. The hon. Mwithaga here, should not be worried because he should remember that I always stick to the point. He says I am more of a lawyer than a politician.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have no quarrel with the amendment as it is because what it is seeking to do is to give more powers to this House to ensure that the Government or the civil servants who are particularly involved in using Government funds are at least more careful than they have been. Before I come to that Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want to clear the air about the working of the Committee itself because some hon. Members do not appreciate—by virtue of looking at this small pamphlet—the amount of work the Committee itself had to go through.

Sir, before this pamphlet was compiled as it is, the Committee had to sit and listen to every Accounting Officer and interview many other people and as a result they were able to come up with this Report. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the document which the hon. Tsuma referred to when he was speaking, is the verbatim Report of the proceedings of the Committee. In that Report, if one looked at it—in those papers—one would find that in fact there is a complete interview of each and every officer who came before the Committee and that meant going through all the Ministries and Departments of the Government.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am trying to convince the Members that the Committee did as much as it possibly could do. There is nothing more, in fact, the Committee could have done on this matter. It interviewed these people, it made up its mind, and it made the recommendations. So, hon. Members should not think that the Committee did not go into these matters in detail. For example, when one reads and finds that the Committee says that it is satisfied, one should not come to the conclusion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the Committee just took the paper and wrote that without having gone into details of the matter in question. In fact, if you look at the verbatim Report, you will find that there are pages and pages on this particular single line that appears here. There was so much to it but because they had to prepare a comprehensive report as opposed to a verbatim Report, they had to put in briefly what they thought of that particular item.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would, in fact, appreciate it if the Members or the House did note that the Committee did a hard work; they did as much as they could and they should, in fact, be congratulated for the amount of work they put into this.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the only thing which is remaining is this: This is not the first Committee which has done this. There have been other committees which have done this. What we should ask ourselves is this: Have the Reports of these Committees been heeded by the people concerned? If so, have they stopped or followed the recommendations of the committees? I think that is the question we should ask, and that is why, right from the beginning, I accepted the amendment because it is seeking to pinpoint these people down in order that they may adhere to what the Committee has recommended.

If, for example, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you look on page five on the question of unauthorized expenditure, you see that there was an unauthorized expenditure amounting to K£887-2-15 which was incurred on hiring a car for the Minister while attending the 22nd Session of the United Nations General Assembly. Now, if you look at that, you will find that the Committee went into that thoroughly and as a result came to the conclusion that this expenditure was unwarranted. The Committee then did the only thing it could do and that was to penalize that particular Minister. What else could the Committee do? As a result it recommended, "The Committee recommends that the sum of K£887-2-15 be recovered from the Minister himself". So, in fact, you can see that the Committee did the only thing it could do and, for this, it should be congratulated. I would like to congratulate the Committee for this work on behalf of the House.

But, then, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we shall notice that as the amendment says, year after year, despite the recommendations of these committees, the Accounting Officers still overspend money without the authority of this House. We think they do not care a hoot about what those committees recommend to this House. I think that is the trouble; that is the crux of the matter. Then, Sir, let us ask ourselves; why? Is it because they do not read the Reports or is it because they think that we are just Members of Parliament shouting, as one hon. Minister said here? I think that is the attitude they have. I will not be surprised if the Accounting Officer from that particular Minister's Ministry says that the Committee is just shouting and we do not care what they recommend. You heard that Minister say it here himself, so, I shall not be surprised if his subordinates have the same attitude about Parliament. I think that is the truth: that they think what the House says or what the Members of Parliament say does not matter because they are the people who are with the money and have the power; so what? We Members of Parliament can go on shouting. That is why I agree that this amendment should be accepted and I am pleased to hear that the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning himself has indicated that he is welcoming the amendment. Something must be done because if we do not do anything what the committees recommend will not matter anyway. It does not matter what this House approves or what the Committee says. These Accounting Officers will repeat the same thing next year, again and again. Those who have been in that Committee know the attitudes these Accounting Officers have towards the whole thing. They come there with an air of "we do not care. Please, finish this as quickly as possible, we want to go back". That is the attitude they come with to that Committee because they know that what you say does not matter and, at any rate, Parliament is going to approve the expenditure and even if they overspend another shillings 12 million it will be approved.

Therefore, I accept the amendment of hon. Seroney and, I think, it is a good amendment. As I said, I am pleased that the Minister for Finance has said that he will accept it.

Nevertheless, there is something about the amendment which I think is not fair to the existing Committee. I am referring to the words, ". . . but regrets that the said recommendations do not go far enough and have not in practice checked unauthorized spending which has been spiralling from £32,479 in 1966/67 to £1,093,165 in 1968/69".

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what that particular sentence is trying to do is penalize the Committee which is here on behalf of other committees which have gone. Not only that, it is condemning or criticizing the Committee before the House accepts the recommendations. If the House had accepted these recommendations then after that it would be appropriate to say that notwithstanding that the House has adopted these recommendations and they have not proved an effective check to these overexpenditures. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think is a bit unfair to the existing Committee, and I am pleased to announce to the House again that the Mover of the amendment, the hon. Member for Tinderet, Mr. Seroney, whom I must congratulate for bringing this amendment to pin down these people who seem to think they are also Members of Parliament, has accepted that we should amend this amendment by removing the words immediately after the word "but" up to the word “and”, which is after the figures “1968/69” so that it reads like this:

“but being of the opinion that the continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required; hereby resolves to appoint a Select Committee to inquire into and recommend...”

and the rest should read as it reads. In other words, I am just trying to remove all the words from “regret” up to the word “and” so that we do not condemn this Committee, which deserves congratulations because, as you can see, it has already penalized a Minister and he must pay from his own pocket. If he does not pay his salary is going to be attacked. So this Committee is really worthy of praise and I would move an amendment to this amendment which, I hope, the Members will accept as the hon. Member for Tinderet, who moved this amendment has already accepted it. I move that we amend that amendment so that we may not condemn the Committee.

In order that I may give other Members a chance to speak, with these few words, I beg to move the amendment as aforesaid.

I beg to move.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, before I make my points to second the amendment there are a few things I would like to point to the hon. Members. This particular point arises mainly from ignorance of some Members as to the working machinery of Government. There have been a lot of criticisms and attacks on the civil servants particularly in this Motion. Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I do not think is fair is for some Members who, in fact, have themselves been civil servants, standing in the House and without any good reason attack the civil servants on the lack of control of public funds. This brings me to the very important point which, even the Members who have been attacking the civil servants, have not been able to bring out. These are the persons who are solely and wholly responsible for the control or the accounting for the public funds.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, in the Financial Orders—this booklet here—it is very precisely stated that an officer of Government, not necessarily a Permanent Secretary, is personally appointed to account for the Ministry's Vote. If I may quote a few lines, Mr. Deputy Speaker—this is the Permanent Secretary to the Treasury, who is responsible for appointing Accounting Officers—it says:

“Appointment of Accounting Officers. I am directed to inform you that you are hereby appointed Accounting Officer for the following Vote or Votes...”

So, this is directly put to an individual and, therefore, it is wrong for us here to stand and say, “The civil servants are responsible for the misappropriations of public funds” because there are certain individuals who are charged with those responsibilities. We have them and they are known to us not only by their designations but by their names also.

It goes on saying:

“The officer is the person whom Parliament and the Treasury regard as primarily responsible for funds in the custody of the Ministry or department...”

Therefore, if the Parliament has to blame anyone, if Members of Parliament have to blame anyone for all purposes, let us blame the persons who are responsible for controlling these funds and these people who are—

Hon. Members: Who are they?

Mr. Magugu: The people who are responsible for controlling and looking after the Votes are the Accounting Officers. These are the people who are appointed in person or personally and they are the ones who should be blamed. Hon. Members, you cannot make sweeping statements—that all public servants or civil servants are responsible for squandering public funds. I am also surprised to note that a former civil servant does not even know who they are. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this very man was responsible and answerable to the Public Accounts Committee. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I thought I should bring this to the notice of the hon. Members.

The other point which I was going to talk about is that even when the hon. Members stand here in this House and start saying civil servants, civil servants—this is a straightforward document here which has given very clearly the legislative power. Now—no wonder—if you gentlemen can listen I will make a point—this has the legislative and the executive position. Now, hon. Members you can look into it and see. Therefore, what I am saying is that some people are just standing here to throw words to the civil servants without any good reason.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, coming to the amendment of the amendment which I understand is now perfect, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am very grateful to the hon. Member for Tinderet who thought it wise to move the amendment to the Motion which I supported, and I now also support the amendment to the amendment. This amendment to the amendment or the former amendment would have given the implication that the work of this House—the hon. Members of the Public Accounts Committee are hon. Members of this House—it would have implied or given the impression that they did not do the work they were entrusted by this House to do. Hon. Tsuma had the verbatim Report and although he was told not to quote the Report, it is very clear from this Report that the Committee did a very intensive and exhaustive work in interviewing and recording whatever evidence that was brought forward by the various Accounting Officers. It is one thing to have this Report made and tabled here, but it is another thing to have the same Report and the recommendations put or sat on by Government even when the Report was tabled here—the recommendations which are going to be handed over to Government for action.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would, therefore, without necessarily wasting time say that this amendment to the amendment has not just been pushed into the amendment; it has been discussed by the hon. Members with the original Mover and we have supported the amendment and I have again supported it and I would ask all hon. Members to kindly support this amendment.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for having given me this opportunity to air my views on this Motion. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I will take this opportunity to speak both on the Motion of the amendment, on the amendment to the amendment and the main Motion in case I do not get time when the question of the amendment to the amendment is put.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have been discussing the Public Accounts Committee Reports for almost over six years today. I have seen there has been no changes with regard to what recommendations the Committee gives. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I will never quarrel over over-spending provided the Ministry concerned has accounted for that overexpenditure. That means that there are some immediate cases or some impromptu cases which would, of course, need expenditure when the money voted for is not sufficient. If, in such instances, a Ministry spends more, but on reasonable services which are profitable to the public, then I have no quarrel with that. My main quarrel here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is with public funds where money has been used for personal benefits, so that particular people benefit out of this.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it has been reported in the 1967/68 Public Accounts Report that there were instances of broad irregularities. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is very, very serious, particularly, when it shows that these broad irregularities do not occur or happen to the lower class people. This is mainly caused by the senior superscale officers. The Committee which discussed this report did not, really, put it very clearly before this House as to how the responsible people will—whether they are going to pay back this money or what is going to happen or whether some of them have been taken to court. What happened we were not told. So, I really agree with the amendment to the Motion that there should be a Select Committee to go into this so that we get detailed report about this.

Another thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is that we have been speaking on Government vehicles being misused. I will tell you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that up to now this is still happening. I remember a certain officer who drives 30 miles to go and see his wife and then takes a bottle of beer in a certain bar in a Government of Kenya vehicle. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we become very much embarrassed, particularly, when we are in the district and see these things. When his working time was over, that officer should have parked that car around the Government offices but we see that car chasing women here and there. There is a lot of misuse of public funds up to now. So, this should be really checked—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry for Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker. If I heard rightly what the hon. Member said, I thought that he said that they chase women in Government vehicles. Could we be told of who in the Civil Service uses Government vehicles to chase women?

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I said that Government vehicles are being used during outside office hours and the officers go as far as chasing women in Government vehicles.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You are called upon to substantiate that Government vehicles have been used by officers to chase women.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I will substantiate in this case, but it is entirely useless to the Ministers because whenever something is to be substantiated it is left for the House to—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You have to follow the Standing Orders. You will have to substantiate.

Mr. Mwamzandi: I remember, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in my district the Land Adjudication Officer who is stationed at Kikoneni while his wife is working at Msambweni—at four o'clock—4 p.m.—he drives to Msambweni where his wife is working in a hospital and in the evening we see him in the bars while he is still using the same Government vehicle. In the morning he drives back to Kikoneni. Is this not a waste of public funds?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not know whether it is in order to say when a man goes to see his wife he is chasing women. He is chasing one official woman. This is a good thing.

Mr. Mwamzandi: A wife, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is still a woman.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, in view of your ruling and since this officer might feel very much embarrassed, can the hon. Member withdraw that statement?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): In fact, I did not go as far as I should have gone in asking him to substantiate because there was another statement he had made just before that one which I thought if he had substantiated it would have caused a lot of embarrassment and I did not wish to pursue it. We will leave the matter at that point.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, there is no embarrassment. In fact, the officer concerned is not a Kamba so the hon. Member should not be worried.

Mr. Boy: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, although I do not have any dispute with your ruling, if I have understood clearly that the officer in question, although he was not chasing women he was looking for his wife, is it right when an officer is going to visit his wife to use the Government vehicle? Is it in order to do so?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): That is a very difficult thing for us to know when we are in this Chamber because we do not know under what conditions the officer used the Government vehicle in the process of visiting his wife, it might not be once, but many times he did so. We cannot decide from here what were the circumstances of the many visits he made.

Mr. arap Saina: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wonder whether I would be in order to ask my colleagues, particularly the Back-benchers, for the good harmony between the Members of Parliament and the civil servants when they make a specific attack on a particular civil servant to substantiate instead of making allegations?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): That is superfluous because that is what exactly we have done.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, touching on another point, I can see in the Report there is an unauthorized expenditure. As I said earlier on, I have no quarrel with unauthorized expenditure provided it is incurred for the public benefit, for example, in such cases where we cannot control. For example, we have cholera now. If we had to wait until the Government came to this Parliament for it to allocate some money for anti-cholera campaign, it might be too late for our people to survive. We might be losing our friends at Galole who are now dying — In such circumstances, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I agree that the Ministry should be allowed to use emergency funds for such cases. With this I have no quarrel, as I said. What I am against is money used for someone's benefit, for example, what I can see here in the Report, overseas subsistence allowance. It is said in this Report much more money had been paid, as over-payment, to an officer who knew exactly what his subsistence allowance was for one night. But to claim twice as much as he was supposed to get for one night is very bad. Such a person should be brought to court for justice because he is misusing public funds.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are told in this Report that there are a lot of unnecessary expenses incurred by our "foreign Embassies". I wonder, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, why this man should have hired a plane from Kinshasa to Nairobi—as stated in the Report—when there were no passengers travelling in that plane.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, may we know who in our "foreign Embassies" are spending our money as contained in the hon. Member's statement? Which Embassies are these?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is a slip of the tongue. I think he means our Embassies situated in foreign countries.

Mr. Mwamzandi: I meant our "foreign Embassies abroad".

Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I had said earlier on, a charter plane was booked from Congo-Kinshasa to Kenya and there were no passengers travelling in that plane. This cost the Government a lot of money. The Report—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! I want to remind the hon. Members of our rule in the House that an hon. Member may not cross between the Chair and the hon. Member speaking because he will obstruct the view of the Speaker or of the Deputy Speaker. In such case, the Speaker or his Deputy cannot see the hon. Member speaking although he should be in his view all the times.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Thank you very very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to have reminded the hon. Members of that fact. It is said here that the Treasury declined to authorize or to give authority for the payment or to be charged from the public funds. We do not know why this should have happened. The amount involved was £2,100. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this to me, it is very serious. I wonder why this should happen.

Another report from the Controller and Auditor-General says, in connexion with extravagances, the Kenya Embassies abroad have incurred— These Embassies, Mr. Deputy Speaker, purchase unnecessary things like sofas for their officers. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are not as well up or as financially sound as Britain or China are. These people should know that we are poor and we borrow from those countries. Therefore, they should not take our class to be— We live in debt here. They should not take our class to be like that of the British Embassy anywhere. They should also know that even our skin is black and it is not like that of the British people. Why should they spend a lot of money of the Government when our people are dying. They should know that we wait for donations from the governments of Zanzibar and China while our Embassies are incurring unnecessary expenditure when we need this money for famine relief here. This is very serious and these people should be called back to be rebuked; they should be remanded and not to be left just like that and so become more extravagant. They should be called here to give reasons why they have incurred this expenditure. I agree that the Committee will be responsible if I have to be on that Committee. If I happen to be on that committee, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I will not sit back until these people are summoned to come and give statements as to why they have incurred such expenditures.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, out of this same Report, I have seen the most extravagant Ministry is the Ministry of Foreign Affairs because it is just squandering money like that. If I go to another point, I will say that I become very much ashamed here in seeing this Report that there are some dishonoured cheques from the Government officials. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is shameful. Do these people in the Government offices— Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, here I must be very specific because these are not the Government people of the class of messengers or office boys, but they begin from the provincial commissioners to the Permanent Secretaries. It is very shameful because if they think that we chase our public to pay taxes so that they can draw their cheques on their accounts where there is no money, this is wrong. Some of our people do not sleep in their houses because they fear that during tax raids they are chased here and there. Yet, we find that these people write forged cheques and draw money from the public funds. This is very wrong and if the Ministers do it, they must stop it although it has not been said here that the Ministers do it. However, if they do it, they must stop it forthwith.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, do I understand the hon. Member as having referred to Government issuing forged cheques? I do not know whether that is exactly what he said, but could he tell the House a little more about that?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is not clear to me either whether he is referring to cheques which bounce; cheques issued by Government which bounce or whether he means cheques issued by high officers of Government which bounce. That is personal matter and it is not our concern.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I thought that the Assistant Minister had read this and when we talk of honoured cheques he would be able to understand what we mean. However, here I gather that he has not even read it.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if a cheque which has been issued by a Government official or their personal cheques which are not honoured by the banks—

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is he in order to refer to personal cheques in relation to Government business; what relationship is there?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Mr. Mwamzandi, would you still further clarify what exactly you are discussing; is it personal cheques in relation to private business or is it personal cheques with regard to payment of money for Government?

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a personal cheque where an officer would withdraw Government money first; put his cheque there; if I can explain in a different way to the Vice-President. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is Government's—

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member in order to say that he is explaining to the Vice-President when he should be explaining to the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No!

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am explaining to the House now.

However, according to this Report, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, an officer writes his own cheque, puts it to Government money, he draws money hoping that the Government would get money from that cheque from his bank account whereas there is nothing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this Committee failed to tell us here what measures have been taken because this is very serious. We first of all complained that they are too corrupted and they are proving their corruption by giving forged cheques. They should be taken to court for answering as to why public funds should be used that way.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in ending my speech, I would like to give a very, very good lesson to the Government and particularly to the Assistant Ministers and Ministers. Civil servants are very dangerous people to the politicians. If we say that these civil servants are faithful to any politician, from the rank of a President to a Backbencher, then we are deceiving ourselves. However, whenever we hear Government blamed, it is not from politicians, mind you, but it is blamed because there are civil servants who are doing bad things to the public. The public, however, would normally blame the Government and particularly the politicians because we do not—

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think the time has come when a ruling could be given because generalization of civil servants as such is not fit because we have about 8,000 civil servants and not all of them have made mistakes. We owe them our gratitude and, therefore, if anyone has something against any one particular civil servant, then he had better name him instead of generalizing.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Yes, I welcome that intervention by the Vice-President because it has been pointed out repeatedly by some Members and, in particular, I remember the hon. ole Leken and the hon. Magugu, that it is not fair to generalize on civil servants. They cannot defend themselves here. Therefore, it is only right that when Members of Parliament speak about them, they had better pinpoint who it is they have in mind. It is also bad for us in the country because the Government can then deal with that particular civil servant about whom you feel aggrieved.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I really put it very clearly when I said that our people are not very happy with the administration first of all; that is the provincial administration throughout the country. The reasons why I said that, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the Government is blind and we have read; we have heard and we have seen coups in every country, but when coups happen it is only the politicians who suffer and, yet every Act here has been executed by these civil servants who misuse it and blame the whole Government.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was going to say here that whenever we talk of civil servants here, the Minister should take into account that if they do not reprimand these people we are ruining ourselves.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): With an amendment to an amendment, I allowed you to speak on both the amendment to the amendment and also to the original amendment. However, you have gone back to the debate on the Presidential Statement which was carried on here last week. I would like to draw your attention to the fact that we are dealing with a Motion which appears in Order Number Seven on the Order Paper and which has been amended and amended again. That is the Motion we are dealing with. Therefore, would you confine your speech to that Motion.

Mr. Mwamzandi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I thought as this particular Motion which concerns public funds is a wide matter. Therefore, it is difficult for one to confine oneself to one particular thing. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am not trying to challenge your ruling.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I have made a ruling and if you challenge that ruling, I will confine you to the amendment to the amendment, in which case, you will find yourself in very deep waters because you will not have much to say. I would ask the House to confine itself to the original amendment and to the amendment to the amendment, otherwise, we shall be here for two weeks and get nowhere.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Boy: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have heard the Assistant Minister, the hon. Anyieni saying that the hon. Mwamzandi is fighting Mr. Mathenge, the Coast Provincial Commissioner. How far is this true? Can the hon. Anyieni substantiate that allegation? I have heard him saying this from that side.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Did you say that, Mr. Anyieni?

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not know why the hon. Member is after me. I have not had time to speak and when I do, I will reply to what he has said.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not fight anybody here and if I have a specific case, I am not afraid to mention anything in connexion with it. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

An hon. Member: You are exhausted.

Mr. Mwamzandi: I am not exhausted. I can entertain you for the whole night. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as I said here earlier, the Report itself was not enough to have safeguarded the public funds. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am saying this because the same Report was there in the last Parliament and nothing has been done since then. No payments have been effected and we are now seeing from this new Report that the same things have been noted. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have not received any information as to whether this money was over-spent by fraudulent claims, or whether some of this money was drawn from dishonoured cheques from some people. It has not even been shown here whose those dishonoured cheques were. I am saying this, Sir, because the members of the public would like to know those people who give out dishonoured cheques to their banks. We fail to understand and if I may guess here, the people who are doing this may be the super-scale people because the lower class people do not have bank accounts for cheques, but the higher class people do. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it has not been made clear here because we understand that some people have resigned. Mr. Deputy Speaker, you find a Permanent Secretary resigning from Government service and joining the private sector. Such people may have had debts with Government and we do not know whether or not this money had been cleared before such people left Government service. This should have been made clear and that is why I fully support the amendment to this Motion so that, since Government does not like generalization of things, we know who these people are, and we should even have their photographs taken, if it is possible.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to support.

The Deputy Speaker (Mr. Waiyaki): Mr. ole Oloitipitip.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, would it be in order to move that the question of the amendment to the amendment be now put?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Yes, I think it is an opportune time to deal with that and, therefore, I will do so.

(Question, that the amendment to the amendment be now put, put and agreed to)

(Question of the amendment to the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out put and agreed to)

(Question of the amended amendment proposed)

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, without wasting the time of the House, I must start by congratulating the Mover of the amendment. At the same time, Sir, I wish to congratulate the Mover of the amendment to the amendment. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this amendment is a straightforward amendment and, I think, every hon. Member in this House with proper thinking should support it. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I did a bit of my homework when I went through this blue book, and this blue book, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is a Government blue book. I also did my homework when I studied the Public Accounts Report by a Committee of this House and I very highly congratulate the Committee of this House which studied the Public Accounts. I also would like to congratulate the Auditor-General of our Kenya Government for the work he did.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, coming to this amendment, I would like to say this: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think it is high time that we, hon. Members of this House who have been elected by our people, realized that we are the supreme authority of our nation. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are responsible for any expenditure that is incurred by our nation and, therefore, if anybody is going to mess about with the public funds, we are equally responsible for this money and we have the mandate to say no and bring it to a full stop. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think this is a very genuine amendment and all it is asking the House is to bring to a full stop or rather to bring to an end the misuse of the public funds.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have been warned time and again by our hon. Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, the father of the Nation, about corruption. We have also been warned about the misuse of public funds and, therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think it is high time we curb every such situation which can involve this nation into unnecessary expenditure of our public money. Mr. Deputy Speaker I read this blue book which has been written by the Auditor-General, and I found that in every Ministry, expenditure has been condemned by the Auditor-General. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the Auditor-General of our Government condemns the activities of our own Ministries and we just by-pass it, what is the use of us sitting in this House?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think it is high time we allowed this amendment to go through without wasting the time of the Government or the time of this House, so that tomorrow we can select this Committee to go into this matter very deeply and then bring the report back to this House, and we shall penalize anybody who will be responsible for Government over-expenditure.

Mr. Deputy Speaker Sir, I think I am not going to labour much on this because I feel very strongly that it is the high time that every civil servant, every Minister, who is charged with the responsibility of caring for public funds should be really responsible and if he is not responsible there is no point why Government should keep on paying people of that nature.

An hon. Member: But you are one of them!

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I am one of them I should be brought before a court of law and be made to reimburse the money which I might have taken the other time.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): What about Loitokitok Hospital?

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Vice-President is asking me about Loitokitok Hospital. The hospital is progressing very nicely—

An hon. Member: Through that method!

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Not through that method, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

An hon. Member: Through what method?

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): This is a different thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another point I wanted to make is about the generalization of civil servants. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is no point for us here in the House, as responsible men, to generalise that every civil servant in the country is bad. They are not all bad. Most of them, are not bad. Some of them are bad just as some of us here. Members of Parliament, are bad. We must admit this, Mr. Deputy Speaker,

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

Sir, If we say that all the civil servants are bad, we must also admit that some of us here are not all that good. But, what we are trying to—

Mr. Ogalo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister substantiate that there are some Members of Parliament who are as bad as some civil servants.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I do not think in this case it is necessary to substantiate because Mr. Oloitipitip said there are some of us who are not all that good which includes himself. So, you cannot ask him to substantiate something that he has admitted himself.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that we must give credit where it is due. Most of our civil servants are very honest men, very active men and very punctual men. But, we know in all walks of life, there must be some failures. If I said that in this House, I am a failure myself and I admit this. Therefore, if you want me to substantiate this, there are some times when you meet me here and in my farm.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what we want to do and what we want the nation to know is that we are really responsible Members. We want the nation to know that we do not want money to be misused or overspent so that when we have the money we can know where to put the money to develop the nation. That is all we want here, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, without tiring the House more or without labouring very much on this matter, I request the whole House to accept this Motion. I think Government is going to accept this Motion straightaway. If I am not anybody in Government, I request somebody in Government who is somebody, to accept the Motion.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it really in order for the other Members to stand when the Member speaking is still on his feet? This is becoming an almost deplorable habit, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could it therefore, be that, in future any Member who stands on his feet for along time before the speaker on the Floor has finished his speech, should also not catch the Speaker's eye?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I will consider that advice in future.

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, despite what hon. Mwithaga says, there are many Members here who are not caught by the Speaker's eye.

Mr. Muregi: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for giving me this chance to put across a few observations inot this Public Accounts Committee Report which to some of us seems rather odd if it has been going on in the way it appears in the 1969/70 Report and also in the 1967/68 Report.

I am just referring, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to an item here that some money, in the 1967/68 Report paragraph 26 that a Minister attending the United Nations General Assembly spent £887 on travelling and that he was ordered by the Public Accounts Committee to refund that money. Now, in this Report here—the Current Report—nobody shows whether this money has even been recovered or not. It is a situation whereby I would seek from the chairman of this committee, that next time any recommendations must be fulfilled and that this House should be informed about any recommendations which have not been fulfilled. This is because this might be kept in this way without knowing as whether they have been fulfilled or not, which does no good to this House nor to the public. I feel very strongly that we should be faithful and what is stated here and what is shown here in such a Report must be fulfilled to satisfy the public. We must understand our responsibility. We all understand our responsibility because we are responsible people elected to this House by the public through a popular vote. Our duty is to safeguard the interests of the public and whatever money that we account for are the taxes from the public. I mentioned here sometime back that my constituents were harassed when they were being asked to pay the graduated personal tax. I think that those who were harassed would feel ashamed if they heard their money was overspent and, misused extravagantly by a single fellow in the Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I go further to observe another point on expenditure. Though this one had been quoted by another speaker, it is absurd to note that a single sofa set cost Sh. 11,142 and 85 cents. A carpet only, costing Sh. 20,535, was bought, Mr. Speaker, Sir. This is a very serious situation and, I think, the amendment which has been introduced in our resolution might serve the purpose. I feel very strongly that next year, when we discuss this sort of situation again, a stronger resolution to imprison these people who are spending money extravagantly will be passed. This is a very bad situation, Mr. Speaker. If a mere carpet is bought at a cost of Sh. 20,535 when our people are starving, when our people are demanding water and when people want shambas which cannot be found for them because Government cannot spend money to buy shambas this is a shame to our Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we must be rather ashamed of ourselves because this is a situation whereby the Colonial Government might think that we were not fit to rule ourselves. If a colonial officer, who used to look after these accounts noted that there is very bad extravagancy in expenditure, he would be surprised. I think we should be ashamed of ourselves because this is a situation which we should avoid as much as we can and every effort should be made by the Ministers and the Assistant Ministers to curb this situation. We are an independent Kenya and we must prove that we are able to run the affairs of our country. But, when we show this sort of image to outside countries, I think, we shall be accused of not being fit to rule ourselves, if we cannot take care of public money which, of course, the same Government harasses the people to pay taxes and the same Government claims that we can take care of ourselves.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other item I would like to hammer in very much is that of the 1968/69 Expenditure and likewise in the other report of 1967/68, it was stipulated clearly the over-expenditure of every Ministry, in paragraphs 13 and 14. As it is stipulated here, I think the Public Accounts Committee should be able to show us how some of this money was spent. Although the Vice-President said here the other day that floods made Government overspend some money, that would be a very genuine overexpenditure and it is necessary for such reports to be shown in this Report so that we can also keep a record of why such money was overspent, rather than give us a vague report whereby the Public Accounts Committee states that they have noted such reports and recommended the recovery of some money and yet they do not show whether this money has been recovered or not.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the same Report, I would like to congratulate the Auditor-General for extending his hand to audit local authorities' accounts. Over the years and since we achieved our independence and started running our local authorities, the big problem has been to audit local authority accounts. As a result, a lot of misuse of the money which was due to unexperienced officers who have been taking care of local authorities' accounts. This has been a problem and many local authorities had gone bankrupt because of these inexperienced officers. At the same time the Ministry of Local Government has been understaffed and has been depending on expatriate officers doing these accounts. I am sure this is why many local authorities were completely misled and could not keep their books properly. Now, with the help of the Auditor-General, I am sure the local authorities will be very, very careful and will observe this point without fear. This is because our Auditor-General seems quite a gentleman who can even criticize the Government. However, I hope it is just because he is rather protected by the Constitution, otherwise if he were a simple man he could have been harassed and we would never have had this type of Report.

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): When did I have some expatriates in my Ministry?

Mr. Muregi: You had some expatriates some time back. people like— I knew them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister for Local Government denies that he has some expatriate however, since 1963, I know the whole Ministry was filled with expatriates who misled the local authorities from then. This is what resulted in Government taking over their services—local authority services—and I hope the Minister is not to blame for he is doing very well at the moment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel I do not want to labour very much on this issue, however, I must put across some points. The first one, is that we must be very careful about the public funds. It is clear that the public these days, are very keen in listening to the radio to hear what we speak. Therefore, there is no doubt the public is going to be very angry and very disappointed by the some discussions that we have made here on the Report. This is because what we are talking about in this House is about the money which is paid by the public through graduated personal tax and many other taxes. If this continues, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel the members of the public will lose confidence in us and immediately they lose confidence with our Government, I do not know where we shall be. Maybe, we politicians will be the sufferers because we shall be the people to be kicked out from this House.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reserve my comments.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): What is the point of order about?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we have debated this issue almost exhaustively, from the amendment to the amendment on the amendment, shall we be in order to move that the question of the amendment be put?

Hon. Members: No, no!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Actually, what Mr. Mutiso is proposing does not end the debate. He is only proposing that we put the question of the amendment to the amendment.

Hon. Members: No, an amendment to the amendment had been put.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Was question of an amendment to the amendment put?

Hon. Members: Yes.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Right, therefore, I think I will entertain Mr. Mutiso's proposal. I will put the question of the amendment and the debate can continue from there depending on what happens.

(Question of the Amended Amendment put and agreed to)

(Question of the Motion as Amended proposed)

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for giving me this chance to really air my views on this very important Motion. Sir, I think I am not going to waste any more time. All I am going to do is go join the chorus which the hon. Members have been singing so beautifully and musically in this Chamber, trying to explain and point out the mistakes of Government on the public funds.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the hon. Member was an Assistant Minister during the time of over-expenditure can he declare his interest?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not see any connexion there.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Mwithaga would like me to declare my interest all that I would like to say that I was left out because I opposed this unnecessary expenditure. I was not left out because I was not capable of holding that post; and so the hon. Member can know the reasons.

What I would like to say is that for several been debating in this House Ministerial Votes and there has been several Ministries which I think have deliberately refused their votes to be discussed by this House in order to scrutinize and point out the mistakes of misappropriation. This is the reason why we find that over the years this misappropriation of funds—misuse of funds if you like it—has been piling up and, therefore, the figures have been soaring up. I think it is high time that the House is given a chance to debate and scrutinize all Votes of respective Ministries because I know that the Ministries which have been pointed out by the Auditor-General are the worst culprits and are the Ministries whose Votes have never been scrutinized by this House. I have seen this practice of guillotining the Votes when the Supply days are ended and many important Ministries are always left behind so that they will never be scrutinized. This is why we discover these mistakes in the long run.

I would like to state one particular point: our country is a very small one which is in fact very poor because we are dependent on loans from Britain and other countries. I wonder why our Government, particularly the departments which have large numbers of staff, have to use very expensive cars. Mr. Speaker, Sir, you would be surprised to note that certain Ministries—I do not know which ones—I note that even the police are now using Mercedes Benz—I do not know whether it is Mercedes 250 or Mercedes 290—as “99 cars”. This is ridiculous because these cars are highly expensive and you find that the cost of maintaining these cars is enormous. This is why, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there has been this question of over-speeding because when the Votes come here the money which the House authorizes to be spent is not the amount of money which the Ministry spends eventually, this is because they decide to buy for example, Mercedes 250 when perhaps the Vote was aimed at buying a Toyota Crown. Hence, you will find the deference is enormous. This is why these things are there, and have happened.

You find also, the Vice-President—I see him with two Escort 999 cars. I do not know whether these things are really necessary, Mr. Speaker, and this is—

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Mutiso: They employ so many other Government officers, Mr. Speaker, to be in these 999 cars unnecessarily. I do not know what fears the Vice-President or any other Government officers have. Mr. Speaker, if we are honest with ourselves, and we are sincere with the service that we are giving to the country, we must not fear our people; we must not have all these unnecessary security precautions, Mr. Speaker. I will not question, Mr. Speaker, the security of His Excellency the President, but I also feel Sir, that it is really too large, and especially when you see the President going to the Coast, you see a convoy; a real convoy of cars and people, and when you calculate the tyre wear of these cars, and the number of staff involved, it is really too large. Mr. Speaker, this is another thing where I would like to find out why these unnecessary expenses have occurred.

Now, we see the Provincial Commissioner for Eastern Province with the entire Eastern Province, the whole lot of it, driving from every other Ministry, from the department of Agriculture, Veterinary, what have you; the whole lot; the police including the National Youth Service, and every other Government department. All these people, Mr. Speaker, Sir, have to drive down to Mtito Andei, and also meet the other entire battalion from the Coast Province. Now, Mr. Speaker, what are all these things? This is why, Mr. Speaker, this irresponsible expenditure has to happen, and I want to caution the Vice-President and the Government, that the public is keeping a very sharp eye on these things. Now, I think this Motion will, Mr. Speaker, try to curtail these things, because if, the House gives this authority in the Select Committee, and appoints the Committee which will revise the Amendment of the Act or revision of the Act, and after that, then we find these things are being abused, then I do not know whether the public of this country will continue to be justified in tolerating this kind of exercise.

Mr. Speaker there are many things which can be said and some of them are very sad. I would like to ask the Vice-President and Government to try and really be serious, because I cannot see why an Accounting Officer, where the Minister is responsible— Mr. Speaker, when I was in the Government, I used to see that when, perhaps there are some important things that want to be discussed or passed for expenditure, our Accounting Officer was very strict, and quite often, Sir, he refused or he turned down the request of the Minister. Now, I cannot see how this unnecessary expenditure happens; maybe, there are some other irresponsible Accounting Officers, who perhaps are being driven from left to right by their Ministers, who perhaps can authorize some expenditure without taking into account whether this, Sir, falls within the Vote. Now, these, Mr. Speaker, are things which the country and Government must watch.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Give us specific cases.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, the Vice-President is asking me to give specific cases, and I have just given them. I have no time because there are many Members. Mr. Speaker, who want to air their views. However, what I wanted to say, Sir, is this: that this issue, Sir, has been discussed; the views that the House has expressed, through the hon. Members in this Chamber, are very important, and I want only to stress one particular point: that is, the Vice-President and all the Ministers who are here, must not take this as a mere Motion that we have passed here, so that Government will sit on it; this is a very serious issue; it is not a Motion like the one of tarmacking the Machakos/Kitui Road, which Government has sat on. This is a different Motion and if, Sir, Government will sit on this one, then they only live to regret it when the time comes.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is no doubt that the entire question of public accounting and overspending is highly disgraceful. We have to accept this, and this somehow, does put us into a very embarrassing position as Members of Government here, not knowing what to do, whether we would be in a position to defend these civil servants, who are responsible for this system of accounting. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the misuse of public funds is a crime that has no parallel and it is a crime that cannot be forgiven whatsoever. Everything should be done now and in future to ensure that we are not going to have a repetition of this ugly situation again. When the public read in the newspapers about the overspending of public funds, Ministries overspending, people begin to question the whole theme of us being in Parliament. We are elected by our people to ensure that their money is wisely spent and not on merely prestige projects.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of civil servants has been mentioned here generally, and I know that many of them are responsible. However, at the same time, you will find that we have, I think, one of the finest Civil Services in the country compared with other Civil Services we know of in Africa today. As in every society, there are a few black sheep here and there and we cannot generalize entirely to frustrate our civil servants who are actually hard-working in the field, all the time. It would be very unfair for the House and for hon. Members just to speak at random here and throw a lot of insults at our civil servants. It is bad because these poor fellows who are not in a position to defend themselves in this House will be frustrated and will be absolutely unable to do the amount of work they have been doing. For those civil servants who have been irresponsible or who have been seriously concerned with the misuse of public funds, the only way that they could be put right is by severe prison sentences. I would like to pay tribute here to the manner in which the Auditor-General has presented the entire facts of our accounting system. It has shown that a number of civil servants in these accounting offices are not entirely serious in their use of public funds. This is a situation we cannot allow to continue. Whatever we say in this House, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope will not be minimized but will be taken seriously by Government. I observe that all of us here, collectively, as a matter of concern, are concerned; Ministers, Assistant Ministers, and Members of this House are concerned about the misuse of Government funds. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to point out that we should do everything possible to support the amendment here and ensure that a proper accounting system is set in motion so that we will not have this kind of repetition again. It is absolutely ugly and it will put us, as I have already said, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in an extremely embarrassing situation of not knowing how to defend these civil servants. We would like to defend civil servants as much as we can, when they are in the right. However, in matters like the one an hon. Member mentioned here, where a carpet costing KSh. 20,000 was bought, this is an act of irresponsibility. Mr. Speaker, Sir, KSh. 20,000 is enough to feed 200 African families for one year. I cannot see how for one moment I can support such ridiculous overspending of Government funds. I do sincerely hope, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that everything possible will be done to ensure and to support this Motion so as to get a select committee working and have its recommendations implemented. In future, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope this House will not, again, be in a position where they will have to discuss this disgraceful atmosphere.

With this, Sir, I beg to support.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): For the convenience of the House, I think, we will adjourn now. The House is therefore adjourned until tomorrow Friday, 19th March, at 9.00 a.m.

The House rose twenty eight minutes past Six o'clock.

LOANS FOR ERECTION OF HOUSES IN SOMBE

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House, since the present Sombe Trading Centre is to be shifted to another place because of the destructive river which overflows in this area, the Government could supply loans to the people who own business houses at present in order that they may be able to erect other houses at the new proposed market.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Commerce and Industry?

An hon. Member: He is not here.

Mr. Kitonga: He is afraid of me!

Mr. Ebu asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House why the Ministry allowed shanty eating houses to be erected in Nairobi and in other big towns while similar structures or even better ones were not allowed in the rural centres.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

EMPLOYMENT RECRUITMENT THROUGH NAIROBI CITY COUNCILLORS

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Local Government the following question by Private Notice:—

(a) Is the Minister aware that, with effect from February 1971, the Nairobi City Council employment recruitment is done through the councillors rather than through the normal administrative machinery?

(b) If the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, what is the legality of this procedure?

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am not aware that with effect from February this year Nairobi City Council employment and recruitment is done through the councillors. What I am aware of, Sir, is that the normal employment machinery as approved by the Council is being followed.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since part (b) of the question has not been replied to, would the Assistant Minister tell us which is which he thinks in regard to the procedure to be followed? And, Sir, is it not contrary to the law of this country for this kind of thing to be channelled through the councillors instead of the legal machinery?

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am surprised, because the Council is empowered to appoint its staff, except that certain categories have to be done with the approval of the Minister. These are, the Clerk, the Treasurer, the Engineer, the Medical Officer of Health, the Health Inspector and their deputies. The others can be appointed by the Council.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since we know pretty well and it is clear in our minds that Council does not mean councillors, because councillors are elected, would the Assistant Minister make it clear to this House whether it is the councillors who are supposed to recruit instead of doing this through the machinery of the Council?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think, here, I am not quite sure myself that I understand what Mr. Karungaru wants to know. Mr. Karungaru did not make it clear whether he meant that people were being appointed by individual councillors or whether he would still object if this was done by a committee specially chosen to make the appointments.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, individual councillors send people for employment to the City Council. Nobody can employ them otherwise. Is this recommended by the Government and also by the Council and, if so, when did the Government and the Council make this regulation?

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, under the terms governing the appointment of staff in the City Council, there is a clause which states as follows:

"Canvassing a member of the Council directly or indirectly for any appointment or promotion under the Council shall disqualify the candidate for canvassing".

Now, if any candidate goes to any member for canvassing, he will be disqualified.

However, Sir, the appointment of staff in the City Council is governed by the Local Government Regulations under which some other regulations appertaining to each particular council—and as far as Nairobi is concerned, to the City Council—are laid down and must be followed.

I am not aware, Mr. Speaker, that there has been any departure from this. If the hon. Member has any specific cases he should put them up and we will examine them.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think there is some confusion here. As far as I see under the question, it says that the individual councillors send individual people for employment wherever there are vacancies in the City Council. They themselves recommend their own people rather than have this channelled through the Council. It is not the staff of the Council but rather the other employees, the people who are in the lower grades. This is what has been happening. I think the Assistant Minister is confused.

Mr. Karungaru: He is aware of this.

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not confused. I am quite clear in my mind of what I am talking about.

The fact is that there are certain categories of staff who have to be appointed by the Council, not by individual councillors. A councillor, individually, does not constitute the Council and he cannot, as a councillor, order the staff about.

The others, Sir, are appointed by senior or heads of departments because the Council has delegated its powers of appointment to the senior staff or heads of departments.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, from the answer of the Assistant Minister, since canvassing is one of the disqualifications for employment of an applicant, would the Assistant Minister tell us what method do the officers of the Council use or exercise to find out whether a candidate has canvassed or not canvassed with any councillor before applying for this particular employment? Which method do you use?

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, if it comes to light, in other words, if the officer responsible finds out that a certain person who has applied for a post and has canvassed, then he can be disqualified.

I know, Sir, it is difficult as the hon. Member knows.

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Sir, the hon. Questioner, hon. Member for Embakasi has made a very specific allegation in this question, namely that from a certain date this year, individual councillors have been employing people rather than using the machinery employed by the Council itself.

Would it not be in order for the hon. Member to give an example to substantiate this allegation since it is a serious one? Which councillors have been recommending people individually for employment in the City Council, and which are these other people?

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not the first time I am being asked to substantiate. I want to substantiate now in this case.

Sir, with effect from February this year, the councillors of Nairobi City Council undertook the responsibility of recruiting instead of allowing the administrative machinery to recruit. Today, for the information of the House, no person or persons can be employed by the City Council as a labourer, a cleaner or a sweeper without having been given a recommendation by the councillors as to where that person comes from.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order!

Mr. Karungaru, we just do not have that amount of time to keep on repeating the same thing. What you are saying is exactly what is in your question, you have not told us anything new.

What you are being asked to do is to give an example of where a councillor recruited a worker. You will name the councillor by name as well as the worker. That is all you are asked to do.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, it is not only one councillor that is involved, it is all the councillors.

The Town Clerk to the Council left for Canada for training and the Deputy Town Clerk agreed with the councillors that all the labourers should be recruited through councillors. They even go further, they ballot—by paper—for the names of the councillors so as to determine who will do the recruitment. If there is any employment, then councillors are asked to write names on pieces of papers and put them in a balloting box so that it can be determined, who, among them, will do the recruitment. That is how they are now employing people in the City Council. If you do not belong to the area of any councillor or where he comes from, then you cannot get employment with the City Council.

An example is the cleansing department. This is what they are doing and the whole council is now a mockery of such things. The whole business is an entire mockery.

Hon. Members: Shame! Shame!

Hon. Members: This is serious!

Mr. Araru: Arising from the earlier replies of the Assistant Minister, in view of the fact that the hon. Mr. Karungaru has already substantiated, what is the Assistant Minister going to do so that he can tell this House that all the legislative machinery which has been going on in the City Council will continue or whether we will now have this new regulation which has been made locally by the councillors for employing our people?

Mr. Munoko: This has come to light and I promise that I will investigate it.

PAYMENT OF CARETAKER COMMISSION STAFF
SALARIES IN SOUTH NYANZA

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Local Government the following question by Private Notice:—

Is the Minister aware that the staff of the Caretaker Commission on handling the services of the locational councils in South Nyanza are working frustratedly because they have not had their salaries since 1st January 1971? How soon will they get their proper dues?

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There has been a delay in salary payment to the staff mentioned by the hon. Member because of a number of unforeseen factors. In the first instance, Sir, revenue collection, especially the local poll tax, in the affected areas has been poor. Consequently, the amount collected could not meet the regular payment of salaries.

Secondly, Sir, there was, recently, in unexpected rise in the scale of nursery school teachers. These increases which were recommended by the Joint National Negotiation Committee of the Association of Local Government employees and the Local Government Workers' Union, were not budgeted for and they were quite steep, rising from Sh. 70 per month to Sh. 225 per month.

I am, however, examining the whole matter of salary payments in relation to the Estimates of the County Council of South Nyanza with a view to having the situation rectified immediately.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the same situation had arisen before and that it was failure to establish proper machinery that delayed the collection of funds to pay the same members of staff? Is he also aware that the Ministry had undertaken and promised that they would see to it that the situation does not arise again and today these people are under the same situation simply because of delay in establishing this machinery? Therefore, will he undertake, and promise again, that they will organize their machinery in such a way that such a situation will never repeat itself because I am sure if he does not, it is bound to repeat itself once more.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is enough. You are repeating yourself.

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, the local authorities are empowered to collect their revenues. I cannot, therefore, guarantee on their behalf that revenue will be collected if the staff in that particular local authority does not want to discharge its obligations. I can, however, promise that we will push them.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Speaker, Sir, now that this Caretaker Commission is causing the staff of the locational councils embarrassment, will the Assistant Minister undertake to dissolve this Commission immediately so that the people resume the locational council functions?

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I said before, the Government has decided that the locational councils will be reinstated and everything possible is being done to have elections carried out as soon as possible.

ANTI-CHOLERA IMMUNIZATION

Mr. Masibayi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Health the following question by Private Notice:—

- (a) What steps is the Minister taking to ensure that all the clinics, health centres and hospitals throughout the country have sufficient anti-cholera jabs to immunize wananchi from this horrifying disease?
- (b) Is he aware that people from Kenya are being debarred from entering Uganda if they have not had cholera vaccination Certificates?

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. Jahazi):
Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Oh! Who is answering?

An hon. Member: You.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. Jahazi):
Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The hon. Member, like myself, is a layman and must, therefore, trust the professional advice of doctors as we have stated previously. It is not the intention of the Ministry of Health to carry out mass anti-cholera vaccination in the whole Republic at once. At present anti-cholera vaccination is only being carried out in the affected areas; that is the whole of Coast Province, the North-Eastern Province and some of the adjoining areas including the northern parts of Kenya, some parts of Nairobi where sanitary conditions are very bad, it has also been decided that Nairobi should have a mass vaccination programme.

The situation in the other parts of Kenya will be reviewed from time to time and when the Ministry of Health considers it necessary, vaccination will be carried out in any other area without hesitation.

(b) Arrangements have been made so that any person wishing to visit a neighbouring country may be vaccinated and given a certificate of vaccination.

Mr. Masibayi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that despite the fact that Busia is at the Kenya/Uganda border, the Uganda Government cannot allow people from Busia township to move freely into Uganda unless they are vaccinated against cholera?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware that Uganda, and even Tanzania, have taken precautions to ensure that anybody from Kenya does not go across the border until he is vaccinated. Mr. Speaker, this is not the first time such a thing has happened. All countries can apply this international precaution. However, I would like to say that we have instructed our District Medical Officer at Busia to give cholera jabs to genuine travellers as is normally the case.

Mr. Wabuge: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that this disease is very rangelous, would the Assistant Minister, instead of waiting until an area has been affected, make it compulsory that all people in the Republic should be immunized against this disease rather than waiting to rush to areas which have been affected?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, everybody knows that the Ministry of Health did not wait until there was an outbreak in Kenya. We had started anticipating the areas where we thought cholera could break and we carried on with immunization. That is why we started, I think, as far back as October, with the immunization in the North-Eastern and the Coast Provinces. The few cases which we have had come from the areas in which we thought cholera could start. Unfortunately those people had not come forward for their jabs. Therefore, I want the House to trust us because we have nothing to hide from them and our officers are on-the-spot working at the moment. However, we have to start immunization where cholera is most likely to affect our people rather than having a mass exercise: in the Ministry we do not have enough personnel to start jabbing the 11 million people of Kenya at once today, Mr. Speaker.

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we know that we have enough vaccines against cholera in Kenya and that we have a large number of medical practitioners in the country who are practising, will the Assistant Minister assure this House that, as it has been the usual practice before, he will give signed certificates to the medical practitioners who will give these jabs privately so that they can, themselves, issue the certificates on behalf of the medical officer in charge of each district—as has been the case on other occasions when we have had an outbreak of a disease of this nature?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, these certificates are given to travellers who are going outside this Republic. Our duty is to give the jab to prevent cholera but not to give somebody a certificate which he will not need to show anywhere in Kenya. So, those people who want to travel outside Kenya will have the certificates. We do not want to give the city council's job to private doctors. Anyone who wants to travel outside Kenya can go to the city council or to the Airport where he will get a jab and buy the certificate. He will pay, I think, Sh. 10 for the certificate when he wants to travel outside the Republic. There is no need for a certificate for anyone who takes the jab just as a preventive measure.

Mr. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister not trying to confuse us here when it is true that nobody can go to Malindi now without showing a certificate that he is immunized against cholera, even if he has had the jab from Nairobi. What is going to happen now? Shall I have to get another jab at Mombasa, when I have already had one in Nairobi, simply because I was not issued with a certificate?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know where the hon. Member got the idea that you cannot go to Malindi without a certificate. All we know is that people from the cholera affected areas cannot come this way, and for those who want to come, there are already arrangements through which they can get certificates. For instance, we do not want people to come from Galole area, where there has been an outbreak of cholera without a good reason. Those are the people we have prevented from coming this way. However, I can assure the hon. Member that I can drive him to Malindi tomorrow at my expense if he wants.

Mr. Migure: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, can he tell us how he would know that Central or Rift Valley Provinces would not be affected while the people who might be affected from Nairobi are travelling to these parts of the country from time to time? Since even people coming from North-Eastern Region are travelling to different parts of the country from time to time, Mr. Speaker, how will the Assistant Minister know?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, nobody is coming from North-Eastern or other affected Provinces who is allowed to do so without a certificate. We do not say that nobody is allowed to travel, but those people who come from these affected areas, before they travel, we must make sure that they have certificates allowing them to travel from our teams in these areas.

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the advertisements in the papers and over the radio imply that the whole country needs these jabs, would the Ministry pick out the districts which are affected because in other districts people are already travelling to their headquarters to get these anti-cholera jabs? Would the Ministry of Health pick out the districts where people should not panic because they are panicking and when they travel to the hospitals they do not get these jabs?

Mr. Jahazi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the House will recall the Minister's words when he made a Ministerial Statement on cholera here, he did ask the hon. Members to help stop this panicking which is unnecessary. Sir, he assured the House that the nation is in the good capable hands of the people who are running the Ministry of Health. We are, therefore, looking into every aspect of preventing cholera spreading: we are not waiting to come to this House to be advised where cholera will break out because our officers, who are using all the basic scientific knowledge possible on preventive measures, are on the ground looking into the preventive measures. Sir, I would also like to repeat this request, that there is no need to panic because in the Ministry of Health we are not hiding anything. When a situation demands that our teams move into any other district where we are not operating at present, we shall do so immediately.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next Order.

SETTLEMENT OF PEOPLE LIVING AT KIBOROA AND ADJACENT PLACES

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Natural Resources the following question by Private Notice:—

Is the Minister aware that over 6,000 families have been and are still residing at Kiborua and other adjacent places in Mount Elgon Forest and that they have repeatedly requested the Government, through their local and administrative leaders, to be given a portion of the area for their settlement in order to be able to make a decent and secure living and educate their children? If the answer is in the affirmative, would he tell the House—

- (a) why the forest staff during the week ending 13th March, 1971, burnt down houses causing damage to the property belonging to the people, thus rendering them homeless and destitute;
- (b) what plans the Government has to settle the people; and
- (c) whether he could allow them to remain therein until the Government has found alternative settlement.

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Ochwada): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government is aware that about 10,000 acres of land have so far been occupied by between 3,000 and 4,000 trespassers at Kiborua and some of the adjacent places in Mount Elgon Forest. In this connexion, I wish to bring to the notice of the House that as a result of this illegal settlement about 40 million cubic feet of commercially exploitable timber has suffered damage. The Government is also aware that among these people some of them may be genuine landless cases and every effort is being made through the Ministry of Lands and Settlement, to obtain for them land just as for any landless wanachi living elsewhere in the country.

In reply to the hon. Member's specific questions, I wish to state that, (a) my Ministry is not aware of the burning down of houses belonging to the people in question by the Forestry staff during the week ending on 13th March, 1971.

(b) As I have stated above, Mr. Speaker, Government, through the Ministry of Lands and Settlement, in consultation with the provincial administration, is currently undertaking an exercise with a view to looking for genuine case of landless people amongst the trespassers in the Kiborua area. Any genuine landless cases found in this area will be sorted through having the

[The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources] people of affected, settled wherever land can be found.

(c) My Ministry does not consider it to be in the interests of both the squatters and the forestry economy for these people to be allowed to remain in this area until the Government has found an alternative settlement for them because: (1) The estimated area of about 10,000 acres which the trespassers have occupied in this area would suffer great damage through thoughtless destruction of trees thus resulting in the loss of fuel and timber, and (2) the catchment area of Mount Elgon and the adjacent area would be in great jeopardy. My Ministry and the Government at large will not allow this to take place

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, particularly where he says that his Ministry is not aware of the burning down of the houses, is he aware of the fact that during or over the last weekend those people who happened to have their houses burnt down came to see the district commissioner, and there were 100 of them crowding into the district commissioner's office? In view of the fact that the district commissioner had to convince them to go back—which resulted in my coming to raise this question here—has he checked with the administration to confirm that the houses were not burnt?

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have definitely checked with the administration and found that the houses were not burnt by the Ministry's staff. If there was any burning of houses in the area, Sir, it could have been caused by the recent outbreak of forest fires, which did not only happen in the Mount Elgon area but in other forest areas as well. Mr. Speaker, if I may add, there has been a quarrel among the trespassers themselves as to who should occupy which piece of land and this could have resulted in the burning down of the houses.

Mr. ole Marima: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister—who has admitted that these people are landless and they have no other places to go to, and that the Government is looking for a place for them—actually tell us, if they are not going to allow these people to stay in this forest any longer, what immediate steps are being taken to find out an alternative habitat for them?

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry is definitely not going to allow these trespassers to continue staying in these areas; and if I may answer the second part of the question, Sir, the Government is seriously looking into the cases of genuine landless squatters or trespassers who are staying in this area and active discussions are taking place amongst the Ministries concerned, especially between the Ministry of Lands and Settlement and the administration to try and find them alternative places where they can be taken and settled.

Mr. Kanja: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Considering the collective responsibility that the Government or the Ministries have, can the Assistant Minister tell this House how he and his Ministry are going to see that the genuine landless people who are already occupying part of their land in that particular part of the country are going to be settled bearing in mind that the hon. Minister of Lands and Settlement, hon. Angaine, did say in this House that he has no land at all to give to the landless people, and yet the Assistant Minister calls them trespassers? Where are they supposed to go if they are trespassers in their own country? Where else are they supposed to go?

Mr. Ochwada: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of the statement made by the Minister for Lands and Settlement that he has no land on which to settle genuine landless squatters or trespassers. What I am aware of, Sir, is that the Government is actively considering settling the genuine landless squatters who are trespassing in this particular area. I want to assure the House that the Government is sympathetic with the landless people of this country and whatever can be done will be done within the shortest period possible to settle the landless people who are settling in this area in question.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We will go back to Mr. Kitonga's question.

Question No. 85 (1343)

LOANS FOR ERECTION OF HOUSES IN SOMBE

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House since the present Sombe Trading Centre is to be shifted to another place because of the destructive river which overflows in that area, whether Government could supply loans to the people who own business houses at present in order that they may erect other houses at the new proposed market.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me first of all apologize for having come a few minutes late; I think I came in at five minutes past nine when the question had already been called, and therefore, I apologize to the House for that lateness.

Sir, I beg to reply. Since the market or the proposed trading centre and the traders from

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry]

Sombe who intend to move fall under the local authority and the Lands Department, it would be unwise to direct, at this juncture, that the business premises be built from Government funds until such time that both the county council and the Lands Department will have finalized matters related to title-deeds or ownership of plots by every individual or group of traders. After this, our Ministry will then decide whether the market will be viable for any investment purposes to warrant any kind of financial assistance from my Ministry.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply where he has said that until the matters related to ownership of title-deeds by each individual will have been settled—until such time that the Lands Department will have agreed with Kitui Council—no financial assistance will be given from his Ministry, can the Minister tell the House if that is finalized he will step in and help? Do we take it that his answer is a promise to this House? If this will be the promise, would the Minister tell us whether I should try to hurry up the Ministry of Lands and Settlement and Kitui County Council for the necessary action in order to see what the Minister for Commerce would do?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a very long and juggled up supplementary question. However, Sir, the question of granting financial assistance to the traders who will acquire plots at this new market does not arise at this time. It will be considered just like any other market place which we are considering to give funds for building purposes. This particular area will not be given special consideration from the others. As I have replied, when the exercise that has to be made by the Ministry of Lands and Settlement and the relative county council, has been finished, we will consider the viability of the place and the case will be considered on its own merit.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is our Government's policy to help our people. Since I heard the Minister saying this will not be considered as a special case and our Government's policy is to give first priority to remote areas, the places which were neglected by the Colonial Government, I wonder why the Minister tries to act contrary to our policy?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not going contrary to Government policy. What I have said is that this case will be considered on its own merit. However, I would like to inform the hon. Member that my Ministry has not reached a stage where it should assist traders in building trading premises. Of course, we are aware—and he has confirmed that the place in question was neglected before, but if we assist them to build the premises they will not raise money to put goods in those shops and so they will not be able to pay back the loan. They should raise money to build on the plots themselves and we will help them with loans to put goods in their shops.

Question No. 168 (1501)

ERECTING OF SHANTY EATING HOUSES

Mr. Ebu asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House why the Ministry allows shanty eating houses to be erected in Nairobi and in other big towns while similar structures or even better ones are not allowed in the rural centres.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): Mr. Speaker, I beg to reply. First of all I must apologize for coming late. I also came five minutes late and found that the question had already been called, and so I beg to apologize to the House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government views regarding shanty development in both rural and urban areas have often been stated and I would like to refer the hon. Member to recent Government statements on this matter. One thing that should be pointed out is that responsibility for the day-to-day administration of buildings in urban and rural areas is given to local authorities, which should enforce by-laws regarding this matter.

Mr. Ebu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since it is obvious that certain authorities, such as Nairobi and Mombasa and few others, are unable to enforce the by-laws, and in view of the fact that health conditions in some of these shanties could cause an outbreak of diseases such as cholera, is there nothing Government can do to rectify the situation?

Mr. ole Oloitipiti: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not quite true that county councils or the City Council of Nairobi and Municipal Council of Mombasa are not able to do anything about shanties. I may refer the hon. Member to the recent activities by the Nairobi City Council which demolished very many shanties in the town. Therefore, the question of local authorities not being able to enforce these by-laws is out.

Mr. Mnene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the shanties he is referring to are not the eating houses referred to in this question? The Assistant Minister is referring to the shanties which were pulled down and were used as dwelling houses, not as "small, funny hotels".

Mr. ole Oloitiptip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, any unplanned, unauthorized buildings—unauthorized by City Council or by local authority—are all shanties.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Kahengeri.

Question No. 178 (1522)

WORKERS' ACCOMMODATION: THIKA PLANTATION ESTATES

Mr. Kahengeri asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether he was aware that workers in plantation estates, particularly Komothai Estate, Gitamayu Estate, Pillion Estate and Kalimoni Sisal Estate in Thika Division are living in almost uninhabitable huts which are dangerous to their health.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitiptip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is known that housing conditions on the estates mentioned—except Kalimoni Sisal Estate—are far from satisfactory. Our health staff have been visiting these and other estates and have pointed out to the management of these farms the need for improvement to their staff housing.

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I submit to the Assistant Minister that perhaps lack of investigation made him exclude Kalimoni Sisal Estate from this list perhaps because it has many temporary housing lines and that is perhaps because these people did not build some of them. However, may I ask—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will you ask a question and not make a speech.

Mr. Kahengeri: What powers has the Minister for Health—since if he confirms the condition of houses for the people in those farms is not satisfactory—to enable him to compel the estate management to put up good houses for the workers?

Mr. ole Oloitiptip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister has the powers to compel these people to demolish unsatisfactory buildings which the workers are living in. However, at present the procedure is that our field officers go there and warn them of the same, and if they do not respond to the warning given by our field officers, then the matter comes to us and we take action. I promise that if the hon. Member came to our office and gave us some real information on this matter we would take action straightaway.

Mr. Wachira: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Ministry of Health has officers in all these plantations, why did they take so long to know this? Since these officers are always working there, why did they wait for the hon. Member to tell them instead of them knowing exactly what the situation in that particular place is like and then do something about it?

Mr. ole Oloitiptip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all I know is that our health officers have visited this place and warned these people in the plantation to get the staff good houses. However, Mr. Speaker, as far as I know, nothing has reached our Ministry to the effect that these houses have not been demolished according to our instructions. Once we know that this is the case, definitely, we shall take action.

Question No. 171 (1507)

CONTROL OF HYENAS AND WILD PIGS IN
KASIPUL/KABONDO

Mr. Mbori asked the Minister for Tourism and Wildlife if he would tell the House what steps the Minister was urgently taking to control wild pigs and hyenas in Kasipul/Kabondo that kill people and destroy their crops.

The Assistant Minister for Tourism and Wildlife (Mr. Jan Mohamed): Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all I would like to apologize to the House for not having been here when the question was asked. Mr. Speaker, Sir, descending from the tenth floor of the New Jogoo House is very dependent on the movement of the lift and I also apologize to the hon. Member.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not normal that wild pigs kill people and hyenas destroy crops. On the other hand, if wild pigs are destroying crops and hyenas are killing people, then I would like the hon. Member to give specific instances because I am not aware of this and no reports have been made to my field officers. On the question of control, these two species of animals are classified as vermin under the Wild Animals Protection Act, Cap. 376. As such, Mr. Speaker, Sir, anybody threatened by these animals is at liberty to destroy them. My officers in the field also are always prepared to help those who seek their help when necessary.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister that I should be able to give specific cases and places where these animals have caused incidents of this nature, there are six sub-locations involved in this, and these are: Kodera/Karabach, Kodera/Kamiyawa, Sino Kagola, Kachieng' and Kasewe. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the people in these sub-locations are from time to time being troubled by these wild animals. Some of these animals, particularly wild pigs, destroy people's crops, and the hyenas kill the people. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell us what steps he is intending to take to bring these animals under control. For example, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister allow the normal way of African hunting? We can use rungus and dogs to chase these animals away.

Mr. Jan Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already said that these wild animals, namely, wild pigs and hyenas, are termed as vermin and if they are genuinely destroying crops or killing people in a particular area, the people in that area are at liberty to take action. However, Mr. Speaker, I would like to make it very clear that we have our field officers in that area and game scouts and game officers are stationed at Homa Bay and I am not aware whether the hon. Member or the people from Kasipul/Kabondo have made any report to them. Now, Mr. Speaker, these officers are there to help the people, and therefore I would urge the hon. Member to tell the people in that area to approach the game officers in the area.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We will go on now.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am trying to seek your guidance regarding to questions asked in this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when you approve the questions, the pro formas are sent to various Ministries. Mr. Speaker, I received the pro forma of my question of 15th March 1971 and the question was directed to the Attorney-General. At the same time, Sir, I have received a note from the Clerk to the National Assembly informing me that my question has been dropped, under what section of our Standing Orders I do not understand. If you will allow me to read it—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Mr. Munyasia, this is the kind of thing you should have come to explain to me. It is not of any particular interest now to the House and, again, I am not likely to follow what you are saying without reading the papers you have in your hands.

Mr. Munyasia: May I read them, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): There is no need. It is only taking the time of the House for nothing when we could talk it out in my office.

Mr. Wachira: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, last time the Minister for Natural Resources laid some documents on the Table which were related to the forest area in Murang'a District and I thought that the documents then became the property of this House. Unfortunately when I looked for the documents, I could not find them. Would you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, advise me on this?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am afraid I do not seem to follow what you are trying to raise.

POINT OF ORDER

PAPERS LAID ON THE TABLE BECOME THE PROPERTY OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Wachira: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as you remember, when the Minister for Natural Resources was answering a Motion in connexion with the forest area in Murang'a District, he Tabled some documents relating to the forest areas in Murang'a District; however, thereafter, he took the documents away. Mr. Speaker, I thought that when any books or papers relating to any issue being discussed in this House are laid on the Table, they normally become the property of the House.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All documents which are Tabled here become the property of the House. So, there is no question of anybody having taken those documents away, and if that did happen then, it is wrong. It cannot be done because these documents are there so that Members can refer to them.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

MATTER OF REPLY TO QUESTION NO. 171: CONTROL OF HYENAS AND WILD PIGS IN
KASIPUL/KABONDO

Mr. Mbori: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the answer I have received to my question was so inadequate, would I be in order to raise the matter on a Motion for Adjournment?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not know how many times I am going to repeat this. I told you it is not necessary for you to say that. All you have to do is to give me a written notice. It only takes up the time of the House for nothing.

Let us go on now.

IMPRISONMENT OF MR. D. OSHE BY THE DISTRICT COMMISSIONER FOR MOYALE

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I have received a written notice from Mr. Araru, the Member for Moyale, of his intention to raise on a Motion for the Adjournment, a matter contained in a reply received to this question by Private Notice concerning illegal imprisonment of Mr. D. Oshe by the District Commissioner of Moyale. I shall call for the Motion for the Adjournment at the time of interruption of Business on Tuesday, 23rd March 1971.

CREATION OF HOUSING MANAGER'S POST BY
NAIROBI CITY COUNCIL

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I have also received a written notice from Mr. Mutiso, the Member for Yatta, of his intention to raise on a Motion for the Adjournment, a matter contained in a reply received to his question by Private Notice concerning the creation of the post of Housing Manager by the City Council of Nairobi. I shall call for the Motion for the Adjournment at the time of interruption of Business on Wednesday, 24th March 1971.

POINTS OF ORDERAUTHORITY FOR ASKING A QUESTION ON BEHALF OF ANOTHER MEMBER

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when a question is called and the Questioner happens not to be in the House, what is wrong if another hon. Member asks the question on behalf of the questioner since even we, the Back-benchers, have a collective responsibility?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The practice is quite clear unless Members like to forget so quickly. If an hon. Member knows he will not be present, he makes arrangements with another Member to ask the question on his behalf. Quite often an hon. Member stands up and just asks the question or claims that he has been authorized to ask it. We do not go too deeply to the question of authorization, and normally the question is answered. Now, we went through this question twice. I called it first when we came in, and neither the Questioner nor the Minister were present. We then went right through the questions, completed the whole set of them and then I came back again and called the question and nobody stood up to say he was authorized to ask it, and again at that particular moment the Minister was not in the Chamber; he had just disappeared—

Hon. Members: He was here.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Nthenge did come wanting to ask this question after I had called it for the second time. At that time Mr. Njonjo was not in the Chamber; so Mr. Nthenge sat down and I told him that the question could not be asked again. So the blame lies with the Questioner, and perhaps the Minister for not having been there at the time when Mr. Nthenge wanted to raise it.

TIME FOR ASKING A QUESTION ON BEHALF OF AN ABSENT MEMBER

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Ochwada): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, can you make it clear when exactly a substitute Member can stand up and claim to have been authorized to ask a question by the Member who is supposed to ask it? When can he stand up? Is it at the end of question time or when a question is called? I think there seems to be some slight difference between what used to happen before and what happens now. If you can clarify that I think it could help the Back-benchers.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): When the question is called and if there is any likelihood that the Member concerned will turn up, then we go over it until we come to the end. Then we go back and the question is called again. This is exactly what happened because you will recall that we went right through the Oral Questions but there was not even a single Minister present and ready to answer these questions, and so we turned to questions by Private Notice; and when we finished I came back and started right from the beginning of the Oral Questions. Mr. Mulwa's question comes first and when I called it nobody claimed that he had been authorized to ask it; and so we went right through the other questions. However, I could not go back again because I had already done what is required.

MOTIONDEVELOPMENT OF MARSABIT, TURKANA, SAMBURU AND ISIOLO DISTRICTS

Mr. Kholkholle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the intention of this Motion is to draw the attention of Government and the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning to the fact that the areas in question are very backward and cannot, therefore, compete with other more developed areas. With a view to following the Motion point by point I would like to say that the areas in question are very backward in education. We have only a few schools, most of which were built by missionaries—they are boarding schools from Std. I to Std. VII because the people in those areas are nomadic, moving from one place to another and, therefore, the children must be left behind to study. The missionaries are not very financially strong but they have been very kind to build these schools and, therefore, it is the duty of the Government to come in and assist or take over these schools from the missionaries because it was stipulated in the Kanu manifesto of 1963 that the people in those remote areas, for example Turkana, Boran, Rendille, Samburu etc., will be given priority in development. However, this promised priority by the Kenya Government or the ruling party has not been fulfilled and therefore we cannot compete with the other more developed areas because we are not of the same standard: for example, last year only 12 pupils sat for their Certificate of Primary Education Examination at Loisamis Catholic Primary School, and out of those 12 pupils in Std. VII who sat for the examination only two passed who, nevertheless, are not originally from Marsabit but they are from other areas—I think they come from Meru. However, I am not very jealous to ask why they are admitted there. However, you can see the comparison. I do not know what was wrong with the pupils from those backward remote areas that they did not pass. However, they are in the first phase. These two pupils might had repeated their examination somewhere else and, possibly, it could be that they were repeating for the second time or the third time. In some of these schools, which were built by the missionaries, you can find some children sleeping on the floor or on Vono beds without mattresses! Therefore, this House would like to urge the Government to take over these schools. Since we do not have Harambee schools to be taken over we would like these missionary schools to be taken over by the Kenya Government and run them properly so that we can catch up with the other areas which are more developed. I can only blame the Kenya Government from the time we achieved our independence, but before then it was not the fault of the Kenya Government. I can remember that when I was a Headmaster in a primary school in Marsabit, I was told by one of the colonialists that they could not educate people from those areas because they had had a very hard time with Kikuyu and therefore they could not allow us to get education—children were expelled before reaching Std. IV. Even in my Motion you can notice that I am blaming the colonialist. Therefore, it is high time we are given priority in order to catch up with other areas. Therefore, I would like to urge the Government to come and take over these schools—support them financially—so that we can catch up with other areas.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to go to the second point: employment. Though we are very backward, I think we have some few people who are employable in the Government or in the private sector. I would like the Government to train these people—the few people that we produce—so that they can work with the Government in order that we may also have our chance to participate in the running of our Government. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is quite unjust to bring people from other areas to be employed in those areas in question. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have a few people with Cambridge School Certificate, a few others with Certificate of Primary Education and these people should be given priority when it comes to employment in the Civil Service. If Government only considers those people who have very high qualifications, then we shall never take part in the Kenya Government, Mr. Speaker. It is quite unjust, quite wrong, to say that they can only employ the people who come from the more developed areas or from the areas where people are highly educated—we shall always remain behind and we shall never march side by side with the people from other areas. What we want is to see all the citizens in Kenya matching side by side instead of some of the people being behind.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may go ahead to my third point—my third point is about medical facilities. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I mentioned in the first sentence, these people are nomadic; they move from one place to another. Mr. Speaker, Sir, why are these people who are in the remote areas never attended. It is because there are no health centres in their areas and they move from place to place. What is wanted here, Mr. Speaker, is mobile units which would go around in the remote areas attending the people. These mobile units can take the more serious patients from the remote areas to the district hospitals. Now, Mr. Speaker, in this remote areas, Turkana, Samburu, Marsabit and Isiolo, people die because they are not attended, they are left like animals in the bush. It is high time that we are given the same treatment with the more developed areas. These mobile units can go around and treat the people and we shall have the same medical facilities with the more developed areas.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are no health centres, for instance, in a place like Marsabit. Marsabit District is 42,000 square miles and there is only one district hospital. There are people who are more than 300 miles from the district hospital and they are never attended, Mr. Speaker. Therefore, you can see that it is unfair that these people are not attended and they die like animals in the bush due to lack of medical facilities. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think it is high time the Kenya Government should see that those people are attended and are given the best medical facilities.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my fourth point is about the water supplies. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the drought has been made more severe by lack of water. Mr. Speaker, even if the people are given food, raw food, they have nothing to cook it with in terms of water. What is the use of that food? If somebody is given maize or posho and he has no water for his consumption or for his livestock this does not help. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have Lake Rudolf—Lake Victoria is very far away: we have nothing to do with Lake Victoria. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have Lake Rudolf, there is water there and all that is wanted—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Do you want to interrupt, Mr. Munyi?

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. My point of order is this: is it in order for the hon. Member to refer to Lake Rudolf when it is known that it is a salt water lake and it is not fresh water lake like Lake Victoria?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, you can disagree with him when you come to speak on the Motion.

Mr. Kholkholle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have Lake Rudolf there, Mr. Speaker, and the water in that big lake can be used for irrigation purposes and for human and livestock consumption. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is high time the water policy is reviewed. It should be reviewed so that those people who are dying from thirst are given water, Mr. Speaker. There must be a special committee to look into this; I feel this is the way the water policy should be reviewed. People in this area depend on livestock and if their livestock die because of lack of water, Mr. Speaker, it will be very serious and very bad. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I urge Government, or I call upon Government or this House calls upon Government, to see that the water policy is reviewed and the districts in question are given priority in the water supply policy. We require more boreholes, Mr. Speaker, which should be dug at an interval of about 30 miles or 40 miles so that our people, the Kenya citizens, do not suffer through having to go for 100 miles or more than that looking for water with small vessels and when they come back they rest for one day and the next day they go back to look for water again. Mr. Speaker, I would like Government to consider reviewing the water policy and these areas must be given priority in the policy, or a team should be sent to every district in question to construct boreholes.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, my fifth point is about the roads. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the roads are impassable even during the dry seasons. Why this is so is because the roads have never been repaired, Mr. Speaker, since we got our independence. We are being told that a road is being constructed. I am very grateful that the main road is being constructed from Nairobi to Addis Ababa but, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what about the feeder roads, the roads which are used by the people in the districts? The lorries are unable to move within the district because the roads are so bad and they have never been repaired. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this main road is only useful to the people going from here to Marsabit and Moyale. What about when going to North Horr, Elred Loyangalani or the inner parts of the district?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the development of these areas, I think communications are very important and the roads must be improved and be constructed properly so that the traders can move freely within this district and reach anywhere easily instead of being stuck on the road now and then. If a lorry goes from Marsabit to North Horr, Mr. Speaker, by the time it gets back it is without tyres, all the tyres being completely worn out.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if a trader wants to hire a lorry within Marsabit District, or within the districts in question, the owner of the lorry will say that he cannot go to that place because the road is very bad. Mr. Speaker, I therefore, urge Government, or this House urges Government, to give priority to these four districts in question, so that they can be considered first in development, or for the sake of development of those areas.

Mr. Speaker, my sixth point is about livestock improvement. Mr. Speaker, as I said earlier, these people completely or totally live on livestock, and the livestock in those areas are dying from diseases. Sir, if Government is not going to improve the livestock in those areas within a few years, all the animals will disappear and the people will be left destitute. They will be left very poor because in those four districts there is no cultivation—nothing can be grown in those areas, Mr. Speaker. Therefore, what Government should do is improve the livestock there, which is only the economy of those areas on which the livelihood of those people depends—for instance, cattle, camels, sheep and goats, Mr. Speaker, these animals—The areas in question, if I can say this, are overstocked; the areas are so overstocked that they are becoming a desert, and Government should start range schemes so that these animals are better kept, and the people can enjoy the fruits of our independence. Now, if you go to those areas, Mr. Speaker, you will find the livestock wandering here and there, without food, and without water. They die from all sorts of diseases; from Foot-and-Mouth disease, Blackwater, Anthrax, and from so many other diseases, and, Sir, if the livestock in those areas is not improved, within a few years you will find that everything will be in a mess.

Another thing, Mr. Speaker, which I want to say is this: Sir, I think the four districts deserve to be made into a province. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the four districts should form a separate province because, if North-Eastern Province comprise three districts I think the four districts in question should also be declared a province so that they can have their own provincial commissioner who can then concentrate more on the development of these areas. Mr. Speaker, Mar-sabit, for instance, has a population of 52,000, Samburu 85,000 people, Turkana 150,000, Isiolo more than 30,000 people; we have more people than the North-Eastern Province. If north-eastern areas can become a province, and Government concentrates on them, Sir, I do not see any reason why we should not become a province so that we can have our own provincial commissioner somewhere in these four districts, who would concentrate on development for the area.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Kholkhole. Mr. Kholkhole, may I remind you that you have not yet moved your Motion. You move your Motion by reading it through; you first say you beg to move and then read it through. All you have been doing is talking on it but you have not moved it, and if the time goes by before you do that, then there is no Motion.

Mr. Kholkholle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I therefore, beg to move the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that Marsabit, Turkana, Samburu and Isiolo Districts are parts of Kenya which were neglected and used as a buffer by the colonialists for the protection of former White Highlands, this House calls upon the Government to give the four districts special treatment in education, employment, medical facilities, water supply, roads and livestock improvement, in order to enable them to catch up with the other parts of Kenya.

I call upon Mr. Mbori to second the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! It is not for you to do that.

Mr. Mbori: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I thank the Mover of the Motion very much for having brought it here, and before I say much about this Motion, Sir, the following points are observable in the areas concerned.

The first is that it is a drought and famine stricken area; the second, the people themselves are nomads; the third, it is true the colonialists actually left these districts, namely Marsabit, Samburu, Turkana and Isiolo, lagging behind for reasons that were best known to themselves. Mr. Speaker, the fourth point I want to mention is that it is the duty of Government to adjust its system of services to these four districts, so that they are brought into line with the remaining parts of Kenya, which are much more advanced. The fifth point, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that there is a very large population—if I take my friend's figures to be correct, the population numbers more than 300,000 people.

Mr. Speaker, having looked at these facts, I would like to state the following things: it is true that if we wish to have a system which would help the people in these four districts we require to adjust the educational system in these areas. Even in the Kanu Manifesto of 1963, Mr. Speaker, it was emphasized that the educational system, the educational development in these four districts, would be adjusted, and would be given top priority so as to enable the people in Marsabit, Samburu, Turkana and Isiolo districts to advance alongside the advanced parts of Kenya. Provision of education should be speeded up, and the educational system, I think, should offer adequate facilities. First of all, it is not enough for an area like this to have only a few secondary schools; it is not enough for an area like Marsabit to have a handful of 10 primary schools. I do not see why these should not be increased, to double the number, and once this is done, an equivalent system of promoting existing secondary schools should be made. At the moment there are 10 primary schools which are manned by missionaries. I understand these schools are all boarding. I think Government would do better to take over the administration from the missionary bodies, so that the areas, actually, feel that Government is helping them. The missionaries have established the schools; the missionaries have been running these schools. Mr. Speaker, you will agree with me that their resources of running the schools can run down to exhaustion, and once the funds are deflated, Sir, you will agree with me, that the system of education will slow down. I feel that it should be the duty of Government, to take over these schools, which are actually boarding schools because, as we know boarding schools are very expensive. The Government should take them over so that people in these areas are given the necessary delivery of goods, Mr. Speaker.

The next thing I would like to point out, Mr. Speaker, is the question of water. I think water supplies in the areas are very necessary. A system should be formalized so that a water project is introduced in the four districts in order that arrangements can be made for introducing irrigation schemes to make the land which is available productive. The land should be productive to enable these people to reduce famine; the land should be productive to enable grass to be available, so that the animals, which are actually the mainstay of the area, can be kept healthy all the year round. You will agree with me, Mr. Speaker, that this area requires water supplies so that human beings in that area can enjoy a good life. This is lacking in this area, Mr. Speaker, and I think it should be the duty of the Kenya Government, and indeed the duty of this hon. House, to treat these four districts as parts of Kenya, and very important parts of Kenya. The people there should be enabled to live a life which will make them proud Kenyans. Where water is lacking, I think Government would be pretending much too much, to send, for example, relief supplies like food, maize flour, etc. Now, without water, with what will these people cook their food? With what will they cook their maize? Therefore, the first thing, the first primary thing that Government should do is, to establish a system of water supply, which will be permanent in Samburu, in Turkana, Isiolo and Marsabit, to enable the people themselves to live well and to keep their animals healthy. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this area could be productive. If the Government establishes a water system in this area, which is permanent, you should agree with me that later on it would not be necessary for Government to send famine relief supplies to this area during what may be called the drought season; during famine times. If there would be famine later on, after the Government has supplied a water system in this area, it would be the people's own laziness and they would have themselves to blame, not the Government. At this time, I am sure, they can blame the Government. Therefore, we call upon the Government to take care and provide a water system in this area.

The next thing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that for an area to develop pretty fast it requires a communication system which is reliable; a communication system which serves the people; which goes into all the areas where supplies and services are required. This means that there should be at least a few motorable roads which are passable at all times of the year—this should be at all times; whether during drought; whether during the rainy season or whether there is sand. These roads should be made motorable. However, I have just learned from the hon. Member that the roads have never been constructed and the few that are there have never been kept in good repair. Now, how do you expect these people to communicate with the rest of Kenya? How do you expect them to move into Nairobi; how do you expect them to go to Nanyuki and all these other places if there are no roads which are made to serve them well? So, I would support the Mover of the Motion that there should be a reasonable number of roads which should be kept in good repair and a few more should be constructed. There should not be many roads which are not classified.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, livestock is the mainstay of the people of Marsabit, Samburu, Turkana and Isiolo as I said before. These should be given the necessary services; for example, a veterinary officer should be posted there in order to reduce live-stock diseases. If there are veterinary officers there, I think there will be more animals and the people will be able to get enough supply of necessary products; for example, milk, hides and skins and so on. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is necessary for the Government, at least, to help them to find out how ranches can be established in these areas so that the animals can be kept alive and, therefore, they can supply more products in the areas.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to point out that the Government should provide more medical services to the people themselves. We understand that they are nomadic people and it is true that they are. However, these people can also be trained to be sedentary. They can live in one particular spot. If the Government has a mobile unit travelling in various areas supplying medical supplies and giving them the necessary medical services, it can, at the same time, be used to tell them to live in one particular spot. This would mean the Government would be doing much more than is being done at the present time. I think, perhaps, somebody may put up an argument later on and say, why are they nomadic? Certainly, due to the environment and the nature of climatic conditions in these areas, these people are bound to be nomadic. Sometimes they go in need of food; sometimes they go in need of water; sometimes in need of the animals food. So they are bound by nature to be nomadic. Sometimes they go in need of some things and sometimes in search of what they can feed on. So, the only thing the Government can do is to provide them with mobile clinics to go to various places supplying medical services, and at the same time, the people themselves can be trained to live a sedentary life as people in other parts of Kenya do.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the people in these areas will require that we relieve them of the dangers of life that they face, particularly drought and famine. The Government will do best if a system was started right now to enable them to live in the resistance of drought; in the resistance of famine and, at the same time, while bettering the educational system in these areas. After the educational system is adjusted, Mr. Speaker, I am quite sure the hon. Member from Marsabit will have no difficulties in enabling his people to get employment in the private sector or in our Government.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You were seconding the Motion, Mr. Mbori?

Mr. Mbori: Yes, Sir, I was seconding.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All right.

(Question proposed)

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

DETAILS OF FAMINE RELIEF DONATIONS AND TRANSPORTATION EXPENSES

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, with your permission, I would like, first of all, to place this information on the Table here which I promised yesterday, to make available to Members. However, I am doing so with an apology because there were some points—two points—which I made mistakes in presenting.

First, when I used the word "the National Bank of Lusaka", that was actually wrong because the money was donated by officers and all the staff under our High Commissioner in Lusaka. They processed it in their bank in a hurried way, it was so written and, therefore, I apologize for the mistake of attributing that money, Sh. 1,050 to that bank; it was contributed by our High Commissioner in Lusaka.

The second correction, I want to make is the use of the word "C.A.R.E.". I misled the House when I said that the donation made by "C.A.R.E." came from China. That is not true. The fact is that the meaning of "C.A.R.E." is Co-operative for American Relief Everywhere, and this Co-operative donated Sh. 1,029,000. So, it was the word "C.A.R.E.", in which I made a mistake. With those two corrections, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to make this information available to the Members as I promised.

(Resumption of Debate on Motion)

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all, we have arranged that the hon. Balala would officially reply to this question.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all I want to say that this is a very, very good Motion and the only objection that this House will agree with me on is that if an area, at the time of a crisis, requests a very special type of treatment, that is the only point that I think the person who will reply to this Motion will make an objection to.

Now, on the question of looking after the area—I feel that the Mover, with all due respect to him, should have informed this House the price of cattle during the colonial days and the price of cattle today, so as to show whether there has been a degree of improvement. Then again—

Mr. Kholkholle: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister is confusing the House by saying that the price of cattle has improved while people are now exchanging a cow for a bag of posho. Is he in order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Kholkholle. We have rules here, Mr. Kholkholle. You will have an opportunity to reply to your Motion and that is the time you can correct whatever you think is not correct. You do not have to interrupt on those grounds now.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the second point is that I fully agree with the hon. Member who supported the Mover of this Motion because, first of all, he expressed gratitude for a certain degree of improvement which has been done there. He went ahead to point out some of the things that Government could help with. Now, in his criticism it is noted, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that he does not show how much his own people and he, as a Member of Parliament, are actually doing except repeatedly saying Government should do this or that for them. With all due respect, he, as a Member of Government and a leader of his people, should co-operate with Government. If there is that road which has been built recently, going through his area towards Ethiopia, he should recognize that. It is only yesterday when we sent about 15 tons of maize to Marsabit. At least that provision of food should be given recognition, apart from the other point which the hon. colleague of mine, Mr. Munyi, mentioned. If we serve our people and consistently, and then we get no appreciation, that is not good. What I am suggesting, with due respect, is that the hon. Member should balance what has been done, what is being done and what should be done. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to say more on that but I think we require co-operation between the Government, the Members of Parliament and the people there. The Assistant Minister here will give some of the facts and the hon. Member should show appreciation of these facts. I am deliberately avoiding giving these facts because I do not want to dilute the hon. Member's speech. He should really appreciate this. The facts which will be revealed here will be revealed not for the purpose of letting the hon. Member down but to show that this Government has done something today for our people in North-Eastern Province. It has done something not only in that area but—

An hon. Member: It is Eastern Province.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Yes, in the Eastern Province.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this will reveal that Government has done something not only in that area but also in other areas. I would like to state here that "Rome was not built in one day". We are not saying that we have completed everything that we would like to see done. If our brothers from Masailand could come here, they would say that they want water. The other day, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I made an appeal here—not my own appeal but an appeal made by Mzee, His Excellency the President, that our priority today should be to supply people with water. Water is life, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Our brother here says that he wants water for his people. Our leader and the father of the nation—Mzee Kenyatta—has said that water, not only in his area but also throughout the country, is the first priority. Therefore, we cannot say that the supply of water must be exclusively started in the hon. Member's area until all his people get the water they need. The service must be provided throughout Kenya, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will leave the last comments to be made by the hon. Balala.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for giving me this opportunity to say something on this Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are debating a very important Motion and I would have liked our Minister, who has just sat down, to say what the hon. Mover of the Motion should have appreciated: what Government has done for us. But, the Member forgot this, Mr. Speaker. The hon. Member was talking generally about what is happening in that part of the country. I am sure some of our Ministers, and even some of our Government officials, do not know where that part of our country is situated, or even where Marsabit is. Most of them, when they are writing letters to us, refer to that place as being in the North-Eastern Province. Even the Minister who has just sat down was referring to it as being in the North-Eastern Province, Mr. Speaker. It seems nobody knows where Marsabit or Moyale, are. They think we are in the North-Eastern Province, Mr. Speaker, while we are really in the Eastern Province. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in this part of the country we have been forgotten completely. The question is not whether this or that has been done for us but the fact is that we have been forgotten completely.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the point here is this. If the Minister who has just spoken can go back to the office and consult his books, he can see that in the Kanu Manifesto of 1963, just before we became independent, which was laid down in writing and not by talking, we were promised that the Masai people, Turkana, Boran, Gabra and Redille would be given first priority in the fields of education, roads, health and development as a whole, Mr. Speaker. Today, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have been forgotten. Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we attained our independence, seven years ago, the hon. Minister, Mr. Koinange, who has just sat down, has been to Wajir in North-Eastern Province only once. He has never been to Marsabit, Isiolo, Moyale or Samburu. If he has ever been to that part of the country, let him say so here. Let him tell the House when he went to those places, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we are all the same people—and that is what I always appeal to the House to note—we should have justice everywhere on the soil of this country. All human beings of this country should be accorded the same justice, Mr. Speaker, Sir. We should all get the fruits of independence and all other facilities offered by the Government of this country. Our Government should remember one thing. That part of the country was being claimed by Somalia during the Shifta time. Mr. Speaker, Sir, do you know what we were being told during those days by the Colonial Government? They used to tell us that the Kikuyu and the Luo people can never have us as we are. They used to tell us that since we are Moslems we shall be neglected, our religion will be neglected and our culture will also be neglected. They told us it was better for us to join Somalia, to which they said we belonged since we had a common language and a common religion. That is why the Shifta movement was started, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was one of those who were very much against secession and I am known in every book of this country. Also, the book written by Qaush Amin, who was the Chairman of the Borders Commission, bears my name together with names of some other Members. Not all the people in the country were supporting that, Mr. Speaker; it was only supported by propagandists.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we were promised all these services in the Kanu Manifesto and I do not know why our Government has forgotten us. I do not know what our Government is doing. Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is this Nairobi-Addis Ababa Road which is now under construction. But, which one individual has this project helped? Mr. Speaker, Sir . . . (Inaudible) is 250 miles from Marsabit and is within the district, and there are no roads between those places. Let the Minister for Works open his books and tell us whether, since 1963, anybody has been to that place. The people who are living there are from Marsabit.

[Mr. Araru]

The people who are living there are from Marsabit (Inaudible) is 310 miles from Marsabit up to the other parts of Lake Rudolf which borders Ethiopia. Let the Minister for Works tell this House whether any of his surveyors, or anybody else, has ever been to that part of the country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we come to North Horr, 110 miles away, nobody has ever been to that part. South Horr, Mr. Speaker, which is 170 miles from Marsabit Town has never been visited. It is only recently when something was done for Moyale, Mr. Speaker, Sir. It is 30 miles from Moyale and up to now there is no one who has reached there to do anything. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are talking about the problems that, in general, face the whole North-Eastern Province. Let the Minister for Health, who is here now, tell us whether there is even a single qualified doctor working in any of these four districts. Let him tell us just now there is no qualified doctor working in Isiolo. In Marsabit, there is a missionary doctor who is helping the Government in providing health services to the people there. However, this missionary doctor is expected to cover 43 square miles. In Moyale there is not even a single qualified doctor working there. The same thing applies to Samburu District. Even in Turkana District, about which the Minister for Health talked, during the Presidential Address debate, there is no qualified doctor working there. He said that there was some money which was voted about four years ago to build a dispensary, a clinic or a ward, but that money has always been returned to the Treasury because the Ministry of Works did not do its duty. Although the money was allocated by the Government for the purpose of building a dispensary in Turkana District, the Ministry of Works failed to make use of that money. The Assistant Minister for Health stated here that those areas are too far away from Nairobi and roads connecting those places are impassable. I know that Moyale is 600 miles away. Some of these places I have mentioned are over 900 miles away.

However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, either we are going to govern those areas properly or we leave them free. That is the only question left to the Government. When I say to govern I mean that it must be a one government—just like this building like the Parliament Buildings, the hon. Members inside this room. If there was no such building like the Parliament Buildings, the hon. Members would be out in the open. If our Government is unable to govern these people, then it must leave the area in the hands of those other people fighting to have that place. They want to take that area. If that is the case, then the Government must be careful.

I would like to mention something about livestock which the Minister has just mentioned. He said that there was a time when we used to have a lot of livestock. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir although I agree that we used to have a lot of livestock, times have changed and conditions and the standards of living have changed. Is the cost of living the same as it used to be in olden days? If you go to Marsabit you will find that the standard of living is as high as it is here in Nairobi. If you go there you will need a nice place to live in, you will need nice food. However, what has happened is that there is nothing to be marketed in that area. The livestock, which we used to sell in those days have died because of drought. We only hear some civil servants saying that there is enough money and food. However, why does our Government not introduce irrigation in those areas. What does a poor man do there if his cattle are sick? Where will he get medicine from because there is not even a single veterinary officer working there. The other day I said that there is not even a single drug you can buy from the veterinary officer in Marsabit or Moyale. Where will this poor man who is 600 miles away in the reserves get medicine from? This is what we are asking the Ministry. It would be better for the Minister to go there and see for himself instead of hearing from other people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the cases I am mentioning here are serious, especially the one in connexion with the lack of qualified doctors. Our people are dying, just like that. If you come to Moyale, even on Sunday, you will see about 60 kids with mothers lying on the floor of the dispensary. There is no qualified doctor there. They are only given Quinine and one injection. It is no wonder to hear that the first cases of cholera were reported in that area, in Galole. We ask the Minister for Health why he does not send one qualified doctor to every corner where this disease has been reported. We were told by one hon. Member from Mombasa that when the first man to catch cholera was taken to Galole Hospital, the people working there did not know what disease the man was suffering from until he was transferred to the General Hospital in Mombasa where the man was discovered to be suffering from cholera. This is because the man working in Galole Hospital is just a clinical assistant and we cannot expect him to know so much.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Nthenge: I am glad to have a chance to say a word on this Motion. It is a Motion on which, I believe, I would have much to say. It is a Motion which is similar to another one, or another discussion about which I heard about eight or nine years ago during the colonial rule. The position is that these areas have been neglected. I do not think there is anybody who will try to argue that there is no negligence as far as this question is concerned. In the north-eastern part of Kenya people hardly know what "ABC" is in the modern world. They hardly know anything— They know so little that it can be said they know nothing. Therefore, if they have been neglected, what should we do? Once we accept the truth that they have been left behind and they have been neglected, is it proper and fair for us to tell them to come and run against us, catch up with us or to compete among themselves? I do not think that will be proper.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a necessity for having a special plan for these backward areas so that we have uniformity in development in Kenya. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we do not do that there will never be uniformity in Kenya. I hope there is no hon. Member in this House who would like to see some areas being left behind. I think everybody would like to see uniformity in development. Everybody would like to see uniformity in development in Kenya. How can we achieve it if we are going to help those people who are still lagging behind, who even do not recognize the value and importance of education? Even if you went and built a school there, they would not send their children there because they do not yet understand the value of education. How should we go about it, Mr. Speaker, Sir? I am mainly speaking on the approach we should adopt. If we, in this House, all agree that there must be uniform development in Kenya, we must, therefore, have a special approach of tackling the problem facing the backward areas because they have been neglected. We cannot go on neglecting them because the longer we do so, the more the other areas will advance. Then at the end it will be almost impossible to develop them. What is my proposal, Mr. Speaker, for tackling these problems? I do not want the Government to say that it accepts this Motion on general terms, or to say that it is doing something.

I am proposing that the first thing to be done is to make these people understand what education is. I would like the people to understand the value of education. They should be made to understand where we are now, or how the world is today so that they can have an interest in learning or in doing other modern scientific things. If you took the most qualified doctor, those people might say that they do not want to go to the hospital because they do not understand what a doctor is. First of all, therefore, I want them to understand this general education. How are you going to give them this type of education? Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am a believer that there is nothing greater than propaganda. First of all, we must establish a propaganda machinery to give them the general principles of education. Let us have cinema vans and things like that going around there showing what is going on in other places so that people over there might take an interest in these things. When they see a child getting into an aeroplane and then fly in it, then their own children, we feel would like to try such a type of thing. Then when he asks how can he go about it, he will be told that he has first to go to school. This will make him wish to go to school. This in return will make his mother feel that if her child can become such a wizard as to fly an aeroplane, then that is a good thing, and therefore she must allow him to start at "A" of it, and that is, by going to school. This will make them have an interest in sending their children to school— Merely building of schools I do not think is good enough. Let us first of all educate them generally; let them understand or admire things like medicine; let them be shown films of people in hospitals getting cured so that they can get the idea that a hospital is a very good thing. This will make them go to the hospital whenever they are sick. That is what I would like to see happening there. I would like to have general education.

When they go to school, I do not want them to learn as we do in Central Province or in Ukambani but I want them to learn something different. I would like them to learn in a slightly different way from the others. I have already proposed, and I propose again, that they must feel that there is something else they are achieving. That is, in those areas mainly they are pastoral people. Let us have a lot of cattle, ngamia, and goats belonging to Government so that any child who goes to school and finishes a year he qualifies for two or three goats. In this way the children will go to school so that after a year they know they will get a goat. After finishing two years, he gains two or three goats. As you go on raising the numbers, by the time he passes the Certificate of Primary Education he has several goats, after completing Standard VII he qualifies for a cow or bull so that his parents feel that they are getting something which they understand. But if you tell them that they are getting the education to end up as doctors, they are not interested as they do not understand that.

[Mr. Nthenge]

They do not understand these complicated things, but if you tell them that after completing Standard VII they will get a camel and a cow, each parent will tell his own child, "Please, go and acquire this camel for us. Do not leave school until you have acquired a camel".

Now, what is going to happen? Some people will tell me that these people will be very rich or they make Government poor. After they have been very well educated, these same people will be taxed. Government will more or less get all the things they gave them by propaganda, but by then they will have qualified as doctors. They would have seen the value of education. This is one of the ways I feel we can have the children in those areas go to school.

If a Masai child is told that by the time you pass your Cambridge School Certificate you are going to get five cows and two bulls definitely each parent will have to see that his child reaches that stage of getting five free cows—just because he stays at school he gets five cows and two bulls. They will send their children to school.

This is my idea, Mr. Speaker, I feel that by telling them that education is good and they have to go to school that will not do very much. I want us to approach it from the propaganda point of view. We are handling human beings and they are what they are. They are sensitive to psychology and we must use it so that we may capture them. Once we have captured them then this programme will only last for about 12 to 15 years, and then we will cancel it because everybody will have accepted education. In fact, what happened with places like Ukambani, Central Province, the Coast and the rest, people were given sugar to go to school. Small boys were given sugar to go to school. So a boy went to school, not only to learn but to get sugar too. He could not leave class until he had some sugar, which they only got after finishing classes.

Now, what is the "sugar" that can be understood by the people in Isiolo—the neglected areas and Turkana? They will understand a cow and a goat. So at the end of the first year a boy qualifies for a goat and then if he hears that in the following year he will get three goats if he finishes he will stay on. After spending a long time in school he will be qualified so well that he will be able to earn a good salary, and we shall then not need to use the same propaganda because the child will have developed into a parent who appreciates and accepts education. That is the suggestion I am giving to Government so that we may not simply go and build schools and then come back here.

Mr. Speaker, should these people catch up or should they not? I feel that they must catch up because the Motion calls for catching up and you cannot catch up until and unless there is something new put to you.

I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is now time for the Government Responder.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Balala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it has been indicated that Government has no quarrel whatsoever with the Motion as it stands. But it has also been indicated that the areas mentioned in the Motion; that is, Marsabit, Samburu, Turkana and Isiolo are not the only districts in Kenya that were neglected and used as a buffer by the colonialists as a protection of the former White Highlands.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, hon. Members should realize that we have other areas in this country which were also neglected and, in fact, were oppressed during the colonial days and, therefore, they must have equal treatment and equal attention as these areas.

As I have said, I do appreciate the sentiments expressed by the hon. Member, but it is not true to give an impression that since the attainment of independence Government has not been doing anything. Government is guided by its Development Plans and that is, to try and remove the existing gaps between the rural and the urban areas in this country. Government is also committed to removing the imbalance between the poor and the rich in this country. It is with this in mind that Government has its Development Plan laying emphasis on paying special attention to the rural areas in this country.

However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government has, since independence, embarked vigorously on various development projects in the rural areas. Referring specially to Marsabit, Samburu, Turkana and Isiolo, I would like first to dismiss the allegation made by the hon. Member for Moyale, who said that there is not a single doctor in these four districts. I would like to assure this House and say that Marsabit has a doctor called Dr. Cox, who is already working in that district. In Isiolo we have a senior clinic assistant. In Samburu we have Dr. Bitcher Green, who is working on a mobile unit costing the Government Sh. 240,000. In Turkana we have a doctor covering the area also with a mobile unit. There is also a doctor from Lakori Mission.

So, from this information, the hon. Member should realize and see that Government is, in fact, taking care of these four districts from the medical point of view.

[The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in addition to this there are already Government hospitals in Marsabit, Moyale, Lokitaung, Maralal and Isiolo. During the current Plan period the following facilities will be provided in these hospitals where they are lacking. That is, an X-ray unit, a kitchen, a laundry, staff housing projects, a theatre, a maternity ward, an out-patient department, administration block, mortuary, isolation ward and stores. Further to this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government will not only continue to run the existing health centres but will construct more health centres as appropriate in order to reduce the great distances the people travel to get health facilities.

On the question of vegetation, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government is also aware of the nomadic way of life in these areas. It is with this in mind that we are planning to construct 14 boarding primary schools, of which four are already completed.

The position as at present with regard to schools is as follows: in Marsabit there are 13 primary schools, two boarding and one secondary school; in Turkana there are 12 schools, 10 boarding schools; in Samburu there are nine schools, four of which are boarding and one is secondary school; in Isiolo there are nine, three boarding schools, one secondary school. Sir the Members will also be aware, and they are aware, that the Government has completely removed the requirement of payment of fees by the parents of the children for the whole of 1971. As regards the other years, their rate of remission for these four districts has been the highest compared with other districts in the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, regarding water supply, the Government, in Marsabit is embarking on five boreholes which are being restored to operation at Sololo, Burgabo, Bolbias, Jaldesa and Halisurua. The county council, in the past, used to operate this but allowed the machinery to break down. There are also 14 pans which have been cleaned up and are now ready to receive rain water when the rains come.

In Turkana, Sir, the main concentration of efforts is on developing water supply for Ferguson's Gulf for the development of a fisheries camp there. Later this supply will be adequate for the township. Wells are now being dug and will be ready in July. A borehole has been completed at Likhard, the drilling machine will now go north to Lodwar to undertake the work of five boreholes.

In Samburu, Sir, the Wamba pipeline which was broken by elephants is being repaired. A team is preparing a plan to develop five boreholes in the area, for which Swedish finance is already available in this financial year. Three boreholes at Seroleli, Litata, Leisot which were put out of action through being filled with rocks, are being redrilled for restoration to service.

In Isiolo, Sir, the only present activity is the maintenance of two boreholes. There are new requests from this area for additional work and the Government is concentrating to provide these facilities to the people of the area.

On the question of livestock improvement, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this includes ranching schemes and general improvement of the quality of cattle through disease control and organized marketing. The Government is making efforts and is concentrating, in fact, in trying to improve the marketing system in that part so that the people of the area can easily and conveniently market their livestock.

As I said earlier, these things which I have mentioned were already realized and some are already being worked on, and will be completed during the Plan period.

I would like to point out to the hon. Member, too, that the roads which are, in fact, now being constructed in addition to the general Government maintenance of existing roads are as follows. The following development will take place largely as part of the Nairobi/Addis Ababa Road which is already half completed. By such construction, Sir, access to roads and road facilities will have improved in that area.

As the Member for the area perhaps, might be aware—and other hon. Members—the Government is spending almost £4.49 million in this scheme because in Marsabit 255 kilometres of trunk road at a cost of £2.8 million is under construction. In Isiolo 14 kilometres of trunk road, at a cost of £150,000 is under construction; in Samburu 190 kilometres of trunk road, at a cost of £1.3 million; in Turkana five kilometres of trunk road at a cost of £240,000. This will open up these areas and link them with Kitale and Eldoret and stimulate further the general development of the area.

Sir, I would like to emphasize here that it is true that the Government, through the ruling party, has stipulated in the manifesto that special attention will be given to the neglected areas, and it is with this view that the Government has embarked on development projects in these areas, and not only in Isiolo, Marsabit, Turkana and the other districts, but also in the other neglected areas prior to independence. The Government is still planning to do more and the hon. Member can be assured that whatever is in the Kanu Manifesto, whatever has been promised by the Government will be fulfilled. However, Rome was not built in one day, and here more will be done in the areas mentioned by the hon. Member.

[The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

I, therefore, Mr. Speaker, welcome the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mwithaga. The Mover will be called on to reply at 11.20 a.m.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, this Motion is an interesting Motion to me. I have lived in the Northern Frontier District and I know the area. I have travelled extensively in the area and I understand it well, including Baringo.

The area is a needy area and at one time, in 1958, I had to charter a plane to go to Mandera to see for myself the difficulties these people were experiencing. One would have said then, that the time was an emergency period and, therefore, the situation could not have been otherwise. Although it is understood that the intention of the British Government, when they left Kenya in 1963, was to create a situation like the one which is in India, between India and Pakistan, where there was only one state or one colony then, and the British left the two countries. This meant they had some independence pregnancy in that their baby was always born on the eve of independence. The pregnancy here was to set aside a given province, namely the Northern Frontier District. That area was a completely abandoned area so that there could be two countries in one. If you visited those areas before independence you would have learnt one very important thing: people were made to believe that they were not Kenyans. Indeed, the "closed areas" passes were used for that purpose and the passes were there to be understood as if they were passports. The prices of goods, livestock and other commodities were higher because that area was not considered to be Kenya.

This kind of feeling, Mr. Deputy Speaker, was a deliberate feeling and, therefore, the baby that was born was the eruption of trouble in the area. In fact, nobody was thinking of development along the lines of other developed areas. The colonialists were only interested in the Highlands, what they called the White Highlands. They were interested in other areas where the people seemed to be slightly politically awakened. One Member said they were made to believe that Islam would have been the only religion for them and, therefore, if they knew the Koran there was no need to know anything else. To them salvation out of the Koran was very important. Therefore, if you can have the Koran what else would you want on earth? This was a kind of indoctrination and the Member for Moyale rightly said so.

I do realize, Sir, that our Government has done all it could during the time despite the emergency, that our Government has tried to use every means available to try and intensify development. The area has not been forgotten in the current Development Plan; this we know. At Mandera you will find a tarmac airstrip which we do not have at Nakuru. You will find that the water system has started to operate in the area despite the fact that there is scarcity of water. However, those are elementary undertakings and there must be some other organized intensification of development, not necessarily as specified by the Member—or intempered—but a complete overhaul so that there is an intensification of a new development approach in the area.

When I tried to call for the establishment of the Nation Builders' Brigade in this House, I said one of the intentions of this Brigade would be to move to the north and convert the whole place into an agrarian area rather than have it termed as a desert. There is no desert in Kenya. If anybody has travelled in those areas he will know there is no desert in Kenya, and the Members from that area will bear me witness. The one time so-called Northern Frontier District is not a desert. Some of us who have seen deserts, in Israel and North Africa, would not believe that Israel could be developed to the extent it is now, although it was a desert. But to say that the Northern Frontier District here is a desert and cannot be developed is not correct. All we need to do to develop that area is to have compulsory education and, at the same time, have a brigade which goes and works with the people in the manyatta, works with the people in the schools, make use of the education. Most of the idle boys and girls are being wasted in those areas and they can help our brothers and sisters to develop. Most of the knowledge that these young people have today, if used in those areas, by a kind of brigade, which is regimented to do that kind of work, could produce a big change in five years' time.

Other programmes by Government would be to have as many boreholes as possible in the area, spend a lot of money there rather than have it spent and squandered, and overspent here and there as we were saying in this House the other day. Spend that money in those areas, spend it on boreholes, establish artificial lakes or dams, establish water reservoirs, and from those reservoirs pipe water to the areas specified for irrigation. This can be done by a hydraulic system. It is not difficult but the only thing is: who is going to initiate the programme? Who is going to find the money for initiation of the programme? Are hydraulic plants not available in Kenya? Sir, the southern waters of Lake Rudolf are fresh waters and they can be piped to the dry areas. There is the river on the frontier between Kenya and Ethiopia. This water can be piped by hydraulic system or even by huge multi-c.c. Lister engines to some of these areas. All you need is to demarcate the areas for initial development, establish those hydraulic plants, build reservoirs and artificial lakes and then the whole area can be tremendously developed.

On the other hand, Sir, while the Government would do that the local community would have to accept one challenge: that the time of nomadic life is gone and should be forgotten. Our leaders should establish or cause to be established a system whereby people are centred in a given area so that the services for those areas could easily be reached. When you have people scattered, it is most difficult, technically, to move the development programme to their own doorsteps. There are Ministers, there are Assistant Ministers and, I am sure, the Mover of the Motion has a wonderful calibre of thought, and he will bear me witness that if people are centralized in a given area—not by a compulsory village system which is a manyatta-type of establishment—by a new system of establishing villages which is based on the development of new towns, it will be easy to carry the development to the doorsteps of these people. It will also be easy to call on them to render their support and their services to the programmes and the projects the Government would undertake.

But, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want this old idea of calling the Northern Frontier District a desert to be completely removed from the minds of the hon. Members who do not know what those areas look like.

With those few observations, I support the Motion wholeheartedly.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is time now for the Mover to be called on to reply.

Mr. Kholkholle.

Mr. Kholkholle: I would like, first of all, to oppose what the Minister in the President's Office said, that we are not grateful. Sir, we are very grateful for what the Government has done. It was only on the 7th of this month when His Excellency the President was in Embu and I requested him to allow the parents of children in the drought-stricken areas not to pay school fees. He has so directed and I am very grateful, indeed.

I am very grateful to the Government for all it has done.

On the subject of education, the Government Responder said that in Marsabit we have 13 schools. But these 12 primary schools and one secondary school—Probably the Government is running one or two primary schools and a secondary school. My intention is that I would like the Government to take over these schools from the missionaries and retain and run them properly.

Another thing is medical facilities. The Government Responder said that we have doctors, senior hospital assistants. For instance, in Marsabit, we have only one district hospital, one doctor to serve 42,000 square miles! Sir, we are grateful that the doctor has been posted there but, I think, it is not sufficient for one doctor or one hospital to serve 42,000 square miles. Therefore, I would like the Government to establish more health centres in this area so that our people can be served better with medical facilities. What we want, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is equitable distribution of services.

On water supply. The Assistant Minister, the hon. Balala, said that Marsabit had five boreholes. These five boreholes have been in existence for a long time. They have been operating for a long time although they have been breaking down every now and then. What we want, Sir, is a new system of water supply. The five boreholes are not enough to serve the people in 42,000 square miles. They are not enough to serve 52,000 people. We want more boreholes; actually we want a new system of water supply.

About roads. The hon. Assistant Minister said there are some hundreds of kilometres of road construction going on in Marsabit. I have seen nothing, it is only the main Addis Ababa/Nairobi highway which is under construction.

For these reasons, I want the Government to give a breakdown of development plans for each district by means of roads, education, water supply, employment, livestock improvement in these four districts in question.

I do not want to speak at length, because I want to give a chance to other hon. Members. I would like only to say now, Sir, that I am very grateful for what the Government has done.

[Mr. Kholkholle]

Probably, one obstacle to development might have been the shifta menace, but now there is no longer this shifta problem. So, I want the Government to come forward and do something more so that these areas are given more facilities, the best facilities.

Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): When the Mover replies there is no more time given.

(Question put and agreed to)

MOTIONEXTENSION OF PRIMARY EDUCATION

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I wish to thank you very much for giving me this opportunity to remind the Government of this very late Motion.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to move:—

THAT in view of the national concern about the Certificate of Primary Education holders who are too young to obtain jobs or are compelled to re-sit the examination owing to the lack of adequate Form 1 places within the Republic and noting that the parents are subjected to social and domestic problems in maintaining such pupils by having to spend large sums of money for their welfare, and since our Republic has entered the new scientific and technological era, this House urges the Government to extend the present Primary Education course from Standard 7 to Form II.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, this Motion is self-explanatory and the intention of moving it is to kill the words Certificate of Primary Education. The examination should be abolished forthwith.

In Kenya, today, we have small children who are starting their education at the age of 5, 6 or 7, for that matter, I do not disagree with those who are mentioning five—and then they finish their primary education at an age of, say, 12 or 13, when they are still very young. When they sit their Certificate of Primary Education examination and they complete the primary education, even if they pass, no matter how many points they get, and they do not get places in secondary schools, they suffer a lot. This is because if they do not get places in Form I, they are not allowed to repeat and, on the other hand, they cannot be employed because of their low age—because of being too young that they cannot work anywhere in the country—they suffer a lot. As a result, they go back to their parents to do domestic chores.

I appeal to the Government, through the Ministry of Education to find a way of abolishing this Certificate of Primary Education examination to see that these children can continue from Standard 7. They should change the method and have a new way of letting these children go on with their education up to Form II or Standard 9, so that when they finish their Standard 9—

Mr. Migire: On a point of order, does the Chair not consider it a very unusual matter if we are discussing this Motion when there is nobody from the Ministry of Education in the Chamber; and again we do not have a quorum?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is unusual not to have a Minister when we are discussing any matter. However, this is a Motion and the Minister will be able to read the HANSARD and, I am sure, he will reply to the full record of what is spoken here.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I quite agree with the hon. Member. I thought he was interrupting me on another matter. However, his point of order was a very genuine and valid one.

What I was saying is that if these children can be allowed to continue their education from Standard 7 to Standard 9 or Form II, for that matter, so that when they finish their education, they will have enough education and they can be employed anywhere. They will be about the age of 15 or more which will enable them to obtain jobs in this country. Today, you know very well, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that if one goes to a certain Ministry to ask for employment, the first question that he will be asked is: "How old are you?" If he/she says that is 13 or 14 years old, nobody will employ that man or lady, because of low age. However, if one is over 17 or 18 he can be considered for any employment in this country. This is a big problem which we are facing in Kenya today.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we have followed so many things which the British people do. In this case I do not imply that we should be aligned to the British Government. No. Mr. Deputy Speaker, there are so many things which we have just copied from foreigners, especially from Britain. If you go to Britain today probably, you have been there, I am one of those people who have been there—you will learn that in Great Britain they do not follow this method of classes. What they do is that they group the children, say children of the ages ranging from three years to five years, they say that these children are of three to five years age group. Then they have those from five to seven years age group and from seven to 11 years age group. By so doing, their children have a good standard of education and on completion of 11 years or 11 courses, they get employment and the high standard of education. In Kenya, we should adopt the same way because it is a very good thing and something that is going to help our youngsters who are known as tomorrow's leaders.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I said earlier on, this is just a reminder to the Government because, I am very sure this Motion should have been brought long, long time ago because it is overdue. It was in 1963—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! I reminded Members yesterday, not to cross between the Chair and the Member speaking without bowing so that they do not obstruct the view.

Mr. Kitonga: I apologize, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: He is my great friend. I do no quarrel with him because— He should be forgiven. I am sure he was not using his position as a chief.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, it was in 1963 when Kanu prepared the Manifesto of free education. We have been crying in this House that we should have free education. By killing the Certificate of Primary Education examination, however, and having these children of ours continuing from Standard 7 to Standard 9 or Form II, it will be one way of helping our children. By this, I wish to state or to appeal to the Ministry concerned that when they accept this Motion, they should accept it bearing in mind that we need these children to be educated freely without paying the school fees.

I know, in his reply, the Minister will say he does not have money, but I am sure if he is willing, he will get the money within a short time. For, example, in 1970, there were so many children—more than 100,000 children—who sat for Certificate of Primary Education examination and very few were taken for secondary education. Where are the remaining children? They are just in their homes probably with their parents who will keep them in their homes and then after a year, if a parent does not have money to pay for his child's school fees, a child will be embarrassed because of losing one year's time and by the time he goes to school it may be too late for education. So, I would only appeal to the Government through the Ministry of Education to see to it that they find ways and means of getting a method of educating our children from Standard 7 to Standard 9 or Form II.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Government has been telling us that there is no money. However, when one hon. Member suggested there should be an increment in the price of a bottle of beer in order to get this money, it was refused because if we increase beer price, it will make those people who drink, drink less beer. However, that is one way which we recommend. The other way is that of graduated personal tax. We are prepared to pay higher income tax in order to see that our children are educated freely up to Form II level or onwards.

It is said that where there is a will, there is always a way. I am very sure, and double sure, that if the Government accepts this Motion, they will find the way of doing that easily. It is only that if they do accept it—and I appeal to them to accept it and find ways to implement it—there will be no problems at all.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, in this country we have so many organizations which are talking about this problem of education. One of them is the Kenya National Union of Teachers. They have met several times—I have met them personally—and they are in full agreement with it. There is also another organization, Sir, which is known as the Association of Kenya Heads of Secondary Schools. They have had so many conferences and they are in full agreement with this. They support this demand and so many other organizations like the National Christian Council of Kenya, the Parents' Association and other educational and cultural organizations which strongly support this demand. I do not see the reason why this House should not support it.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I appeal to this House to support this Motion. I do not want to waste a lot of time because this is a very clear Motion and I appeal to my hon. colleagues to support it. Although the Minister concerned is not here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, he said that he will read it in HANSARD and then look at what I have framed in this House and will just automatically accept it without any amendment so that by Monday or next week or by next year we shall see that these children of ours will have their school period extended from Standard VII to Standard IX, as I have just proposed in this Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I do not want to hear from the Minister is that the Government has no money to accommodate these children in different schools. What I should like to hear from him is that we should all find ways and means of getting it. Let him accept the Motion and the way of finding the sources of getting money will be so simple. Sir, I do not want to say much on this because as I have said, this Motion is self explanatory and I ask for the support of all hon. Members on this Motion.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to move and the seconder is hon. Kanja.

Mr. Kanja: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I rise to support my colleague, hon.

arap Cheboiwo, and in supporting this Motion, as he has very ably put it; it is self explanatory, I have only a few observations to make to support my case, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Sir, we as elders of this hon. House, are charged with the responsibility of catering for and shaping the destiny not only of ourselves but also of the future generations of this nation.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is a known fact by now that thousands and thousands of our sons and daughters are passing the so called Certificate of Primary Education at the age of 11 or 12 years. Where do they go? They just get lost in the streets, drinking chang'aa, taking bangi and doing all sorts of things because they are nothing more than babies. No employer is ready to take a child of 11 or 12 years and employ him or her. It is the responsibility of this nation, it is the responsibility of this hon. House to see that something is done and this has to be done now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Sir, if those thousands of our souls are going to be lost in the wilderness, we are going to be called to account for all the criminal activities that are going to take place in a number of years to come. They will be uneducated, they will be jobless, they will be miserable and the only source of income that they will really be able to get will be either by robbing you or stealing your car tyres or stealing your chickens or even an egg just to enable them to live. Are we going to sit back and say, "All is well and they can just go back to their fathers or their parents who can cater for them?" No, we have to do something now and that something is what the hon. arap Cheboiwo and the hon. Members of this House have really to support and tell the Government, in no uncertain terms, that it must be done. There is no question of begging. We are the Government and we have to tell that Government which is the Government of this country that we must give two extra years to these young children so that they can become employable and useful citizens of this nation.

As Mr. arap Cheboiwo has put it, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is no point in saying that there is no money. The Government has to find money. If the Government can surely find money to buy a carpet for Sh. 20,000, how is it that we cannot afford to get money to educate our own children who are going to defend this country. There is no point in turning round to the entire nation and say, "We cannot discharge the responsibilities that have been entrusted to us by those who voted for us to this House."

Mr. Deputy Speaker, all of us know that in the world not everybody can really get the necessary education but we, as a young country—

Kenya—should not be dragged back and just look back and say, "Because the other nations cannot do it we also cannot do it." Yesterday, one hon. Member made a good suggestion that those who can afford to drink 10 to 12 bottles of beer in a day, if they could only be taxed at least Sh. 12 extra, they could provide money for free education for this country. Beer is not a necessity, it is nothing but a luxury for people who can afford it. Where they will get the money will be their own shauri, but they should be taxed even at 101 per cent so that the money we can collect can be utilized to give educational facilities for those who cannot afford to educate themselves. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is the responsibility that we have. It is better to end up with an educated class of people rather than ending up with people who do not know what to do because they are uneducated.

If those people in Kajiado, Narok, Samburu, Turkana, Marsabit, Moyale and the rest were educated, they could have known that the world is round and they would have moved here and there. Instead, they think the world or our Kenya is like a table and if they go beyond Isiolo, they will fall over the side. This is only because they have never been to school. We must give adequate educational facilities to our young generation; our future generation so that this country will be led by educated people.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to labour much on this because I can see that hon. Members in this House want to say something. One of them is saying, "Particularly hon. Mr. Migire wants to address the nation through this House." Mr. Deputy Speaker, I will take my seat while emphasizing again that if we do not give education to our future generation, we shall pay through our noses and it is better to do it now rather than to try and curb criminal elements in the future.

With these few words, Sir, I beg to second.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Sit down, Chief Kitonga. I have to propose the question first.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Araru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you for giving me this chance to speak on this Motion. I am not going to take much time. The question in this Motion is a very good example of the new world. For instance, these days, if you have anybody to come to this City and he is not educated, he can never go anywhere; he is just like a blind man. This is because if you tell him to go to a certain street, for example, the Parliament Road, when you tell a man, who does not know how to read, to go to Parliament Road, he can never know where that Parliament

[Mr. Araru]

Road is unless you go with him and show him that this is the Parliament Road. This means that he is exactly like a blind man.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is very important. Today, we are in Government, although at the beginning when we attained our Uhuru, we told the nation that we were going to have free education—Leave alone the Motion, this is just an example. We told the electorate that we would give them free education which we have never done. In fact, every year we go on increasing the school fees so that now the fees are twice the amount the Colonial Government used to collect. This is a very nice Motion and it is very clear.

When a boy or girl gets to about 12-13 years that is the time when he or she is beginning to understand the nature of human life and also to start to know about the world; where he or she could go or what to face. However, when they reach this age, they are then subjected to an examination which was brought by the colonialists, the Certificate of Primary Education, which they fail.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, just where I am staying—Eastleigh—I have one young boy who failed and has nothing to do. The family has been suffering by paying for his education. Since he was born, they took him to a nursery school up to primary school only to find that he fails and has now nothing to do. He is roaming about. This is the time when he should be going to start life in despair because, as one of my friends has just said, when there is nothing for him to do he will start smoking and going with other bad boys to roam about the town and later on become a criminal, a robber and, therefore, an enemy to the family. The family which has been praying to God day and night, saying, "Oh, God help my son or daughter . . ." only to find that he fails the examination and has nothing to do.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious case. We want to train our people before something happens. Government means we have to govern because some things were done by mistake. What is the use of waiting until a person has become big and that is when we start realizing that we have to find him a job and so on, when we can put a nice system and change the colonial way of treatment so that we have these examination put forward for example, that one of Certificate of Primary Education should come in Form II or Form III.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, do not you agree with me that it is unusual when a Motion is directed to a given Ministry not even a Minister or an Assistant Minister is in the Chamber and yet they left this Motion when it was going to start and now we are debating it without them?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You were out.

Mr. Araru: I think my colleague was not here when this point was raised, however, you have told us that the Minister will read it because there are records here. He will be rightly informed because this is his duty. We are not concerned because if the Minister knows his duty he would be here to care for himself. This is up to the House to decide on whatever it wants.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are supporting this Motion as it is. We are not accepting any slight change and we want Government to carefully think on education, particularly the promises which were made, before we attained our independence, to the public—that we were going to give them free education in which we have failed. This is now just like a system we want to bring to Government and the Member has put it nicely in the Motion. I think Government will accept it as it is.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not see what the Member for Baringo North is worried about. I have a right to speak on this Motion just as he has. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to make a few observations on this Motion. One thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do believe that children who leave school at the Certificate of Primary Education level are too young to be employed. It does not matter whether we talk about ways and means of employing them, as it was agreed by this House sometime ago, it is definitely impossible to employ these children because a good number of them are between 11 and 13 years old. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, at that age it is very difficult to employ them. The hon. Member from Nakuru Town is a very good advocate about his brigade. Now, at that age, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if the hon. Member has any children at all—and I have no doubt he has some—he ought to know how old or how big a child of 11 is.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister substantiate the allegation that he does not think I have any children, and if so, why?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I doubt whether that is what he said.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): Mr. Deputy Speaker,

[The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting]

Sir, I said this: and even this can be checked from HANSARD, if the hon. Member has any children at all who are at the age of 11 or 13, and I have no doubt he has some— This is what I said, Mr. Deputy Speaker and he would have known how mature those children are and, therefore, to advocate that they should go to the brigade, it is impossible. We have the National Youth Service where these children cannot be accommodated because they are too young. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I believe that the education system we have adopted in this country at this stage does not suit us. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to see a system whereby a child has enough school education and when the child leaves school, his age is good enough so that he can get employment, so that the child can go and farm so that he does not become a burden to his parents. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is why in the reserves, instead of sending children to school at the age of five, parents send their children to school at the age of seven so that they can come out at a good age. Now, instead of progressing, we are really going backwards and I would like to see a more positive attitude from our own Government so that we may help these young children.

The other day, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we were told that no child fails the Certificate of Primary Education examination. Yes, we agree to that because we do not want them to fail but to get certificates. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what can a child at this age do with the certificate? The child goes back to his parents, and unless he repeats in Std. VII, he is rendered hopeless. If he cannot get a place in Std. VII he goes to Std. V and start repeating from there and this is happening in certain parts of this country and if this is not done the boy or girl is rendered helpless. What do we therefore see in our girls? At the age of 11 or 12, because they cannot obtain any job, they turn out to be barmaids. Now, I do not think that in a healthy society, which is what we want to develop, we need to encourage our girls to adopt that attitude. If we are going to allow this trend of things to go on, I am sure, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are creating a society which in future is bound to be dangerous. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we cannot afford to educate our children up to Form II level, then, let us filter them into technical schools so that as soon as they do the Certificate of Primary Education examination, they can be taken to technical schools where they can be absorbed to learn technical jobs. Let us have village polytechnics so that when these children leave school at a reasonable age, they can work well for this nation. However, Mr. Speaker, I think we are wasting a great deal of manpower in this country because the minute a child fails the Certificate of Primary Education examination or rather misses a place in secondary school, the father assumes that the child has failed and it does not matter what sweet words we tell him. It is not like the old days when you either passed and went to a secondary school or you failed. These days are quite different from those old days and I agree with hon. Members here who have supported this Motion. I believe that our own Government which has the welfare of our people in heart will find ways and means of dealing with this situation.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have another problem—which I think somebody is bound to argue—where do you get the teachers? Mr. Deputy Speaker, with the crash programmes that we have been told about training teachers from PI to SI, surely, Form I and II students can be taught by SI teachers. With the crash programmes, we shall be able to devise ways and means of alleviating the situation. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am sure, you know as well as I do, that at the moment a child of Certificate of Primary Education level cannot be admitted into an agricultural training school. They want students of School Certificate level. At the time I did the Kenya African Preliminary Examination, as it was called at that time, I could have gone to an agricultural school. At the moment he finds it difficult to get a job in the East African Power and Lighting Company because they want holders of School Certificates, in a Ministry like mine Certificate of Primary Education holders were employed in those days but in these days we want holders of Higher School Certificates and the poor boys do not know what to do—the girls are not even employed as sweepers because they are too young. I believe that it is high time we found ways and means of getting our poor boys and girls in the villages some jobs to do. I would, not blame some of these boys in Nairobi streets who try to earn a living by showing one where to park a vehicle. It will not matter whatever we do to remove them because tomorrow they will come back because they have nothing to do apart from waiting at home, assisting their mothers to cook, being employed as barmaids or going out to look for some ways and means of earning their living.

I hope sincerely that the Minister for Education instead of rejecting this Motion will think of ways and means of how best to deal with the children who sit for their Certificate of Primary Education at a young age. Let this Government devise ways and means of finding out what they can do, for example, to get teachers. Let us devise a crash programme so that we can get teachers who can teach these children. As I said before, if all of them cannot go for academic education, then let them be given technical education. I know, as a chairman of board of governors of technical schools that before—two years ago—we were taking holders of Certificate of Primary Education but now we are told that we should only take holders of Kenya Junior Secondary Examination certificate. What shall we do with the holders of Certificate of Primary Education?

I think, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that it is high time that we devised a new method of education whereby our own children, including, of course, the children of hon. Rubia, will be in a position to leave school and be employable. I can recall the words of the hon. Minister for Labour, who one day said here, "Some of the children are unemployable". If the Minister for Labour is satisfied that they cannot be employed, we must put them on the labour market or in a casual labour market so that we are in a position to help them.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Rev. Kalume: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for giving me this chance to air my views. I have only a few observations to make.

There is something very wrong in Kenya with our educational system. Many years ago children went to school and they were taught useful things right from the beginning and when they left school they could have something to do, for example, during my time in school, children were taught right at primary school level such things like carpentry, tailoring, agriculture, animal husbandry etc., but all this has been abandoned and, therefore, you will find that so many children who leave school have nothing to do—they cannot be employed and they cannot employ themselves. Therefore, there must be something wrong somewhere. However, adding two extra years will not help this country unless the whole educational system is revised in order to accommodate pupils in such a way that they will do something when they leave school. Even if we increased the years up to school certificate level or university level whereby everybody would have free education the problem of unemployment will still be there. I had an experience in India where I met someone who was a cobbler and when I looked at his shop

I found one of his certificates written, "So and so M.A.—Master of Arts degree!" I asked him why he was working as a cobbler while he had a Masters degree. He said, well, although I have a Masters degree, there are so many people in India who hold certificates of Masters degrees that we cannot all be employed in Government. That is why I became a cobbler. So, you see, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the problem will still be there until we devise a method whereby these children will be able to look after themselves when they leave school. This must start from the beginning.

There must be some type of education that will accommodate children living in towns and those who live in the rural areas. Kenya is known as an agricultural country. There are many parts which have not been developed yet. There are many areas where children could learn simple agricultural methods so that when they leave school they could go and farm but this is not encouraged. What is being encouraged is that a boy or a girl is educated so that she or he can be employed and get a white-collar job. This mentality must be removed by introducing many types of education so that in areas where agriculture can be done a boy or a girl can respect manual labour. There are many boys and girls in this country who after Certificate of Primary Education think that holding a jembe and digging in a garden is below their dignity. They also think that becoming a carpenter, a tailor, a mason is below their dignity. Schools should have these kinds of trades so that we can at least reduce the burden of unemployment. Whatever we do, we must begin with our education system.

The question is where will the money come from? Where will the teachers come from? Well, I am quite sure and I agree with the proposer of this Motion who said that wherever there is the will there is a way. Why can we not get money to educate our children? There must be something wrong somewhere. I am quite sure that even if we cannot increase Sh. 1 extra for a bottle of beer we can increase 50 cents or 30 cents or 40 cents for the purpose of educating our children, we shall get the money. This is one of the ways of getting the money but there are many other ways. My contention is that there is something wrong with the educational system. Children must be taught trades right from the beginning, in Std. I so that they grow with that kind of mentality and when they leave school they will look after themselves. The problems will never be solved by giving them academic education only. They must begin to respect manual labour and everything that can be useful

[Rev. Kalume]

Our President has said many times that people should go back to the land. How can a boy or a girl, after Certificate of Primary Education go back to the land unless, he or she was taught how to look after that land? In our country we have plenty of land in some areas and that land is not utilized to teach boys and girls to make use of it.

We have minerals in Kenya and children should be taught how to prospect them so that when they leave school they can go and look for this kind of trade and employ themselves. At the moment they are only taught English, Geography, History, Mathematics and after this they cannot use the subject they were taught at school.

My observation is that the educational department or the Ministry of Education should sit down and think of ways and means of revising the educational system so that we can make full use of the manpower we are losing at the moment.

With those few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. Ebu: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for giving me this opportunity to say a few words in connexion with the Motion before the House.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Is it in order for the hon. Member, Chief Kitonga to carry an instrument which looks like a weapon.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! that instrument are you referring to.

Mr. Mwithaga: The one Chief Kitonga is carrying in his hand.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Oh, that is a walking stick, and it is all right.

Mr. Ebu: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have a few points I would like to make in connexion with this Motion. To begin with, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I understand the problem facing Kenya is about the school-leavers. The Motion before this House, as we have it right here, I think, is trying to get Government to do something because I believe a lot has been said, a lot of people have complained—you know—there are a lot of school-leavers, a lot of jobless people around the country, and they have asked Government to do something about it and, apparently, not very much is being done. Therefore, all the Mover is trying to do here, is to ask Government to do something at least. I feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that at the moment, the Certificate of Primary Education is not marketable at all, and this is true. Therefore, if we are going to have a number of pupils coming out of school at Certificate of Primary Education level, we are going to aggravate the situation, as far as unemployment is concerned. Therefore, since this Certificate of Primary Education is not marketable, could we not think, as the Mover has requested, of, maybe, giving these children two more years in school, in view of that fact that many of them, at the time they leave Standard VII, are under age; they cannot be employed anywhere.

Another point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to mention here is that we have been crying; we feel that a lot of places, a great many parts of this country were neglected during the colonial time. Now, I feel that if education was extended by two more years, even places that do not have many educated people now, will at least, have some people who have actually received secondary school education. I think this is one of the ways of ensuring that at least as many of our children as possible, will taste the secondary school education that is being provided. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I mentioned this point because I know that every day Members go out, whenever we leave the Chamber here, we find a lot of our children outside. Most of them are Standard VII school-leavers, and they are out there to ask you, "Mheshimiwa, what can you do for me; I want a job in Nairobi", and the poor boy is not marketable. There is nothing you can do; if you try to explain the situation to him, he just does not understand. Now, this is something very serious, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I feel that this Motion should be supported by the other Members of this House, because we realize that the age at which these children leave Standard VII is too low, many of them are between the ages of 11 and 13, as has been stated before. Now, we also realize that the Certificate of Primary Education itself is not marketable anywhere and, therefore, it is worthless; so, what is the use educating children up to that level of education, and then they just disappear into the country-side, and they become robbers and what-have-you.

I also feel, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that if this Motion is approved, it is going to help, at least, to reduce unemployment to within limits; it will defer it; if it cannot reduce unemployment, it is going to defer it. Meanwhile, Government is going to think of ways and means of helping to solve the unemployment problem. If the present children in the primary schools can be given an additional two years, if we can call it compulsory, in secondary school, there will be a period of at least two or three years, in which Government is going to think of what to do, to solve or even to reduce the problem of unemployment. These,

[Mr. Ebu]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, are some of the observations that I wanted to make. I realize there are a number of my colleagues here, who would like to add an item or two, to what others have said before and, therefore, I do not want to take much time, because I feel the Motion itself is straightforward, and I do not think anybody is going to reject it.

With these few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. arap Chumo: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I have said it before and I would like to say it again that our educational system, the planning of the education for our nation leaves so much or a lot to be desired. I think this Motion is taking the first step that, we as a nation, must take, in order to travel the very many miles that lie before us before we can correct and improve our educational system. Education is a very vital thing for our nation. We all know this and we have to think; think for ourselves and plan for ourselves so that the education we provide for the children of this nation, is the type of education that will develop our nation into a society that is not grouped into classes. We want to develop our nation so that we can get rid of the class system because this is one thing that our system of education is aiming at in our present country. We have been supplied with this type of education by our colonial masters who are so sensitive about the class system. They like grading their people into classes. This is one thing we, as a nation, must try to avoid in our society.

To support what a number of speakers have said, we must try and educate our people or give them an opportunity for education that we, or many of us, many hon. Members of this House, have achieved. We must not try to suppress them. There was a time when the Colonial Government started to plan our education, they gave our children four years of education; a child started at seven years and after four years they sat for an examination! Any right thinking person wonders what a child who has had only four years of education is really worth!

Many people talk about unemployment. Yes, we know, this is true. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we know that this is going to be the case because unemployment has been there and it will always be there. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I wonder if a society which is educated and has no jobs is not better than a society without education and without jobs? If we can give education to our children to a certain age, say, of 15 years, a continuous type of education so that these people can plan for their future life, they would be in a much better position to continue with education on their own. If, as we are doing now, you give them the type of education of up to Standard VII, and mind you, what the children of this nation are trying to do is to achieve 36 points in their Certificate of Primary Education examination. So, they have been geared into a mechanical way of thinking. They are training themselves to do those things which they are supposed to do in order to achieve the highest marks because this is what we call "survival of the fittest". They have to try, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, to do that. The system of education is aimed at making children memorize and fall into a pattern of trying to gain the highest marks in order to go on with higher education. But, if we did not have this type of thing—if the Certificate of Primary Education was removed which I think is unnecessary, and we have been told time and again that no child fails the examination—which is true—Mr. Speaker, because it does not test anything—then people can have a much healthier outlook into what things to study so that by the time they are in Form II they would be able to have an initiative to go on, even on their own.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is no need for us to have the Certificate of Primary Education and then two years later we have another examination—Kenya Junior Secondary Examination—and then in another two years we have the East African Certificate of Education examination. I know the main problem which we are told that prevents us from having primary education up to Form II is the question of money. But, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, have we really exhausted all the ways and means in which we could look for money to meet the expenses of our education? Have we done this, Mr. Deputy Speaker? I do not think so. I think we could plan like other countries. We could impose some indirect tax on some of the things which are really luxuries in this country. There was a question about tax on beer and most of the time we have talked about trying to encourage our people not to dwell into too much drinking, not to stay too long in bars and such places. Personally, I do not see why we cannot tax such things. Cigarettes is another thing whereby we could get money. We could impose a higher tax on them too. We could also impose taxes on things like jewellery, cosmetics and many other things which are not really necessary for our lives. If we do this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we can raise a substantial amount of money. In other countries there is a tax on almost everything sold. With this money we could develop our society so that at least, our people can be educated. Another thing, which we could do, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is to make work in the rural areas attractive. There is no use telling the people to “go back to the land” while the work which they do there does not offer them what they require. We must put up a reasonable price on the produce of the farmers so that they can have a good income.

With those few remarks, I beg to support.

Mr. Koigi: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for giving me this opportunity to say something on this Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, many things have been said about the education of our children in this House by hon. Members. It was only yesterday when many Members realized that it is possible to give this nation free primary education if we cannot cut down unnecessary expenditures, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. Nobody can question me and ask me what these unnecessary expenditures are. Some have been mentioned—

An hon. Member: We know them.

Mr. Koigi: I am sure you know them.

There is no need giving a youth a half-baked education. What I mean by a half-baked education is that if you cook your arrowroot half-way, the salivary glands will not accept that arrowroot. The reason is because that half-cooked arrowroot does not give the taste which it gives when it is properly cooked. Education is similar to that, Mr. Deputy Speaker. When you do not educate your youth well, they tend to become bad citizens. If we give our nation a better education we are investing and to educate a human being is an investment in itself. We shall have no cause for fear when we give a better education to our youth, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when we stand up and ask questions—and I am not accusing the Government—we are told that there is no money. I would like to say that we need a committee to seek ways and means to try to get money. I am glad that the Assistant Minister for Education is here. When we are told that there is no money, it is like saying that the Ministry has not organized a team to work towards that end. I call upon the Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning to sit together and formulate or to give this nation a formula on how we can get the money. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am sure that we can get money. More light was thrown here yesterday when the calculation of 12 million bottles of beer was made in a Motion yesterday. We were told by the Mover of the Motion that we can provide primary education. This was supported by the Minister for Education when he said that he needs £6 million to provide primary education in this country. After the calculation of the bottles of beer it was found that we can raise £7 million we can do away with other expenditure or we can set aside a certain amount of money from tourism. We are told that we should get £6 million. Why do we not spend this money in providing free primary education which we promised to our people?

When we were campaigning we told the country that we were going to Parliament and we shall see that we provide free primary education. I would like to state that if we want to educate our people, then we must give them a sound education. When I say “sound education” I mean that we should allow the youths to study up to Form VI. After they have attained School Certificate, I think at that stage, they can profit when they go out of school. That is the standard from which, if you leave a student, he can educate himself to the degree level and he can become anything in this country and in this world too, in general terms. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I deplore hearing—and I do not want to hear this any more—that we cannot educate our youths. Kenya is not a poor country. We call it poor because we have not organized our human manpower. There are very many people loitering about in Nairobi when we have forests in which they can work and get a lot of money. These people are loitering on the streets when we can use them in planting a lot of maize and other type of cash crops which we can export outside the country and in return we get imports. Through such economic trade we can get money to educate our people.

I promise this nation that when we wake up together but, of course, we should be alerted by the Government—The Government should not do what the Ministry of Education, Ministry of Labour and the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning do, because they always tell us that they are planning—I have been questioning always, why we do not give the whole nation work to do? I would encourage that to a certain extent a degree of force should be used so that we can get money to educate our people of this nation. To begin with, it would appear that when we practise working hard it is like when a nation is engaged against an enemy when we have a war. We have a war in this country to educate our people; to see that we build schools, hospitals and other things in this country. What can make us do this and render services to the nation, is only through hard work. If you borrow too much, you become the servant of the lender and his strings will tie you so that you always go to him like a boy and he will say, “Arms back” and you will do so and say, "Thank you very much". Instead of saying "Thank you very much" to lenders, we should say so to our soil. We must work hard.

Therefore, what I am asking this nation to do is to be prepared. I am sure the whole nation is prepared to pay for free education, only the Ministry of Education has not decided—and they should be decided—to tell this nation, "Well, if you can pay such-and-such amount" as we were told here yesterday by the Minister for Education, we can do so. Not only that, we have to tell our people to work hard and pay what you may even call heavy tax, so that we may educate our people.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am sure that there is not too much to be said about this Motion because every politician in this country promised his constituency and the country that we were coming into Parliament to find money to give free primary education. I add that not only free primary education but we have to find money to educate our people up to Form IV. That is what I consider a suitable standard of education that we can give our people.

I would like to remind this House, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that all white children in this country, Asians, and Chinese are getting full education. You cannot find a child who belongs to these people staying at home. They are all at school. It is a shame to our people and Government to see that there are some people in this country who are not getting education. It is not because we cannot pay for the education of our children, but it is because we are still undecided. Government has been dragging its feet saying that they cannot get money, yet they get money to invite people to big parties. If, especially, you go to London—eh, my Lord—you will find how many people who come to the parties to consume Kenya money and then you will know that what I am talking about is true.

With these few remarks I beg to support.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Chief Kitonga, you have two minutes.

Mr. Kitonga: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. First of all I would like to support this Motion very seriously. This Motion has been tabled by the honourable and experienced Member, whom I support by all means.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Thank you very much.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I also thank the Ministry of Education for having three straightforward and militant people who are the hon. Mr. Towett, Mr. Rubia and Mr. Mbai. Unfortunately, there is something wrong in our Government, and this thing must be called an evil which should be removed from the policy of our education system. I appeal to this Government that this country needs a revolutionary system of education. One of them, like this which has been tabled. We have been shown, and it is the duty of Government now—not the Minister whom I have mentioned—especially the Cabinet of this Government—

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 89 (1349)

PROCESSING OF CITIZENSHIP APPLICATIONS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House—

- (a) how many applications for citizenship were still pending from 1964 to 1966;
- (b) what had caused the delay in processing them; and
- (c) how long it would take to finish processing those old applications for citizenship.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Government has decided not to grant more citizenships except in special circumstances.

Rev. Kalume: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could the Assistant Minister tell us which these special circumstances are?

Mr. Shikuku: The special circumstances, Mr. Speaker, for the information of the House, are cases such as those persons who are not of age or those who were not 21 years of age as at 12th December, 1965.

The other special circumstance is in connexion with women who want to get married to citizens—we cannot refuse somebody who is getting married—we will consider that. Also, in some special circumstances when such individuals or groups of individuals' citizenship would promote the prosperity of this country.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, would he tell us whether all pending applications fall under these special circumstances or there are some of the applications which do not fall under these special circumstances.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not understand his question.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I meant to ask the Assistant Minister to tell us whether all the pending applications fall under these special circumstances that he is talking about.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, not necessarily.

Mr. Mackenzie: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that it is unfair to treat a female differently from a male? He has said that if a female is getting married to a citizen, it is one of the exceptions. What happens if it is a male non-citizen—the other way round—does he get this help?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a very interesting question, but for the information of the hon. Member, we always take the father to be head of the family. In Africa, it remains as such. Women do not marry men but the men marry women.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this is a very important issue, and it seems that the Assistant Minister is taking it as a very easy matter—Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all, could the Assistant Minister answer my question because up to now, for your information he has not answered it. My question as it is—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you ask your question and wait for the reply.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister answer my question? My question is this: How many applications for citizenship are still pending from 1964 to 1966?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the reply that Government has given is that it has decided not to grant more citizenships. Therefore, the question of how many does not arise.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, let us not waste time.

Mr. Wachira: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Assistant Minister is trying to evade the question, would he please answer the question which asks how many applications?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of the number, here, does not really matter. We have decided not to give any more. So it does not arise.

Question No. 172 (1508)

OVERTURNING OF GOVERNMENT LAND-ROVER AT RAMBIRA STREAM

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mbori not here? We will leave his question until the end then.

Next question.

Question No. 155 (1482)

LIQUOR LICENSING COURT FOR BARINGO

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister of State, President's Office, if he could tell the House how soon Baringo District would have its separate Liquor Licensing Court instead of issuing licences jointly with Nakuru.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No point of order, Mr. Kitonga. Will you sit down please?

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Mr. Speaker, Sir, Baringo District has now a separate Liquor Licensing Court. The hon. Member should be happy that Baringo District, has a separate Liquor Licensing Board.

Therefore, the question, Mr. Speaker, Sir, does not arise.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while being happy and appreciating what the Assistant Minister has told the House, would he tell us since when this court started operating?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the information of the House, I would like to let the hon. Member know that Baringo District was declared a Liquor Licensing area in Legal Notice No. 40, dated 8th March 1971 and the members of the Baringo Liquor Licensing Court appointed by Gazette Notice No. 460 of Kenya Gazette dated 8th March 1971.

Question No. 185 (1533)

POOR CHIEFS' OFFICES IN MERU

Mr. Marete asked the Minister of State, President's Office, if he could tell the House whether—

(a) he was aware that all Chiefs in Meru, and especially Meru Central have poorly constructed offices which can easily be broken into;

(b) he could tell the House when he was going to put up proper offices and safes.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I would like to tell the hon. Member that when chiefs' offices were built, they were made as strong as they could be made. They are not different from others in the country. There is, of course, always the need to improve and sometimes to rebuild them.

It is the intention of the Government to continue to improve and build new offices. This is a continuous process and the limit is only the availability of funds.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, since we all know that nowadays, the chiefs and sub-chiefs are the people who collect graduated personal tax and school fees, and they still use shanty offices, if these shanty offices are broken into by thieves, who will be responsible for the loss of the money stolen by the thieves?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already explained the case and all the hon. Member should know is that whatever money used, in putting up any building for the use of chiefs or sub-chiefs as offices, is always debated in this honourable House. However, Mr. Speaker, all that the hon. Member has said is fully noted and, in future, this will be looked into.

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that this kind of question has been brought to this House from time to time, and in view of the fact that the same Assistant Minister, and, even his Minister have both failed to give a better answer to this House, when Members of Parliament are asking for the improvement of the offices used by their own chiefs, will the Assistant Minister declare and particularly the Minister, that—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you ask your question, Mr. O'Washika?

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question is this: where are we going to get this money because from time to time the Assistant Minister has tried to evade the question by saying that there are no funds available, when we know very well that these offices are too scattered all over the country? Therefore, Mr. Speaker, would the Assistant Minister declare that he has failed in that Ministry so that somebody else can take over?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is not a question, Mr. O'Washika.

Mr. Cheserek: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, that this question will be looked into, and particularly in Meru District, would the Assistant Minister tell the House how many chiefs' offices are under construction? I am asking this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because the Assistant Minister has just said that they are going to look into the matter. Could he tell the House how many are under construction, and at the same time assure this House that they are going to complete the rest?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to give an assurance to the hon. Member that all chiefs' offices in Meru District are being occupied. The only question which I think the hon. Member should have asked, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is when we will attend to the modernization of those offices. However, Mr. Speaker, all these offices are there and all that is needed is to have more funds to put up the most modern and beautiful offices, but all the required offices are there.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. According to the answer given by the Assistant Minister, I do not think he answered the supplementary question which was asked by the hon. Questioner when he asked who would be held responsible if thieves break into these shanty offices and steal all the graduated personal tax money. Could the Assistant Minister tell the House who would be responsible for the loss of this money?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the necessary precautions have already been taken because there are always administrative police who are taking care of that and they are always armed, and therefore there is no question of trying to say that the offices can be in any danger of being broken into. They are not in any danger at all, Mr. Speaker.

Question No. 186 (1534)

TITLE-DEEDS IN MERU CENTRAL

Mr. Marete asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House why people with less than six acres and title-deeds in Meru Central had been refused loans for the last three years.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not clear from the question as to what kind of loans the hon. Member is referring to. I presume, however, that he has in mind the short-term crop credit loans, which are commonly known as Guaranteed Minimum Return Loans. Should this be the case, I would like to advise the hon. Member, and this House, that although for administrative and financial reasons the minimum acreage that is qualified for short-term crop credit is 15 acres, we have directed the Agricultural Finance Corporation not to apply this rule rigidly and advance credit to bona fide land owners on the merit of their applications. I should state, however, that this cannot be made a general rule and every case must be treated on its own merits.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer which the Minister has given, which is not correct because in Meru Central a man who has acres of land—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Mr. Marete. Will you please learn how to ask a question? You are not expected to make a speech.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we know that the source of Kenya's economy is farming, could the Minister tell this House and the nation at large that these people will be given loans just as others are being given loans because they are wananchi of this country? They should not give loans only to the rich people who own big farms.

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Member for Meru Central is introducing another element to this question. If he did listen to my answer, I said that we are prepared to examine each case on its own merit. I did not, at any time, introduce the question of rich or poor, but we are not going to dish out the wananchi money—the public funds to anybody that will not be able to pay it back.

Mr. Ogalo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that these people who own six acres of land are not entitled to be given Guaranteed Minimum Return Loans?

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very much aware, and if the hon. Questioner had listened to my answer. I said that for administrative reasons we had restricted the acreage to 15 but we have authorized the Agricultural Finance Corporation, who are the people who process these loans, to examine each case on its own merit.

Question No. 180 (1526)

AFRICAN ACCOUNTS IN COMMERCIAL BANKS

Mr. Wabuge asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House:

In view of the fact that after Kenya attained independence more Africans started making use of facilities provided by the private commercial banks than before independence—

- (a) how much money has been, so far, banked by the Africans in the last ten months; and

[Mr. Wabuge]

(b) how much money has been withdrawn by Africans in form of loans and overdrafts for the same period.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Balala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is difficult to define what really is meant by an African deposit since the deposit may be by individual Africans, by co-operative societies with majority African participation or they may also be by firms that include African participation. Besides, the commercial banks themselves do not maintain records on racial basis. I should like to say, however, that the indications are that the total deposits by the board group of African depositors is over £40 million. The answer to part (b) of the question is that the same problem of definitions apply to advances as for deposits, but this is more complicated since loans advanced to the African sector are also made by Government corporations which borrow from the commercial banks. However, the indications are that the loans are over £10 million and may be much higher than this: but unfortunately, we do not have sufficient statistics. However, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say, in this connexion, that we have been encouraging commercial banks to increase their lending capacity to the indigenous sector and I appeal to the Members to educate their constituents to regard commercial banks not only as deposit institutions, but also as institutions which could and should be used for loans and advice. Besides, the Government participation in the commercial banks has been started so as to see that commercial banks in the country make more advances to our people.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is the Assistant Minister aware of the fact that immediately after independence, the Africans who were engaged in business or in farming are always finding it very difficult to get some money from the banks in this country, and hence the banks make their business or farming rather difficult?

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, yes, I do agree with the hon. Member that there have been difficulties for the indigenous people to obtain loans from the banks and this is why we have been trying to concentrate very much on pushing the commercial banks to give as much money in loans as possible to the indigenous people. At this stage, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to assure the hon. Member that although there is progress made towards this direction, we are still not satisfied and we will try all we can to see that more advances and more loans are extended to the indigenous people.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is all very well for the Assistant Minister to tell the House that they are doing all they can to make the commercial banks give loans to the Africans. However, could he tell us what exactly they are doing? Are they giving firm instructions or what are they doing because we know that the commercial banks are reluctant to give loans to the Africans?

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have said, despite the pressure applied by the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning on the commercial banks to extend and also to be liberal in giving loans to the Africans, we are still not satisfied with the rate of progress. However, I can assure the hon. Member that the measures we are taking are such that we have given strict instructions that the conditions attached to giving loans to the Africans should be liberalized. I can assure the hon. Member that we have given stern warnings to the commercial banks to heed the Government call so that Africans can make headway towards this direction.

Mr. Abubakar-Madhbuti: Could the Assistant Minister tell this House why it is easier to secure a loan from a foreign bank in Kenya than from our commercial banks; which are our own banks?

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with the hon. Member that it is easier for people to get loans from the foreign banks here than our own banks. In fact, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when one applies for a loan from a foreign commercial bank, usually the approval of such a loan takes a very long time and the process through which such applications go are very lengthy. In fact, in some cases such applications go to the extent of being referred to the banks London head office. However, in regard to our own Government banks, such loan applications are processed much faster and usually loans are extended on much easier terms than from the foreign banks.

Question No. 187 (1535)

GRANT PROMISED TO ANGURAI HEALTH CENTRE

Mr. Ebu asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House—

(a) why had the KSh. 30,000 grant which the late Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Hon. T. J. Mboya, had promised Angurai Health Centre has not been released yet; and

(b) whether the Minister's successor would assure the wananchi of North Teso who, at the moment have only one Health Centre that that promise will be fulfilled at once.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Balala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. In reply to the hon. Member's question, part (a), I would first like to make a correction. The late Minister for Economic Planning and Development, Hon. T. J. Mboya, promised KSh. 20,000 to Angurai Health Centre and not KSh. 30,000 as the Member alleges.

The late Minister made this promise in his capacity as a Kenya Government Minister and I am pleased to inform the hon. Member that the Government fulfilled this promise in 1968 when the Ministry of Health paid the amount to the Busia County Council for the construction of the Health Centre.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in reply to part (b) of the question, I hope the hon. Member will visit Angurai to see for himself that the construction of Angurai Health Centre is now nearing the wall plate and that, in addition to the assistance already given, Government has, through the Community Development Department, given adequate iron sheets to complete the roof of the Health Centre.

Mr. Ebu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, since he tells the House that the Sh. 20,000 promised by the late Minister has already given to the county council, and noting that the county council no longer takes care of the Health Centre, would he tell us where the money is because I know the Health Centre is right now going up through self-help and that the Sh. 20,000 has disappeared?

Mr. Balala: Sir, I have said that the money has already been put into the construction of this Health Centre and the Health Centre is almost completed.

An hon. Member: Have you been there? He does not know where it is.

Mr. Tsuma: Could the Assistant Minister tell this House whether his Ministry has really checked well through the county council accounts and seen, himself, that the Sh. 20,000 has really been spent on the Health Centre in question because I know that this has never happened?

Mr. Balala: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have checked and we are satisfied that the money has been put into use.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 156 (1483)

NUMBER OF REGISTERED JOB-SEEKERS

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House—

(a) what was the total number of the registered job-seekers as at 31st October 1970;

(b) what was the number in Baringo District; and,

(c) how many had been offered jobs in the whole Republic.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ministry of Labour? Not here.

Question No. 172 (1508)

OVERTURNING OF GOVERNMENT LAND-ROVER AT RAMBIRA STREAM

Mr. Mbori asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House what had led to the overturning of a Government Land-Rover involving four persons who were seriously injured as a result of that road accident on 3rd November 1970 at Rambira Stream, North-East of Kendu Bay.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. On 3rd November 1970, a motor vehicle belonging to the Ministry of Works and attached to the District Hospital, Homa Bay, overturned whilst the driver was trying to cross the stream and its four occupants, including the driver, received serious injuries. One of the occupants, an Assistant Health Inspector, received treatment in Nairobi.

The driver later charged for careless driving but was acquitted.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before this vehicle was used, was mechanical inspection carried out on it, and why was this vehicle, belonging to the Ministry of Works, used instead of the one belonging to the Ministry of Health?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member should realize that these are all Government of Kenya vehicles, and with Government duties one can use any vehicle that is available.

Mr. Mbori: Was a mechanical inspection carried, done prior to the time the vehicle was used? I want the Minister to answer this.

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, vehicles are normally checked and they do not have to be checked every time when they go out. When they go for servicing they are checked; they do not have to be checked every time they go out otherwise no work would be done.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House whether it was driving at a high speed that made the Land-Rover overturn?

Mr. Shikuku: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is contained in my reply. We charged him for careless driving but the court acquitted him.

An hon. Member: Why?

Question No. 156 (1483)

NUMBER OF REGISTERED JOB-SEEKERS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Anyone ready to reply to Mr. Cheboiwo's question?

(Question deferred to another day)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Anyone authorized to ask Mr. Mulwa's questions?

Mr. Kivuitu: Yes, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All right.

Question No. 175 (1518)

GOVERNMENT PARTICIPATION IN BRODERICK FALLS PULP AND PAPER MILLS

Mr. Kivuitu, on behalf of Mr. Mulwa, asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House—

(a) the amount involved in Kenya Government's participation in the pulp and paper mills which were being established at Broderick Falls;

(b) in view of the Government's intention to achieve economic independence if the Minister would re-negotiate with the International Factory Co-operation to be repaid from the profit of the company.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The Kenya Government is contributing KSh. 19 million which is approximately 29 per cent of KSh. 66 million equity capital.

(b) The second part of the question does not arise because that is exactly what the Government is doing.

Question No. 176 (1519)

MANAGEMENT OF CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT

Mr. Kivuitu, on behalf of Mr. Mulwa, asked the Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services if he would tell the House—

(a) accepting that the co-operative movement was essential in the development of this country as the only means of uplifting the standard of the common wananchi, what steps the Minister was taking to ensure that co-operatives in this country are properly run since in most cases our people who ran them were illiterate;

(b) whether it was true that there had been an exodus of officers from his Ministry, particularly in Eastern Province. If so, why these officers were leaving.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) It is indeed true that the co-operative movement is essential in the development of this country and that the co-operatives should be run properly. With this in mind, the Government has intensified training programmes, both for the employees and officials of the co-operative societies at the Co-operative College of Kenya and also at the provincial and district levels.

(b) The answer to the second part of the question is, "No". I know only of officers who have recently been transferred to various stations of my Ministry.

(b) The answer to the second part of the question is, "No". I know only of officers who have recently been transferred to various stations of my Ministry.

Mr. Kivuitu: Arising from the hon. Minister's reply, does he agree that the co-operative movements are not running as efficiently as they should be, particularly with the number of liquidation notices which are being exhibited in the Official Gazette every Friday?

Mr. Muliro: What we want, Mr. Speaker, and the Government is interested in is that the hon. Members who are enlightened by the hon. Member who is the Questioner, should be interested in the co-operative movement. However, hitherto the co-operative movement has been the responsibility of the many people who do not know anything. If the co-operative movement is not running efficiently, and it has been established by a few people for the sake of being established, we liquidate them. However, if they are genuine co-operative societies we try to assist them in every way possible to make them more efficient.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister assure this House that while taking steps to train the people who run co-operative societies, he will also take steps to punish any who might or will in future misappropriate the societies' funds in order that the people are not discouraged?

Mr. Muliro: It is very true that under the Co-operative Act any official of the co-operative movement who tries to embezzle the money can be prosecuted. We are taking every possible step to see that no wananchi who would like to come together should be frustrated by some individuals who would like to be rich quickly by embezzling money from the co-operative movement. We punish them very severely too.

Mr. Jilo: Arising out of the reply by the Minister is he aware that co-operatives have failed in areas where the wananchi have easy access to markets?

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, what the hon. Member says is possibly true, but the problem is that where co-operative societies have other competitors, black, white or banyanis, they find it very difficult to move forward. Here is the only place where, I think, the co-operatives may have failed. However, the Government is convinced that short of the co-operative movement there is nothing that can uplift the African in general business and marketing.

Question No. 184 (1531)

SANTA CLAUS—FATHER XMAS AND AFRICAN CULTURE

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services if he would tell the House how Santa Claus—Father Xmas—was related to African Culture.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Santa Claus, or Father Christmas, is not related to African culture in one thing, but it is very much related to African culture because any act showing generosity and good assistance to those who are in difficulties is very much like being Santa Claus.

It is stated that Saint Nicholas who, was Dutch, was a Bishop who lived in the fourth century. Little is known of his life but he is supposed to have been a patron of the seafarers, prisoners and children. According to European concept he is said to be a person who is supposed to fill the stockings with presents for children on Christmas Day. Anybody in need, on Christmas Day, and wishing for some good Christmas present used to get from his stocking a gift in the morning.

Any good assistance, when someone is in need, a person who gets something nice to eat or to wear says this is good.

To that extent I said, "Yes" and "No" in that Santa Claus is related to African culture.

Rev. Kalume: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I do not understand why such a question has been brought to Parliament because this seems to be more of a religious matter than a political issue. Sir, since we do not have a Ministry of Religious Education, why has the question been answered by the Ministry of Co-operatives and Social Services?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Religion could be a social service, too.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since it is not in any way compulsory for any religious group to teach its religion in any school, I wonder why this Santa Claus affair is more or less formalized, even by the Kenya Government?

Mr. Muliro: Mr. Speaker, what the hon. Member alleges is not true. Normally during Christmas presents are given freely and free. Even the Mayors of various municipalities, the chairmen of various urban councils, the chairmen of various county councils, organize free presents for the needy children in their respective areas. Honestly, Sir, that is not a religious affair, it is a social service to the wananchi so that they can feel happy on an occasion such as this.

Question No. 179 (1523)

GOVERNMENT TAKE-OVER OF KYUSO HEALTH CENTRE

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Is any hon. Member authorized to ask Mr. Matiko's question?

(Ordered to Receive Written Reply)

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

DISAPPEARANCE OF CONSTABLE HASSAN MOHAMED ALI

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following question by Private Notice:—

Is the Minister aware of the disappearance of Constable No. 7759 Hassan Mohamed Ali of Moyale Police Station whilst on patrol with one of the Chief Inspectors from Marsabit Divisional Headquarters between 13th and 18th February, 1971, and who has not reappeared?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is true that Constable No. 7759, Mr. Hassan Mohamed Ali, stationed at Moyale was among the party of policemen that took part in an operation in Alibay (?) area from 13th February, 1971 to 25th February, 1971. On 18th

[The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs]

February 1971, at about 5.00 p.m., the constable in a group of 12 other constables under the command of a non-commissioned officer were instructed to drive some stock recovered from raiders to the operational headquarters at Asumwalanga. On their way the constable, who was armed with a rifle and 50 rounds of ammunition, told the officer in command that he was going to obey nature's call. The constable was left behind while the main party carried on.

However, when the party arrived at the headquarters it was discovered that the constable had not turned up. A police party was sent out to search for him but he was not found. A further search was carried out for him for 16 days by a ground party, assisted by police aircraft but he was still not found.

The police are still investigating this matter.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a serious case when a man patrolling such parts of the country was left behind alone. Could our Vice-President tell this House whether the Constable was sick before he was asked to go on this operation? Did he not report he was sick and had this trouble with the stomach but was told he had to accompany this operation group? He was left behind in the jungle and I do not know whether he is alive or he is dead. As the Vice-President says, I agree the police are still looking for this constable and investigating the matter.

Mr. Speaker, but what shall we tell the relatives of this man because the wife of the constable is in my office every weekend, crying about her husband and the kids she has?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, I have already answered the question and said fully that there were 12 other constables with this constable under a non-commissioned officer, who is a Boran Corporal. When they discovered that he did not turn up at the headquarters an entire police party went to look for him.

Mr. Speaker, I have also stated that the police are still investigating. This is not the Government's fault.

Mr. Ahmed: Mr. Speaker, arising out of the reply, is the Vice-President denying or agreeing to what has been said by the Questioner, that that man was sick and he reported to his group but they just neglected him and left him behind while he was in the bush?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, the Government does not want to hide these things. There were 12 other police constables under a non-commissioned officer.

An hon. Member: But they were not looking for him.

Mr. arap Moi: The question is—

Mr. Ahmed: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Questioner has stated that this man was sick and he had reported to his superior officer that he was sick but no action was taken and the sick man was left in the bush. So why does the Vice-President not speak about that? And was that inspector not asked about this matter?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I gave you the opportunity to ask a question, and you did not.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Vice-President satisfied that the search which was conducted by the police and other people was properly done?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, I said the search still continues and we are trying to find out— If the hon. Member has any proof that the person was really sick why does he not take this information to the people concerned?

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Vice-President has not answered my question.

My question was this: is the Vice-President satisfied that the search which was made by the Government and police was properly conducted?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): He said it was still going on.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, will the Vice-President tell this House how long this search has been going on and what favourable information he has received so far about finding this lost victim?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, can the hon. Member please repeat his question?

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, will the Vice-President tell us how long this search has been going on and what favourable information he has received about the lost man?

Mr. arap Moi: If the hon. Member had been listening; he would have heard me say that a police party was sent to search for him but he was not found. A further search was carried out for 16 days. An aircraft was sent there. If the matter was not serious an aircraft would not have been sent to the place to search for the Constable. We are still investigating how this person came to get lost.

CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY AT NGOLIBA SETTLEMENT SCHEME BY NATIONAL YOUTH SERVICEMEN

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Labour the following question by Private Notice:—

[Mr. Kahengeri]

- (a) Why did a contingent of National Youth Servicemen at Yatta Field Unit on 11th March, 1971 confiscate tools and over 650 bags of charcoal, the property of Ngoliba Settlement Scheme residents who were authorized to clear and burn charcoal on on the Unit's land?
- (b) As the agreement was to clear the bush and burn charcoal to sell as the price for clearing, when is the Minister giving the charcoal back to the owners to enable them to purchase food in this critical time of hunger in that settlement scheme?
- (c) Why did the same contingent on 12th March 1971, burn ten houses at the Juja/Yatta Constituencies border on the bank of Athi River, which belonged to fishermen who lost some of their belongings in the fire and were rendered homeless?
- (d) What steps is the Minister taking to re-house these citizens and to pay them compensation?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ministry of Labour? Is there anybody prepared to reply to this question?

An hon. Member: What about collective responsibility?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next Order.

(Question deferred to another day)

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, last week a question was asked by Mr. Nthenge and we asked him to substantiate. He has not done so yet. He was to name a person, who he did not want to name.

POLLUTION OF NYANDO RIVER BY MOLASSES FROM CHEMILIL SUGAR FACTORIES

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order!

I must deal with this point first. You are quite right, there is still one question by Private Notice left on the Order Paper which has not been dealt with.

The problem here is that I was informed that this question has now been directed to the Ministry of Agriculture which is responsible for water. The Ministry of Agriculture is not quite ready to reply today and have asked for a day or so to prepare themselves.

I am sorry, I forgot to explain that earlier.

(Question deferred to another day)

POINT OF ORDER

METHOD OF DEALING WITH BREACH OF CONSTITUTION ON PERSONAL LIBERTY

Mr. Kanja: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I rise to seek your guidance.

We have all sworn to safeguard the Constitution, this Constitution which I now hold in my hands. As Members of Parliament of this hon. House, occasionally it has happened, and in this particular case I am referring to the incident in hon. J. M. Kariuki's house, when the police raided that house and expelled all the guests. Mr. Speaker, if you are in my house as my guest—and there are so many others too—and all are sent away without any explanation at all, what kind of Government are we going to look to? Can we be told by the Government what our rights are, what liberty we have as Members of Parliament?

Mr. Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not think you can deal with this matter in this way, Mr. Kanja. We do not have that system of asking questions directly in this way and expecting a reply. However, I understand there is an hon. Member who has already indicated he is putting up a question on the issue. So, perhaps we should wait for that.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I want to seek your guidance here. Now, clauses 71 and 72 of the Constitution of Kenya provide for protection of rights to personal liberty. Now, Sir, when an encroachment on that personal liberty is carried out like that, which is absolutely a breach of the Constitution, does this House have to wait for a question by Private Notice, rather than discuss the issue at once when we are the custodians of this Constitution?

Hon. Members: No!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, but— Mr. Mwithaga, first of all, you have not even tried to use the normal machinery in raising this issue. You cannot blame anybody for having stopped you from discussing the issue when you have not raised it according to our Standing Orders. However, I know, perhaps, what you wanted to say was whether you could discuss it as a matter of national importance. Now, in my opinion, you have to consider exactly what it is you want to achieve by this. To raise a matter under Standing Order 20, which must be urgent, and of national importance, you know you have only a limited amount of time— Now, if you do not keep quiet, you will go out Mr. Komen!

Now, we only give a limited number of minutes to such issues. This is not the kind of issue which can be discussed in that limited amount of time. It is true, if it is raised as a question you still have an opportunity of raising it differently. However, if you raise it under Standing Order 20, then you are stopped completely from raising it again; you cannot raise it, either as a Motion for the Adjournment or as a Substantive Motion. If Members feel so strongly that this is a matter that touches on the Constitution—I imagine Mr. Mwithaga was referring to sections 80 and 81, under the chapter he is probably thinking of—now, you might then consider whether, if you really wish to raise the matter, you could do it on a Substantive Motion; in which case, then, you are better able to, probably to hear more and you also have a better opportunity of saying more. However, I see no point in interrupting Business today, to go into this for just a few minutes and, as we know, no conclusion is ever reached on Motions under Standing Order 20. I do not know whether you agree with me.

Hon. Members: On a point of order——

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order!

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, I think we all took the oath to defend the Constitution, that is the Kenya Constitution. Now, having done so, Mr. Speaker, we are here to defend the Constitution under any circumstances; in other words, Mr. Speaker, any attempt of infringing the Constitution must be discussed at the earliest available moment.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker. I am of the opinion that we should have this matter discussed under Standing Order 20 because it is very serious.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us get things clear here. There is no question of anybody stopping you from defending the Constitution, but there is this question: which is the best method of doing so? First of all, must you raise this matter now, and under those circumstances, or would you rather raise it more convincingly, differently? This is all I am trying to say, which, in fact, does help the situation. If you argue that this matter is urgent, you have to ask yourself whether it cannot really wait another day; in which case, if Members regard it as of national importance, they might even decide to put it as a Substantive Motion, and give it priority over other Motions; in which case you are better able, in those circumstances, to defend the Constitution than just by talking for a few minutes here, and then walking out; no resolution, nothing. It is up to you, anyway.

Mr. Ogalo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, although you have ruled that the question should be answered by the Ministry of Agriculture, I think——

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! What are you talking about?

Mr. Ogalo: I am talking about the question——

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We have finished that; we will not go back to that.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since today we have the Minister for Power and Communications in the House, who had alleged that some Members of Parliament have hired their licences to some other people or Indians, I wonder whether today, while he is in the Chamber, he will lay on the Table the list of all those Members and Ministers, if possible, who have hired their licences out?

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, it is quite true Mr. Ngala promised to lay on the Table a list of Members who he alleged were involved in obtaining Transport Licensing Board licences and giving them to other people and I think the House is entitled to know how far you have gone with your research and whether you have the list now.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have the facts now in the files I am holding here, but I am combining them into a small statement, which I will give tomorrow.

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Sir, Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether we have left this business we were trying to raise earlier, because I wanted to ask for your guidance. You were saying, for instance, that there might be some better circumstances of raising this affair on a Substantive Motion, and the House giving it priority. However, Sir, I have noticed that when Members have tried to use this method, the Chairman of the Sessional Committee and even the Sessional Committee itself, have used their other capacities to thwart this. What guarantee do we have, that when we try to raise this we will succeed?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, no; there is no point now, in raising this issue. I think we can sort it out: I am of the opinion that the urgency in this case is not such that it requires we deal with it today. I am quite sure it can be dealt with in a better way than in interrupting Business today.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

SUBSTANTIATION OF ALLEGATION: PROMOTION AND DEMOTION OF LOCAL AUTHORITIES' EMPLOYEES

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, during last week's question time I made reference to irregularities on the way of payments and gradings of former county councils officers, employed by the former county councils and promised the House that I would give that information today.

[The Assistant Minister for Works]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, towards the beginning of 1970, when road works were transferred from local authorities to the Ministry of Works, a technical interview board, comprising of a senior road engineer, chief personnel officer, three other engineers, provincial engineers of respective provinces, interviewed all former county councils' staff with a view to assessing their technical capabilities, as well as suggesting their grades and salaries commensurate with their qualifications and in line with Government Civil Service Salary Scales. During their interview it was noted that many officers were grossly overpaid without necessarily their qualifications being taken into account. It was equally noted that some were grossly underpaid and, consequent to this, their salary grades were adjusted to the proper scales. An example to this is of a work's officer employed by one of the county councils, who was graded as a road foreman, and his assistant, who did so well during the interview, was upgraded as an inspector.

It is not true that these officers were all downgraded or their grades were reduced and consequently had their salaries reduced. In some cases, during the interviews it was noted that some of the officers were grossly underpaid during the county council times, and were up to standard, and their salaries and grades were raised. For instance, this one who was a road foreman, who was the work's officer of a certain county council had his salary chopped to whatever grade fitted him, and his assistant was promoted. We had to move the assistant from that district to avoid embarrassment of this newly promoted chap continuing to work under his former officer.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, a further clear example is as follows: we had a Mr.— If you want me to refer to them by name, I could do so. Mr. Francis Pessop had the designation of county engineer, and yet he had no qualifications in engineering whatsoever, with a salary scale of K£1,221, which was adjusted to fit his shoes by reducing it to K£1,068. Another case was of Mr. Alan M. Muchai, who was acting works officer and had a salary of K£1,135—foreman—but it was cut to the appropriate size, K£828. Mr. A. M. Mwereria who was in the Department of Works was a foreman on K£858 but it was reduced to K£280. Also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, Mr. Washington M. Mwangi was being paid K£1,024 in the county council service as a foreman, but we reduced him to K£828. Similarly, Sir, Mr. Anthony Alois was a road foreman on K£859 but was reduced to K£828, and so was Mr. Peter Ondieke. I could give you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, 100 names, however—

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is a point of order we are dealing with just now.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Why can they not pay attention instead of shouting unnecessary points of order? However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I said before, if a particular person feels dissatisfied with his terms of service, his case could always be reviewed if there is merit. We have already, in many cases, done so and sometimes their salaries are adjusted. It may also be appropriate, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to mention that these officers are now entitled to privileges which they were not entitled to while they were employed by the county councils. They now have free pensions and free house allowances. However, we cannot continue to dwell on the past, but what we do, as cases are made, is to review such cases as they come. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought that what hon. John Keen was going to substantiate to this House was brotherization and not the salaries of individual officers. Now, could he say what brotherization was used in these cases?

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is just anybody's guess because these officers were interviewed by qualified engineers and found to be with unsound engineering knowledge and therefore not commensurate with their grades. Therefore, it is anybody's guess. I do not wish to mention that Mr. "B" was a brother of Mr. "C".

POINTS OF ORDER

MATTER CANNOT BE RAISED SINCE A QUESTION ON THE SAME SUBJECT HAS BEEN SUBMITTED

Mr. Abubakar-Madhbuti: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, today a report appeared in the Daily Nation that the Kenya Government has put a restriction on its currency. Now we find we have a total blockade of movement of currency in East Africa. Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister concerned give clarification on this point because we do not know what money to use. We cannot go to either Tanzania or Uganda with our money and vice versa, and this is affecting the locals on the street. It is now becoming just like travelling from New York to Peking where you have all these restrictions!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You have to do it in the proper manner laid down in our Standing Orders. We do not do it that way, Mr. Madhbuti. However, I understand that someone had already put in a question on the issue.

DETERMINATION OF WHETHER SUBSTANTIATION IS SATISFACTORY

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wonder whether you are really satisfied that hon. John Keen could not go further and substantiate fully? He promised to substantiate an allegation he made but has come here only to tell us lies. The methods which were used, as he claimed, were brotherization and this is what we want him to prove.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Now, you see some of these issues take a lot of time which could, perhaps, be more usefully used. Mr. Keen has given the grounds on which he based his allegations that he thought there was brotherization. He was probably using the term very broadly. However, I think he has said enough for now, but you do not have to believe him. You do not necessarily have to agree with him, but he has done his best.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

MOTION

APPROVAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE
REPORT, 1967/68 AND 1968/69—PART I

THAT this House approves the recommendations contained in Part I, Reports of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the years ending 30th June, 1967/68 and 1968/69 respectively, but being of the opinion that continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required; hereby resolves to appoint a Select Committee to inquire into and recommend revision of relevant penal and other legislation to empower the House to enforce its authority over public expenditure and deal effectively with accounting officers and Ministers responsible for any future unauthorized expenditure of public funds.

(Mr. Gatuguta—on 16th March, 1971)

(Resumption of Debate on the Motion as amended by the Messrs. Seroney and Mulwa on 18th March 1971 interrupted on 18th March, 1971)

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for giving me this chance to speak on this very important Motion. Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I come to very important points, I would like to comment on something which was said by hon. Members. Some of the points which were raised, Mr. Speaker, Sir, were not correct at all.

To start with, Sir, one of the points raised—and the hon. Members will agree with me—is on the security of the Head of State of the Republic of Kenya. In this connexion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Yatta would be the first Member of Parliament to question this House if the security of His Excellency the President was not adequate, especially in regard to His Excellency's movements. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, all I would like to tell the hon. Member is that since the President of the Republic of Kenya is liked, loved and admired by entire people of the Republic of Kenya, it is the responsibility of this hon. House to see to it that the security—

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is your point of order Mr. Mutiso-Muyu?

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point of order, is this: I heard the hon. Member speaking now mentioning the hon. Member for Yatta. Did he imply that the Member for Yatta is not interested in the President's security? Is that the implication he has?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, you should tell us what you have and not what he said.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member speaking said that the Member for Yatta would be the first to question the security of the President during His Excellency's tours. Now, did he imply that the Member for Yatta is not interested in the President's security? That is what I am trying to find out.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): There is no implication there. There is nothing he has implied. However, you may disagree with what he is saying but do not interrupt for nothing please.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member was not in the House at that time, he should have listened to me explain. All I was saying is that the security of the Head of State should be adequate. In other words, Sir, the Head of State must be fully protected and that is a known fact not only in the Republic of Kenya but also in every other country in the world. The Head of State must be protected and must have enough security men to protect him. For that reason, Sir, all I would like to emphasize, is that the Head of State should not only be protected from our citizens, but also from foreigners. This is so because there might be enemies from outside, Mr. Speaker, Sir, who might threaten the security of the Head of State. Therefore, Sir, for an hon. Member to come to this hon. House and start saying that the security men of the Head of State are too many is unreasonable. This is something which is not only happening in the Republic of Kenya but in other countries of the world; and if there are heads of state even on other planets they must be quite secure. Therefore, it was not in accordance with the dignity of this House for an hon. Member to come here and start criticizing the members of security, who are protecting the head of state—the President of the Republic of Kenya who is admired and loved by the entire population of the Republic of Kenya.

I would like to come to another point. It is a little bit meaningless for the hon. Member to come and give another allegation: His Excellency the Vice-President and the Minister for Home Affairs has two escort cars. This is a fact which is well known. All that is in the Constitution will remain there. I am very happy that one of the hon. Members stood up armed with the Constitution of the Republic of Kenya. If all Members can read that Constitution, they will find that it is stated very clearly that the security of the head of state should be protected. The security of the Head of State is the responsibility of this hon. House and everyone in the Republic of Kenya. Secondly, it is stated in the Constitution that there should be a Vice-President of Kenya. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, his existence is known; and so it is no use for a person or for a Member of this House to come here and start launching criticisms which are meaningless.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to come to other important points and comment on what is in this report—Public Accounts Committee Report. I would like to remind the hon. Members that presently there is a menace—health menace—which is threatening the Republic of Kenya: Cholera. If there was no money which was voted to deal with cholera, which is commonly known as kipindupindu by wananchi, and somebody in the Ministry of Health spent some money in buying doses of the vaccine, this cannot be called misappropriation of funds but using funds for a good purpose. There is a great difference between using money extravagantly and using money for a good purpose. The hon. Member who is now looking at me knows this very well. If we overspend money which has been voted for the Ministry of Health to deal with cholera and thus help our people because nobody knew that cholera would be a menace in our country—two months ago we did not know that cholera would be a menace in the Republic of Kenya although now it is—it cannot be called extravagance; people are being vaccinated against cholera all over the country. If money is used for a good purpose, that is not misappropriation of funds but usage of more money for a good purpose—which is reasonable.

I would like to give another example. Today there is famine which has hit the whole country. If more money from the fund is used for the purpose of helping the people who have been hit by famine, that is not misappropriation of funds but usage of extra money for a good purpose. Every hon. Member will agree with that point.

When hon. Members are attacking civil servants they should attack those civil servants who have been involved in misuse of money which was voted for a certain Ministry but they should not condemn civil servants wholesale on what is going on. I think this is common sense. Questions have been raised, for instance, concerning the Ministry of Natural Resources. It is very good that the hon. Minister, who is known as ndovu and who is a man of action the other day told this hon. House that forests have been burnt to the ground. We were even told that animals from Elgon area, which attract tourists, have run away to Uganda because the forest was burnt to the ground. If the Ministry of Natural Resources uses more money in getting a unit to control the burning of forests, is that going to be translated to mean misuse of public funds? The answer is, "No". That is money which will have been used for a good purpose. I would like to appeal to the Auditor-General that in future he should specify things, for example, this is something which happened and which an hon. Member raised as a question in this House in which he wanted to know how much it had cost the Government as a result of the fire which burnt the forest. The loss is something which can be calculated to be more than 20 million shillings. Was any money voted to deal with such a thing? Did we put in one of the clauses that if there is an outbreak of fire in a certain forest area we shall use more money? Was it put in the Estimates? It is not there.

People have stood up here in this House and attacked the Ministry of Health. I know of health centres which are now running and there are some personnel working there although there was no money voted for them. When money was voted in this House no money was allocated for such health centres, which might be in South Nyanza, Central Province, Western Province, North-Eastern Province and so forth. However, was the money for that purpose voted? The answer is, "No!" However, is that money not being used for a good purpose? The answer is: "That money is being used for a good purpose".

[The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office]

Hon. Members who have been reasonable, and one of them is looking at me would like more police stations to be erected on the borders because of raids from other areas. If more money can now be voted for so that some temporary police stations can be erected on the borders, would that money be termed as being used in a bad way? Is that misappropriation of public funds? The answer is, no, because this money is going to be used for a good purpose. This is what our electors want.

Therefore, I would like to appeal to the hon. Members, who are respected all over the country and know the sufferings of our people, when they come to this House, they must be logical. I remember it is written in the Bible that when Jesus was questioned by the Pharisees and other people and was asked whether it was good to do a good act on a Sunday, for example to help a suffering person—

Mr. Cheserek: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister speak slowly so that we can understand what he is trying to say? He is speaking so fast that we find it difficult to follow him.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): If possible, Mr. Munyi try to confine yourself to the main subject. It is not necessary to do too much preaching.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Members do attend the Sunday services and this is why I quoted the Bible. If you see someone suffering, you cannot say that because it is a Sunday you will attend the Sunday services and not the person who is suffering. For instance, at this time of the year, our country has been hit by famine. If extra money is used to help wananchi in this country, particularly in areas which have been hit by famine, that money has been put to a good use. That is all I wanted to explain to the hon. Members—

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have been sitting here listening to the hon. Member on the floor, but to me it appears that he is repeating the same thing in various versions, money being spent for a good purpose all the time. For the last fifteen minutes he has been speaking on the same issue. Is that really not over-doing and over-repeating it?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Munyi, there is a danger of over-stressing one point too much. I think Members now follow exactly what you are trying to say, but this question of money being used because of the present drought has nothing to do with what we are discussing here.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): In any case, I have been telling the truth and the truth always hurts. Truth is always bitter. Why should we, Mr. Speaker—

Mr. Cheptai: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what the Assistant Minister is trying to tell the House is quite contrary because in the last Saturday crisis, the top civil servants accused the Parliament for—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Cheptai. That has nothing to do with what is being said here. That is not a point of order. You are complaining about civil servants. You are out of order, Mr. Cheptai.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, your wisdom is compared to the wisdom of King Solomon the Great about whom we read in this Bible. All that I am saying is very true. I have been dealing with one point after the other and now I am going to deal with the Ministry of Works.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if there is flood and a bridge has been washed away in South Nyanza or another area, for instance, and extra money is spent to rebuild it, could this be termed as misappropriation? This is what I want to know—

Mr. Kivuitu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am just wondering whether the Assistant Minister is really not misleading this House with the argument he is advancing now because section 102 of the Constitution provides clearly how this money, in a situation like the one he keeps on referring to, is to be raised. It is to be obtained from the Contingency Fund and an Appropriation Bill is brought here thereafter and the Bill is passed. Now, that has nothing to do, whatsoever, with the Motion before this House: but he has kept on this for so long and we want to speak and contribute and not just talk.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Munyi, I think you have made your point absolutely clear. If you do not mind, try to wind up your speech so that others can have an opportunity to speak.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, what the hon. Member should know is that I am following one point after the other. For instance, what the hon. Member has said, if the House has gone on recess, how can you recall the House when there is a catastrophe? This is all I am saying. I am also aware of the section of our Constitution he is referring to and I have even quoted it.

To come to another point, Mr. Speaker—

An hon. Member: Drink a glass of water.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): We Africans never mind about water. We do not drink water even when we are thirsty.

I want to talk on the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife. It was just last Friday when the hon. Mbori came to this House and said that in his own area there were very many wild animals attacking people and domestic animals and he wanted to know if the Ministry concerned could do something about it. Now the situation is under control—

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what is the position of the Chair when a Member persistently goes on speaking on the same thing despite the Chair's rulings and Members' points of order? He is now bringing in the issue of wildlife and the money which can be spent, and therefore getting out of the debate; he is not relevant to the Motion we have. Can he not conclude and give way?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think Mr. Munyi you are in danger of repeating yourself. I also think you have made your point quite clearly.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is only one last thing which I would like to tell the hon. Members. To comment on what the hon. Member was saying, I remember when we were in the Senate, a person could speak for more than one week. In any case, I do not want to go back to that.

Now, I want to speak on the Ministry of Finance and I am referring to paragraphs 25 and 26. I want to note these two paragraphs very strongly. This is what I was saying should be done in the Republic, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as regards the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, I do not want to repeat what has been already said by the other hon. Members, but—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Munyi, I think that cannot really be defended because I could hardly follow what you were referring to. It seems you are now repeating yourself. Therefore, we will ask you to end your speech there. That means, Mr. Munyi, your speech has really ended there because you have been repeating yourself.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all those important points I have raised, I beg to support—and I stand firmly on the comments I have already made.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is right that we have a change from a tall man to a short man to see what the change could bring to the House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion has been treated like a very important Motion all the time it has been debated in this House. The amendment by my colleague hon. Seroney, to the Motion which was tabled by hon. Gatuguta is very timely and relevant also. Mr. Speaker, Sir, honestly, we do not need to go page by page or paragraph by paragraph in order to be able to analyse what the whole Report contained and what the House would like to hear. It is understood, Mr. Speaker, that I, as a Back-bencher, including my other hon. colleagues at the time were being carried away by emotions. Mr. Speaker, why I say emotion because when we start attacking, in general, the whole of our Civil Service without reservations or without specification we are treating that organization in such a way that it can have its own defences. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when we teach the Civil Service to defend itself, it will in the end try to put us to our defences. In that case, who will be in the vacuum, Mr. Speaker, Sir?

I have said in this House before—if the hon. Ochwada can keep peace—that the Civil Service is a branch or creation of a political machinery: by that I mean that this being a political Republic there are various branches which have been established by that political machinery. Mr. Speaker, if we do not want the system of the Civil Service we have, it is just we here in this House, who can make it look different from what it is, and that is what we should do rather than failing everybody in that Service. I would say, Mr. Speaker, that those people whom we know—and of course there are such people; they are human beings like others—do wrong or have misappropriated public funds or overspent or used their positions to acquire the things which have been stated by the Controller and Auditor-General, they should be placed on the carpet and brought to justice. If we do not mention those individuals in this House during a debate like this one, Mr. Speaker, and we happen to know them, then we are as cowardly as they are. Mr. Speaker, it is no good to be a political coward. If you know what is wrong, then you have to expose it so that it can be tackled by others who might be in favour of it or against it. Mr. Speaker, I am saying this because as a result of the debate in this House we have now seen two warring sections of the Civil Service, that is the Kenya Civil Servants' Union and the Kenya Senior Civil Servants' Union. Mr. Speaker, does that help to remedy the morale of the administration or of the Service? I would say that it actually tampers with that morale. If it tampers with that morale, Mr. Speaker, Sir, then in the whole Civil Service between the junior officers and the senior officers there shall be a complete distrust. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, the whole morale will be affected.

Mr. Speaker, despite the fact that the Kenya Civil Servants' Union has backed what the House said and the sentiments in their statement, Senior Civil Servants' Union in their statement attacked this House and accused us of everything. We are going to have a completely non-effective Civil Service if the break which exists between the junior officers and the senior officers continues. This will mean that the morale will obviously go down. In fact, those words which I am using ought to have been used by the Assistant Minister in the President's Office instead of preaching to us a "Bible third class". Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am saying this because he ought to have understood what organizations and methods he needs— In fact, I was in the seminary for four years, for the Vice-President's information, and I do not need that sermon from him because he went to the wrong school. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I was saying is that the Assistant Minister in the Office of the President ought to spend a bit more time learning organizations, methods and public administration.

Leaving that point aside because I was trying to bring him back on the rails, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that the Report by the Controller and Auditor-General is clear. I am very pleased with the way that "constitutional gentleman" has come out to expose the issues. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when money is spent without the authority of this House, in the first place it is contempt of the House and, secondly, it is a breach of the Constitution. Mr. Speaker, Sir, those are two bitter words: that is the contempt of the House and a breach of the Constitution. If anybody in the service, political or civil, misappropriates the State money or the public funds. Mr. Speaker, Sir, and we do not settle that issue with a lot of concern and we start behaving here as if we were in the Donovan Maule Theatre, Mr. Speaker, we shall be answerable because we are here to defend and protect that Constitution. We have all agreed here, Mr. Speaker, that this House shall be a supreme authority but there is a struggle in this House to try to acquire that authority as provided in the Constitution. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if anyone overspends money or misappropriates the public money, what should we do with such a person? Mr. Speaker, Sir, all you have to do is to seek all your refuge in the law and in the Constitution and place that man where he is supposed to be.

The moment a nation tampers with the Constitution, or the moment the provisions of the Constitution and the law of the land are avoided by the same people who make those laws, or the ones who are supposed to execute the same laws, that country goes to the dock. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we who are seated in this House must be told categorically and specifically by the Government what action will be taken against those persons who have been exposed by the Controller and Auditor-General. Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the sections, the reports or the notes therein indicate that our Public Accounts Committee does notice what has happened and they have perhaps received a promise from, maybe, the Permanent Secretary or from the Minister that the necessary or relevant action will be taken. This is what the notes indicate. Now, Mr. Speaker, the Report we are debating here, as you can see from the Motion, is based on 1967/1968 and 1968/1969 finances. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if action has not been taken very respectably just because this matter had not been debated in this House, what is going to happen to 1969/1970 and 1970/1971 Financial Years? Things will be worse, then. We remember, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that we had several cases of this nature when we were debating the other reports in the previous Parliament. What action was taken as a result of that? Mr. Speaker, what I believe should be done is that this House should have a Motion intended to set up a Select Committee to scrutinize every business which has been passed by this House from 1963 hitherto and find out what action has been taken and what action has not been taken and then place the gentlemen concerned on the carpet if we are not satisfied, which is impossible. This is because there are things which were discussed in other debates in connexion with the Public Accounts Committee Reports. I remember, Mr. Speaker, some of those things. However, now again we find the same anomalies or the same mistakes being exposed by the Public Accounts Committee. Therefore, what do we conclude? We conclude that, as an hon. Member rightly said the other week, we shall continue to be accused of talking and this House will always remain being referred to as a talking House, so literally as it means in France. Mr. Speaker, this minimizes the importance and the authority of the House. Since we realize that, we shall therefore—I think I might be forced to bring a Motion—

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Ochwada): You are shouting.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the hon. Member, Mr. Ochwada in order to say that I am shouting?

[Mr. Mwithaga]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish he was sitting in his right place. He is hiding himself in the Back Benches.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I was saying is that I might take the initiative to bring a Motion calling for a Select Committee to scrutinize all these records. This is because it is no use our sitting here— We have read history and although we do not want to quote or to be victims of history, we might be accused one day, and I say “might”, after having spent ten years in this House— from 1963 to 1973—and having not been able to achieve anything. This is because what Parliament says here—other than Public Bills which are enacted into law and other Government Motions—all the other things—have not been implemented. Just why? Because nobody thinks that there is supremacy in the House or there is supremacy in our Parliament. Mr. Speaker, I am saying this with a bit of pain and I, therefore, believe that the Motion, as it stands now, is very timely and very important too, because it resolves to appoint a Select Committee appertaining to the business of the Motion right here so that those people who will be found out to have offended will be dealt with— The offenders will be questioned.

Mr. Speaker, it is not actually enough to have a Motion of this nature, though we agree that the sentiments are all right. This House will need, and I am sure you will agree with me and the Members will, to have its supremacy to the extent where it can impeach the personalities involved in some of these issues here in this House, and they should be tried in this House. I believe that if we are the legislators for the nation, we can similarly impeach the offenders here, if we believe in the opinion of Parliament, that there is no other machinery available to impeach such gentlemen or such offenders. Therefore, the House should be authorized by the Constitution to acquire those powers in order to impeach some of these men. If we can do that, Mr. Speaker, which I believe is, by implication, the intention of this Motion, then the House will start doing its work as entrusted to them by the masses of this Nation.

This Motion will be passed. I agree and I know it will be passed. When it is passed, Mr. Speaker, the Select Committee—

An hon. Member: We want to speak.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, the gentleman here says “they want to speak”. They have been here since the debate started. I have not stopped speaking.

Mr. Speaker, what I was saying is that the Select Committee will be appointed—but do you know, Mr. Speaker, I want to provoke a situation here that the first offenders will be our Ministers?

An hon. Member: Why so?

Mr. Mwithaga: I promised a provocation and I am making it. The first offenders will be the Ministers because by virtue of the business they have and the less time they have due to much work in their offices, they may find it difficult to come to the Select Committee.

An hon. Minister: Never.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, a Minister says “never”. I hope he will keep that word.

Therefore, with a hope that they will not do just as I am trying to suggest and that they will appear before this Committee, then we believe that they will start to realize the power and the authority of the House.

Mr. Speaker, what reasons can one give to his electors when some psychological warfare is being waged in the Press and when a hue and cry are being raised over the salaries of the Members of Parliament as an excuse to cover the issues that the House has exposed. Those who have not been reading papers can examine the papers of the last one week and see what is there: That just because Members of Parliament increased their salaries we are trying to use other people as scapegoats to cover that increase. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, did we misappropriate? Were the salaries given to all Members of Parliament— by that I mean including everybody elected from his constituency—not legalized by this House? Was it against the law? Can anybody challenge that Act in the court of law? However, we can challenge these other issues in the court of law. That is a law of the land. Whoever passed it, that is immaterial and it stands the law of the land.

Therefore, if any ground of persons attack the Members and attack them for that reason, then the Minister for Home Affairs should tell us why such people cannot be charged with breach of law because they are trying to accuse the Members of having committed an illegal act which, on the other hand is a legal act. I believe this is the method which we should use so that people become law conscious in the country. We know of a case where some gentlemen were earning £2,800 but they are now earning £2,900. Which Parliament authorized the increase of £100? Kenya Parliament? The Minister for Finance should be able to tell this House what action he is taking against the gentlemen who increased those pounds over their salaries. He should be able to tell us how the £100 was increased on the salaries of the superscale group without the legal sanction of this House.

An hon. Member: They do not need to come here.

Mr. Mwithaga: I agree with the gentleman who tells me that they do not need to come to get the authority to increase themselves £100. Mr. Speaker, if they do not need to come here, then all we can say to improve the ignorance of my colleague here—is that we should let anybody do what he wants with Kenya money. It is too much—and the hon. Member, who was a trade unionist, should be ashamed of saying that.

Mr. Speaker, what I was saying is that that trend of events; that kind of approach, if not checked and corrected, can continue because it is a precedent. If it is a precedent, what other authority do we use to check on such an issue and correct it before it goes very far? Who initiated that kind of move?

An hon. Member: Two errors do not make a right.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, I agree that two errors do not make a right, and the hon. Member knows what is wrong. He believes with those people and agrees with them that the law of the land which makes him earn what he is earning is an illegal act and he was part and parcel of that illegality. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I question his brain.

Mr. Speaker, because I believe we should not really debate pages and pages of this document and I just wanted to advance some of these points. I quite agree with the sentiments contained in the Motion, but I doubt the effectiveness of it because similar Motions have been passed when you and me have been in this House in the previous Parliament and this one but the gentlemen who are supposed to see that action is taken have not taken action. It is very wrong, and it is even unbecoming for any Minister—or for that matter even an Assistant Minister who might become Deputy Minister if my Motion goes through on Friday—being charged with a responsibility to run a Ministry or a given department to come to Parliament and begin crying over some of the officers or claim that he does not know what goes on in his Ministry. If he does not know what happens with the finances of his Ministry and cannot be able to check on the documents, I will suggest a system which these hon. Gentlemen can follow. There is a system in most of the effectively organized offices whereby, Mr. Speaker, not a single letter is sent out without a copy on the daily file. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this enables the boss to know exactly what documents have been sent out, what communications there have been during a particular day—not necessarily from his own particular office but from the other officers who are supposed to work under him. That way, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the person concerned can be able to check on what his officers have been doing.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the accountants would say it is going to be a complicated job to have copies of invoices and documents, and even Local Purchase Orders in daily file so that the Minister for Finance can know what has been going on, as far as finances are concerned, in his Ministry. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to challenge the Minister for Finance to tell me whether he knows that the Ministers and Assistant Ministers do not keep that file which I am talking about. If you ask them what an Under Secretary wrote yesterday they cannot tell you.

An hon. Member: How do you know that?

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am being asked how I know that. I belong to Kenya and as an elected Member of this House I am supposed to know what goes on in Kenya. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, how can I be an effective representative of my people if I do not know what hon. Ngala does in his office. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am saying, with sincerity and authority that some hon. Gentlemen here do not keep that daily file. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, they cannot follow up cases, some of the finances which are being squandered here and there. We have seen cases in courts where some gentlemen have been committed to goal. We have seen how a Ministry or a department is exposed in court and how a given gentleman, who ought to have known how a given sum of money was overspent cannot know and yet it was happening in that office where that hon. gentleman was sitting. This means, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is no serious complete counter-check on finances.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): There is!

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning keeps on saying that there is a counter-check. He should speak for his own Ministry but he should not speak as an authority for the other Ministries. They are individuals, as far as they are concerned, with their Ministries. He is in charge of their money but he does not have a constant check on the Authority to Incur Expenditure Order.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am suggesting that the officers who deal with Authority to Incur Expenditure Orders should be gentlemen whom the Government believes, without the slightest doubt, can exercise the Authority to Incur Expenditure without allowing anybody under them to overspend or to misappropriate public funds. They should be effective and able to be effective—the hon. Ochwada should know what his officers with Authority to Incur Expenditure Orders are doing in the field with that authority. This is because, Mr. Speaker, Sir, giving a gentleman an Authority to Incur Expenditure Order is like giving him a blank cheque and you tell him “All right, I trust you. Write the correct amount”. But, if that gentleman, Mr. Speaker—

An hon. Member: You are critical.

Mr. Mwithaga: If I am critical, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is because I would be efficient and able to check on what he does each day and take him to task. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Authority to Incur Expenditure Order is a very dangerous document when you give it to an officer and you expect him to carry out his work honestly.

An hon. Member: You have been speaking for a very long time now!

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can speak here until Doomsday comes. The hon. Ochwada here should hold his peace, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am suggesting to these hon. gentlemen, who like playing with me all the time, that they should be able to know how that Authority to Incur Expenditure Order is used. They should not take it for granted that the trust they have vested in that gentleman is going to be observed with honesty and sincerity. I know some gentlemen are very sincere and are very honest. Some gentlemen, Mr. Speaker, Sir, will feel it a breach of their own conscience if they abuse the authority they have been given but, as individuals are known to be individuals and human beings, this thing can happen. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am trying to put those suggestions forward because there is no point in merely generalizing without finding methods of curing the situation. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when we say these things, some of our colleagues here make it a joke. They make it a joke and go to their offices with a very smiling face. This is serious, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

An hon. Member: How is it serious?

Mr. Mwithaga: Watch your words.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if a Minister and an Assistant Minister cannot exercise that authority which he has been given by His Excellency the President, then he has failed to be a Minister or an Assistant Minister, or a politician for that matter. Mr. Speaker, Sir, weak men of that nature should quit the Ministries and come back to the Back Benches.

An hon. Member: We shall not quit!

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am promised by one of them here that they will not quit.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was appealing to them to use a bit of their conscience and think as politicians. If I cannot exercise this authority properly, I had better quit rather than becoming a laughing stock or a picture on the wall. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what is the point of becoming a picture on the wall and you will never talk? Therefore, if the hon. colleague of mine, Arthur Ochwada, finds himself in trouble and cannot control his department or his section, he cannot scrutinize or he cannot summon his officers to his desk and say to them “I want an explanation on how this issue went this way and why? Why was that money spent? Was it necessary to spend it? I want an explanation”. If he cannot tell them that, how will they feel the authority of a political government, and that you are a Minister or an Assistant Minister? You go out telling the masses that you are ruling and when you come to this House you forget the pennant on your car and start crying. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is high time my colleagues here stopped crying and started putting things right by checking on their officers properly. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when you do not check on them, then they acquire the authority and you continue saying that this country is being ruled by civil servants. This happens because of the weakness of the politicians. This happens because of the weakness and the cowardice of the politicians. They do not want to question anything because they think they will lose popularity here and there. During the time you have been given authority to rule, you must rule effectively, and let he who comes later, rule otherwise.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am giving those concerned a lecture so that if we want an effective check on our finances we do not have to come to this House as Ministers and Assistant Ministers to cry. I was ashamed Mr. Speaker, and that is why I have been stressing on that point, to see some Ministers and Assistant Ministers crying time and again in this House. They have been crying that they have been overpowered and they do not know what is going on yet they come from Jogoo House, Harambee House, New Jogoo Wing and all these other offices to cry in this Chamber when they leave the authority they have in their offices. It is no good and I do not agree with that kind of approach in politics. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the moment you show you are in power and you are ruling, you know your job, nobody will question you. But, the problem is this, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Some of our colleagues work with graduates, technicians, specialists and others. These people tell them, "Now, you see, Sir, we are spending this money because the drugs we wanted there are called this and that". Mr. Speaker, Sir, these drugs are all in Latin. Unfortunately, my colleague, the hon. Mbai does not know Latin and cannot understand this. Now, he told—

An hon. Member: How do you know that he does not know Latin?

Mr. Mwithaga: Well, I said perhaps he does not know Latin. Now, when he is told this he says, "Well, that is all right. We will verify that issue next time". Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the gentleman goes out saying, "I have overcome that dormant Minister". He feels very happy, Mr. Speaker, Sir. But, who is to be blamed later? The gentleman with authority—that is me and you—is the one to be blamed later. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

An hon. Member: Be specific!

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know want to be emotional and my dear colleague should know that. I am trying to be specific so that we do not take these issues as lightly as we are doing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because we know a Motion of this nature was not absolutely necessary, or the additional amendments would not have been absolutely necessary if political power was being exercised. I, therefore, challenge my colleagues to use the power they have been vested with and that they stop crying.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the hope that this is going to be done—

An hon. Member: You beg to support.

Mr. Mwithaga: I believe that is out of order, Mr. Speaker; but I leave him alone; he is as short as I am and that is why he wants some wrestling. Sir, if he wants some wrestling, we might have an exercise outside.

Mr. Speaker, I was saying in the hope that the House will agree with the sentiments in the Motion and that the Select Committee will be appointed immediately this Motion goes through, and that the Committee will be respected by the gentlemen responsible, we will support this Motion and also seek powers to have some penal powers on the part of this Committee so that our Parliament can impeach, question, scrutinize if not sue the gentlemen involved in squandering and misappropriating public funds. In the hope, too, that my colleagues, the Ministers and Assistant Ministers will use the political powers they have, and not be cowards—raising hues and cries for no reasons—I beg to support.

Mr. ole Leken: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support the Motion as it stands now. I think, in the first place, I must thank the Auditor-General for the exposition in his Report which appears to indicate that the Committee which also looked into these affairs only did in some sort of capacity as an advisory board. I do not see it to have been effective enough. The accounting officers, it seems to me, have honestly assumed a strong independent autonomy which is beyond the powers they are given. It is even reported that some of them sometimes used money even without referring to the Treasury. Now, they forget even the Treasury and they even think that they are above Parliament. Surely, even the effectiveness of this House—as the hon. Member for Laikipia was for the last six, or seven years—is questionable because how can an amount of money which is not provided for in the Estimates be spent as this Report shows very clearly? Mr. Speaker, if you know it, therefore, we are practising the jungle law. We have gone to savage law. We are, in fact, departing from the principles of democracy. If something that is not provided for in the Estimates can be incurred in this manner, I do not know what sort of language can be used. Is it illegal, unconstitutional or what? I should perhaps ask my learned friends—the lawyers—who are here to suggest something to the House which might put this House into an effective motion.

Mr. Speaker, this kind of autonomy which I referred to a few minutes ago is something which has been adopted. I know if you refer back to history, like that of the Roman Empire, people who had been given the authority to look after public funds used them so luxuriously, in the way they wanted. I think we are also now training ourselves to go the same way through which they went. Sir, this is because it goes even further and the Committee even reports, "the Accounting Officer is not unaware of regulations laid down. He just seems to ignore them". This is somebody who is educated and is working as a professional for that matter, but he sees it fit to use public funds to buy something which is not provided for in the Estimates. Surely, this kind of autonomy which has been assumed by some few civil servants must be brought down now and somebody should be cut to fit his shoes.

Mr. Speaker, in another place you will find that—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): Tell the Masai to stop stealing cattle.

Mr. ole Leken: The Masai have nothing to do with this Motion in so far as what you are telling them is concerned. This is a national matter.

[Mr. ole Leken]

Mr. Speaker, we are not stealing and I do not think we steal. He should tell the Kikuyu not to rob the banks. The Masai only steal cattle; they do not rob the banks. The Member for Laikipia West should have advised the Kikuyu not to rob their fellows. I will also tell the Masai not to steal cattle now. Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. Member for Laikipia West has a habit of interrupting me; I do not know why he likes to talk to me when I am speaking in this House.

It is interesting to note that in the year 1967/68 the Votes which were excessively used were 11; it is interesting to note, too, that there was no improvement made at all. The following year 1968/69 the Excess Votes rose again to 12 which, in fact, indicates—as far as I can see—or amounts to the fact that we are getting worse and worse. The amount of money involved, Mr. Speaker, which was not actually authorized by this House is quite large.

Now that we have this Motion, I must thank the Member for Tinderet for bringing this amendment which I hope will give the House a bit more power to look into this matter very seriously because I feel the excessive Votes came about unnecessarily and there are some things too which are not brought for auditing. This is a very awkward way of keeping records. I therefore, feel Sir, that this Committee, when it is selected, should not only look into the activities of public expenditure. I think it should go a bit further—as the hon. Member for Nakuru suggested—and look into the effectiveness of even this House. It appears as if Parliament is not, in fact, effective.

An hon. Member: It is more effective.

Mr. ole Leken: It is not. If a Vote which this House has not authorized can be incurred, what effectiveness is here?

Mr. Speaker, I think this Select Committee should consist of penal experts, whom I know with no doubt that we have in this House. We have very competent professional men in economics and nearly in all fields of life. We are very proud to have such a mixture of people here.

Sir, the Member for Laikipia should be excused for the noise he is making. But I think he should be warned now.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I support this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): Mr. Deputy Speaker,

Sir, I think I also should join my friends in congratulating the person who brought this Motion here because the sentiments expressed are quite good. However, the way in which the recommendations are made, I do not think they will be of any use at all. Why I say this, Sir, is for the following reasons. What the hon. Member is asking for is this: to appoint a Select Committee to look into the affairs of public expenditure. However, the point is this, Mr. Deputy Speaker. In the Constitution it is stated that Parliament is the supreme authority of giving Government power to spend money. So any Committee which is then appointed by this House to consider the same thing, will, I think, be a waste of time.

The Constitution has clearly explained what powers this House has as far as public expenditure is concerned and there is no point, therefore, in appointing a Committee to do this same work. For example, if hon. Migure is appointed a member of the Committee, we do not expect any recommendation apart from the one which may be for considering amendment of the Constitution and putting in something else which is not in the Constitution. What is in the Constitution, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is quite enough for the House to be able to control expenditure.

This habit of coming here, complaining and crying about the civil servants is a matter of wasting valuable time. So there is no point for hon. Members of this House, or the Ministers and Assistant Ministers to come here and start complaining that civil servants are overspending money or misusing public funds. I do not agree that overspending is the same as misusing public funds. What hon. Members should now start considering is whether this money is actually misused or overspent because there is a colonial tradition still present somewhere in our Treasury. Here you have officers sitting in the offices and just rejecting the Estimates that have been put to them by the Ministries.

What I think should be done and what Members should actually stress is to have Estimates which are proposed by the Ministries adhered to because the Ministries know the duties which they have to carry out in the Ministries. So they should be allowed this money. Say, for example, there is need to establish a police station somewhere and if hon. Shikuku or His Excellency the Vice-President recommend this thing so that money can be given by the Treasury, and then you find the Treasury rejects the project, what is hon. Shikuku going to do? He needs to spend this money in the interests of the public. This is the problem we have. That is why I say that the purpose of this Motion will not help anybody.

[The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement]

For us, Mr. Deputy Speaker, to stand here and attack civil servants, attack the others is not good. Some hon. Members said here that the first victims will be the Ministers and Assistant Ministers. I did not understand the logic of the hon. Member because I do not think we will be victims at all. We are there as politicians and we must make this House the House to rule, not a House where people are given the chance to cry and shout from. You are given power by the public, you are given the power to appoint civil servants. We are given the power to direct the civil servants in what they ought to do. So why should we surrender our powers? Why should we surrender these powers? The moment we start crying we are, in effect, surrendering these powers we have. My hon. friend, there, who is saying, "Question?" should realize that hon. Members, Ministers and Assistant Ministers should appear as people who have power, people who can direct others.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have heard on several occasions, and I have listened to this very patiently, Members more or less mislead the House as to the actual powers of Ministers and Assistant Ministers. Is it not true that it is provided that in every Ministry there is an accounting officer who is completely different from any other officer? When hon. Members talk of power, they must realize they have given power to an accounting officer upstairs there to get their allowances sanctioned. So is it true that no hon. Member, Minister or Assistant Minister can pretend that he has power when his power is under the accounting officer and it is only the accounting officer who can be sued if things go wrong.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): Mr. Deputy Speaker, with due respect to my hon. friend over there. I do not think he had a point of order. This power he is talking about in relation to the accounting officer, who gave the accounting officer this power? Is it not the hon. Ministers and hon. Members? If the hon. Member is so ignorant then it is up to him to find out. I know that any power a civil servant in this country has is given by this House, by the Members of Parliament. This is true.

Therefore, Sir, it is important that we merely congratulate the officer who has done this good work to try to expose this overspending of public funds without the permission of this House. I feel this Motion should be treated as a warning to the people who might continue spending money in this way. I am sure the House would agree with me that this Committee we are talking about will serve very little purpose.

I, therefore, beg to oppose, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am supporting this Motion but with certain reservations. I do agree with those who tend to feel that there may be very little to be achieved by this Committee. I say so knowing very well that this Motion is moved by one of our ablest parliamentarians and it is a Motion which obviously took a lot of thinking. The sentiments expressed there are shared by all of us, but I do question very seriously the effects or the results which this Committee will bring about.

I think before we really go into the question of what we are going to achieve and also before we criticize the misuse of public funds we have to consider first what are the reasons which have brought about the present situation. One of the reasons, as far as I can see from the way the report has been written—I refer in particular to those sections of the report which say the Controller and Auditor-General was informed that it was due to the inexperience of the officers concerned. These, I think are some of the matters we are raising in this Parliament, that certain persons are given powers in Ministries, not because of merit but because of other considerations. And it is because of those considerations which are not really relevant to the matters we are dealing with which cause this inexperience and inefficiency, and the resulting misuse of public funds. It is time our Government realized that if a man is to be in control of any Ministry or any particular department, then he must be a man who is qualified for such job; not because he is related to the Minister, or to the Permanent Secretary, not because he is of a particular tribe or not because he supports So-and-so to be the President of the future, but purely because he is an able person. That must be the consideration. If we follow that, you will find there will be no excuse for a man to be inexperienced. If he is inexperienced why is he given that job? It is because of considerations which are not relevant to the issue, and this is what we are questioning and saying in this House. It is because of that that some of these things do happen.

The other reason, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that it is a blame which must be shared by all of us, including the civil servants, Members of Parliament and even Ministers. We must all share this blame: that because of our laxity, because of lack of interest and lack of that sense of the powers given to us that certain officers have gone about their jobs the way they want. If I may suggest, Sir, there is no other power which is so well preserved by Parliament than the power to control the expenditure of public funds. That is really the sole power upon which Parliament bases its authority. It is by saying, "You will not spend money this way", that it can control the Government. In history, we know even in Britain at one time, the King dissolved Parliament expecting to raise money the way he wanted. He found, however, that he could not raise money. After about two years he had to recall Parliament to give him money and also to tell him how to spend it. It is because this power is so great. But are we using this power, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir? We are not using this power at all. It is time that when things are brought here for us to approve we scrutinize them carefully, from the time we are debating generally to the Committee Stage, and what we do not approve, we dismiss. We tell them. "We cannot accept that". It is time that we took these matters very, very seriously. This is the only time we can exercise our powers, but are we doing that? It is because we are not interested in these matters that the gentlemen whom we have been criticizing also become lax, they also relax. While we relax they also relax. We should not blame them without blaming ourselves.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I must also mention something about the Ministers. The Constitution of Kenya on which all other things revolve, including the powers of accounting officers, which was mentioned by that able Assistant Minister, Mr. Shikuku, clearly states in section 21— It says, if I may quote:

"Where the Vice-President or any other Minister has been charged with the responsibility for any department of Government, he shall exercise general direction and control over that department."

Are they doing that?

Hon. Members: No! No!

Mr. Kivuitu: Let me continue.

"And subject to such direction on control . . ."

Subject to such direction. That is above everything. Below that, every department shall be under the supervision of the Permanent Secretary. Now, the Permanent Secretary is obviously under the general direction and control of the Minister. This is laid down in the Constitution. Surely, when we are moving in this House that the Ministers be made responsible for the Ministries we are stating what the Constitution actually states. We are expressing a sentiment. In expressing a sentiment are we achieving anything? We are merely expressing a sentiment. That is why I say I support this Motion, but I only support it to express the sentiments. The Constitution gives us all the powers. Parliament has the power to control these funds; we have the power to ask the Minister, "What are you doing to effect the power which you have been given by the Constitution"? All these things are here.

We go further and we say we want this Motion to see whether we introduce penal provisions in our criminal law so that we can punish these accounting officers and other officers concerned. Now, this is a matter where, I am sure, we will not even succeed because when we recommend, who is going to draft these laws? I ask again: who is going to draft these laws? It is the Office of the Attorney-General. How many Motions have we passed here for amendment of the laws and these have not been amended. Recently we passed a Motion on the law of trespass. Has it been amended up to now? People are still being bugged about all over the country on a matter on which we expressed our sentiments. We keep on expressing sentiments here but what else can we do? I would say what we require is quite a different arrangement of our powers. We must have a permanent committee for drafting of our laws, to draft laws for this House. We must have that and whenever we pass something and we say this law will be like this, then the committee is given that duty immediately. It drafts the necessary Bill, it is brought here and we pass it. Unless we have that, if we are going to depend on departments like the Attorney-General's Department, which is occupied by wazungu, I do not know where we are going to end. As far as I am concerned, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is just an expression of sentiment which will take us nowhere.

There are certain other matters which were mentioned during the debate, which I think must be explained. For example, there were allegations of misuse of funds by certain Embassies and other people. There was, in fact, that matter which I thought was quite important which was mentioned by an hon. Member here, and that was that these people who are in our embassies must know that we are a poor country and must live within our means. We are Members of Parliament, Sir, and some of us come from places where people walk about with only a sheet across their bodies. When we come here do we walk about with those sheets around us? I mean, Sir, we must remember one thing. When we send a man overseas he is not going to live the way we live here. What exactly do you mean by the way we live here? He must live in the same way as people live there so that if he invites the Ambassador for Japan to his residence for a party this ambassador does not think he is visiting some person who has just arrived from a poor country. He must feel he is the representative of an embassy of an independent sovereign country. That is why you find some of these expenses are justified. Some of them are extravagant, I will admit. However, I am sure that within certain means we must allow these Embassies to spend money to certain extent. Rather than simply say that we cannot spend money, we must spend money within our means without defining exactly what we mean. We do not say they should live in gold or silver but we say they must be allowed to live in such a way that whenever our Embassies are visited the visitors do not feel they are lost in some jungle.

But there are certain matters which are very disturbing, Sir, and I want to refer specifically to two matters in the report. This is because the hon. Mover was challenged to support an allegation he made that there were flagrant violations of the laws passed by this House.

I refer to page 10 of the report of 1968/69 where there is a report on the gaming machines. It is headed: Gaming Machines. There we are told certain things which must be done according to the Act of Parliament have not been done for the past three years. People have been given licences without paying certain levies which are laid down there. The question is: how does this happen, that certain people get licences without paying levies provided for under the Act? How does this happen? Is this not a matter which is so serious, so grave that really it should move the Minister in that department to think what he should do about it. If there are any criminal offences disclosed, they should be reported to the police for immediate action. You do not need a Motion like the one we have here to deal with that. It is a matter which is very clear.

The other thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is in the same report in page 21. There is the report about higher education funds. It is stated there that certain things have been done contrary to the provisions of that Act. If they are contrary to the provisions of the Act are there no methods to deal with them? And what is the effect of those contraventions of the Acts of this Parliament? It is clear contempt of this House, and those are matters which I believe, Sir, be taken seriously and dealt with immediately.

You also find in page 20 of the same report that there is a report on loan repayment. Certain plots called "Z Plots"—I do not know what the Z stands for—are mentioned here. We are told that there are certain very suspicious matters going around with regard to the repayment of these loans because the people involved are very senior people in the Government. These are things which have been specifically mentioned. They are very grave. If they involve senior Government officers, why can they not be disciplined? What is there which prevents Government disciplining these officers? I cannot see anything, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

We also find in page 14 there is mention of a certain secretarial bureau which was employed to carry out typing for a certain Ministry. Why should a Ministry go and look for private concerns which are out for profit? Why ask them to come and help with typing? Why can they not employ people? There are a lot of people who walk into my office and say they know how to type at about 30 words per minute. They would be cheaper and would still produce the same stuff. Must we go to these particular institutions who charge at a profit so that they do our work? I cannot see the necessity for this. Yet we are told we have our own secretarial colleges where people are being trained for this kind of job. This is a clear misuse of public funds and this must be condemned.

I still find myself in a dilemma. Here we have a Motion which says what the Constitution lays down— What do we do with it? You vote for it probably because in supporting it you are also voting for the Constitution and thus you are defending the Constitution. I think we should be thankful to hon. Seroney because, one thing, he is trying to restore some dignity in ourselves which has gone. The Ministers are finished because the accounting officers are doing whatever they want and hon. Members of Parliament are finished because we have been doing nothing when these things happen. We must thank hon. Seroney and must also thank the Controller and Auditor-General for disclosing these matters. One can only pray that one day he does not fall prey to what others have previously been placed under and, therefore, become involved in misfortune and stop to disclose those things that we would like to know.

We hope that he will continue with the same spirit and I am glad that he is an African. I hope you know that there is nothing that can happen to him except death. Even if he dies, he will still be buried here.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Nabwera): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy

[The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs]

Speaker, Sir, I would like to congratulate the Controller and Auditor-General for the Report and also the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee and his Committee for drawing the attention of the House to what is happening, and especially, to the hon. Member for Tinderet, Mr. Seroney for adding an amendment to the Motion which really points out what should be done if the situation is to be brought under control.

I do not think that any of us in this House, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would like to condone illegality. Therefore, all illegal expenditures must be discouraged. I have risen to speak on this Motion, because my Ministry has come under constant criticism and I am going to try and speak, not to defend the illegal expenditure but to try and bring out a few points which might make it easier for the House to understand why some of those things have happened.

I would like to say, from the start, that the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Kenya, ever since independence has used a very small portion of the National Budget in comparative terms, there are countries in Africa where a similar Ministry consumes 20 per cent—even in one country the Ministry consumed over 50 per cent of the National Budget.

Kenya Government has held the expenditure on foreign affairs to either just under 1 per cent or 1 per cent. I think this must be taken into account when looking at this.

Foreign affairs is a very expensive exercise. It is the kind of investment in which you put money without knowing whether you will gain or lose. It is an exercise in public relations. You have to spend money advertising yourself. We, as a country, have spent very little money in doing this, therefore, when hon. Members, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, look at what has happened they must know that it is the aim of this Government not to spend too much money on foreign affairs.

There are three matters that I would like to refer to. The question of general overexpenditure—while being condemned, we must understand that we, as a country, must develop an attitude of strict control in whatever we are doing. If we, as Ministers are lax, we cannot expect the civil servants, the accounting officers to be strict. If the House is lax, if we are free when things affect ourselves—if when it comes to dealing with those matters that affect us we are a bit lax, we cannot expect the civil servants to be any stricter. Therefore, while we condemn the illegal expenditure we must not be over-virtuous. We must not speak as if there is a group of people that is interested in overexpenditure. We are not innocent because the truth is that we are as guilty in certain ways as civil servants are. When Ministers travel, when hon. Members of Parliament travel—I wish we could be stricter. When you go to our Embassies overseas, I wish you could tell our ambassadors just to spend a little money on tea party and not to throw a cocktail party in your honour. This would reduce our expenditure.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, as far as I am concerned, it is the question of a philosophy which we as a nation wish to pursue—I will be speaking as an ambassador in a minute—as a former ambassador in a minute. We must develop an attitude of mind of spending very little money if we can help it.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the two matters that I wanted to refer to and the points that have repeatedly been referred to are that the Minister who led our Delegation to the 22nd Session of the United Nations General Assembly—the Public Accounts Committee had the pleasure of surcharging him for having used a hired car.

Secondly was that we have spent—there has been some money spent on buying chairs and carpets. The third point is that there is a general overexpenditure in Embassies.

Now, dealing with the first question, Mr. Deputy Speaker and I would like to speak with all humility on this particular point—all Ministers who lead delegations to the United Nations General Assembly Session have limousine cars hired for them by their respective Governments. Unless we treat Kenya, out of 126 countries, as a unique country—all countries whether communist, non-communist, fascist, poor countries—much poorer than Kenya hire a limousine car for their Minister. How can we take a Kenyan, a leader of his delegation, and ask him to pay for the car which he used because we paid for this car out of the public funds? Which Minister from Kenya, today, would be prepared, in these circumstances, to lead a delegation to the United Nations General Assembly and see his colleagues from the close countries to us riding in a limousine while he is moving in, may be, a volkswagen car?

I would suggest, with all seriousness, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that if this is the attitude then I think that the House must ask that we do not need a Minister to lead a delegation to these functions so that we are saved from the kind of embarrassment in which our ambassador would be placed if he had to put his Minister in a car other than that which is in keeping with his dignity. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is one of the points which was raised and I have tried to explain this.

[The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs]

Secondly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when we are talking about buying carpets, when we are talking about buying chairs, we must know that we are dealing with Kenya currency. When you convert Kenya shilling into the currencies of the countries in which we happen to have established embassies, you will realize that the items are not as expensive as they look. The purchasing power of a shilling in Kenya is equal to the purchasing power of a dollar in America, a rouble in Russia, a zaire in Congo or a kwacha in Lusaka or even a yen in China.

Hon. Members: So what?

The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Nabwera): Let me just do some simple arithmetic for the House, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Seven shillings in Kenya is equal to one dollar in America. Therefore, what I pay for in Kenya with seven shillings, I need seven times the amount to be able to buy a similar article in America. Now, in Zambia—

An hon. Member: Are you supporting overexpenditure?

The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Nabwera): I am not supporting overexpenditure, Sir, I am opposed to it even though it affects my Ministry and I am with you but I am only explaining to you why the figures look fantastically high. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the House consists of elected representatives who must understand the problems that face our representatives overseas. When you go to Lusaka with ten shillings, it is reduced to the purchasing power of one shilling in Kenya. When you stay at a hotel—and hon. Members who have been to Lusaka will bear me out on this—a cup of tea may cost you half a Kwacha which is equal to five Kenya shillings or even a kwacha which is ten Kenya shillings. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in trying to understand why the figures look so high, we must take this fact into account.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to request the House when it votes money for my Ministry to take all these facts into account so that we can vote enough money for each area where we have established an embassy and if this is done, we will not have the problem of overexpenditure. I am saying this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, because we as Members of this House are anxious to avoid overexpenditure because this is illegal and nobody would like to encourage illegality. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, when an ambassador wants to buy a piece of carpet and he goes to a shop, he is told, "This carpet costs 500 dollars". Mr. Deputy Speaker, 500 dollars in America is like Sh. 5 here and if I buy the carpet with Kenya currency, I will spend Sh. 3,500 and to an observer in Nairobi, this would look terrible, but it is not. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is why the figures look all that high.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to make another and the last point. The question which we are dealing with—I will never cover up anything. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the question we are dealing with is a very fundamental one and that is: We should avoid overexpenditure. Mr. Deputy Speaker, in supporting this Motion, I would like to suggest that to avoid overexpenditure, we must make sure that the Treasury takes into account the various recommendations made by all Government Ministries so that when the Estimates come to this House for our approval, instead of getting bogged down with our small things in our constituencies, we look at each Ministry carefully and approve enough money for that particular Ministry, believing that by so doing, we shall be serving the national interest. If the Ministries find that they have to spend more money, then the Treasury must be prepared to present Supplementary Estimates, which I hope, we as a House, will approve.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for allowing me this opportunity to say a few words about this very important Motion and at least to bring myself up to the present attitude of my colleagues. I am sure they will bear with me that I have been rather quiet, neither because I do not like this Motion, nor because I dissociate myself with the things that have been said about the civil servants, the Ministers etc. but because I have been just watching and thinking over the whole thing. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, before going direct to the Motion, I want to say a few things which must be said because they are there. First of all, I would like to take this opportunity to say how grateful I am, as a parliamentarian, to those civil servants who are doing a good job, like the Auditor-General, Mr. Njoroge and others and say, that apart from the parliamentarians, these are the number two watchdogs of the public money. It is true that no country or Government will run with spending money which is coming from the taxes of the people without the presence of a big watchdog to say that this is not to be done and that is to be done. We have the Kenya Constitution setting aside the work of the Public Accounts Committee. In other words, there is a clause in the Constitution controlling the finances of this country, whether collected from taxes or other sources—and at the same time controlling the expenditure of the whole financial system of the Government. It is true that some civil servants and, of course, some of us Ministers can be reckless and give the powers of controlling the finance of our Ministries to a particular accounting officer in a particular Ministry. The blame is both on those who spend the money recklessly and equally on the shoulders of those who are responsible for the Ministries because they do not check their Ministries. Therefore, Sir—

An hon. Member: Have you checked yours?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): One hon. Member is asking whether I have checked my Ministry. Unless you are too illiterate you must have seen that I have not been quoted in the Ministry of Housing as having overspent any money. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have no over-expenditure at all because I have not left the civil servants to boss me up. I boss the Ministry, and I do not sign any paper that comes to me blindly. I read and see what paper I am signing because I may be signing my death warrant. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I do not have any interruptions from that uninterested hon. Member over there, I can say a lot of things. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to make an impression before this honourable House that civil servants cannot be blamed wholly, but there are some who are big-headed who think that parliamentarians are illiterate because a Member of Parliament or a Minister does not hold a degree and since they have several degrees with them, they think they are better off. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to say that the highest degree is experience in dealing with these matters and not a piece of paper put on a wall, and which does not mean anything, at all.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is true that some civil servants are really good and I want to put it on record that this House must recognize the services of those civil servants who have their country at heart. I also want to say a few things about the big-headed civil servants who really want tall chairs to show that they are really provincial commissioners or district commissioners or they are this and that. I also want to say that they must be controlled. I said once in this House that if a Minister must be censured by the Parliament because of the financial expenditure, if the Ministry was told to account for the money which is spent, I do not see any exception in the Kenya's Constitution where it says that a civil servant, either a provincial commissioner or a district commissioner, must go on spending money in buying rocking chairs and expensive carpets for his house without really being accounted for.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am saying and I am giving a warning to those officers who are in public office and who do not really recognize their responsibilities. I know—I am not mentioning anybody and I am not afraid of mentioning anybody because the only one person who is above me is the President, the rest are down!

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am remarking this because somebody will prod me. I do not have to deal with—I am a tall, gigantic fellow and I do not have to bend to pick a child down; I have to deal with the top ones, like the Members of Parliament here!

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I can be given a chance—I am coming back to the Ministers. I do not—

An hon. Member: What happened with the civil servants?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Well, I finished with the civil servants. I have already said to hell with those who are spending money, they must be brought to the right position. However, I am saying here to those civil servants who have the hearts of the wananchi, to help them. Think, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, of a Minister or a civil servant buying a carpet while we have brothers over there without water; in North-Eastern Province, in Ukambani, in Kitui, in Masai, in Turkana and so on; and spending money for the pleasure of walking on a carpet? I think this sort of expenditure should be completely overruled.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to give a little example: I was very surprised the other day when I was coming from Embu, I went to a place where there was a party while on my way home. I found people watering the road because the party was there; they were watering the road because they did not want to raise the dust. When I saw that water I remembered that people were really suffering in the North-Eastern Province without a drop of water; people walk a distance of 20 miles without a drop of water, then, I realized how we had sold ourselves from our political principle of helping our brothers and sisters! We, in Nairobi here, with the piped water can go on spending money. Government money, is a little thing; luxury thing; we can go on spending money without really knowing that our brothers are thirsty up in the North and in Masai, in Ukambani, in Kitui and the rest, where the water is scarce; they are really suffering. However, because we, the responsible ones, are not really putting our feet, the right feet, on the civil servants, we are afraid of them, we are thinking that they are going to uproot us; this is serious! And, I—

Mr. Kitonga: How many brothers and sisters?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): I do not know what the hon. Chief is saying.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order, Mr. Kitonga! You are not allowed to shout like that in the Chamber.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is an honourable House; it is not really a shouting House; it is an honourable House and must be respected. Anybody with a degree of respect—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that in a few minutes time you have been bringing the hon. Member to order, is he in order still to go on shouting as if he is sitting somewhere in a market place?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No. I think he is getting too used to this idea of shouting across other Members. I want to draw the attention of Mr. Kitonga that this is an honourable House which wants to keep its dignity.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I remember Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it was just recently when Mr. Shikuku was sleeping in this House and he said that there was no Standing Order that rejected anybody from sleeping or shouting; what happens today if I am shouting in the Chamber?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It so happens that you are dealing with Dr. Waiyaki; I am not Mr. Shikuku. I have given a ruling that you will no longer shout when the hon. Minister is speaking! That is the end of the matter.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Member to say that I did say that it is in order to lie on the Bench and also to shout when I did not say so?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not know what happened, actually. I cannot imagine the hon. Shikuku saying that. I know that he has insisted that he has the right to lie on the Bench, but there is nothing against that in our Standing Orders.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I thank you for that ruling. All that I can say is that let the country take note of the shouting Members of the Parliament

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): There is a point of order.

Mr. Somo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as I have been in this House for the last seven years, I think there is no section in our Standing Orders that prevents any hon. Member from shouting when cheering a Member of Parliament and I wonder why the Chief has been stopped from shouting?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not know which Standing Orders you study, but the ones I study specifically maintain order in the House. I think that is disorder. I am controlling the House.

Mr. Kitonga, one more last chance.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I said that let the country as a whole take note of the shouting Members of Parliament and wait for their time when the elections come and see what effective leadership they have provided in the way of being representatives of the people.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I have said no more points of order! Mr. Kitonga, order! If you shout any more, I will order you out!

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am speaking on a very serious matter which has been brought into this House by the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee and those Members who strenuously made this report available through sitting and trying to look and hearing evidence to see whether the money that had been voted by this Parliament has been wisely spent. If, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I need cheers when I analyse and speak on this particular one, then this is one moment when I will say that I do not need any applause because I am very serious on this matter.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, expenditure can be overspent, if it is expenditure spent, say, on the question of famine, as we have now, or on a question of water, for the use of wananchi throughout the dry areas and even those places where water is not available, then, no one, of course, will doubt. However, if it is a question of reckless and improper accounting then, of course, I am with my colleagues here—the parliamentarians—to check and see that these expenditures are really properly done.

I am, therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, directly associating myself with the motive contained in this Motion except that I am saying that no more legislative powers are needed because it is constituted in our holy book called "The Constitution of Kenya"; if I may call it the holy book, as far as the legal aspect and also the distribution of responsibilities are concerned. I have dealt ably, with civil servants, for the good ones, I say hear, hear. And the bad ones, as I have said, must be watched by this Parliament and, if possible, be answerable for these overexpenditures.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to go a little further; I would like to speak a little on responsibility. If we are entrusted with a responsibility, it does not matter whether as Members of Parliament or Members of this Committee, Ministers or Assistant Ministers, we must see that we carry out our responsibility without fear, without favour, but rightly. We must not be afraid of exposing "my brother"; because he bought a carpet—I want to cover him up. I have been listening to my colleague, the Assistant Minister in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. I have been very impressed, and he is a man of experience. However, one argument that did not impress me is that if I have to go to the United Nations and make an impression of my country, is that I must have a limousine, if I understood him well; I am not criticizing him; I am only saying that prestige of a country is not bestowed on limousines or Cadillacs or what-have-you. The prestige of a country is really entrenched in the stability of the country, because of the social services which are given by that particular government, to the people of that particular country. I can go to the United Nations in a volkswagen and a flag on top of the car; not on the bonnet because it will not be seen. However the impression will be made for how much we have done for this country, not by the size of the cars I drive or the dress I wear. It is a question of establishing an economic stability and services in that particular country that brings prestige; it is not the limousine cars I drive in Washington, to go and represent Kenya.

If there are Ministers who go and hire Cadillacs and so on, to show up Ministerial prestige or Kenya's prestige, this is a wrong approach. We must be guided by the service of our people; we must be guided, not by selfishness or big-headedness, but by our motto to serve our people. I can see the hon. Assistant Minister, Mr. Khaoya, laughing over there. I know—

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): On a point of order; Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it not in order, for a Minister to look Ministerial when he goes to the United Nations?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Yes, it is in order to look dignified, if you represent your country in the United Nations.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is it not right that dignity is within the Minister and not in the car? This is the question.

Anyway, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I abide by your ruling. I can see the hon. Khaoya, having successfully dealt with the maize price, sitting comfortably; that is the sort of service that Ministers are required to do. That is why Mr. Khaoya is very happy because he has successfully sat through—
Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am having very unnecessary interruptions from the very famous, controversial advocate of the movement against rocking chairs. I wish he could leave me alone, because my continuity in thinking is being interrupted.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I may go back to the hon. Masinde Muliro, it is quite true that Ministers must look Ministerial; but they must not look Ministerial to overspend Government money.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I now want to say a few things before I close my speech. Government is always guided by a policy; always, we must have an agreed policy in matters that touch our country. Of late, I have seen that there is a tendency to criticize Government. If it is true criticism, then this is a very healthy sign, like the one here. I like to be criticized so that I do not exceed my boundary. However, on the other hand, Sir, responsible people like these hon. Members of this hon. House have not told the wananchi what Government has done. I know they are criticizing Government, and they have been true in their criticisms, as far as this Motion and other things are concerned, but what about telling the people what Government has done? There is very little information about how the money has been spent; the roads that have been built by Government; the Ministry of Works, which has done first-class work; the other Ministries, which have done very good work. Why is it that these hon. Members are not saying thank you to Government where it has really shone; why is it that it is only criticism which is levelled against Government? You must have the spirit of give and take; you must say thank you, in order to get another one; you see? All that happens, Sir, is that we are only being given one side of the story; there is nobody who has said that Government has done this, Government has done that; the public is not informed.

If I may appeal to my colleague, the Minister for Information, for whom I have a very high regard. I think it is high time we spoke our mind, instead of being bulldozed all the time; because I fear hon. Masinde Muliro, because he is a close friend of mine. Instead of hearing Congo music all the time, why can we not be told what Mr. Masinde Muliro, on behalf of Government, is doing, about helping here and there, giving out Government money; why are we not told about the Assistant Minister, hon. Khaoya, with his maize story and Agriculture; why are we not being told about Mr. Nabwera, about Foreign Affairs; only Congo music throughout. Why are we not told about the farmers; why are we not told about the successful farmer, who is doing well and producing about 40 bags per acre, because he has received a loan from Government; what about that successful trader, who has been given Sh. 150,000, to stock his shop, and he has succeeded, and he is driving a beautiful car because of his sweat and the help of Government; why are we not being told of this; why are the Members of this hon. House not being just to themselves and talking about Government, the good side of Government? It is only the black side of Government we hear of. Suppose you are in the Government tomorrow, the hon. Member for Mbita, and you are an Assistant Minister; will you behave the way you are really behaving? I am asking you if you could do that, if you were sailing in the same boat as myself?

[The Minister for Housing]

Mr. Migure: I would resign!

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Therefore, I am appealing to this House, and I am saying it is high time, instead of having Congo music—I am not saying Congo music is bad, but too much of it tires my ears. I would like to hear about the successful traders the Africans who are now taking over from foreign traders. I would like to hear of somebody in Mbita, I would like to hear of somebody in Kisumu doing extremely well in agriculture, in commerce, in health, I would like to hear of a successful doctor, who has become a consultant because he had been given a bursary by Government. We are getting tired of Congo music. We want other things, and more must come from you, in your public meetings, and as an elder in this House—

An hon. Member: Are you now criticizing Government?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): I am not criticizing Government. I am not criticizing your Government. I am only pointing out a weakness. I am only—

An hon. Member: Resign!

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): These are not points for resignation. I would like to tell you that I am not resigning. I am sitting on my chair firmly. However, I am telling you to take your part. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, all I am doing is that I am asking this hon. House to go out to the constituencies and talk about the Government.

Hon. Members: How?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): How? I would like an hon. Member with guts to say "How"? What about the road that is being constructed in your area by the Government? What about the money which is being given? What about the sugar at Kano? What about the fishing boats on Lake Victoria? I believe that if the hon. Member went fishing, he could fish a crocodile!

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to associate myself with the spirit of checking and reporting and where necessary take a firm action on any overexpenditure. However, I would like to put a big "But" here because I would like to say "Yes" to constructive criticism. I am also saying that hon. Members must say what the Government has done! Let us not sell only one side!

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want to come back to some civil servants who spend Government money in touring areas only to come back and say that there is no famine in Kikumbulyu, Kitui, and Kajiado. Do they really know that there is famine? It is not their duty to make judgement whether there is famine or not. Theirs is only to report the right thing to the Government. It is only the top fellows in the Government, after having been informed, that can take effective measures in trying to feed our people. It is no use leaving our brothers unfed. This is an independent Kenya and, indeed, a mwananchi Government. If it is a mwananchi Government led by Mzee, let Mzee feed the wananchi. Sir, Mzee is saying that where there is famine I can take chakula there, but why does a little civil servant tour around and make himself a representative and say "We have plenty of food". Who does not know that for two seasons, now, areas which are drier than Kitale have not had any crop at all? In places like Machakos, Samburu, Lamu and Malindi the people have not realized any single crop for the last two rainy seasons! At the same time a little official goes round and comes back to say that there is no famine or there is very little famine. He goes on to say that only 200 people need to be fed. They must report their findings to the Central Government and say no more. They are not the judges to say what action should be taken. It is only the President and his Cabinet, the Ministers, who are the judges to say what steps should be taken, after getting a fair report and not a report that is exaggerated or minimized.

Last, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am very grateful for the money which has been spent very wisely in constructing roads around my constituency. I am very grateful to the Minister for Works, his officials and the Government as a whole. I sit comfortably when these gentlemen, the Minister and this hon. House authorized the money that is spent on such services in my constituency together with Machakos and Kitui Districts as a whole. I would like to take this opportunity to associate myself with a further expenditure by the Government in trying to take care of the famine. I would like, at the same time, to associate myself with the statement which was issued by seven Members of Parliament from the southern part of Kenya who said the other day that they wanted to see wananchi from that part of the country fed. I request, most humbly, those who are responsible to go ahead, especially the Office of the President, and look into the affairs of famine. Let us not leave the whole affair to relief organizations. This is a governmental matter and it must be handled by the Government at top Government level.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, sometimes we say that we must make an impression, but at times I wonder whether we are really doing the right thing? I think that is why there is this Parliament so that it can criticize so that we come back to the right road. At times, Sir, I see very junior officers touring a district with a convoy of cars of a length of, say, from the New Stanley Hotel right up to this House. You see, Sir, petrol is consumed by the big convoy. I wonder how we are going to control this? If Government wants to make an impression, it can do so through the media of Television, the Voice of Kenya—let it not be the Voice of Congolese music but the true Voice of Kenya—and other Government machinery. Let us have Ministers going around to preach what the Government has done. Sir, let us have the political image of the people who have been elected by the people. However, let us not have people who run around in convoys wasting Government petrol and yet they have nothing to sell to wananchi! They only go to barazas and say jambo to wananchi and go away. They have nothing to tell wananchi. When they do this, say, K£1,000 goes on petrol after having been on a tour of about 2,000 miles. It is high time we had somebody to say this and no more. It is high time the system which is operating in Ministries about log-books was fully checked in the field otherwise we will only throw away our money and we shall be left with no more for development.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not want to be selfish. I am saying that I associate myself with the resolution of the Public Accounts Committee and at the same time the chairman, hon. Gatuguta, and his Members for their sharp eyes. I would also like to thank civil servants who are really trying to check these things. I would like them to continue providing their national service to wananchi. Lastly, Sir, I appeal to hon. Members to sing the Government song for at least two months.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you very much. First of all Sir, I will not take much time; I would be very brief because I would not like to preach.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, first of all, I would like to thank the Public Accounts Committee for their work which has been very good and we cannot overlook it. Another point is to thank the Auditor-General for his work. I agree that we cannot stamp out overexpenditures like these in the Report. However, this should only be allowed in emergency cases but not in cases which are known, say, buying a chair. I do not think that buying a chair is an emergency case or hiring an aeroplane from Kenya to Congo. These are not emergencies! These are the things which we would like to tell the accounting officers. We are only concerned with all those who account for the public funds. We are only concerned with accounting officers and, therefore, if Ministers and Assistant Ministers are accounting officers, then, they are included. However, if they are not accounting officers, they should not be included. So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is one thing which I would like to say.

Now, we are complaining that public money is being misused or there is overexpenditure. I think there is something here which we are overlooking. The thing is, Sir, that it is only a group of civil servants who account for the money that we are dealing with. As regards to power, if you can refer to what hon. Kivuitu said in the House, the House has the power although we are trying to ask for a Select Committee to do a bit of work to stamp out overexpenditure. However, there is something here which I would like to warn the House about. We claim we have power in this House, Sir. Ministers are claiming that they have the power; and even one of the Ministers has just said that he has power in his Ministry and cannot, therefore, overspend his accounts. I quite agree if he has done so this will be an example to the others. However, what we are experiencing in Kenya now is that a group of civil servants—not all because we are not condemning all of them—has already taken the power of the Cabinet and wamenyakua the power of the Parliament. So, there is only one thing which we should do: the House should only look for a way of getting the power back because these people have already taken the power from Ministers and that is why you are crying! Why should you cry if you have the power? If you are really a sensible person—a sensible Cabinet Minister or an Assistant Minister with the power invested by this House, then who is the Government—why should you cry of somebody who is junior? This is bad; and in so doing, you are actually lowering the dignity of this House by complaining about a civil servant who is under you. So, there is only one thing which should be done: if they have already taken the power from you—you whom we trust, wherever you are in your Ministry, you are our eyes looking after the public money—should report to this House so that we can see the ways of getting back the power. I do not see the reason why a person with power should complain. It is like an unarmed person chopping my head off although I have the panga. This is very wrong indeed.

There is only one thing which I would like to say: if you find that this way is not successful, then amend the Constitution, which is the only alternative, because you have the power. You have already been preaching that because there is no money we cannot do this and that. Even the hon. Minister for Housing has always been replying, "No money".

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): On a point of information, Mr. Deputy Speaker Sir—

Mr. Amayo: No, I cannot give way for a point of information. Sit down!

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, can the hon. colleague substantiate that I have at one time or another said that "I have no money" in view of the housing problems around Kisumu, let alone the ones at the shores of Nyanza?

Mr. Amayo: I think the hon. Minister is only trying to forget that. He only needs to refer to his files where he records replies to questions in this House. We are sure because we have a place where we keep all your replies. So, if you are not aware of them, just go and do a bit of homework tonight.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is only one thing which I would like to say. Let us take a case here. Somebody from the Office of the President is reporting that there is an over-expenditure in the accounts because of an inexperienced officer. You, as a Minister, is the one who comes to the House but not the accounting officers and you represent them in this House. When you come here you think this House will accept your Supplementary Estimates without proper explanations—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I appreciate what you are trying to say but please, speak through the Chair.

Mr. Amayo: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I will speak through the Chair—facing you directly!

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, how will it be possible for a Minister to have the confidence of this House for the Supplementary Estimates to be approved by this House if when this House is trying to help them stamp out overexpenditure they side with the civil servants without giving us proper explanations? Where will you escape and get the money back to your Ministry? You will not. I am addressing the Minister for Housing through the Chair: take note of that.

If you go to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs you will find that an aeroplane was hired for one person to fly from Kenya to Congo. Whatever, duty he was going to perform on behalf of the Republic of Kenya—which would force him to hire an aeroplane is questionable! Then, a Minister stands up here with confidence trying to defend the fact that the money has not been utilized properly. What did we get from Congo? They have not reported in this House matters which caused the expenditure of such money. So, take note of that, so that the next time you are in your Ministry you may control it. If you feel that you have no power, resign because there are capable Back-benchers who can control ministries. There is no need of stooping down and complain of a civil servant who is performing his duty, and who only needs somebody to control and give him a guideline. It is you who is responsible for that. So the weakness of your Ministries—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! There is a point of order.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, will you advise the hon. Member to address the Chair instead of addressing us?

Mr. Amayo: I think the direction of sight of the hon. Member is contrary to what God gave him and that is why he is noticing me not addressing you properly.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I think I ought to draw the attention of the House to the fact that it is not facing the Speaker that constitutes addressing the Chair, but it is speaking in the third person. It does not matter whether you are facing the Chair or not as long as you speak in the third person about somebody else so that some of the heat rolls out of the body before it reaches the man intended.

Mr. Amayo: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I did not want to speak for long as I have done, so that I may give time to other hon. Members but I would like to thank the Controller and Auditor-General for his work; and I would recommend to the House that this sort of work—the work of the Controller and Auditor-General should not be confined to the Government Ministries only but should be extended to the statutory boards and at the same time to the University of Nairobi because the public is concerned about possible wastage there as has been the case in the Government offices. So, I would rather like the office of the Controller and Auditor-General to be given more powers and more personnel to cope with the work of auditing the accounts of the statutory boards and the accounts of the University of Nairobi as well.

The other thing is that we have said a lot of things in this House, we have also passed resolutions, and Motions but no action is taken. So, I would like to recommend to the House that His Excellency the President should be approached and be advised or asked kindly to appoint a Minister for Action, who will be following up each and everything which we pass in this House because some of the Ministers are heading towards being worse than the civil servants simply because the Motions which we pass in this House and which demand Bills introduced in the House have not been effected, although some were passed last year. So, we need a Minister for Action who will be following up each and everything and see that everything is done in order to give this House its dignity. It is very wrong for the House to pass something and then the public wait to see it in action only to find that year after year passes, until the current Parliament is gone and another one comes in, and nothing is effected. This will make a mockery of the whole thing. I do not wish to dwell very much on that, but I want to thank the Auditor-General as such, and thank the civil servants who are doing their work properly. They should continue without any fear. I would also like to advise that if there is any civil servant, who is so clever and who can execute his duty properly and after overspending the money, he can draft it on a piece of paper and give it to his Minister or the Ministry of Finance to bring to this House and succeed to go ahead, I should say that, that civil servant is a very good civil servant and should go ahead making use of that office because the Minister or the Assistant Minister who is there is just like a picture on the wall and does not know the use of being there.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Marwa: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for giving me this chance to record my views.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think it is very necessary that I should, first of all, thank the Committee which, of course, did good work in conjunction with the Auditor-General. I think without them, we could not have all these recommendations brought to this House. Therefore, I wish to thank the Chairman and the Committee who sat and scrutinized these public accounts and the expenses which have been incurred by the Government.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to speak on one Ministry, the Ministry of Local Government. This Ministry, as it stands and as the Committee has shown in their recommendation, it seems as if the Ministry of Local Government is not doing its work properly. We find that, for years, the Ministry of Local Government has failed to approve the Estimates for the county councils. As a result, some of these county councils have not made any progress at all. Most of them have run bankrupt. Others have overspent their money which they estimated, because without the proper approval and scrutiny of their Estimates, they could not know exactly how much they were going to spend.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, in my view, this is very serious. The Ministry of Local Government should be told to see to it that the Estimates for the county councils and municipal councils are approved immediately they are brought to the Ministry because if they are not approved immediately, the councils will overspend their Estimates without knowing they are doing so. These county councils are the ones working with the people living in remote areas where we want more constructive and proper duties of the Government enforced.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the amendment which has been brought to this House is quite good and the person who brought this amendment should be thanked for the good work he has done. What we want in this House is that, as the President has said here repeatedly, this House should be the supreme House. It is the supreme House of this nation. Therefore, whatever is done in this country, should be approved by this House. What we do not want to see happen is that someone, somewhere, overlooking this House goes ahead spending public money without caring whether this House is here or not. We are here to be used for any duties of the Government. That is why we were elected to come to this House. We were brought here by our people to see that the public funds are spent properly and that is why we are here to see that this money is not misappropriated.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, according to the Public Accounts Committee, more than £1 million has been overspent without the approval of this House. This is why the Members here are very bitter. What we want the Ministers to do is to take time and see that the Estimates brought to this House are properly estimated so that they do not overspend without the authority of this House. If, however, something needs immediate attention, a Supplementary Estimate should be introduced in this House immediately. Therefore, I think the Motion before the House, is to give us more power to deal with those civil servants and those Ministers who overlook the powers of this House. What we are trying to do, in this House is only to protect the powers given to us by the wananchi. This should be used as the supreme House on the land and it should not be overlooked.

What other Members have said is quite true. We have passed, in this House, some Motions and some resolutions. However, these things have not been implemented. It is quite embarrassing for a Member who has brought here a Motion, because, he brought the Motion, not jokingly, but because he was serious about it. He wanted his area to have something. Maybe, he wanted a school and then we agreed, in this House that such a school should be erected. It is very surprising later on, to find that such a Motion was passed in this House and yet the Minister or the top civil servants never cared to implement this. When it is not implemented, it makes a mockery of this House. People will be asking you what happened. They will say that you only go to the House to make noise, that a Motion was passed in the House for a secondary school to be built and they keep on wondering when it will be built.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what we are asking is that whatever has been passed in this House should be implemented immediately so that the Members should be respected by their constituents and that this House is not made a mockery House as some Members have referred it as a noise making House. We want this House to be a very effective House and the House which should control the Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very true that some of the expenditures have been done unreasonably because, as it has been said in this Committee, you find that an officer has spent some money which he does not account for. This is quite wrong. A businessman or a Government officer, who has been given an imprest, should produce the receipts showing how he spent the money because the money should not be used without being shown how it was used. Therefore, I do not see the reason why Members of the Front Bench should come here and try to oppose this amendment, which is giving us and them more powers to look into the expenditure of the public funds. This is not wrong, it is not fighting against the Government or the Members of the Front Bench, but it is giving them more powers to deal with anybody misusing Government money. The person who is misusing Government money is just like a person who is stealing Government's money. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not see the reason why a Front-bencher should stand up and try to oppose what other hon. Members are trying to say because we do that in good faith. I think the amendment was introduced so that we can scrutinize and, at the same time, give us more power to abolish these loopholes which make it easy for the civil servants or anyone else to misuse the public funds. We are all concerned because most of us, or almost all of us, are elected Members. Therefore, the Ministers should not think that when we are bringing this amendment we are doing it merely to oppose them. That is not true at all, because today some of us are Back-benchers but when this becomes a law or an Act in Kenya most of us might move to the Front Bench and we might even become Ministers. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, if we have helped to pass this it might affect us if there is anything wrong. Therefore, Ministers should not think that the hon. Members are doing so in order to spoil their work or to criticize what the Government is doing. However, we are just doing it to see that we have given them more power to deal with the people who are misusing public funds.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think what the amendment has asked for is a good thing and we should pass it as it is. I would not like the Ministers or the Front Benches to oppose it. Instead they should all join with us and support us so that we can pass what has been tabled in this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to mention something in connexion with our provincial administration. We have seen that the powers given to the provincial or district commissioners are too extensive. This is because this, being a political Government, I think that position should be given to the politicians and by that I mean that they should be appointed by His Excellency the President who should make sure that the politicians represent him in the provinces and in the districts, but he should not be represented by civil servants. This is because in the first place we find that these people become too powerful because they are given facilities, first as civil servants who are appointed and cared for by the Public Service Commission and at the same time they are appointed by the President to represent him. This type of representation of a provincial commissioner representing our President as a political figure in a province is a colonial inheritance. I do not think this is a good thing that we should inherit. We should not inherit something which was just being practised by the Colonial Government. This is because, Mr. Speaker, we have found that during the colonial time when the Queen was the Head of the Government this was a monarch representation whereby the Government was representing the Queen in their colonies—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think what is happening in here is that, more or less, we have exhausted the main issues. However, let us not drift to irrelevant matters. We are not discussing the administration or anything like that but we are discussing accounts, that is something to do with money used excessively. There is nothing to do with arrangement of the Government whether there are provincial or district commissioners or anything of that kind.

Mr. Marwa: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. What I was trying to say is that we find that some of these administrative heads in the provinces even go ahead spending money which otherwise would have been used on a worthwhile thing or something that could help wananchi. Instead of posting someone in a province just to earn a lot of money— This type of person does run to and fro without executing any duty for the public. That is the reason I was trying to touch that point so that it could help in the relevant matter. This is because, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the money being contributed by the wananchi should be properly utilized. This money should be spent on a worthwhile or a beneficial thing. It is not good, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for poor people to pay money just to be overspent by people who are just sitting in offices doing nothing. That is the reason why I touched on that point.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think it would be very wrong to say that we should support the Motion. This Motion should be carried without further amendment because it is very essential that we give this House the powers which it needs. This House should be respected. It should also be regarded as the supreme body in the Republic of Kenya.

With those few words, I beg to support very strongly the amendment.

Mr. Migire: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for allowing me to speak after standing up for about two days. Mr. Speaker, Sir, my colleagues have already spoken on this Report. However, I would only like to include a few facts.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the first thing I would like to express my views about— The work that has been done by the Controller and Auditor-General has made us know some of the outstanding problems in some of the Ministries. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am going to be brief because some of the points which I wanted to dwell on have been discussed by my colleagues.

The first Ministry I would like to begin with is the Office of President. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very sorry—

Mr. Onyulo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to seek your guidance on this issue as to whether it would be possible to fix some lights up here because this corner appears to be very dark and probably if some lights were fixed up here it might be possible for us to catch the Speaker's eye?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You are still in the light, Mr. Onyulo.

Mr. Migire: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the first office I would like to start with is the Office of the President. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very, very sorry and this is a very serious matter in this country, in fact, to find that there is some financial mess in the Office of the President which, of course, was explained by the accounting officers that it happened because of inexperienced officers being employed there and due to inefficient control. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Office of the President is the highest office in this country and expect whoever is employed there to look after the public finances. Such a person should be completely competent because we have accountants and administrative officers who can look after finances. In fact, if we are going to have messes in such high offices in the country due to a simple fact that the people we have controlling the money in that office are inefficient, that will be very unfortunate.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, touching on the Ministry of the Foreign Affairs. If you look at page five, you will see that we have Sh. 17,642/15 which was spent on hiring cars for the Minister while attending a meeting at the United Nations. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this particular paragraph has not been explained to this House or to the members of the public of this country. For how long did the Minister stay at the United Nations and how many people were there who spent this Sh. 17,000 in hiring cars. I think my colleague who is the Minister for Housing explained here, Mr. Speaker, that the public fund is supposed to be public fund. Members of the public in this country contribute money with a view that this money is spent on useful purposes or duty. We want to know how many days did this ministerial team spend at the United Nations which made it necessary for them to hire cars for Sh. 17,000. This has not been explained. This is the reason why I am telling even the Controller and Auditor-General that next time we shall need a full explanation. We want to know each and every detailed explanation as to why such an amount was spent. This is because, in my opinion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the best way we can do that is either to ask ourselves whether our Government could afford to spend about Sh. 100,000 to buy about three cars which could be used by our Ministers or our delegation when they go to America or use cars used by the staff stationed at the United Nations. I say that, Mr. Speaker, because if we are going to spend Sh. 20,000 every year for hiring cars, after about 20 years we are going to spend a lot of money. That is completely impossible in a small nation and a poor country like Kenya where our people are still crying that they want their children to go to school. They need health centres and quite a lot of other things. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with anybody who tells me that we must look ministerial. Most of us have lived in the outside world. I have, myself, lived in Europe and even Asia and I have seen how other ambassadors behave. It is not necessary that you must drive around in a Mercedes car when you go to attend a conference outside the country so that you look ministerial. What we need is the role that Kenya plays in the world body and what the Government does to its people here at home. If we are doing an injustice to members of the public in this country, then there would be no point in saying that we must look ministerial when we go to attend meetings in the United Nations.

Therefore, in this case, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would ask the Minister—it is unfortunate that both the Minister for Foreign Affairs and the Minister to the Office of the President, are not here. I would ask the Government to examine and find the best way of spending this money.

To make it worse, there is a point here which I do not agree with. "The Committee recommends that the sum," which is Sh. 17,000 "should be recovered from the Minister concerned." Mr. Speaker, this is ridiculous. Ministers do not stay in the office for years and years. They are the people who go after the voting time and sometimes they meet accidents. If my colleague, Mr. Morara, who was sitting here was a Minister and he has already passed away—Some Ministers were defeated during the last election and they are the people who were responsible. Do you mean to tell me that if hon. Otiende or hon. Migure who has left Parliament and who was a Minister who is now in his shamba—Are you going to get this Sh. 17,000 from him? This is ridiculous. We cannot make it this way, Mr. Speaker. We are now dealing with the accounts of 1967/68 and some of these Ministers are already gone. Therefore, we do not want the Committee to make a mockery of itself. We want the Committee to look at this problem from a very logical point of view because the Minister himself was not using this money from his own pocket.

I think it should be the policy of the Government to review how best they can spend this money.

I know how expensive it is for our delegates who go outside the country. I know how expensive it is but it is the duty of the Ministry concerned to review and find out the best policy. What we are fighting against here, Mr. Speaker— I am a former civil servant. I was in the authority to spend money and I had my own Vote. Therefore, I know the problems. However, what we are trying to discuss here, Mr. Speaker, is not that the money is overspent but the method in which this money has been overspent and the purpose for which it was overspent. This is what we are against. Even the Parliament knows very well that at least we cannot expect a Minister to see people suffering and see things which are wrong happening in the country and then wait until the Parliament approves the needed expenditure which, of course, is the provision in the Constitution. What we are against here is the method of spending and what that money is spent on.

[Mr. Migure]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to deal with another point here which is very important. Just as my colleague said that at least—if you look at page five—there was a Comet hired from here to Kinshasa at Sh. 42,000. We are not told why this was necessary. Are there no scheduled flights from here to Kinshasa so that anybody could find it worth having the Comet? We need a detailed explanation. We are going to explain this to the members of the public what is happening to this fund. Up to this time, if you ask me to explain why this Comet was hired, I cannot explain. Yet, I am supposed to tell Mbita people, who are contributors to the fund, how this money was spent. In this case, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are asking the Ministry to give the details. The details are not enough here.

I now come to the question of buying furniture. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is ridiculous. I see here that the Foreign Office spent a lot of money on buying furniture whereby one sofa set is costing Sh. 11,000. Here in Kenya, the most beautiful sofa sets cost Sh. 1,500. If it is impossible for our country to get some of these things at a cheaper price, why do we not pack them from Nairobi and send them by air, which may cost us about Sh. 2,000 only. Mr. Speaker, it is ridiculous for a nation like ours which has so many problems to spend Sh. 11,000 on buying sofa sets. What are we doing with these sofa sets, Mr. Speaker? This is very extravagant and I am glad that even the Committee recommended that this was too extravagant. It is too extravagant for us to afford and we cannot govern this country like that. In this case, you cannot expect me to say anything about the good things which have been done, when other things are going on in this way. I think that something should be done.

Now buying carpets for the officer's houses: a carpet is also costing Sh. 11,000—one small carpet. Well, I think, at least this Ministry—The Ministry has not even told us whether these sofa sets were bought in America, Ghana or Sudan. This is because I have lived in Sudan for some time, and I do not think there are such expensive sofa sets. We have, however, not been told from which part of the world they were bought. Was it America or Great Britain where they bought a sofa set—only one—costing Sh. 11,000? This is what we have to be told because my people, the Mbita people, would like to know why these people spent this money? They have to know this because it is my duty. This is why I represent them here. They have to know what type of sofa set this was. Was it a sofa set where you can sleep and dream or what type of a sofa set? Everybody is asking this. Even in our Parliament, which is, of course, the supreme authority, we do not have such costly types of sofa sets. In this case, Mr. Speaker, we would like to know what happened to this money.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is another one, if you look at page 6. It says that Sh. 15,740 was spent by Kenya High Commission in London for hiring taxis. This was between July 1967 up to January 1968. It is a period of about five or six months. This Sh. 15,740: in fact, we want to know whether there was no Government vehicle in London or what happened. When I was in London, last year but one, Mr. Speaker, I went to that office and I saw some vehicles. We want to know why Sh. 15,000— If you tell the ordinary man in this country that it was used for hiring cars! Mr. Speaker, why cannot they buy a car?

Unfortunately, I will begin tomorrow.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

IMPRISONMENT OF MR. D. OSHE BY THE DISTRICT COMMISSIONER FOR MOYALE

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mukuna, since there is no other Minister around, will you please move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Mukuna): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for giving me this chance to raise this matter on the adjournment today.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the day I raised this Question by Private Notice the Minister of State, President's Office, the hon. Koinange who is not here nor his Assistant Minister, agreed that it was quite in order for a chief to arrest anybody who defies his order and take him to court. have him jailed for two months or fined Sh. 200. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the law which applies to such cases is shown in Chapter 28 of our Penal Code which I was reading today. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is quite clearly shown that this is a colonial law which only applies to Africans. It does not mention anything about, say, citizens who are registered in this country, it only affects Africans. If an European or an Asian does not carry out these orders, Mr. Speaker, Chapter 28 of our Penal Code does not say anything can be done to him. It does not say whether a chief can order such a man to do anything or will come under that Ordinance, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to come to this case of Mr. D. Oshe, of Moyale, who was jailed.

[Mr. Araru]

There was a baraza and the District Commissioner for Marsabit, Mr. M. Mugambi, who always stays 165 miles from Moyale Town at Marsabit Township which is the District Headquarters of Marsabit District, came that day and stayed there for the night. Unfortunately, he told the district officer that he wanted to hold a baraza in that area without prior notice to the people of the town. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the chief who was concerned with the arrest of this man was only appointed to that post less than six months ago, and they have been political enemies. Mr. Speaker, Sir, even when this chief was appointed to this post, Mr. D. Oshe was opposing him and he even went for the same interview with that chief. Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this chief was appointed—about four months ago—he has always been looking for an opportunity to arrest Mr. D. Oshe and whenever he gets an order, he makes sure that he goes to Mr. D. Oshe. He has been waiting for a day when he will have a chance to arrest Mr. D. Oshe and put him into trouble. On the day in question, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I asked how this man was arrested and some people told me that he was arrested while he was playing a game of draughts in town. This is normal Mr. Speaker, for people who have no jobs to play a game of draughts in the market place. Mr. Speaker, Sir, on that day the chief in question accompanied by two Administrative Police constables passed through the town informing people that there was a meeting to be held by the district commissioner at a certain place. When the chief came to where Mr. D. Oshe was sitting he pointed to him and said, "Mr. Oshe, are you hearing that there is a meeting to be addressed by the district commissioner?" Mr. D. Oshe told him, "Well, what are you telling me? Why should you point at me when there are other people here who are hearing?" The chief told him, "Well, I was just asking you whether you are aware that there is a meeting this morning to be addressed by the district commissioner". Mr. D. Oshe told him that he had heard about the meeting just like everybody else had heard. After this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the chief and his two askaris went away. Everybody then went to the baraza but no sooner had Mr. Oshe seated himself at the baraza—just in front of the district commissioner—than the two askaris who had accompanied the chief arrested him and sent him to the Police Station. That same chief went to the Police Station and said that Mr. D. Oshe had to stay in the police station until the baraza was over so that he could later be released. The police kept him in because Chapter 28 of our Penal Code states that a chief has powers to put somebody in custody. Therefore, when the meeting was finished, the elders went to the chief's office to ask what had happened. They were told that Mr. D. Oshe was arrested through a chief's order. The elders argued that Mr. D. Oshe was at the baraza and they could not see how he was arrested when he was sitting with other people at the baraza. The elders were told, "Well, Mr. D. Oshe was arrested because when he was sitting with other people in the market place, he spoke to the chief in a rude way".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, after that, the elders requested the police to give this man bond. I myself thought this was a simple matter which would be finished without any trouble. However, in the end, Mr. Speaker, Sir, Mr. D. Oshe was jailed. He was jailed for one month, without a fine. The public contributed money to have him released but they were told, "Well, this man must be kept in goal for one month." Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was surprised. That was my first time to hear such a thing. I went to the Minister of State in the Office of the President to explain the matter clearly to him. I also went to the Attorney-General—who deals with laws in this country—and explained the trouble which is facing my people. If the Attorney-General, Mr. Njonjo was here today, he could bear me witness to that effect, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I asked him what I could do in such a matter and he told me that the only thing I could do was to lodge an appeal in that matter. He told me that they have come across cases of that nature and when appeals are lodged, they have been acquitted in most cases. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was late in lodging an appeal within the 14 days which are specified in the court but I still paid Sh. 40 to lodge the appeal. That is the position of the matter, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to be told clearly in this House whether we are under an emergency. This is because always, when a district commissioner or a provincial commissioner is visiting our area he orders that all shops, hotels and other businesses be closed. He tells people to close their businesses from eight o'clock in the morning up to four o'clock in the evening, Mr. Speaker. For instance, this happens when the Provincial Commissioner for Eastern Province visits our area. He always goes by air and has never gone by road. Even today he is in Moyale and he flew from here this morning. What happens is that he has very many places to visit during his rounds. He goes to Isiolo, makes his presence known there and perhaps gives some orders, he goes to Marsabit and leaves some of his orders there and then goes on to some other places. So, when he says that he will arrive at nine o'clock, he actually arrives at three o'clock. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, you can see that this brings a lot of inconveniences for the poor people who close their businesses for all those hours. Take a case of a lady whose husband is dead and who is running an hotel. She closes her business from morning until four o'clock in the evening, Mr. Speaker. Are we undergoing an emergency in this country, Mr. Speaker? This House must tell us this, Mr. Speaker. As a Member for the area I must know everything that is going on there. If this Government is run from this House, this must be made known to me. Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, even when Mzee Kenyatta, the President holds public meetings at Kamukunji here in Nairobi, people are not told to close their businesses. I have gone around and I have never seen businesses at Majengo, Makadara and other places closed. Everybody goes on with his business as usual. Mr. Speaker. If the President does not order businesses to close when he is holding a meeting, why do provincial commissioners, district commissioners and district officers give orders for the closure of businesses? These people make radiocalls from their places to inform people of meetings, Mr. Speaker. but people wait for them for hours. People can wait from 8.30 in the morning and this man will turn up at one o'clock, in the afternoon, Mr. Speaker. This is very inconvenient. Mr. Speaker. Since I was born, 40 years ago, I have never seen this happen. Mr. Speaker. I have never been out of this country even for one year but I have never seen this happen. Even during the colonial days, I never saw such laws, Mr. Speaker. I agree that during the shifta menace it was proper for Government to hold meetings without prior notice in a certain area. This was happening and nobody brought any complaints, Mr. Speaker. We know that a law to that effect was passed in this House and, therefore, nobody brought complaints. But now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what happens is that meetings are held without prior notice to the public. People are not told that a provincial commissioner or a district commissioner will address them at such and such a time so that they can be ready. They are only taken by surprise, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, people should be informed of such moves by chiefs beforehand so that they can be prepared for such meetings. Some of the people even want to see their district commissioners and provincial commissioners, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what used to happen during the colonial times, the district commissioner who used to stay at Isiolo used to inform the people beforehand if he wanted to address them so that people could be prepared with their memorandum and problems to present to him. The chiefs used to gather all these problems beforehand to present to the district commissioner when he came to address the people. That was what the Colonial Government used to do, Mr. Speaker. When people applied to the Transport Licensing Board for licences or for shop licences and they were not given, they waited for the district commissioner to present their complaints to him when he arrived. The district commissioner used to give a three months notice before he came to address the people. But, now, Mr. Speaker, the meeting of a district commissioner or a provincial commissioner is announced the same day he is to address the people. When that time comes, you see askaris running everywhere ordering people to close their shops.

Mr. Speaker. Sir, since my time is up, I would like to say that my seconder will be hon. Migure, Member for Mbita.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

Mr. Migure: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I know my colleagues would like to talk on this Motion. The first thing I might appeal at that Office as the highest office in this country at that Office as the highest Office in this country and we hope that the officers who are under this office realize and know that they are dealing with members of the public who are the owners of this Republic. The administrative officers normally manage affairs on behalf of members of the public.

Mr. Speaker, coming back to this Motion, my colleague has already outlined what happened in this case. The situation here, in a simple term, Mr. Speaker, is as follows: here is a case where a chief was in disagreement with the person concerned. He told this man that you come and attend a baraza and used his power under section 18 of the Chiefs' Authority Act. This, section, Mr. Speaker, says "Any African—because this is a colonial law—who without reason lawfully refuses, disobeys or fails to comply with any lawful order issued or given by chief or sub-chief is guilty of an offence and is to go to prison for two months". Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like the Assistant Minister in the Office of the President to be very attentive because this is a matter which is affecting even his own people.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this section of the law outlines that Orders are given under section 17 of this Act. Section 17 also deals with Section 10, 11, 12 and 13. In all these sections of the law that I have mentioned here, Sir, with their sub-sections, there is nothing which says that when a member of the public fails to go to the baraza, he should be prosecuted. This one only talks of things like prohibiting or restricting the holding of drinking and brewing beer, and things like cutting trees. This is all that this section is dealing with, Sir, I am not saying that I am a lawyer, but I have been a student of prosecution and, therefore, I think I can analyse the legal implications involved in this section of the law, Mr. Speaker, the power they use—which is section 18 of the Act—only deals with the Orders which are given by the sub-chief and they are outlined here. Nothing says that a member of the public must be forced to attend a baraza. Now, under which law are these people acting, Mr. Speaker? This is the question, Sir, if I am wrong, I am sure the legal experts in this country will disapprove me, one of these days. Now, can the Office of the President tell us in the day light in this hon. House under what section this was done, because section 18 which was mentioned here only deals with the powers? There is nothing—I have been studying this section very closely and even if the Assistant Minister is rather serious and would like to take it to either the Deputy Public Prosecutor or the Attorney-General to look at—which says anything about the compulsory attending of public meetings which he mentioned in this House. Now, we are asking: are we serving the country or are we acting on our own law? Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, do we expect co-operation from members of the public in this country or do we expect only antagonism?

I am not trying to criticize the Government for the sake of criticism, Mr. Speaker, Sir, people have mistaken me in this country. They say that normally when I talk, I say bad things. I appreciate what the Office of the President has done. I know what they have done but where things are wrong, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we cannot afford to fail to say so. Now, Mr. Speaker, can we be told, under these unfortunate circumstances, whether we are dealing with human beings? Is the chief responsible for making his own laws or is he acting according to the law enacted by the Parliament of this nation? Is this Parliament not for the members of the public? Why should people be victimized, Mr. Speaker, Sir?

There was an incident—and Mr. Speaker, I am glad to inform this House that I am proud of our district commissioner; he is a competent district commissioner and he is not prepared to accommodate all this sort of nonsenses—which happened some time back at Homa Bay whereby the district officer went and ordered the public to close their shops, hotels and bars. Now, we say, these people normally pay for their licences. Why should they close their shops, hotels and bars? They want money to pay for their graduated personal tax, they want money to take their children to school and whether the provincial commissioner is coming or not why should they be forced to close up their shops, hotels and bars? Which is the Act that says they must close up? Mr. Speaker, I hope that my colleagues will also contribute but I am really very optimistic about the Office of the President and this must be made very clear. We want to know the truth, Mr. Speaker. This incident which happened at Homa Bay, when it was reported to the district commissioner and he himself, being a civilized district commissioner who knows that he is serving his people proved to be a district commissioner who would like to investigate into his people's problems. He said, "No this thing cannot happen." He called the district officer and told him that what he was telling the people could not happen. If they would like to save this country, what they can do is to check on these things and look into the relevancy of the law.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I know that my colleagues would like to contribute to this Motion.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to explain and to support the Motion.

Mr. Onyulo: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say two things. The first point is that the law is enacted for a purpose. This Act was enacted, I think, in 1950—the Act that gives a chief unweilded power. The Acts were enacted during that time when the colonial era was in power. This was to protect the colonialists by making the chiefs their spokesmen.

Now, we have an elected Government—I think there has been a slip in the Office of the President that they have not seen it fit to remove the law. I am sure that the Assistant Minister in the Office of the President, the nationalist that I know, is going to tell us that this law is going to be revoked.

We are here, Sir, to see that the image of Government is displayed to the public—this is their Government. If during the colonial era the chief was the spokesman, the chief was representing the Queen or the King in England—this is independent Kenya and we have a political Government. The people elected us but are we still going to perpetuate what was there? I am sure this is not what we want to do. We want Government's image to be seen that it is the Government for the people where people are not forced to go to barazas because they do not need to go. A man wants to go and do his business. In this case, in particular, this man had a natural rivalry with the chief and the chief was taking his revenge. The man is suffering. Are we going to tolerate this? Can such people say that this Government is good. We are going to say that this is the law which is being misused for the benefit of others to blackmail our Government and it must be removed.

With these few words, I beg to support.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): In actual fact, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have listened to the Mover of the Motion hon. Araru who, actually, gave some points—also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did listen to the speech which was delivered by the Secunder of the Motion hon. Migure and hon. Onyulo who has just spoken on this Motion. In any case, Mr. Speaker, I think the explanation which was given by hon. Araru—some of the points were not correct and they were misleading because all that we know and this is a fact, Mr. Speaker, is that the member or the mwananchi in question Mr. D. Oshe was arrested, Mr. Speaker, because he failed to attend a baraza. This is in the chief's order and this order was, actually, amended under the Chief's Act—Kenya Law Cap. 128—I would have liked hon. Migure to note this very clearly—section 2 (e) which reads as follows “Any chief may from time to time issue orders to be obeyed by persons residing within the local limits of his jurisdiction for any of the following purposes: requiring any person to attend a meeting for any purpose in the interest of the good Government before an administrative officer at any time and at any place appointed by him”. This order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is in that very book and I would like the hon. Member to read because it is there. In actual fact, Mr. Speaker, when an amendment was brought to this House, hon. Members were given all the freedom to speak as it is stated in our Constitution that Members of Parliament have the freedom of amending any order in the Constitution and this was done in 1967.

Secondly, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in part (b) of section 18 of the same Order reads:—

“Any person, who without lawful excuse, disobeys or fails to comply with any lawful order issued or given by a chief or a sub-chief under this Act, or by an administrative officer, shall be guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two months or to a fine not exceeding Sh. 150.”

In default of that, Mr. Speaker, payment of the said fine or imprisonment for a term not exceeding two months or even to both such a fine or such imprisonment. This is there, and as the hon. Member stated, this is as clear as daylight and even the order from the chief is as clear as daylight and I am sure the hon. Member has already read this because it is there and this is why this man was arrested. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, this was not an illegal arrest, because the order to arrest this man was in accordance to what is in that order. When an order has been given, Mr. Speaker, Sir— There was another allegation that this man was a rival of the chief—

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to waste the time of the hon. Member, but what I want to say is that I am not refuting the fact that the law is there. What I said is that this man was arrested in the baraza and, therefore, is the Assistant Minister in order to say that I misled the House? After this man agreed to obey the order, he came to the baraza and he was arrested there.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, in any country in the world taking into consideration that we are all members of the human race, there has never emerged a single person, even if you go to the next planet— Whenever a person is taken to a court of law, he must always say, “No, I am not guilty”. This is common sense, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and it is what the hon. Member is trying to explain. However, all that is known is that the man was within the township and did not attend the meeting. Mr. Speaker, I would like to challenge the hon. Member by telling him that he was not at that meeting. This is displaying only one side of the picture. Also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when this man was taken to the court of law, he was given time to say whether the charge was true or not and he pleaded guilty and said he did not attend the meeting and we cannot argue on that because that is why there is a court of law—

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am seeking your guidance on how we can get to the truth of this matter because the Assistant Minister said the man pleaded guilty when he actually pleaded not guilty. Mr. Speaker, Sir, could we, by your help have the court proceedings on that particular case brought to this House because here we cannot get to the truth of the matter. Mr. Speaker, I know the man was not guilty although he was arrested and I can even bring names of a hundred witnesses who saw this man being arrested at the baraza.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No. You can still get the records from the court where he was tried.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to tell the hon. Member, who is a great friend of mine, that if he goes to that court, he will be shown the proceedings of what took place on that very day because it is there. If he goes there it will be given to him. That is one side of the picture. In addition to that, I am now also giving an explanation of what took place on that very day. That is the truth, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I have explained. The hon. Member has also explained that it is also very true that there was an order by the chief that this man did commit an offence. However, the fact is that this man did commit an offence.

Therefore, all that I would like to tell the hon. Member, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that there are some of the points he raised when he was speaking which are good points and we have taken note of all those good points which the hon. Member gave when he was moving the Motion. However, also the Seconder of the Motion has given good points; and also the hon. Onyulo has given very good points——

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir——

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Kitonga, will you sit down, please! We have not enough time.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): In actual fact, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was going to end and say that with these few remarks, I wish to reject the Motion very categorically.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): For the convenience of the House, it is now time for the interruption of business. The House is therefore adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 24th March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

Wednesday, 24th March 1971

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

PRAYERSORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 182 (1528)

VAGUE AND EVASIVE ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. Mulwa asked the Minister of State, President's Office, if he would tell the House, since it had become the practice of some Ministers to give vague or evasive answers to questions by hon. Members, what action he contemplated taking to ensure that Ministers did their preparation properly, with a view to giving full and relevant answers.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

Hon. Members: Where is the reply? You have no answer!

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): There is an answer, Mr. Speaker. I only wanted the hon. Members to get prepared. Therefore, I beg to give the following reply.

The question by the hon. Member is based on a false premise. Ministers give complete and relevant answers to all hon. Members' questions.

Mr. Mulwa: What I had in mind, Mr. Speaker, Sir— In fact, he is one of the Ministers I was complaining about, in this question. Since it affects him, although he is denying that they do not give irrelevant answers, including the Assistant Minister himself, would it be good, or would he accept the proposal that they hold some evening classes for Ministers who do not answer their questions properly, like him?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not true at all; even the hon. Member knows that very well and, therefore, Sir, I would like to deny that statement by the hon. Member, very categorically and say, with all due respect to him— Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is alleging that Ministers give vague and evasive answers. This, I disagree with completely, and I am not being vague or evasive.

Hundreds of questions are answered by Ministers in this hon. House, and a lot of time goes into the preparation of these questions; even when a question is not very clear, the Ministers take the trouble to do their homework.

I cannot say I know how the hon. Member comes to the conclusion that they are vague and evasive answers: but I can say without fear that this is a very wrong judgment.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, a lot of money is used to telephone to various places so as to get information from the country-side.

Mr. Lentaya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, is he aware that sometimes we ask questions, and they give us wrong answers, which are not true?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is not true because a lot of time is spent on them, and even public money is used, to telephone, and also to make contact with people in the country-side, and sometimes it is so difficult that we use radio-calls, to get collaborative information.

Mr. O'Washika: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us get somewhere; there is no need to interrupt this now.

Mr. Njiru: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, would he assure this House that Ministers and Assistant Ministers are not going to dance around with questions in this House, because these questions are of national importance and, in fact, instead of helping the situation, Sir, it has been well understood that when a question is brought to this House, the case it is intended to correct is ruined; would you assure this House, that this will not happen?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is why a lot of time is spent by Ministers trying to work so hard and do their homework. Sometimes they do homework for 24 hours, Mr. Speaker, just to get information. Therefore, this is a known fact, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Now, it is quite clear that this is the kind of issue which is not easily resolved, in the way we are doing it, and it is clear that Back-benchers will hold the view that their questions are not answered well, and Ministers will hold the view that they answer them fully. Therefore, may I suggest that instead of taking so much time on it, we shall try some other better machinery for dealing with this whole question, so that we can move on.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Marete.

Question No. 192 (1541)

RESULTS OF THE SALARIES' COMMISSION

Mr. Marete asked the Minister of State, President's Office, if he would tell the House whether he was aware that the whole nation was anxiously and impatiently waiting for the results of the recent Salaries' Commission.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, I am aware, and, I would like to add to this and say that when the Commission was appointed, it was ordered to make its report to Government as early as possible. The Commission is working very hard, Mr. Speaker, so that its findings may be out as required; for this, I am referring the hon. Members to the special issue of the Kenya Gazette, which was published on 9th January 1970, and now, Sir, almost every day, meetings are held under the chairmanship of the Chairman of the Commission.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer which has been given by the Assistant Minister, can he let us know exactly why there has been a delay in the results of the Salaries' Commission for civil servants only, while the Teachers' Salaries Commission came out about two years ago, while civil servants are waiting for their Commission because they do not have any way in which to speak; and if they do speak you are going to sack them from their jobs. Why should they wait for two years?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, I would like to give an assurance to the hon. Member and tell him that every member of the Civil Service has the right to go to the Salaries' Commission and give his views; that is why there has been a very minor delay, Sir, but the findings will be out very soon.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that by delaying the result of the Salaries' Commission he is encouraging over-expenditure of Government money and this is a tactic which is quite known?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is not true because we want to give the Commission more time so that almost every section of the Civil Service will be given a chance of giving their views, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we do not do that then others will not be given a fair share.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the answers given by the Assistant Minister that the report of the Salaries' Commission will be out as soon as possible, is he not now contradicting himself when he says that the Commission should be given more time? Could he tell the House how long this report will take to come out; is it in a matter of weeks, months or years?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the words which I have used are "as soon as possible". Mr. Speaker, Sir, "as soon as possible" means as soon as the report is ready; and that will be very soon.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is it true that this report is supposed to come out after the Tripartite Agreement has expired?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): You are a lawyer—

Mr. Kivuitu: Yes, Mr. Ngei, I know I am a lawyer; I know that very well.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think there has been a rumour to the effect of what the hon. Member has said. However, I would like to give assurance to this House that even today, a meeting was taking place under the Chairman of the Salaries and Remuneration Commission and this report will be out as soon as possible.

Mr. Munyasia: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply that this Commission was set up in January, 1970, and in view of the fact that His Excellency the President wanted this Commission to give a full report in early December, what causes the delay, or prologing of the period given by the President by another year?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member will agree with me that there are very many points, very many opinions, and very many other things, which must be considered by the Commission because this is going to be a very important report which will affect this country not only in two years to come, but will cover a long period. Therefore, due consideration must be taken.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Marete, your next question.

Question No. 193 (1542)

OVERTIME PAYING TO SENIOR CIVIL SERVANTS

Mr. Marete asked the Minister of State, President's Office, if he would tell the House why, since companies and Local Government employees are paid overtime if they work to and beyond scheduled time, the senior civil servants who work far past the scheduled time are not either—

(a) paid overtime; or

(b) given their salaries adjusted accordingly.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The overtime element of senior officers in Government service is regarded as an integral part of the overall remuneration granted to them.

(b) Part (b) of the hon. Member's question does not, therefore, arise.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that in a week's time all civil servants are supposed to work for 39 hours, why is it that in Parliament Buildings all civil servants work for 42 hours?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to give a further explanation to the hon. Member so that he knows the position. The salaries of senior officers in Government are determined after full consideration is taken into account in that the officers holding senior posts may from time to time be required to work longer hours than junior officers. In very exceptional circumstances overtime allowances may be considered for officers whose salaries are below £820 per year. This will have to be extremely—and I repeat, “extremely”—exceptional circumstances, where such officers are required to work up to and beyond office hours in order to complete any particular exercise or project.

Mr. Marete: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, and arising from the fact that our President said there are no free things, why are the senior civil servants who work up to and beyond the scheduled time not paid overtime while the junior officers are paid, and yet there are no free things in Kenya?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the hon. Member knows very well, we have a limit as far as the financial position is concerned and I would like to refer the hon. Member to the slogan, “Harambee”, which means that every person should contribute in his own way to the nation building. Therefore, civil servants should also do the same, and they have been doing that.

Mr. Onyulo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the counterpart who heads these boards—company managers and Local Government employees—who work with these senior civil servants are also paid servants and they are paid more handsomely than the senior civil servants, can the Assistant Minister agree with me that the senior civil servants are being exploited and that this exploitation should be corrected immediately?

Mr. Munyi: I am very thankful, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because the hon. Onyulo, or the organization which he leads, has submitted recommendations to the Salaries' Commission. All the important points which they might have raised will be considered. That is one of the reasons why this commission was set up.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Wabuge.

(Question No. 189 (1537))

BUYING OUT BRITISH FARMERS IN KENYA CURRENCY

Mr. Wabuge asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House, in view of the fact that Kenya gets loans from the British Government to enable the Agricultural Development Corporation to buy out British farmers in the Republic, whether these British farmers are paid in Kenya currency.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. 15 per cent of the purchase price is paid in Kenya currency subject to existing Exchange Control Regulations. The remainder is paid in British Sterling free of Exchange Control Regulations.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he tell the House under what condition the Government of Kenya reached agreement allowing these British farmers to be paid for their farms in British Sterling instead of Kenya currency?

Mr. Wanjigi: There are very good reasons, Mr. Speaker, Sir. The first and the most important is that when these people sell out they have, as human beings, to establish themselves in their own country of origin, and that is Britain. Therefore, it is fair that they should be paid the profits of their sales in the manner that would enable them to do this.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, where he said he had very good reasons, is this only with the British Government or is it also with other countries like Holland, Germany and other nations of Europe?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, other nationalities do not come into this programme.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the hon. Assistant Minister has said that other nationalities do not come into this programme—they are not considered—is it because we borrow money from the British Government, the same British Government we fought against in order to get our land? We have to buy the same land that is our birth-right—is it because of this that we cannot get other nationalities compensated? How long is this going to continue?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, I think there is a lot of misunderstanding about the programme.

Hon. Members: No! No!

Mr. Wanjigi: If the House will please listen to me for a second; this programme of land purchase is a joint programme for joint interests. The British agreed to finance this programme because of the interest they have in their own citizens and the future of their own citizens. If, therefore, another Government in another part of the world has citizens of their own origin in this country, they may as well approach this Government in order to finance a similar programme.

Mr. Gichoya: Arising from one of the Assistant Minister's replies that these farmers are given part of the money in their home country and the rest is given here in Kenya; why, then, has it become a practice that the same farmers who have been bought out and have been given money to settle themselves there are re-employed as managers by the Agricultural Development Corporation?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, this practice was utilized during the land settlement programme which required a great deal of experts but it is no longer employed now.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 194 (1544)

RANCHING SCHEMES IN MARSABIT

Mr. Kholkholle asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House what had delayed the utilization of 1,000,000 acres set aside by the Marsabit County Council for Ranching Schemes.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. As far as I am aware, there has been no delay in the project in question. As soon as the local authority agreed on the setting aside of the one million acres for ranching, the Ministry of Agriculture started a survey to determine the precise range potential and water requirements of the land, which was an essential exercise before taking any steps to establish the scheme. This survey is now nearing completion and we will soon be in a position to determine what steps are to be taken in the project.

Mr. Kholkholle: Mr. Speaker, Sir, though I am very happy to hear that the survey is nearing completion, these one million acres were set aside by the county council four years ago. Now, will the Assistant Minister indicate to this House and give a definite time when this one million acres' ranching scheme is going to start?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, I wish I could give a definite time when this project will start, but I am afraid this is not possible because the timing will depend on how quickly we can negotiate the necessary funds to support the programme, and this is not entirely a matter of the Kenya Government.

Mr. Kadir: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, and since this problem has also affected my area, Isiolo, would the Minister for Agriculture, in collaboration with the Minister for Lands, try his best to see that title deeds for the schemes which have been allocated for the people of that area, Isiolo and Marsabit, are issued to wananchi so that the people from that area can get the right of ownership of that land which has been allocated by the county council?

Mr. Wanjigi: Mr. Speaker, that is another question.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I thought so. Next question.

Question No. 156 (1483)

NUMBER OF REGISTERED JOB-SEEKERS

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House—

(a) what was the total number of the registered job-seekers as at 31st October 1970;

(b) what the number was in Baringo District; and

(c) how many had been offered jobs in the whole Republic.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kubai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give the following reply. The total number of registered job-seekers is 29,110.

Hon. Members: What? What is that?

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kubai): The total number of registered job-seekers is 29,110. Sir, although the number of registered job-seekers is very big, we should take into consideration that in most of the big towns, during the course of the registration, large numbers of people who were in employment took off-duties to go and present themselves to be registered as job-seekers. So in this case the Ministry cannot definitely state that all those people registered during that period were bona fide job-seekers or were jobless.

As regards to Baringo District, 2,500 people—

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister speaking with confidence or he is not sure of what he is replying to? Would he speak with energy like an Assistant Minister?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Could you speak a bit louder? Members cannot hear you, Mr. Kubai.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kubai): As regards Baringo District 2,500 people were registered, 61 of whom were found employment.

(c) People placed in jobs in the whole Republic under the Tripartite Agreement are 43,603.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, to satisfy all such questions which might arise in future would I be in order, and with your permission, to lay on the Table, a paper containing details of towns and places of registration, the number of people registered and number of those placed in jobs because it is far too long for me to read out?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, do lay it on the Table; it will be sufficient.

(The hon. Kubai laid the paper on the Table)

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the reply by the hon. Fred Kubai and with reference to the numbers he has given, could the House be told exactly how many have been employed through the Tripartite Agreement, that is the Kenyanization Bureau, and how many have obtained employment through their own means?

Mr. Kubai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is another question altogether. All that I was asked to reply to was the number of people employed under the Tripartite Agreement which came up to 31st October 1970.

Mr. Mutiso: Would the Assistant Minister agree with me that the figure he has just quoted before this House is roughly $\frac{1}{2}$ million unemployed and registered job-seekers and that this is a very serious matter, and the Government ought to look seriously for an alternative method of creating jobs for the job-seekers of this country?

Mr. Kubai: Mr. Speaker, I do not agree with the hon. Member because the number registered is not $\frac{1}{2}$ million, it is 291,110.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister in order to misquote me? I said $\frac{1}{4}$ million, I did not say $\frac{1}{2}$ million.

Hon. Members: You said $\frac{1}{2}$ million.

Mr. Mutiso: I mean $\frac{1}{4}$ million.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It was your fault.

Mr. Jilo: Mr. Speaker, arising from the reply by the Assistant Minister, does he agree with me that many of those who have been employed under the Tripartite Agreement have been discharged because they were not employed on permanent terms, thus creating more unemployment?

Mr. Kubai: Mr. Speaker, I do not agree with the hon. Member. I am not aware.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, my question has not been answered.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You asked your question wrongly, you worded it wrongly. You over-exaggerated.

Mr. Kubai, would you like to reply to the amendment question by Mr. Mutiso?

Mr. Kubai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government is doing all it can to put these people into employment.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): In view of the fact that Mr. Kubai has laid on the Table more information, it is no use carrying on with this question. You can follow it up later if you want to, Mr. Mutiso, after reading the paper that has been laid on the Table.

Mr. ole Leken: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in the record that has been put down by the Assistant Minister, and the places of registration where the unemployed are registered, there are places like Kajiado which are not on the list, areas like Magadi which he puts down and gives the number as—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! Please sit down, Mr. ole Leken.

It is true that I have allowed a bit of latitude in this but the question specifically deals with Baringo, it all revolves around Baringo. He gave the reply to the first part, which is general and the figures as they relate to Baringo. You cannot now introduce new places which were not asked about. He will need notice of that. That information was in addition to what he had to say in order to answer some of the questions which could not be raised under this question now.

Mr. ole Leken: Mr. Speaker, for part (b) of the question he says very clearly, the number for other areas within Kenya. That is given to satisfy all such questions which may arise in the future. So, it is absolutely incorrect because the areas are not included and, in fact, in parts like Magadi they show the figure but nothing for employment, and I know people have been employed because I have been to Magadi.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What are you referring to in the question? I am talking about the question.

Mr. ole Leken: I am referring to part (b).

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am talking about the question. Part (b) of the question says:

“What is the number in Baringo District?”
And (c) says:

“How many have been offered jobs in the whole Republic?”

He gave the total number for this as 43,603.

Mr. ole Leken: What he says is incorrect, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 188 (1536)

SETTLEMENT OF VICTIMS OF UGANDANIZATION POLICY

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Ebu. Not here?

Question No. 110 (1401)

REFRIGERATION FACILITIES: MACHAKOS AND KITUI HOSPITALS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House why the Machakos Provincial Hospital and Kitui District Hospital had no refrigeration facilities for preserving dead bodies.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ministry of Health not here?

Mr. Kitonga: They are afraid of me!

Question No. 190 (1539)

DRUGS FOR RAMULA HEALTH CENTRE

Mr. Marwa, on behalf of Mr. Mbori, asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House—

(a) what plans he had to improve the inadequate supplies of drugs to Ramula Health Centre in Kabondo Location;

(b) when he was planning to complete the maternity wing of the same health centre.

Mr. Marwa: Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Health is not here to reply.

Question No. 195 (1546)

STAFF OF KENYA EXPORT PROMOTION COUNCIL

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Wabuge has informed me that he wishes to withdraw his question No. 195 (1546) as it has been overtaken by events.

(Question withdrawn)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Is anyone ready to ask Mr. Ebu's question?

Question No. 188 (1536)

SETTLEMENT OF VICTIMS OF UGANDANIZATION POLICY

Mr. Masibayi, on behalf of Mr. Ebu, asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House, in view of the fact that the recent Ugandanization policy had rendered many Kenyans jobless and taking into account the fact that there were already thousands of jobless Kenyans registered, the Minister could consider, as a matter of urgency, creating more settlement schemes both in Western and Rift Valley provinces to accommodate these unfortunate persons so that they could comply with the call to "Go back to the Land" and reduce the problem of unemployment.

The Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. Angaine): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. My Ministry is aware of the urgent need for creating more settlement schemes both in Western and Rift Valley provinces to accommodate landless and unemployed persons so that they can comply with the call to "Go back to the land".

Negotiations for the purchase of the requisite land on which to establish more settlement schemes are receiving constant attention and when progress has been made, the necessary information will be passed to hon. Members.

Mr. Masibayi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the reply by the Minister, would he kindly consider this question as a matter of urgency because most of the people who have been removed from Uganda had already acquired land there and as such they do not have any land at all in Kenya? They do not have any land at all and I think their cases are more urgent than those of any other Kenyan.

Mr. Angaine: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member is aware, as I am aware, that the money we have been negotiating for has only recently been released from Britain. Prior to that I had no money for land purchase. Since this money has now been released action will be taken as soon as possible. So, you wait and see.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, will he tell this House whether there are still any farms for settlement schemes and whether in actual fact settlement schemes do solve the problem of the jobless, the landless and the rest?

Mr. Angaine: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether settlement will solve all the problems but I do know that our people want settlement. This Government will settle as many people as it can. By that I mean, whether land is found, whether land can be made available, land which is agriculturally suitable for settlement, this Government has promised to buy all the available land for settlement purposes. If the land gets finished, then there is nothing Government can do. We cannot make more land but people can go out and look for jobs.

Hon. Members: Where?

Mr. O'Washika: Arising out of that very satisfactory answer from the Minister for action, that something has been done and money is available, people who are affected in particular provinces, how will they know that money is now available so that they can be settled? Will the Minister communicate direct with the provincial commissioner in a particular province and the Member representing the particular area so that the people can be told that the money is now available and they will be settled in due course?

Mr. Angaine: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows as well as I that in every district there is a selection committee under the chairmanship of the district commissioner of that particular district. Therefore, it is up to the selection committee to select the genuine landless people—I repeat again, genuine landless people—who can get first priority in the settlement schemes.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question. Mr. Kitonga, will you ask your question.

Mr. Murgor: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the Minister did not answer a part of my question which was, whether there are any lands which could still be used for settlement. If there is, where is it?

Mr. Angaine: Sir, the land is still there and—

Hon. Members: Where? Where?

Mr. Angaine: Listen to me. Listen to me, gentlemen.

Land can be found anywhere in Kenya provided your people are willing to move anywhere. I am going to direct them.

Question No. 110 (1401)

REFRIGERATION FACILITIES: MACHAKOS AND KITUI HOSPITALS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Health if he would tell this House why the Machakos Provincial Hospital and Kitui District Hospital had no refrigeration facilities for preserving dead bodies.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okeru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply, but before I do that I would like to apologize to the House for being late.

I wish to give the following answer. The Ministry is currently engaged in a programme of improving and modernizing our hospitals. A new mortuary has been built at the District Hospital, Kitui and a new one for the Provincial General Hospital at Machakos. In fact, if the hon. Member cares to inspect the District Hospital, Kitui he will find that there are very good refrigeration facilities there. Also, if he cares to get some experience, all he needs to do is to die.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I take it when questions are asked on the Floor of this House and when they are answered they are genuine and without any improper motive.

So, Sir, was the Minister in order to advise the Member that if he wants to experience the fact that the hospital has refrigeration facilities, all he has to do is to die? Was that proper?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Seriously, I do not think, Mr. Mutiso, you can make things so serious. Mr. Okeru was applying the well known teaching principle: that you learn to swim by swimming.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wish to seek your guidance. Is it in order, as the question is answered, for a Member to ask a question when all the facilities referred to in the question are there? Does he still then need to ask the question?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I really do not know what to make of that. You are saying that the hon. Member who asked this question had not checked his facts? That is it, is it?

Next question.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, this is very embarrassing—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! No point of order. Mr. Kitonga, will you please sit down? I am telling you to sit down, Mr. Kitonga.

Question No. 190 (1539)

DRUGS FOR RAMULA HEALTH CENTRE

Mr. Marwa, on behalf of Mr. Mbori, asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House—

(a) what plans he had to improve the inadequate supplies of drugs to Ramula Health Centre in Kabondo Location;

(b) when he was planning to complete the maternity wing of the same health centre.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okeru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The steps that are being taken by the Ministry of Health to ensure that we have regular and adequate supplies of drugs in the health centres that were taken over by the Government include a better supervision by regular visits by the provincial medical officers and—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, could you . . .
..... (Inaudible)?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! Mr. Kitonga, will you move back to your seat.

(The hon. Mr. Kitonga returned to his seat on the opposite side of the House)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Do continue, Mr. Okeru.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okeru): Mr. Speaker, the steps that are being taken, really, are those of supervision and this is done by getting the provincial medical officers and their staff to pay regular visits to these health centres to ensure that the requirements of drugs are met as regularly as possible.

It does also involve ensuring that a central medical stores which is here in Nairobi is now organized to make purchases and to keep regular records of the needs of the health centres all over our Republic.

(b) The question of the maternity wing at Ramula Health Centre is as follows. This particular health centre was being built on a self-help basis and quite obviously both the House and I would be very grateful for any information that the hon. Member can give us regarding the progress of this worthy effort.

Mr. Marwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would he now tell the House what assistance he is giving to this maternity wing which was being built as a self-help project?

Mr. Okero: Mr. Speaker, Sir, none.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICEEXTENSION OF WORK PERMIT NO. 774

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following Question by Private Notice:—

(a) Will the Minister revoke the extension of Work Permit No. 774 dated 19th March 1968 which was accepted for renewal on 11th March 1971 for two more years?

(b) What action is he contemplating taking against the applicants and officers who had flouted our Africanization policy by issuing this permit?

(c) Why was the co-operation of the Kenyanization Bureau not sought by the Immigration Department in the matter?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have further information coming to the Ministry and would like your permission, Sir, to reply to this question tomorrow. More information is coming in.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, that is fair enough.

(Deferred to another day)

CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY AT NGOLIBA SETTLEMENT SCHEME BY NATIONAL YOUTH SERVICEMEN

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Labour the following Question by Private Notice:—

(a) Why did a contingent of National Youth Servicemen at Yatta Field Unit on 11th

March 1971 confiscate tools and over 650 bags of charcoal, the property of Ngoliba Settlement Scheme residents who were authorized to clear and burn charcoal on the unit's land?

(b) As the agreement was to clear the bush and burn charcoal to sell as the price for clearing, when is the Minister giving the charcoal back to the owners to enable them to purchase food in this critical time of hunger in that settlement scheme?

(c) Why did the same contingent on 12th March 1971 burn 10 houses at the Juja/Yatta constituencies' border on the bank of Athi River which belong to fishermen who lost some of their belongings in the fire and were rendered homeless?

(d) What steps is the Minister taking to rehouse these citizens and to pay them compensation?

The Minister for Labour (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I reply to this question I would like to take this opportunity to apologize to the House for the fact that neither I nor my colleague were here yesterday to answer this question. Unfortunately I was slightly ill and so was my colleague. I do not know how we were both ill on the same day.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope the House will excuse us.

I now beg to reply.

(a) and (b) The people who were given permission to clear the bush together with others, not given such permission, were found cutting down valuable trees and making charcoal and this is where my National Youth Unit is. Those who did not have permission were arrested by our National Youth Service Officers, assisted by Administration Police and taken to court. Others ran away and left behind their pangas, axes and so on. These tools are safely stored and can be collected by the owners but I doubt whether they will do so as they might likewise be taken to court. Those who had permission were not arrested but their charcoal, not product of the bush authorized to be cleared but of valuable trees, was confiscated and cannot be given back. If any of the people in the area are suffering on account of the prevailing drought in the country it will be the question of whether they qualify for famine relief assistance or not, and I am sure the hon. Member is aware of what is being done by the Government to alleviate the problem.

(c) During the same operation, other people were found having illegally constructed make-shift huts near the bank of the river on the Government land and were warned to move out imme-

[The Minister for Labour] diately. On checking the following day, the officers found the huts abandoned and empty, when these were pulled down and burnt.

(d) Under the circumstances, no compensation is due to the people concerned who were dealt with according to law.

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has agreed that these people were allowed to burn charcoal, and some of the charcoal was taken by the Youth Servicemen from the lorries by which the charcoal was being transported to Thika, how did these men make out that the charcoal on particular lorries was the one burnt from the valuable trees, and not from the permitted bush?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, the people were arrested on the spot in the area where permission was given. When these people were given permission to clear the bush it was to be really bush—the small trees—which could not make charcoal at all. But then because the Member seems to encourage law-breaking, and also these people, having the mentality of law-breaking, Mr. Speaker, they went—

Mr. Kahengeri: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is it really in order for the Minister to imply that I am encouraging the people down there to break the law while I am a staunch law-abiding hon. Member?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is absolutely improper to suggest that the question was asked here by the Member with the intention of encouraging people to commit crime. That is imputing an improper motive. Mr. Mwendwa, I hope you will withdraw that now.

Mr. Mwendwa: I withdraw that part of my remark with pleasure.

Hon. Members: Apologize.

Mr. Mwendwa: Having withdrawn the remark there is no use to go on.

The people who were arrested, as I said before, went on, because of their own mentality of breaking the law, and started cutting down the trees they were not told to cut and burnt the charcoal, which was not in the agreement. Therefore, there was nothing else to do but to arrest them and take the charcoal as well.

Mr. Mwamzandi: Arising from the Minister's reply, that those people who were given permission to burn charcoal went on to burn it in another place where they were not permitted to do so— According to the Minister he says that the charcoal was confiscated; will the Minister tell this House whether this charcoal was confiscated by a court order or the National Youth Servicemen took the law into their own hands?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, let me put the record right. I did not say in my reply that these people were given permission to burn charcoal. No. They were given permission to cut the bush which could not be used for burning charcoal at all—little trees. They were told clearly to leave the big trees but they did not do so. They went round and cut a big tree and started burning charcoal, which was not within the agreement. Therefore, they were arrested and the charcoal was taken by the National Youth Servicemen.

Dr. Munene: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your guidance on the answers to this question. The question is very clear: the people were given permission to cut bush which had big trees, but the Minister says there were no big trees, in which case there was a contract then that they were going to be paid for cutting the bush. If they were not going to be paid, then they were going to repay themselves with the charcoal. Which is which, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What you are saying is that you agree with the Questioner, but that is what the Minister is disputing.

Mr. Mwamzandi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, Mr. Mwamzandi, and let that be the final point of order.

Mr. Mwamzandi: The Minister is evading the truth and he has not yet answered my question which was asking whether the charcoal was confiscated by a court order or the National Youth Servicemen took the law into their own hands.

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, these people, having been arrested, they—

Hon. Members: Answer the question.

Mr. Mwendwa: I am going to answer, Mr. Speaker. These people were taken to court. Eight people were fined Sh. 30 each, and the court did not tell my officers to give back the charcoal. They went away and paid the fine, and the others have not paid the fine—33 people were convicted but discharged under section 35 of the Penal Code: that is conditional to their not repeating the offence in the next year. 12 people will face charges on 25th March 1971.

Mr. Speaker, if the court tells us to give these people the charcoal, which is still stored, they will be given it. Eight people will face charges on 29th March 1971. If the court tells us to give them the charcoal, then we will give it to them. It is for the court to say that.

One person was found with a game trophy and he was jailed for nine months. All charcoal, found in possession of these persons and that which was left behind by others who were not given permission, is still in the compound. If the court sits down and orders us to give these people back the charcoal, we will do so.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Minister agree with me that the charcoal burners had a contract with the former National Youth Commandant in the area to the effect that they would clear the bush and pay themselves by cutting the trees and burning the charcoal? If he denies that, Mr. Speaker, would the Minister then tell us what is contained in that agreement—what kind of trees were not to be cut and their names?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I assume—and the hon. Member should also assume—that our courts are quite efficient to see whether the agreement has been broken when these people are taken to court.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): In view of the fact that some of these people are still to appear in court we cannot go on now with that.

Next question.

REINSTATEMENT OF "LOCKED OUT" EMPLOYEES OF PAN AFRICA INSURANCE COMPANY

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Labour the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Will the Minister direct reinstatement of 64 employees of Pan Africa Insurance Company Limited who were locked out by their employer on 19th March 1971 and issued with quit notices on the same date without proper reasons from the employer?
- (b) Why was a formula signed by the union and the company under the guidance of the Ministry's officers to check discrimination in the above firm after a previous walk-out never applied?

The Minister for Labour (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The question of reinstatement of the 64 employees of Pan Africa Insurance Company Limited, Mombasa is being actively investigated by a senior officer from my Ministry.

The said employees were not locked out—as the hon. Member seems to think—by the company but they were issued with letters of dismissal when they failed to heed the employers' warning that they should abandon their strike action and resume duty on the 19th March 1971.

The employees went on strike on 19th March 1971 in protest against the renewal of a work permit in respect of an expatriate employee of the firm whose work permit had expired and it was renewed on 11th March 1971.

(b) Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member was not well briefed by whoever told him the story because the formula he is talking about was signed in May 1970. Therefore, it has no relationship with this one. However, I am going to answer that part of the question bearing that information in mind.

The formula which was signed by the Company and the union in the presence of an officer of my Ministry on 5th May 1970—which is not related to this one—was applied in that after the dispute had been considered by the Tripartite Committee Meeting in accordance with the provisions of the Trade Disputes Act, an official of my Ministry was appointed to carry out investigations into the allegations about discrimination against certain employees of the Company. The matter is, therefore, sub judice, as the investigations have not been completed.

The investigation proceedings have been delayed because the union insists that the dispute should be subject to a Board of Inquiry, which my Ministry does not think is warranted.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Just to deal with one part, I think the question does indicate that Mr. Kioko is referring to a previous walk-out. He does not mean the latest one in the second part of the question. Also, I heard Mr. Mwendwa say that the matter was sub judice. Unless it has been taken to court, it cannot be sub judice. I think we had better get this very clear. The matter is not sub judice simply because somebody, including the police, is investigating it. It is only when it has been taken to court that the House does not interfere with it because we do not want to interfere with the outcome. Investigation by anybody else before court action cannot mean this.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I wonder whether the Minister will not agree with me that the attitude that the employer had when these people walked out—the first walk-out time—was very bad and it is the same attitude that the same employer was trying to show because these people walked out on the 19th of March and they were issued with quit notices on the same day—19th March—even without the consultation of the union?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, there are two things which I wish the hon. Members here to review. The action of walk-out is just as serious as the action of lock-out. Both are equally serious. When an employee walks out, the employer is bound to do two things: if the Minister for Labour is not taking any part, he is bound to warn the employees to come back or else they will be locked out because, in the first instance, they have walked out. These employees were given notice. They were told, "Please, this action of yours is illegal and if you do not come back and start working, we are going to dismiss you." This is the only channel open to any employer, should employees walk out. Any unionist here knows that.

However, the employees refused to come back after they had been given notice and a period, which is usually 12 hours. Therefore, the employer had nothing else to do except to tell them, "All right, you are kwisha."

Mr. Akumu: Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Minister had not declared the strike illegal yet, even though the employer had not given notice of discharging the 64 people, would he assure this House that the 64 people will not be dismissed before his Ministry has chaired a joint meeting between the union and the employer?

Mr. Mwendwa: The hon. Member, who is the Secretary-General of Central Organization of Trade Unions, knows very well that when employees walk out, or when the employer applies the action of lock-out, serious action has to be taken. It does not matter whether the Minister declares the strike illegal or not so long as the employees have been given notice of a certain number of hours to come back to work. If they do not come back the employer, according to the Geneva Convention, I think, section 121, has the right to fire because he has the right to fire.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, I am trying to seek your guidance. Is it in order for the Minister to address the Secretary-General of Central Organization of Trade Unions directly? He is addressing the Secretary-General of Central Organization of Trade Unions instead of addressing you.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): In any case, we must move on now.

Mr. Yunis Ali.

SETTLEMENT OF RESIDENTS OF TOI IN KIBERA

Mr. Y. Ali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Housing the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Is the Minister aware that the National Housing Corporation has commenced the clearing of the area in Kibera known as Toi which is earmarked for a housing development scheme and that tractors are busy uprooting trees and crops belonging to the wananchi who are occupying the area?

- (b) If the answer is in the affirmative, what arrangements are being made to re-settle the wananchi who are affected?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am aware that this is taking place.

The hon. Member has answered himself in his first few sentences when he says that this is being done for development.

Mr. Y. Ali: Arising from the Minister's reply, would the Minister assure this House— Would the Minister not agree with me and this House that these wananchi have already been subjected to harassment and disturbance by machines which are working around and causing dust, at a time when this nation is mobilized to fight cholera and that this is dangerous to the nation?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Do not, please, make a speech when you are not supposed to.

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, the best thing is when a Minister does a service to the Government and to wananchi in an area like that and a Member does not appreciate it—I think this hon. House is entitled to know the real facts. I would, therefore, like with your permission, Mr. Speaker, to tell the House about the preferences which have been given to the Kibera people.

Mr. Speaker, the Government, through my Ministry, has given the people of Langata, or Kibera, very many privileges which the other wananchi are entitled to, if they knew. First, Mr. Speaker, these people have been given houses and they have been given loans of 100 per cent with a one year's moratorium. The hon. Member for Langata has been to see me and I have told him, on the question of giving plots to these people, that I have to discuss the matter with the Minister concerned. I have discussed the matter with the Minister concerned, the hon. Angaine, Minister for Lands and Settlement, and we have agreed that we will put up a case to the President recommending that these people be given extra plots. The Member, having known that, has been exchanging letters with civil servants and they have been quarrelling because the civil servants have been trying to go there to see that the development which is being done by the Government is not delayed.

I want to assure this House that the people around that area have taken much more of Government money than the people around Parklands, Embakasi and others. The hon. Member for Mathare, Dr. Waiyaki would, also, if he knows and he knows this well, would like to see the same treatment given to his people. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we cannot give preference to individuals. I am sure that the hon. Member has the facts. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member must be very thankful for what we have done. I invited the hon. Member to come and take me to the place to see whether these blocks are blocking the houses of wananchi and when I went there I found that there was nothing of the sort.

Mr. Y. Ali: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to seek your guidance, while I appreciate what the hon. Minister has told this House. I must take this opportunity to seek your guidance on whether I am in order, as an elected representative of the people, to put a question in this House. Why I say this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is because prior to my asking this question, the Minister had come here, at my seat—and my friend here can bear me out—and talked to me in a very hard way, or using strong words amounting to intimidation. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is very serious and that is why I am seeking your guidance as an elected representative of the people. I live in Kibera: I am a slum dweller. I am not living in an ivory tower; I am not living in any decent house. Sir, I know the problems of the people. Therefore, Sir, when a Minister stands in this House and says that he has sent someone to come and call me to his office, when I was with him here yesterday, is he in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! All right, that is sufficient. No, it is absolutely out of order for any Member to intimidate another. Hon. Members have a right to bring questions and question any Minister on any matter relating to the department he is in charge of. It could be very serious, in fact, if what Mr. Yunis Ali is saying could be proved. Intimidation is a very serious affair. However, I notice that both the Questioner and the Minister replying have drifted into this personal sort of exchange which we try to avoid here, in the House. When questions are brought here, they are brought for the good of everybody. In fact, they become the property of the House and are no longer the property of the Member who asked them. So, we must avoid speaking as if the Member has some special personal interest in the matter he brings here. If it so happens that the Member has a personal interest, the best thing is to challenge him to declare his interest in the normal way we do. However, I am not going to allow a long debate on this because we have taken far too much time, unnecessarily, because we are really being given information which is not called for here now.

Mr. Ngei: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to make it clear that I did not intimidate the hon. Member and I have never intimidated any Member in this Chamber since I came here. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I seek your guidance on this one; I would have liked to give more information regarding the hon. Member but I behaved well and gentlemanly. He says that he is a slum dweller but, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the information of the House, he has a house No. 88 in Phase 3 and this is a Government scheme.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! We are not really interested in this personal exchange. Mr. Kanja, ask your question.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while I rise to thank the Minister and the Ministry for everything he is trying to do for Kibera residents, can the hon. Minister, having told the House that they have given various privileges to Kibera some of which are 100 per cent loans, can he assure this House that similar privileges will be extended to Mathare Valley, Nyeri, Machakos, and other towns because we are all part and parcel of the same Government?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a straightforward question. The Answer is "Yes". If I may add, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are examining—now examining—and have gone a long way in the development of Mathare Valley. I think the hon. Member for the area, Dr. Waiyaki, knows very well that we are about to complete the sewage and lighting system and so on—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We are coming to Dr. Waiyaki's question and so you can reserve that answer. Next question.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to seek your guidance on the statement the hon. Minister made when he was challenged by hon. Yunis Ali that he was intimidating him. Sir, the Minister stood up and said that he does not intimidate any hon. Member here as it was alleged. However, Sir, was he in order when we know pretty well that he does not only intimidate hon. Members, but he, in fact, fought one hon. Member here around the Chamber?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! That is not of interest here Mr. Mutiso. If you are interested in that you can raise it.

DEMOLITION OF HOUSES IN NAIROBI

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Housing the following Question by Private Notice:—

(a) Would the Minister inform the House why the Government has ignored appeals made to it in this House against the continuation of demolitions of houses in Nairobi without providing any alternative accommodation whatsoever? Is he aware that these demolitions have caused great hardship and will he order that they be stopped forthwith?

- (b) Will he further see to it that a site and service scheme is established for those made homeless or that they are given farming plots?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

The Government has not ignored any appeals made by this House regarding demolition of houses in Nairobi. Sir, Nairobi is growing and will continue to grow as time goes. This means that all buildings: shanty and slums have to give way to more modern buildings. This House is constituted to ensure development, not to retard it. The hon. Member is already aware of what the Government is doing in housing people in Nairobi, especially his area, where he has taken keen interest to see that his people get the benefits of the new housing scheme.

The Government will not, under any circumstance, allow indiscriminate buildings or shanties in Nairobi or elsewhere. The question of providing a site and service scheme will be considered, when found appropriate, taking into consideration the general overall development of Nairobi. For the information of the hon. Member, I would like to say that we have changed from the old system to a new one which we are going to try in his constituency, Mathare Constituency, as soon as the lighting and the sewage system is completed. This will be very soon, Mr. Speaker.

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister knows very well that I understand that there is a housing scheme which is going up for the residents of Kaburini, who are not my constituents. I am specifically discussing the question of those who have had their houses demolished recently. They have had their houses demolished in Kinyago, Mbiyo and Ngei Villages—his own village—and also (Inaudible) house at Garden Estate. Can he deny that, in fact, not one of those people who occupied those houses previously has been rehoused and therefore all these people are sleeping in the cold? Sir, between them and God, there is nothing!

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is true that this was done by the City Council, and it is true that the officers are sitting in my Ministry and people from Kaburini, and Ngei Estates in Mathare came to see us yesterday. I have already, on behalf of Government, given materials and plans for these people to build their houses properly. We are also discussing the question of bringing water in this area. I should be very pleased if the hon. Member would accompany me, after Question Time, so that I can show him that the work is going on. I am very concerned, like any other mwananchi, to see wananchi staying outside. However, at the same time—if I may say so, in relation to the question Dr. Waiyaki knows that farming plots have been given to his own people especially those who are at my Estate. I took the names—he knows that very well—and they were given plots near Laikipia but some of them came back leaving their ten-acre plots which they had been given.

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Minister substantiate that, in fact, anybody who took a plot in Laikipia, or anywhere else came back to sleep in the open in this area? Can he substantiate that?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all I said is that they came back and I did not say that they came back to sleep in the open. They came back to build the same shanties where they were before because, at that time, the City Council had leniently allowed them to come back, but at the moment, there is a Government decision—a Cabinet decision—saying that people cannot build houses as they want. However, as I have said, Mr. Speaker, Sir, materials are being given to these people to house them.

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Minister promise to bring the names of those people who came back from any settlement to re-build shanties in any area in my constituency?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I am allowed to go and get the names of these people—for example, one is Mr. Musyoka—I can help Dr. Waiyaki. Musyoka was given a plot with other people; not really in Laikipia, but around Uplands, a little bit further on. They were given plots there and some of them came back. However, a Mr. Musyoka and a Mr. Kamau are still farming there whereas others have come back.

An hon. Member: Who are those, a Mr. Musyoka and a Mr. Kamau?

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the hon. Minister agree with me that he is paying lip service to this House and that he is doing nothing to help the people whose houses were demolished?

Dr. Waiyaki: Yes, he has not done anything.

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have not paid lip service, I have acted within the means of my Ministry. Money does not grow on trees and, therefore, I have tried every possible means of getting more money. The moment I have money I will house the people who the hon. Dr. Waiyaki is very much concerned about and I am also very much concerned and the House is as well very much concerned. I assure this House that what I am saying is a statement of fact. We have had leaders, what they call "The Council of Elders" from these villages, and I have given instructions that they should be helped; to be given cement, iron sheets and plants to do the work.

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister house these people within a period of a month because saying—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is not a point of order, Mr. Koigi.

Mr. Wanjagi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while we agree with the Minister that it is in the interest of his Ministry to develop and not to retard the development of the projects, and while we know that we have large tracts of land undeveloped would he undertake, before demolishing these shanties, to build the houses and only demolish the shanties after he has built the houses so that he can then move the people to the houses?

Mr. Ngei: I have said, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that I am acting on this particular issue; but the question of demolishing shanties, which are now being built like mushrooms, is not my own personal decision; but that of Government. I take responsibility to see that those people who have had their houses demolished will get their houses built properly and according to the plans.

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Minister has not answered the part of the question which I consider most important: before the Government has dealt with those who have had their houses demolished, can he promise the House that he will stop demolition forthwith until such time that he has dealt with the bulk of the work that he has to do?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have said that this is a Government decision and all that I can say is that I will look into the matter.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No more now on that. I think we must go on now.

Next Order.

MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

SUBSTANTIATION OF ALLEGATION: MEMBERS HIRING THEIR TRANSPORT LICENSING BOARD LICENCES TO NON-CITIZENS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think Mr. Ngala had something to tell the House?

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the hon. Members of this House are aware, it is the Government's declared policy that all efforts will be made to ensure that our people fully enjoy the fruits of our economic independence. To this end, the Transport and Licensing Board has, therefore, been instructed to ensure that applications submitted by citizens for transport licences are given top priority and that non-citizens should never be given transport licences unless it could be proved that there are no Africans who are willing and able to undertake that business.

Unfortunately, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and to the disappointment of the Government, it has been discovered that a number of our people who have come forward with requests for transport licences are not interested in participating in this business, but instead they hire their licences to the non-citizens or to the Asian companies. This practice is not in the interests of Africanization of the transportation industry in Kenya and it is the most sure way of ensuring that our economy will continue to be dominated by foreigners.

I would, therefore, like to condemn those persons who are involved in such irresponsible and shameful practices in the strongest terms possible. Such people are enemies of the progress of wananchi of this country because they are inhibiting the advancement of the well-being of our people and I would like to assure this House that my Ministry will not leave any stone unturned to ensure that the practice is brought to an end.

It would be understandable, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if a person who genuinely wanted to participate in the transportation business was, due to some circumstances beyond his control, forced to hand over his licence to his wife or a relative. But it is a great shame for a true Kenyan to apply for a licence which he is fully aware he does not require and only intends to hire it to a non-citizen. We must here and now condemn this practice unreservedly. I have instructed the Transport Licensing Board to investigate all cases where such malpractice is involved and ensure that all those concerned are identified so that severe action could be taken against them. I will not hesitate to authorize the cancellation of any licence which is not being used by the owner, but instead is being hired to a non-citizen.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, now to the names—

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Minister for Power and Communications
(Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have promised

[The Minister for Power and Communications]

this House that I will produce evidence of some transport licences issued to some Sitting Members of Parliament which are now being hired to non-citizens or Asian companies. I will now mention the following examples:—

(a) T.L.B. No. 4454—Kitui New Haulage Co.

(b) T.L.B. No. 628—

Hon. Members: Who is the owner?

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): You will get all that information; you just wait!

(b) T.L.B. No. 268—Polar Properties Limited.

(c) T.L.B. No. 12936—Coast Hauliers.

Transport Licensing Board licence No. 13826, hired to Daramushi Transporters.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the above are the only few cases of hon. Members of Parliament who have misused licences, but it will serve as evidence that Government is aware of those persons who are involved in the practice and they will have nobody to blame if their licences are revoked.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku):

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we were told in no uncertain terms that the names of those concerned will be made known to the House. The House is made up of Members of Parliament. The hon. Member is referring to Members of Parliament only and this is a shameful thing since hon. Members of Parliament who are here have their names. Could he tell us which hon. Members of Parliament?

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see that hon. Members of this House are pressing me and, therefore, I hope that they will not blame me if I—Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government is not interested in embarrassing its own hon. Members and this is why I am reluctant to give specific names. It will not serve any useful purpose if specific names are divulged at this stage. Now that the Transport Licensing Board licence numbers together with the relevant companies or persons to which the licences have been hired, have been read to the hon. Members this is a sufficient substantiation on such a delicate matter. I ask the House not to press me to read the names.

Mr. Mwangale: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Minister deny or confirm that, in fact, he himself is also involved?

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like him to produce—if the hon. Member produces evidence that I have hired any licence to any Asian company or to a non-citizen, I would be very interested. The allegation that the hon. Member has made is very serious. If you want me to say something, I would say that definitely I am not concerned and I am not involved because I have not hired any licences to anybody. I have made it quite clear that under any circumstances any hon. Member, any Assistant Minister or a Minister who is issued with a Transport Licensing Board licence can hand it over to his wife or relative to do the business under certain circumstances. I have no objection to that. It is the hiring of the licences that I am against.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, now if you look at that clock you will see that we have taken quite a lot of time and we must find a way of bringing this to an end. It does not help when everybody stands up on a point of order and such like. One thing that does not help is when an hon. Member stands, like Mr. Mwangale has done, and he himself alleges something which he should have substantiated if he had any evidence. Let us not have that kind of point of order. I think the problem here was that when Mr. Ngala was speaking he made a promise which, perhaps, required more than what he is giving now. This is why hon. Members are pressing on this. Mr. Ngala, I do not know whether you have anything to add.

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I can remember well, all that I promised was that I would provide evidence to the effect that hon. Members of Parliament and some Assistant Ministers—the substantiation that I have given now shows beyond any doubt that these licences were all issued to hon. Members of Parliament. Do your home work and find the names.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif):

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought that the whole idea was to produce the names. The Minister did really mention Coast Hauliers, Kitui Hauliers, Wajir Hauliers but those are not names of hon. Members of Parliament. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister was challenged to produce names of hon. Members of Parliament, Assistant Ministers and Ministers in this honourable House. That was the challenge, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I think the essence of challenging a Minister or an Assistant Minister, or an hon. Member of Parliament, to substantiate—he is really to substantiate and not beat about the bush.

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I realize that my honourable colleague is heated

[The Minister for Power and Communications] about it but there is no reason in being emotional. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I want to emphasize is this. Transport Licensing Board licence No. 451 was given to an hon. Member of Parliament. Transport Licensing Board licence No. 628 was given to an hon. Member of Parliament.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! We have the duty to see that we do not misuse our time here. We still have business to do. What happened last time was that Mr. Ngala was challenged to produce the names. He was challenged and then he said that he could prove his case by laying on the Table a list of hon. Members of this House who had done what he had alleged. Now, obviously, in that case Mr. Ngala had promised to lay the names on the Table. That I remember very clearly. He did not say that he was going to read the names in the House. He did promise to lay the names of hon. Members on the Table. In these circumstances, therefore, we will leave the matter there and hope that Mr. Ngala will lay on the Table a list of these names.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I would like, with due respect to the Chair—all that I said was that I was going to provide evidence to the effect that Members of Parliament are issued with licences, which they hire out. There is no further evidence I can give as far as that is concerned.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Again I think I can remember quite clearly—I would hesitate to try to put any words into Mr. Ngala's mouth but I have put the case as I heard it, and if there is any doubt I am prepared to check from HANSARD and if I am wrong I am prepared to apologize to this House myself. If it happens to be true, then it will be more serious because it will mean that we do not mean anything we say in this House.

Dr. Waiyaki: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the hon. Minister has indicated in his last statement that he did not promise to lay on the Table the names of Members and since he has not substantiated, are we not, as Members of Parliament left with a stigma which we are not willing, all of us, to bear because we do not—any of us—know any Member who happens to be the owner of these Transport Licensing Board licences? Is he not swindling us now, Mr. Speaker, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, the issue is serious and that is why when Mr. Ngala was challenged before I asked him to go and prepare himself to come and substantiate; I did indicate that this was a very serious matter—I took a very serious view of it myself as I knew it could cause embarrassment but Mr. Ngala still insisted that he was going to do it. So, having committed himself that far, I am afraid it is too late now to retract and Mr. Ngala will have to lay on the Table the names so that we can know that we do not just come here to waste time.

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us deal with one point at a time.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already said that Government is not going to lay the names on the Table.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, I think this is the worst challenge that could be put. If, in fact, now we are being told that Government has said that you are not going to lay the names on the Table when you promised here that you would do it and you repeated it again yesterday and then you come and say that you are not going to lay the list on the Table, this shows that this House is regarded as of no value at all. It goes to indicate what opinion Government has of this House if that is what Government thinks. I am afraid it is something that we least expect from the Government of Kenya.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with due respect to your Chair, my stating that Government is not divulging any names at this stage does not show any disrespect to your Chair, Sir, or to the House.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. A Minister, in his capacity as a Cabinet Minister, comes to the House and promises to take a certain action and promises the House that he will go ahead and produce the names, as a Government—now again he comes and seeks refuge in that Government—the Government he is mentioning—in order to avoid telling the House what it is supposed to know. Is this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, not a contempt of the House?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, I think the only thing which is open to Mr. Ngala now is, if he feels that he cannot do what he promised before the world, which he promised freely and he was not forced at all to say what he said, if he feels that he is not in a position to fulfill that promise, is to withdraw it.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you order me to withdraw it I will withdraw.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Ngala. I am ordering you to do nothing. I am only asking you to do the right thing. I am only asking you to do the very thing you would press any other Member to do, and that is, when you fail to substantiate something you have alleged in this House you withdraw and apologize to the House, especially now that we have taken so much time on this issue.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. With due respect to the Chair I have not failed to substantiate. I have given you the numbers of licences which were given to Members of Parliament. I never promised names, Mr. Speaker. This is true evidence of the records which are there.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! We cannot take the whole afternoon on this issue. Now that Mr. Ngala says that he never promised names, we will leave the matter there until I check from HANSARD and if we find, in fact, that he promised names then we will still follow up this matter.

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us leave that matter alone now.

Let us go to the next Order.

MOTION

APPROVAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE REPORT 1967/68 AND 1968/69—PART I

THAT, this House approves the recommendations contained in Part I Reports of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the years ending 30th June 1967/68 and 1968/69 respectively; but being of the opinion that continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required, hereby resolves to appoint a Select Committee to inquire into and recommend penal and other legislation to empower the House to enforce its authority over public expenditure and deal effectively with accounting officers and Ministers responsible for any future unauthorized expenditure of public funds.

(Mr. Gatuguta on 16th March 1971)

(Resumption of Debate on the Motion as amended on 18th March 1971—interrupted on 23rd March 1971)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Migure, I think you were speaking before we adjourned yesterday.

Mr. Migure: Thank you very much, Mr.

Speaker, for allowing me to continue with my speech which I was making yesterday.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday I spoke for 15 minutes and I think I am going to take only a very short time today.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I complete my points on the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, I would like to stress one particular point which is mentioned by the Public Accounts Committee. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is lack of control of finance in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. I have dwelt much on this Ministry because it is a very big Ministry with offices scattered all over the world. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Committee recommended and viewed that there are some dishonest officers in embassies in various parts of the world. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is what I am putting to the Minister concerned that he should check and find out that the financial systems in embassies and in the Foreign Affairs Ministry here are completely up to date because we are not prepared to contribute money in this country and then the way in which that money is spent is not in the interests of this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would now like to turn to the Ministry of Home Affairs. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you look at page 10 of the 1968/69 Report, it says that gaming machines' licences should be approved by the Betting Control Board. In this report, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we find that about 1,759 licences had been issued without even referring this to the board. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is against the Act which is governing the gaming machines. This is very serious, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Why should the Chairman of the Betting Control Board issue licences without referring to the board? Has he some personal interest with these people to whom he is giving the licences or what is happening? What is wrong with the Ministry of Home Affairs? Why can they not refer these licences to the board? Why should the chairman sit in the office as one person and then begin to issue the licences? Is he having any private dealings with these people or what is wrong, Mr. Speaker? This is very serious because we cannot have a department like this one in Government which is just doing things without even observing what is in the regulations governing the office. We would like to have some explanations from the Vice-President and the Minister for Home Affairs as to why these licences were issued without referring them to the board. Now, who are these people who are doing this? Does it mean that if his friend, Patel or somebody else telephones his office and says, "Look, I want a licence", he says "it is all right, you just come"? Now, do we know what they are doing in that office if they are two people? Do we know it really, Mr. Speaker? Can we have departments in Government which do not even care about Government regulations, in this country, Mr. Speaker, Sir? For how long are we going to continue with this practice? We want regulations to be followed. Government makes regulations or this Parliament makes regulations. We make laws and these laws must be obeyed. If Government cannot obey the laws—the Ministry of Home Affairs cannot observe its own regulations—then what do they think about people who are committing robberies with violence in Nairobi? They are not going to pay attention to what the law says because first of all, the Ministry in charge of this does not even pay attention to regulations. I am saying this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I would like the Minister for Home Affairs to explain this, and he is going to do it. This is not his own department but it is a department belonging to this country. He has to explain to us, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and we must be told why licences are just being issued without any reference to the board concerned.

The other point which I would like to mention is also about the Ministry of Home Affairs. The Committee noted that there are three police vehicles which are only reserved for the Commissioner of Police. In fact, the Committee was not satisfied that the three vehicles should stand by for the Commissioner of Police only. The Committee also recommended that these vehicles should be used by any other officer of the department and, in case they are not required, their number should be reduced. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I assume that these three vehicles are costing members of the public in this country about Sh. 200,000. We cannot have a country whereby we spend such a lot of money. These are public funds and we should not buy vehicles and then reserve them for only one particular officer. The police department is not a personal department for the Commissioner of Police. Who says that, Mr. Speaker? Why should three vehicles be there reserved for one officer? What for? Mr. Speaker, Sir, this should not be done and these vehicles should be used by other officers as well and, in case, there is any danger involving security, there are very many police vehicles in this country, and particularly in Nairobi here and even in Central Division, which the police could use. However, there is no point in having three vehicles reserved for one particular man. I think this is very extravagant and I quite agree with the Committee which recommended that this should not be done in the way it is being done.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see that the Minister for Home Affairs also hired a machine at Sh. 150 and then Sh. 80 for services. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Committee disagreed with this point because this is very extravagant. Mr. Speaker, after 13 months, the Ministry paid Sh. 7,740. What was the need for hiring the machine even if it cost Sh. 10,000? Why do they not buy their machine instead? Therefore, Mr. Speaker, you can see there is money in this country, but the way the money is being spent by our Government is not fair enough. I am saying this because this money belongs to the public. I am a tax-payer and I cannot pay tax and then allow people to spend it in any way they like. This is completely impossible, and we are not going to accept it. The Government has to employ competent people and I am sure you realize this is why Members of this House have been complaining because jobs in this country are not provided on merit and efficiency, but on nepotism. I hate somebody who talks about tribalism, because if you say that all jobs are taken by one particular tribe, say, from Nyeri, it is not true that everybody from Nyeri, where we had freedom fighters, is getting a job in Nairobi. I am talking about the question of nepotism, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and this is why you find inefficiency where people cannot sit down and plan how to use money. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want the Minister for Home Affairs to come out and tell us why his Ministry is so incompetent like this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, turning to the Ministry of Health, when I look on page nine of the Report, I find that the Ministry of Health spent Sh. 15,743 on buying tyres from a firm which is not a Government contractor. In fact, it is provided in the regulations that there is a Government contractor who normally gives a discount, and that Government must buy tyres from that specific firm. Members of the public usually receive 40 per cent discount from such a firm and Government normally is given 50 per cent discount. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we fail to understand why the Ministry of Health bought tyres worth Sh. 15,000 from a firm which is not known to the Government. Mr. Speaker, why is this? Do they have some friends who store tyres along River Road and they tell these friends of theirs that they have some extra money in their Vote and, therefore, they can buy tyres from them? Is this what it amounts to? The Government must follow its regulations. We have regulations which control finance and these regulations must be observed, if not, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it clearly means that if a Permanent Secretary or the Director of Medical Services has a friend along either River Road, Kericho, Homa Bay, in Kajiado or wherever it could be, all he does is to go to such a friend and tell him,

[Mr. Migure]

“Look, I have some money in my account and, therefore, I can buy some tyres from you” if this is not true, Mr. Speaker, Sir, why should they buy tyres worth Sh. 15,000 from a firm which is not a Government contractor? This also means that these people cannot give Government any discount, but even if they do, what for?

Are we going to penalize the people who normally go along Kaloleni route when they have taken one Kimbo tin of African liquor? Are we justified when we arrest these people and later on fine them just because they are drunk and, therefore, they have disobeyed a certain regulation, when the Government itself, which is supposed to be responsible, does not observe regulations? Mr. Speaker, Sir, are we being fair? If we want our citizens to be disciplined, we as a Government have to be disciplined first and, therefore, the Minister for Health must come out with a clear explanation about this. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is why I am supporting this Motion because we want whoever is going to be found responsible for any overexpenditure—be he an accounting officer or a Permanent Secretary, he should be demoted or even be made an executive officer grade three. That is all, and then we can wait and see whether he is going to apply for a job in any of the private firms. We can even block his chances for getting any job. If such a person thinks that he can mess about with the Government finances for two years and after that he gets a job in a private firm to frustrate the wananchi, we can even lock him in. We want these people to tell us why the Minister for Health purchased tyres from his personal friends and failed to observe the Government regulations.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to come to the Ministry of Works. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Provincial Engineer, Central Province just decided to buy goods, that is, furniture, carpets and other non-standardized items of furniture amounting to Sh. 24,475. These items, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, were bought without any reference to the Central Tender Board. This is another Government Department which decided to ignore the regulations. Mr. Deputy Speaker, where do we go now? If we keep on doing things like this when I go to Mbita my people will ask me if what they saw on the Report of the Accounting Committee is really correct, what the Government is doing about it. Is this how you want the tax money to be spent? Mr. Speaker, this is tax money which the chiefs are robbing the wananchi in the reserves. Sometimes you find somebody, has no money and further to that he has about ten children and only owns about two ngombes, is told to pay tax, and when he pays the tax, somebody just sits in his office on a sofa set with a cigarette in his mouth and then he says he is going to buy furniture worth Sh. 27,000 without referring to the Central Tender Board. The Central Tender Board is the body which represents the wananchi and this is why the regulations say that the Central Tender Board must approve the purchase. I quite agree with the Committee's recommendation that this money should be recovered and I am glad that about £5,000, that is Sh. 100,000 has already been recovered. Mr. Deputy Speaker, you can see for yourself that if we are careful in this Government, and I am saying this because I have been a civil servant and I am sure they cannot tell me that I do not know what regulations are, we are going to run this country down. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we are not going to watch closely what is happening in this Government, we are going to run down this country. When the wananchi want jobs the Government says there is no money. When we need maternity hospitals, when we want free primary education because our fathers cannot afford educating their children beyond that level, they say there is no money. Where does this money come from? Mr. Deputy Speaker, are we really helping the nation or what are we doing?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we cannot have departments which are not prepared to observe the regulations governing this country. We do not know whether these people who are buying things without referring to the Central Tender Board have their friends there. How do we know that the goods are costing Sh. 15,000 and the rest, Sh. 12,000, they put into their pockets? How can we know this? Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are suspicious. This House must know all about it. How do we know what they discuss over a glass of beer? Do we know it? We do not know what they discuss and then we sit in this National Assembly and discuss our financial implications. This is the kind of discussion I would ask hon. Members to be very much concerned about. The Members must be concerned about these discussions because this is the centre of our Government. We can run down the country by being extravagant and we can promote this country by being economical. We cannot do this because of inefficiency. In fact, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I was given this Government for one year, you would see how I could deal with these people. We cannot allow this sort of fiddling to go on. How can we allow this? The Auditor-General is doing his duties well and these people are not even prepared to listen to what he is saying.

There is another thing which the Auditor-General is complaining about in this Report, that the police department was in 1968 unable to audit the document in the Provincial Headquarters. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, why were these documents not audited and where were the documents? We want to know why, for instance, the Police Department, the documents are not even ready for auditing. We want to be told this because the Auditor-General is doing his best. He has done his duty and, in fact, I praise him. He is a man of prestige and I wish I could promote him. I could make him the Permanent Secretary for the Audit Department. I do not mind calling him the Auditor-General. This man knows his job and has given us the accurate Report. However, we want more information. If somebody is not willing to tell us, even if he is a Minister or a Permanent Secretary, what the Ministers can do, if they want to save Kenya, they should make sure there is a proper control of money now. However, formerly it was difficult for the Ministers or their Permanent Secretaries to know because of their chief accountants. It is the duty of the Minister and the Permanent Secretary to take complete control of finance, because when there is no kodi, they will come and tell us: "Oh, look, where are we going to get kodi, where are we going to get this and that?" and when we give them money, they just go and swindle with it and sit down. I wish I could be given this Government for about 20 days. I would take them to detention camps.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am coming back to the office of the Attorney-General. This is the law office whereby all laws which regulate this country are supposed to be. This is the central part of all the laws of this country. However, the Report says that the Attorney-General's Office spent Sh. 42,480 to buy some stores costing that much, without reference to the Central Tender Board. This means they just decided to buy things the way they wanted. Now, do we know from whom they bought these things? We are supposed to know from where they bought them. If the Attorney-General's Office is messing about, and that is the law office, how do we expect the ordinary man, who is living in Kariakor not to mess about? This is funny, Mr. Deputy Speaker. This is the office which we least expect to mess about and if they are messing about like that, what about an ordinary man like Migure, who can take some chang'aa around Kaloleni and then get drunk. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is frustration. We want the Auditor-General to tell us from where these things were bought and how much was the cost. For your information, we learn from the Report here there are some vouchers which are missing from Attorney-General's Office and the Auditor-General's Office was not able to audit these. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is ridiculous. I think this is the money because of the way these things are done, they are done in such a way that you cannot even detect. They make it quite impossible to check by getting rid of these vouchers so that they are not seen. They also make it impossible by buying things from places which are not even known to the Government. We must be told from where these things are bought. We must also be told what is happening in the Government as far as these cases are concerned.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think I have already mentioned my few points, from yesterday up to today, although my yesterday's address was not reported by the Voice of Kenya, and I wish the Voice of Kenya good luck. I know they do not report, it is up to them. They hardly report, this much I know.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I now want to talk on the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife and this also refers to the entire Government departments. I wish to talk on the imprest. There is a Treasury circular, and I have it in my house, which says that those officers with an imprest, who have not surrendered their imprest within 48 hours, that money should be recovered from their salaries. This, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is what is in the Treasury circular. This means that if somebody had Sh. 99 million as an imprest in this country, then, the next time he does not surrender that imprest, it means that this money will be deducted from his salary. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is ridiculous because the procedure we have in our Government at the moment, is not quite sufficient and cannot protect the public money. We want the Government to tell us why they are taking some people to court and then the circular comes out and says that this money should be deducted from the salaries of such officers. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am asking the entire Government to find out what is the best way of running this nation. Kenya is a nation composed of all sorts of human beings and we must have a proper procedure. We do not want a country whereby, if it happens to Mr. X, it is dealt with in this way, when it happens to Mr. Y, it is done this way. We have not been given the information as to what is happening to the imprest in the Ministry of Home Affairs. We would like the Auditor-General to inform us. We understand there are some people with about Sh. 200,000 imprest and that some of them are written off. We do not know how far this is true, but we want the Auditor-General to submit his report about this regarding those people who have an imprest account and those people whose salaries are being deducted and we also want to know from the President's Office why the same people have not been taken to court while others have been taken to court. This is very important because we must know. This is a Government for all of us and not that when it is happening to Mr. Y, it is like that and when it is happening to Mr. X, it should be like that. We want to know. Already we have a case of this nature pending in the court and I think when this case is over, we shall be able to produce some documents in this House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have already talked much about the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and I am asking the Minister for Foreign Affairs to be very careful. We do not want this question of entertainment, overseas people buying beer for their friends and then they charge to the public accounts. This must be stopped. It is difficult to get money and we want that Ministry to have some competent officers and also the Office of the President must have competent officers. We do not want Government officers who do not follow the regulations laid down for them.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, because my colleagues share the same views with me and they would also like to participate in this debate affecting this country on financial matters, I beg to support the Motion.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would also like to speak on this very important Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it appears as if all the points relating to the Report, have already been covered and all we can do now, is to emphasize, if not to stress, some of these points.

The point I would like to touch on is particularly the Ministry of Local Government. This Ministry has completely been disorganized for a long time. I wonder whether a son of an angel will come from heaven to save this Ministry because all those who come to that Ministry seem to have been inculcated with some evils. That is why in that Ministry, it does not matter who goes there, the same mistakes which started taking place in 1963 are still carried forward to the present date. Now, the whole Ministry is no longer a Ministry. It is a Ministry where all the evils are being cooked. It is fair that from now onwards these evils will be done away with so that we can have a clean Ministry.

Sir, to make the matters worse we hear that some books of county councils are held by the Ministry concerned for three years without being examined and without being approved. Then, the only conclusion we are left to arrive at is that the whole Ministry is not interested in the welfare of the people of this country. Perhaps, there are some people who are representatives of foreign forces in that Ministry and that is why there is no work being done there.

We know pretty well that in this country there is what is called under-employment, apart from unemployment. So, Sir, when we hear there are some books being held back by one Ministry for three years, then we are confused and we fail to understand how the question of unemployment comes in. How does the question of under-employment come in? Surely that Ministry should have employed more people, it should have been in a position to employ more people if it is under-employed. We want that Ministry to give these views a careful hearing so that they can do something.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not know whether much will be achieved by this House always debating these things. Ever since the Government of Kenya was formed, in 1963, we have never had any Minister who has been demoted or dropped as a result of negligence of his work. This is the tendency which makes the whole of the Cabinet misbehave. Even if they do wrong nobody is prepared to drop them, to demote them. If that cannot happen, then why should we be asked to come here and waste public funds by being paid for the work of talking here, only to find that after having advised our own Government it is not prepared to heed our advice?

The other day, one of the Ministers was dancing with the whole House, trying to think that the mistake was not that of the Ministers. The mistake does not lie within a section of the Civil Service—call it the Senior Civil Service or any other sections—but rather with the Ministers who come here to represent them. The civil servants do not come to this House, neither do they have any representative in this House. They do not come here but they undertake to do whatever they are told to do. So whatever Ministers express in this House reflects on what they do, because they are supposed to be in co-operation. But is there any co-operation between the civil servants and the Ministers? The answer is, NO (in capital letters).

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are now discussing a problem of the Ministers and Assistant Ministers in this House. I have seen some of the Assistant Ministers here behaving as if they are not part and parcel of the mistakes that have been made. The people to be blamed are the Ministers and the people in the superscale grades of the Civil Service. Otherwise, Sir, it would be meaningless for us to come and debate anything here. In order to solve this problem let us accept the principles of demoting and removing a person if he becomes a problem. That is one solution.

The other solution is that we should have a Ministry charged with the responsibility of implementing any resolution, any Bill passed by this House. Otherwise—because the Government has a very tricky method of calling itself a group, having “collective responsibility”—if you are asked to make a distinction between the work being done by one Minister as opposed to the work not being done by another, you will end up not knowing who is at fault. Therefore, it is only fair that we have some sort of parliamentary Minister in charge of implementing anything this House approves or passes. If this is not done we will dance and sing Hallelujah until perhaps heaven and earth meet. And, mark you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the two will never meet. If we are to behave in that way, surely we can arrive at a certain conclusion. If things are not done properly, then time and again, we will be coming to this House to say that we are at loggerheads with Ministers. We will also go outside this House and attack members of the Civil Service. Attacks, alone, will not help us to solve this very painful matter. All that we have to do is this: the Government should give this House a hearing. Something Government is not now doing.

Government should also do away with this lame excuse of “collective responsibility” and have a Minister charged with the work of this House. That will solve the problem and there is no doubt about that.

Come to the class of civil servants in the Civil Service who are on the superscale with their President, Mr. Opondo. Sir, see how confused the whole machinery is. There are two trade unions under one employer, one calling itself superscale and the other one, senior whatever-it-is. This is the class which messes about with things because this is the class which has people who keep their jackets on their chairs to represent them during their absence. This is the class which should be criticized very strongly. The other class, after all, never enjoys anything. If there is anything to be increased for the members of the Civil Service, it is only the superscale which is in charge of dividing the share. The other class which is the common class, which belongs to the majority, is completely oppressed. We were told this very afternoon that the report of the Salary Review Commission is being sat upon by the very same class of superscale people. And, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the other day, without the permission of this House, they increased their salaries and authorized the salary increases. Where did they get permission from? They behaved just like their fellow colleagues, the Ministers who paid themselves a big heap of money by way of gratuities. They also got away with it. That is why I am saying we have only to get two persons and if we can solve the problem with these two persons, then the whole thing will be as good as—

An hon. Member: Kangaroo!

Mr. Karungaru: I will ignore that.

Otherwise, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it will be useless for this House to be asked to approve anything. Even if we approve this Report I am still doubtful whether it will be implemented. Therefore, if I am allowed I would go so far as to say that we have noted the Report but we feel the Report should not be adopted because, after all, it does not cover the whole thing.

Much as I would like to congratulate the Chairman of the Committee and also the Member who amended the Motion, I would be failing in my duty if I did not congratulate the Auditor-General who has made it possible for everything here to be known. We have been told here that a certain Ministry, the Ministry of Agriculture, spent a lot of money, and it is not known whether the money used in the transaction of land was between African and African or between European and European because we understand that the valuers of the land are Europeans, the settlers on the land are also Europeans. Who knows what kind of deal these two gentlemen arrived at? Who, then, can say whether this is one of the reasons why that Ministry has lost a lot of money? It also happened that the Minister also was of the same racial group. The whole thing, therefore, was in a mess. God is great and we have now an African Minister there. Now it is obvious that God does sympathize with us. It is because of our prayers that God has come to our aid. We are going to continue praying and we will not be tired of praying. One day God will come to our aid and some of the Ministers will be dropped, some of the Ministers will be demoted, some of these superscale people who are misusing their responsible positions will be dropped and some of the other members of the Civil Service who are in the majority now will be promoted. After all, who went to God and said he should be the only person who should rule others while others should not ever get the chance to rule? Who is that person? I can sit there and answer questions, I can also move Motions and other things from there. It does not mean that those Ministers have super, super brains! It does not mean that we do not have similar brains.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we are prepared to solve the problem we now have, let us not continue to pretend that there is nothing wrong when obviously things have been brought into the open for anyone to see. The tendency, Sir, is to pretend that we do not know. How long are we going to continue pretending? That is the question.

If you calculate the money being overspent since 1963, you will find that the amount is more than Sh. 100 million, and this money has been spent without the authority of this House. If we go into the question of finding out about the money which is being misused, you will find that there is plenty of money being misused and yet the Ministers come here and say, under the usual pretext, "Under collective responsibility I am not in a position to say", and so forth. For how long is this question of collective responsibility going to continue? We must be told whether or not the Ministers are prepared to work for wananchi. After all, every time they come here they come to defend the foreigners. They have no shame. Instead of defending their own indigenous people, they defend the foreigners. Even if the foreigner does something wrong they come here and argue with the whole House and try to defend the mistakes. Time is now catching us unaware and it is only fair that we try to change and change in advance. Otherwise, as I said before, we will be caught unaware.

Another point I would like to bring up is the question of the Public Accounts Committee. In the first place, Sir, Parliament is blaming other institutions. Some of the reports of the Public Accounts Committees, of 1967, 1968 and 1969 have never been debated in this House. This now is a belated attempt to try and solve things. It is an absolutely belated attempt. We are trying to solve things when they are completely out of our hands. The last Parliament did not finish the work and, perhaps, even this one will not finish the work. There are so many lame excuses put forward. We are told, "There is no work. You Members of Parliament can go home." So many lame excuses! They have no shame, they even use a very senseless expression, "Oh, you can go home now to plant." Do these Ministers know what they tell us? Do they know what they mean when they tell us to go home and plant?

Do they want us to go away so that they are free to overspend in our absence? Do they want us to go back home so that misappropriation can go ahead? So that misuse of public funds can go ahead? We are no longer going to continue giving them a blank cheque. We have tested you and we have seen you are no longer to be trusted. So it is fair that the trust you have betrayed and misused should be taken away from you. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we do not do that, honestly, we are not going to solve the problem. If we continue to sympathize with such a situation, then the hard work on which we are now pronouncing will not achieve anything. It will only be an evil philosophy for any of us to think that if we leave things as they are now this situation will be solved.

Sir, you will remember, we had a Ministerial Committee and if this Committee could have continued, surely some of these overexpenditures would have stopped. If the Ministers are prepared to give a hearing to the Members of this House, then a problem such as this would be arrested. But I do not think the Ministers are strong enough to digest any advice they are given by the Members. This is the whole trouble.

First of all, this Assistant Minister who is looking at me—

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Balala): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the hon. Member in order to stop me from looking at him?

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not like his face.

He is in charge of the Ministry which we are now debating, the Ministry which is now in a mess like nobody's business. And we do not want this kind of thing. Every time he comes here you hear him talking about, "Oh, we must now go abroad and get more loans." Sir, do you know that Kenya is almost mortgaged by some of these loans? Our children will be responsible for repaying some of the unnecessary debts. We are paying money to some fellows who are not supposed to be paid. This act of brutality should be condemned. We will not continue welcoming it any further. We want to cut our coat according to cloth. No more going abroad for loans unless this House has been approached on that matter and has approved it. Otherwise, the whole thing will be the same as it was during the Lancaster House Conference, when the whole country was mortgaged.

I believe, Sir, we do not have the Great Britain ambassador in this House who will dare to represent them so that our people may go naked, our people may go with empty bellies while other nationals in foreign countries and British nationals are well fed. Some of the people are now sleeping in the open air; in Nairobi, some people have no houses. When they demolished the so-called shanties, the people are now sleeping in the open air. If they were to come here— If there was an Act allowing them to come here and present their views, that is when you could know that surely, you are irresponsible.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we are to accept the sentiments which I have expressed, surely, we will be solving this problem. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is not going to be possible, because I have never seen any African Minister, after having been proved wrong, who is all that daring enough to resign. I have never heard of any African Minister or Assistant Minister, who is so daring, despite the fact that he says that he loves the country. In Great Britain, if a Minister is proved wrong, he resigns; he tenders his immediate resignation.

An hon. Member: How about Kaggia?

Mr. Karungaru: It is only Kaggia and Dr. Waiyaki who did it; the rest are still dancing, even when there is a mistake.

Mr. Speaker, we want them to learn a lesson from other countries; we do not want them to sit on fire, only to find, after they have burnt their buttocks, that is when they start crying, and nobody can then help them. You must be daring enough to tell His Excellency the President the mistakes which are happening in your Ministries, and that is only when we can solve the problems we have in this country. First of all, you do not see the danger of unemployment; this is the one which is going to face you, with the young people when the elections come because these are the most affected people in this Republic, and these are the people who will put this country right, because they are the future leaders; you cannot deny that.

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker; I hate to interrupt my hon. friend, but is he in order to refer to other hon. Members' buttocks in this House— I said other hon. Members' buttocks, is he in order to refer to them?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I did not hear— I do not want to hear about those; I do not think there is any necessity.

Mr. Karungaru: I do not know whether we have a better word that we can use; anyway, you should call a spade a spade.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to wage a war with my colleague, the hon. Member, but, Sir, this is a matter which we should not joke about; this is a serious matter, and we must be serious when debating it.

Mr. Mwamzandi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker; since the hon. Member has been irrelevant for about 10 minutes now, can you give a directive to the effect that he should be relevant to this Motion?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, I do not think he has been irrelevant to the Motion.

Mr. Karungaru: Never (Inaudible).
Mr. Deputy Speaker—

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): On a point of order; Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since the House has really laboured on this very straightforward Motion last week and today, could I be in order to call upon the Mover to reply?

Hon. Members: No! No!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): We can consider that; the question is that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

(Question, that the Mover be now called upon to reply, put and negatived)

Mr. Karungaru: Just see the sentiments expressed by this House! Some of the Ministers who are sitting in the Front Bench think that this is a simple matter; that this is not a serious matter; just see how they behave, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir! When the House is serious, they are not serious at all. You will be made serious one day! Yes!

Mr. Deputy Speaker, time and again, we hear of the places, according to the report, where some recruitment was carried out without the administrative machinery's authority. Why did this happen? It is because the Ministers, instead of going to read their files in their offices, they do not do so; they trust their Permanent Secretaries and trust other people. Now, that is why I am saying that the deal was being made by two persons, and they should not at all, try to run away from that responsibility. We are not going to continue asking members of the Civil Service any more questions; we are going to face Ministers, who are with us in this House, and who have a tendency of joking with the House, even when the House is serious.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, coming to the question of the Ministry of Home Affairs, the other day, this Ministry had to go and rally policemen at somebody's house, simply because that person was having a birthday party; without any shame, whatsoever, even going as far as to infringe and violate the Constitution, which we are all supposed to defend in this House. Are we really talking two kinds of languages in this House? Is that not overspending— Who had authorized this? Who authorized them to do that; they are overspending, and the following day they come with Supplementary Estimates, and then ask us, "Oh, gentlemen, we overspent." You overspent; who authorized you to go into these petty businesses? Who was to be helped, by the police being rallied at somebody's house, when criminals were attacking people, when criminals were busy breaking into banks, when they were busy breaking into houses, and so forth. They could only, without any shame whatsoever, go and rally police officers, with more than 20 vehicles, with all this kind of—

An hon. Member: Overspending!

Mr. Karungaru: Overspending money unnecessarily, on somebody who is innocent; a citizen of this Republic, and they had no shame; no shame whatsoever!

Mrs. Onyango: Were you one of those people who were chased away?

Mr. Karungaru: They had no shame that they could even ask a Member of Parliament, like the Member for Embakasi, "What is your car number?" They could ask what was my car number, instead of them reading it. Under what rules of the laws of this land, could they ask me such questions?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): On a point of order; is the hon. Member not anticipating a debate, which is likely to come to this House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not know whether there has been any Notice of Motion; if there has not been a Notice of Motion, then I am not aware, in fact, that there is a debate likely to arise.

Mr. Karungaru: (Inaudible). presented in this House, and we will reject it because we did not ask anybody to go and misuse public funds.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, again, the Member concerned has been in this House for a long time; he knows very well that a Member who can anticipate something which he is aware of is the one who can be questioned, but do I know whether there is any Motion coming or there is anything coming. I am interested in overspending; after all, I am not interested in anything else.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, time and again, the Treasury should be told in the strongest terms possible, that these are not the days of the colonial régime; yes! This is because Kenya did not attain its independence without damned hard working. The people worked hard for it; it did not come from heaven. Yet some people are still dancing—

An hon. Member: What kind of dancing?

Mr. Karungaru: They are dancing in a foreign manner, instead of dancing traditionally to please their fellow friends. Sir, some Ministries are not interested in making sure that the public are provided with the services for which they are entitled to get. A lot of money is not spent by some of the Ministries; instead they send it back to the Treasury. Sir, even the Treasury itself could be the cause of the mess in the matter that we are debating. This is because if an accounting officer goes to ask the Treasury, "We want to spend this money on this or that", the Treasury is as difficult as it used to be in the colonial days. But after having spent the money, that is when the Treasury gives the okay. Could we not subject this kind of serious matter to the Treasury? This is because it is the Treasury which is causing this unnecessary embarrassment to this Government. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the man in charge— I do not know where he went. However, we are having another man whom we think is going to put things right.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to support the Motion.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): You can expect "bullets" now.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Deputy Speaker, thank you very much for giving me this opportunity to say something on this very serious Motion. I want to congratulate the Members of this House because of the serious concern they have expressed as far as the expenditure of public funds is concerned. This is a clear indication, Mr. Deputy Speaker, of the maturity of the Members of this House in matters affecting public expenditure in our country.

It is true, as one hon. Member said, and I think it is only fair and just that the Central Tender Board should be the only authority through which every purchase of Government should go; and not through private individuals who might be friends of other private individuals in responsible positions in Government. This is because public funds are public funds and they do not belong to a single individual. However, Sir, I am not very happy about the way in which some hon. Members have attacked the public servants. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, public servants are not angels, and they will never be angels. They are human beings like any one of us. They might have made a mistake without knowing that it was a mistake. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think some of the mistakes which public servants might fall into arise from this House.

Kenya as a developing nation, Sir, has many and varied problems. When the Budget is prepared, it is prepared with certain things in mind. However, when this House comes to debate the Estimates and what ought to be done by Government, hon. Members of this House from their respective constituencies, bring forward more demands on public money, public revenue and therefore, some items have to be included after the preparation of the Estimates is completed. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for very genuine cases like that, we have to prepare a Supplementary Estimate from this House. Therefore, if hon. Members of this House honestly, say that no Supplementary Estimates should come forward because there has been overexpenditure here and there, this is not going to be the answer. Hon. Members of this House know very well that they are custodians of the interest of this country as a whole. Whatever ought to be done in this country, has to be proposed by the hon. Members of this House.

An hon. Member: Question?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): The hon. Member says, "question". I accept there are questions on me, Mr. Deputy Speaker. However, I know very well how Members of Government, Cabinet Ministers and the civil servants become very worried about that "question". When that hon. Member says, "question", with that word Government becomes very concerned. Therefore, in Kenya as a developing nation, we must accept one thing that we must not be rigid in our views as far as development is concerned; that in the case of development in the course of the year problems might arise; projects might arise and those projects will demand some money and therefore, we must come forward for Supplementary Estimates. Secondly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we must also accept that Kenya is being governed and that Kenya has a political Government. A political government is subject to political pressure and because of the political pressure, the Government might do certain things which some hon. Members might consider as overexpenditure and come before this House to complain. But we do that in the best interests of this country, not in the best interest of individuals or civil servants.

An hon. Member: No!

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, some hon. Member says, "No". I will quote one simple example.

Last year, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I was touring a given constituency accompanied with a given Member of Parliament. We then visited a given school and left. After this visit the school was burnt, when the children were trying to get asali ya nyuki. That hon. Member had to go to Government to ask for some money in order to put up a school for those unfortunate children. The Government would have not refused to grant the funds. This was political pressure and we do not want political criticisms.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another point I would like to talk on is this: yesterday it was very much emphasized here about our Ministers who have been leading Kenya delegations to the United Nations. Ever since Kenya became independent, the following Ministers have led delegations to the United Nations. The first man to lead the Kenya delegation to the United Nations was, the now detained, Mr. Oginga Odinga who led the delegation in 1963; in 1964, 1965, 1966, the former Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Murumbi led the delegation. In all those four years, Sir, these Ministers used a Limousine or a Chevrolet or whichever good car was available. In other words, Mr. Deputy Speaker, once a precedent has been made, when you change it, you have to explain. Therefore, Sir, Kenya, having made a precedent, had to explain.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, in 1967 when the hon. Mr. Nyamweya led a Kenya delegation when he was in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs he also used the same vehicle which the other Ministers had been using. Sir, in the following year, in 1968, the late Mr. Argwings-Kodhek led a Kenya delegation and he used the same vehicle which had been used in 1963.

An hon. Member: Are you teaching us history?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Well, if I am a historian, it is unfortunate that I happened to be a student of history but I am just trying to make a point.

Sir, in 1970 the present Minister for Foreign Affairs, Dr. Mungai used the same vehicle, a Limousine. Now, Sir, the point I want to make is that there is no value in the heated argument, singling out one individual, the Minister. It should have been that the senior Government officers had been wrong. That senior Ministers have been wrong from the beginning to the day when they—

[The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services]

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Minister has made a specific statement that a certain vehicle has been used over the years by certain Ministers, can he state which vehicle it is and what registration number it bears and so on, because he is making a very serious statement?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): What I have said Mr. Deputy Speaker—I am sorry if I mentioned a definite vehicle—those large vehicles called limousines are the ones which have been used all these years. A given make is what I meant Sir, and so my hon. colleague, the Member for Kisumu Rural should bear with me.

What I was trying to put forward Sir, is that there is no need in this House to single out any individual Member for either political assassination of character or trying to minimize an individual, a Kenya Government Minister or a Kenya Government representative. If the mistake has been there, what hon. Members in this House, be they—

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am not interrupting the Minister deliberately but I think it is necessary to make this one point clear because, I think, he is misleading the House. When the Ministers go to the United Nations, they either use the Ambassador's car or they are given allowances to hire their own cars. In this particular case, the Minister used a private car instead of using the Ambassador's car, and if he used a private car he had to pay for it from the allowances given to the Ministers.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Well, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Mr. Gatuguta who is the Chairman of this body is a permanent representative of the United Nations. Why other people are never sent in his place I do not know.

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Sir, can we get a clarification from the two statements? Mr. Muliro, the hon. Member for Kitale East has said that the leaders of the Kenya delegations have used the same make of cars and now another Member who has a personal knowledge—because he was there—has told us that they were hiring other cars. Which of the two stories are we supposed to believe as the correct one?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Deputy Speaker, if I made an error, then I am sorry but I said they have been using big vehicles. They might be Chevrolet, Cadillacs, they might be Limousines, they might belong to the Ambassador of Kenya, they might belong to a private firm in the United States but the fact is that they have been large vehicles.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another point I would like to raise on this Motion is that the Government Ministers are policy makers and as policy makers they can be rightly criticized in this House for not controlling their civil servants to behave in a given manner. This I accept as a responsibility of Members of the Cabinet. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, there are smaller details. Ministers are never accountants; they cannot sit at a desk all the time. A Minister has to formulate a policy and if something is derailed in the Government machinery he can never go through all the Government civil servants' work to know where things have gone wrong. Honestly, we, the Ministers of the Kenya Government can never be looked upon as the accounting officers. The accounting officers today, through the Ministries—

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the Minister really in order to confuse the House saying that the Ministers are not civil servants to sit down and be responsible while we know that the meaning of being responsible is being the controller and it is the controllers' duty to check up everything? Why should the Minister confuse the House.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The Minister has clearly stated what is a fact. The accounting officers of the Government are Permanent Secretaries in the Ministries. The Minister is responsible for formulating policies which the Permanent Secretary is supposed to abide by. But, in fact, the man who is responsible for accounting for expenditures within a Ministry to the Treasury and to the Public Accounts Committee is the Permanent Secretary, except where the Minister, of course, is personally involved in expenditure, for example throwing parties in the National Assembly which possibly may exceed the amount he is allowed to spend or in the case that has been quoted by Mr. Gatuguta—the use of a vehicle which he pays for by using money not within the personal accounts that he is given. Apart from that the accounting officers are given specific letters by the Treasury which authorizes them to look after the accounts of the Government. That is a fact.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, since we are operating a Parliamentary Government is it not a Constitutional position that a Minister, in this House, is responsible for whatever his own civil servants under him do and, that he cannot come and tell this House that he is not responsible but his subordinate is responsible?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): There are two issues here. The control of Government is specifically in the hands of the President and his Cabinet. That is clearly understood. Mr. Muliro was trying to raise the point that he does not scrutinize, day to day, the small, big or medium expenditures within his Ministry. It is the duty which is given to an accounting officer within his Ministry but the overall coverage, of course, in this kind of Government is accounted for by the Ministers.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Sir, take for example a Minister's own Ministry. Is the Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services not responsible to this House for anything done by his own Permanent Secretary?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): That is exactly what I said; that a Minister has the overall responsibility for formulating policies and for whatever goes on in his own Ministry, after all he is in charge of the administration of that Ministry. However, Mr. Muliro's point—and this is where the difference is—was that he does not scrutinize day by day what goes on in his Ministry and hence the overspending for which he is being questioned to explain to the House.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since we know that even the Permanent Secretaries are "Ministers", what will prove the irresponsibility of the Minister if he is not responsible enough to know how to control his Ministry? What will prove his irresponsibility?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not quite get the point there. Perhaps you might explain further.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am very sorry. I have been very angry.

Hon. Members: Speak in Kikamba.

Mr. Kitonga: Yes, even Kikamba is all right.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my point of order is, I would like to know, if it is suggested that the Minister is not responsible for knowing what is going on regarding the accounts, how can we know the Minister who is irresponsible in his Ministry?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): This kind of problem, of course, requires a little study. It is not possible to be replied to and get all the details here by raising a point of order. But if the hon. Member would like to study this a little further, study the Constitution and the Financial Orders he will find that, in fact, the accounting officer is not the Minister. The accounting officer is the head of his Ministry in the Civil Service but not within the political side. But, of course, the Permanent Secretary is responsible to the Minister for what goes on within the province for which he is responsible. Therefore, the Minister in his turn has to explain to this House where things go wrong within his Ministry's administration—in other words, within his Ministry.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. The defence has not been a bad one.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I said is very simple and straightforward. I said that Ministers in this House are responsible for defending their Ministries. We defend those Ministries simply because if the Ministry is being derailed we put it right as policy formulators. That is so much and so good, for the time being, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The other point which the hon. Member for Embakasi has said is that the President of this Republic must abolish completely the whole idea of collective responsibility. The British Cabinet system, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is based on collective responsibility. The hon. Member—

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, would I be in order to ask either you or the Minister speaking to define in the context of this Government what is meant by collective responsibility, and give examples of what has been the collective responsibility of the Front Bench?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I think Mr. Muliro is more qualified than I am to explain what the Cabinet, as a Member of the Cabinet, regard as collective responsibility either inside or outside this House.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Well, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, collective responsibility means that a decision made by the Cabinet as a Cabinet is binding to all the Ministers in that Government. If it is not binding on that Government as a Government— If one disagrees, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with such a stand one has to resign. One cannot disagree with the collective stand and remain in Government.

The other point of collective responsibility is when a Motion comes into the House like this which challenges the confidence of Government. The Cabinet Ministers and Assistant Ministers have to vote for Government. If one of them does not vote for Government he has to resign. Unless it is a free vote, Mr. Deputy Speaker, he will have to resign.

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that appears to be a fairly elaborate definition of collective responsibility. Will I be right in asking the Minister now speaking to confirm or deny that we have had several occasions here when that collective responsibility has been converted into a cunning and evasive method of dealing with some affairs?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I think that is outside the Motion that we are discussing. Perhaps, this can be pursued outside the swinging doors at the end of the Chamber. But this is not a matter that we must pursue at this stage. This is an academic or political issue that should not be pursued within this Motion.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I am a political scientist and my friend is a chemist. So we do not understand one another.

The point I was making was that my colleague, the Member for Embakasi had said that we must abolish the system of collective responsibility. I said that under the present Government my friend is just crying for the moon. Although the moon seems to be very near now—the Americans have gone to the moon several times. What the hon. Member should have put forward possibly would have been that if Government fails to do what is collective then he should criticize Government from that side. But it is not fair to say that we do not want to have here— Our system of Government is that we accept a Ministerial Government and a Parliamentary system based on collective responsibility. As far as we are concerned in Kenya we will continue like that until things change.

The hon. Member for Embakasi also made a very big play of the troubles which are impending in this country that might overtake us if we do not look after the funds properly and if we do not take matters of Government seriously. But, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we should accept our responsibility as Members of this House collectively because if the Government of this country is overtaken today none of us will be in this House. Therefore, the more vigilant we are as the House, irrespective of whether one is a Minister and another one is a Back-bencher, we are all bound in one basket. In other words, we have to build this country together.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the Minister not misleading this House by pretending that even the Back-benchers, who are not charged with any responsibility of running the Government—the Back-benchers do not have any offices in Government Ministries—are to be blamed if the Ministers mess up the whole thing? Is he not misleading the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is not true that Members of Parliament can altogether escape blame for what goes wrong with our finances in this country. After all, one of the big functions of this Parliament is a critical function. That is why we have the Public Accounts Committee and that is why there is a debate passed to us on the findings of the Public Accounts Committee. If we do not deliberate and express ourselves in the proper manner as to the expenditure and then arrive at the right conclusions, naturally we do not escape blame.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, now that you have ruled that we will never escape the blame, is it not also fair that Ministers, from today, should try to give Members of this House a hearing, which they do not now give?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): That is a point of argument. I did not say that Members of Parliament will never escape the blame. That is the point of this discussion. Members of Parliament are expressing themselves in on uncertain terms on certain findings of the Public Accounts Committee Reports of 1967/68 and 1969/70. Members of Parliament are in the process of blaming Government for any misdeeds and also exonerating themselves. However, all together, if matters are not corrected from year to year, Members of Parliament cannot hope to escape the blame.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The truth is, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that all Members of this House, be they Ministers, Assistant Ministers or Back-benchers, have a responsibility and a duty to this country as far as public funds are concerned. We cannot avoid it. After all, every Vote comes before this Parliament and if we do not want a given Vote, we, as Members of Parliament, can say "No." This is because this House is the only body in the whole Republic that can determine the tune of expenditure of this Republic. Therefore, we cannot avoid it. This is why I have said that Members of Parliament expressing themselves freely in the way they have done is a great service to this country. We, some of us, as Ministers, definitely take note— And any Minister who cannot take note of what Members have said in this debate for the first time in this House since Kenya became independent—such a Minister would be a fool. I would use the word, “a fool”, if it is parliamentary. He would be living in a fool's paradise.

So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, with these few remarks, I wish to note what is going on.

Mr. Mwangale: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like, first of all, to thank all the hon. Members who have done a tremendous job in discussing the Public Accounts. I want to point out that my speech will be very short and very brief.

We have reached a stage which, as far as public expenditure and the relationship between the Civil Service and the political arm of the Government—as represented by this House—is extremely dangerous.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, Members of Parliament have levelled accusations against civil servants for good reasons and for bad reasons. I want to point out, after speaking to quite a number of senior civil servants, the problems which they think have been incorporated in our own system of accounting and in our own system of the so-called Constitution, which make it impossible for overexpenditure to be avoided.

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Is the hon. Member in order actually, to describe Kenya Constitution as “the so-called Constitution”?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): He is terribly out of order. We have all sworn to respect and honour our Constitution and so we cannot use words which mildly or even severely criticize our Constitution. The only time when we have a chance to do that is when we change or discuss certain parts of the Constitution. However, we have to use a language that honours our Constitution.

Mr. Mwangale: Thank, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Hon. Members: Withdraw.

Mr. Mwangale: I was mentioning, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that one major set-back which contributes to overexpenditure arises from the fact that when Ministries prepare their estimates and these estimates are forwarded by the accounting officers to the Treasury, usually, these Votes are cut down or reduced by the Treasury. We gather that in most cases the accounting officers are not informed or called upon to come and have it explained to them why such a decision has been taken by the Treasury. It is also argued that because we have, I think about five accounting units throughout our Government, it is not possible for the accounting officers in the individual Ministries to be able to follow the pattern of expenditure in their individual Ministries.

It is also argued that the overexpenditure, as it is reported in the Public Accounts Report or the Auditor-General's Report, is mainly on useful development projects which have been proposed by the hon. Members of this House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, taking all these facts into account, I have few observations to make. The first one is that in some respects, the accounting officers and other officers—administrators—in the various Ministries have failed to observe the regulations and the accounting procedures which they themselves have laid down, as a matter of policy.

Several examples have been given here. I am not going into details but I can mention one or two, including the Ministry of Co-operatives and Social Services, which do not say very much about the responsibility that our Ministers have in so-called accounting systems in their individual Ministries.

I want to, particularly, point out one area, Mr. Deputy Speaker. First, we have just been told in this House by an hon. Member that various vehicles were ferried to a certain Assistant Minister, whom all of us are aware of, and that 20 vehicles or so cordoned off his house and police officers were asked to turn away guests and so forth. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that Ministry—I should assume that the police come under the Ministry of Home Affairs. That is one aspect of which overexpenditure must be carefully scrutinized. Is it really serving any useful purpose for us to begin to play with political fire in this House by not only utilizing public funds to do the wrong jobs but also by violating the very Constitution which we have sworn to protect? We have seen another example of wastage of public funds through wastage of public time as we saw hon. Ngala waste about an hour discussing an issue that should have taken exactly one minute. Sir, if that one hour were converted into money, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, and was calculated over one Financial Year coupled with many Mr. “Ngalas” coming up like the one we saw, how much money would we spend on wastage of public funds in that manner?

[Mr. Mwangale]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we pass Motions here. We spend the whole Friday morning here discussing Motions, but some are not implemented by the Government. If the Government is not prepared to implement those Motions which are debated in this House passed by a majority vote of Members in this House, and taking into consideration that we are paid to debate those Motions, Sir, why are we prepared to spend public money in that way? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is a great shame and, I think, we have reached a stage where we must be able to control our own finances. Now, if we do not control our own affairs, I think it is high time somebody packed up this House and we went home.

I want to mention some other points which some senior civil servants happened to put in the papers. I would like to point out that the civil servant in that particular case was irresponsible. In the first place, Sir, he claims that hon. Members of this House or some hon. Members in this House are bankrupt politically and that they are using this particular issue to enhance their positions in their constituencies. I want to point out that this very senior civil servant not only did he look at the very accounts we were discussing, but also, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he is flat bankrupt upstairs. In the first place, Sir, we know that there is direct overexpenditure. This comes because of the various points which have been given in this booklet and also in the Auditor-General's Report; it was very detailed. Now, if he wanted to find out why this overexpenditure took place, he could have taken the Public Accounts Committee's Report to analyse it in public, say, a Press conference including the verbatim report of the accounting officer who were interviewed by this Public Accounts Committee.

The second part is that of unauthorized expenditures. An example of this is that of some senior civil servants who take an imprest of KSh. 38,000 or so—

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am rising to seek your guidance on the term "so-called". Is it really proper to refer to an actual thing as "so-called" because it gives an impression that it is not actual? Is it an overexpenditure or is it simply so-called? I am getting a bit confused, Sir.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Well, I think the hon. Member is used to using the words "so-called". Sometimes he possibly does not mean to discredit what he wants to say. However, if you would avoid using the words "so-called", when they do not apply, that will save you from interjections.

Mr. Mwangale: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I mean direct overexpenditures, hon. Nthenge, and unauthorized expenditures together with misappropriations.

We have in our Kenya Constitution Chapter 7, section 99 up to 106 clearly defined how money can be appropriated for the purposes of Government expenditure. It is also stated in section 102, if I am not wrong, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that in cases of emergency—when votes that have been voted in House have been completely exhausted—a Ministry can resort to what they call "Civil Contingencies Fund" and be able to collect money from that Fund for the purposes for which they want to use it. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not see any excuse whatsoever why an accounting officer can claim that he had overspent simply because he had to do it. We have provided for in our own Constitution ways and means of collecting money to be properly spent with the authority of this House. It is also, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, known that if our Pay Master General, who is attached to the Treasury, and acts as a clearing house for all Government cheques that are written by our Government could exercise his responsibility by informing the accounting officers of individual Ministries that they had overspent and that their cheques could be referred to drawer, we would not be having some of these unnecessary overexpenditures. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think that we have been responsible for causing unnecessary expenses without laying control at the right places because we have the machinery although that machinery is not as good as it should be; we have abused the system itself.

Another point which I note from reading this Public Accounts Committee's Report, Sir, is that the Committee has not been as stringent as it should have been. If you read an item, say, the Kilifi County Council there is a detailed analysis on why there has been an overexpenditure in this particular section. However, all you get from the Committee is that it only suggests that the Ministry ought to take immediate steps and that is all. I think that it is high time that the Public Accounts Committee became much more realistic and much more practical in appraising the problems of our Financial Estimates year by year. I would also, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, looking from what has been said here, say that the Permanent Secretaries who are accounting officers should make it their jobs, their business, to scrutinize from month to month, item by item the amount of money they have remaining in their votes so that they have at least a knowledge as to whether they are over-spending, underspending or whether they have enough money in their kitty in order to continue with the projects for which the money has been voted.

The other point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, which I have noticed in this particular Report is a lack of actual control in the spending of money. In other words, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the extravagancy. We have heard of rocking chairs being bought by certain officers against the wishes of this House. We also see in the Ministry of Co-operatives and Social Services that an amount of KSh. 14,798 was spent on purchase of foodstuffs from unauthorized sources and that the Government would have saved more than KSh. 2,000 or KSh. 3,000 if these purchases were made through the right authorities. It looks as if we have become conscious of luxury. We want carpets. I think next time the Ministries will be asking for air-conditioned offices. I think that it is now time we scrutinized our own priorities and see whether, indeed, what we are choosing is not a luxury and we are not being extravagant against the limited financial resources that this country can afford.

I want also, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, to say that in order to have a proper system for the future Financial Years starting with the coming Financial Year, a definite appraisal of the problems of this Financial Estimates and what-have-you, the Select Committee which has been proposed in this Motion should be formed immediately. As soon as this Motion is over and it is adopted, Sir, the Select Committee should be appointed immediately and that Committee should call every accounting officer to explain why there has been overexpenditures and also, if necessary, it should ask the Auditor-General to tell us how we can go about introducing a different system of accounting such that we do not have these types of overexpenditures. I am also told, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that in certain cases it becomes difficult for accounting officers to meet the deadline for handing in all their supplementary estimates by the end of May. I think this House should look into the possibilities of adjusting the timing; the timing for the deadline for handing in their supplementary estimates so that we can give them maximum time to finalize their supplementary estimates so that we can avoid any overexpenditure.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with those few remarks, I want to point out one point—just one point—that we have also been told that there are some Ministries which are overspending whereas we have a certain very important branch of this country which is the Army and which I gather or has been rumoured that they have been denied finance to buy new and more advanced equipment in order to defend our country.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

Here, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are spending money in the wrong places and we are refusing money to the right people. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious matter if we are going to have certain Ministries freely overspending the public funds and other Ministries or certain departments being refused money to spend in the right form. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is something wrong with our Government. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this question of Army equipment is an important part of our Army defence for defence purposes. I believe, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if we are going to continue to deny this particular section some things for fear—purely because of fear—I think, we are making a very serious mistake. Therefore, this is what I want to find out: why is that fear there because they cannot be given money to buy new equipment.

I also want to finalize by thanking the Auditor-General for his very good Report and I think he could also do a little better by being much more practical by suggesting how we can modify the system because I understand he has done it to the Public Accounts Committee and that this has not been taken note of. Therefore, I hope that this Public Accounts Committee will do a better job in the future.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like first to correct certain impression made by the hon. Member who has just sat down.

I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, some of the accounting system is good, but the failure is with the Ministries. Therefore, having been in the Ministry of Economic Planning and Development, I think, I had better outline the way it works. As early as January, every Ministry is asked to put to the Ministry of Economic Planning and Development its Development Estimates and its Recurrent Estimate for the following year. What happens, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that in various Ministries, the officers sent to negotiate with the Treasury are not conversant themselves with what they want in the Ministry. This is really the problem, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not that the Treasury cuts down the money. I have had an experience, Mr. Speaker, Sir, sitting on a table: a person is sent by a Ministry to discuss with the Ministry of Economic Planning and Development and the Treasury; he does not know what he is asking for and, therefore, the Treasury, naturally, reduces the money.

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the hon. Assistant Minister to claim here that an accounting officer, who is a Permanent Secretary, when presenting his Estimates to the Treasury sometimes he does not know what he is doing; I think this is a very serious allegation, Mr. Speaker, Sir?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is not a point of order, Mr. Mwangale. There must be people who do not know what they are doing.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not say "accounting officers". I said "some officers" who are sent to negotiate with the Treasury do not know what they are doing. Now, if the hon. Member was a civil servant, as he claims he was, and I have no doubt that he was one, those ones who go to negotiate for money are not the Permanent Secretaries, not even the Deputy Permanent Secretaries, not even the Under-Secretaries; the ones who go are Assistant Secretaries.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows the quality of our Assistant Secretaries. I do not say that they are not intelligent. However, when they go to negotiate with the Permanent Secretary in the Treasury, who sits there himself— Mr. Speaker, Assistant Secretaries are transferable from one Ministry to another. This is the point I am making because here the problem does not lie— If that civil servant who told him that the Treasury does cut down the expenditure, it is just because that particular officer himself does not take the trouble to go; he sends his junior officers and when they are defeated, he blames the Treasury.

I have known, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and here I must commend the Ministry of Agriculture because they send their most senior officers to do the job and, therefore, they get all the money they want. This is why there is a difference. If the hon. Members here are honest, the Ministry of Agriculture gets more vehicles; gets more drivers than any other Ministry in Kenya.

An hon. Member: And they overspend!

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): Now, Mr. Speaker, I am just saying that they go and the money is deducted, I think this is untrue.

Now, the other thing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is this: here we are not quarrelling with civil servants because they are overspending money for genuine cases. The simple problem is that they are spending money without the authority of this House. This is the only problem. If, for example, like the hon. Member for Kitale, the Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services, who should have been very knowledgeable; if a Ministry does submit a Supplementary Estimate, those are approved by this House and we have no quarrel with these people. However, our real quarrel is with these fellows who spend money without even adhering to the financial orders; without listening to the Treasury; without even consulting Parliament. I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious matter. I believe, Mr. Speaker, Sir, those civil servants who gave a Press statement should sit back and find out whether they are really protecting themselves or whether they are helping themselves or whether they are just blaming themselves. I am sure we are helping them in this House by telling them their mistakes. It is pointless to go to the Press and start talking about the salaries which the Members of Parliament increased for themselves; just trying to cover up an issue in which they have made an error.

I should say that if they have any complaints to make, they should have made them through their relevant Ministers and that the relevant Ministers would have come here and made their cases clear. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to go to the Press and, say, you condemn the attitude of Members of Parliament— After all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, those same civil servants, some of them voted for us in the election and we are back in this House. It does not matter how many times they go to the Press, we might still come back. So, I think it is pointless. Therefore, if they think that they have a problem, let them go to their senior officers and work together and make sure that they do not overspend without the authority of this Parliament.

However, I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is much more to this. When we really want to control the finances of Government, we must make sure that when we are in those positions, we sit on the chair. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is surprising if you walked into certain offices: the files are there on the table, but somebody is handling something about a farm in Nakuru, his farm in Nyeri, his house in Mombasa and about four hours of his time he has taken in doing his private business. So, what do you see next? A file which has been sent to him to read; he just looks at it and then he asks the officer who sent it, "What were you talking about inside here? I think it looks good."

[The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting]

Then he signed it. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not a healthy sign. Some very good civil servants sit and read; they see what their officers are recommending and they take action, but some, Mr. Speaker, their positions are really appalling. It is high time a method is found and, if necessary, sack them from their jobs so that we have clean, good service. Mr. Speaker, Sir, so that we do not have the whole of the Civil Service blamed because of the mistakes of a few. Just a few lazy—I call them lazy civil servants who are making the whole Civil Service be blamed, because they do not want to do their job. What happens to the good civil servants? They say that they are doing their job properly but they are being criticized because of the laziness of the lazy civil servants and so, they shall also be lazy. Now, this is not a healthy sign. I think, Mr. Speaker, we must consider how much private business a public servant can go into. Even if you are a Minister, Mr. Speaker, on 37 boards you cannot perform your duties there effectively. I do not see how a civil servant—let me give an example of a provincial commissioner, Mr. Speaker, suppose he is living in Nyeri and owns shambas in Kisumu, in Mombasa and Nakuru, what has he to do? He has either to do the farming by telephone, as we are told some do, or he has just to forget the office and go to his shambas. Therefore, what happens to his office? The office is left alone. When an hon. Member says that the civil servant does both, then, one of the duties must slip off his hands because he has to think about his tractors, his cattle, his labourers and so on, and lastly is when he thinks about the province.

I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the whole system—When the Select Committee sits down the Controller and Auditor-General should be in a position to advise which ways and means will help so that money is not spent without the authority of this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will also see the other type of civil servants who, by virtue of having been too long in that office, I think, have become what I might call old-fashioned and tired. If it is necessary, Mr. Speaker, Sir, they should be slowly retired. I think there is one tendency, Mr. Speaker, we take certain civil servants who perhaps we know are not efficient to Statutory Boards. This is the big danger, Mr. Speaker, which we might also put ourselves into. When they get onto these statutory boards a few mistakes are bound to take place. Where do we send them next? We do not know and I hope that God will help us one day.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this Select Committee is convinced by the Report they have that certain civil servants need to be retired so that the rest can do a good job—I think this is one of the things I would welcome, myself to see done. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is one thing more on why some of these officers should not blame this House very much. There is always overspending in the Recurrent Expenditure. This is the surprising part of it. On development, money is always returned. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a surprising aspect where one can afford to spend money in the normal way which is not for development but the money for development is not overspent. The money is not spent at all but it is taken back to the Treasury and he says that the work was too much. How much work does he do in the office if he does not do any job for development; I think, Mr. Speaker, that we must look at it this way. I would have had great sympathy if after reading the Report I was convinced that all this money which was overspent without the authority of Parliament was for development. How much of the overspent money was for development? Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want to find out what is happening.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in one of the pages in the Report of the Controller and Auditor-General—he recommends that a certain officer ordered goods and was invoiced, a voucher was made and the money was paid but the goods were collected 20 months later. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious matter which I think if those Senior Civil Servants Association officials were serious they could look into their own Civil Service. I think we must commend the Kenya National Union of Teachers because when their members go wrong they always tell them. They do not just defend them. I think this is why the teachers union is very popular and very effective. This civil servants union is—when you touch a civil servant, Mr. Speaker; they all come around you but when they are back-biting hon. Members of Parliament they feel they are doing glory in this world. Why should they not, also, let us do our own. If they are wrong let us tell them. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that instead of them trying to clarify their position in the Press they should see that they do not repeat the same mistake next year and they will definitely get congratulations from this House. If they continue to make the same mistakes, I think Mr. Speaker, they will not get the congratulations from this House. I hope this Select Committee which is going to sit and find ways and means of controlling the overexpenditure would recommend very strict measures so that if somebody plays about with money he is surcharged.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me come to another point which hon. Members here, perhaps, might not be aware of. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I agree—

Mr. Akumu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I am anxious to know, Mr. Speaker, if the Assistant Minister is telling us that it is impossible for the Ministers today to control civil servants working under them. They need more power.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is not a point of order, Mr. Akumu.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me leave that hon. Member who belongs to the Central Organization of Trade Unions alone because he needs to sort out the mess in his own house properly.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, let me come to another point. Here I do agree that a Minister is responsible for running the Ministry, and he is answerable to this House as the hon. Member over there was questioning, but let us look at it this way. How many times does a Minister look at the vouchers which are being made? Let us be honest. There is no point in a Minister or an Assistant Minister coming here to say that he is responsible for the accounts. How many times do we see those vouchers? After travelling to Mombasa and back and I want a voucher, before that same civil servant signs the voucher hon. Kase does not get the money. Let us have the facts clear. I agree that when a Ministry overspent in 1966/67, the Minister should feel ashamed and should tell the civil servants that they are making a mistake and ask them to amend it. When you come here and say that the Minister is completely responsible for this over-expenditure, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to differ with anybody who says that, because when a Minister makes a claim that is more than required, the civil servant should be courageous to tell the Minister that the claim is not in order and he will not pay it. They are very courageous to do this. Why can they not be courageous when they are overspending and tell one another?

The hon. Member from Kwale Central is asking me whether it is true. I have lived long enough here and, I think, I know better about this. Mr. Speaker, I feel that as much as we here would like to blame the Ministers, I think that any Ministry which keeps on overspending money year after year should feel ashamed and the Minister should control his civil servants. On the other hand, Mr. Speaker, the matter does really lie on the civil servants. This matter does not lie on politicians but it is upon the civil servants because in the final analysis the one who answers the questions from the Public Accounts Committee is the civil servant.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, let us look at this point. Do we really want to do a job because looking through the Report of the Public Accounts Committee we have seen very luxurious chairs bought? Very luxurious and I mean that, Mr. Speaker. Are we going to the offices for luxury or are we going to the offices to work for this Government? How many of our wananchi are sitting on those chairs, Mr. Speaker? Some of the wananchi are walking naked today, as I speak. Some of them have one piece of cloth to put on and we, here, think in terms of very luxurious chairs that if we do not sit on luxurious chairs our buttocks will pain us. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is something interesting here. One day I travelled to somebody's home who used to live in Nairobi. He used to tell them that he could not go to work without taking tea in the morning. But when I went to his home, Mr. Speaker, the house in which he was living left much to be desired. I think if we want to work for this nation, Mr. Speaker, we must make sacrifices. We must devote ourselves even if it means working overtime—after all, all of us here are employed for 24 hours and instead of us thinking in terms of having a carpet for the office so that it looks dignified, having big luxurious chairs to sit on, the table must look very big—I think this is not what we are looking for, Mr. Speaker. Even if you work under a tree and give us the fruits—the goods we want—I think this is all that we want from the Civil Service.

I would, therefore, Mr. Speaker, appeal to all those in the Civil Service to make sure that where they think that their friends are going wrong they should advise them. But, I think it will be wrong for we, hon. Members of this House, to condemn all of them wholesale.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the last gentleman I would like to thank is the Controller and Auditor-General. Like what has been said by my colleagues, I think this gentleman needs to be congratulated wholeheartedly because if it was not for this man, all of us in this House would have never known where money was overspent without our authority. I think and I do hope, Mr. Speaker, that the Controller and Auditor-General will continue, in future, to show to this House what is wrong in the Government system where money is not being spent properly. I also hope that, because of pressure from his fellow civil servants, he might not feel guilty and refuse to expose them. I do hope, Mr. Speaker, that with the courage he has had before to question and scrutinize Government expenditure, to criticize his fellow civil servants, he will in future continue to do so. By, so doing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, he will be doing our job.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to come to the point which was raised by some friends of mine as to what the Motion will do or how effective it will be. Now, Mr. Speaker, we say that we control the expenditure of this Government. Yes, we do.

An hon. Member: In which way?

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): We are given the powers to do so in the Constitution. But what do we do, Mr. Speaker? Estimates are presented to us by the Minister for Finance. How many Estimates have we ever amended in this House? We have never even said that certain projects should be started in such and such a place. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that when the Estimates are made, be they Development Expenditure or Recurrent Expenditure, we should have our Parliamentary Committee of Estimates to sit, Mr. Speaker, so that they can see where under-estimation is taking place. This is one way through which we can avoid over-expenditure. It should be stipulated somewhere that this regulation must work. But this question of living in piecemeal form, Mr. Speaker, might not help us. There should be some time, Mr. Speaker, when the Estimates Committee of Parliament sits and talks to certain Government officers from various Ministries, question them whether the money they are being given by the Treasury is finished, whether the money they are requesting from the Treasury is enough and if it is not enough why they cannot do some amendments. If we do not marry these two things, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we might not solve the problem, and if we do not solve that problem we shall still have overexpenditure. I do feel myself that there is something wrong, Mr. Speaker. When I estimate that in the next Financial Year I shall spend £70,000 and when I come to spend I see that I need an additional £50,000, there must be something wrong in my head, Mr. Speaker. If there has never been any emergency, then it means that I was incapable of preparing those estimates. This is what we do not want to see, Mr. Speaker. Instead of confining these estimates to a few people in the Treasury or to a few officers within the Ministries who are sent to the Treasury to negotiate these funds, we should make it broader, Mr. Speaker, whereby a group of people—and especially parliamentarians here who talk freely without thinking in terms of how much money will be spent but in terms of whether a certain project would be worthwhile in the following year or not—I am sure, if we get to these stages, Mr. Speaker, we shall help our country. But, if we do not do this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we might not help ourselves. I sincerely hope, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that all of us who have heard what hon. Members have said will take this into their heads and hope that in future we shall not repeat these mistakes.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Nthenge: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir, for giving me this chance to speak on this Motion which is a very clear Motion, and a Motion which is asking Members about something which is very important.

First of all, the Motion talks of, and I quote:—

“THAT this House approves the recommendations contained in Part I Reports of the Public Accounts Committee . . . etc.”

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have to adopt and approve this Report because it is worthwhile. This Motion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, was amended; a lot of other words were added to it. These words are words which are very important, and are words which show that something should be done because it originates from our mistakes. To make a mistake, I agree, is human and anybody can make mistakes, Mr. Speaker. There are many ways of making mistakes, Mr. Speaker, Sir. One, you may make a mistake purely because of ignorance. In such a case any judge, although ignorance is no defence, will always pass his sentence with great leniency because it is purely due to ignorance. Two, one could make a mistake due to negligence. Simply because somebody neglects to check his figures, he makes a mistake. A mistake made through negligence is a greater mistake than the one made through ignorance. Three, one could make a mistake because of a show-down or with the intention of harming somebody. This is, strictly speaking, not a mistake. It is just purported to be a mistake but the intention is to annoy somebody else. Mr. Speaker, Sir, most of these mistakes which are contained in this Report are made in that manner. You can either pretend it is a mistake because you want to steal, or because you want to cheat or you can make a mistake because you want to harm somebody somewhere.

[Mr. Nthenge]

That is a different kind of mistake and it is worse than the first two, Mr. Speaker; the one of ignorance and the other one of negligence. A mistake with an intention of harming somebody is very great, Mr. Speaker. Most of the mistakes which we see here in this Report fall in the third category which is very harmful, Mr. Speaker. There is also a very big element of a show-down, Mr. Speaker. Somebody knows very well that he cannot spend money which does not belong to him but belongs to the public, Mr. Speaker. To that effect there is a spokesman of the public and that spokesman is this hon. Parliament. This hon. Parliament is the spokesman of the public, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Somebody knows that the money is not his, it belongs to the public, the spokesman has not given its okay and yet he spends it. That is what Mr. Speaker, I call a different kind of mistake. It is a mistake that goes very deep, Mr. Speaker. One simply makes a mistake while he knows that he is making a mistake. That person requires a great punishment, Mr. Speaker. There is no single senior servant who does not know that we are the custodians of public funds, and before he goes on spending these public funds, he should check with the custodians whether he is right or wrong. Some of the civil servants have failed to recognize the importance of a Minister. They say, "Who is a Minister after all. I am more educated than he is. He told me to be careful but who is he after all. I run a better car than himself". All sorts of things do appear, Mr. Speaker. These civil servants have these feelings, Mr. Speaker. They make such mistakes, Mr. Speaker, Sir, through such backgrounds. These people, Mr. Speaker, Sir, say, "That House is full of fools. Who are they after all. They are not as learned as myself". These are the kinds of mistakes which I am mainly speaking on. I am worried because I know this is what is happening. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I happen to have a special privilege and that is that I know human beings from A to Z. I have been the lowest type of a man, Mr. Speaker. I have been a hawker and have risen from a hawker to a Member of Parliament, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Time is up, you will continue next time.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

CREATION OF HOUSING MANAGER'S POST BY
NAIROBI CITY COUNCIL

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will a Minister please move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Power and Communications
(Mr. Ngala) seconded.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to speak on this very important Motion, which arose as a result of the question I asked the Minister for Local Government in connexion with the newly created post of the Housing Manager in the Nairobi City Council. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the reply given to this House by the Minister fell far short of the expectations of this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, after the Minister had made a series of statements in the House and laid various papers on the Table of this House, the Director of Social Services and Housing of the Nairobi City Council wrote an article which appeared in the Daily Nation of Wednesday, the 17th of March, this year, of which the heading was to the effect that I was against that post. However, this was overruled. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you read the contents of the article, which I do not want to tire the House by quoting, except perhaps later when I will quote just a few paragraphs, you will learn and understand very clearly that the councillors of the City Council who approved the appointment of this particular post were motivated in my view, by tribal feelings, as I clearly expressed, and which the Minister laboured to challenge. However, Mr. Speaker, I said that out of the councillors who voted in favour of this appointment in the City Council, 11 councillors represented all the other tribes, but the rest, who were, in fact, the majority—and this is the whole mistake of the Nairobi City Council—were all from one tribe plus one. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I must, however, say that the plus one can be clearly and correctly said to be allies of the Kikuyu tribe and, therefore, they are not different from them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is the problem we are having in various departments when an issue which concerns the nation and the country as a whole is decided and the judgment influenced by tribal consideration. Mr. Speaker, Sir, there were a great deal of rumours immediately after this post was created to which the Minister, as we read in today's newspapers, has already given his sanction. Mr. Speaker, the rumours have been that the whole idea of creating this post is to deny members of other tribes the right of owning the City Council houses in Nairobi, with a political motive that when the time comes for the registration of the voters in the various municipal wards, and it happens that you do not reside in a particular estate, then you are automatically disqualified from being a voter in that particular area. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, because the post is headed by a Kikuyu, who has been influenced by most of the Kikuyus in the City Council, the rest of the Kenyans will have to lose the right of receiving housing from the Nairobi City Council. Now, Sir, this is the whole trouble with our nation. Mr. Speaker, when I put forward this question, I thought the Minister for Local Government would see sense and realize that we are trying to create a country where tribal consideration must not influence our decisions.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in fact, the hon. Minister has had a very bad record in this particular aspect. I am saying this, Sir, because if you take into account the several requests that the House has made to the Minister not to take a decision which has been influenced by tribal considerations, he has always refused and evaded the facts, and several examples can be given. Mr. Speaker, Sir, last year we had the question of the 12 heads of secondary schools around Nairobi, where he, in fact, instead of Africanizing these heads of secondary schools, he Kikuyunized them. Mr. Speaker, this is terrible! He has now jumped into another very sensitive Ministry of Local Government. What do we see? He is making the same mistakes he made when he was in the Ministry of Education. Mr. Speaker, this is terrible, and I would like to ask, in fact, His Excellency, through this House to consider really the position of this particular hon. Minister. I am saying this, Mr. Speaker, because he is becoming too notorious and the worst tribalist. Mr. Speaker, when we were together in the Ministry of Education, again, in the City Council here, there was another post of the City Education Officer, and his predecessor had categorically refused to appoint the gentleman who holds this post now because he insisted that he needed a graduate for that particular post. When the Minister took over, he went straight-away and sanctioned the post. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is very serious, and what do we see in some of the schools now? I have heard from several school-children, Mr. Speaker, in these mixed schools under the City Council that the "good morning" is always in Kikuyu. This is terrible.

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

An hon. Member: You are wasting time for nothing.

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): I am not wasting time.

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you sit down!

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the first place, officers of the City Council are appointed by the Ministry of Local Government, and therefore the post the hon. Member is referring to, when he and I were in the Ministry of Education, was confirmed by the Ministry of Local Government. Secondly, Mr. Speaker, we are talking about the post of the Housing Manager, and I do not think that all these other aspects arise.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, we must confine ourselves to the issue at hand. This is, in fact, a requirement of the Standing Orders. There is no need for introducing extraneous matters. If you can make a case on your own problem now, that will be sufficient.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I was trying to emphasize was that point so as to show the Minister that he should, in fact, try to clean his record because this is what we have been seeing wherever he has been. I am not trying to mix up the issue because I know this quite clearly, and this is, in fact, not helping him. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like the Minister to know that the Report he tabled in the House where it is said that the director did agree on the creation of this particular post, I have read both reports, one by the director himself, where, in fact, he did recommend very important changes and these were, and I am sure you have read in that newspaper, rejected and overruled by the Council. What we see, Mr. Speaker, is the other report that the Minister has now sanctioned the creation of the post. This report was not from the Director of Social Services and Housing, but was from the Organizations and Methods Officer. This is now the Report that the Minister has approved and this is serious because all that the report is asking for is the creation of a particular post just to suit one individual but not really improving efficiency or introducing any changes in the City Council Housing Department. This is what the Director of Social Services and Housing had recommended.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I read one particular comment here from this particular report, he says: "It is not considered that the time has come to recommend to council that a separate housing department be set up at present. This decision is arrived after having regard to the size and number of the housing problems, which forbid the creation of another housing department—"

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Your time is over. Who is supporting you?

Mr. Akumu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in supporting the Motion, even if the Minister had a full council backing, the ill-feeling that the creation of this office has caused in Nairobi, and the fear it has caused among the residents of Nairobi and particularly the workers is great. If this is challenged, I will produce a petition here that workers fear that there would be tribalism when it comes to the allocation of houses. We feel that the Minister should have taken this one into consideration, and more so when the House here expressed very strong views that creating this office would not be in the interests of this nation, and even more so since there are no houses to be allocated by this Housing Manager.

Why do I say the feeling is so strong and should not have been ignored? This move was made first on 8th May 1970, not by the Director of Social Services, but by the Chairman of the Housing Committee, who was, then, Mr. Waitthaka. In his reply, the Director of Social Services and Housing informed the Committee that as a head of the department, members of the council should approach him in regard to all housing problems. In reply to complaints of people who were on the waiting list for long, he said there were no houses to allocate. He did not, in these minutes here of 8th May 1970, say that this department should be created.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, also, to show that there has been a strong feeling about the issue, the Government of Kenya nominated a representative in the council, and this is in the name of the District Commissioner, Nairobi. In the Finance Committee recommendation, based on a meeting held on 20th January 1971, the district commissioner registered his objection to the creation of this job, and indicated very clearly and recommended very strongly that this is likely to cause ill-feeling, and even flare up bad tribal feelings. In the main council, because they were pressed, he was not able to register his objection, but he abstained from voting with the council. That is a very important point.

Now, it is important to state whether or not we are not asking the Minister the impossible. Are we asking him to do the impossible? The answer is no, Mr. Speaker, Sir. There has been precedence, as the newspapers have said. There has been the occasions when the Rolls Royce was approved by the council, but Ministers have ruled against this. Therefore, this House and what our people are voicing here is as if the council has passed something, which this House, or for that matter the Minister, who is supposed to reflect the national feeling, feel that this is likely to generate more tribal bitterness and ill-feelings and we expect the Minister to act in the interests of the nation and thereby reject the proposal of the City Council. That he did in the case of the Rolls Royce.

Now, why do I say this and why have I stood to correct this? It is because I have gone through the minutes and I have tried to meet some councillors. In the trade union movement we have four councillors. One of them is councillor Murugu, the other one is councillor Ong'ero; Murugu happens to be a Kikuyu; councillor Ong'ero happens to be a Mluhya, and we have two councillors who are Luo; one is councillor Ochino and the other is councillor Omoth. They used to go there and speak as representatives of the workers; but because of this ill-feeling, these people do not even speak to each other. Is this what we want to create; is this a spirit of Harambee?

Hon. Members: No!

Mr. Akumu: I think we want to appeal to the Minister that it is in the interests of the nation, even if there were 28 votes against 11, supporting the creation of this post, we want to ask him, Mr. Speaker, as the Minister responsible, that he should rescind this decision. In any case, the Housing Manager has no houses to allocate, and it is not fair that the salary of £2,400 is going to be spent that way; it would be better spent in clearing Mathare Valley and other places, where people lack houses.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I want to appeal, once again, that there is a very strong case for rescinding the decision of appointing a Housing Manager. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have taken into very deep consideration the points that have been made by the Mover of this Motion, and also his Second. It is unfortunate that Motions on the Adjournment are always given such a brief time that not enough Members get an opportunity to air their views. I will try, myself, to confine my remarks, as much as I can, to the substance of the Motion, and not go outside, as much as I would have liked to, because the hon. Mover was my Assistant Minister and, therefore—

Hon. Members: He knew you very well!

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): I hope the hon. Members will also allow me to speak without interjections, because I did not interject except when I asked for the hon. Members to keep to the substance of the Motion.

In the first place, I would like to make it very clear that no new department of housing had been created and, therefore, the report that was read by the hon. Mover, that no separate department be created, is absolutely correct. When we had the suggestion that some people wanted a separate housing department in the City Council just because they felt that perhaps because we have the Ministry of Housing, therefore, we should also have a separate department of housing, that was not approved, either by the chief officers of the City Council or by ourselves. Therefore, there is no question of a new department being created. I said that very clearly when I was replying to the hon. Member's question, so—

[The Minister for Local Government]

An hon. Member: What about the Manager's post?

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, I am coming to all these points; I hope that my friends will show patience, so that they can evaluate the situation after I have finished my remarks. Therefore, that is one point that the House must be clear on.

After that was done, it then came to the question of re-allocation and re-organization of duties within the department of social services and housing, and the paper I laid here— One of the three papers I laid on the Table was the paper by the Director himself, indicating the way he would like to see the housing section of his department re-organized and, as I stated at that time—and I shall go even to the details that the hon. Mover has said—he suggested, in that particular report, the housing manager and his duties, but there were also other suggestions; it is not a one-page paper, it is about three or four pages and the hon. Mover has a copy as to how these duties could be re-organized and even what scale of salary the person doing this job might receive. That report was followed by another report which I laid on the Table of the House, which the hon. Mover has quoted, and which was by an office known as the Office of Organization and Methods. It was this report that suggested the re-organization of the Housing Section of the same department. This one was followed by a comment—which the hon. Member has read—by the Director of Housing and Social Services himself, criticizing the proposals by Organization and Methods. In one place they all agreed that no separate department was to be created. They were mainly arguing on how to re-organize the duties of assigning houses to the tenants, assigning hire-purchase; who would do such kinds of work—just what the duties would be of various people working in the department. That was much of the debate.

However, as this went on, it all came to the question, of at what level— Both groups having agreed that there would be a Housing Manager, but disagreeing on the specification of duties, it then came as to what he was going to be in the hierarchy of the department. I believe the Director of Housing and Social Services himself had suggested—if I am technically wrong I am sure the Mover will check in the report—something like Scale 8, which is not a very high scale. The Council suggested Scale 3 or 4. Scale 3 is now the salary of the Deputy Director of Housing and Social Services; Scale 4 is the salary of the Assistant Director of Housing and Social Services. It was at this stage that the debate got hot. The conclusion of the council was that there shall be a Housing Manager and he shall be a person occupying the present position of an Assistant Director of Housing and Social Services—only that—instead of being an assistant, generally helping the Director, he shall have the duties of housing assigned to him and that his salary would be Scale 4, which is the current salary of the Assistant Director of Housing and Social Services, which he is already receiving. It is already being received by whoever is the Assistant Director of Housing and Social Services. Therefore, there has not been any supplementary estimate sent to my Ministry for approval. It is a salary of £2,400, already being paid to that post of the Assistant Director of Housing and Social Services.

Sir, the hon. Mover—I wanted to make that point clear due to the fact that the hon. Mr. Akumu was talking about extra money that will be spent in this reorganization. No extra money has been asked for; no extra money will be approved. It is one of the Assistant Directors of Housing and Social Services who will be assigned the work of looking after houses. I must also make it clear that above him there will be a Deputy Director of Housing and Social Services, and above this one there will be the Director of Housing and Social Services himself. Therefore, whatever he will do in his sub-section—if I may call it so—will still be under the Director of Housing and Social Services. No separate department has been allowed; no separate department will be allowed; no extra money is being paid. This is what I wanted to make very, very clear to the House because this is not what is being said outside.

Now, Sir, we come to the question of the person whom as I said is equivalent to an Assistant Director. There are rumours that this person's duties will be to fill the houses with people from one area. Now, in the first place, Mr. Speaker, the Director of Social Services and Housing will continue to be there. If anyone among his subordinates, begins to play a game like that, he will certainly come under the disciplinary action of the Director. This should be made very clear.

Hon. Members: How? Question!

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Sir, let me also say this: if an officer is junior to another, it would appear to me that—and I do not want to make any implications on rumours because this is simply a way of arguing one way against the other—I cannot agree, and in fact I cannot envisage, in this big city of ours, all people being denied a house by an officer who is under the Director of Social Services and Housing for purposes such as were implied by the hon. Mover. This kind of suspicion—Are we to believe that if somebody is from Western Province, then people from outside that province will never get services from that person? Mr. Speaker, are we going to believe that if somebody is from a certain province all the houses will go that way? I think if we are going to operate our Government, Sir—

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of information—

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Information? Well, I will allow it.

Mr. Munyasia: Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to set an example here. Today, I had a lady, a Mukamba, who went to the Housing Department and she was told by a Kikuyu, "If you prefer to work, we have no house; you choose one of these two things, either you resign and go home or you work without a house".

An hon. Member: You see that?

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): Mr. Speaker, as I said, I am always ready, as the hon. Members know, to listen to any genuine cases; I have also been denied a house myself. I was trying to get a house for one of my employees and I was even ready to pay the down payment, Sir, but they could not get the house for me although I am the Minister concerned; I did not say, "You must get me a house".

So, I also have been turned down, Sir, in an attempt to get a house for somebody although I was even ready to pay the down payment required for tenant-purchase houses. Even I even sent another note this morning trying to get a certain Government driver a house and I was informed that there were no houses available irrespective of the tribe of the driver.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Sir, I know that under the Standing Orders a Motion like this one is only allowed 30 minutes. In view of the gravity of the Motion, which is causing a national crisis, shall I be in order to ask that we extend time so that we can get the opportunity to speak on this same subject?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This issue was raised here, we took quite a lot of time, we have had the Mover's side and now we are about to conclude the Minister's side. Such an action having been taken, there is hardly anything you are likely to add to this now except just repeating, perhaps, your complaints. Again we have another difficulty. No notice was given to our HANSARD Team and we cannot do anything now because they come in on shifts. As you can see we have only one person there and it was expected that we shall close on time. We cannot do anything now.

The Minister for Local Government (Dr. Kiano): So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was saying that I do not, therefore agree with the Mover of this Motion.

Hon. Members: Shame! Shame!

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is now time for the interruption of business. The House is now adjourned until tomorrow Thursday, 25th March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at Seven o'clock.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 208

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY DISPENSARY

Mr. Nthenge asked the Minister of State, President's Office to tell the House why they did not have an infirmary or dispensary with a doctor attached to it for the use of Members of the National Assembly similar to those in parliaments in other countries.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not considered advisable to have an infirmary or a dispensary for the exclusive use of the Members of the National Assembly.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can we know why it is not considered reasonable and where was it said that we wanted it for the exclusive use of the Members of the National Assembly?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of the reasons is that it will involve money, personnel and many other things. Secondly, the Government of Kenya does not initiate things or projects because some other countries are doing so. I hope that the hon. Member is not implying that the hon. Members of this House are so unhealthy as to require a dispensary. For the information of the hon. Member, an infirmary is defined as a place for the care of the sick, injured or infirm. It is my considered opinion that our hon. Members of this House are among the healthiest people in this world.

Mr. Wachira: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that most of the Ministers are so fat and they are likely to have heart attack, does the Assistant Minister not think that the medical officer will help them if he were near to them?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that is not correct and what I would like to tell the hon. Member is that he is one of the healthiest Members we have in this House.

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of that reply by the Assistant Minister, does he agree with me or not that this particular question does cover him too, as a Member of this Chamber?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have already replied, we have hospitals and dispensaries all over Nairobi and it is not advisable that we should have one dispensary which should be attached to Parliament buildings or, for that matter, which will only be treating Members of Parliament.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, does the Assistant Minister agree with me that one single Member of Parliament would delay the business of this House, costing the country so much, if he went to a far place for treatment and yet he would not do so if we had an infirmary nearby where he could get a quick treatment and come back to the House?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not true because we have hospitals everywhere in Nairobi, we also have dispensaries. If you move one mile, from here, you will get to a dispensary.

Question No. 158 (1485)

MONEY SPENT ON KERIO VALLEY EXPERIMENTAL PROJECT

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister for Agriculture whether he could tell the House exactly how much money had been spent by his Ministry on Kerio Valley Experimental Project since it was started.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is not clear what experimental project in the Kerio Valley the hon. Member is referring to. If the hon. Member is asking about the on-going small-scale experimental projects in the Kerio Valley, the answer to it is that these experiments are still continuing at the rate of £2,000 per annum. On the other hand, there is a general Kerio Valley Development Project, in the same area, which is a comprehensive project and falls under the special rural development committees of Elgeyo and Baringo and these are currently drafting plans to be submitted to the national rural development committee for review and as soon as this is approved, work will start.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell us how soon he thinks these reports will be given, because we are very interested in this comprehensive report?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member, by virtue of his Membership in this House, is a member of these district committees and I would urge him to push these committees to bring their reports so that we can deal with them immediately.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answers given by the Assistant Minister, is the Assistant Minister aware that so many experimental plots and projects have been carried out in the Kerio Valley for the last 30 years and up to this time nothing has been done as a result of these experiments? Could he tell this House how much longer we are going to continue with these experiments without any action to follow them up?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can understand the anxiety of the hon. Member, who wants quick action. I cannot agree that the Kerio Valley people can complain because already some work has been going on and is still going on. All that we are saying is that if the hon. Members want specific things to be carried out by this Government, it is up to them to come forward with suggestions.

For instance, over the last few years we have been trying to find out whether cotton, groundnuts, canna, cassava and castor seed could grow or not in these areas. Now, we have the useful information which we wanted and it is up to the leaders in that district to come forward and tell us which of these things they want. If they want water, let them say so and we can start—

Mr. Murgor: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, these experiments— I am seeking your guidance whether the Minister is in order to confuse the House—on groundnuts and other crops have always been carried out there ever since I was a schoolboy. Now, how much more time do they still want before they get into action and get things going? Sir, when I was a schoolboy going to and from school, groundnuts were being experimented, including cotton and so on. For how long do we have to wait for these experiments to end?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! You have already made your point Mr. Murgor. Next question.

Question No. 203

ALLEGED CORRUPTION IN NAKURU COUNTY COUNCIL

Mr. O'Washika asked the Minister for Local Government if he would tell the House what action he had taken as a result of an open letter addressed to him by three councillors of Nakuru Municipal Council asking him to institute a commission of inquiry to investigate the alleged corruption in the council as reported in the Daily Nation of Friday, October 9th 1970.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to emphasize that as the hon. Member has clearly stated, this was an open letter the contents of which were obviously exposed for public consumption. There were, therefore, no details regarding specific cases of the alleged corruption and it is consequently very difficult to institute a commission of inquiry without first consulting with the council. The Minister, therefore, asked the Mayor to meet him at his office on this matter and on 21st October 1970, the Minister met a delegation of four councillors and two senior council officials headed by the Deputy Mayor who gave him their detailed report on the circumstances surrounding the alleged corruption. The allegation seems to have emanated from one or two individual councillors dissatisfied with the municipal council's decision to discontinue the services of the former Director of Social Services, Mr. John Omumbo.

However, the Ministry is satisfied that the case of the Director of Social Services was properly investigated and the action taken by the Nakuru Municipal Council to retire him was justified. This action has already received the approval of both the Ministry of Labour and the Local Government Workers' Union which had previously threatened strike action.

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of that reply by the Assistant Minister, I would have liked the Minister, himself, to answer. If the Minister met the Mayor and there was a discussion over this affair, how does the public know that the Minister is satisfied that the alleged corruption did not take place? Why has that report not been publicized to the public so that we know what went on?

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is no requirement that the public should know what went on—

Hon. Members: No! No!

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the point here is that there are certain matters which are so personal and if it were so necessary that all those should be made public, they might not be in the interests of the person concerned.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would it not be in order for hon. O'Washika, rather than generalizing, to declare his interest on this question and be honest to the House?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! No, Mr. Mwithaga, you have to say on what grounds you think he should declare his interest.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, despite the statement the hon. Member is referring to, which came from the council, hon. O'Washika brought this question deliberately—I am saying this with authority—just because of an officer who was sacked out of an issue of corruption and it is a matter that he knows and has an interest in it. He knows it.

Hon. Members: What interest?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What interest, that is the question?

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the former Director of Social Services, Mr. John Omumbo, was sacked from the Municipality, he came to this House and first saw me and tried to find out whether this matter could be raised in the House. Then, Sir, he moved on to hon. John O'Washika and that is why I am saying that he should declare interest because—

Mr. Nthenge: He was bringing it as a Member of Parliament.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! Mr. Mwithaga you have been here long enough to know what it is that is required when you challenge somebody to declare his interest. You must show that he has a personal interest or some pecuniary interest of some sort in the matter. It is not enough just to say that because he interested himself in a problem therefore he had an interest. Of course, every questioner here has an interest in the question he asks. So, you must tell us more. Mr. O'Washika have you asked your question?

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have been challenged by the hon. Member for Nakuru Town to declare my interest—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! We are not going to have challenges. If you have no questions, that is enough.

Mr. O'Washika: Now, the point, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that as far as I am concerned I have nothing to do with Nakuru Municipal Council whatsoever. I raised this particular question as a nationalist. It is only my friend Mark Mwithaga who has an interest because he is a Member of that particular council. I have not done so because I am a Member of Parliament representing area; he is—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you then desist from making those remarks? Mr. Nthenge ask your question.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister not tell us why he feels that the public should not be concerned with corruption which in the end will interfere with public funds? These are public funds and yet the same public is being denied to know what is going on.

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think that I said that the public should not be concerned. I thought the hon. Member had asked whether the public had been informed. That is why I said that it was necessary that the public should be informed.

Mr. Boy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, where he says that this was an open letter written to the Minister and that it was published in the papers, do you not think that it would have been proper if the Minister publicized the discussions between himself, the Mayor and the Deputy Mayor?

Mr. Munoko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think that is necessary.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 202

UNSCRUPULOUS ORGANIZATIONS DECEIVING AFRICANS

Mr. Mulwa asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House whether, since our illiterate Africans were being exploited mercilessly by the unscrupulous organizations which deceive them that they would give them jobs on payment of some money and since it was the Government's responsibility to protect its citizens against such persons, the Minister would arrange with the Minister for Information and Broadcasting to have a small programme on the radio for purely warning or educating our fellow Africans against consulting such bodies.

The Minister for Labour (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am aware of and concerned with the exploitation, by some unscrupulous organizations, particularly in large towns, who receive money from job-seekers in the hope of finding jobs for them. A number of these organizations known as "Labour Consultants" are registered under the Companies Act. My Ministry, on its part, has done its best to dissuade the unfortunate wananchi from being their victims. I have no doubt all those concerned know that free employment services are provided by my Ministry in the way of obtaining employment for job-seekers as well as assisting wrongfully dismissed workers. As the hon. Member has rightly pointed out, it is often the illiterate people who continue to pay money to these consultants against our advice and thus deny themselves the opportunity of our free services. I agree that there is need to expose these vile practices through the use of mass media and the advice of the hon. Member in this connexion is well taken.

In the meantime, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the employers and also job-seekers will be advised by me, once again, not to deal with these labour consultants but to recruit or seek recruitment through the Government Labour Offices.

[The Minister for Labour]

I expect, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Members of this House will also help warn and educate the wananchi in their respective constituencies accordingly.

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the hon. Minister for Labour be specific and tell this House what is easier, to ban the "labour consultants", or the so-called "labour consultants", so that they do not exist and do not exploit our poor Africans, or to educate the 80 per cent of our illiterate Africans not to consult those bodies?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Members of Parliament, who actually pass amendments to the laws in this House, can help in two ways: either to cause an amendment to this Act or to educate their fellow Africans to use free services which we give them, which we always tell them to use. There are two ways. We have tried our best because we have done a research. My Ministry, Sir, having great concern on the question of unemployment, is trying to find ways and means of alleviating this and we have found out that one way or the other the employers do actually give a few job-seekers some work. So we are a bit reluctant to cut them off completely because in this way some people do get jobs.

Mr. Somo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Minister has admitted twice, in his original reply and in the second reply, that his Ministry has done its best, can he tell us "how best"? "How best" has he done to educate these people? "How best"?

Mr. Mwendwa: "How best"; how do I answer that? I will give an example of one instance that has taken place today, not tomorrow.

One of the Members from the Northern Frontier District came to my office today with two people who have been robbed of Sh. 37 by these people. I advised and told them that they had been wrong to go to these people when my labour officers were there to give free service. This is the help we give.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, whereas I do not like to quarrel with the Minister, could we seek your guidance on this matter?

When a Minister, on the Floor or the House, alleges that members of the public have been robbed of by an organization which has been legally registered under his Ministry, according to the law, could he as Minister in charge of Labour—on behalf of Government—go further and tell this House what steps he has taken to make sure that no more robberies of this nature will continue?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Karungaru, you must learn to distinguish between a question and a point of order.

I hope Members have received my circular letter. If you have not, it is still on the way. Therein, I have suggested how we can avoid some of these things, if we try.

Mr. Nyaga: Can the Minister undertake to bring the Act to this Parliament so that it is amended to take care of those job consultants as not to cheat our people?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, today's applause from the Members of Parliament does actually show me that there is a need for immediate amendment.

Question No. 157 (1484)

TITLE-DEEDS TO SABATIA COMPLEX RESIDENTS

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House—

(a) if he was aware of the fact that there were settlers at Sabatia Complex who had already paid their loans in full, but had not been given their title-deeds;

(b) if he could explain the reasons for not issuing these title-deeds.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) I am aware of the fact there are settlers in Sabatia Complex who have already paid their loans in full but have not yet been issued with their title-deeds.

(b) Hon. Members will appreciate that the Director of Surveys is making rapid progress with the survey of plots in settlement scheme areas and has to date surveyed and published a total of 29 settlement schemes although he has not yet dealt with the Sabatia Complex.

There are many demands for the survey of plots in various areas around the country, and all of these must be satisfied with a relatively small force of experienced staff surveyors. Hence the delay in issuing title-deeds even to those settlers who have completely paid their loans.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Arising from the answer by the Assistant Minister, Sir, that 29 settlement schemes have been surveyed, could he tell the House whether these people have been issued with title-deeds; and if so, why Sabatia was not included in this? When will these be surveyed?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, after the survey has been completed, the next stage is to prepare documents for issuing to the owners.

Mr. Cheserek: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he tell this House how long a plowholder has to wait, after paying his loan in full, before he gets his title-deeds?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, there is no time limit. When everything has been done, then the Government is ready to present these documents to the respective owners.

Mr. Barmalel: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that, and does he understand that, once they have completed their payments, these farmers might require to borrow more money for development of other things, and is it not a delay for these people by not giving them their title-deeds in order to allow them to go to the bank and obtain loans?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, the Government is much more aware than the hon. Member that these people need title-deeds in order to develop their plots. That is why I am saying that as soon as the documents are ready, the people the gentleman is talking about will be given their title-deeds.

Question No. 203A

REMOVAL OF SQUATTERS FROM VUGA,
KWALE DISTRICT

Mr. Boy asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House whether he was aware that 32 families staying at Vuga, in North Location of Kwale District, which is state land, were being removed by the Government and had nowhere to settle.

Since the families had been there for over 40 years, if the Government could consider—

(a) allowing the families to remain at their farms; and

(b) give them that part of the land.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The land concerned is Government land situated at Matuga, two miles north of Vuga. These families have been in unauthorized occupation of the portions of land concerned which is required by the Veterinary Department for a holding ground. Consequently, those families who are within the 9,000 acres now being fenced will have to leave the land. A settlement scheme has been under consideration in respect of adjoining privately owned farms and as soon as these have become the property of Government, it is the intention to implement a settlement scheme on the land. Accordingly, any persons displaced by the Veterinary Department should register with the Assistant Commissioner of Squatters, Coast, who will see if they can be accommodated on adjoining land.

Mr. Boy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that these families have been there for over 40 years and they have permanent crops on that land? What will happen to their crops if they have to move, and where will they go?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, the question of their crops will be taken care of. As I said, the Government has an alternative way of settling these people.

Mr. Mnene: Mr. Speaker, arising from the previous answer of the Assistant Minister, and since it is a fact that the Veterinary Department belongs to the Government, and the people of Vuga belong to the Government, how did this Government see fit to care for cattle and remove human beings?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government is taking care of the cattle, of movement of cattle and also of squatters. Therefore, there is no problem here.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister agree with me that it would be proper to tell this House that before they moved these people they would first find alternative settlement places for them?

An hon. Member: But why remove them to put cattle there?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: We have given an undertaking in this House that these people will be registered if they appear before the Assistant Commissioner for Squatters who is stationed in Mombasa.

At the same time, Sir, there is a farm adjoining that one which has been declared a mismanaged farm, and this is the farm Government is considering to give to these people.

Mr. Akumu: Would the Assistant Minister agree that it is cheaper to let the people stay on their land, where they have their crops and homes, and use the mismanaged farm as a holding ground for cattle?

Mr. G. G. Kariuki: Mr. Speaker, that suggestion is quite good but we have already done something else before the hon. Member came forward with this suggestion.

Question No. 197 (1549)

QUIT NOTICES TO EUROPEAN BUSINESSMEN

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House how many European businessmen traders had been served with quit notices in Nairobi during the period 1967-1970.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. 11 businesses owned by Europeans have been served with notices during the period 1967-1970. I would remind the House that there is a very small number of Europeans conducting businesses that fall under the definition of "business" as contained in the Trade Licensing Act. For this reason very few Europeans have been affected by the Act as compared with other communities like Asians.

[The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry]

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister tell the House whether or not the 11 traders or businessmen of European origin who were served with quit notices had the notices effected? In other words, did they quit?

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, I beg your pardon. I did not understand the question.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, the question was, if they were served with quit notices, did they leave the businesses? They could have been served with notices and stayed on. I wonder if even one of them is doing business or have they all quit?

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, it is normal, when a businessman has been served with a quit notice he has the right to appeal to the Appeals Committee. Some of these people did not appeal but there were some who did appeal. Of those who appealed, three had their licences granted again, but since then, of their own accord, two have closed down and one is still trading because of other reasons.

An hon. Member: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply given by the Assistant Minister, can he tell this House why his Ministry gives quit notices and allows the people who have been given quit notices to appeal against these notices?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is a different question altogether.

Question No. 198 (1550)

AFRICANIZATION OF GOLD TRADE IN THE COUNTRY

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House how he intended to Africanize the gold trade in the country's main towns.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The gold trade is controlled by the Government and no individual trader can buy or sell gold without authority from the Government. Importation of gold is restricted to only goldsmiths who are allowed to import only the amount they require for manufacturing purposes.

As a goldsmith is an artisan it will not be possible to Africanize this trade until we have enough African artisans to provide the services currently provided by non-African goldsmiths.

Mr. Mulwa: Can the Assistant Minister tell the House what steps he is taking to make sure that we have these Africans who have the knowledge of dealing with gold; for example, does he have any plans in mind to train Africans?

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows that the Government has industrial estates where we train some of these people. But Sir, I think the best way is that the people who are working with these foreigners as apprentices, if they feel they know enough, should approach the Government with a view to being issued with licences to trade as goldsmith.

Mr. Magugu: Can the Assistant Minister tell the House whether or not there has been any applications from any Africans for the said trade?

Mr. Anyieni: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of any applications; in any case, the applications do not come to me, but if the hon. Member has any applications in mind to which he would like to draw our attention we shall look into the matter Sir.

Mr. Kahengeri: Does the Assistant Minister mean to tell the House that none of the Africans who work in the gold trade are licensed?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What he said amounted to that. Next question.

Question No. 200A

SHORTAGE OF CEMENT IN WESTERN PROVINCE

Mr. S. Lugonzo asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he could tell the House the reasons why cement had been unavailable in the Western Province for the last one and half months.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can give the information the hon. Member is asking for.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am sorry I could not hear you, Mr. Osogo.

Mr. Osogo: Yes, Sir, I can give the information required.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Osogo, I do not know what you are trying to do. The question asks very clearly, "Can the Minister explain to the House the reasons why cement has been unavailable in the Western Province for the last one and a half months?" You have, therefore, to explain.

Mr. Osogo: Sir, the question is asking me if I can, and I am saying that I can.

Hon. Members: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! It is all right. I can see that Mr. Osogo is defended by the word "can", but at least he should not take too much time of the House when he knows what the question is asking for.

Let us have questions. Mr. Nthenge.

Mr. Nthenge: Arising from the Minister's reply, can he now give the explanation required?

Mr. Osogo: Yes, Sir. In fact, Mr. Speaker, hon. Members should make their questions precise so that we can give the information right from the start rather than just asking whether we can or cannot. Having been a teacher, myself, that was the answer to the question as it was tabled. However, to give the information, Sir, cement has run short in the whole Republic. It is not only in Kakamega District or Western Province where the shortage has been experienced. The shortage has been experienced in the whole Republic. The reasons for this are:—

(1) Road constructors in the Republic decided to use cement instead of the other materials they had been using before. It can be witnessed by hon. Members who have been driving on these roads that cement has been used by road constructors. They found it more useful to use cement than the material that has been used before and this contributed to the consumption of cement to the extent that the factories producing cement could not cope with the purchases that were being made.

(2) The building rate that is now going on in the country is so high that the factories cannot cope with the production, and this can be proved by the buildings that are going up in various towns and rural areas.

(3) One of the East African countries, and this is Tanzania, ordered a lot of cement from us to help it in the construction of the Tazara—this is the railway commonly known as Tanzam but is now called Tazara—and this also contributed to a high rate of consumption of cement.

(4) In Malagasy the contractors ordered a lot of cement from Bamburi Factory for the construction of roads there and we had to honour the order that had been placed simply because Malagasy is one of our best markets for cement and because they had put in this order to us and refused to put it to South Africa. So, these, Mr. Speaker, greatly contributed to the shortage of cement. We have not been able to supply much cement to the Middle East after they decided to put up the buildings that had been destroyed in the little war of June 1966 simply because we do not have enough cement, but we are doing our best to send there a little cement too.

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am glad the Minister has satisfied us with the reasons for not having enough cement not only in Western Kenya but even in this place. But Mr. Speaker, Sir, a problem arises: cement is sold by agents appointed by the Kenya National Trading Corporation and quite a number of these people have borrowed a lot of money to continue with their trade. What is the Minister doing to see that the little cement that is available and which can be supplied in Kenya, is handled strictly by those agents so that they do not go bankrupt?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like, first of all to correct myself. The country I mentioned is not Malagasy; it is Mauritius. I am, very sorry I made this mistake, because we take cement to Mauritius and not to Malagasy. I can make a mistake because I am not a deity; I am not God and to err is human.

To answer my friend's question, the Member for Thika, the little cement that can be made—

Mr. Wachira: On a point of order, Sir, Thika is the place for the Mzee. Dr. Munene does not represent Thika, he represents Kigumo.

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, I thank my spectacled hon. friend for that correction. The Member for Kigumo has asked—

Hon. Members: Tell us about cement.

Mr. Osogo: We are doing all we can, Sir, to supply the little cement that can be made available to Kenya National Trading Corporation cement distributors. I am informed by the distributors themselves that the supply is almost being normalized although there are shortages here and there. Yesterday, I was informed by the distributors that it is almost coming back to normal.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I find out from the Minister what he is going to do to ration the supply of cement so that Western Kenya and Homa Bay may have a little share because the scarcity of cement though it is normalized in Nairobi is making the building costs in Western Kenya very expensive?

Mr. Osogo: Mr. Speaker, we have arranged with the cement manufacturers that the Athi River Factory is now going to supply Nairobi with cement and what was being supplied to Nairobi from Bamburi will now be going and is, indeed, going to the western part of the Rift Valley.

Mr. S. Lugonzo: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Sir, while there was a shortage of cement in Western Province, there was a lot of cement in Nairobi and other areas. This, I witnessed myself Mr. Speaker, Sir. Now, we feel that it is due to the—

An hon. Member: Ask your question.

Mr. S. Lugonzo: I am going to ask the question.

Does the Minister agree with me that it is this centralized distribution of cement that caused Western Province delay in getting cement which actually delayed building industrial developments as compared to other areas?

Mr. Osogo: No. I do not agree with what the hon. Member is saying because my records show and the local papers will bear me witness on this issue that Kisumu District was short of cement and the Mayor of Kisumu had to come to Nairobi to ask about this shortage. Therefore, it is not only Kakamega which was short of cement. My records also show that Kitui was very short of cement although it is very near Athi River. Therefore, the question of centralized distribution causing the shortage does not arise. However, the hon. Member knows that we allowed during the time there was a shortage people in Western Province to import a little cement from Tororo in Uganda which is very near his home.

Mr. Njiru: Can the Minister tell this House the reason why he found it necessary to export cement to Mauritius and to Tanzania when we needed cement in this country just as we did with maize?

Mr. Osogo: Cement is different from maize because maize is subsidized when it is exported. Money is paid from your pocket and from my pocket to subsidize the export of maize, but cement, on the other hand, brings in foreign exchange. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this being our traditional market we did not supply cement to their satisfaction. However, I maintain we want to retain those traditional markets. Indeed, Tanzania/Zambia Railway construction is going to use a lot of cement and, therefore, we thought it would not be good to disappoint them, otherwise, they would have run to China to get cement from there.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question. Mr. Kholkholle, is not here?

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You may ask the question, Mr. Araru, if you know that he is not coming at all.

Mr. Araru: He is not coming.

Question No. 200

MARSABIT SECONDARY SCHOOL SCIENCE LABORATORY

Mr. Araru on behalf of Mr. Kholkholle, asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House—

(a) whether he was aware that the Marsabit Secondary School Science Laboratory caught fire and was reduced to ashes on 29th November, 1970;

(b) if the answer to (a) was in affirmative, what were the immediate steps he was taking to build a new science block for the school; and

(c) whether he would tell the House what was the cause of the fire.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) Yes. I am aware that the science laboratory at Marsabit Secondary School was destroyed by fire on November 30th, 1970.

(b) Arrangements have been made for the conversion of a classroom into a temporary science laboratory. This improvised laboratory will serve the needs of the school adequately until a new laboratory is built.

(c) So far, the cause of the fire that destroyed the laboratory has not been discovered.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, can he tell this House how soon this science laboratory, he has promised, will be built because a science laboratory is very important in a secondary school?

Mr. Rubia: Yes, I would like to assure this hon. House that everything is being done and, for example, a sum of Sh. 39,000 has been set aside to improve one classroom. This is actually being done now. A further sum of Sh. 16,000 has been set aside to buy the laboratory equipment.

Mr. Araru: Arising from the Assistant Minister's nice reply, but in connexion with part (c) of the question in his reply, he said that up to now they have not discovered the cause of the fire, can he tell us exactly what steps Government is taking to discover the one who set fire to the laboratory, because as far as we know, this fire was started by a student who had left the same school in the same year because of some jealousy he had?

Mr. Rubia: I think, I should begin by thanking the hon. Member for that piece of information he has given to me. However, we are unable to establish what caused the fire because everything was destroyed except the four walls. Therefore, there is very little that we can use in order to establish the cause of the fire. However, if the hon. Member has that piece of information, we will convey it to the police because that amounts to arson. However, as the text of the question refers to the convenience of the students, once again, I want to confirm that there will be no inconvenience caused to the students.

ADVERTISEMENT OF AMBI

Mr. Mulwa asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House when he would ban immediately the screening of an advertisement currently being shown in our cinemas, advertising Ambi and, at the same time urging people to join "The New Africans," meaning the light skinned Africans who had used Ambi, this being derogatory and an abuse to the dignity of Africans.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this question was passed on to the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting and a copy was sent to Parliament in December.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All right, it will appear again on the Order Paper.

(Question deferred)

Question No. 137 (1440)

RESIGNATION OF HEALTH DEPARTMENT STAFF

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether—

(a) he would give a breakdown of trained African medical officers, African health inspectors, African assistant health inspectors, African health visitors, African registered nurses and midwives who had resigned from the Government since we got independence; and

(b) he was aware that the resignation was a result of the bad salaries paid to them and the attraction of heavy salaries offered by the private firms.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) It is not possible to give a breakdown of the qualified medical staff who have left the Government service.

Regarding the paramedical staff, the majority who left Government service did so to join county councils or municipalities. The majority of them are now back with the Central Government since the functions of county councils were taken over at the beginning of 1970.

(b) On the question of remuneration, I would refer the hon. Member to the statement by the Minister for Education during the Budget speech when he said that this matter has been referred to the Commission which is inquiring into the structure and remuneration of the public

Mr. Kanja: Will the hon. Assistant Minister agree with me that diseases will not wait for any commission and if there is going to be a continuation of resignations by our qualified medical personnel, our people are going to die continuously due to the lack of medical personnel to take care of them?

Mr. ole Oloitipitip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will not agree with the hon. Member. I know that diseases will not wait until the Commission of Inquiry's Report is out, however, we in the Ministry also will not wait. We are capable of tackling any disease which may attack even the hon. Member himself tonight.

Mr. Kitonga: I would like to seek your guidance because my question has not been replied to. In his reply to part (a) of the question the Assistant Minister claims that it is not possible to give a breakdown of the officers in question, why does he not give a breakdown as requested by my question? In his reply to part (b)—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Kitonga, one question at a time because that is exactly what we do. Order! Will you sit down?

Mr. ole Oloitipitip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said in my reply that it is impossible to give a breakdown of those medical staff who have resigned from Government service. This is simply because once a person has resigned from a particular Ministry, it is no longer and it is not going to be any longer the responsibility of that particular Ministry. Once somebody resigns, he is finished. Why should I take care of somebody who has finished his work with my Ministry?

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will you please listen carefully to the second part of my question. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as my question stands, part (b) of it did not ask about the officers who resigned and joined county councils which I know are under the Ministry of Local Government. As far as those are concerned, we know very well that they were seconded to the Central Government and now they are being paid according to the Government Regulations. Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question was asking about private firms. Are county councils private firms, Mr. Speaker? I want an answer to that part of the question or else my question will be put on for further inquiries.

Mr. ole Oloitipitip: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not the responsibility of my Ministry to take care of those members of the staff who have resigned from the Ministry.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Will you sit down, Mr. Kitonga?

Mr. ole Oloitipitip: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Member could only be patient, I will give him a satisfactory answer.

Mr. Speaker: Sir, as a Ministry, we are charged with a duty to care for our own staff, the staff who are employed by the Ministry. Those who are not employed by the Ministry, whether they were formerly employed by the Ministry or not, we do not take care of them.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICEBEATING UP OF INNOCENT PEOPLE BY DISTRICT COMMISSIONER, GARISSA

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister of State, President's Office, the following Question by Private Notice:—

Why did the District Commissioner, Garissa, find it fit to beat up innocent people on the streets of Garissa Township on 11th March 1971?

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The District Commissioner, Garissa, either in his person or office has not beaten people in the streets of Garissa Township as alleged by the hon. Member.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, could he specifically tell us why he says that the question is based on untruths?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer is very clear. I have said that the allegation which has been given by the hon. Member has been found to be untrue after a thorough investigation had been carried out.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to seek your guidance in this matter. According to the Questioner, he alleges that the district commissioner beat the people in the streets of Garissa Township and the Assistant Minister has denied this categorically. Now, could the Member substantiate these alleged beatings? I would like the Member to substantiate this because the Assistant Minister has denied it completely. This is very serious, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have evidence to that effect. There were some people who were present when this incident took place in the streets of Garissa Township, and I have the names here with me.

An hon. Member: Read the names out!

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Yes, I have the names here with me and I am going to read them out.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the following is the list of names:—

1. Abdi Shuria.
2. Alio Garesh.
3. Surer.
4. Dile Sheikh Mahash.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I am dealing with a point of order.

Mr. Moi.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very important point. I do not know whether the House can only accept the names without having a medical certificate to show that they were bruised? Is it in order for the hon. Member to give names only without giving some documents to support his case?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! No, our Standing Orders are quite clear on this to the effect that a Member holds himself responsible for whatever statement of fact he makes here or whatever allegation he makes and when he is challenged it is up to him to substantiate. Quite often, I require that before a question like this is put at least some commitment on the part of the Member concerned is made. In this particular case, for instance, the Member himself, after I had said that I still wanted to get more information, said he had enough evidence, and he has already read those names out. But, this is a matter which, it is for the other side to investigate. If it so happens that the hon. Member deceived the House or misled the House, then the House can still deal with him. But, I am not in a position to know every fact and if it were to be said that every question that comes here must be proved to the Speaker before he approves, then no question would ever come here because I am not an unlimited reservoir of knowledge.

Mr. Munyi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not true that whenever an allegation has been made, for instance when an hon. Member alleges that people might have been beaten somewhere, one of the proofs which is real evidence is to bring a document which is signed by a doctor and you sign Form 3. That is what happens, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and it is known that a document is written that So-and-so was beaten and he was possibly injured.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! You can require the Member to do that but it is up to the House here. Anybody could ask that such a document be produced but that is no reason why he could not bring the question. He could be disproved wrong here and this often happens. But, he has every right to bring the question and then be challenged as he was challenged by somebody to substantiate. Then, what I went further to explain was that if, in fact, we discover that people are bringing questions here based on false allegations, then the House still has the power to deal with such people. So, it is up to those who do not believe what an hon. Member is saying who are supposed to find out exactly what the truth is and let the House know.

Mr. Jilo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this matter, as I hear, is still being investigated and the Ministry concerned has not enough or sufficient information to furnish this House, could we now leave this matter until the Minister furnishes this House with more information?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! We are not going to allow ourselves to drift to this kind of disorderliness. The Minister categorically stated that he did not agree with the Member. So, there is no question of investigation anywhere.

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! No more points of order on that matter.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he agree with me that when this question was put to his Ministry it should have been passed to this District Commissioner for Garissa to answer, but because he could not have answered, "Yes, I beat these people", the Assistant Minister, therefore, has misled the House; would he agree to that?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a known fact that even the hon. Member knows very well that there is not even a single person who went even to the nearest police station at Garissa to report that people had been beaten up. There was no such report at all, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! If we have so much shouting, I will just move on.

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, those people have enough evidence; they have "P.3" forms from the police and I can bring them to this House when I go back to Garissa as soon as possible.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think we will leave it at that. Mr. Mohamed will produce medical evidence to show that these people were beaten up.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! It is quite clear that my appeal to Members not to waste time is not being heeded. We can cut down on questions if you like because we are taking too much time on things which are unnecessary; just shouting.

So, Mr. Mohamed has said that he was going to produce evidence to show that what he is saying is the truth and, therefore, you can follow up the matter from that point when he brings this evidence.

POLLUTION OF NYANDO RIVER BY MOLASSES FROM CHEMELIL SUGAR FACTORIES

Mr. Ogalo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Agriculture the following question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Is the Minister aware that Nyando River which is the only place where the majority of people in Nyando Constituency get their water for consumption has been badly polluted by molasses from sugar factories particularly the Chemelil Sugar Factory?
- (b) If the answer is in the affirmative, what corrective steps is he taking?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Government's Chief Chemist has been directed to test samples of water to determine the precise nature of pollution with a view to advising the Government just how unhealthy the water is. No doubt, his report will include precise corrective measures to be taken if it is established that the pollution is injurious.

The hon. Member can, therefore, be assured that the Government will not hesitate to take any possible corrective measures as the Chief Chemist may advise. Our investigations, so far, reveal that all possible measures have been taken by the factory and if the hon. Member has any concrete complaints to make, we are willing to investigate with him.

Mr. Ogalo: Arising out of the Assistant Minister's reply, for how long are we going to wait because up to now people are dying and some are suffering?

An hon. Member: How long; next Monday?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, first I would like the hon. Member to substantiate that people in his area are dying as a result of this pollution?

Mr. Ogalo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, during the week-end, I did my homework and I have the names here, if I am allowed, I can read them out.

An hon. Member: Which doctor told you?

Mr. Ogalo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the North-East Nyando, the following people have died of dysentery:—

[Mr. Ogalo]

- (1) Socleah Ogelu.
- (2) Mangi Ogudu.
- (3) Joash Ouma.
- (4) Margaret Ogele.
- (5) Sabina Okungu.
- (6) Obwaka Okudu.
- (7) Numia Naoko.
- (8) Elijah Oloo.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the same Location, North-East Nyando, the following people are still suffering:—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not think it is necessary to go all over the names again.

An hon. Member: Read all of them out!

Mr. Khaoya: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am glad that the hon. Member has given us a list of names of people who have died of dysentery. The Ministry can only extend pole to the families of those who have lost their relatives. However, we understood that they have died of dysentery and, as I have said, our Chief Chemist, will go to investigate the matter. If the question from the hon. Member was “when”, I will say, “immediately”. Perhaps, it is on the way now; perhaps it will be there tomorrow but, definitely, immediately. I will see to it that we establish once and for all that, in fact, the pollution is not responsible for the deaths. If it is, we are as much concerned as anybody else to take all corrective measures.

Mr. Masibayi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is the water free of germs or not, because of the fact that the water has been coloured or has changed its colour and cannot be accepted by the people as fit for consumption?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like the hon. Member to repeat his question so that I may be able to follow him?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Would you repeat your question, Mr. Masibayi?

Mr. Masibayi: My question is that whether that particular water is free from germs or not—the fact that that particular water has changed its colour through this sort of pollution from the factory and because of this colour alone that water cannot be accepted by the people as fit for consumption; do you agree or not?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this raises two questions: one is that of colour; I do not know which colour is dangerous and the other one presumes that there is pollution there. This is again, as I said, what we wish as Government to establish because we do not know. The investigations so far reveal that any of the molasses that remain on the ground are put in a large pit so that there is no possibility of any of it going into the Nyando River. Secondly, any factory fluid is directed to some ponds there and we expect it to remain there. However, because we are as concerned as the hon. Member, we have directed a specialist to go to the area to investigate. I think it is only fair that the hon. House bears with us and waits a little longer and lets us get all the facts because colours may not be the danger.

DRIED-UP DAMS IN NORTH NYOKAL LOCATION

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Agriculture the following question by Private Notice:—

Is the Minister aware that the dams in North Nyokal Location in South Nyanza which provide water to the Ndiru Health Centre have all dried up because of this long drought? If the answer is in the affirmative, what remedial step is the Minister taking to save the worsening situation at the Health Centre?

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, I am aware that dams in most parts of Kenya, and North Nyokal Location in South Nyanza is no exception, have dried up as a result of this long, unexpected drought. However, I am informed that this has not seriously affected Ndiru Health Centre which among other sources gets its supply of water from water catchment roofs. It is said that there is still some water in the tanks but how long it will last is anybody's guess.

The hon. Member may be assured, therefore, that the Government is fully aware of the water needs of the Health Centre and even if the existing supply ran out the hon. Member should approach first the local authorities on the spot who might be able to take appropriate action to put things right. We, however, hope and pray that the rains will come soon to fill the dams of Nyokal with water.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that they have been rationing water and, therefore, they have been using very dirty water to wash their hands which is against the hygienic standards—in order to save the few debes that are left there? Could the Minister take a remedial step to see that this is not repeated, as this is not the first time that they have had difficulties in getting water?

Mr. Nyagah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member must be very lucky that there is still some water to be rationed. If only he could go to a place called Mutomo, where my old friend comes from, he would see that there is no water to be rationed. Things have gone wrong.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think we must go on now.

An hon. Member: Count your blessings.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us not have this sort of thing.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CHAIR

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR IN THE SPEAKER'S BOX

Hon. Members, may I draw your attention to the presence of the distinguished guest in the first Box to my left; the hon. Mallelieu, a Member of the House of Commons and Member for Brigg, who is visiting Kenya briefly. I would like to take this opportunity of wishing him an enjoyable stay here. I hope you will be meeting him later.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday the hon. friend of mine, Mr. R. G. Ngala, tried to tell the House that he did not promise to lay a list of Members of Parliament and Assistant Ministers engaged in the selling of Transport Licensing Board licences to Asians, Arabs and Europeans. I took pains, Mr. Speaker, to dig out what the hon. Member said, and I have the HANSARD here.

Mr. Speaker—

CONSIDERED RULING

PROMISED SUBSTANTIATION MUST CONTAIN
NAMES OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT INVOLVED

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, Mr. Shikuku! It might not be necessary to go through all that report. I made a promise that I would find out whether Mr. Ngala had said what it was thought he had said. I promised that if I was wrong I was prepared to come and apologize to the House because I said I thought he did promise to lay on the Table a list of Members who he alleged had obtained the Transport Licensing Board licences and hired them out to some other people—non-citizens—to trade with.

Now, I think it is important that I should state this so that nobody remains in any doubt. I have checked and the HANSARD clearly records that Mr. Ngala did say that. I have copies here, but I do not want to tire the House going through the report. He did say exactly as I said, but if there is any doubt I am prepared to go through all the recording.

I have also counterchecked—we keep tape recording of what goes on here—this particular tape clearly repeats what appears in our written record. So I do not know what Mr. Ngala would say about this because he categorically denied that he did say this.

I am appealing to the House to treat this matter calmly because we have to clear it up. We do not want to keep it hanging on unnecessarily and, I am sure, Mr. Ngala can help in that.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Minister for Power and Communications

(Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, there might be some misunderstanding in the English that was used. However, with due respect to the Chair, Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that it is true that I said I would produce a list of Members. In my interpretation there were no names of Members. I did not mean the names of Members of Parliament, but a list of Members. Mr. Speaker, Sir, therefore, I would like to get some guidance from you on this matter because, to me, "names of Members of Parliament" is different from a "list of Members". It is this technical wording which I would like to be clear about.

Secondly, Sir, I would like to submit to the Chair that I substantiated my allegations adequately, but if the extent of the substantiation does not satisfy the Members it is not my fault.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Shikuku, just—

Order, order. Let us get over this. I am now referring to the HANSARD report of 17th March, 1971.

An hon. Member: He has not substantiated.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not want to be disturbed.

Mr. Ngala is reported to have said, when he was pressed by Members to withdraw and apologize:

"Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not say things without knowing them. After all, this is my Ministry and, therefore, if the Members will not be embarrassed I will table a list which will give details of Members, even Assistant Ministers, who are being used in this way. I hope the Members will not be embarrassed. I will produce the list."

That is exactly what was required; lists of Members and Assistant Ministers. It cannot in any stretch of the imagination be interpreted to be a list of Transport Licensing Board licence numbers.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I am still dealing with a point of order.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am glad that you have read what I said, which shows that I said a "list of Members", but not a "list of names of Members".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday I gave the numbers of Transport Licensing Board licences. Each number is identical to a Member of Parliament who was issued that licence.

Hon. Members: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order: I do not think it is worth taking the whole afternoon on this matter. Mr. Ngala says that he never said this, and I have just quoted part of it. It is now left to the House to decide.

If Mr. Ngala feels that we are misinterpreting him, that he never meant to give a list of Members, then I differ. Obviously a list of Members would be names because he could not line the Members up on the Table. We are trying to get a solution to this issue because hon. Members feel very strongly about it. This is not a Back-bencher's affair. Let us get this clear that the reflection already made was made on the House as a whole, including the Ministers. It is because of this since it is putting the House—the credibility and the honour of this House in question that I am concerned about it. It is because I want the name of this House cleared that, at least, we should get some assistance from Mr. Ngala in clarifying the position. That is why I went to that long extent of inviting him to either do what he promised or if, for some reasons he felt that he could not do it, to withdraw and apologize to the House for having taken their time. That would have been the end.

Apparently, so far, this is to no avail and, therefore, I shall leave the matter there and hope that the House will decide on how to handle this matter.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point of order is that in similar circumstances, two years ago, this House had to seek the advice of the learned Attorney-General. I do not know, Mr. Speaker, whether on this occasion you would agree that this House seeks the advice of the same learned Attorney-General.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! There is no question of law here. This is a question of fact.

POINTS OF ORDER

REFUSAL TO SUBSTANTIATE AS ORDERED BY THE CHAIR—OR TO WITHDRAW AN ALLEGATION—MATTER TO BE REFERRED TO COMMITTEE OF PRIVILEGES

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I rise on a point of order which I consider to be very important. I have taken pains to do my home-work and indeed, you have done yours, Sir. Here in this HANSARD it is stated very clearly that even the Assistant Ministers—this means that all Assistant Ministers are Transport Licensing Board licence sellers. This also refers to hon. Members of Parliament which means that any Minister or any specie of humanity in this House is involved. Now, the Standing Orders clearly say that if an hon. Member, that means Ministers, hon. Members of Parliament—we are all hon. Members of Parliament here—if he makes an allegation that he cannot substantiate he has to withdraw it. Are we going to leave or to create this precedent where somebody will refuse to substantiate according to the Standing Orders and leave it like that? Is it not time that the hon. Member who is involved is named to the House so that some of us who have never sold or have never even applied for Transport Licensing Board licence could be cleared? We cannot be sacrificed on the altar of a few Ministers, Assistant Ministers and hon. Members of Parliament who have sold these Transport Licensing Board licences.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, this is not a matter where the Speaker can take action on his own because the hon. Member himself has denied, categorically, that he ever said what we say is recorded in the HANSARD. I have tried my best to find a solution to this and now that it has come to this point, the only solution is to hand it over to the Committee of Privileges.

Mr. Magugu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. My point of order is this. Would it be in order, in that case, Mr. Speaker, for you to use your privileges while we wait for the recommendations of the committee to ask the hon. Minister to stay out of this Chamber until the committee has brought the report?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, that would be prejudging his case. The whole idea of having the matter investigated by the Committee of Privileges is to find out who is telling the truth and then a decision can be made. I cannot now pre-judge the case.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I wish to seek your guidance here. I do not know, under these circumstances, why this matter should be referred to the Committee of Privileges. I have seen before, in this House, that when an hon. Member makes a serious allegation against another hon. Member or for that matter against Government and he refuses or is unable to substantiate his allegation, the Speaker has always ordered him to go out, if he does not want to apologize. I do not see, on this particular occasion, why we should not deal with the hon. Member who made that serious remark as we deal with all other hon. Members here.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, it is because I take a very serious view on this that I would rather have the House make the decision in the sense that there is a direct contradiction in what we have said. The Minister claims that he never said this and I say he said that he would lay a list on the Table and hon. Members say that he said that. The records are there. So, the only solution is to go through the whole process and find out the truth about it and then appropriate action will be taken. There is no point in—

An hon. Member: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I think there is no point in talking over this. I have already made that ruling and so we should not go too far with it.

TIME FOR DEMANDING SUBSTANTIATION—IMMEDIATELY AFTER AN ALLEGATION IS MADE

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. A few days ago hon. Nthenge alleged that in this honourable House there is an individual who prevents the progress and the development of this country and he went further to the extent of saying that this very hon. Member does not want to see any good thing coming from any other area except his own area. I, therefore, rise, Mr. Speaker, to ask hon. Nthenge to substantiate this destructive statement.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Hon. Nthenge, I was not here when you made the allegation but if that is what you said, are you now prepared to substantiate?

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not remember when I alleged this because I speak quite often. The hon. Member did not raise the matter then but if he wants to follow the issue, may be he can see me later and draw my attention to the record where I will check and if he will want me to substantiate what I said, I will have no objection of doing so.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Koigi, if you did not raise the issue when Mr. Nthenge made the allegation you are now saying he made, then, it was too late if you waited until the following day. We cannot follow this.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did raise this issue the following day because it was—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is now too late. Order—

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I know why hon. Nthenge should not be asked to substantiate?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Koigi. You were too late. You should have raised it while hon. Nthenge was speaking.

We will go on now.

NOTICE OF MOTION UNDER S.O. 45 (i)

CONTEMPT OF NATIONAL ASSEMBLY PRIVILEGES

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I wish to raise, as a question of privilege, the matter of a letter from a certain Peter Gachathi, dated 16th March 1971 and dealing with the resolution of this Parliament on the University of Nairobi adopted on the 12th March 1971. This letter is also quoted on page one of the East African Standard of today in an article titled "Members of Parliament University Demands Shelved".

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, Mr. Seroney wants to raise this issue and I think it is now public knowledge, most hon. Members might have read about this reported letter by the Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Education which, if it has been correctly reported said that certain people should not take action on a decision of Parliament. Now, I have seen this report and it is quite clear, and if that is what the letter says—it is definitely a disregard of the authority of Parliament if public officers will go and write letters and these letters are published saying that "You should disregard the resolution of Parliament and Government will take no action", and this is by somebody who claims that he is acting on behalf of Government. Copies of this letter apparently have been sent to various people including the Minister himself who is in charge of the Ministry. Now, in view of the seriousness of the matter it is only fair that Mr. Seroney should be allowed to raise this issue (Inaudible).

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): —it looks as if it reduces this House to what has been often repeated, "just a talking House" and puts it in a position of a shameful ignominy. Therefore, I will allow Mr. Seroney to raise this issue. However, I would rather instead of raising it right now, we first of all dispose of the Motion which has been on the Order Paper for so many days, the Motion on the Public Accounts Report. Members have had enough opportunity of discussing this; there has been a lot of repetition. Therefore, if Members will go through that Motion, then I will allow Mr. Seroney to raise the issue he wants to raise.

Mr. Migure: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Migure, what is your point of order?

Mr. Migure: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this matter being a very serious issue would it be in order if the House would suspend any other business in order to debate this issue today?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Perhaps, the Members have a difficulty in following what I am saying, but the whole idea of disposing of this Motion is so that the hon. Members will have enough time to deal with this. If Members regard this issue as so important and since we have discussed this other Motion for so long, there is no reason why we should not dispose of it in a few minutes' time.

Hon. Members: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is only going to take time which could be otherwise utilized.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on a point of order, in view of the situation—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Mwithaga, you perhaps cannot do that right now because we have not yet moved to the next Order.

Next Order.

MOTION

APPROVAL OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE
REPORT, 1967/68 AND 1968/69—

PART I

(Resumption of Debate interrupted on 24th March, 1971)

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, now that the Order has been called, and in view of the prevailing situation right now and, further, in view of the fact that the Motion has been discussed for a very long, long time by very many Members—

An hon. Member: (Inaudible).

Mrs. Onyango: You go ahead.

Mr. Mwithaga: —would I be in order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, therefore, to move that the Mover be called upon to reply?

Hon. Members: Yes, yes.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, that is a fair request in view of what has gone on. I know Mr. Nthenge was speaking, but still it is up to the House to decide. I will therefore, put the question of the closure.

(Question that the Mover be called upon to reply put and agreed to)

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would just want to have the record clear. Is it in order for anybody who has spoken on a Motion to move a closure of that Motion in which he has spoken?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, really, this is nowhere in the Standing Orders. It is just common practice, but it was clear that it was the wish of the House that we should come to the conclusion.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not true that we all did not want anything else to come prior to this Motion, by Mr. Seroney; and for that reason everybody wanted everything else suspended and that is why—

Mr. Ayah: What is your point of order?

An hon. Member: It is too late, "Mister".

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Gatuguta.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir— There is too much noise in the House. Sir, I see that hon. Members are very keen to discuss some other issue which is very important, therefore, I shall be very brief in my remarks.

I would like to start by thanking the Members who have spoken on this Motion in support of it— Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have said, I would like to thank the speakers who had spoken on the Motion and who have supported the recommendations of the Public Accounts Committee. I would like, however, to make certain observations. The hon. Seroney did make an amendment to this Motion which in my opinion is quite good. I have spoken to various Members of the Public Accounts Committee and we have accepted the amendment given. We believe that the amendment as had been proposed, will give more powers to the Public Accounts Committee if they can bring about legislation and suggestions which would empower this House to take action. At the moment the action we can take as a House, is simply to accept the recommendations of the Public Accounts Committee, but cannot take legal action against accounting officers. I hope the Select Committee that will be appointed by his House will go into the question of financial orders, and other legislation and see the weaknesses and try to strengthen them.

[Mr. Gatuguta]

However, during this debate, Sir, there have been a number of points that Members have made, which I think should be clarified. First of all, there have been certain Members, during their speeches, who have created the impression that the recommendations of the Public Accounts Committee, have not gone far enough. For instance, there are some places where the Public Accounts Committee stated that they are satisfied by the explanation given on certain expenditures. Because the Members have not read the verbatim report of the proceedings, they failed to appreciate the fact that certain accounting officers appealed before the Public Accounts Committee—

Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I seek your—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! There is too much noise around.

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not fair that what the Mover is now telling us is what we know; could he not just finish so that we can go to the other business?

Mr. Gatuguta: I realize, Mr. Nthenge is very impatient on this matter. But it is my right and privilege to make the points I have here.

An hon. Member: You are right.

Mr. Gatuguta: As I said, if hon. Members were to read the verbatim report, they would see that on certain expenditure the accounting officers came before the Public Accounting Committee and explained the reason why there were over-expenditures and the Committee seemed to be satisfied that those accounting officers had no alternative but to spend that money. That is why in some cases we were satisfied that this was rightly done. Even though, we still feel that this practice of overspending, even if there is a good reason for it, serious efforts should be made to refer the matter either to the Parliament or to the Treasury as the case may be. There are some other hon. Members who have been confused about the matter and they think the money has been misappropriated. Mr. Speaker, Sir, overspending, misusing and misappropriation of money are three quite different things. The accounting officers have spent the money in the public interest and the only mistake they have made is that they had no authority to spend some of this money. However, Mr. Speaker, no hon. Member should have the impression that the accounting officers misappropriated the money. The money has not been misappropriated in any way at all. What has happened is that money has been overspent for public services without the appropriate authority being sought.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other point that I would like to raise—

Mr. Gichoya: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member trying to tell us that there has not been any case of misappropriation of public funds when we know very well that today we have a case of a certain accounting officers going on regarding misappropriation of public funds. Is the hon. Member in order, Mr. Speaker, to try and make this House believe that what has been spoken of in this House did not have any sense at all?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Maybe he was going to introduce a matter which is before the court regarding this.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was talking about over-expenditure and I am trying to distinguish between over-expenditure, misappropriation and misuse of public funds. What I am saying is that some people who spoke on the over-expenditure were trying to create the impression that the money has been misappropriated. However, the money has not been misappropriated, but it has merely been over-spent.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other thing which I want to say is that during the debate, there has been very serious attacks on civil servants generally. Mr. Speaker, I want to dissociate myself completely from this kind of attitude because those hon. Members who tried to condemn the civil servants wholly are trying to create two classes of people in this country—the class of civil servants and the class of politicians. Mr. Speaker, if we do this, we are going to harm this country. I want to make this very clear, let us not try to create those two classes of people. However, Mr. Speaker, I want to say this: if a civil servant makes a mistake, let us single him out, condemn him and take legal action against him, but let us not have this wholesale condemnation. Mr. Speaker, we should be responsible being elected Members of Parliament. If you say that we should lay the blame wholly on some people, this is not correct and, I am sure, some hon. Members will agree with me that some of the civil servants have been very good and they have done a great deal for the hon. Members and for the country as a whole. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want us to remember this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the question of overspending which we are discussing here—

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would I be in order to move that the question be now put?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I guess Mr. Gatuguta was just about to conclude his speech. Would you allow him to do so?

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, the point I was making is very important. You will see that the Report of the Accounting Committee provides that only 12 Ministries have overspent the money. In other words, only 12 accounting officers were not capable of controlling their votes. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, others did control their votes properly and, therefore, we must appreciate the work of these accounting officers. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to put this on record that we really appreciate their work because they have been able to control the expenditure of the Government properly. At the same time, Sir, I want to ask those other accounting officers who have overspent the money to follow the steps of other accounting officers and much more, to respect the resolutions of this House, to respect the authority of the House under the Constitution and every thing else. I am saying this, Sir, because it can be seen that our report on this matter has been clear. We have been quite fair to them and we have been fair to the House. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, since I know hon. Members are very anxious to speak on this Motion, I would finally like to urge them to support the Motion. In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to ask the civil servants concerned to take our recommendations very seriously and try to implement them.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I will now put the question.

(Question of the Motion as amended put and agreed to)

Resolved accordingly:

THAT this House approves the recommendations contained in Part I Reports of the Public Accounts Committee on the Government of Kenya Accounts for the years ending 30th June 1967/68 and 1968/69 respectively; but being of the opinion that continuing unauthorized expenditure is a serious contempt of the House for which drastic remedies are required, hereby resolves to appoint a Select Committee to inquire into and recommend penal and other legislation to empower the House to enforce its authority over public expenditure and deal effectively with accounting officers and Ministers responsible for any future unauthorized expenditure of public funds.

MOTION UNDER STANDING ORDER 45 (i)

CONTEMPT OF NATIONAL ASSEMBLY PRIVILEGES

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in today's East African Standard there is an article with the heading, "M.P.s University Demands Shelved"

Mr. Speaker, this article says:—

"No actions will be taken by the Government to implement a Motion passed in Parliament on March 12th demanding the dissolution of the present council of the University of Nairobi, the Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of Education, Mr. Peter Gachathi, said yesterday.

This decision was contained in a letter addressed to the chairman and all members of the University Council. Copies of the letter were sent to the Minister for Education, Mr. Towett, the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nairobi, Dr. Karanja and the Permanent Secretary in the Office of the President, Mr. G. K. Kariithi."

Mr. Speaker, the article goes on to quote a letter which I will quote directly. I have a photostat copy with me here. This letter was dated on the 16th of March 1971, addressed to the Chairman and to all members of the University Council. The letter says:—

"Dear Sirs", the head subject is "University Council Membership".

"Some inquiries have been received from Members wishing to know their future following the Motion recently debated in Parliament about the composition of the Council and extremely adverse and unfair remarks about its work. I have been directed to state that after careful consideration, the Government has decided that it has no intention of acting on this Motion and this letter should, therefore, serve to allay fears of Members arising from the views expressed in the Parliamentary debate. Yours faithfully, P. J. Gachathi, Permanent Secretary."

Copies have been sent to G. K. Kariithi, Permanent Secretary in the Office of the President, the Vice-Chancellor, University of Nairobi, the hon. Taita Towett, Member of Parliament and Minister for Education.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this House is becoming very unruly. Would you, Mr. Speaker, advise hon. Members to stop shouting so that we may hear what the hon. Member is trying to say.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Kariuki is quite right. The whole purpose of allowing Mr. Seroney to say what he is going to say is because we thought hon. Members would be interested to listen. If they are not willing to listen, there is no point in going on.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, hon. Members are aware that on Friday, the 12th of March, there was a Motion in this House which was moved by the hon. Member for Bungoma East in connexion with the University of Nairobi. This Motion recommended the dissolution of the present Council of the University of Nairobi and appointment of a new one based on provinces; and secondly, the appointment of a commission to inquire into the affairs and the running of University of Nairobi; and thirdly, the establishment of more constituent colleges.

For the purpose of this Motion—I am not actually concerned with the substance of that Motion. We know that it was opposed by the Ministers but it was eventually passed by this House. However, what concerns me and what I believe concerns everyone in this House is the principle behind this action on the part of a Government official. Now, not only did Mr. Gachathi write this letter on the 16th March 1971, but it appears that yesterday he must have called a Press conference or issued a statement in which he released the contents of this letter, which he had sent earlier on thereby publicizing the contempt which certain civil servants have for this House. As far as I can see, and I will lay this letter on the Table, the only interpretation of this letter is that it is in fact an incitement to public officers to disregard the resolutions and recommendations of this House.

During the last week we were discussing the actions on the part of certain senior civil servants in flouting the authority of this House. The Debate has just been finished but before it was finished a Permanent Secretary rushed to the newspapers and tells the world that he does not take the House seriously, and that as far as he is concerned everybody else should disregard what the House has recommended. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very serious state of affairs and contempt. We said in this House the other day that some civil servants had usurped the authority of the Government which should be exercised by politicians. Now, this was challenged by some Government spokesmen; but before this thing died down, we have a Permanent Secretary demonstrating the truth of our allegations. Now, this particular Permanent Secretary has a notorious history. During the last Parliament he became very famous as a Government spokesman; and in 1969, on behalf of other senior civil servants he issued a statement to the Press threatening it in order to discourage it from reporting the proceedings of this House. However, the House took a very serious view of it; but since the matter had been raised under Standing Order No. 20, no conclusion was reached, although a lot of hot air was raised and that is why I am raising this issue in a different manner.

As the Speaker explained yesterday in another connexion, Standing Order No. 20 has its limitation. You can raise a matter of national importance in this House under Standing Order No. 20 but no decision is reached.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

Therefore, that is the reason why I am raising this matter now as a “question of privilege” because I think it is time that some of these Permanent Secretaries, particularly this one, are taught a lesson since he flouted the authority of the House. It is because he was in contempt of the House in 1969 and nothing happened to him that he repeated this contempt yesterday and hoped that he will get away with it! I sincerely hope that this House will demonstrate that it is made up of sterner material than the past Parliament and that it will bring this particular Permanent Secretary to book. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not want to waste a lot of time because I think the whole issue is self explanatory. As I have said, we want to apply a specific remedy and that is why— If the hon. Members will be a bit patient I have a Motion to move which I have not yet moved. That is why, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am moving a specific Motion which, if accepted, will lead to some positive action. I, therefore, beg to move:—

THAT this House considers the letter dated the 16th March 1971 written by a certain Peter Gachathi to the Chairman of Nairobi University Council, copied to the Minister for Education, and published to the Members of the University Council and in today's (March 25th) East African Standard, in which he incites public officers in the name of the Government to disregard the resolution of the House adopted on the 12th March 1971 on the University of Nairobi, a gross breach of privilege and its publication a serious contempt of the House; and resolves that the question of the said letter and its publication be referred to the Powers and Privileges Committee which is directed to summon the said Peter Gachathi, examine him and other witnesses under powers conferred in section 9 of the Powers and Privileges Act, and report with recommendations to the House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the contempt speaks for itself and those of you who have read the article and those who have heard me reading the letter will not have to argue about the contempt in question. However, the reason why I am recommending what we should refer it to our Privileges Committee—and after all that is why we created this particular committee—is so that if the Committee can recommend appropriate action to ensure that this is the last time that Mr. Gachathi, or any other Permanent Secretary, will tell the world to disregard the wishes of this House.

With those remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move—and Mr. Ayah will second.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to thank my friend, the hon. Member for Tinderet for bringing this important Motion on the Floor of the House.

I know that hon. Members would very much like to speak on this Motion; and, therefore, I will not take much time. My attitude at the moment is that I am particularly sorry that this kind of Motion, at this time should have come to this House because it is just this week and last week that Members of this House have been discussing relationships between this House and the Civil Service; and on some occasions we had to be very reserved and restrained because Members have had very strong feelings that in some places in the Government civil servants have disregarded the competence; supremacy and importance of this House. Now, Sir, I will not generalize because this is a specific Motion dealing with a specific situation which has been caused by a specific individual. As the Mover has said, this Permanent Secretary has had a very dubious history both as a Permanent Secretary and, as I know him personally, as a person. I happen to have known him when he was a student at Makerere. Those who knew him then were not particularly impressed. It is unfortunate that the circumstances of our independence, the rush to Africanize, Mr. Deputy Speaker, made it necessary for men like this Permanent Secretary to become Permanent Secretaries. However, Sir, it would be unfair, because the gentleman is not in the House, for me to go into his personal history.

I would, however, like to say this: I will not allow his Minister to defend him if he is genuine because the letter has been copied to him. In other words, the Minister himself does not fall under the category of the so-called Government that has decided on the action the letter is referring to.

Hon. Members: Poor Minister!

Mr. Ayah: Therefore, Sir, we are in an embarassing situation as a House, that we are dealing with a situation where a civil servant and, therefore, a servant of a political Government which is represented in this House, now takes it upon himself to announce publicly that the Government, as a matter of policy, is not going to act on something decided by the Government in its capacity as the National Assembly. This is the question before the House: that somebody in this country has the audacity and, in my opinion, the bad manners, to announce publicly that the Government in its capacity as the National Assembly, having decided on a certain question, that this arrogant man now announces to the world that that very same Government, or some other group outside the National Assembly calling itself the Government, now says this is not true, it is not going to be acted upon.

I want to plead with my hon. friends that the question before us is a most serious one. We are involved with our own servant who has decided on his own authority to call himself the master. This is very serious.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I read this letter and as I read today's Press statement I asked myself the following question: this man, this Permanent Secretary, when he made that statement, when he wrote this letter, I was thinking in my own mind, the possible alternatives, what could have led to this kind of statement. First, Sir, I thought that surely somebody, somewhere, must have told him. Although some people say, possibly, he was illegally outside Mathari, I am sure he was not mad when he wrote this letter. However, assuming he was sane I am therefore saying that he must have had some authority for saying this, that somebody or some group of people have instructed him to write this letter. Since I disregard that possible alternative for the simple reason that he copied this letter to his Minister, I am assuming that the Government did not instruct him.

The other alternative, Sir, is that the gentleman in question is just downright ignorant, that he does not know the difference between the Government and the National Assembly or, alternatively, that he does not know which one is constitutionally superior to the other. I am assuming that the man—and I tend to think that this is the more positive, believable alternative—is just arrogant and ignorant. He does not know the difference, as I have stated. This leads to this conclusion, that he is not fit to be a Permanent Secretary.

The third alternative, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is that the man who wrote this letter, the Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Education is deliberately out to bring enmity between this

[Mr. Ayah]

National Assembly and the whole Civil Service, he is deliberately trying to make this Parliament think that the whole Civil Service is just downright rotten which, God bless us, is not the case. I know straightforward, hard-working, honest and loyal civil servants, competent too. And here is one of them who is deliberately trying to make this National Assembly, to make the citizens of this Republic take the view that the whole Civil Service is just rotten, just disobedient, just ignorant and arrogant.

And I want these words to ring from here to all corners of this nation: that we of this National Assembly are confident that the majority of our top civil servants are doing a good job but also, Sir, I want the words to ring from this National Assembly and to all corners of this Republic, that we categorically refuse to allow any particular individual in the Civil Service, however high he is, to assume the position of looking down upon this House, letting the name of this Republic down and, above all, letting the name of the whole Civil Service down.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, with those few remarks, I beg to second the Motion.

(Question proposed)

Mr. ole Leken: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I rise to support this Motion.

You will recall that during the course of my speech on Tuesday last I said a few civil servants have, in fact, assumed a strong, independent autonomy. This is a clear demonstration whereby a resolution passed by this House, the National Assembly, a House which under the Constitution has supreme powers, a House which represents the masses of this country, has been ignored and this is very, very serious. This contempt must be dealt with accordingly.

It would help if we were told who is the greater in the Ministry, the Permanent Secretary or the Minister.

Hon. Members: Permanent Secretary.

Mr. ole Leken: The Minister, therefore, in that respect, is a rubber stamp. Can you imagine your own Permanent Secretary giving you a copy of a letter which says, "I am directed . . .". Who directs?

An hon. Member: Very serious!

An hon. Member: Ask the Minister.

Mr. ole Leken: Who directs? It is not the Minister. So this House is being reduced to nothing, it is of no value. Even resolutions passed here are turned aside by a mere Permanent Secretary. This Permanent Secretary, who is just appointed to hold a senior post, has the audacity to speak against the wishes of the representatives of this country, the wishes of the people of this country.

Now, Sir, I am surprised to note again, the gentleman referred to said very clearly "I am directed . . ." What I want to find out—and, I am speaking seriously—is who directed this gentleman because the letter says, "I am directed" and is copied to his Minister. That means there is somebody above who must have directed him.

An hon. Member: Who is that?

Mr. Mutiso: The invisible!

Mr. ole Leken: We are not even practising the system of Government which normally lays down what must be done. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if the hon. Members can listen to me for a while I will give them a chance to speak.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I consider that the steps taken by the hon. Member for Tinderet constitute the best course for the moment. It should be stressed that any resolution passed by this House should be given first priority without any condition. This is the House of representatives, not the House of Permanent Secretaries. It is we who are the policy-makers of this country. We are given the authority by the public but a few Ministers are shying away from the powers they have been given.

The Minister for Education has completely failed, he is unable to perform the duties of his post and the Permanent Secretary has been given all the powers. The Minister is a first class theorist because, honestly, now can he allow this to happen?

Sir, I therefore request the House to take this seriously and hope that the Committee which will look into this matter will go into this deeply and sincerely so as to make sure that—

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Is it true that the Minister for Education has surrendered his powers to his Permanent Secretary?

Mr. ole Leken: With those few remarks, Sir, I beg to support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we in this House, as has already been stated, are reasonable people who were selected from among many other people because we are capable to come to this House and talk and legislate on behalf of those who elected us to come here. As other Members have said, we in this House, last week and this week have expressed our fears: that the powers are being usurped by some of the top civil servants. Amongst us, there are those who thought that if some of us did not say what some of us said, they would be in the good books of those they fear. Some of us said that some of the top civil servants were so big for their boots that they disregarded Members of Parliament, Ministers, Assistant Ministers and they thought they were the ones meant to run the Government. Evidently, there are very many of them. However, I want to be precise on this because other Members have to speak too.

Civil servants today, Sir, some of them, at least, we know their background. We know that during the struggle for independence they acted as "Special Branch" on us, they reported us to their masters, they did all sorts of things during the emergency. Despite that, Mzee Kenyatta told us to forgive and forget. Of course, forgiving is not forgetting. We gave them promotions; the positions they hold they would never have dreamt of holding during the colonial era. The results as the Swahili people say are, ahsante ya punda ni teke. Let the few pundas among the top civil servants know one thing: that we know what they did, we have forgiven that but we have not forgotten. We shall accuse them to the public at large and they may find that Kenya is a very small place for them to stay in. Today it looks very big for them because some of them can get themselves photographed with the Head of State. They can push the Ministers and even Members of Parliament aside and go near the Head of State and get photographed with him. Then they think they are bigger than the people elected to represent the views of the masses in this distinguished House.

I want to inform the hon. Members that one civil servant had the audacity, when I was trying to solve a problem of one of the constituents of a certain Member, in Mombasa—I am a public servant in terms of politics and, therefore, I am prepared to deal with any problem that is brought to me. When I asked this civil servant to do me a favour for one member of the public who wanted his services to be extended because he had reached retirement age, this man was so fussy. I telephoned the civil servant and asked him kindly to telephone me back, and he refused. This went on for a second and third time. The fourth time I told him I was an elected representative of the people and I expected the civil servants to respect me and telephone me. He refused. I telephoned again only to find his Secretary telling me that he was there in the office. When I spoke to him he was so rude that he banged the telephone in my ears. Mr. Deputy Speaker, you can see the danger here. I am trying to help a civil servant to get his service extended because he had some problems with his children's education. This other man would not even listen to me and yet even the colonialists would have listened to us. But this one who has been trained by the colonialists had the audacity to bang the telephone in my ears.

Now, Sir, if those top civil servants think that what happened in Uganda can happen here, they should wake up because in Uganda, we are told, they used to do a two days' job in two months' time. When somebody else took over, then they had to change and do a two months' job in two days' time.

If they are allowed to frustrate the people of this country in the hope that when something happens they will be like people were in Uganda, then they are completely misled, and may God have mercy on them.

The person in question was the subject matter of this House in 1969 and I had the displeasure of seconding the Motion because I felt very bad. Today, Sir, I speak to the Motion. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to ask one question. Supposing it was somebody else, would he still be in the Service? Suppose it was somebody else, a district officer, a chief or somebody else, would he still be working today? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it appears as if the Permanent Secretaries are so permanent that nobody can do anything about them. However, if it so appears which means it is not true, actually this Motion should go through, the Committee of Privileges recommends to this House what should be done, and let us see that invisible government, which gives those secretaries those directions. If this is not the Government which can give directions, and there is another invisible government to give these directions, then we shall know that day.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, hon. Towett is one of the capable Ministers; and above all he is a philosopher. Now, two things are quite certain here. One is that the people of Buret have been humiliated because they thought hon. Towett was the best person they could offer, and they offered him. Mzee, again, looked at Towett and saw that he was a good brain and he offered him a Ministry. Do you see, Mr. Deputy Speaker, how serious the whole situation is? The views of Buret people have been abused. The head of State, who gave him the post, has been abused, and the views of the supreme authority of the country have been abused. Now, what do we do?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if a Mr. Gachathi was all that competent—I do not know where he comes from—the people of his area would have elected him to this House. It was free for all civil servants to resign and go to contest the elections, and we have some of them here.

An hon. Member: He comes from Kiambaa.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Kiambaa people should have elected him, then Mzee would have looked at him and given him the Ministry—but he felt how useless he would be there and decided to remain silent. However, now, here Buret people brought a capable man, a philosopher, and he has the audacity to give him only copy of a letter. The first thing should have been a copy to the Minister, but now he starts with the chairman, Kariithi and then comes to the Minister. He is number three. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Members should not laugh at this because it is a very serious matter. The man, himself, has no order of protocol. I guess the Assistant Ministers never had any copies. The Assistant Ministers did not even get a copy. I guess he felt the Assistant Ministers were nothing and there was no need even to inform them.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I repeat again, there was an argument by one of the hon. Members here, that we were a bridge between the public and the Government. I said, the Government is Ministers and Members of Parliament. If we are a bridge, then there must be another Government and that Government was the Government of the civil servants. Today, it is evident. Now, all the Ministers here and Members of Parliament, we are indeed a bridge between the people and the top civil servants. Therefore, one of them, an invisible fellow, writes to the Minister, who is a Member of Parliament; in other words, he is a bridge of Buret, to the Minister for Education, and the Minister is Gachathi.

I must say one thing, because I want to give other Members a chance to speak. These Permanent Secretaries, and there are more of that kind, including that one who banged the telephone into my ears, must be told that this House is the supreme authority and Mzee makes no secret about it, and he even says it from the seat of this House that this is the supreme authority of this country. We would be failing hopelessly and miserably, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if nothing happens to a dishonourable Mr. Gachathi. We will be failing in our duties if nothing happens to him. This is the ram that we must sacrifice on the altar of other insane civil servants who have the ideas similar to that of a Mr. Gachathi. When we cut this one, then the rest will know that there is some danger somewhere.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support very strongly.

Mr. Somo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in this letter, which is written by the Permanent Secretary, Mr. Gachathi, in section two, here, I find Members attacking Gachathi and it is stated very clearly here that: "I have been directed". Is it in order for them to attack him?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): We are dealing with the statement as it appears in the Press. I have not been shown that letter and I do not know whether that letter is genuine or not. You should have given me the letter before you rose on a point of order.

Mr. Boy: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for having given me this opportunity to air my views on this very important Motion. I am supporting the Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when one speaks, or discusses something with his friend, one must always make reference or refer to something which has connexion with the discussion at hand. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are discussing the conduct and behaviour of a certain civil servant who took an opportunity to make a Press statement trying to inform other people, or the world, that this House can do nothing. I am, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, a representative of the people and I believe strongly that this House is representative of the people. This, House, Sir, is charged with looking after the general welfare of the nation. It is a fact, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that some civil servants do believe they are the Government. They also think, of course, that Members of Parliament, or the Parliament itself, is nothing. Now, it has come out quite clearly, Sir, that as we were discussing the other day about the over-expenditure of the public money, certain civil servants or people have spent public money without the authority of this House. Now we are told here that what we discussed here about University is nothing. This means that this House is meaningless. Some civil servants believe that this House—

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I can hear the Minister talking on the other side. In fact, they are the people who are dominated by the so-called Permanent Secretaries.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think that this House has a duty to correct some mistakes, especially of those made by people who think that they are doing the correct thing when they are, in fact, not doing so. I strongly believe that he is not the only one. It so happens that he is the only one who has come forward, as one of those civil servants who think that he has supreme authority. Perhaps, possibly, a group of people have advised him to take such measures because nothing can happen. Where is the responsibility of this House? It is, indeed, a challenge to his House; it is a contempt of this House. Are we accepting the statement issued by the Permanent Secretary or not? If we are not, what should we do. Now, should we correct it or leave it like that? I strongly believe that something should be done to correct such things. If something is not done, not only Mr. Gachathi or whoever he is, some people should be taught a lesson that this House is the supreme authority of this nation. It is not an authority for only a simple man but for all men. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we should be told quite clearly if there is an invisible Government or a group of people somewhere else who believe that they can do what they want regardless of what the Parliament thinks or has passed. We should be told, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because we have the peoples' authority. Even if we are told, Sir, are not we going to surrender the authority that our people have invested in us? If we are not going to surrender, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, some action must be taken straightaway in order to alleviate the situation. He is not the only one. We should not blame district officers, district commissioners or some civil servants who think that they are more important than the Government. These are the people who are giving directives to the junior people so as to misbehave towards Members of Parliament. I think, Sir, as a Member of this House, whatever we pass as a resolution, like the one we passed in the form of a Motion tabled by hon. Mwangale must be acted on. Now, if such resolutions cannot be honoured, it means that this House, as a whole, has been dishonoured! I have the right, here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, to support the Motion tabled by hon. Seroney who has had courage to table this Motion successfully. I would, therefore, urge the hon. Members of this House that we should not, in fact, take much time discussing this Motion. We should, instead, unanimously accept the Motion straightaway so that action can be taken.

[Mr. Boy]

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to support the Motion.

Mr. Kanja: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for my having caught your very sharp eye, and I am going to be very brief and precise. Sir, I rise to support the Motion, and while doing so I would like to congratulate my colleague, hon. Seroney, Member for Tinderet, for having realized the gravity and seriousness of this matter.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, senior civil servants have all been condemned; but a few demagogues, like Mr. Peter Gachathi, who have put a big wedge between the duly elected representatives of this Republic and the people who are supposed to be the executive arm of the Government should be denounced. We are the Government. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Parliament is very, very clearly defined in our Constitution and consists of the President, Vice-President and Members of this National Assembly. So, any member of the Civil Service who defies a resolution by this House also defies the President of this Republic. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the so-called Permanent Secretary (he is so permanent!) has all the audacity to challenge a decision, a resolution, by this hon. House—surely he has to be told that he must go back to where he was before we fought for independence. He could never, under the Colonial Government, have become a Permanent Secretary. A Permanent Secretary of what, Mr. Deputy Speaker? He could not have become a Permanent Secretary I am saying, Sir, and I do not want to lose my head, that those types of civil servants were the very homeguards who were saying that Kenya could never be ruled by an African! Even today, Sir, they are the same people who say "How did people like Kanja, who were once condemned to death, get to sitting in that hon. House and, to the position of giving us orders?" Sir, I give orders with the mandate of the people who elected me!

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a black man's country. Those civil servants who think that they should cling to the same old system of the colonial masters must be told in no uncertain terms that they must obey or else they should quit and we will get some other brainy chaps who are loitering in the streets with nothing to do and yet they have better polished brains than those deadwoods are trembling like (Inaudible). We sit here and say that we have an able and capable Civil Service. It is high time they registered. I dare say, Sir, that if I had my own power, empowered by this House, I would chuck out all the deadwoods—excuse my saying it—including Ministers who cannot discipline their Permanent Secretaries.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear! Hear!

Mr. Kanja: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, why do we have to come here and be paid by the Treasury—by the poor public—only to be challenged by the civil servants. Some of them say that we are making kelele. Is this not a clear indication that whatever we pass here will not be implemented so long as we continue having those types of Permanent Secretaries who do not know what they are doing?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, money is power! We have allowed—and I have repeatedly said in this House—our senior civil servants to indulge in so many businesses here, Mombasa and in other towns in this and that. As a result, they have accumulated so much money that if poor Kanja, sitting on this seat as an elected representative of Nyeri people and Kenya as a whole, and I do not earn more money than what has been voted for me, they say “Look at that poor parliamentarian.” Do you know what they call Members of Parliament, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir? They interpret “M.P.” as “Miserable Person”. They do not call us Members of Parliament but “Miserable People”. They say we are miserable people because we have no money. Surely we have to do something more. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. If we do not do it, as hon. Shikuku quoted, they are on a slow strike not to implement the decisions of this hon. House so that things go wrong and when they will have all gone wrong the first people to lose their heads will be us. Sir, by losing heads, I mean that hon. Ngei will no longer be hon. Ngei because his head will be here and his legs will be there. They will say, “Oh! You people, you know I was only being directed.” Who is this invisible director that we do not know? We are supposed to be the directors. We are supposed to direct them by the mandate of the people. Those invisible masters must come out and tell us who they represent. If people like Gachathi have the audacity to go on saying that they are directed, they must tell us who their directors are if they are not to be directed by this hon. House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I know many hon. Members want to air their on this Motion and, therefore, with these very few words, I beg to support very strongly.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Towett.

Hon. Members: Shame! Shame! Shame!

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am deeply concerned with what we are discussing this afternoon.

An hon. Member: Resign.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am willing to resign any time, even now; but may I—

Hon. Members: Yes, yes! Resign.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett):—Sir, say that if my resignation will put things right, I will do it. May I Sir, ask the hon. Members to let me present my case before they can shout at me, or before I can resign.

I was very much shocked this morning, at 8.30 a.m. when I went to my office, to read in the East African Standard, about this “Members of Parliament University Demands Shelved”. I was shocked, I was paralysed, and I tried to find out what was happening and, Sir, I now know what was happening.

Hon. Members: That is very good. Tell us.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Sir, the Government was equally affected and concerned about the publication of the said statement, Sir, it is not, and it has never been, the intention of our Government to disregard, ignore or shelve Motions that are passed through and by this respectable House. These are my own words, Sir, that have not been put into my head by anybody from outside myself. The Government knows pretty well that its survival and continuance is dependent on the survival and continuance of this very House. The Government attaches the greatest importance to all the deliberations of the House because the House is the representative of the 11½ million people of the Republic of Kenya. The hon. Members here came to this House through the voice of the people. They represent all the people in the Republic and the Government, Sir, is the executive arm of that voice of the people. That is the Government; the executive arm. This is the House; the voice of the people.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that I am sorry for what happened and I hope it will never happen again.

Hon. Members: Oh, no! No! No!

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Sir, when I say I am sorry, of course, I am sorry for what happened. Nobody will say I am not sorry for what happened. I am sorry about it.

Sir, I would like to say that what was reported in the East African Standard is as factual as it appears on the letter which was referred to and which was read to us by the hon. Member for Tinderet, Mr. Seroney. There is no blame from me aimed at the papers saying that the papers had any intentions, motivewise, bad or good. Sir, I am a democrat, and so long as I live I shall endeavour to live by democratic standards, one of which is to defend a democratic government; and by a democratic government I mean a government elected by the people of this country.

[The Minister for Education]

It is my intention, Sir, to implement the implementable parts or sections of the hon. Mr. Mwangale's Motion.

Hon. Members: Oh, no! No!

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): As you know, Sir, the Motion has three sections, (a), (b), and (c).

An hon. Member: Do not discuss the Motion.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): I am told I should not discuss the Motion; but may I put my piece of mind on record. One of them, Sir, was to dissolve the University Council and to appoint a new one with membership on a provincial basis. The other two—

Mr. Mulwa: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is the Minister in order now to try to revive a debate which has already been passed? The Motion was debated here, and if he had any grounds of objection he would have objected. Now we are discussing something else and he is reviving that. It is a question of accepting it, wholly, as it is or not.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, that is not quite correct according to the constitutional provision. The resolutions of this House are requests on the Government, which the Government is expected to honour by virtue of the fact that this is a representative body; the supreme authority of this country. The hon. Minister said that he was going to implement what was implementable. Now, he is trying to explain, at this juncture, what he regards as implementable. Before we have heard what he wants to say, there is no point in any Member standing up to oppose it because we have not heard it yet.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I was saying that the other two—(b) and (c)—were to appoint a commission to inquire into the affairs of the university with a view to making recommendations for its smooth and efficient running and to establish more constituent colleges which are geographically dispersed throughout the Republic of Kenya.

To start with, Sir, I want to inform the House that I shall soon name a mission to look into the vocational, industrial and academic aspects of the Kenya educational system from primary up to university level. This body will inevitably give me a report on the future increased diversification and expansion of primary, secondary and university education which, of course, will take into account the geographical background and distribution or dispersal of our educational institutions. This body, Sir, will be named by me within the next two or three months. I am looking for a suitable candidate, who is more or less conversant with, or is aware of university matters from North-Eastern Province for consideration for appointment to the University Council. As I said before, Sir, out of our seven provinces have persons in the University Council, and it was only the North-Eastern Province that had no representation in the Council. Sir, Nairobi is perhaps over-represented in the Council because the majority—

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Sir, I thought we had seen this Motion and we are dealing with a specific issue of suspension and now the Minister is talking on the Motion we have already passed. Sir, is it really in order for us to widen it so much that we may not even reach a conclusion?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, from my understanding, the hon. Minister has said that he was as much shocked as everybody in this House was. He read the newspaper this morning and he said he was sorry for whatever happened; this is what I understood. He is now trying to remedy the situation; he is putting across what he regards as the right part. We will not allow, of course, to open the old debate. It is not possible for the Minister, as he knows, to re-open the whole debate because the House has already resolved on that matter. Our Standing Orders prevent any discussions on a matter that has already been resolved except on a Substantive Motion. That is not what we have here now; so, I will ask the Minister to come back to the Motion that we are dealing with, which is on the question of privilege.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I agree with your ruling. However, this letter in question says that the Government has decided that it has no intention of acting on this Motion, and that is why I am bringing this particular aspect into it because the letter— Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am trying to say that the Government intends to implement the Motion. This is what I am saying. I was going on to show that—

Mr. Ogingo: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, would it not be in order for me to ask the Minister to tell us who specifically directed this particular Permanent Secretary to write the letter he wrote?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I thought he said that he did not direct that to be done; but not in as many words as I have said it. If he was shocked to read this statement in the newspapers, surely that follows that he did not direct the Permanent Secretary to write the letter. That the hon. Members are concerned with, Mr. Towett, is that you come back to this particular Motion and explain what the views of the Government are with regard to that Motion.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as you are the guardian of this House, I would like to seek your guidance here because the Minister is going astray. The Minister is dwelling on a lot of details connected with his office. The House is not interested to know the other details of the Motion. Will you bring the Minister to order so that he can speak about Mr. Gachathi, who is his Permanent Secretary because that is what the House is interested in?

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am seeking your guidance here. The Minister says that he was surprised to read about this letter in the morning in the papers, but it is shown in the letter that a copy was sent to him, and furthermore the letter is dated, 15th or 17th of this month. Is the Minister implying that he never saw this copy of the letter?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I was allowed to continue I would say something about that. However, since it is a question-and-answer type of a debate, I want to say that I was shocked to see the report in the newspapers.

An hon. Member: On a point of order—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No further points of order, because the Minister is trying to come back to the correct part of the Motion.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Motion is before the House and, as I had said earlier on, this House is the voice of the people. Since it is the wish of this House to discuss this Motion, I will allow the Motion to go on. I know that I have no power to stop the Motion and there is nobody who has any power to stop any Motion in this House. Therefore, Sir, I will leave the Motion there to be discussed and I wait to see what can be done later.

Mr. Y. Ali: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I rise up here to support this Motion with all the strength at my disposal.

I believe this Motion is well timed. This Motion is straightforward. This Motion is going to expose to this nation what is happening in this country. This is the reason why I rise up to support this Motion.

Secondly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate my two hon. friends, the Mover and the Seconder of this Motion for their courage to come out in order to save this country from subversion and from the ill intentions of creating conditions between the rulers and the people of this country. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am going to speak my mind. At the same time I am not going to allow myself to lose my head— That is the reason why, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am going to confine myself to one point only, because I believe this point is the most important as far as this issue before us is concerned. I want to speak about the 12 million people in this country. It is because of these people this Parliament is in existence, and that is also the reason why we have Permanent Secretaries, Ministers and Assistant Ministers in this country. If there were not 12 million people in this country, nothing else would have bound this country together. I have repeatedly said in this House, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we who have been given the responsibilities and privileges of looking after the affairs of this country, there are some of us who have forgotten that we have been entrusted with the responsibilities— It is just like me asking my hon. friend here to look after this paper and, in the meantime, I go out for a short call. However, this Government is no one's property. Kenya's affairs are no one's monopoly. It is the right of everybody in the country. We here in this House, in particular, speak on behalf of the people. I say this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with full knowledge and great experience because I have documents and in my possession which ridicule, belittle, and do all sort of things to this House. The documents I have in my possession are equivalent to saying that there is no Parliament in Kenya. To say there is no Parliament in Kenya, means that there are no people in Kenya or wananchi—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! I think this heckling is going too far. We cannot hear over the noises that are being made here.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like you to discipline the House, especially the hon. Members who are shouting because they appear not to know the Standing Orders. The hon. Member speaking has categorically mentioned that he has some documents and, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, according to our Standing Orders once an hon. Member mentions that he has some documents, because he has said that, he has to produce those documents or lay them on the Table for the other hon. Members to see.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! A habit is developing whereby Members prejudge what the Chair is going to say. I heard somebody saying "No". As a matter of fact, the hon. Member who has just sat down is quite right. If an hon. Member discusses a document and purports to represent what that document says, as the hon. Member for Langata, Mr. Ali, has just done, then he is obliged by our Standing Orders to lay the document on the Table of this House so that it can be printed and seen by the Members in this House.

Mr. Y. Ali: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with great pleasure, if given time I will lay the papers on the Table of this House. If I am given time, tomorrow I will lay the papers on this Table.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Lay those papers on the Table tomorrow morning.

Mr. Y. Ali: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I will lay the papers on the Table of this House tomorrow morning, because I know what I am speaking about. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am speaking with full knowledge because I have been a Member of this Parliament for over a year now and I know how some of us are being treated because I am affected. This case before us here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is similar to an explosion. According to me, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this has been brewing, or cooking, for some time. Almost each and every Member in this House has been pushed or harassed in one way or another. However, the time for this to come up had not arrived, but today the time has come. This is the explosion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, which has been brewing. We have to come here and speak our minds. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that is the reason why I have said that I will lay these documents on the Table of this House so that some Members here may follow them to prove for themselves that what we have been saying here is the truth.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the people of this country should be respected because we know that the problem, or the biggest task, facing this Government is the one of making its people rich. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this Government cannot make everybody rich in this country overnight; this Government cannot provide shambas for everybody overnight, or houses, for that matter. But there is one thing which this Government must provide to its people, Mr. Deputy Speaker. This is respect, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Every mwananchi in this country deserves respect; every mwananchi's dignity in this country must be recognized and maintained and that is why this House is supreme. This is very serious, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, and I fully associate myself with my hon. friend, Mr. Kanja, when he said that the Members of Parliament are being called wapishi by some people. But, what is wrong even if I was a cook employed by the colonialists ten years ago, and today the wananchi, because this House belongs to them, have sent me here? Who has the right to question this? I think God created all of us as human beings. This is the gist of the matter and this is what is troubling this country, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because a few people have been fortunate to acquire education and to acquire degrees, they are looking down on others who have been unfortunate. But, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, to tell the truth, I must say that they are just a small fraction of the 12 million people who are now in Kenya.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since I do not want to deviate from my speech. I agree with the previous speakers who have said that the supremacy of this House and the supremacy of this nation must be maintained at all costs.

Finally, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to support this Motion very strongly.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the question before this House is of a national importance because it guides two principles, or rather two facts. For those people who take Government as their personal effect and those people who take Government for the interest of the public.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would have been rudely awakened today if I had a letter, being copied to me by the people who are subordinate to me. In any responsible position that I may hold in the Government, in commerce or anywhere in the four corners of the world, I should hate to have a subordinate copying a letter, or in other words copying his decisions to me if I am, by virtue of my nomination by a legal representative, who is above me like the President, or by nomination or election, entrusted in an office like the one I hold.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, today we have a serious matter which is concerning one individual as a culprit and who, by himself, decides to act on behalf of Government to give a decision against a resolution passed by this hon. House. This is a very serious matter and we must decide now and then the procedure to be followed in dealing with this matter. This matter involves policy decisions of Government—

An hon. Member: Suspend him.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): If I am given time I would like to drive some points home on this matter because it is very serious.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have a culprit who has gone against a resolution of the House. This culprit ought to have informed the Minister concerned, who a few minutes ago denied him and said, "I did not authorize him to write this letter". Therefore, this man is the culprit. Therefore, as a democrat and a Government Minister, I shall leave no stone unturned with my bullets towards this culprit. I do not care who is involved, whether it is my mother or my brother. This is a question of Government affairs and it is not a question of an individual. Therefore, we must not take things that concern the lives of many people in Kenya lightly. The milling place of the brains of young men who are passing through university, and whose decision has been favoured by this hon. House— One individual goes against a resolution of this House intended to improve the milling factory of minds of many of our Kenya people in university. This cannot be allowed. This, if I may say, is the worst civil servant; the type I would not like to have in any Government or in any place in the world. It is right and proper that this man must be brought into the proper place for discipline. I am therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, saying that this man must be brought before the Committee that deals with contempt of this honourable and respectable House.

I would like to say one thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Today there are some— I will repeat what I said in my speech during the debate on the Report of the Public Accounts Committee because I never like putting all people in the same basket if they do not belong to that basket. That is why I will never be a fisherman because a fisherman puts tilapia together with the other fish creatures called black bass. You will see that fishermen put tilapia and black bass together. I would not like to put the civil servants together. But I have seen of late, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that some civil servants belong to the privileged sphere and as such they have become very big-headed. They have hated the Members of Parliament—their measuring rod of status of politicians is the degree of hatred and contempt they have for Members of Parliament. When they look at me when I am passing, it is as if they do not care whether I am the Vice-President, a Minister, an Assistant Minister or, for that matter, the chairman of a board or a respectable Member of Parliament, they have to measure me with their measuring rod of hatred and not by the goods that I can deliver because I have been elected by the people. This is very wrong indeed. They think they belong to a special class and they can take Government decisions as their personal effects. I want to make it quite clear that so long as we live we shall make this country democratic and we shall stand by the principles of democracy.

We shall respect the civil servants who are doing their work properly. Why is it, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the Auditor-General has been given constant praise in this House? Why is it that we do not see the Auditor-General as a civil servant but as a man who is looking after the affairs—the financial affairs—of this country? I am sure that this House likes Mr. Njoroge—the Auditor-General. The one thing I like about Mr. Njoroge is that he has a calm head; he has no wings; he does not attend the mbuzi parties where the politicians are discussed. He is honest, sincere and forward seeing. What about this culprit? If I were to be dirty, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, and at this age of my political experience, I would reveal the history of some civil servants who are troubling this country and making the Government unpopular. If these intelligent heads, the intelligent minds assembled here because they have been elected by many intelligent brains in the country throughout Kenya, and they have been blessed to come over here resolve and say they want a particular motion, or a particular decision, or particular feeling of wananchi to be implemented in our Nairobi University, who is this Gachathi to say that he has a new decision?

Hon. Members: Tell us!

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): I am not the one to tell you. I think the hon. Minister has already told you.

I am very grateful to the Minister because of what he said. If my colleague spoke the contrary, I would have spoken very strongly and I would have asked the Buret people to get rid of him. However, the Minister has been very honourable because he faces an issue which he knows has been done under his feet. And, I say, Mr. Minister, I think you very much for your straight-forwardness.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to end by a humble submission that something must be done, and not only to this particular one but to many who are really going outside the right way which the Government wants. I do not want the Government to be unpopular because of the actions of a few people; I do not want to condemn all the civil servants but the ones who are doing the wrong things at the wrong time must be rooted out.

With these few remarks, as a democrat, I fully endorse the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for giving me this golden opportunity to say a few words in the form of denunciation.

However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like first to pose two questions:—

My question number one is: “Is the fact that this House is the highest authority in this country a reality in practice?”

My number two question, Sir, is: “Is the present practice, whereby some civil servants virtually rule the country reconcilable with the theory that Kenya has a political Government?”

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the answers to both questions are known. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, a war has been declared by civil servants in this country against politicians and, therefore, let us agree here and now, unanimously, that we are going to finish this war. We must finish this war, Sir.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with all due respect, and without being emotional and hot in this particular connexion, I think this House, this honourable House, this House of Members of Parliament, this House of elected Members of Parliament, this House of respected people, this House of brains, brains that have been selected all over the country; this House of gentlemen and ladies—I must say gentlemen first, because this is in keeping with our African tradition. This House of gentlemen and ladies has tolerated enough contempt and, therefore, let us resolve now and here, all of us, Ministers, Assistant Ministers, and hon. Back-benchers, together as one group today, that we shall no longer accept any nyokonyoko; in the word of His Excellency, the President, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, because what has happened today does amount to nyokonyoko.

Hon. Members: What is nyokonyoko; what is the meaning?

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, here is a situation whereby, notwithstanding the fact that the Cabinet, Chaired by His Excellency the President, Mzee Jomo Kenyatta, notwithstanding the fact that the Government is formed by the Cabinet, we have a civil servant who has the audacity to write a letter and copy it to his boss, his Minister, and say that the Government... Which is this invisible Government?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to relate another incident; just a recent incident when, I, as an Assistant Minister in this honourable Government, travelled from Wajir to Nairobi here and related to the Press the severity of the drought in the area and then a junior civil servant, by name of Deputy Permanent Secretary in the President's Office, had the audacity to call the Press and say that the Kenya Government does not accept this statement. Which is this Kenya Government; the Kenya Government of which I am an Assistant Minister or another one?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is high time—Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, let us face the reality squarely, and it is high time that we really think seriously. It is high time that we were told by whoever is responsible for this sort of thing, whether there is an invisible Government in Kenya. If there is no invisible Government in Kenya, and if the legal Government is the Government of which I am an Assistant Minister for Housing, then, Sir, I think there is a lot of inconsistency.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, some of us who have been in such positions, as Assistant Ministers, have been looked down upon by some civil servants who, in the real sense, should have been our own assistances.

Mr. Karungaru: Why did you allow them?

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Khalif): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, a very good question is posed by the Member for Embakasi. He asks me, Sir, “Why do I allow them”? I have never allowed them; I will never allow them. Let us all, collectively, agree not to allow them.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for allowing me to say a few words on this very important Motion. Sir, we all seem to agree that we should condemn this man, Mr. Gachathi, whether we are Back-benchers or Ministers, and I am very pleased about it. This is the first time I have seen us work in co-operation and I hope this will continue—this spirit of co-operation. I hope it will continue, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

However, Sir, before I deliver my condemnation of Mr. Gachathi—

Hon. Members: Do not call him “Mr.”.

Mr. Mulwa: Thank you for correcting me.

I have a few observations to make. I agree we should punish this Permanent Secretary, and I do that wholly, so that he serves as an example to the others. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we must also look at the whole issue because I think it is more than just Gachathi alone. If you listened to the Members speaking here, even though the Motion is on Mr. Gachathi, you would have noticed that there is some discontent expressed by the Members of Parliament about the role of the civil servants.

[Mr. Mulwa]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question is, where is this coming from? I think that is the crucial matter here. Mr. Gachathi is just one among others. What he has done is that he has overdone it. Others are also doing this. Let us face the facts.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have the Constitution, which is very clear on some of these things, and I think there is some confusion here as to the powers of the legislature, that is, the House of Parliament here, and the executive arm of Government. Maybe, this confusion is coming because the Head of the executive is also the Head of the legislature, because the President is the executive arm of Government and he is also a Member of Parliament as well as the Head of State. Maybe, this is where the confusion comes from.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you look at section 22 of the Constitution, you will see that it talks about the Permanent Secretaries. It also talks about the powers of the Ministers.

Without boring you, Mr. Speaker, with what that section says, I can just summarize it by saying that the Permanent Secretaries, under the Constitution's strength, section 22 (1), are responsible to the Ministers. That is quite clear.

Section 23 (1) vests the power of the executive into the hands of the President. But then Mr. Speaker, Sir, here is where the problem comes. The executive is supposed to do what the Parliament says, and the executive is not supposed to legislate. So, when the President orders anything to be done in his power as the Head of the executive, he does what Parliament says should be done. It is the work of the Ministers, under the Constitution, to see that the Permanent Secretaries do what Parliament says, and the Permanent Secretaries are answerable to the Ministers. That is also quite clear.

Notwithstanding all that, it appears that there is some frustration which is most experienced by our Ministers, and this is quite evident from what they have been saying today. Why do we not find out where this frustration is coming from instead of beating about the bush? It appears that, in fact, if the Ministers were to tell us frankly, if they meet in the Cabinet at all, whatever is said there does not seem to go down to their Permanent Secretaries and vice versa. I am saying that because it appears from what I have seen, from my own observations, these Ministers here would like to say exactly what we the Back-benchers say, only that they are tied. I think that is a fact and they will accept it. Why so? It is because it appears there is another force somewhere—a hidden force—which seems to be more powerful than they, themselves.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Mulwa: I would, under normal circumstances—I say under normal circumstances—have requested the Ministers and under such circumstances, to resign, on matters of principle. However, I am not going to ask our Ministers to do that for one simple reason. You all know, and I think they also know, that if anyone of them attempted to do that, saying that he was resigning on a matter of principle, he would be followed until he had no pants.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is for that reason that I will not insist that they should resign on a matter of principle because I am aware of what will happen to them. But the only thing—

An hon. Member: Who will follow them?

Mr. Mulwa: I do not know, but what I will—

Mrs. Onyango: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member has said clearly, "Who follows those people who resign?" We also want to know them.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that was a very good question from the hon. Member for Kisumu, but I think the other day there was a question here on J. M. Kariuki. Here, again, you saw something funny. As I understand it, he was having a social—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! That has nothing to do with what you said. That is a separate issue dealing with people being followed after resigning on a matter of principle.

Mr. Mulwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was going to elaborate on that. What I was trying to say, in answer to what the hon. Lady asked, as to who will follow them, I think it is the invisible government. If you ask me about it—actually, I do not know where it is. How can I know that? It is invisible, and even if you press me to go and show you where it is, I do not know. Even the Ministers do not know. How can they know?

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I think should be done here is, in order to acknowledge the fact that the civil servants who are misbehaving, whatever they are doing, we, as parliamentarians, are equally to blame, and I must emphasize this. These people are misbehaving, or they seem to have taken the powers of the parliamentarians because there has been a vacuum which has been created somewhere. This vacuum has been created by the non-existence of an effective party. That is why you find that the district commissioners, the provincial commissioners, and the small people like the district officers, kick about Members of Parliament. It is because there is no existing party which is functioning properly. There is this vacuum, and whether you like it or not, so long as there is a vacuum created there, these people will continue bothering us. No other good party—I promise you, you will not see this nyokonyoko, as hon. Khalif said. Let us face the facts. So long as we live this vacuum there, and so long as we continue cheating ourselves that everything is well, then, my dear friends, through Mr. Speaker, you are in trouble, and let me warn you again.

Mr. Speaker, most of the things happening today might one day be questioned. What might be done? They might be questioned one day. This might be within seven or 15 years, but they will be questioned.

But look at this: it is not the civil servants and not Mr. Gachathi who will be questioned by the wananchi but it is we, the politicians, who will be the culprits. You will be the culprits with these very Ministers. There are so many of you, and you have a Cabinet in which you meet. I do not know the force of this invisible government, and I also do not know how many Members of the Cabinet are in this invisible government, but I have a feeling that you, Cabinet Ministers, may be more than the members of that invisible cabinet. I understand they also possibly sit with you. So, why do you not become tough like ourselves, the Back-benchers, and let us find out more about this invisible government and outvote it? I am sure, if only you stuck to your guns—I am not asking you to resign because I know what will happen to you if you resign. I do not wish to ask you to do that, but stand on your toes and make sure that if you go into your Cabinet you can outvote some of these decisions by the invisible government, and stand on your own.

With these few words, I would like to give the other Members opportunity to speak.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Hon. Members are aware that we started at around 4.30 p.m. and it is now about ten minutes past six o'clock. We have only a few minutes before the time for the interruption of business, and it is my feeling that there is no need to drag this debate to another day. I think that what has been said has been quite sufficient. I am, therefore, going to put the question that the Mover be now called upon to reply. In an issue like this I think in spite of how you feel and in spite of your desire to speak you should also take into account other factors like time. The question is that the Mover be called upon to reply.

(Question that the Mover be now called upon to reply, put and negatived)

I am not quite sure whether the Ayes or the Noes had it but I do not want us to take time on an unnecessary Division. The more you drag this issue the less serious you seem to indicate that it is. So, I will allow only one person to speak for only ten minutes but not more.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think we are reducing the dignity of this House to something very small. Is it really in order, despite the fact that we all want to speak, for Members to raise their hands as if they are in a classroom?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, it is out of order. My feeling is that all that is worth saying has been said. Most of what is now being said—what was being said lately was only repetition.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for giving me this time to air my views on this very grave matter. Mr. Speaker, Sir, last time during the course of my speech I made it clear that it is not every civil servant that is bad. Today, Mr. Speaker, I have noted that all hon. Members support that not all civil servants in our Republic are bad. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I said that not every civil servant is bad, I also admitted that there are some civil servants who are bad. Mr. Speaker, Sir, today we have this very clear evidence. Mr. Gachathi is an example of one of the bad civil servants of the day.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we should not labour with this Motion any more as you directed. I feel it has the support, the united support of both the Back-benchers, the hon. Members of Parliament, and all Ministers. Therefore, if a Motion like this one is brought to the House and we have unanimous support, then, why should we, Mr. Speaker, labour very much on it? I feel that we must come to a conclusion. There is one point, Sir, that I would like to make clear. I can hear, or I have been hearing, Sir, some hon. Members, who in addition to blaming the offender, have also blamed the Minister. Let me make this quite clear.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am an Assistant Minister in the Kenya Government and so are the other senior Ministers here. We are all appointed by the President of the Republic and so are the Permanent Secretaries. The powers that the Minister have are not enough—this is what I want to make quite clear to the hon. Members—because if the Minister, now, wants to discharge or to suspend the Permanent Secretary, he cannot. He cannot, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because according to the Constitution, the Minister has no power to sack his Permanent Secretary. What he can only do—and let us be patient—is to report the matter to the President who also appointed the Permanent Secretary. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I request the hon. Members not to lay the blame on the Ministers because they have certain powers that they cannot use.

[The Assistant Minister for Health]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another point which I want to make—this matter is very very grave. We do not want anybody to try and put contempt on this honourable House. We do not want anybody to try to put contempt on our own people who have elected us. The only thing I wanted to point out, and that is why I stood to speak, was that we should see to it that in this, Motion which was moved by hon. Seroney, apart from asking the Permanent Secretary to be questioned by the Privilege Committee, he is suspended from his duties. This is why I wanted with the permission of the hon. Mover of this Motion, to ask that the following words be added “That pending the audience with the Privilege Committee, the culprit who wrote the letter should be suspended from his duties with effect from tonight”.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a very important point. If the hon. Members want to exercise their powers, and they want to be recognized by the Republic that they are the supreme authority, they should not only act theoretically but they should act and show action to those wrongdoers who are trying to spoil the good name of our Government. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I demand very strongly that when the hon. Mover is replying, he should add to that Motion the words “That gentleman should be suspended forthwith”. I think the House endorses those words to be put in that Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am going to finish by saying that if this document really comes from the said person, I think he should be brought to my Ministry tomorrow—I mean the Ministry of Health—so that I order a psychiatrist to study his mind.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also agree with the last speaker—let us not deceive ourselves—a Mr. Gachathi has been working in this Government for a long time. Let us face facts as they are. He has been handling various Ministries as the Permanent Secretary—let us agree with this. He is also not a big fool enough to write on the letter that he is directed if he was not. Gentlemen and ladies, if we are to condemn Mr. Gachathi of being a spokesman of the Ministry without the authority of Government, we should also condemn whoever gave the directive. If I am asked who it is I will say he is the invisible director. I do not know who that person is; however, once this House comes to know that somebody directed, then I think that is the time you need also to act against the man who has given the orders. But if you just want to blame and hit the poor person who was directed, you will have not done your job as a Parliament here. Mr. Speaker, Sir, let us wait—

An hon. Member: Are you not a chameleon?

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): I am not a chameleon; I am a typical Masai of the “first order”. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I say, this—but this is just to predict—because I know once this man is summoned to come before the Committee of Privileges, he will also air his views. I am warning you of this: if you want to do a good service to the country, if you want to plant your seeds, you must uproot all the kwekwe that you think are spoiling your plants.

An hon. Member: What are kwekwe?

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mnataka kwekwe? Wait until Mr. Gachathi speaks. I am quite sure that the only safety that this Government has is to remove the roots of the directives given to the person in question. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very straightforward thing; a very straightforward Motion and we are all very serious. We want the resolutions passed by this House to be abided by and we want everybody to respect this House. By respecting this House, we will be respecting our own people who elected us. If any Minister or anybody else, does not respect the resolutions of this Parliament, it is not that he does not respect us as Members of Parliament, but he does not respect the public at large.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think even the civil servants themselves are not happy about the situation. Anybody who is trying to spoil the good name of our Republic—then most of the civil servants are also out to condemn him. I am quite sure of this because if this country is going to be run into chaos by unknown persons, are the civil servants going to be happy because Kenya is going to run into chaos?

An hon. Member: I hope not.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, to end my speech, I would request and call upon the civil servants of the country; those civil servants whom we trust; those civil servants who are the backbone of our country and those who have Kenya at heart, to join us, Members of Parliament, and condemn people of such activities. We do not want a division in Kenya. We want politicians, civil servants and raia to be one thing. Therefore, I do not want to expect a blame from the civil servants to the effect, "the politicians are doing this" nor do I also want the politicians to be condemning civil servants all the time. We must be one Kenya, one nation and one fruitful country. But we can only do this if we are going to single out the wrongdoers of our country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to request the Mover of this Motion to add the amendment or the words said, "to be suspended" to the Motion.

Thank you.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I promised to put the question at this stage and I am going to do so. The question is that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

(Question that the Mover be called upon to reply put and agreed to)

Mr. Seroney: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I would like to thank all the Members who have spoken in support of this Motion. This Motion has shown the solidarity of the House on a very important matter of principle. It has demonstrated that where the rights of the House are touched, Members can combine as one against all intruders. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is important because all of us here, whether we are Ministers, Assistant Ministers or Back-benchers, our basic dignity before, which we cannot obtain in any other way, is the fact that we were elected by our constituents to come and represent them in this August Assembly. Therefore, if the dignity of the House is lowered, if the impression made outside about this House is that this House is just a talking shop in which nothing happens, then it means that our reputation goes down. If the reputation of this House goes down the reputation of the Ministers and of the popularly elected Government also goes down. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, this is why I said that I thank all the hon. Members, both the Ministers and the Assistant Ministers, as well as the ordinary Back-benchers, who have spoken in support of this Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to the suggestion made by the Member for Kajiado South, the hon. ole Oloitipitip, the Assistant Minister for Health, I would like to tell him that whatever we are saying, we are doing so in the eyes of the whole world, and I sincerely hope that the whole world, including those in this Government, who are responsible for appointing and suspending these people, will bear in mind what is the unanimous wish of the House as proposed by the Member for Kajiado South when he said that the accused person should be suspended, pending the deliberations of the Committee of Privileges. It is not possible to amend this Motion to include this because it would mean passing something which is not really within our power. I am saying this because we can only recommend that the accused be dismissed; but it depends, really, on the Head of the Government who appoints these Permanent Secretaries to suspend or dismiss this person.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say one thing more, and that is with regard to Permanent Secretaries generally. The Constitution, of course, provides that Permanent Secretaries are appointed like ambassadors and the like, that is, by the President. However, Mr. Speaker, the time will come when we will have to review the position of these Permanent Secretaries. I am saying this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because their position has now become a political appointment so that in one Ministry we have two politicians. We have the Minister and the Permanent Secretary, who are both politicians and I do not think one Ministry is big enough for two politicians. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I sincerely hope that sooner or later we will review this situation that Permanent Secretaries become really permanent and that they are not reshuffled every time Ministers are reshuffled. I am saying this, Mr. Speaker, because I think the trouble with the Permanent Secretaries we have is that they have been encouraged to act as politicians, and so they consider themselves rivals to their Ministers. So, if the accused has any sense at all, after hearing all that has been said in this House I think he should have decency to resign! However, if he does not have the decency to resign and wants to wait until he is thrown out, I sincerely hope that the head of the Government will dismiss him because he has done a great disservice by trying to divide the two arms of the Government—he has tried to bring into collision the executive and the legislative arms of the Government. I do not think that anybody wants to see that situation. The only method of remedying it is to remove the offending limb in the political body of Kenya.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in other Parliaments, there has been a tradition that Parliament uses its power over money to enforce its wishes as far as Government is concerned. Every time Government wants some money, they come to this House to ask either for approval of annual

[Mr. Seroney]

Estimates or Supplementary Estimates. There was a tradition in the House of Commons that when the king went to the House of Commons to ask for money the Commons said, "All right, we will give you money, but first of all you must do this and that". So, they attached conditions to their powers of voting money. I will seriously advise the Government, both the visible and invisible one, that although this House has no power to sack the accused or do some executive things and has to rely on the goodwill of the Government, this House hopes that the Government will co-operate and will not wait for the House to retaliate by denying Motions to the Government when it brings them in this House because that is the only weapon of this House. I sincerely hope that it will not be necessary to do this.

I am sure all Members who are here have seen how embarrassed the Minister has been because of the action of this "Political Permanent Secretary"! I am sure that all Members are satisfied that the two, both the Minister for Education and his Permanent Secretary cannot co-exist because one of them must go! Now, the question is: "Which one of them must go?" I seriously recommend to the Government that we should get rid of this Permanent Secretary before he does more damage.

Now, I regret to note that a few years ago there was a clash between—again it was in the Ministry of Education—the Minister for Education, the then Minister for Education and his Permanent Secretary and, unfortunately, it was the Minister who had to go. I sincerely hope that this time we shall have a change so that it will be the Permanent Secretary who will go.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 221

CREATION OF AN ALL-AFRICA STANDING ARMY

Mr. Mulwa asked the Minister for Foreign Affairs if he would tell the House, since it had become clear from the Guinea incident that African countries were open to invasion by more powerful and aggressive countries like Portugal, whether our Government would undertake to act as a vanguard in the establishment of an All-Africa Standing Army (High Command) within the Organization of African Unity as a matter of urgency in order to counteract such imperialist attacks.

The Assistant Minister for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Ogunda): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Kenya attaches great significance to the security and defence of African states. The question of establishing an All-Africa Standing Army—that is an Organization of African Unity unified force—has been a subject of repeated discussions by the Defence Commission of which Kenya is a member. However, it was found that setting up of a unified force will need time for details to be worked out. Kenya will give full support to any reasonable, feasible and practical measure acceptable to other member states for the security and defence of the African states. Kenya will, therefore, work within the Defence Commission to find ways and means of establishing an adequate and effective defence system to guarantee the security, political independence and territorial integrity of all sovereign African states.

Question No. 191 (1540)

DEVELOPMENT PLANS FOR BUSIA NORTH

Mr. Ebu asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House—

- (a) whether he was aware that Busia North Constituency was formerly regarded as a KPU area, and as such it was forgotten by the Government as far as development was concerned; and
- (b) what development plans the Ministry had for the area in question to enable the loyal citizens there to forget the past.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, I beg to reply. (a) In reply to the hon. Member's part (a), I wish to reiterate what has previously been so clearly and often emphasized in this House. It has never been and it is not the Kenya Government's policy to discriminate against the development of any area on the grounds that its people were supporters of any political party. It is, therefore, incorrect to state that because Busia North Constituency was once regarded as a KPU stronghold it has been neglected by the Government in matters of development. The area in question has been treated like any other area in the country.

(b) It follows from the foregoing that any development programmes in this area are not planned or implemented with the objective suggested by the hon. Member. However, in line with its general development objectives, the Government has done the following in the constituency of the hon. Member:

Between 1966/70 the Government's contribution to the area's various self-help projects was over Sh. 150,000. The International Development Association has contributed to the expansion programme of the Amukura Girls' High School. The Government proposes to spend Sh. 60,000 in the current Financial Year to construct a new Divisional Headquarters at Amagora.

If the hon. Member wishes to know more details pertaining to the development proposals for his area, he should, in addition to reading the 1970/74 Development Plan, get in touch with the provincial planning officer in his province.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister not agree with me that since this area was a KPU stronghold the Government has, in fact, spent very little money in that area since that time, which has been indicated by his answer which shows that the Government's contribution to this school was Sh. 150,000 and that from 1966 till now he cannot tell us what the Government contribution is?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, in answer to that, I would like to say that no development programmes are designed because of a political force or ideology. However, I can agree that not much has been done for that area; in other words, the proportion as compared to the development of other areas, that area might not have had enough development projects. I am prepared to look into this.

Mr. Karungaru: Arising from the Minister's reply, is he satisfied that, on the basis of the development the Government has already implemented, the area is really properly served? If not, what other development projects does the Government have in mind for that particular area?

Mr. Ngei: The hon. Member would know this if he read what I mentioned—the Development Plan 1970/74. This is on what development the Government envisages to carry on in that area. However, I am in agreement with him that this may not be sufficient as the hon. Member would like to see the area more developed than it is now.

Question No. 209

CHEMELIL-NANDI TOWNSHIP—KAPSABET ROAD

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House when the tarmacking of Chemelil-Nandi Township—Kapsabet Road would be completed.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ministry of Works?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought I had the reply, but it appears something has gone wrong.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question then. Mr. Yunis Ali.

Question No. 202A

MANAGEMENT OF NDEGE SCHOOL

Mr. Y. Ali asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House—

- (a) whether the Minister was aware of a school known as Ndege School operating at Langata just near the Karen "C" Primary School which is causing ill-feelings and tension among the residents in the area;
- (b) if the answer was in the affirmative, what appropriate and urgent steps the Minister was taking to bring the situation back to normal; and
- (c) whether the Minister would ensure there would be complete racial integration in education in the area.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I would like to tell the hon. Member for Githunguri that there have been proposals to extend the University grounds to include the Norfolk Hotel and—

Hon. Members: What question are you answering?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, I am answering the wrong question.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

[The Assistant Minister for Education]

Yes, I am aware. The answer to part (b) of the question is: I have ordered the managers of the school to stick to their licence, which stipulates that the school can only enrol 30 girls. The managers have assured me that they will conform with this and the school will have only 30 girls at the beginning of next term. The answer to part (c) of the question is that—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, are you satisfied that the Assistant Minister is answering the correct question?

Mr. Rubia: I think the hon. Member should apologize for this kind of interruption. He should know better.

The answer to part (c) of the question is: it has always been the policy of the Government that schools in this country should have full racial integration and this policy is being implemented and will continue to be implemented by my Ministry. However, Mr. Speaker, parents have the right to choose the type of school where they would send their children. My Ministry will not register a school with discriminating policies and tendencies.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This question was replied to in the course of replying to another question. It should not have really appeared on the Order Paper.

Next question, Mr. Magugu.

*Question No. 199 (1551)*NAIROBI UNIVERSITY GROUND TO INCLUDE NORFOLK HOTEL

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Magugu not here? We will now go back to Mr. Kitonga's question. Has anyone been authorized by Mr. Kitonga to ask his question?

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Yes, I have been authorized to do so.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Have you been authorized to ask the question?

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Yes, Sir.

*Question No. 181 (1527)*EXPERIENCED DISTRICT ASSISTANTS AND DISTRICT OFFICERS DOING WRITTEN EXAMINATION

Mr. D. M. Kioko on behalf of Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister of State, President's Office if he would tell the House—

(a) why well experienced district assistants and district officers who have been working with Provincial Administration for over ten years should be given written examinations together with young officers who left school recently and joined the Administration; and

(b) why they are not promoted according to their practical ability instead of being sent to the Kenya Institute of Administration for written examination.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi) Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Opportunities exist for promotion of district assistants and district officers on their practical ability without having to take an examination. However, Mr. Speaker, district assistants who apply for administrative officers' posts advertised by the Public Service Commission, the qualification of which is a degree from an approved university, are required to take Administrative Officers' Competitive Entrance Examination, like any other candidates with not less than three years' occupational experience. This ensures a high standard of recruitment.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we know that experience in this country is a better qualification than the academic qualification from school, why should we not have these people given priority in promotion rather than mixing them with new people who have just come from the college?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have replied to that point already, but I would like to tell the hon. Member that district assistants are promoted to senior district assistants subject to the existence of vacancies. Their promotion to district officers is through taking the Administrative Officers' Competitive Entrance Examination. District officers must therefore pass the Kenya Government Administrative Officers Examination. Mr. Speaker, I would like to tell the hon. Member that there are occasions when even an office messenger can rise from an office messenger to the post of senior district assistant. This has happened, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Lentaya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, is he aware that there are some district officers who have been working as district officers for the last ten years and they have not been promoted yet? Why is this so, Sir?

Mr. Munyi: That, Mr. Speaker, Sir, might be true, but promotion depends on one's ability and capability.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that provincial commissioners are senior to district commissioners, the district officers and district assistants, can the Assistant Minister deny that there are some provincial commissioners whose academic qualifications are lower than standard seven?

Mr. Mutiso: Can you deny that?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the hon. Member substantiate that there are some provincial commissioners with the academic qualifications he has referred to?

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Assistant Minister deny that the Provincial Commissioner for Central Province has academic qualifications lower than of Standard VIII?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have already explained that there are occasions when a person below that standard can rise to a very high position in Government.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, now that the hon. Munyasia has alleged that the academic qualifications of the Provincial Commissioner for Central Province are below the Certificate of Primary Education examination level, will it not be in order that if the allegation is proved otherwise, the hon. Member is going to withdraw the allegation and apologize to the House because the allegation is not at all true?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): If you have evidence that the allegation is not true, you should tell the House instead of asking a question here.

Mr. Araru: But the Assistant Minister has not denied the allegation.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Anyway— Order! No, what Mr. Munyi wanted to know was whether, in principle, there were provincial commissioners whose academic standard was below, say, that of district officers and so on. This is common knowledge.

Rev. Kalume: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, will the Assistant Minister agree with me that it is very embarrassing to have a provincial commissioner in our Administration, whose academic qualifications are below that of one of a district officer or a district assistant? If this is the case, will he see that we get provincial commissioners who are graduates?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with the hon. Member because it was only yesterday that one of the hon. Members here said that when a person is elected to this House by his own people, whether in the past he was working as a cook or something like that, that does not matter.

Mr. Jilo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No more points of order. If you disagree with Mr. Munyi, all you can do is to ask another question. There is no point in rising on a point of order.

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that there still exists the office of a district assistant, which was imposed by the Colonial Government on the Africans, and in view of the fact that no European held this office, would the Minister abolish this office and start administration from the grade of district officer?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government has no intention of abolishing such posts because they are quite good and they assist the machinery of the Government quite well

Question No. 210

SUGAR AND TEA PRODUCTION IN NANDI HILLS

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to apologize for being late. I was actually within the building, but I was still late to ask my question.

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister for Agriculture if he would tell the House how much sugar and tea in quantity and value had been produced in Nandi Hills—Songhor area of Nandi District—in 1968, 1969 and 1970, and where it was sold.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Sugar-cane production figures in Nandi District normally produced in both small and large-scale farms are as follows:—

Year	Quantity (Tons)	Value (K£)
1968	24,617	55,715
1969	258,305	610,774
1970	69,053	170,839

Sugar-cane produced in this area is sold at Chemelil and Miwani Sugar Factories except the cane produced at Kipkumia (?) area which is mainly used for jaggery production.

As for tea, I would like to point out that Songhor area, as such, does not produce tea. I assume that the hon. Member refers to Nandi District rather than Songhor area in particular. Briefly, the production figures and their value is as follows:—

Year	Quantity (lb.)	Value (KSh.)
1968	300,127	636,269
1969	381,986	741,053
1970	583,360	184,221

About 60 per cent of the tea produced in this area is exported to England and the rest is sold locally.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister confusing Nandi Hills area with the Nandi District as a whole because the value of tea is so small in comparison to what it should be? Is he suggesting that this tea is actually grown in Nandi Hills area?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, unfortunately the figures given were for Nandi District and I do not have the figures for Nandi Hills, but I could work them out for the hon. Member.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what plans has the Assistant Minister to assist this thriving industry, especially through improving the roads around Nandi Hills area in addition to the present road which is being tamacked?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of roads in the country is a very difficult one in that we have demands more than what the Government can supply in terms of mileage that can be worked on by our Ministry of Works. I think all that I can say is that Nandi District will be considered like any other district in the Republic.

Question No. 209

CHEMILIL-NANDI TOWNSHIP—
KAPSABET ROAD

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House when the tamacking of Chemelil-Nandi Township—Kapsabet Road will be completed.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague, the for Works, I beg to reply. There are no houses being demolished as the construction work on this project has not yet begun. However, it is likely that during the course of construction some houses along the proposed route will be affected and compensation will be paid to the owners as soon as—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, no! This is Question No. 209.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): I beg your pardon, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because the answer is not here!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Is there no one ready to reply to this question?

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can it be put on the Order Paper again next week?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes.

(Question deferred)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We will go back to Mr. Magugu's question.

Question No. 199

NAIROBI UNIVERSITY GROUNDS TO INCLUDE NORFOLK HOTEL

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House—

(a) what plans there were to extend the Nairobi University grounds to include the Norfolk Hotel;

(b) whether the Minister was aware that the construction of the Hotel extension deliberately being undertaken in order to make it almost impossible for the Government to take over the Hotel buildings because of their high costs; and

(c) when the present lease would expire.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku):

On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member has not apologized to the House and I remember very well, if my memory serves me right, he has in the past apologized more than four times for being late; now, do we have any limit to these apologies because he is always late?

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not expect my friend there to tell me to apologize. I did not realize the question had been called. Anyway, I apologize.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku):

On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, do we accept that sort of attitude where a Member says, "Anyway, I apologize," when he has been late for more than four times and he has apologized in the past?

An hon. Member: How do you know?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku):

I know because I am always here.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! This is not really a joking matter when we have been going over one's question. I think an apology should be a genuine apology and not be treated casually.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I apologize.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) I should like to tell the hon. Member for Githunguri that there have been proposals to extend the Nairobi University grounds to include the Norfolk Hotel, and several other institutions near the main campus. These proposals are still to be realized some time in the future. The annexation of the Norfolk Hotel will follow University expansion priorities.

(b) I am aware of the intended construction of the Hotel extension, but I am not aware that it is deliberately being undertaken to make it almost impossible for the Government to take over the Hotel buildings. I should like, however, to emphasize that one needs to think carefully and objectively before one can say whether the construction would raise the cost of the buildings—remembering that the lease shall one day expire and the buildings shall become the property of the Kenya Government.

[The Assistant Minister for Education]

(c) The present lease expires in 32 years time; that is in the year 2003.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, realizing that the hotel has need to extend its facilities, would the Assistant Minister not agree with me that if, at any one stage, the University includes the present hotel grounds, the present construction, not the intended one, it is now on, this will definitely increase the price at take-over?

Mr. Rubia: Actually, Sir, the construction going on is really to improve the existing buildings, it is not a new extension as such. However, as and when the University authorities require the grounds, the usual negotiations will start.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

CURRENCY RESTRICTIONS IN EAST AFRICA

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning the following Question by Private Notice:—

In view of the fact that now the Kenya Government, as other sister states in the East African Community, has imposed restrictions on its currency, would the Minister tell the House—

- (a) what arrangements the Government has for the people living on the borders to have their money and business transacted; and
- (b) whether, in the light of the currency restrictions, the East African Community is going to be of any use to the people of East Africa?

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cheronno): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) Consultations are urgently taking place between my Ministry, the Central Bank and other parties with a view to finding a satisfactory way of dealing with the point referred to by the hon. Member for Kitale West. This, of course, is a matter requiring consultation with other Partner States if an effective arrangement is to be worked out.

(b) The hon. Member will certainly be aware that Kenya has imposed restrictions on currency transfers only, that is to say, the restrictions apply to cash transactions which form only a small proportion of the total volume of inter-territorial trade.

The measure taken by the Kenya Government does not, therefore, affect commercial transactions carried out through banks and which account for the bulk of commercial transactions.

Given a workable arrangement in each Partner State, it is unlikely that even in cases where exchange control covers capital and current payments as well, the impact on trade will be seriously adverse unless, of course, quantitative restrictions are applied.

None of the Partner States has resorted to the latter measure.

For the reasons I have referred to, the hon. Member may also wish to note that the measures taken by the Kenya Government and also the exchange control now exercised by the other two Partner States need not affect in any significant way the operations of the Corporation and the General Fund Services of the East African Community. These common services will continue to operate in the normal way. It follows, therefore, that the existing lack of free convertibility of the three East African currencies does not necessarily detract in any significant degree from the value of the Community.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister tell us what specific administrative arrangements the Kenya Government has on the borders so that people of Kenya who normally cross on visits to either Tanzania or Uganda will not have trouble on the border? What are the administrative arrangements there?

Mr. Cheronno: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the questioner had listened to part (a) of my answer he would have heard me say that my Ministry, the Central Bank and other parties, that means the other two States involved, are trying to work out administrative arrangements. At this stage when negotiations and consultations are still going on, I am afraid I am not in a position to say much.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that this imposition of restriction of currency movement among the three Partner States is now the second time, and also in view of the fact that even trade is not free including labour movement in the three East African countries, is the Assistant Minister not prepared to agree with me that because of these restrictions that the ordinary man in East Africa who felt he was going to enjoy under the East African Community, now sees that the purpose of the East African Community is useless and, therefore, it should be done away with forthwith?

Mr. Cheronno: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with due respect, I do not agree with the hon. Member

[The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

because I have already pointed out that the Corporation and the General Fund Services of the East African Community are continuing and they have not been hindered by the currency restrictions.

In respect of trade, if the hon. Member thinks that merely by currency restrictions the trade between the East African territories will be considerably affected, I would like to quote to him the example of restriction of exchange control by Uganda in May 1970. Although Kenya's trade with Uganda at that time suffered slightly during the months of May and June—you will recall that the restrictions were introduced in May—it quickly recovered. During the period of July to November of the same year Kenya's balance of trade with Uganda was on the average as good as during the first five months preceding May. As good as during the five months preceding the introduction of the currency restrictions. So there is no reason to think that now that Tanzania has introduced this, that the position will change significantly.

Mr. Abubakar-Madhubuti: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister advise this House what will happen to the ordinary man in the street who has, say, Sh. 40 or Sh. 50 and wants to go to Tanzania? Will he buy sterling or a dollar because our money is confiscated on the border?

Mr. Cherono: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member or any other member of the public wishes to go to Tanzania or Uganda, all they have to do is to go to the bank and apply for the currency they will need when they reach the other place. They do not need either sterling or dollars.

DISTURBANCES AT NAKURU SECONDARY SCHOOL

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question. Mr. Mwithaga. Not here.

(Question dropped)

DEMOLITION OF HOUSES ON THE PROPOSED MALINDI/WATAMU ROAD

Rev. Kalume: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague, hon. Tuva, I beg to ask the Minister for Works the following Question by Private Notice:—

Will the Minister, as a matter of urgency, suspend the demolition of houses on the proposed tourist road from Malindi to Watamu until—

- (a) compensation to the owners of the houses has been effected; and
- (b) alternative plots for new houses have been found?

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague, the Minister for Works, I beg to reply. (a) There are no houses being demolished as the construction work on this project has not yet begun. However, it is likely that during the course of construction some houses along the proposed route will be affected and compensation will be paid to the owners as soon as the assessment is completed by the Government valuer.

(b) The Government does not undertake to find alternative plots if the landowners have been paid compensation for land, buildings and any other inconveniences in full. It is not the practice of the Government to do this.

Rev. Kalume: Arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that the local people at Lamu do not understand why preference should be given to a road instead of to their lives, and for that matter they think that our Government is still being ruled by tourists, not by Kenyans?

Mr. Ngei: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is the duty of both the Government and the hon. Member to explain why it is necessary to have efficient communication for the betterment of developing that particular area.

Mr. Magugu: Arising from the earlier reply, should a citizen or a plotholder wish to choose between compensation and the plot, would the Ministry allow him to do so?

Mr. Ngei: That is a fair question, Mr. Speaker. The Government is there to serve the people and if the wish of the people is expressed in that way, then the Government will take appropriate action.

Mr. Jilo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware—I ask this because I am particularly interested in this—that a decision taken at a committee meeting attended by the people and presided over by the Provincial Commissioner for Kilifi, to decide on another—

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I seek your guidance in this matter.

Is it in order for a Member to ask a question and while the question is still being discussed to leave the Chamber without listening to the replies being given?

I doubt whether the hon. Member for Malindi was authorized to ask that question on behalf of his colleague.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Who asked a question and then left?

Mr. Munyasia: The Rev. Kalume.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I imagine he heard enough.

Mr. Jilo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that this committee which was presided over by the provincial commissioner and attended by all the councillors and the chiefs decided that the survey report should be deferred and that another route should be recommended for the road because the road was passing through some hotel grounds currently owned by an African, and it is feared that the surveyor, being a European, was being influenced by the Watamu manager to have this hotel demolished?

Mr. Ngei: The Minister is not aware and if the hon. Member is aware of such action or influence to have an African-owned hotel demolished, please let the Government know about this and action will be taken.

Mr. Jilo: On a point of order, Sir, can I be allowed to bring him details of the decisions taken by the committee which were overlooked?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! You can pursue that outside the Chamber.

We must go on now.

Mr. Muthamia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, am I in order to draw your attention to the serious fault in the lights over there which can cause damage to the Chamber?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not think it is so serious that we need to be scared at all. Anyway that will be looked into.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ERECTION OF HOUSES AT AIRPORT/MOMBASA ROADS JUNCTION

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I have received written notice from Mr. Karungaru of his intention to raise on the adjournment a matter contained in a reply to Question No. 108 (1393) concerning the erection of houses at the junction of Airport/Mombasa Roads.

I shall call for the Motion for the adjournment at the time of interruption of business on Tuesday, 30th March.

FUTURE PLANS FOR FORM IV TECHNICAL STUDENTS SCHOOL-LEAVERS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I have also received written notice from Mr. Kivuitu of his intention to raise on the adjournment a matter contained in a reply received to a Question by Private Notice concerning Government plans for the future of Form IV students who left technical schools in 1970.

I shall call for the Motion for the adjournment at the time of interruption of business on Wednesday, 31st March.

PERSONAL STATEMENT

SUBSTANTIATION OF ALLEGATIONS AND LAYING OF A PROMISED DOCUMENT ON QUESTIONING OF SUPREMACY AND INTEGRITY OF PARLIAMENT

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, yesterday hon. Yunis Ali promised the House that he would lay on the Table a document concerning the Motion which was moved yesterday. Therefore, can you ask him to lay on the Table that document?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What document was this, Mr. Munyi?

Mr. Y. Ali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Assistant Minister has been over-hasty. I have stood here to lay the document on the Table as I promised the House and there was no need for that point of order.

May I, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, lay the document on the Table now?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Tell me briefly what it was all about, Mr. Yunis Ali.

Mr. Y. Ali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, during the course of the controversial debate yesterday involving Mr. Gachathi I made a statement to the effect that I had in my possession a similar document questioning the integrity and supremacy of this House. As a result I was questioned by one of my colleagues here and asked to substantiate or produce that document.

I am ready for that now and, Mr. Speaker, with your permission I wish to lay the document on the Table.

(The hon. Y. Ali laid the document on the Table)

POINTS OF ORDER

CONSTANT ABSENCE OF A MINISTER AND HIS ASSISTANT MINISTERS TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, under your guidance, Sir, we would like to know how questions should be dealt with. When questions are brought here, if the hon. Members are late and have not asked anybody to ask them on their behalf, their questions lapse; according to the Standing Orders they cannot be asked again in the normal way. I seek your guidance here. Last week the Minister for Works was not here twice during Question Time, and there was nobody to reply to his questions on his behalf. The same thing has happened to Question No. 209 of Mr. Seroney. The reply is not here and the Minister is not here. What action shall we take, or how can we deal with such Ministers?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! What is all this reshuffling?

Well, all we can do is to register our dissatisfaction with the action of the Minister if he has consistently absented himself. He has two Assistant Ministers. At least one of them should be here. I know Friday mornings are not very good days, but if we manage to be here there is no reason why others should not.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not out of order, when you are on your feet giving a ruling, for those Assistant Ministers to continue reading a document? In fact, they cannot hear what ruling you are giving when they are engaging themselves on something else.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): They should pay attention because what I am saying might be of some interest to them. I noticed there was a bit of reshuffling.

Mr. ole Oloitipitip: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in connexion with this question to the Minister for Works, as you said that we record our dissatisfaction, it has come to my notice that the whole team has started their tour today. I do not know what the House would consider if the Minister and his team is touring a particular place for the benefit of the country.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order, the whole purpose of having assistants is that they work on behalf of their Ministers. You cannot tell me that both the Assistant Ministers and the Minister are touring the country. It is unreasonable to suggest that.

DELAY IN MAKING PROMISED MINISTERIAL STATEMENT

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, you remember last week during question time an Assistant Minister for Local Government did promise that he would come and furnish the House with a report of his investigation on how the people were being recruited by the City Council, but I do not see him in the House. What will be the position? When will he give the information.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think the best thing is to wait, and when you see him here you raise that. He said he was going to investigate but we do not know how far he has done it.

TIME FOR READING PAPERS LAID ON THE TABLE IN SUBSTANTIATION

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I am rising on a point of order. When that document was produced and laid on the Table, some Members, and even some Ministers, jumped like poor, hungry hawks so that they could get hold of the document.

If I remember correctly, Mr. Speaker, during the last Session, just before we went to elections, it was ruled out of order for any document that is put on the Table to be snatched away by Members. I wonder whether it is now in order for Members, Ministers and Assistant Ministers to crowd at the Table, seize the piece of paper, and go on reading without listening to what is going on. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know your ruling on this matter because if it is out of order it will be better if it does not happen again.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Matano is quite right. When a document is laid on the Table the Clerk should take possession of it. No Member should jump up and snatch it. Members can come in a dignified manner and request the Clerk to give it to them to have a look, but it is not quite in keeping with the dignity of the Front Bench to jump up the way they did.

The next Order is Mr. Cheboiwo's Motion. The Member who was speaking last time when we adjourned was Mr. Kitonga. He is not here, and we have only 30 minutes remaining, which means, since the Government responder did not speak he is entitled to 20 minutes if he wants to utilize them all and the Mover is entitled to 10 minutes to wind up. That means, therefore, this is the convenient time for the Government responder to speak if he wishes.

MOTION

EXTENSION OF PRIMARY EDUCATION

THAT in view of the national concern about the Certificate of Primary Education holders who are too young to obtain jobs, or are compelled to re-sit the examination owing to the lack of adequate Form I places within the Republic, and noting that the parents are subjected to social and domestic problems in maintaining such pupils by having to spend large sums of money for their welfare, and since our Republic has entered the new scientific and technological era, this House urges the Government to extend the present primary education course from Standard VII to Form II.

(Mr. arap Cheboiwo on 19th March 1971)

(Resumption of Debate interrupted on 19th March 1971)

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to pay compliments to all those hon. Members who have spoken on this Motion. We have been encouraged by the sensible approach which has been very apparent during the debate. I would like to say straightaway that we, in the Ministry of Education, are very much in sympathy with the sentiments expressed in this Motion. The problem of Certificate of Primary Education leavers is indeed a serious one. I do not think that anybody, anywhere, in our Republic can stand up and say that we are satisfied that all is well. It is far from it. The problem is really serious because in the last two years well over 150,000 children sat the Certificate of Primary Education examination and only about 12 to 13 per cent were able to obtain vacancies in our secondary schools. So the situation is very serious and it is very much appreciated by my Ministry and, indeed, by the whole Government.

[The Assistant Minister for Education]

Sir, I would like to say that, in principle, my Ministry is in sympathy with the sentiments expressed in this Motion, but it is one thing to be sentimental and quite another to be practical, quite another to be realistic and to implement the wishes of our own feelings. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we have been concerning ourselves with this problem, and, in fact, I do know that His Excellency the President has on several occasions wished to know where we are heading as far as the Certificate of Primary Education failures, or those children of our nation who do not obtain admission into secondary schools or any other form of training. I do know that Government, for sometime now, has been considering ways and means of meeting the situation. I would like to assure the hon. Members that this is a matter which is currently very actively exercising the minds of Government.

There are, of course, practical problems, and with the indulgence of the House I would like to point out those problems because you cannot achieve very much without doing some kind of home work and research so as to re-appreciate the size of the problem and to see whether you are able to cope with it.

The question of extending the Certificate of Primary Education course by two years, so that the child will then complete his primary education after nine years is quite a debatable point. I think, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Mover of this Motion did not intend to suggest that the Certificate of Primary Education should be done after nine years of primary education. The Motion would read exactly that, but the Motion as moved by hon. Chebojwo actually asks this House to resolve that the Certificate of Primary Education course should be done over the course of nine years. I do not think that is what the hon. Member had in mind. What I believe he meant was that after the usual seven years, to attain the Certificate of Primary Education the children should be retained in the school for another two years. So, this problem poses—if we consider that aspect of it we have one consideration which I think is very substantial. The consideration is what type of training we will you give those children because we cannot take all the Certificate of Primary Education candidates into secondary schools? This is a fact. What kind of training will you give to those children for that extra period of two years? This is an exercise which is not small by any standards. This is a problem which has to be solved. There is the question of the curriculum consideration here. This is a matter which, I know, we would like to look into very carefully because it is not good enough to pretend that by keeping the child at school for an extra two years after the Certificate of Primary Education, that child will be well equipped to face the world. It is also, in fact, wrong and extravagant too to keep children at school for two more years merely to bring them to that age without giving them something worthwhile in those two years. So, that is one problem and my Ministry is very actively considering this particular problem because it is an obligation on our part, as a Kanu Government, that education, good education, should be given to our children.

There is also another aspect of this problem that should be considered. We have the question of the problem of accommodation. The problem of accommodation is another very important point to be considered, and unless we want to jump into that lake—I do not think that anybody will suggest that we will have to be satisfied that we have the physical facilities to cope with the numbers of children who will then receive what I would like to call automatic promotion from Standard Seven to Standard Nine. So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a question of accommodation in our schools. This is not a small problem, it is quite a big one. My Ministry, once again, is currently looking into the aspect of the problem, and for those who may be interested in figures—I do know that statistics can be very boring and can be very uninteresting but I think in an exercise of this nature we just have to give you some indications as to the size of the problem.

If we take the year 1971 as the basic year, that is 1971 as the year in question—if we decide that all Certificate of Education candidates will have to go on to Standard Eight in 1972, we shall require an extra 4,493 classrooms. These classrooms will be for 1972 only and the figure is based on the number of children that are sitting for the Certificate of Primary Education this year. That, Mr. Speaker, is an indication of the size of the problem.

In the year, 1973, that figure will go up to 4,923, and in the following year, which is 1974, the figure will be 5,655. These are hard facts. These are facts that have to be borne in mind when we consider this aspect.

I think, Mr. Speaker, I can go on and on, but if we look at the facts of providing primary education with the technical bias, that is, primary education that will give children some ideas of technical subjects, the comparative figures will be as follows: In the area of classrooms, administration blocks, science laboratories, workshops, libraries sanitation blocks and so on, we shall require, all in all, £142,015,750. Now, primary education without any technical bias will cost the Government £17,734,900. This will give you a rough idea of approximately how much it will be—the range at which we must consider this problem of providing primary education with technical bias. I have mentioned the problem of finding accommodation, the problem of providing education at primary level with the technical bias and I think I can now point out another problem, which is the problem of teachers because if we are going to embark on this automatic promotion from standard seven to standard nine, then we must have teachers to take up those classes. I know that some people might suggest some other ways but this is not possible. The present strength of our teachers is far from being sufficient and we are trying very hard to train more and more of our local people. The efforts of our Ministry are very well known in this sphere in that in our Development Plan, 1970/74; we have a problem because we shall have to increase and improve the calibre, the quality of our teachers. So the question of teachers—to take care of the extra two years has also to be borne in mind. It is also a very prohibitive aspect of this problem but, one again, if we are to look at this very objectively, we shall have no alternative but to consider ways and means of providing the teachers. Once again, Mr. Speaker, this is a point that my Ministry is looking into, and indeed the whole Government because my Ministry cannot do very much without the co-operation of the other Ministries, especially the Ministry of Finance and, of course, this honourable House, and indeed the entire country because this will mean taxing our people in order to provide these facilities. I do know that many hon. Members appreciate this point and I must say that I was impressed because everybody hinted that we have to tax ourselves. This is a matter that I am assuming is generally accepted by this honourable House and that whatever we say, because it is a commitment on our part as an independent free people, we will have to pay for the services, which will mean taxation. Taxation is not my problem but it is the problem of my other colleagues and I will refrain from mentioning even such suggestions as we should increase taxes on beer and so on. I do not think I should indulge myself in that kind of talk because as we were told by the hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, if we overtax certain commodities, people will start looking for alternatives and we may find, in the end, that we do not achieve the objective we set out to do. So, taxation is not just, by itself, a matter which we can say happily “Go on and increase taxes here and there”. Taxation is a subject that requires very thorough, and sometimes scientific, examination. Sir, there again we shall have the same problem.

We shall also have the problem of providing non-teaching members of the staff; administrators and so on. We shall also require supervisors. So, to solve this problem, while we are in sympathy with the Motion, poses certain difficulties and these difficulties, I submit, are our problems and I am not prepared at any moment to suggest that this nation cannot cope with its own problems. I know we are capable but what I am suggesting is that we should approach this matter with cool heads and realistically. My Ministry, as I have said, is now looking into the matter and this is also—yes, it is in the Kanu Manifesto but Kanu Manifesto mentions so much about free education. The Kanu Manifesto, if I may point out to the hon. Cheboiwo, did not refer to the abolition of Certificate of Primary Education but rather the question of providing free primary education. I would like to touch briefly on this and say: Alongside with this suggestion of the abolition of the Certificate of Primary Education, which I think is really what the Mover of this Motion wanted, we are also looking into the possibility of providing free education as embodied in our Kanu Manifesto. This, as you may know, is being done because this year, 1971, we have authorized all our schools to give a remission of up to 20 per cent in certain areas, so that, if you give remission of 20 per cent, it means that 20 per cent of your children are receiving free primary education. It is an approach which, obviously, has not come to an end but it is an attempt to try and provide free education over the course of time. However, we are not satisfied with this end, therefore, we are looking into the problem and our technical officers, together with administrators and, of course, the politicians, are looking into this matter and very soon, I hope, there will be a paper on this subject. I would like to assure this hon. House that this point is very much borne in mind.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Motion raises the two points really: that of free primary education, and in this the hon. Mover referred a lot to this point of free education. I would like to assure the House that this also is being looked into.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I should have handed this earlier to you and I would like to do it now— There is a very slight amendment I want to propose on the Motion and I hope the Mover will accept it because—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You cannot do it that way. We just do not have time. If you intended to do so, you should have spoken much earlier. I am sorry, because all that remains will be for the Mover to reply and your amendment will not be debated. It might not even be seconded because there will be no time for the seconder and so it would not even be moved.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I cannot move the amendment now— I did raise this point with the Clerk yesterday and I was assured that I could hand over this amendment this morning and this is why I brought it. It is already typed and—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): If I could explain further, what they thought you understood is that you have to give notice of your intended amendment, in writing, as you have done now. However, you did it at the wrong time. What you should have done is to choose to speak earlier than your time for replying so that you could move that amendment, be seconded by somebody and then it would have been debated and resolved somehow, either for or against before the Mover is called upon to reply. That is what you should have done.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Speaker, Sir, well, if I missed the boat, I missed the boat. I would like to say that what I have indicated is what the Government is doing and there is nothing really new in what the Motion is asking. What I was trying to suggest is that this honourable House urges my Ministry to expedite consideration because, if we pass this Motion as it is and we are bound to implement it, it is something which and I must inform this honourable House, will be unimplementable because it will mean raising taxation, and I assure you this is a matter where you must offer facts and some figures before you can implement it—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): There is no use in getting excited.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since there is no time and the Assistant Minister is intending to move an amendment, is it in order for us to extend time for this Motion so that we may hear the Government intention in its amendment, because we can easily extend the time?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Unfortunately, this is something which should have been done in time. Mr. Karungaru, if you wanted to do so, you should have also jumped up and raised your point of order before Mr. Rubia's time was over. Now, what you are suggesting is that we re-open the issue when Mr. Rubia has already concluded his speech and it is time for the Mover to reply. I think if Members have any intentions, they should make them known in sufficient time. It is time for Mr. Cheboiwo to reply.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very unfortunate for the Assistant Minister to be too late to amend. We do not know what amendment he had but let us hope he was not changing the Motion very much because he mentioned in his speech that the amendment was very slight.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I thank those who took part in this Motion I should, first of all, thank God for giving us rain today, which indicated that this Motion is blessed by this rain, including yesterday's Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the second point which I was going to say is that I want to thank those who really participated in supporting this Motion in this House and also I received a lot of notes outside, from the National Union of Teachers and the rest. The Secretary-General of the National Union of Teachers wrote a letter and distributed copies to all hon. Members urging them to support this Motion. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Motion is unanimously supported in the House and outside this House. All I want to say is that action must be taken by the Ministry.

On the question of accommodation, as the Assistant Minister said, we have the spirit of Harambee, the parents are prepared to take this up if he wants extra classes. We are prepared to build these classrooms. Regarding the question of teachers, we have all these Form IV fellows who have just finished their schooling and are looking for jobs. His Ministry can easily absorb these fellow to be teachers.

On the question of technical subjects, saying that it will cost the Government a lot of money, this will amount to Government having no money. What I would suggest to the Ministry is that they should take up this matter just as they are dealing with the present drought all over the country and I am sure if they appeal for help from various sources all over the world, as they are doing now, they will get the money.

Mr. Speaker, I said, when I was moving my Motion last week, I said if the Government has the will there is a way; I said: "Where there is a will there is always a way" and therefore, they can manage it. If the Government is determined and this is what I feel the Assistant Minister was trying to suggest in his amendment—if the Government is seriously intending to do something about these children of Certificate of Primary Education standard—that they want to extend education from Std. VII to Std. IX, I am sure ways and means will be found. However, if the Government is just up to its usual tricks "that this question will be looked into, this matter will be looked into" then it will be looked into for the next 20 years to come without being implemented.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I strongly appeal to the Government, through the Ministry of Education, to see that they accept this Motion and do something about it because it affects all us. This is a national problem; it is not the Mover's problem, nor is it hon. Rubia's problem. This is not an individual's problem. It is a country-wide problem for the solution which we should all work together. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister said that in the last two years there were 150,000 children who sat for Certificate of Primary Education and it was only 12 or 13 per cent part of them who were absorbed in secondary schools. This looks ridiculous! Where did the other percentages go? Some were left in the streets, some went back to their parents, and some went to the places which were mentioned by the Seconder for this Motion. The Government will face a big problem in future if these children are not helped at this moment. The Assistant Minister asked me whether I had an intention of suggesting that these children should sit for their Certificate of Primary Education in Std. IX. However, this was not my intention at all because the Motion, in a certain section, says: "This House urges the Government to extend the present primary education course from Std. VII to Form II or Std. IX".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I meant here, if the Assistant Minister did not understand it, was the abolition of Certificate of Primary Education Examination in Std. VII so that children go ahead to Std. VIII and Std. IX without any examination at all and sit for Kenya Junior Secondary Examination in Std. IX.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): But it does not say so!

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: It does not say so, but this is what I meant; and it was for you to understand it because you are the Assistant Minister or the Minister who is concerned with education.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to see the Ministry speeding up that "Paper"—I do not know what sort of "paper" they are working on but he has mentioned something about a paper. I would like to appeal to him that this paper should not be the usual paper, "That it will be looked into" but this paper should be made a serious one. He should make sure that this will happen in this Financial year so that by next year—July of the next Financial Year—we shall see something happening as a result of this paper which he has already mentioned.

I do not have much to say on this apart from urging his Ministry to see that they work hard and see to it that this, "paper" is produced as soon as possible—we do not want to be told, "As soon as possible", as we are always told by the Government. They should do it as soon as possible so that we can see our children going into these classes.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with those few remarks, I beg to move.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Before I put the question Members might like to know what it was Mr. Rubia was referring to. His amendment would have altered only a very small part at the end where it says, "This House urges the Government to extend the present primary education course from Std. VII to Form II." He wanted it to read, "This House urges the Government to expedite consideration to extend the present primary education course from Std. VII to Form II". So, it is not a terribly different thing.

(Question put and agreed to)

MOTION

AWARD OF BURSARIES IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Nyaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the fact that the Kenya Government has taken over education services as well as the main sources of revenue from the local authorities, this House urges the Government, as a matter of urgency, to take over the responsibility of awarding bursaries in secondary schools as most county councils are not in a position to do so.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we saw at the beginning of 1970 Government taking over the three services: education, health and roads from the local authorities. There was a lot of confusion at that time when this was effected and many people were not paid for quite a time and the roads were in chaos because where there were graders, owned by the county councils, some were taken away wherefore roads were left unmaintained for some time.

In the health sector we had the problem of dispensaries and health centres going without drugs although things have improved, though not completely. Now, the problem which I have brought into the House concerns education with regard to bursaries in secondary schools. If the Government decided to take over education from the local authorities, and if it also decided to take revenue from these local authorities, then the same Government has the responsibility of taking over bursary commitments in order to keep pupils in secondary schools.

At the moment graduated personal tax is collected by the Government, which is the main source of revenue for these county councils. We know that this does not come in; and the Government also collects school fees from primary schools and, therefore, what is left for the local authorities as a source of revenue is tax from such minor things like bicycle licences, plot rates in trading centres, licences for selling snuff, and for the lucky county councils which have cash crops, and which are very few, produce cesses. Since these local authorities were left with a burden they had no alternative but to raise these taxes, for example, in a place like Embu they had to raise the tax on snuff licences from Sh. 5 to Sh. 50—this is unbelievable for taxes to go up by 900 per cent! They had to do this so as to get money to maintain the few services which have been left in their hands. After raising these minor taxes they found that they could not do this.

Now, let us look at the secondary schools under these local authorities. Before they were giving bursaries but today those bursaries are not provided, except by very few county councils. It is the policy of this Government and the party to provide free education and that is why we have remission schemes in primary schools, although this is doing very little. Now we have seen the Government going back on its words—drawing bursaries after they made it impossible for the county councils to give these bursaries. Many pupils have stayed out of these schools and therefore you will, find empty desks because they are not able to pay the fees. Are we going to let this situation remain as it is—with promises of free education, while we are keeping pupils out of schools? We have to answer to those who elected us into this House and say what we are doing about it. I understand that Government is providing bursaries to a few schools—schools in Nairobi or Mombasa which were formerly European schools. That is where the Government money is going, because it was seen fit by those in power to provide bursaries to former European schools, like Lenana High School, Nairobi School, Kenya High School and the rest. However, what is happening to the schools right back at home in the countryside since there is no one who seems to care about what is happening there? As far as the Government is concerned there is a lack of planning as far as this issue is concerned. It was reported that one single school in Nairobi, that is Lenana High School, was to get a sum of Sh. 660,000 in the form of bursaries; that is if there is any truth in this as it was reported in a newspaper; it said that this year this particular school will get a sum of Sh. 660,000 in form of bursaries to keep those students who are studying there going. The other former European schools are getting the same amount of money, or in some cases larger amounts.

Let us take a small district which maintains 10 secondary schools. For example, in Embu District last year, or in the past years the county council used to provide bursaries for pupils in seven secondary schools. However, pupils studying there today do not get even a single cent from the Government, bearing in mind that the same Government is giving a lot of money to only one single school. Mr. Speaker, Sir, is there justice in this? The poor schools in the countryside, who are not able to run on their own, now have empty desks. However, in a school in Nairobi—I mean one of the former European schools—where pupils are taught to behave like Europeans and so on, pupils studying there are given all the opportunities to learn. As regards other pupils studying in other schools, we have closed our eyes to their problems.

I have brought this Motion here particularly to ask the Government to consider and see that all the maintained schools in the country, the pupils learning there are aided. We do not have to select a few, but we should do justice to all schools. Probably the Minister may give the reason why, in the former European schools, the fees are very high. It is not our problem that the fees are high. The pupils who go to those schools and get these bursaries usually come from rich families. It might be that they are children of outstanding people, and maybe some hon. Members in this House, who send their children to such expensive schools. Are we going to support this trend and forget the other poor people who do not have even a cent. The question here is to make a decision. We should make a decision now so that we can meet the promises we gave that we are going to provide free primary education. We should look into this case and make sure that, whether a school is a cheap one or an expensive one, we consider those schools which are doing a great service to the country in educating our own children. As I had said before, when these bursaries were denied to the pupils, the county councils made no mistakes because they could not afford to do so. This is because they did not have the money to do so. If the Government has taken over education, it has the duty also to take over the giving of bursaries. This is because the Government collects taxes, and with the money from those taxes it should be able to provide bursaries to those who are in need of them.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, let us go back to those country councils which were able to pay these bursaries. At the moment I know of only one county council which provides these bursaries, that is Murang'a County Council; from what I have heard that county council was able to pay bursaries. However, many other county councils were not able to do so. For example, Meru County Council, which is supposed to be one of the richest county councils we have in Kenya, was not able to provide even a single bursary in her secondary schools. This is a very serious matter. What happens to those who fail to get money to pay for their education in the county council schools we have now, is that their places remain vacant for some time and then they are taken by those who come through the back door, I mean those who cannot pass any examination and they happen to be the sons and daughters of the rich people. These are the children who fill those places. When they have filled those places, because they have done it through the wrong way, and since those who would have done well were not able to continue with their studies because they did not have the money— At the end those who took those places usually do very badly although they had everything, all the facilities. They will not value education since they filled those places because their parents occupy big positions and they had the money power because, usually, money can do a lot.

I am asking this House to give all support to this Motion because it will do a lot of good things; if not to all, at least to 90 per cent of the local authorities which failed to provide bursaries through no fault of theirs.

I will not dwell too long on this Motion, and I hope I have put my case forward. I shall give a chance to those who wish to support this Motion. I would like Mr. Mbori to second this Motion.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

Mr. Mbori: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Thank you once again for having given me this chance to stand up and second the Motion.

In seconding the Motion, I would like to thank the Mover very much for having brought this Motion into this House because it is a Motion which contains a matter of national importance, namely the question of awarding bursaries, especially to secondary school students throughout Kenya. Even during the colonial times Kenya county councils, then known as African District councils, or earlier on Local Native Councils, used to provide bursaries to secondary school students, particularly those students who happened to come from poor families. Incidentally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in Africa and indeed in Kenya, most of the brilliant children come from poor families. It should be the duty of Government to provide bursaries to these poor families who have brilliant children with prolific and promising futures because if they are left alone they are likely to remain behind. If that is the case, this will be a responsibility of the whole country, indeed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Motion is very fitting. I hope the Government will see sense and implement it although these days we pass Motion after Motion without even a single attempt being made to implement them, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, bursaries to secondary school students, I think should be provided. It is no good at this moment to provide bursaries to students in only a very few secondary schools, like Nairobi School, Eldoret High School, Kenya High and Lenana High School. Incidentally, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the pupils who happen to go to these schools belong to the aristocratic classes or plutocratic people who have vast and permanent sources of wealth. Many of these people have amassed so much wealth actually that their children should no longer be given bursaries; yet these are the characters whose children, sons and daughters, get bursaries. This is making a mockery of the whole thing. Why should the Government not take over secondary schools and immediately provide bursaries to students in the secondary schools all over the country? I had said before, the rural secondary schools have children who come from predominantly poor families. These pupils from these predominantly poor families are the ones who require—in my opinion, Mr. Speaker, and it may be the opinion of this House—bursaries because if they are excluded from those children who get bursaries today they will definitely suffer. The educational system will suffer and, therefore, I feel bursaries should be awarded to these secondary schools which happened to be in rural areas, and not the former European schools; not the former high-class schools that used to have bursaries. These schools have so many bursaries while other pupils in schools in the rural areas are all the time asking, “Where are these bursaries?”

Mr. Speaker, Sir, indeed from my own source of information, I know there exists some form of bursaries right now; but could the Minister for Education tell us how these bursaries are awarded? If these bursaries are awarded, how are they awarded and to which pupils are they awarded? What may have happened is that the pupils who were given these bursaries came from rich families, many of whom may be civil servants—maybe some were children of our Ministers here. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think bursary awards should be spread evenly throughout the country so as to enable the pupils who are in secondary schools all over the country can have the benefits. It would be no good giving the bursaries to a handful or half-a-dozen schools in Kenya when the whole country requires that all pupils to be given bursaries. If bursaries are given to a handful of secondary schools in Kenya, may I at this point ask, “Who are the tax-payers—who happened to pay tax—from which bursaries are received? It is from all the tax-payers in Kenya. There are no particular taxpayers who are around Lenana, for instance, Nairobi School or Kenya High School, so that the pupils in those schools should warrant bursaries.

Mr. Speaker, since the Government has taken over the running of secondary schools, and the running of our educational system, it should play a fair game to everybody by awarding bursaries for secondary schools all over the country. In my constituency so many people come over to me saying that they wish to get help. Now, where can the poor Mbori get the money to give to these secondary school pupils so that they can have their education? Last year I managed to have one person through—through the Ministry of Education; however, these bursaries have not been made available to the whole country. Should it not be made known right now that the country requires bursaries to be awarded in secondary schools all over the country? Mr.

Speaker, Sir, it will help the people to learn that Government is serving them evenly; that Government is serving them squarely and without favouring any areas. However, in the absence of bursary awards for secondary schools, Sir, you will hardly even cause the people in rural areas, in the deep corners of Kenya, to believe that Government has arranged for the provision of bursaries.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in all fairness, these bursary distributions to secondary school pupils should be given equitably. I want particularly to urge the Government to help as used to be the case when the county councils were serving various local authorities when pupils used to have something, even if only a mere Sh. 1 or Sh. 50 or even Sh. 100—certainly this did reduce the burden of school fees on the parents, particularly those who were unable to pay; destitute parents who happened to have capable and promising Kenyans. If these bursaries are centralized and controlled somewhere here in Nairobi, in the Ministry of Education, we shall fail to have the benefit. Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I urge and call upon Government this time to go into the bursary question and possibly—in my view this may be the best way—distribute the existing funds among the 41 districts in Kenya so that each county council has some funds to distribute to the pupils who suffer and who are most deserving.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I say this because it is the local authorities, it the local officers and local schools, that have the best knowledge as to which pupils are most deserving, where bursary awards will be required. But to centralize it in Nairobi is a wrong view. Perhaps the officer who is in charge may not be well equipped, he may not be knowledgeably equipped with the fact that certain corners require bursaries more than other areas. For example, to give bursaries to pupils whose parents stay in Nairobi, Sir—this is actually lack of knowledge on the facts as they are. This is because the parents who happen to stay in Nairobi have a source of getting money somehow at one time or other. In 30 days or so they expect to have some sort of income. What about a poor parent, who lives somewhere in the rural areas where he has no source of wealth, who has nothing from his shamba in a bad year such as this one, 1971, when no crops are expected? How do we expect these parents to maintain their children if no bursary awards are given?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to appeal to Government to take note of the fact that distribution of bursaries on a district basis will help us best of all. We have provincial education officers, district education officers and their assistants and we also have heads of secondary schools who have the best knowledge of the pupils that suffer financially; who suffer in such a way that they are unable, completely, Sir, to pay their school fees, and yet the provision is that unless a pupil pays school fees he or she should be sent away forthwith. Now, we would like to call upon Government to take note of this. If we are going to help every child in Kenya who has the brain to learn, and many of those who have gone to secondary schools have the brains then we must distribute these bursaries equitably. If we want these brains to go on having education and continue up to higher secondary school level, and up to the university level, bursary awards should be given in such a way that the assistance is similar to that offered to university students.

I found that students in universities, whether in Kenya or abroad have some assistance through a bursary. Half a loaf is better than no bread at all. Where there is no bursary given completely, Government is doing a disservice to its young citizens who are going to take care of it in the future. These will be the custodians of Kenya tomorrow. We here—the whole Floor—and those outside in the Civil Service offices will one day vanish and those who are being denied education through lack of bursaries at all, are the people who will take care of this country. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we call upon Government to ensure that bursaries are awarded on a district basis; bursaries should be given to all districts and all the countries, which have the necessary knowledge of which people suffer most.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to second the Motion heartily.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I also rise to support this Motion and also give some good suggestions. The Minister should bear in mind that since the Central Government took over the running of primary schools in the country—it is important for him to know that—many people in the country who are poor and who are supposed to have help from this House and Government departments are not getting this aid at the moment. It has been said in this House by the Members of this House, Assistant Ministers, Ministers and even the President of the State, that our main duty is to up-lift the welfare and the standards of our people. According to my opinion, we should up-lift those people who are low and not those who are already up-lifted to a higher degree. If we consider the fact that most of the children who pass to go to secondary schools belong to poor families, the families which cannot afford the fees, and yet we do not accord them awards of bursaries—that means that these children will never have a good education. It is known that we have or we had some schools that were called assisted schools. These schools were the schools that the children of the people who could afford it went to; perhaps those children of the former rulers of this country—the colonialists—and those of the Asians went—The schools they attended were called assisted schools. They were given money by Government, leaving out the people who were starving, people who were not getting their fees, in order to educate their children, and huge amounts of money were spent on these schools.

Now, it is good that Government has changed that fact, and some of the money given to these assisted schools is not now being given. Now, if we come to the very important point of this Motion, that county councils, before the Central Government took over, had been spending large amounts of money—If I may mention an example, the Kiambu County Council has been spending about Sh. 100,000 every year, to assist paying the school fees for the children whose parents could not afford to do so, and as they had good brains, they found themselves places in secondary schools. If the Ministry now drops that, and says, “Now, we are not going to accord anything to these schools”, it will then mean that these children will have to get out of school because their fathers cannot afford the fees. Now, if this happens, are we really up-lifting the standards of the people in low positions? I doubt if we are.

Now, if we pay subsidies to schools like Nairobi School, Lenana School, Nairobi Girls' School, are we really contributing to up-lift the people who cannot afford; do we not really know, who are the parents that take their children to Nairobi School and other big schools in the City? Do we not know that they are the people who can really pay for their children's fees; do we really not know, that it is the Indians, the colonizers who were there before, who take their children there with the money they received during their 50 or 60 years' exploitation of the African people? Why can we not look at that, and see where we are going; are we building a bureaucratic section in our community, so that some people will be boasting in future and say, “Oh, we took our children there and there”. I heard some people saying that the children are getting on well in these kinds of schools, and that it is not our business; it is God's business that those people were born poor; let them continue being poor. Are we, as a House of our nation, going to tolerate this? I hope we are not going to do so because we are charged with a very important duty, that we must up-lift the standards of our people educationally, and we too have to strive to up-lift their standards in the way of material wealth.

It is in this House, I presume, that this kind of policy which really leads to the helping of the poor, can be generated. It is this policy, I think, that the Member who moved this Motion had in mind, to try helping those who are low, come up to the higher standard, and not to continue putting whatever wealth we have, to the few members of our community who had been fortunate enough to educate their children or had been fortunate enough to be educated or had been fortunate enough to get wealth. It is this kind of fortune that we are happy to share out to our unfortunate sisters and brothers.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, without wasting a lot of time, I feel this Motion is a straightforward one, and everyone of us, I think, will have mercy on the poor pupils, who are now getting expelled from schools, just because they have not been able to pay their fees, while we know that a lot of schools are occupied by sons and daughters of those who really can pay, and are spending money.

We have these, I think you call them integrated schools; now, sometimes we are made to believe that these integrated schools were formed because those who ran the schools before, wanted some of the African children to be seen there, so that the money that Government gave would continue being granted, but really, they are not serving a good purpose as far as our political and social demands as a nation require. Therefore, I have one or two humble submissions to make to the Minister, that the money that is used in these big schools be switched to the secondary schools where the parents cannot possibly pay their fees and so that we will get into the way of up-lifting our people, who we would like to see, in the days to come, approaching the standards required. I will have, also, to submit another thing, that this money, when Government considers to give secondary schools' bursaries, should be channelled through the local authorities. Why do I say this; I say this because I do not believe that a person in Jogoo House here, is able, really, to know who are the parents down in my constituency; who are the parents down in another constituency, that cannot pay their children's fees. These people, we know very well, would be the right people to advise us, as to whom these bursaries should go.

I beg to support, Mr. Speaker.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to speak at this juncture, because I intend then, Sir, to propose an amendment to this Motion, so that Members will have ample time to speak on the amended Motion. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Motion says, in view of the fact that our Ministry took over primary education from local authorities, we should also take over the responsibility of awarding of bursaries to secondary school students in the rural areas. I would, Mr. Speaker, Sir, much as I would like to sympathize with this view, point out one wrong impression or belief which Members or even the Mover himself has in connexion with the meaning of our taking over from local authorities.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we took over the administration and running of primary education in rural areas from the local authorities but not the function of awarding bursaries to the students from their respective local authorities. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is up to each local authority to maintain a vote or to estimate for this important function which is still within their responsibility. Therefore, Sir, I wanted to clear this from Members minds, particularly the Mover who emphasized this point very much together with the Seconder of this Motion. It is not true that the Central Government or my Ministry took over all primary education and the responsibility of awarding bursaries in secondary schools in rural areas.

Having clarified that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like also to say that the local authorities have been doing it very well, some of the local authorities have been estimating for the bursaries' votes and awarding their students with the bursaries in the past, when primary education was in their hands. Sir, even during the time when district education boards, were in charge of primary education, this function still remained in the local authorities. Therefore, Sir, it should be noted that even now, local authorities should continue with this important function because we would like the local participation and interest from local authorities in the development of our education services in our secondary schools. We would not like our local authorities to sit aside and say that everything concerning education should be handled by the Central Government. So, Sir, there is one thing that I would like to say and that is: in our Ministry we maintain a small vote. We maintain a small vote—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, do not you consider that movement in the House by the hon. Member who has been here for almost eight years, to go across the Floor the way he has done, as very gross misconduct?

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Somo, I am sure you know better than that; you are not supposed to cross the Floor there. You have to move to the Bar.

Mr. Somo: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! You have to the Bar, bow and then go across. You do not cross near here behind the Mace. However, let us not take more time on that now.

An hon. Member: Can you apologize and make it your duty from now?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope the hon. Member will, in future, bear that in mind having been here for a long time.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was making a point in connexion with what vote we, in the Ministry have regarding bursaries awards. Sir, we maintain a small vote which is meant to assist students who qualify to go to high cost schools anywhere in the Republic from wherever they are. Also, Sir, day secondary schools in Nairobi come under the same vote. This vote, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is so small that we cannot really extend it much further to other schools in the rural areas. The reason for assisting students in the high cost schools, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I remember the Mover wanted to know why the Ministry had decided to do that, is one: that the children who qualify to go to these high cost schools are from every part of Kenya. They are selected at national level here and centrally by my Ministry from every part of Kenya. So, this means that every school in the country is given an opportunity, if their children qualify high enough to merit entrance to these schools, to take their students to these schools, they are given bursaries. That is one of the most important reasons. The other one, Sir, is that in these schools, the Government would like to achieve integration of all races by mixing students. If the Ministry cannot arrange to assist students who qualify from poor families to these schools, then, we would have very few Africans—so to speak—in these high cost schools which, Sir, were formerly European schools. The third reason which is also very important is that the City Council of Nairobi has refused to accept the responsibility of awarding bursaries to students within the schools in Nairobi. Similarly local authorities in the rural areas like county councils do not accept to award bursaries to students who qualify to join high cost schools in Nairobi. So, this responsibility, Mr. Speaker, Sir, has been taken by our Ministry and the small vote which I have mentioned here is meant to assist those cases. I must point out, Sir, that we would like to assist as many students as possible but we cannot do it because of our limited funds. My Ministry has, many a time, approached the Treasury for more money for this purpose but every time it has not been possible and therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks I would like to move an amendment to this Motion. Sir, I would like to amend the Motion by deleting all words after the word "that" in the first line, and insert in place thereof the following words:—

"... local authorities may be finding it difficult to award bursaries to ever increasing numbers of needy and bright students in secondary schools, this House urges the Government to find ways and means of continuing to assist the needy and bright students in our secondary schools."

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in moving this amendment, I just want to point out to hon. Members that the Ministry is prepared to go into this question to see how best it can assist our students in various secondary schools who are needy and bright so that they do not miss education because their parents are poor and cannot afford to pay their fees.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have moved this amendment with a hope that the Member who moved the Motion is not going to find it difficult in accepting my amendment because all that I am trying to do is simply to endorse that there is a need for my Ministry to look into this question and find the ways and means—given time—to negotiate for more funds. Also, together with the request here, we can look into many other things so that we can do what the Motion is asking for and what is needed for our students in this Republic.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move this amendment.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Before your amendment is seconded, I think, I should make clear exactly what the amendment is. Mr. Mbai is proposing that the Motion be amended by deleting all the words after the words "... , in view of the fact that ..." He proposes to delete all the words from there to the end of the Motion, and to insert in place thereof the following words:—

"Local authorities may be finding it difficult to award bursaries to the ever increasing numbers of needy and bright students in secondary schools, this House urges the Government to find ways and means of continuing to assist needy and bright students in our secondary schools."

That is the proposed amendment to this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Ngureti): Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you for allowing me to second the amendment which I consider to be of vital importance as far as our nation is concerned.

I hope the Mover will agree with the amendment because it is one of the things which we are hoping to improve and make sure that the poor parents are placed on the right footing when their children lack proper education in the rural area schools.

At this juncture, I must thank the county councils which are carrying these important responsibilities of awarding bursaries to poor children. They have indicated very strong support for the attitude of Government. We, within the Government machinery are very much appreciative of the actions taken by the county councils in the country.

Sir, it is realized that some problems arise now and then in connexion with children who are born in poor families. Some of these children do very well in examinations but due to poverty they are unable to go to expensive schools. The Government is aware of this problem and it is taking very sincere action to minimize the problem which comes up now and again.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we all know that Rome was not built in a day and Government is improving the standards of education as far as free education is concerned. The Government has already offered free education to Forms V and VI and to university students. This is something which is very well known by the poor parents. It is also true to say that remission of school fees has been increased at the primary school level. This has just been stated by the Assistant Minister for Education. That is the reason why I did thank the county councils for having improved the method of awarding remissions and bursaries to needy cases.

I do not intend to dwell very much on the amended Motion because it is straightforward. However, the only thing I wish to assure this hon. House is that the qualifications of pupils from poor families will be looked into and we shall make sure that in future admission to schools, whether expensive or inexpensive, will be based on qualifications and not on wealth.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, proposed)

Mr. ole Marima: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I rise to—

An hon. Member: Oppose.

Mr. ole Marima: —Oppose, obviously, the amendment to the Motion!

I have reasons for this and I am going to be very brief but very emphatic. It has been the cry of the nation, it has been the pledge of Kanu as a party, that we should provide free primary education. Up to now, Sir, we as a Government have failed to provide that.

An hon. Member: Completely!

Mr. ole Marima: If we cannot, Sir, provide free education for primary schools—and there are more children in primary schools than there are in secondary schools and the university—can we not attack the problem either from down the ladder or up the ladder? We have to do something one way or the other. If we can do it the easier way, then it is only right and proper that we should do it the other way. I am sure, we can afford to provide bursaries which actually will be tantamount to free education to all our students who can manage to go to secondary school.

We have so many children of poor people that often do much better than the children of the wealthy people but because their parents cannot afford to send them to Lenana School, to Nairobi School, to Thika or to any one of the good schools, these bright children of Kenya, the would be leaders of Kenya are handicapped because of lack of money. It is because of this that we, in our position as leaders, will be blamed for sitting on the brains of the children that would be the future leaders of our country. Any nation that does not build good foundation—to prepare children for the future, such nation is bound to be barren.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the amendment to the Motion pretends to tell us that we shall be able to select the few children of the poor and give them bursaries. It has become obvious that we have failed in the selection. This selection will go back to benefit the children of the rich, the children of those parents who are in a position to argue that their children need bursaries. What will then happen to a child whose father is living in a shanty along Grogan Road or Mathare Valley? And that child has a brain as good as any other child in this country. The father or the mother cannot come anywhere near the education office to be heard because of the rags he or she wears. We must, therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, remove the discrimination and say that we will take over the responsibility of awarding bursaries and give them to all the deserving children who go to secondary schools. This, in fact, would benefit both a child of a Minister and a child of the poorest citizen of this country.

It is with that in mind, Sir, that I categorically oppose the amendment and abide by the original Motion, that we are going to pass a Motion by which we will provide bursaries for all students who manage to go to secondary school.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to oppose the amendment.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, it is easy for the Government to accept a Motion. Many times Government has accepted Motions, so many Motions, but we have never seen them being implemented. It would be a waste of time of this House and, indeed the whole nation for us to debate a matter which is never implemented. This is the crux of the whole matter. It is easy for Government to accept a Motion but it is not easy for the Government to implement that very Motion.

It was only yesterday that we were discussing a matter which was very sensitive. This reminds us of what is going on in the Government circles.

Therefore, Sir, we would not accept the amendment which has been suggested by an Assistant Minister for Education—an amendment, according to my interpretation is meaningless.

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Ngureti): How can you say that!

Mr. Karungaru: I can say that, I have the mandate to say so.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we know pretty well that is going on in this country, we know that it is possible for the money in question to be used for children of the rich as opposed to children of the poor. This has now been accepted as a tradition in our country. However, Sir, I would like to remind the nation of one thing, that we are still living in the period of tradition, and it is only fair that the old system of thinking much of a person who has to be given more—I do not know who wrote this Bible? If it is particular quotation of the Bible which we are using, then that must be done away with: of giving only to those who have. I repeat, that must be done away with.

An hon. Member: By?

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, time and again, and it is common knowledge to those who are knowledgeable—with the exception of those who are not knowledgeable, and those are few—that the majority of our people in this country are poor. It is only a small section of our community which has the means. Therefore, the question of saying that the wealth is being enjoyed by a good number of our people does not arise.

That is why I say that when the Ministry concerned looks into this matter, it has to look at it from this angle: that the majority of the people in this country are poor.

Let us accept one thing which up to now we have not accepted. Let us be dedicated, let us be honest with ourselves. It appears, however, at the moment, that we are not being honest with ourselves, neither are we dedicated to the work we are supposed to do for the nation.

It is this view that reminds me that unless the education system changes so as to provide education for the majority of the people without whom this Government cannot be here, one day we will be questioned. Let us not wait until that time comes when we will all be put on the carpet to answer.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I strongly oppose the amendment and support the original Motion.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I rise to oppose the amendment. My reason for opposing it is that the Assistant Minister is asking this House to allow the unsatisfactory conditions to go on until one day they will look into this and find ways of assisting some few students in the rural areas.

The Mover of the Motion knew that the conditions are unsatisfactory and that is why he moved the Motion and he wanted these very conditions to be looked into and be made satisfactory. I am sure the Assistant Minister will not deny several facts, one of them being that several parents are unable to pay the full secondary school fees for their children. Does the Assistant Minister mean to say that he does not know that the graduated personal tax was absorbed by the Government? Or, for that matter, does he not know that the grants were taken over and the school fees were taken over? What, therefore, does he expect the county councils to do to raise enough funds to award bursaries?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to assure the Assistant Minister for Education, if he is not aware, that in the primary schools they have given remission of fees but in the secondary schools the bursaries have stood for the remissions. Therefore, he should know that the responsibility of parents is, finding land, bringing students, paying fees and putting up buildings—those are the responsibilities of parents—then the services that the Government is to give them, as the Government has taken over from the county council, is to provide teachers, books, paying teachers' salaries, and give fee remission in the primary schools. Therefore, they should automatically have taken over the awarding of bursaries in the secondary schools which stand instead of remission. This he should have known better than anybody else, rather than standing here and defending these unsatisfactory conditions. The Assistant Minister should have actually advised this House the best way to go about it rather than asking us to allow the unsatisfactory conditions that prevail now to continue until they have a chance to look into them while, all this time, people continue suffering.

Sir, the Assistant Minister should have known that by asking this provision now is to allow him time, knowing that the machinery of Government grinds very slow. Does he mean that in ten years to come he might look into this. Then, this is something we cannot accept at all.

Now, may I advise him that when he speaks of the local authorities, he means the municipalities because the county councils are dead. What are the sources for raising revenue in the county councils? They are left with market dues and from the market dues they will be unable to raise money to pay the salaries of their staff. Right now there are some people who have worked for three months before getting their pay. If the staff cannot get their salaries, then how can the county councils raise extra money to give bursaries? It is the Government that has robbed them of the sources of revenues, of raising the funds. So, Sir, the Assistant Minister should have told us by what means the county councils will raise money. If he means to advise the townships and municipalities that have land ratings and other things to raise money, well, we can understand. This Motion meant the whole of Kenya and included the county councils that have been rendered incapable of running their services because of the take-over of services and the sources of revenue.

The Assistant Minister, speaking on behalf of Government, was trying to mislead this House by saying that students qualify for the high cost schools. I want to tell him, no, they do not qualify. Anybody who is rich enough to send his child to a high cost school can send him there, and any child who gets even a "C" in the results will go to this high cost school if he is the child of wealthy parents. However, schools like the Alliance High School, etc., which are not high cost schools, have the best results and, therefore, we are asking the Ministry to see to it that they assist these poor children, the children from poor families who cannot afford to send their children to the high cost schools which are being assisted, parents who fail to raise enough money to educate their children in the ordinary secondary schools that are aided by the Government. If the Assistant Minister did not understand, this is what we mean.

The Local Government Authorities stopped giving bursaries to students as soon as their revenue sources were taken from them. That is why very many students are suffering now. They have stopped giving bursaries. If there are any county councils which give bursaries, they must be very few, if he can tell me of any. If Kiambu or Kericho are able, he should tell me. All of them have stopped giving bursaries because their sources of revenue have been curtailed. Therefore, if there is any of them which are still giving bursaries to students, we have to congratulate them, as the Assistant Minister who supported the amendment congratulated those few which are still giving bursaries.

It may be out of the 33 to 40 county councils, six or seven are able to give bursaries while more than 20 of them are unable. This means that more students are suffering than those who are not. 90 per cent of the students are suffering. It is, therefore, this 90 per cent of the students which we are asking the Ministry to find a way of helping. The Ministry should see that they take over the awarding of bursaries, which was the original plan of the Ministry, so that the bursaries stand for remission in the secondary schools. This is not the plan of anybody, but the Ministry is now running away from its own child which it brought forth. We will stick to the original Motion because the amendment is dull and meaningless.

If I may end, I want to say that the House should know that the county councils are dead. This is what I want the House to know. The House should know that right now, as we are speaking here, several county councils staff have gone for three or four months without getting their salaries. That is an example of their death.

[Mr. Owala-Orwa]

Therefore, anybody who says that a county council should go on paying bursaries, is dreaming and he does not know what he is speaking about. Therefore, we should stick to the former Motion which seeks to rectify the unsatisfactory conditions and bring about the Government to take over the bursaries, it is its own child.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to oppose the amendment.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Rubia): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I rise to support the amendment.

I think a lot of speakers who have opposed the amendment have wandered, as it were, rather away from the point. They have spoken, for example—and said that there are many poor parents. Nobody disputes that. I do know that in my constituency, there are very many poor parents and anyone who attempts or pretends to be the expert of telling this hon. House that there are poor people is certainly wrong because we know that. Indeed, the text of this amendment rather emphasizes that there is a need for assisting poor children. As I have said, in my own constituency, there are very many poor parents and I have done as much as I can, in my capacity, as their representative. Therefore, nobody should pretend that he is the representative of the poor people. This is wrong, we all represent everybody and we do know that our people require assistance. This amendment, Mr. Deputy Speaker, precisely talks about the Government being asked to find ways and means of continuing to assist needy and bright children in our secondary schools. There is no suggestion, whatsoever, that the Government should do nothing.

The original Motion spoke about the county councils being unable to pay bursaries. I want to say that this is true. I know there are some county councils which cannot go on paying bursaries. However, the amendment proposed by my hon. friend, the hon. Mr. Mbai, does not say that the county councils must continue paying bursaries. It says that the Government be asked to find ways and means. We have to be realistic. If we pass Motions here and expect the Government to implement them, they have to be Motions that can be implemented. If we say that the Government goes on providing, we still find that we need the services of county councils. I am only making a suggestion. It may be the Government will still use the county councils as the vehicles to tell who the poor children are. So, this amendment merely asks that the Government be allowed to find ways and means. It does not say that the Government should never consider giving bursaries. On the contrary, today we do give bursaries to some students. It was only last week that I gave an example of Marsabit Secondary School. We have given some students bursaries there. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am submitting most sincerely and humbly that this amendment is realistic and that it is not going to affect very substantially, the original Motion. All it does is that it rather streamlines and systemizes our intentions which, I know, this hon. House support.

I am, therefore, supporting the amendment because it is realistic to do so and because it has to be possible to do so. However, merely to wander about and talk about poor children, some schools of rich people and so on—I think, this really is taking the advantage of, certainly the Motion before the House, to sort of, shall we say, say things which are fashionable and things which you think people up in the galleries will like to hear you say, and say things that you think will make people feel you are a very good orator. I think, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we are sincere, we should support this amendment. The amendment does not, in any way, say that we should not assist poor children. In fact, as I have said, I know this is what my Ministry and my hon. friends, intend to do. We must find ways and means. You cannot give bursaries because you say so. You have to find, first of all, where the money will come from and how you will distribute it. Is it going to be done centrally? If that is so, I can tell you what is likely to happen. Some people will start talking about neglected areas and that some areas are developing at the expense of the other areas. So we have to look at ways and means and the method of assisting those children who are bright enough to carry on with their secondary education.

Sir, I beg to support the amendment.

Mr. Ogingo: Thank you, very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for giving me the opportunity to make my contribution to this Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I join my friends who have opposed the amendment.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is no good the Assistant Minister for Education telling us that we come here to say things in this House that tend to be fashionable. We are not here to address the galleries. We are here to discuss matters that affect the country.

This Motion is straightforward and in the context of this Motion, we expect the Ministry of Education to find ways and means. We do not have to amend the Motion so as to find ways and means of getting bursaries to award to students in secondary schools. What has happened in the past and what has continued to happen is that so much money has had to be concentrated on students who happen to be learning in the so-called high cost schools.

I would like to suggest to the Ministry of Education that it abolishes the so-called high cost schools, most of which are concentrated around Nairobi and which admit children of parents who live in and around Nairobi. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what I am saying, and most of hon. Members here have said it, is that the county councils no longer have the proper sources of revenue. This is a fact. Now that graduated personal tax is no longer a source of revenue for the county councils and that all the other auxiliary sources of revenue have become the sources of revenue for the Government, I do not see the reason why we should amend this Motion. Mr. Deputy Speaker, there is no point in the Assistant Minister for Education telling us that the Ministry of Education or Government for that matter must continue to expect the local authorities to award scholarships. We are telling the Ministry that they must find ways and means of awarding bursaries to all schools, particularly those schools in the rural areas. This is expressed in the original Motion, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. We take it that by the end of this year, they will have taken every step to abolish the so-called high cost schools. I am saying this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because by allowing these so-called high cost schools, we are creating a society or class which is not what we want. We want one society. Some of these students who happen to be in schools like Lenana School, Nairobi School and what have you, tend to think they get special education. If these schools are supposed to serve the nationals of this country, they must be integrated with the rest of other schools in the country. Therefore, Sir, scholarships should be distributed equally to all the schools in the country. This is the main argument.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, today, most of the county councils have been forced to levy many taxes so that they survive simply because their main sources of revenue have become the Central Government sources of revenue. We know this. For example, Mr. Deputy Speaker, most of the people who hold licences are now paying twice or thrice as much in taxation so that the county councils can manage their own affairs, let alone paying their own salaries. We know this is a fact and I would like to urge the Front Bench—the Ministers, if there are any present, and the Assistant Ministers—to join us in supporting the Motion in its original form.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support the original Motion.
(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, put and negatived)

(Debate on the original Motion resumed)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is time for the Mover to reply.

Mr. Nyaga: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am glad the amendment did not go through. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is crystal clear that we did not have to amend the Motion because it stated the facts of life and therefore, we did not need to amend it. I thank all the hon. Members who supported me and especially the Back-benchers, most of whom gave me their support and this encouraged me a great deal. I hope when we come to the last stage, even the Front Bench will give me full support. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not want to dwell on this Motion because hon. Members have exhausted most of the points.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when the Minister was moving the amendment, he said Government took over the running of education. However, he did not tell the House that the same Government took over the sources of revenue as well. This means that the same Government is responsible for providing bursaries. He also said there is a very small vote for the high cost schools. However, if he gave us the figure of such schools, it would have helped us to know how small the vote he talked about is. I am saying this because I do not think the vote that goes to the high cost schools is small at all. At the same time, I would like to know how much it costs to keep a single pupil in a high cost school and also how much it costs to keep a pupil in a low cost school. It would be surprising if we came to learn that what keeps a pupil in a high cost school would keep maybe 20 in a low cost school, which means we may not need those high cost schools at all. We had better have these low cost schools to cater for the whole country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, again, it was commented that the county councils cannot afford to provide these bursaries. Why have we not been given the reason why they cannot do so? However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the reason is because the main source of revenue—graduated personal tax, has been taken over by Government and for that reason, the county councils cannot afford to provide these bursaries. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not want to dwell on this subject too much. Mr. Deputy

[Mr. Nyaga]

Speaker, we also know that Government give a few bursaries to the low cost schools outside the City, but they give very little. There was an example of the percentage they give. I hear they only give two bursaries to one school. What are two bursaries in one big school? Mr. Deputy Speaker, as I have already said, I do not want to dwell on this subject too much because it is very clear. I hope everybody will be on my side to make this Motion go through.

With these few words, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to move.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I will now put the question.

(Question put and agreed to)

POINTS OF ORDER

DRESS IN THE CHAMBER—MEMBER IMPROPERLY DRESSED

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, are you satisfied that the Member over there—the hon. Ziro is properly dressed, taking into account the fact that the Speaker ruled that one has to be dressed in a suit or a Kaunda suit. Could what the hon. Member wearing be called a Kaunda suit?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Would you stand up, Mr. Ziro, so that I can see.

(The hon. Ziro stood up)

Now, Mr. Ziro I see you are not properly dressed and, therefore, you need to go and put on a jacket, otherwise you come in a Kaunda suit.

(The hon. Ziro withdrew from the Chamber)

MOTION

ASSISTANT MINISTERS TO BE DEPUTY MINISTERS

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:

THAT since this Government intends to train its promising men into actually effective leaders of tomorrow's Kenya, this House calls on the Government to introduce a Bill for amendment of the Constitution of Kenya, in order to delete the words "Assistant Minister" and substitute in place thereof the words "Deputy Minister".

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a matter for the Constitution. We have had an experience whereby some countries are governed with fear, distrust and at times with a tendency to underrate the intelligence and integrity of their colleagues. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, all the Members of this House have been elected by the people back home and, despite the fact that the Constitution of Kenya provides for the appointment of Ministers by the President and Assistant Ministers as provided in section 19 of the Kenya Constitution, it has been noted that the Ministers have been running hopefully because one person is the Minister and the other one is an Assistant Minister. It is clearly understood, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the oath of those two offices differ. They vary on the part of secrecy. A Minister takes the oath of secrecy of the Kenya Cabinet.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when the Minister is running his Ministry, in most cases, he believes in his own conscience, that his Assistant Minister is not big enough as far as portfolios are concerned, to know the inside running or day-to-day operations of his Ministry just because his colleague is a mere Assistant. The interpretation of the word "assistant" in English, means "a person just assisting the other to carry out some given responsibilities when required by that person to do so, and, at times, when he is also favoured". Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you will find that if I were a Minister in a given Ministry and I do not like the face of the hon. Charles Rubia in my Ministry just because, perhaps, sometimes, politically, somewhere, we did not agree, I will confine the secrets and the inner running of the machinery of my Ministry to myself and I will direct my officers that unless and until I am in that office, no one else should touch the given files as they are numbered.

QUORUM

Mr. Bonaya: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is there a quorum in the House?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, we do not have a quorum. Ring the Division Bell.

(The Division Bell was rung)

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there may be some problems because I understand that there is a meeting of the World Federation . . . of something and the Members are engaged there. I was wondering why they should do so and yet they cannot manage the Kenya affairs, but they are thinking of the world affairs.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No problem as far as we are concerned.

Mr. Mwithaga: We have a quorum now.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have a precedence in this House that when there has been a ruling from the Chair at the time when we have serious business like this but the circumstances do not allow to have everybody here to form a quorum, we go ahead. We have this precedence. Do you not think we can use that precedence?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No. This only applies if no one raises the question of a quorum on a point of order. There is a gentleman's agreement that when there is serious business we do not do that. But now that it has arisen we are in difficulties. As a matter of fact, we do not have a quorum even now, and we have taken more than five minutes trying to get a quorum—I hope there is one coming in now.

We have a quorum now, continue, Mr. Mwithaga.

Mr. Mwithaga: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I was just saying that it has happened that some Ministers—this must be accepted. It is politically psychological—that a Minister would fear at times to allow his Assistant Minister—just because that is the law and since an Assistant Minister has not gone to the extent of taking the oath of allegiance of the Cabinet—to touch some files and, therefore, some work remains pending until that Minister comes back to the office after one week of going back to the land. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is obviously so, and to try and save the situation, there must be a provision whereby somebody can always act with authority and commit Government with every given audacity and authenticity.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the other fear is that when I am a Deputy Minister, and I am acting in the absence of my Minister, perhaps—I do not say that the Ministers we have today are part and parcel of that establishment, but it was so done in the past by those who had political insecurity in themselves and they did not trust other persons and they wanted to keep themselves very high up, far from the other colleagues of theirs in their offices. That is the time when the Constitution was being written. This political fear was there and some gentlemen wanted to confine the actual power of the Cabinet to themselves. Time has come when we eradicated that fear in our leadership because we must be able to train young men of promise, most of whom are now Assistant Ministers, to be leaders of tomorrow. But when you keep him for seven years as an Assistant Minister, taking orders as a soldier, when will he become a lieutenant, and when will become a major, if he takes orders all the time? It takes an army private about 25 years to become a sergeant-major, and it takes him 30 years to become a regimental sergeant-major.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, are we going to treat the political institutions as an army, whereby a chap has to remain in the office as an Assistant Minister for seven or ten long years until it is proved that he can become a Minister? The sharing of leadership in the country is, therefore, absolutely necessary. The question of stealing the limelight is a mere psychological defeatism. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I know it is a psychological defeatism because a Minister must know that he is not indispensable. He is not. He can be moved tomorrow and we have seen the experience of Ministers being appointed to act in other Ministries in the absence of their colleagues, thereby creating confusion in that Ministry. If Mwithaga becomes the acting Minister for Agriculture when he is the Minister for Housing, and yet he knows nothing about the running of the Ministry of Agriculture, yet there are two Assistant Ministers for Agriculture, who will now start showing me what to do if these Assistant Ministers cannot act? They can act in my absence, but because the interpretation of the General Provisions Act, Cap. 2, which confers powers on the President to transfer responsibility, you will find that the Ministry is shifted to hon. Shikuku in another Ministry so that he runs two Ministries for a week or two. What does he do in those two weeks, Mr. Deputy Speaker? The question is this: Why can that Assistant Minister not act in that Ministry in the absence of his Minister? There is a system here that is a constitutional system. Some countries have inner Cabinet and outer Cabinet. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there are several Ministers in that Government who do not sit in the Cabinet as such. There is, therefore, an inner Cabinet which deals with absolute policy and secrets of the state and the meeting of five of them could commit the whole nation. That does not necessarily mean that an outer Minister cannot attend the Cabinet meeting where decisions and policy matters about his Ministry are concerned. When the matters concerning his Ministry are finished—if the hon. gentleman can be patient—if the deliberations about that given Ministry are over the acting Minister can leave the Cabinet meeting and go back to his Ministry leaving the other Ministers in the Cabinet going on. This has been done in countries we know of.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the excuse is only political. It is only political insecurity. This is why this section was put in the Constitution. It is lack of confidence in the other colleagues—and it is organized in such a way as to array the sphere in that you, an Assistant Minister—when he goes to his office he sits there

[Mr. Mwithaga]

—they have very beautiful offices but with very mean files. If you look at the things that they actually do—Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if you ask the hon. Mr. Shikuku what he knows about internal security he cannot tell you and I dare say so.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he claims that he sees all the files. I am saying that he does not see all the files. He only sees the assigned files. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am saying this because if he was—

Mr. Mwangale: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I do not see the Attorney-General here whereas the Motion is being addressed to him. Also, it has become characteristic—now, where there are vested interests like now we have a case concerning Assistant Ministers, and the Ministers and yet they are not in at all. Sir, could I have some kind of guidance here. Who is going to reply to this Motion? Is it one of the Assistant Ministers?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The Motion does not end this morning or this afternoon, rather, it goes on to next week and the Attorney-General will have a chance to study the HANSARD, although, it is usually better that he is here. I understand he left Mr. Shikuku to take notes on his behalf.

Mr. Mwithaga: Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as I was saying—it is a serious matter and there is no question of joking about it—the political arrangements of the past now lead us here where we are debating this issue. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was trying to prove that it is only because of unwarranted, uninvited, unwanted spheres, psychological and otherwise—suffering from political insecurity on some parties that this Constitution, as far as Assistant Ministers are concerned, stands as it is.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I was suggesting therefore, that we remove from our Constitution the question of having an Assistant Minister and we have a Deputy Minister—A Deputy Minister will be able to deputize for his Minister with authority and committal in any manner, in any place whatsoever. He will, therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, not speak without any doubt as to be counter-charged or counteracted by his Minister. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have seen countries—our neighbours who toppled themselves have Deputy Ministers. The way these Ministers run is that a Minister—for that matter a senior Minister—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I wanted to assist you. Those who are interrupting the speaker please be quiet I think we should get some silence.

Mr. Mwithaga: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for that directive. Mr. Deputy Speaker, that senior Minister, where there is a Deputy Minister, will not confine every bit of his job to himself as an authority. If there is any question of representation or any question of acting, he allows his Deputy Minister, who is constituted in the Constitution as a Deputy Minister and allows that interpretation in the General Provisions Act, to act in that capacity, to go ahead and commit his Minister.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since we know that it is those fears of the past, the political fears which we used to experience which brought about that situation, let us examine what happens in other countries, countries like Zambia and Tanzania, where they have a Minister, a Deputy Minister and a Junior Minister. They have that kind of system because, perhaps, they are a union and the country is so large and, therefore, it would require to have a Minister, a Deputy Minister and a Junior Minister and what have you. Our country is not so large to be able to provide that kind of lengthy protocol system. Therefore, when we have a country as small as ours, we only need one Minister and a Deputy Minister. If there are two Assistant Ministers, who would be—Mr. Deputy Speaker, you are very right, the gentlemen being fought for by this Motion, are the men who are talking very much, I think they are very happy about it—Mr. Deputy Speaker, I was saying, a country so small as ours cannot actually afford that lengthy protocol, whereby the Minister is there, the Deputy Minister, the Junior Minister and what have you. What we should do, in the case where there is one Assistant Minister, he becomes automatically a Deputy Minister and full stop. Where there are two Assistant Ministers, they both become Deputy Ministers. I will explain this point. The President of the Republic will remain with the powers conferred on him by the Interpretation and the General Provisions Act Chapter 2, to decide on the person, out of the two Deputy Ministers on equal footing, and will choose one of them, under the Act to act in the absence of his Minister. Then, the other Deputy Minister remains a Deputy Minister, when the other one is acting in the capacity of the absent Minister.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, why this should be so is because—Let us not deceive ourselves, we must be honest with ourselves—this is a political Republic. Being a political Republic, if you take one to be a Deputy Minister and you leave the other one to remain as an Assistant Minister, we have not corrected the evil. Indeed two wrongs do not make one right. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Assistant Minister who remains the Assistant Minister will feel that his colleague has been promoted to a Deputy Minister and that he has two masters over him. The Deputy Minister over him and the Minister also over him and then he will feel himself a useless Assistant Minister. He does not know to whom he is responsible any more. It is psychological and we should not create a situation where psychological defeatism will be operating. I am glad the Vice-President has come because he would agree that the young men of promise must be given opportunity to be custodians of the political stability of this country in future. There must be, therefore, opportunities created. There must, therefore, be opportunities which can only be created in the political machinery and in the political arena. If there was any gentleman who wanted to amend this Motion providing for the post of a Deputy Minister and the other post for an Assistant Minister I would like to query it and say that it would be also a psychological defeatism which must be avoided so that if they are Deputy Ministers they should be Deputy Ministers and there should be no question of Deputy Minister I and Deputy Minister II. If they are Deputy Ministers they are Deputy Ministers and they should have equal responsibilities and should work with their Ministers and can be conferred with responsibilities by the President under the Interpretation and General Provisions Act Cap. 11 as has been the policy and practice hitherto.

Therefore, the section in the Constitution which should be amended is section 19 (1) in page 12 which provides, if I may quote, "The President may appoint Assistant Ministers from among the Members of the National Assembly to assist the President, Vice-President and Ministers in the performance of their duties". However, they cannot act in their absence. How do you assist the person in the performance of his duties yet you never act in his absence? This is what is questionable! I am sure the Vice-President and the Minister for Home Affairs would not like an Assistant Minister who only assists him to run the Ministry and cannot authentically represent him with authority and unequivocal powers in his absence. Therefore, this clause is absolutely irrelevant and it should be deleted and a substitute, "Deputy Minister" be there and the powers provided for in the Interpretation and General Provisions Act Cap. 11 be used so as to allow the President to confer responsibilities in the absence of Ministers. There has been a case where a Minister has been sick for a month or two months. The Vice-President and the Minister for Home Affairs acts during that period and he comes with his new ideas with regard to how he can run a given Ministry for a month or two according to his political thinking and understanding; and then after a month or two months he goes to his Ministry and the other Minister comes back only to find that something has gone wrong somewhere.

In the constitutional arrangements of Government continuity is the most important operation in running a Government. However, there cannot be continuity where there are interceptions, interjections and interpolations. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is the point which must be taken seriously: if you want to run a good government smoothly—a constitutional government—it must be provided for, it must be established, it must be protected and it must be allowed to exist so that that chain of continuity from source of power of that Minister who became a Minister at a given time is carried on by his Deputy Minister to the end until such time that the Minister comes back to his office. Therefore, there will be continuity and adherence to the secrets. Although there is collective responsibility a given Minister would want to make sure that the secrets of his Ministry are pure and serene.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Who is your Seconder?

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Mwangale.

Mr. Mwangale: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want to point out something which I said before in my point of order: other than the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs, we do not have any Minister at all on the Front Bench and I think this is a pity.

The second point which I would like to mention here before we go into the discussion is that there is a new connotation of the post of "Assistant Minister". I remember that during the time when we had our Parliamentary Group meeting, His Excellency the President asked, "Where is that minor Minister?" Therefore, instead of having, "A.M.—Assistant Minister" we should have a new connotation, "M.M.—Minor Minister".

This is a very serious Motion because apparently, even in our own Constitution the functions of the Ministers and Assistant Ministers are not defined. I would like to quote Part 2 section 22 (1): "Where the Vice-President or any other

[Mr. Mwangale]

Minister has been charged with responsibility for any department of Government, he shall exercise general direction and control over that department and, subject to such direction and control, every department of Government shall be under the supervision of a Permanent Secretary whose office shall be an office in the public service". We have had occasions in this House of cases involving civil servants, and we have a clear example of the incident, involving the Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of Education, yesterday. In this particular case it is not known who is more powerful or who is above the other in the political and governmental structure. We have not defined basically the positions of a Minister, an Assistant Minister or a Permanent Secretary in a particular Ministry. What we are discussing here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that the whole governmental structure must be re-defined in such a way that the political posts fall above the posts of civil servants. I want to propose here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the post of a Minister should be followed by the post of a Deputy Minister and thereafter falls the post of a Permanent Secretary or any other governmental officer as directed in the caption which was mentioned by the hon. Member who has just spoken. In this particular regard I want to emphasize, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the fact that there shall not be by-passing of powers from Permanent Secretaries directly to the Ministers without referring the matter in question to the Assistant Ministers, that is, the powers must be completely vertical from bottom to upwards or from upwards to the bottom through the Deputy Ministers which we are proposing here or we have an order of protocol as someone put it yesterday.

I want also, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, to point out something that I am getting a bit fed up with and, I am sure, the same thing is happening to the other hon. Members and that is whenever we suggest anything to do with the changing of the Constitution and the hon. Attorney-General happens to be a Member of this House he does not take any note whatsoever. I do not know in the history of this House except in very few cases where the Attorney-General has taken notes of the Motions urging him to change the Constitution in order to keep the spirit of the Motions which have been passed here. I think it is just about time, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we definitely came to some kind of conclusion whether or not the Motions urging the Attorney-General to change the Constitution should, in fact, be implemented or not. I wish he was here, because I want him to tell us whether or not at any time in the history of this hon. House he has made any effort to change the Constitution according to the Motions passed by the House.

Another point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, which I want to mention here is as follows: When you look at the roster showing the names of Ministers and Assistant Ministers in our present Government, first of all you will see they are too many. We have too many Ministers. Secondly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that most of these Ministers and Assistant Ministers are extremely capable. We have men like my colleague who is in the Ministry of Agriculture who has been a Director of Agriculture for a long time, but he is now an Assistant Minister although he is completely fit to be a Minister. However, because some of these ministerial appointments, and I want this to be understood by the Vice-President—although I do not want to appear as though I am belittling the wisdom of His Excellency the President—are made simply because somehow they want to satisfy certain people. It is a political appointment sometimes in some cases possibly or perhaps which is meant to cool down the tempers of certain people. This is a very serious thing. I have seen some cases where I know some Ministers and Assistant Ministers were appointed because the people of a certain province thought, "Well, after appointing all these Ministers and Assistant Ministers, we have only two Assistant Ministers". Then suddenly you hear over the radio, So-and-so has been appointed an Assistant Minister from that province. We want Assistant Ministers or "Deputy" Ministers in future and Ministers to be appointed on the basis of merit and proper representation. When this is done, Mr. Speaker, we do not want any appointment because of consolation. We do not want to be consoled; we have passed that stage now. We have very able men here and, I think, it is the time we came to agree on this.

Another point which they have to look into is about the change of the Constitution. In countries such as America where State Secretaries—which is equivalent to Cabinet Ministers—are appointed— Even the Deputy State Secretaries, the appointments are ratified by Parliament. If Parliament feels that a particular Minister has been so tribal in the past and that he should be got rid of, for example, they will agree here and recommend to Mzee, "We do not want that Assistant Minister or Minister; he has been too tribal." We want a ratification, a change of the Constitution to be such that appointments of Ministers, appointments of Permanent Secretaries shall be rectified by this House. This is very important. The powers must be vested in this House and not outside. This is why we are having an abuse of powers of the National Assembly by very simple characters such as some Permanent Secretaries like Gachathi. I think it is about time we meant really to rule this country and rule with pride and power. We do not want invisible powers to reduce our powers in this House.

The point I am trying to emphasize, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is: first of all we have to re-define the structure of Government on the basis of these Ministerial arrangements such that the Minister shall have a Deputy Minister and that Deputy Minister will deputize to the effect when that Minister is out of the country or doing some other job somewhere else rather than having these lateral movements, for example, a Minister for Local Government suddenly being appointed acting Minister for Defence when he actually does not know anything probably, about defence at that particular time. Therefore, it is pointless to have jobs which have no powers. Therefore, the whole structure should be changed. We should have a Minister and a Deputy Minister and this Deputy Minister must rule whatever they call in the legal language mutatis mutandis; they have to have that power.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the second part—I am just summarizing these points—is that: when the appointments of Ministers and Deputy Ministers are made and because we have very able men, let us ratify them in this House and there shall not be appointments purely on consolation basis neither should it be on a geographical basis nor tribal basis. Let us face this once and for all. A third point which I would like to mention and which I have mentioned already is that we have too many Assistant Ministers. Let us cut the number down and strengthen the Central Government; Government Ministries.

The last point which I would like to mention is that whenever we have a discussion of this kind, whether you have a vested interest or not—and I am mentioning about “vested interest” in the case of Ministers—that they should also be here to voice their points rather than being absent—I know some of them are drinking in the lounge. They should be here.

With these few remarks, I beg to second the Motion.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is not necessary to say the last words you have said.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Migire: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker—I hear some of my colleagues saying I might have had promotion to a Minister or an Assistant Minister; that is all right, if that is the case.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I wish to share my views with my colleagues; the two colleagues who have just spoken on this Motion. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I support this Motion very strongly, and I have already discussed this matter with one of the parliamentarians who intends to bring amendments to this Motion. In fact, Sir, I would say that our Assistant Ministers have complained in this House and outside, that there is a lot of maltreatment—Some of the Permanent Secretaries and some of the Ministers do not want to give specific duties to their Assistant Ministers, and in this case, Sir, I would suggest very strongly, that we have to have Deputy Ministers, who should act when a Minister is not in the Ministry or if he is outside the country or if he is unable, because of illness, to carry out his Ministerial responsibilities. It is very embarrassing, Sir, for one to see that an Assistant Minister, who knows very well, the responsibilities of a Ministry and who is more conversant with the problems in the Ministry, and when the Minister goes outside the Ministry, another Minister is brought, either from the Ministry of Agriculture or from—

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): On a point of order, Sir; the hon. Member has said that he has heard Assistant Ministers complaining, in the Chamber and outside the Chamber, that they are not given work by Ministers and Permanent Secretaries; in view of the fact that I consider an Assistant Minister above a Permanent Secretary, is the hon. Member in order to say that we complain, so that we should be given work by Permanent Secretaries?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! That is not a point of order. The Member is saying what he thinks is the truth. I believe that in some cases, some Permanent Secretaries have given work to Assistant Ministers; I too, was an Assistant Minister for three years, I know that this can happen.

Mr. Migire: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am very, very sorry to hear that from my colleague, who is saying that he is not supposed to be given work by the Permanent Secretary. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the normal procedure in Government is that the Permanent Secretary gets the documents; he gets the files, he knows which files should go, either to the Minister or to such-and-such Assistant Minister, and some—This has been said in this House several times, that in some cases, the Permanent Secretary does not even show the file to an Assistant Minister, and this is a true thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir; why do we hide it? The Permanent Secretary is the administrative officer of the Ministry. He receives the letters and he knows that this is the letter which should go to a certain officer; this is the letter which should go to that officer. Why should we hide these facts, Mr. Deputy Speaker?

What we want in this case— Mr. Deputy Speaker, I have been a civil servant in this Government, and I think I know the machinery of this Government. What we should do, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—I hate it, if the Minister for Information and Broadcasting is going away, and the hon. Member, the Assistant Minister, knows that Ministry; he knows the officers, he knows the problems, because he has been there for a long time, and you find that the Minister for Agriculture is brought to head the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, at a time when he does not know where the public relations officer is, he does not know the problems in that Ministry; Sir, I hate this. This is why we must give our Assistant Ministers the power; if they become the Deputy Ministers, and I have seen the amendments which are going to be moved here, with specific duties, specified by this House, I think our Deputy Ministers will have a role to play in this country. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are training our people for future responsibilities. They must have access to the responsibilities in various Ministries. They must know the administrative problems; we do not want our Assistant Ministers or “Deputy Ministers” to only come here to answer questions in Parliament. They must be people who can decide on policy matters. They must be people who can be given responsibilities in such Ministries. We cannot have Assistant Ministers who only go to sit in Ministries or come here to be used by either the Minister or the Permanent Secretary to answer questions here! They are elected Members of this House and know their responsibilities. They must carry out these responsibilities. They should have access to the President, immediately they assume responsibilities as Ministers. However, even if it is not so, they should have access to the President should they have any complaints about their Ministers.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a country where we have a political Government and we do not want to bluff our colleagues. We want them to feel that they are responsible. I know, here, in certain cases, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, hon. Charles Rubia—the Assistant Minister for Education—has often answered questions in this Parliament very successfully. Several Assistant Ministers, too, have answered questions here very successfully. I do not see why, therefore, somebody should be brought, say, from the Ministry of Commerce and Industry to come and head the Ministry of Home Affairs—if not the Vice-President, I do not mind about the Vice-Presidency because if the Vice-President is out it is only the President who should decide the person to act in his place—because I think, say, hon. Shikuku in that Ministry can deputize in the Ministry of Home Affairs. What is he missing? He is a man who has been in this House for a long time; he has a lot of stuff upstairs. Who can tell me that if he can act in the Ministry of Home Affairs he would know more than hon. Shikuku? This is a mockery and we cannot allow it! We want “Deputy Ministers” to assume the role of responsibility in this country. They must act when the Minister is not there. Even if the Minister is there, they should be in a position to handle all administrative matters so that all such matters go to the Minister through the “Deputy Minister” Mr. Speaker, Sir. If these are responsible Ministers in this country, this has to be taken in. In the same way, I would say now, for example, that if we want to recognize the role of the Deputy Speaker in this House, questions and all matters should go to the Speaker after they have passed through the Deputy Speaker. Sir, I should not see the Speaker over even a small thing which can be sorted out by the Deputy Speaker!

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Migure: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we do not want to give our people responsibilities through papers only when, in fact, this is not there. This is a mockery. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, Assistant Ministers have complained in this House and this is true—

Hon. Members: Which one? Which one?

Mr. Migure: I do not have to mention who have complained. There is no need for me to mention who have complained. In fact, Sir, I have also complained in this House that why should somebody be brought from the Ministry of Agriculture to go and act in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry during the absence of the Minister for Commerce and Industry? I am asking now; what for? Does the Minister who comes to act know better than the Assistant Minister who is there in that Ministry? I have asked myself this question and have come to the conclusion that it is not at all right! He does not understand it better than the Assistant Minister who is already there in the Ministry.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I heard a Permanent Secretary talking yesterday and saying that we are all the same. What nonsense? How can he say that we are all the same when we, in this House, are the supreme authority of this land.

[Mr. Migure]

We are not the same as civil servants. After all, I can discipline a civil servant even if he is a Permanent Secretary. After all, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my salary is above his salary. It is true. Now, Sir, if a Permanent Secretary gets K£3,000 per annum and I get K£2,700 per annum, if you include my other allowances, my salary is above his several times. This is true and you cannot deny it. In this case, Sir, I know my colleagues may wonder about this. Mr.

Deputy Speaker, Sir, what I am saying that my salary is above that of a Permanent Secretary.

ADJOURNMENT

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! It is now time for the interruption of business. The House is now, therefore, adjourned until Tuesday, 30th March, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past Twelve o'clock.

Tuesday, 30th March 1971

The House met at thirty minutes past Two o'clock.

PRAYERS

NOTICES OF MOTIONS

REFERENCE OF A MATTER—REFUSAL TO SUBSTANTIATE—TO THE COMMITTEE OF POWERS AND PRIVILEGES

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT being of the opinion that the refusal by the Member for Kilifi South to substantiate the allegation he first made on 17th March 1971 and subsequently repeated that some Members of Parliament and Assistant Ministers had hired out Transport Licensing Board licences to non-citizens contrary to Government policy of Africanization, is a gross contempt of the House; this House resolves accordingly to refer the matter to the Committee of Powers and Privileges, which is hereby directed to summon and examine the said Member for Kilifi South and report with its recommendations to the House.

PERMANENT SOLUTION TO WATER SHORTAGE IN KITUI DISTRICT

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT in view of the frequent critical water shortage in the Kitui District, this House urges the Government to initiate measures during the next financial year (1971/72) for a special supplies development programme for the district, which will give a permanent solution to the problem of water supplies.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 205

COUNTRY-WIDE TOURS BY RECRUITMENT TEAMS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Defence if he would tell the House—

- (a) why the Kenya Army, Kenya Police, Kenya Prison and National Youth Service toured districts for new recruitment and yet in some districts they could not recruit more than five people;
- (b) whether that was economical considering the expenses incurred by recruitment teams; and
- (c) why applicants could not be invited to send their applications in the normal way.

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The answer for the first part is, yes, Sir. Sir, to its— Oh my! I forgot my glasses!

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did say, to the first part, "Yes Sir". Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is economical because generally the army has to reimburse applicants who come to these interviews. It is much cheaper if they came to a central place where the teams could go and see them.

The next part of it is that—the part (b)—we have to go round the country as much as possible making sure that we get candidates from as many places as possible; but it is impossible to be able to go to every district every year. We do this exercise more or less twice a year.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! There is too much interruption; that is the trouble.

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Gichuru): I said, Sir, that we do this exercise twice a year. We know what areas we had not covered the first time and we try to cover them the next time. Therefore, I do not quite understand what the question is all about?

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I seek your guidance? I think the Kenya Government is trying to play about by bringing a Minister who cannot reply to a question. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you read my question as it is on the Order Paper you will agree that the Minister has not answered it and he is completely out of order! Now, what is the use of asking a question? Therefore, Sir, I protest against the attitude.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All right. Next question.

Question No. 226

PAYMENT OF TAXES BY INSTALMENTS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mbori not here? Next question.

Question No. 183 (1530)

DISPUTES WITHIN CENTRAL RIFT COUNTY COUNCIL

Mr. arap Cheboiwo asked the Minister for Local Government if he would tell the House—

- (a) whether he was aware that all the services which were to be carried out by the Central Rift County Council from 1st January 1970 had stopped as a result of disputes within the council; and
- (b) what the Ministry was doing to sort out those disputes so that the wananchi of Baringo and Nakuru could get their normal services.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Ogutu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. There has been a degree of political disagreement among the councillors in the County Council of the Central Rift and this did affect the efficiency of services within that council, although the area councils have continued to function normally. The estimates of expenditure for 1970, submitted by the county's five area councils, Nakuru, Naivasha, Molo, North Baringo and South Baringo, received my Ministry's approval last year and I am now examining the Estimates for 1971 including those of the whole of Central Rift Council.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have had a series of meetings with these councillors in an attempt to restore unity and co-operation among them. Sir, our last meeting was held on 11th March 1971, in the office of the Vice-President. All the councillors from Baringo and Nakuru Districts agreed to work together and forget the controversy about elections, since we shall be having elections for committee chairmen and vice-chairmen after June 30th this year.

It is my sincere hope that the controversy is now over, and that the Central Rift County Council will now continue to function normally.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's answer, which is not very bad, can he tell the House whether these councillors have met since the last meeting was held here in Nairobi? In this context I mean the County Council of Central Rift.

Mr. Ogutu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the information I gather is that the members from Baringo have refused to participate in various committees. It has been decided that the full council should resume the whole of the responsibilities of the various committees.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister tell the House what the disagreement is about amongst these councillors?

Mr. Ogutu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the disagreement was over the post of the vice-chairman, which the councillors from Baringo expected to be given to a man from Baringo, but unfortunately during the election the posts of chairman and vice-chairman of the council went to councillors from Nakuru.

Mr. Cheserek: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's answer the part that said that he has been meeting several times the area councils or members of the County Council of the Central Rift, can he tell us whether he has met the hon. Members of Parliament from Nakuru and Baringo Districts so that they can explain clearly the situation prevailing in their various constituencies?

Mr. Ogutu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, at the last meeting both councillors from Baringo and Nakuru Districts met.

Question No. 204

PROVINCIAL LABOUR OFFICER FOR EASTERN PROVINCE

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House—

- (a) the reason why Embu, as a Provincial Headquarters of Eastern Province, had no provincial labour officer;
- (b) whether he was aware that in Kitui District there is no labour officer but had only a labour inspector; and
- (c) if the answer was in affirmative, why it was so.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kibisu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The stationing of a labour officer in any area is solely justified by a concentration of workers in paid employment. Embu, which is yet to fall in this category, is adequately covered by the Senior Labour Officer stationed at Nyeri, and a less senior officer stationed in Embu itself.

(b) The Labour Inspector stationed in Kitui adequately handles the labour affairs of Kitui. No justification exists for a more senior officer to be stationed there.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, according to the Assistant Minister's reply, that a Senior Labour Officer at Nyeri does the duty of the Labour Officer in Eastern Province, why should the Senior Labour Officer in Nyeri, who covers another province, do the duties of the senior labour officer who should be stationed at Embu, which is a provincial headquarters of the Eastern Province? In (b), Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! One question at a time.

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is so, because Embu does not justify the employment of a senior labour officer in terms of workers in actual employment.

Mr. Bonaya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware that people in some parts of Eastern Province, like Isiolo, Marsabit and Moyale, are suffering because the labour officer is stationed at Nyeri, which is too far away, instead of being stationed in Eastern Province?

Mr. Kibisu: I hope that the hon. Member is not implying that the Senior Labour Officer in Nyeri does not cover that area adequately.

Mr. Munyasia: Realizing that there are seven provinces in Kenya, and in the Eastern Province there are seven districts, that is, Meru, Embu, Isiolo, Kitui, Machakos, Marsabit and Samburu, why should these seven districts be served by a person who is stationed in Nyeri instead of having a senior labour officer in Embu?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do know the reason is that we do not post labour officers by provincial administration boundaries. We will continue to post officers to cover units of employment. If in the North-Eastern Province and in Eastern Province the number of workers justify it, we will consider sending a labour officer there. However, at the moment we cannot do so.

Mr. Umuro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since there are a lot of people in Eastern Province who are suffering because there is no senior labour officer in Embu, what action is the Ministry considering taking because if they send a senior labour officer there people will not suffer any longer?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, hon. Members must be aware that we have made adequate arrangements with the provincial administration, and, in fact, any workers who are suffering in any area of this country, it is up to those workers to draw our attention to this either through the district officers or directly to the labour officers.

Mr. Komen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply given by the Assistant Minister, and bearing in mind that Nyeri is a very thickly populated area which does not have even farm labour, is he telling us that Nyeri compared with Embu— Can he tell us the difference between Embu and Nyeri, bearing in mind that in Nyeri people do not have land to farm?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, unless the hon. Member for Nakuru West clarifies the "difference" he wants, I cannot answer his question.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in order that the Assistant Minister can clarify, or rather substantiate, the number of workers in his claim that Eastern Province does not warrant the stationing of a provincial labour officer at Embu, as compared with workers in Central Province, can he, in term of figures, show to this House how many paid employees there are in the whole of Eastern Province as compared to the workers in Central Province?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect to the hon. Member for Yatta, that is a slightly different question, but I would be willing to entertain it. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I have already done in the past, I will be willing to produce these figures if given sufficient notice.

Question No. 228

ONE MAN ONE JOB POLICY

Mr. Kahengeri asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House, since it was the Government policy to establish a socialist economy, he could show cause why he should not make it compulsory for one man to hold only one paid job while many eligible people in the country remained jobless.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kibisu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The question of making it compulsory for one man to hold one paid job in this country, presumably by legislation, is a policy matter which involves the Government and not only the Ministry of Labour. The hon. Member is free to introduce a Motion in this effect for discussion by the hon. Members.

Mr. Kahengeri: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while perhaps agreeing with the Assistant Minister that it is the policy matter of the entire Government, what is his Ministry's opinion?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry does not operate in giving opinion, but it operates as per Government policy.

Mr. Y. Ali: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, can he agree with this House that in view of the seriousness of unemployment in this country his Ministry is duty bound to initiate a move or see to it that individuals should not hold several positions while some trained and unqualified people are roaming on the streets?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, collectively the Government has already taken steps and discussions are being held, and the hon. Member for Langata as well as the House, will be informed in due course as to what the decision will be.

Question No. 209

TARMACKING OF CHEMELIL-NANDI TOWNSHIP— KAPSABET ROAD

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House when the tarmacking of the Chemelil-Nandi township—Kapsabet Road will be completed.

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I hope it will be a good point of order because we do not have time today to play about with.

POINT OF ORDER

ABSENCE OF MINISTERS TO ANSWER QUESTIONS— APOLOGY AND EXPLANATION OF REASON FOR ABSENCE

Mr. Araru: You will hear it. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as you may remember this question appeared on last Friday's Order Paper and the Minister was not here; and not only that, other questions were transferred to the Minister for Labour. Can we get a ruling from the Chair as to why he was not here?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What Mr. Araru is worried about is that this question appeared on the Order Paper of Friday but the Minister was not here to reply nor were his two Assistant Ministers. A point was raised then that on a previous day the same Ministry had not been represented here and the questions had to be put off to another day. So Mr. Araru is quite right in wanting to know why this is happening, especially when it is connected with one particular Ministry, although we know that there are two Assistant Ministers to assist the Minister himself.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to beg the apology of the House that neither myself nor my Minister was able to come on Friday and answer questions. However, we had directed Mr. ole Oloitipitip to apologize on our behalf because at the time the President was visiting Nyeri and the Minister had to accompany the President; and the other colleague of mine, Mr. Kuguru, was on the other end waiting for the President, and I, myself, was on an inspection of roads' tour in Kajiado District. I would, therefore, like to beg the apology of the House. Mr. ole Oloitipitip apologized on our behalf. This is the first time that the Ministry of Works has not been represented to answer questions and I would like, therefore, to assure the House that this will not be repeated again.

I think the hon. Araru, who comes from the North Pole—

Mr. Araru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

(Reply to Question No. 209)

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Nandi Escarpment-Kapsabet Road forms part of the contract for the construction of sugar roads in the Chemelil area. This contract was let on 20th February 1970 and the anticipated final completion date is 17th February 1972.

There are no plans to bituminize the whole length of the road from Kimwani to Kapsabet. What the Government is doing is to bituminize the difficult section of this road from Kimwani to half-way up the escarpment; that is a distance of three and half miles. The rest of the road, some 13.2 miles is being built to gravel standard.

I think the hon. Member and the hon. House do not seem to realize the cost of construction and bituminization of roads. It costs the Government between £20,000 to £40,000 to bituminize one mile of road. So, if we were to bituminize the 13.2 miles of the road, it would cost the Government £260,000. However, I would like to undertake to investigate further what possibilities there are, subject to finance being available, to bituminize the entire section. However, at the moment I cannot give this undertaking. However I undertake to investigate.

Mr. Seroney: Since the Assistant Minister has undertaken to investigate, will he undertake also to investigate the question of compensation of Saikwa school which has been destroyed as a result of this road which the contractors have refused to realign? Can he undertake to investigate the possibility of compensation by building a school of similar standard in the township?

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already invited the hon. Member to come to my Ministry on Thursday morning so that he can put his case forward, which we will consider on its merits.

Question No. 211

COMPLETION OF TARMACKING ELDORET-KAPSABET ROAD

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister for Works if he would tell the House what had delayed the completion of tarmacking of the 48 kilometre Eldoret-Kapsabet Road which was started at the same time (1967) as the long completed Eldoret-Tororo Road, in spite of a former Minister having promised the House that it would be completed by the end of 1969.

The Assistant Minister for Works (Mr. Keen): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Eldoret-Kapsabet Road is now completed and was opened to public traffic on the 27th February 1971.

The roadworks started on the 9th April 1968 and it was scheduled for completion on the 30th November 1969. However, the contractor experienced various difficulties in the construction, with particular reference to the crushing of the hard stone and laying the crusher run roadbase, which at the time was a new type of construction, and that caused a lot of delay. Also, frequently breakdowns of the plant has been one of the major reasons for the delay.

As the project was not completed on time, the Government has recovered approximately Sh. 400,000 as liquidated damages from the contractor.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Assistant Minister consider using these recovered damages to assist in completing the next stretch of the road from Kapsabet to Nandi?

Mr. Keen: Mr. Speaker, Sir, £20,000 is a drop in the sea and can hardly do anything—probably half of a mile in the most difficult areas! So, it makes no difference at all.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 201

FRUSTRATION OF GOVERNMENT POLICY BY FOREIGNERS

Mr. Magugu asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House whether it were true or not that some of the foreigners who frustrated Government declared policy of putting control of the country's economy in the hands of wananchi used the flimsy but understandable excuse that they had seen the top (meaning Ministers) Government leaders as a result of which civil servants who were charged with the duties of executing those policies always found it extremely difficult to approach such foreigners with a view to rectifying the situation and at times found it even embarrassing and frustrating to find that the actions they took in the course of executing Government policies were reversed (if unfavourable to the foreigners) the foreigners having seen the top men.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. To the best of my knowledge the allegations which are made in the question are not true.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Minister says that these allegations are not true—I just wanted to find out whether they are true or not. If he says, "No", then, it is all right.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has already denied categorically the fact that whatever appears on the Order Paper is true, am I not entitled to ask the Questioner to substantiate his allegations beyond any doubt?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think it is a fair request, Mr. Magugu, since you seem to think that there is some truth in what you say. Would you tell the House on what you base that impression?

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I stated in my question is: can the Minister tell the House if it is true or not that some foreigners—I am trying to find out whether it is true or not because I have also heard it through rumours that—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Resume your seat! Mr. Magugu, this is the danger with this kind of question when you ask, "Is it true or false". It is assumed that you have some ground for thinking that it could be true or thinking probably that it is false. However, it is more than likely that you have some grounds for thinking that it is true and that is what you are asked to indicate—what makes you, on your part, to think that it could be true.

Mr. Magugu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what makes me think so is because of what I have been told. It is common knowledge that if you go out in the town this sort of thing will come to your knowledge.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): If you are not prepared to substantiate, then, there is no point in asking the question.

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have a difficulty here when something is common knowledge and one is asked to substantiate. Is it not really putting a Member into great difficulties? This is common knowledge, and if I am asked to substantiate—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! If it is so much common knowledge, then you should be able to say it quickly. You take no time to say what is common knowledge!

Next question.

Question No. 177 (1520)

ADVERTISEMENT OF AMBI

Mr. Kivuitu, on behalf of Mr. Mulwa, asked the Minister for Information and Broadcasting if he would tell the House whether he would ban, immediately, the screening of an advertisement which is being shown in cinemas advertising Ambi and at the same time urging people to join the new Africans, meaning the light skinned Africans who had used Ambi, that being derogatory and an abuse to the dignity of Africans.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Makone): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I would like to assure the hon. Members that I, personally, am against any person who changes his colour—from black to red or green or any other unnatural colour.

I would like to say that I share the sentiments which have been expressed in this question and I am happy to announce to the House that all media advertising this dawa would be cancelled immediately!

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that reply, and knowing very well that the Assistant Minister who has given this reply, this afternoon, is the same Assistant Minister who had been talked about as being against it, would it be in order to ask him how soon this is going to be done because these advertisements appear in all theatres throughout the country and we would like to see them removed from our theatres immediately?

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like the hon. Member to co-operate with us and ask his friends not to use it, and perhaps those who are not in that category, to ask their girl friends not to use it.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister in order to insinuate that I have some friends who do use this Ambi and could he substantiate this?

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, all I said, and with good intention, was that the hon. Member should help us to launch a campaign against the use of Ambi, if the hon. Member is against it. However, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the firm concerned which has been very co-operative in this respect, to make sure that this kind of mindu wa kisasa, will not come up in the private cinemas and other places. I think the firm concerned which has been very co-operative and I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation about this.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am not very keen on points of order because, very often, they are not points of order.

Mr. Muturia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point of order is on the fact that the Assistant Minister has not answered the question. The question was asking "how soon?" The Assistant Minister went round and avoided the answer.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a sort of established firm and requires sufficient notice to abolish it. I have indicated here that the firm is willing to co-operate with us and the hon. Members will see this is done. What is wrong with this? It is all right; hii sawa sawa.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we should congratulate the Assistant Minister for assuring the House that all the media of advertising this sort of thing will be cancelled; but could he make it quite clear that all the media, including newspapers, radio and cinemas will be stopped?

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am in difficulty because I am not a lawyer, but all I said is that this stoppage will affect all kinds of media. I think my learned friend knows that all media includes what he has just said.

Mr. Kivuitu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I find it difficult to understand what the Assistant Minister is replying to. I am not very sure whether he is saying that they have agreed with a particular firm not to advertise or whether he is talking about the firm which makes these products? I think the question is clear and it is on the advertisement side and this is not carried out by one company. Therefore, I am not sure what he means because he says that they have agreed with a certain company and this question is general because it is about all advertisements, whether on the television or in cinemas. This is the question and I do not think he is talking about advertisements.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said that all media for advertising Ambi will be cancelled. This is what I said.

Mrs. Onyango: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that many men are in favour of brown women, what will they do when women are forbidden to use Ambi?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not know whether Mr. Makone would like to reply to that one?

Mrs. Onyango: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like the Assistant Minister to tell the House, when the Ambi factory or advertisements are banned, how are these people, men and women, who are after being brown, going to help themselves and how are they going to make themselves brown?

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not, and I am sure it can be checked from the HANSARD—I never said that we are prohibiting the use of Ambi. However, what we are prohibiting is the actual wording of the advertisements on the use of Ambi.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not use Ambi. However, the Assistant Minister, in my opinion, has made a categorical statement that these advertisements are going to be cancelled forthwith. I am just wondering if he could tell the House under what law he is going to have this done? Under which section of law is he going to have this thing cancelled?

Mr. Makone: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, do you, Mr. Speaker, think that statement is valid, to question what has been said by either a Minister or an Assistant Minister?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think that arises from your reply saying that your Ministry was going to ban these advertisements, and Mr. Ayah wants to know what powers you will be using when doing that, whether you have the powers to do that.

Mr. Makone: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we have a collective responsibility, I shall consult the Attorney-General in the first instance. Secondly, Sir, without doing so, I have been in touch with the firms and they have written to our Ministry accepting, if given due notice, to cancel all the media of advertising Ambi. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have the documents with me and if the Members want me to lay them on the Table, I will do so. The company, itself, has agreed to this suggestion.

[The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting]

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Speaker, Sir, quite frankly, I do not want to get into an argument with the Assistant Minister. However, I want clarification here. An Assistant Minister stands up in this House and says that something is going to be done immediately; and then immediately after that he says there is collective responsibility and he is going to consult the Attorney-General or somebody else; is this not contradicting exactly what he said earlier? If it is going to be banned immediately I am assuming, and I think the House is entitled to assume, that he has the power and has already ordered the banning so that if I go out to the cinema now I cannot see these advertisements. Is the Assistant Minister in order to make a statement saying that he is going to cancel something immediately and then saying that he is going to contact somebody else?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What I think Mr. Makone meant was that he was satisfied, according to the discussion or correspondence they may have had with the firms concerned, that they were prepared to change these advertisements and, therefore, he formed the impression that it will not take long. Perhaps he was carried away by his own enthusiasm when he said "immediately". He did not mean today.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Ebu.

Question No. 222

MALAKISI COMPANY SEWAGE SYSTEM

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Ebu not here?

(Question dropped)

Question No. 252

CPE RESULTS IN KIKUYU CONSTITUENCY

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I understand that Mr. Gatuguta's Question has been put off for the time being.

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could I know why my question has been put off?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I thought this was done with your consent; but if it was not, I think the problem is that the Ministry is not ready with the reply. However, it will appear on the Order Paper again. I am sorry about it, I thought they had consulted you.

(Question deferred)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Mbori.

Question No. 225

UNIFORMITY OF SCHOOL FEES

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mbori still not here?

Have you been authorized by Mr. Mbori to ask his question Mr. Amayo?

Mr. Amayo: Yes, Sir.

Mr. Amayo, on behalf of Mr. Mbori, asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House—

- (a) who had decided that school fees throughout primary schools in Kenya should be Sh. 72 from Standard I to VII; and
- (b) whether he was aware of the problems caused by this uniformity in the rural areas.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The answer to part (a) of the question is "I did". The answer to part (b) of the question, Mr. Speaker, is: "Yes, Sir".

Mr. Muturia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that "I did" and "Yes". Is the Minister not contradicting the Kanu Manifesto, which clings to having free primary education in this country? It seems the Minister is going upwards instead of going downwards.

Mr. Towett: I do not think I am contradicting the Kanu Manifesto, Sir.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, "I did" and "Yes, Sir", which indicates that it is the Minister who has actually increased the school fees to Sh. 72, could the House be told what necessitated the increase by 40 per cent of the previous payment? What made it compulsory on the part of the Minister to increase the school fees from Sh. 50 to Sh. 72?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not increase the school fees. What I did was to make it uniform throughout the country. Mr. Speaker, Sir, some schools used to pay school fees up to Sh. 90 and others paid Sh. 20 for children in Standard I. There was a lot of heterogeneous behaviour in the whole system depending on the different county councils in the country. What I did was to get the average school fees payable throughout the Republic of Kenya and that is why I raised it to Sh. 72.

Mr. Umuro: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, could I have some clarification on this question because the hon. Member asked Question

[Mr. Umuro]

No. 226 to the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning and not Question No. 225, which is now being answered.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will you sit down, Mr. Umuro. Hon. Members know what they are asking.

Rev. Kalume: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, that he is aware of the problems caused by this uniformity, what is he trying to do to solve these problems?

Mr. Towett: I am thinking of how I can solve the problems at the moment. That is what I am doing.

Mr. Masibayi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that raising school fees throughout the whole country is a matter of national importance and therefore it is very serious, and as such, in future before deciding on such matters, he should consult the House?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, I did not quite follow the entire part of the hon. Member's question.

Mr. Masibayi: Mr. Speaker, my question is: is the Minister aware that raising of school fees which, in fact, concerns the whole country is a very important and serious matter which, of course, involves the nation as a whole, and therefore, when the Minister decides on such matters he should consult the House so as to get an "Okay" to go ahead?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I pointed out before, it was a problem of making the school fees uniform. The school fees were payable all over the country using the county council systems and the different systems depended on the number of county councils we have in the country. As I said earlier, some county councils schools paid school fees as low as Sh. 20 per pupil. Other county council schools paid school fees ranging from Sh. 90 to Sh. 95. So, what I did, Sir, was to make an average of the school fees and I do not think that really necessitated my bringing the matter before the House.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We will now go back to Mr. Mbori's question.

Question No. 226

PAYMENT OF TAXES BY INSTALMENTS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Has anybody been authorized to ask this particular one? All right, we will go to Questions by Private Notice. Mr. Araru.

(Question dropped)

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am seeking your guidance here, Sir.

This afternoon, when we started on questions, the hon. Kitonga asked a question, which I thought became the property of the House then. However, when he asked the question, he was given an answer which did not satisfy him personally. In any case, Mr. Speaker, we as Members of this House were not given the chance— This was a matter for the House by then—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! You cannot do that. You are now taking time for nothing. Mr. Kitonga expressed his dissatisfaction and that was that. Mr. Kitonga had also the paper containing the reply he was given in his hands and he said it had nothing to do with the question and, therefore, we could not have gone on with the question. Mr. Araru's question.

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No more points of order. Will you ask your question, Mr. Araru?

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

DEATH OF CONSTABLE BULLE JALDESA

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Is the Minister aware that Constable No. 16360, Mr. Bulle Jaldesa, was killed on the night of 16th or 17th March 1971 at Isoga Settlement Scheme in Kisii District?
- (b) What investigations have been carried out to establish the circumstances of his death?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. It is true that Constable Bulle Jaldesa was killed on the night of 16th or 17th March, at Isoga Settlement Scheme. Two people have been charged with murder as a result. I regret, however, I am not able to say anything further as the matter is sub judice.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Since the Assistant Minister is aware of the incident, in that he said two people have been charged with murder of the constable in question, could I know who these people are?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not normal that once a matter is sub judice, it is not subject to inquiries which may prejudice the result of the investigations going on.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You are right, Mr. Shikuku. When a matter is in the court, then we cannot follow it up.

REGISTRATION OF GIKUYU, EMBU AND MERU ASSOCIATION

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Attorney-General the following Question by Private Notice:—

(a) Will the Attorney-General tell this House who authorized the abnormally prompt registration on 10th March, 1971, of the application of Gema (Gikuyu, Embu and Meru Association) submitted on 9th March, 1971?

(b) Who are the office bearers and what are the aims and objects of the Society?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. First of all, I would like to say that the hon. Member who has asked this question, in fact, has all the information.

Hon. Members: Shut up!

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): What is worrying me, Mr. Speaker—if hon. Members would be patient—is that I have two very similar questions. One I received before the present one. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not accept the proposition by the hon. Member that this registration was done in haste. I am satisfied that the laid-down machinery for registration of societies was carried out properly by my office. In regard to part (b) of the question. Mr. Speaker, unless you rule otherwise, I want to rely on order No. 9— Do not talk nonsense!

Hon. Members: What do you mean!

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): With regard to part (b) of the question, Mr. Speaker, I want to rely on Order 12 which reads as follows—

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Attorney-General in order to use the word “nonsense” in front of hon. Members?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I have said before that if you provoke that kind of reaction, you should be prepared for it. I do not see why Members should keep on interrupting. After all, the question was asked so that it might be replied to. Therefore, hon. Members should keep quiet and just listen.

Mr. Njonjo: If the hon. Members continue doing this, I am going to react— I am a human being, and the hon. Members— Well, I have been long enough in this House, and I know how to react.

Anyhow, Mr. Speaker—

POINT OF ORDER

INTERJECTIONS WHICH INTERRUPT BUSINESS
ARE OUT OF ORDER

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order; can we get a clarification on whether interjections are out of order to some Ministers.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, no; you— Order! That kind of interjection is completely out of order, and it is that kind of thing which we are trying to stop here. Mr. ole Oloitipitip keeps on interjecting even when the Speaker is on his feet. Interjections which interrupt what is going on, are definitely out of order. They are harmless when they are just made in such a way that they do not interfere with what is being said; the moment they become a hindrance to progress here, they are out of order, and I have to rule against them, such as were going on.

No more points of order; let us get moving.

(Resumption of replies to Question by Private Notice)

Mr. Njonjo: I was, Mr. Speaker, merely going to say that I would like to rely on Order 12—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will you sit down, Mr. Ahmed!

Mr. Njonjo: I would like to rely on Order 12, which reads:

A question, the answer to which is readily available in ordinary works of reference or official publications, shall not be asked.

The hon. Member, in fact, has paid Sh. 4 and has received the information he is asking for.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Yes, the Standing Order, Mr. Njonjo was referring to, I think, is 37 (12). It is true that if something is available from a work of reference, then you are not allowed to ask it here. It is quite possible that Mr. Munyasia could get this information. According to what we hear now, he has received it, but if he had not received it, for some reason, then he is entitled to ask. However, if he has received it, then he cannot ask this second part of the question; he can ask his first part but not the second part of the question.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order— Mr. Speaker, my point of order is this: it has been said here, from time to time, that once something comes to the House, it becomes the property of the House. Now, here we are being told that information has been given to Mr. Munyasia—however, since the question now remains the property of the House, are we not, also, entitled to this information, and if so, how are we to get it?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, no! Let us not take too much time; hon. Members will remember that we must stop at exactly 3.30 p.m. This is in your Standing Orders. Now, it has been said, and it has not been denied, that Mr. Munyasia has this information; in fact, the very admission by the Attorney-General, that this—what Mr. Munyasia says in the first part, that this group has been registered is proof that it is possible to get this information from the Registrar of Societies; in which case, in fact, this second part should not come. It would only apply if the first part were to the negative.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to seek your guidance. Now, Sir, you very well recall that this question was—I brought this question as an ordinary question, and then I approached you and I was not satisfied after going through the Constitution of the said society, and that is why I put it as a question by Private Notice. I was not satisfied with the aims and objects of that society.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, we are talking about the office bearers— Yes, but the fact that it appears on the Order Paper does not mean that there could not be an error. If the circumstances are as has now been said, that you have already received a copy of this document or you have seen it, then it follows that you might even be knowing who these people are. However, even if you have not, now that it has been said that the organization has been registered, we cannot take time on this because Members can get this information; it is like referring to something that is in the Official Gazette, which you can easily read for yourself, and the Standing Orders are quite clear on that.

Hon. Members: On a point of order!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No; when you raise these points of order, you will get nothing because the Standing Orders are quite clear on this. Mr. Nthenge, let us have a question.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, arising from the reply from the Attorney-General, can we know when the application was made and when the society was registered.

Mr. Njonjo: That is in the question.

Hon. Members: On a point of order!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, when it is exactly 3.30 p.m., we will have to move on to the next order.

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in part (b)— Can we know the aims of Gema—Gikuyu, Embu and Meru Association—whether it is a tribal party or anything like that.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That kind of question can be found out by just looking at the documents, which are now available.

Mr. Munyasia, what is your point of order?

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Attorney-General in order to omit part (b)? Now, could he answer part (a), to which he replied and said that it is normal practice to permit a society to be registered in one day only. If that is the case, could he cite one example—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You should be asking questions instead of wasting time on points of order.

Hon. Members: On a point of order!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, let us hear Mr. Munyasia's question.

Mr. Munyasia: Arising from the Attorney-General's reply, could he, in his life history as the Attorney-General, cite an example of any social or political party which submitted its application and was registered on the following day? Cite an example of one!

Mr. Njonjo: I think that is a fair question, Mr. Speaker, and in my experience, the nearest to it was the New Akamba Union, which took four days.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Mulwa— No, we have no time now, we must move on.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE: MACHAKOS SOUTH
Harambee SCHOOLS

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of Mr. Mulwa, I beg to ask the Minister for Education the following Question by Private Notice:—

Could the Minister, as a matter of urgency, give financial help to the Harambee schools in Machakos South, which are on the verge of closing down as the teachers have not received their salaries since January this year?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Anybody from the Ministry of Education?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

No, Sir.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I cannot hear the Questioner, nor can I hear the Minister's reply; there is too much noise here, it is just as if we are in the market, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! There is too much noise, too much talking.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, considering that the administrative authorities in this area have agreed to suspend all Harambee projects and activities because of lack of funds due to famine in that area, would the Minister look into this problem and promise to see that something can be done rather than rise here and just say "No, Sir"?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I am doing is to visit that place on the 2nd of next month.

Mr. Tsuma: Arising from the Minister's reply, should the parts of this country be affected due to the announcement of the President, and fees not be paid, why can the Minister not straightaway take over the Harambee secondary schools in Machakos?

Mr. Towett: I am sorry, Sir, I never heard a word of what the hon. Member said.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Ministers should keep their ears open when questions are asked.

My question was: should these schools be within the areas where the President announced remission of schools fees—that school fees would not be paid—and these Harambee schools are affected, why is it that the Government cannot take over the Harambee secondary schools instead of letting them close down?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe school fees are paid in any Harambee secondary school. Why these particular Harambee secondary schools have not collected fees from the children, I do not know.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We must go on now. Question Time is over.

PROCEDURAL MOTION

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR DEBATE: SUPPLEMENTARY AND DEVELOPMENT ESTIMATES

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, our Standing Orders require that the next two items on the Order Paper should be completed within three hours or, as they put it, in one day. Now, Sir, the next two items, as hon. Members will see, are, in fact, Supplementary Estimates and these Supplementary Estimates, Mr. Speaker, are a bit controversial and some amendments are going to be introduced. Sir, it will not be possible to discuss all that is to be raised in three hours.

I would, therefore, like to invite the House to order that that limitation of three hours is waived so that this House can discuss the two Supplementary Estimates for longer than a day.

Hon. Members will ask why not put the maximum limit. I do not have to do that, Mr. Speaker because when the stage is reached any Member can move that the Chairman take all the Votes one by one and thereby close the debate. Therefore, without wasting too much time, because we want this time to discuss the actual Estimates and the amendments, I beg to move:

THAT, this House orders that the business of the consideration of Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71 (Recurrent) and Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71 (Development) shall continue for more than one day.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is talking about the following two items and I wonder whether you have already ordered the Clerk to call out these Orders.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, we have done that already. That is why Mr. Seroney rose on his point of order.

Let me explain the position. What Mr. Seroney is doing is to move a Motion under Standing Order 45 (j). Standing Order 45 says:

"The following Motions may be moved without notice:—" and then there is a long list of the various kinds of Motions. (j) says:

"A Motion for the orders of the House under these Standing Orders."

He is now trying to alter the order and that is why you do not see it there. He is entitled to do this under that Standing Order.

Obviously, there is no point in taking time on this kind of matter. It is for the House to decide, more or less immediately, whether or not they will extend the time to more than a day. I really doubt whether there is any need for a debate on this. So I intend to put the question.

However, before I do that, first the Motion must be seconded and then I will go through the whole formality and propose the question properly.

Mr. Kurgat seconded.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I will now proceed to propose the question.

(Question proposed)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): There being no Member wishing to speak, I think I will put the question.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I am not clear here. I would have liked to speak—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I indicated clearly what was happening. You do not have to wait until I am on my feet to rise on such a point of order.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, normally in Motions which ask the House to exempt a particular Standing Order, that Standing Order is quoted in the Motion. Is there any reason why the particular Standing Order under which this Motion has been brought here is not quoted in the Motion?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You can read it from me, if you want. It has been quoted. I have just been explaining that, Mr. Osogo. Perhaps you were not listening.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

(Order for Committee read)

MOTION

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 1 OF 1970/71—
RECURRENT

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:—

THAT a sum not exceeding K£3,686,522 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1971, in respect of Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71 (Recurrent).

Mr. Speaker, it becomes necessary very often that a Supplementary Estimate is brought to this House in order to deal with expenditures which have become necessary over the financial year, expenditures that were not visualized or anticipated at the time that the printed Estimates were presented during the Budget. It is necessary that we have these Supplementary Estimates brought to this House and discussed before the end of the Financial Year so as to authorize expenditure. Members will recall that they have insisted that this is the procedure which should be followed, and we have taken note of what they have expressed.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I believe that there is much too much consultation and talking within the Chamber.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order!

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, the Supplementary Estimates are fully detailed in a booklet which has been circulated to Members. For the moment I appreciate we are only dealing with the Supplementary Estimates for the recurrent expenditure.

Now, the sums that are involved cover almost all the Votes but I would like to highlight those that cover a large proportion of the total. This is not to say the others are not important, but it is merely to indicate why it has become necessary to have these expenditures.

Sir, in the summary which is provided on page one Members will see that the main Votes that take up most of these expenditures are Education, Voice of Kenya, Ministry of Agriculture, Ministry of Labour, Ministry of Health, the Armed Forces, the Police, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Ministry of Home Affairs, as well as Office of the President. Now, Mr. Speaker, in the case of the Office of the President, it has been explained in the notes that Members will see here, that we expanded the establishment in the field immediately after we took over the powers of the various local governments. We have, equally, under the Tripartite Agreement, in which the Government promised to employ a full 10 per cent of the total number employed by Government, in conformity with what was agreed regarding every other employer. So it is in that expansion that this sum has been taken care of.

As regards the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, where £175,000 is now sought, we have, as Members will know, opened new embassies since the Estimates were presented to this House last year. We have opened embassies at Lusaka, at Stockholm. Now, in Stockholm, in Scandinavia, the embassy will be in charge of four countries—all the Scandinavian countries—Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland. It will therefore be important for us to provide not only for good accommodation but new staff, transport, and all the usual rents and other payments that are normally included. This is why in that case we have this increase.

Police, Mr. Speaker—

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we still have much too much noise in this House. I am sure—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order, Mr. Kibaki.

We are not really paying enough attention to what is going on. I can hardly follow what the Minister is saying and I am sure most of the Members cannot either. So, let us have less talking.

I can see there has been a rearrangement of friendships but let us not have too much talking.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am grateful to you.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

In regard to the Police, it is explained here that we have expanded the establishment and that certain consequent expenditures on that expansion have necessitated this particular increase.

In the case of the Ministry of Agriculture, I want to say that we have had a very major expansion in the subsidies that are given to farmers, particularly those that are given through the subsidy on fertilizers. This is important because for quite some time we have been told by farmers in this country that they should be given more and more assistance. Members will see that there is £250,000 additional to the subsidies on the price of fertilizers. This arises directly because the use of fertilizers has been much greater than was estimated when the first Estimates were prepared and it is, therefore, important that we should have this sum of money so that the farmers can continue to pay the price for fertilizers which makes it economic for them to continue with the scale of farming that they are doing. Equally, Sir, Members will note that there is a deficiency in the case of Agriculture on Appropriations-in-Aid. This was expected from the sale of certain farms which were later on decided to be utilized for settlement, mainly in the Rift Valley Province. It is because they were used for settlement that the monies that were expected from the sale of those farms cannot now be realized. Therefore, that deficiency of £160,000 is reflected in that Vote.

Mr. Speaker, regarding the Ministry of Labour, the Members will see on page 20 of these Estimates that the item which is significant there is the expansion of the National Youth Service. Equally, it is the provision of a fund for the maintenance and repair of the equipment that is used by the National Youth Service. When the Estimates were prepared, Mr. Speaker, hon. Members will remember that the National Youth Service was not engaged in such large-scale operations as they are now doing on road construction, reclamation work, etc. However, hon. Members will, I hope, appreciate that the National Youth Service have now begun to make a very major contribution to the development of the country. In fact, when I visited the road they are building to Kitui, I was very impressed indeed. I believe that we should give them this fund so that the machinery and the equipment they use can be maintained at the level of efficiency they require.

Mr. Speaker, the next expansion which is significant refers to the Voice of Kenya, under Vote 20 on page 27. Members will note here that the sum of £187,000, which is shown here, is a deficiency in the Appropriations-in-Aid. It had been expected, when the Estimates were prepared last year, that we would get this amount of money from the sale of licences of televisions and radios. As Members will know, at the Budget time Government made a decision that the licences for radios and televisions should now be reduced very drastically or abolished. It meant, therefore, that an estimate of £187,000 from that source would not be forthcoming. It was necessary, therefore, for a provision to be made for this particular service to continue because they require that money which would have been otherwise collected from the sale of licences. The abolition of the licences has been a fairly popular measure and it is a measure which was necessitated by the wish of Government to allow the widest number of people possible to use radios and televisions as a media, as a means of communicating and a means of knowing what is going on in their country. We, therefore, wanted to remove this additional cost on the price of such equipment.

Mr. Speaker, in the Ministry of Education— I want to explain here because this is the largest single item which is being requested to be explained and which covers £1,200,000. As Members will see under Vote 24, on page 34 of this booklet, it is explained here the reasons why we have the expansion. First and foremost we have an expansion in secondary schools where new teachers have been employed—well over 200 of them. This is because Government, as Members will know, have been supporting the expansion of secondary education. As Members know, we are nowhere near what we want to do in the expansion of secondary schools. Indeed, we are nowhere near what we want to do in taking over and assisting the Harambee schools to give further education after secondary level.

It became necessary to have this expansion so as to take care of those needs.

Mr. Speaker, there is an item here, also, about the university which will take up £196,000. This item, it is important to explain, arose after the estimates had been made for one reason that the numbers of qualified students who should enter the university proved to be much larger than had been estimated when we printed our Estimates last year, so that we had to take on an additional 200 students, over and above the 2,500 for whom it was planned to take into the university. It, therefore, became necessary to vote moneys for the recurrent expenditure for expansion of certain facilities, for accommodation of these students and for the various allowances that go with it.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Mr. Speaker, we are continuing with the programme of expanding the university so that it becomes an institution which can train the high level manpower that we all need in this country. I, therefore, do hope that this gesture which the university and the Ministry of Education made last year, to take care of our qualified students who otherwise would not have gone to the university, should be very welcome to all of us and we should support the vote.

In the same Vote, Mr. Speaker, Members will note that under the item "District Education Boards", there is an expansion of £700,000 in regard to emoluments for primary school teachers. We agreed, during the negotiations with the trade unions and the employers, that when taking on our quota under the Tripartite Agreement, we would concentrate on expansion in those services where there was good prospect for continued employment. It was thought, Sir, that employment of teachers for primary schools would definitely provide a continuing opportunity to our people who are seeking employment. It was therefore, agreed that 3,700 primary school teachers should be recruited. These were necessary in order to help in certain schools which, during the time when the county councils used to run them, were understaffed. It was necessary to bring them to the full capacity. Therefore, we recruited this number of teachers—3,700. The emoluments for these teachers, plus various allowances and certain simple expansions have, in fact, been taken care of in this field.

Equally, I want Members to note that under technical education programme, the Government has been expanding about two secondary schools in each province to do technical education: and that it has been necessary for us to build various workshops and laboratories and that is why, in that particular Vote, there is an expansion shown in this place.

Mr. Speaker, I have highlighted some of the main items which have led to this expansion and which have led us to present this Supplementary Estimate. Members will know that last year we promised that we would bring a Supplementary Estimate only towards the end of the Financial Year and only if it became absolutely necessary. Mr. Speaker, this is what we have done. We have brought it towards the end of the Financial Year so that any needs which will come up will have been spotted, any reorganization in expenditure will have been done, and, therefore, as we are only two or three months before we come to the next Budget, we will not require to bring two Supplementary Estimates, as we have done in previous years. I hope that Members will note that this is an improvement on the organization and also appreciate our efforts to forecast expenditure rightly and to reduce to the minimum adjustments in the expenditure in the course of the Financial Year. However, there are certain types of expenditure, such as the ones I have highlighted here, which, although forecast in very broad terms could not have been reduced to certain statistical figures at the time when the Estimates were prepared.

Equally, there are certain other expenditures, such as the ones I have indicated here, which become urgent and which, if we were to wait, the ordinary person, whom we take care of, would suffer. Equally, Mr. Speaker, let me emphasize this: that the monies that will be utilized in these Supplementary Estimates will be found by a reorganization in the allocation to the various Votes and that, therefore, Sir, it does not lead to any additional effort on our part to raise more money from the public by any new taxes or any new measures of that sort.

I think this is a very important point to make, Mr. Speaker, because I was asked, during lunch hour, by one or two Members as to how we propose to raise this money. I want to emphasize that these are monies which we fully expect will be realized from the taxes as they are now and we are not expecting any changes from the revenue side. It is only a matter of re-organization in expenditure.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to anticipate the course of the debate but I should be failing in my duty if I did not say this: that whenever a Supplementary Estimate is presented, it is presented because there is some urgency. Even more important, it is because these programmes, which are continuing programmes, cannot afford to be delayed because if we delay them we shall lose. If we take the items on labour, for instance, or Agriculture or the embassies in the case of Ministry of Foreign Affairs, we will see that these are continuing programmes which we cannot afford to delay. Therefore it is important, Mr. Speaker, that although we have agreed with the Motion that the debate should take more than one day—and I have no quarrel with that—we must also appreciate, Sir, that these expenditures are of an urgent character. There are continuing programmes—for instance, in case of teachers, we have to continue paying them, month by month. We cannot afford to delay them because in that way we would not be rendering the service to the people we want to help.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

I, therefore, Sir, want to appeal to the House that while we must take our time—because every item must be questioned—we should avoid any measures which would lead to unnecessary delay in a decision on matters of this sort, Mr. Speaker. I want also to add that at the Committee stage, when various items are mentioned, if we do get to that point, then we shall be prepared to answer any detailed questions that Members will put as to why a particular item has been placed here and what money is going to it; we will be able to do that, Mr. Speaker. However, Sir, I want to point out that in this debate, we cannot—as it were, Mr. Speaker, and I hope we shall get your protection—afford to spend the time on overall policies of various departments, Mr. Speaker. This is because according to our own rules and procedures these are reserved for discussions during Budget time every year. Therefore, Sir, when we deal with Supplementary Estimates, we deal with reallocation of certain small items—a few items—within the overall expenditure. The general broad policies are discussed, Mr. Speaker, during the debate on the Budget which, as we know, took us quite a lot of time here and we all had a say.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to take any more time of the House, and therefore I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Wanjigi) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning has referred to “trying to avoid policy discussions”, and rightly so in cases where the policy was discussed in the main Estimates; however, would it not be in order to insist on policy talk in new matters which were not covered in the original Estimates?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is a point you could raise if you caught the Speaker’s eye.

Mr. Wabuge.

Mr. Wabuge: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for giving me this opportunity. It is obvious that every year the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning has to come here with a Supplementary Estimate. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have no quarrel with that because it is a tradition and he is entitled to do so. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when you look at the Supplementary Estimate—I remember some time last year when we were discussing the main Estimates, and also the previous Supplementary Estimate for last year, we urged Government and particularly the Minister who is the same Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, that in future when he brings an estimate here, he must try and come with an estimate with a fully-detailed report. In other words, every Head must show exactly how this money is going to be spent. We do not want to come here and then the Minister introduces such a document saying that the Government is in need of the money and that there are so many services which are being held up and that they want to carry on with more projects, and therefore they want money.

We know the country is developing; we know that the country is progressing and we want money at every stage. However, before this money is voted on any project, Mr. Speaker, Sir, details on the use of money should be shown. It is the duty of the Minister and his officers to work out the details to be presented to this House. We have asked Government, through the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, and I remember very well last time when we were being adamant in passing through the Estimates, he did assure us that, in future, when he brings such documents, he will give full details to the Members. Here, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Minister has failed to provide us with full and comprehensive reports, or Estimate documents, showing precisely how much money is going to be spent on a given project in a given area. We are being asked here to give a blank cheque so that he can go and sit there and write the cheque to whatever project he wants.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I happened to be in the former Legislative Council during the colonial times. I remember, in those days, Mr. Speaker, it was very difficult for any Minister to introduce an estimate of this kind in this House without giving full details. He made sure—despite the fact that it was a Colonial Government and that they could do whatever they wanted—and saw it fit that because it was public money, they must give the breakdown to show how money was going to be spent in every field, and on what. But here, this being a democratic Government, Mr. Speaker, being an elected Government—the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is an elected Minister, and I fail to understand how a colonial Minister could behave more democratically than our elected Minister. This Sir, is bad and we feel that the Minister should from now onwards, give more comprehensive information, contrary to what he promised us last year. This document, in the way it appears, does not give us the full information at all and as such we feel we are not going to pass the Estimates in the way it has been presented to us. I feel that this is the reason why the money is being overspent; it is because we are not given the details. For example, there are no details to show how many persons are going to be employed, how many people are going to be given employment in a given district and how much money is going to be spent on them. Just to say, "money to pay staff", or whatever they call them, is not enough. Therefore, Sir, with your permission, if I may refer you to the document I have just mentioned in my speech, Estimates of Expenditure 1957/58, and I quote details as laid down under the heading, "Administration" in Vote 20—Ministry of African Affairs—

GENERAL STAFF—B.1 PERSONAL EMOLUMENTS

	£
1 Special Commission ..	3,050
6 Provincial Commissioners ..	20,300
1 Officer in charge of Nairobi District	2,500
12 Senior District Commissioners	27,800
204 District Officers (Scale A) ..	258,000
25 District Officers (Supernumerary Scale A) ..	1
152 District Assistants (C5-3) ..	121,000
70 Temporary District Officers ..	1
15 Temporary Administrative Assistants	1

From the above you can see that even the number of the officers involved was given. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it goes further to state, that in that Ministry there were 221 clerical, typing and analogous staff and so on. But in this Supplementary Estimate, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister has not shown us how many people are involved. He has just shown that under the Tripartite Agreement the Office of the President has taken on more staff and therefore these people have to be paid. Where are these people? Are they dumped in Nairobi alone or they are spread throughout the country? If they are spread throughout the country, we are entitled to know. For example, I want to know how many people were taken in Kitale District and I would also like to know in what grades they were taken on. Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the Minister to come and say, "So many people were taken on under the Tripartite Agreement" is not enough. Where are they, Mr. Speaker, and from where do they come? We must also be shown under what grades they were taken on, Mr. Speaker. We must be shown this, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can see that the Vice-President is interjecting. He should be the first man to know that these details are necessary since he is an old Member here. During the colonial times, he used to criticize this but, there he is now. What is his Government, which is an elected Government, doing now? Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is very serious and I feel that the Minister concerned has to tell us exactly how many people are going to be employed instead of telling us, "So many people . . ." Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel that this is the money which is being overspent. They say that so many people have been employed or taken on under the Tripartite Agreement while they have not been actually employed. I feel that if the money is voted, possibly it might be changed for the use of other projects without the authority of this House. Therefore, I feel that the Minister here has to be very careful. Last time here he did promise us that this year he would present us with a breakdown of these Estimates. I fail to understand why he has just come without giving us what he did promise us previously.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you look at page 2 of the Supplementary Estimates (Recurrent) Expenditure 1970/71 under Head D101—Personal Emoluments—you can see what I am quarrelling with. I am quarrelling with this because it says, and I quote: "Additional funds are required to meet commitments already entered into in respect of professional and technical scholarships for which insufficient provision was made in the Estimates for lack of details in draft Estimates."

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want to know who were these people who were given these scholarships. We would also like to know how many they are. Are they 10, 20 or 40, Mr. Speaker? We must be told. We are not here to be told, "So much money for the following professional people" without being given their numbers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, Head D1, 101, goes further to say: "Additional provision for K£70,000 is required to cover the salaries of staff engaged under the Tripartite Agreement".

Mr. Speaker, Sir, where are these people? Is it very difficult for the Minister to tell us the numbers involved? In fact, we are entitled to know this, Mr. Speaker. It is not a shame for the Minister to give the number, Mr. Speaker. We want to know this, Mr. Speaker. Who knows whether all these people are employed and dumped in Nairobi here? Who knows this, Mr. Speaker? Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we would like to know where these people come from and how many are they. We would like to know how many people district headquarters took, and what grades they are. It might be that one district is benefiting from this. It might also be that one district has all the grades put into it, while some other districts may only have one sweeper or one cleaner. We are not going to accept this, Mr.

[Mr. Wabuge]

Speaker, and I feel that the Minister here should tell us what he wants us to do otherwise we are not going to accept this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to go further and elaborate on what they call the “professionals” under the head “Training”.

Now, here is where we would like to know how many people are involved and their qualifications. We are not being difficult to the Minister because all we would like to know from him is just the numbers of people involved.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you look on page 5 of the Supplementary Estimates No. 1—Recurrent—under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, you will see another column headed “Personal Emoluments”. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we want to know how many are employed by this Ministry overseas from this country and from where they come. We would also like to know how much these people are being paid. I know their payments or salaries might differ from country to country where these people are stationed but at least the House is entitled to know how much money our Kenya Government is spending on these people. We must know which country is more expensive as far as the paying of salaries of our staff in the Foreign Office are concerned, Mr. Speaker. The Minister for Foreign Affairs should have given the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning all this information and the latter should have been responsible for showing this information to this House. If the Minister for Finance has failed, or finds it very difficult to get this information from the respective Ministers, then it is up to him, and he has the power, to tell them, “Unless I get this breakdown, I am not going to include it in my Estimates”. Therefore, it is not very difficult for the Minister to get this information. We are not asking the Minister for Finance, himself, to go from Ministry to Ministry asking for this information. All he should do is to send a circular to all Ministries, so that each Minister can provide this information. By so doing, Mr. Speaker, all Estimates of this type will be carrying such detailed information.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that last year during the debate on Supplementary Estimates, and also on the main Estimates, we were very adamant and asked the Minister, and urged the Government, to provide us with this information and he gave us a promise—because he was in need of money that next time he was going to provide us with such information in his Estimates, and since he has failed to do this, Mr. Speaker, I cannot see how we are going to give him this money. We are not refusing to allow him to come and ask us for money because we know he wants money and we also want development. We want to vote him this money but what we are asking from him is the breakdown throughout this document.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to waste much time on this matter and the sooner we pass it the better. After we have finished with this we might give an opportunity to the Minister to go back to his office to produce the information we require. Under these circumstances, Mr. Speaker, I propose to introduce an amendment to the Motion as it stands. Therefore, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move the following amendment.

THAT all the words after “that” be deleted, and that there be substituted in place thereof the following words: This House requests the Government to withdraw the Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71 (Recurrent) with a view to revision thereof—

- (a) in respect of staff engaged under the Tripartite Agreement by showing the numbers and the salary grades of the staff in question and their provincial and district distribution;
- (b) in respect of trainees (Director of Personnel) by showing the numbers involved and details of professional and technical scholarships;
- (c) in respect of Foreign Affairs by showing a detailed breakdown of actual missions, the number of staff and their grades;
- (d) by showing a detailed breakdown of each and every item of supplementary Vote including Miscellaneous and other charges; and
- (e) generally by giving information not falling below that given in 1957/58 Estimates.

With those few words, I beg to move.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to second this Motion and I think the Minister must know that until the time comes when he presents to this House proper Estimates giving full information, we shall be having this exercise annually and, in fact, we shall be wasting everybody's time.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, since 1969 the Minister knows that this House has been trying to influence him or the Ministry to present Estimates in a more satisfactory manner than they are doing at present. I do not understand, Mr. Speaker, why there is reluctance on the part of the Minister because, last year, as the Mover said, the understanding was that the Minister for Finance and

[Mr. Seroney]

Economic Planning would produce Estimates in future in a more satisfactory manner than they are doing at present. However, here he comes now asking for Supplementary Estimate without giving us the necessary details. For all we know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, he is going to do the same thing when he presents his main Estimates in a few months' time.

An hon. Member: Question!

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of the Ministers here has said, "Question"! Well, the purpose of this Motion is really to impress on the Government that if they want this House to vote for money intelligently, they should provide us with full and adequate information. It is not good, Mr. Speaker, giving us unsatisfactory supplementary Estimates. I quite agree that the supplementary Estimates are unsatisfactory because the original Estimates were themselves unsatisfactory. However, I think it is important if this House is going to find out how to go about checking against over-expenditure. I think the former provincial commissioner, the present Member for Eldoret South, did inform us earlier on where the trouble comes from with regard to the preparation of these Estimates. After all, when people who are in the field submit their Estimates to their Ministries and then the Ministries submit those Estimates to the Treasury, those Estimates are based on specific requests. For example, if a Ministry wants more staff, it has to say exactly how many staff it wants. However, the big boys in Nairobi look at it and say, "All right, you have asked for 12 officers, but we cannot give you 12 officers but we shall give you five officers". Then they will forward that to the Treasury and the Treasury might say, "No, no. You are not going to have five, but you will have four officers". Now, when the Treasury agrees to four, then it means they have agreed to four officers and they will give you four officers and it is no use for the Treasury coming to this House and putting everything in a lump sum saying that, "We want this for Personal Emoluments". These boys in the Treasury know exactly what they intend to do with that particular money and I really fail to see the reason why the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning comes to this House and tells us that giving this information will require a great deal of work. There is no need for work, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because the Minister can get this information from his officers. He does not even need to go to the actual Ministries because the finally approved Estimates, the figures and particulars are all available in his own office and, therefore, he does not have to go to the Ministry of Agriculture; he does not have to go to the President's Office because he has that information. However, for some strange reasons, he does not want to put this House in the picture. He wants this House to take him on trust and on trust alone.

Now, we are entitled in this House, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to say this—

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is not the hon. Member for Tinderet imputing that we have some motives when we have given as full information as is available to us?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, no. I did not understand the hon. Member as having intended imputing any improper motives. He only expressed what to him seems strange. He thinks it is strange that the House should not be given this information, but that is not to say that there is any evil motive behind.

Mr. Seroney: The Minister is fond of saying that he can answer any question, but the point is that we are given a limited number of hours within which to discuss these things and, incidentally, that is one of the reasons why we are asking for more time. However, I do not see the reason why it should be necessary to waste time in asking for information which should be given in the first place. We do not have to ask for it. Therefore, I do not think it is unreasonable for this House to tell the Minister to go back to withdraw the Estimates and give the House the information it needs—the information it requires—which it is entitled to. We are saying that if the Minister seriously wants money, the cure is in his own hands he should get back these Estimates—these skeleton Estimates—and provide the full information on a breakdown basis as indicated by the Mover of this Motion. Therefore, as soon as he has given us all that information, then he can come back to the House and say, "All right, I have done what you wanted. Now, how about voting me this money?" I am sure we will be very glad to consider his application sympathetically, but, at the moment, I think the time has come when we should make it quite clear that we are not prepared every year to persuade the Minister to give us information which we are entitled to. We do not want every year to be asking the Minister for a breakdown; we do not want in June, when he comes up with the next year's Estimates, to find that they are prepared exactly in the same way.

Therefore, this move is not only to obtain the information but also to serve as a warning to the Minister that next June, 1972, he should come up with proper Estimates.

Therefore, without wasting any more time, I beg to second.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, proposed)

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources

(Mr. Ochwada): Mr. Speaker, Sir, while appreciating the anxiety of the hon. Members in getting the proper information that they are asking for, I would like to express a view that I hope that they will understand that these Supplementary Estimates are urgently required and the information they are asking for could be obtained otherwise, rather than blocking the passing of the Supplementary Estimates.

It is quite easy, I think, for the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning to produce a separate list of what the Members have asked for and present it to the hon. Members in time before these Supplementary Estimates are passed. However, to try and move that the Supplementary Estimates should be blocked, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is, I think, wrong and is tantamount to trying to obstruct the development of this country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I hope that this is not the beginning of numerous requests because, right now, what the hon. Members are asking for is a list of the numbers of people who were employed under the Tripartite Agreement. I hope that they are not going to continue asking us for the names of the employees, the tribes of the employees, the districts of the employees or even go down as far as asking for the villages they have been taken from because, I think, this will be asking for too much. I hope, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that when we present the next Estimates, whereas we will have, probably, supplied them with the necessary information that they are asking for now, we will not be asked, for example, on the side of the travelling allowances, as who is going to travel and in which vehicle he is going to travel—

Hon. Members: Yes! It is Government's money!

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources

(Mr. Ochwada): Mr. Speaker, Sir, as you can hear the hon. Members saying, "Yes, yes", I think we would require to print not only a book to the size of an encyclopaedia, but it would be practically and physically impossible to do that. I am trying to appeal to the hon. Members that Government will definitely try to meet their desires in supplying them with the necessary and adequate information. However, I think it would be too much to try and ask for so much information and it would be physically impossible to print and practically impossible to find out all the information they want. We are here to cooperate in order to develop the country as a team and as a Parliament which is charged with the responsibility of making laws and taking care of the money of this country. It will be physically impossible for the Members to try and ask the Government to give them what is impossible. For example, Mr. Speaker, what the hon. Mover said was that in the Ministry of Natural Resources we took in as many people under the Tripartite Agreement as was possible. We took in so many foresters and forest guards, and perhaps we took in so many geologists. However, it will be physically impossible to try and break them down and say, one from Busia, another one from Isiolo, one from Nandi, because this is not what we are supposed to be doing here. We are actually supposed to supply detailed information but not as far down as trying to break them down tribally, sectionally or constituencywise.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to appeal to the hon. Members that some of the Estimates that are before the House now are very urgently needed. For example, in my Ministry of Natural Resources, we need them so much because as Members are aware, a large amount of our forests have been burnt down and unless we can do the replanting as soon as possible, it will be physically impossible to try and contain our water supplies, wind breaks and other things that are supplied by the forests. So, I would like, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to appeal to the hon. Members to be sympathetic with the Government and let the Estimates go through. For the informations that they need, I am sure that the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning will be able to supply it before we pass the Supplementary Estimates.

Mr. Lotodo: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, for giving me this opportunity to say a few things on this matter. Mr. Speaker, I am very interested in Karapokot, as the Minister says, but the Minister has not said anything about Karapokot in the Office of the President's Vote. We have a division there but he does not give it anything in these Estimates.

An hon. Member: In Agriculture?

Mr. Lotodo: Where? It is only, Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Education which has been a bit fair, and that is on page 36 where you see:—

"Additional sum of K£702,024 under this subhead is required mainly to provide for the salaries of 3,700 teachers appointed under the Tripartite Agreement and the take-over of the Karapokot District formerly catered for by Uganda.”

[Mr. Lotodo]

Mr. Speaker, it does not actually say how much money will be spent in that division. It only says that so much will be spent but we do not know whether all this money will go to Karapokot or whether some will go to Isiolo or Tana River. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have all the Ministries in that division, including the Ministry of Agriculture which deals with water. I have said several times, they have about 12 or 14 bore-holes to make but still the Ministry—

An hon. Member: What have you been told several times?

Mr. Lotodo: I have not been told anything. The position is that the Agriculture Officer there does not know anything about bore-holes. The Minister for Agriculture, the hon. Nyagah, says he does not have geologists and therefore he cannot put up these—

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Member speaking say when and where I said we do not have geologists?

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was just last week when I asked him this question in his office and he directed me to somebody at Nakuru and at Nakuru there is a man who deals with the water which is only pumped from a river. He does not know how to deal with bore-holes. So, we do not have a bore-hole man in Rift Valley and I think we do not have one in Nairobi. If we have one there, why is the Minister torturing the Pokots in Karapokot?

An hon. Member: So it is true that we have no geologists?

Mr. Lotodo: Yes, it is. Mr. Speaker, also the Ministry of Works has some work to do there. We have some roads which should be constructed, which were maintained or done by the Uganda Government but there is nothing mentioned in the Supplementary Estimates about Karapokot. Now we do not know where all this money is going to be used, whether it will be used for developing the roads or making new roads or what. Sir, it is ambiguous to see the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning just coming here and saying that he wants that much without giving details of—

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): The details are here. Just put your miwani and read.

Mr. Lotodo: No, they are not here, Mr. Assistant Minister. You keep silent and wait.

An hon. Member: Address the Chair.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Back-benchers, and I think hon. Assistant Ministers and Ministers would like to know where every cent is going to be spent. If we cannot be given proper details, obviously we cannot be in a position to support such a thing. However, I think I am going to excuse the hon. Mwai Kibaki this time and I beg to support the Estimates.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, I think I must first of all say that I rise to oppose the amendment that is being currently debated and hope that the hon. Member will be patient enough at the time of debating the original Motion to find out whether what they fear is not met. Some of the reasons why the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning has brought this Supplementary Estimate before the House is to cover the essentialities or some of the points that were not known at the time of the original debate. Take, for instance, my Ministry of Agriculture; nobody ever thought there would be a drought, and although, very happily in the spirit of promoting agriculture, monies were advanced to the farmers in the way of Guaranteed Minimum Returns in the Rift Valley and other places, we cannot now recover it. This is not because the farmers are at fault, but because they have had a very bad season. Are we going to keep quiet and not prepare for the future? We have to do something to help those farmers who are coming up. We, therefore, need more money voted by this very supreme House to the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning so that we can prepare for the future.

Take again, for instance, Mr. Speaker, the fact that at the beginning of the Financial Year talks were going on about the unemployment situation and what have you, and very healthy debates took place in this Chamber and outside for finding work for the unemployed. As a result the Tripartite Agreement was reached. It meant more people getting jobs and more people meant more money that had not been prepared or estimated for. This hon. House has, therefore, to be asked to let the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, on behalf of the Government, have some money collected from some Votes that have not been properly exhausted so that these people who have been employed can be catered for. We do not want the Ministries to be blamed for taking unilateral action by moving this money from one Vote to another without the sanction of this House or without informing this House. That alone, in itself, is the reason why we have brought this matter here.

[The Minister for Agriculture]

Another example, Mr. Speaker, is that which was raised during the opening debate by the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning about the shortfall that is expected to come from the mismanaged and abandoned farms. Hon. Members have very rightly been fighting and fighting and have spoken rightly, too, for the landless to have some settlement schemes. They have given an example of some of these farms which should be used for the settlement of the landless. If we are going to use these farms for the settlement of the landless we surely cannot expect to get the market value of the land as we had estimated. Therefore, there will be shortfall. In order to settle the landless there is need for a very high subsidy from Government. Where can we get this money from, other than asking through this House that the money be re-allocated for this and that Vote? Therefore, my Ministry—

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Minister really speaking on the question? The question before the House is an amendment to delete certain words with a view to inserting some other words, but the Minister is arguing about something which nobody has argued about in this House.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The aim of Mr. Seroney's amendment is to give the Minister an opportunity of giving an analysis of the various items showing exactly what will be spent, where and why it will be spent. If it is employment, he would like to know how many people have been employed in various places and so on. It does not intend to refuse any item or any Vote. All that is being asked for is an analysis. We have not yet come to the question of whether or not to agree to any of the items.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. In view of the fact that usually on a Motion like this you do not give us time to discuss the two Motions because the substance of what is to be inserted is naturally part of the debate that takes place on the Motion, that the words to be left out be left out, and Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the Minister was talking about the urgency of the matter, and the essential intention of the Motion is natural that there will be time taken as it is requesting for a withdrawal of the Motion, I wonder whether we are not in order—I am asking this because we are all going to speak—to speak about the urgency of certain expenditures as we are now being asked to withdraw the Motion and bring it at another time? I wonder if that is at all out of order.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You are quite right there. If the aim is to show why there should be no delay and why this Motion should not be shelved to another day or something like that, it is quite justifiable. I thought Mr. Seroney was complaining about Mr. Nyagah, probably for giving the impression that there was any intention to refuse any money or anything like that. We have not come to that yet.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Thank you, Mr. Speaker. If I gave that impression I must correct it now and say that it was not that hon. Members were unreasonably trying to block this Motion for reasons that were, perhaps, not genuine. All that I am trying to drive at is that there is some urgency, and the examples I gave are very current. For instance, it is now planting time. If we delay too long it means that we are delaying farmers in planting the next crop and things like that. This is the only reason that I tried to give. But if I were to go on, on this theme, I could cite several examples. But whether 10 or 20 examples, my main purpose is to appeal to Members that let us get on with the job. When we get to the appropriate stages, even if it is my Ministry, and you want to know why we are doing this, I am quite prepared to explain in detail all the information that is available to me and I will give all the details that will satisfy the Members. If at that time the Members are not satisfied, then I will be quite happy to listen to what they say. My appeal is: let us get on with the job; there is some urgency, and this is a genuine case.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I oppose the amendment and support the original Motion.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would also like to join my colleagues in pointing out to the hon. Mover of this Motion and his Seconder, and those that would support it, that sometime during the debate on the Current Expenditure the hon. Seroney requested Government to produce exactly what the Motion on the Supplementary Estimates is requesting. I am sure the Minister for Finance promised that he would do the best he could in the next Estimates to give as much detail of the Votes as possible.

While we are working on these details we are being taken unaware—when discussing the Supplementary Estimates—through being asked to produce details that we can produce. Supplementary Estimates are meant to cater for expenditures which are not anticipated at the time Annual Estimates are prepared. The details that are being requested, I am sure, are being worked out for the coming 1971/72 Estimates. I am sure we promised that we would do something towards this.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, looking at the amended Motion, where the hon. Member is requesting, in part (a), that in respect of the staff engaged under the Tripartite Agreement we should give details showing the number, salary, grades and staff in question, and their provincial and district distribution—if Members were patient with us, I am sure that each Minister would give these details—leave alone the Minister for Finance. I can inform the hon. Member that, for example, if he looks at page 33, which deals with my Ministry, he will find that I am requesting for £8,100. I want this money so as to employ 30 clerks each earning £250; and 14 drivers each earning £171. It will be wasting Government money if we threw out the books that have been printed and then go back to the Press tomorrow to print other books giving these particular details; details that I will be ready to give when my Vote will be considered. I am sure every Minister has these details; I have mine here, Mr. Speaker. So I do not see why hon. Members should insist on wasting the public funds by throwing out the books that have been printed. We accept, of course, the fact that more details should be given on occasions like this.

However, it can be observed, on page 32, that full details are given there regarding the personnel required. For example, you will see that they want one lecturer in Scale G1. This is the information the hon. Member is requesting. They also want three lecturers in Scale G2. They also want one executive officer in Scale G3. That kind of information is already given in some respects. Others are shown on page 32, and page 31, under the Ministry of Co-operatives and Social Services. I can inform the hon. Member that we have the details. It is only a slip, and because of the time factor, we did not include this in the printing, but we have the information in our hands. We will give it when the time comes rather than deferring this one and going to the expenses of re-printing the whole thing. I think it is going to be very unfair and a waste of public funds.

The second point, which the Members are asking on this Motion, Mr. Speaker, is that they want us to inform the House who are these trainees that are under the Directorate of Personnel. Mr. Speaker, we know who the trainees are. There are H 45—16 pp.

only two cadres for whom we have an urgency in requesting money. These are the architects. Because of the building factor in the Ministry of Works they need these people badly. We had to give scholarships to our own people to train quickly. We also wanted land-valuers. This House requested that we should have African land-valuers and the Ministry of Lands and Settlement had to go out of its way to request for money for training our people. This information will be given regarding their numbers.

An hon. Member: When will it be given?

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, an hon. Member is asking me when these people were employed in my Ministry under the Tripartite Agreement. I am sure that when the Ministers concerned are given time, to give the facts verbally, they will do it or lay the facts on the Table—rather than throwing the whole booklet away for reprinting. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are being told to specify the embassies we have started which come under the Ministry of Home Affairs. It is common knowledge because we know where these embassies have been started and even the hon. Mover knows where these embassies have been started, but if he wants to know how many or who are the ambassadors that have been sent out, how many first secretaries, how many second secretaries, this information will be given by the Minister for Foreign Affairs. I am sure that he has the information for you—even if names are required, I can give them because I have visited these embassies—I have gone to Lusaka and visited our new embassy. I can give names of the people who are there and the grades which they have. We have not been given the chance to say this and I know that if we are given the chance to put it on paper we shall put it because there is nothing to hide. I am only pleading with the House that we accept the original Motion, and that we reject this amendment, so that we can save time and money that would be involved in printing this booklet. It will require another Supplementary Estimate to pay for the book.

We are told that we are overspending—we will require another estimate because the estimate for the printing of this booklet is already included in this Supplementary Estimate and we will have to pass another estimate for the reprinting of this booklet.

The last point raised on this Motion is for us to show the details or the breakdown of each and every item, including the Miscellaneous Expenses. Now, I have looked through this Supplementary Estimate and I have seen only two items which appear under Miscellaneous Expenses. One is the

[The Minister for Commerce and Industry] Immigration and it is explained why they have put it there; it is because they want to print certain forms to facilitate easy passing through the immigration controls at the airport. It is explained on the next page. The other item appears on page five, under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and it is explained as to why there should be Miscellaneous Expenses. This money was wanted to assist in paying medical fees and school fees for the new diplomats that have been appointed to these missions. This is all explained, Mr. Deputy Speaker. We will not go further than what has been explained here in this booklet but we agree that we are going to give these details in the next printed estimate. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I see the hon. Member for Moyale, who wants money for his hungry people, wants us to go to unnecessary expense by throwing away this booklet. He wants us to go to the expense of throwing away this booklet. This money would, otherwise, be saved to hire a lorry to transport maize to Moyale for the hungry ones. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think we shall be unrealistic if we accept the amended Motion. I think it should be better for us to agree to the original Motion—I promise, on behalf of my colleague, that we will give all these details at the Committee stage. Any Minister who does not give these details, his Vote can be withheld by moving that a deduction of £1—this is normal (that means that his Vote will not go through)—rather than us rejecting the whole of the printed estimate.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose the amendment.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Just now before the Minister sat down he attacked my name when he said that the hon. Member for Moyale wants to hire a lorry. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are talking briefly on this in order to get the details. If the hon. Member wants to hire a lorry, why does he not say so. There are lorries going to Moyale to carry posho, milk, butter—what are these goods to be transported that we are being told of? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we want the details and our amendment comes in because of that. It is easy—a few minutes ago the Minister said that he could explain. Could he explain what is meant by miscellaneous and other expenses? What are these other expenses? Could we be told? May be somebody is taking this money and putting it in his pocket—how do we know whether this is not so? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I can say that our Ministers do not want to use their time by giving the details and with this shorten the time of debating it in this House.

When we are commenting on the Budget, we find the same things are debated—on Education we read about miscellaneous and other charges. In every item that is brought in this House we see miscellaneous and other charges. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, every time we are not told what is going on. A few days ago the Public Accounts Committee brought their report in this House and in this report we found too much unnecessary expenditure—some of the money was spent on furniture. The details were there.

Now, our quarrel is on very small things—for example, as our Minister for Commerce and Industry has just explained, he said that when he explained about the drivers employed during the time of the Tripartite Agreement. What are the difficulties in giving the details here? Why has he not mentioned in this booklet that certain drivers are wanted for certain Trade Officers in Moyale or Kisumu? How do we know where these drivers go? If the Minister wants to take all these drivers to his constituency, we shall have to be told.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we who speak about money, are in a very responsible position. I want to urge our Government—I do not know why—

The Mover of the amendment read something about the colonial Ministers who were only six or eight representing the whole of Kenya which was being ruled by one Governor. They gave every detail and now when we have more than 22 Ministers and 38 Assistant Ministers, so much personnel, so many advisers, so many—what do we call these wazungus' or watu wakubwa?—Expatriates. All these were employed to help them in making the accounts—help them, advise them. Why are we not given the details? This is very serious. Just now I was told that I want to hire a lorry. There is nothing up to now—I read about what the Mzee said when he called on the public to contribute money to help the drought-stricken areas of Moyale. There is only one lorry load of maize which has reached there. There is nothing other than that. I paid over Sh. 1,500 to the Committee for Freedom from Hunger— This money was collected from Moyale and although there is hunger there, we said that we should help ourselves so that the public can help us. We should not be told that there are such things going on when we cannot see them. We even do not know where this money is going. We shall not agree on these miscellaneous and other charges. We want the truth because we do not want—we want to know where everything goes. We should be told this in detail so that we know exactly—if they want this money—recently, our Minister for Agriculture said that the matter needed emergency measures. Last week we were talking about excess expenditure. We are not talking about necessary expenditure. We quite agree on those necessary expenditure but we do not agree on the unnecessary expenditure. How can we leave the matter like this when this mistake has already been done whereas we are told that Kenya is a poor country? Kenya has so many loans given to it. I noticed our sister country which criticized Kenya also said that its record was clean because no loans had been given to that country. This is a challenge. Can we solve this? Where will this money be spent?

I remember the Minister of Education saying something about district education boards but in which districts? In Kapsabet, Moyale, Kisumu we have to be told so that we can agree as hon. Members of those areas or members of the public in this country to go and check how many district officers there are in Kakamega so that when members of the public read how many district officers there are in Kakamega they can go and check who these district officers in Kakamega are. This is all we want.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are really, not bringing unnecessary arguments here but we want this explained clearly. We do not want these books printed and then passed in this House. We are the advocates of the citizens of this country and that is why we became hon. Members of this House and we must advocate what they want and they should know, exactly, where every single penny paid by them goes to, so that we know and can support the Estimates, not only these pieces of papers. The Minister who has just sat down said that they have to print big books. We have seen these books printed everywhere. This is all we want.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the amendment very strongly because we want details.

Mr. Ayah: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as a matter of fact, my hon. friend the Member for Kisumu Town is complaining and I can assure her that I am going to make very few remarks today.

Mr. Karungaru: Very good if you can do that.

Mrs. Onyango: We, also, would like to get a chance.

Mr. Ayah: My first remark, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is in a rather difficult position. I appreciate the fact that it is necessary year in and year out to have these Supplementary Estimates, but I was listening to those who were, by their announcement, trying to support the Minister or trying to oppose the Motion for amendment. My first reaction, Sir, is that if these are the friends the Minister has, he certainly has no need to have enemies. The support he was trying to get was rather weak because in the first place, Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are not trying, by any stretch of imagination, to block the Government from having these Supplementary Expenditures. What we are saying, and which needs to be said several times, is that we are not satisfied that this exercise we are asking for would be too much for the Ministry.

For instance, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if you look at page 11 under one heading, there is original estimate none, revised none, additional sum required is K£327. Now, it is this kind of careless statement hon. Members are asking the Minister to avoid because if there is no original estimate, there is no additional estimate or revised estimate, how is it that we have an additional sum to be voted by this House?

Now, if you look at page 15—I think it is page 15—you see this kind of thing again. You find under purchase of stores, plant and equipment: original estimate none, revised estimate none and yet additional sum required is K£23,350. Now, I know the Minister studies some statistics. However, even statistics have to start from somewhere! You do not just hang them in the air. This is the kind of thing the Members are trying to ask, Sir. Now, if you look on page 20—I think it is—under the National Youth Service: mechanical transport and plant renewal's fund, there was no original estimate but by some queer arithmetic we have a revised estimate of K£100,000. Now, what we are trying to do, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is not to doubt the sincerity of the Minister. We are not doubting the fact that he requires this; we are only asking him how he got to that figure. How he arrives at the figure K£100,000 because if we look at the kind of information we get every year from this Ministry is that we do not get a detailed statistical digest that would give Members in this House the kind of background information they want. I know it is difficult to work it out; it is tedious work. However, it is necessary work. It is necessary work in the sense that hon. Members of this House, not through the choice of their own, happen to be the custodian of public finance. Now, whether the Minister agrees with me on that does not matter because it is a fact. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because of that they need this information. The kind of finance that is handled by the Ministry of Finance and Economic Planning may not regard K£100,000 as a lot of money. However, when we think of how this money is received from the poor people of this country, we are entitled to check and find out how anybody has reached the figure of K£100,000 for mechanical transport and plant renewal's fund. I know that the fund is there but for God's sake, sorry. In any case, I would like the Minister to give us a chance to analyse these figures more carefully. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like the Minister not to resist this Motion terribly because I know hon. Members are not asking him to defer this debate for two or three weeks or one month. We are only asking that if he is capable of supplying this kind of information even within 24 hours, we at any rate, or I myself, are prepared to support the Supplementary Estimates. However, if we cannot get this kind of information, I have a fear, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that I will not be voting money—even if it is not extra taxation. I fear that I will not be allowing money to be taken away from the Consolidated Fund—unless I know how the figure was arrived at.

Therefore, Sir, I would like to support the amendment that the words to be left out be left out. Thank you, Sir.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am happy that you have given me this chance to air a few points to the House. I think this is just a case of misunderstanding as to what is involved. We all know that the House stands committed to protecting the public especially in public expenditure. That is the duty of every hon. Member in this House including me and my two colleagues who have spoken there.

As we know, Sir, in every society there is a form of rules which are normally applied and, in particular, in a case like this one we have our own rules here. Previously we knew that for every Estimate there was to be detailed information supplied by the Minister concerned; that is the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning. Later on at the Committee stage, every Ministry had to give detailed information as to why they required a certain sum. I thought that this was the case, Mr. Deputy Speaker. If the problem of my hon. colleague—hon. Ayah—when he referred to page 11 where he refers to, I should think, the Ministry of Defence: I, Personal Emolument. Then, Sir, he refers to original zero, revised estimate zero, and an additional sum is required of K£327. All he could do, if this was really his problem, is that at the Committee stage, the Minister for Defence will be called upon to explain this. If the hon. Member was not satisfied, that is the time when he could move a reduction of K£1 and debate that particular point. It is no use for us to try to blame one another here especially, if I may only remind my hon. colleague the Member for Embakasi, when sometime ago we had a similar difficulty. In fact, Sir, it was sometime last year. As a result we decided to elect an Estimates Committee comprising of hon. Dr. Z. Onyonka, Member of Parliament; hon. W. N. Ayah, Member of Parliament—my hon. colleague who has just been speaking; hon. S. M. Balala, Member of Parliament; hon. J. D. Akumu, Member of Parliament; hon. M. T. Jilo, Member of Parliament; hon. G. M. Mutiso, Member of Parliament; hon. Muturia, Member of Parliament; hon. Wabuge, Member of Parliament; hon. Tuva, Member of Parliament; and hon. Munoko, Member of Parliament.

Their work was for them to sit and scrutinize every item and send recommendations to this House in terms of Estimates for 1971 or Revised Estimates. The information I have is that these Members have not sat! Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, hon. Wabuge is one of them and hon. Ayah is another! Then, you cannot really come here and blame somebody else if you, yourself, have failed to do your work.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I think, here, it is just a case of misunderstanding. We have a certain form of rules which we have been following. Hon. Members wish that they want a change; they have proposed a change. However, that change has not been effected. I should think, the only thing that we should do as a House is to urge the Estimates Committee to begin scrutinizing every item for the forthcoming Budget. What I see here is that we are asking for something like K£3½ million just to add to what we have already passed: K£64,800,000. So, in fact, the Revised Estimates today are not very much because it is just something like K£3 million. If our intention is to try to cover every constituency with this money, it will be too little. I know it will be too little. I think it proper, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that I appeal to my hon. colleagues that every one of us is a custodian of the public money, however, there are ways of doing this and I am sure that this is not the time for us to try to do so although we are saying that we are not blocking the Estimates, we are, in fact, blocking them in the sense that we are going to take some time discussing this matter. I would like to appeal to hon. Members to allow the Estimates to pass through. I would like to urge hon. Ayah and the hon. Wabuge who are serving on the Estimates Committee to do some home-work so that next time when they come they will give us some detailed information as to what items we would like to spend money on.

However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if it is the question of giving more information which the hon. House requires, we in the Ministry of Agriculture have our information ready. I have several pages and if hon. Members could only come to the Ministry of Agriculture to see what is in those pages or the House calls upon us to supply information we shall give it item by item, and explain in detail what we want to do with your money. For instance, the hon. Member for West Pokot has been complaining that he does not know where the money is going. We have rural development projects, for example, in Kapenguria we are going to employ some Assistant Agriculture Officers, and Livestock Officers. In addition, we are going to have such schemes as purchasing of vehicles, maintenance or running of vehicles, etc., water development projects and holding grounds—I will come with these details, and I am sure that I will satisfy every hon. Member if he wants to know what the Ministry of Agriculture is doing in his area. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is some misunderstanding which should clear once and for all. We would like to know how the money is being spent. Surely, there is not a single Minister who is reluctant to give any information that may be required by the House. It is just a question of how we are going to give the information required or the appropriate time to give the information required.

I submit, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that the hon. House should give the Minister for Finance this time a chance to pass the Estimates and let us hold our fire for the main Budget Debate.

Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Lentaya: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister has said that we should pass these Estimates and wait to see how the money is going to be used. I remember last year one of his officers in the Ministry of Agriculture returned some money to the Treasury because he had nothing to do with that money.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! That is not a point of order.

Mr. Karungaru: I would also like to, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Makone): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have seen for many years here in this House that the kind of information being asked by the hon. Members comes up during the Committee stage when every Minister is there to give a breakdown of what is being required in the Supplementary Estimates. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, can you tell us whether the practice is in that form or not, at this stage.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The procedure so far has been that every Minister has details which relate to his Ministry and the various Votes and Subheads, so that, supposing we take the Office of the President as an example—I am not saying that this is what should happen, but I am saying that this is the procedure—you would see under Subhead “Training”, someone would immediately shoot up in the Committee stage and ask whether the Minister can explain. It has not been left, normally in the past, to the Minister for Finance to explain every detail in every Ministry. It has been the duty of the Minister concerned with that Vote to explain in detail. Ministers have huge notes relating to their respective Ministries or in other words every Minister carried his notes. What I believe the hon. Members have been asking for is that there should be some incorporation of some of those notes within the Estimates. It is true that it is possible to get the information required, subhead by subhead, when the Minister stands up to explain. In fact, in practice, if you read all your copies of HANSARD you will see that many of the subheads are not controversial. What happens is that we read them out during the Committee stage and they are passed very quickly. As soon as one subhead is read out and you can tell from the amendment the kind of subheads that are of interest to various hon. Members, some one shoots up and calls for an explanation. The Government keeps on printing when it is necessary to include some subheads. As this is a matter for the House to decide, if the House decides to have Estimates written in the form proposed in Mr. Wabuge’s amendment, that is entirely a matter for this House to decide.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to start by saying that there is nothing secret in what we are discussing in this House and, at the same time, there is nothing secret which is being incorporated in what the Minister for Finance has provided in this House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, time and again, we have criticized the Ministry concerned. However, we tend to think the Minister for Finance only inherited a system which was initiated early in 1963. This system in our opinion, we maintain that it was not at all a good system which the Minister should be responsible for its inheritance. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we hopelessly fail to understand why the information we are asking for should not be incorporated in the Minister for Finance's Report. This is the main argument. Other Ministers had stood in this House and tried to switch the whole argument without raising up a point which can help this House whatsoever. Some Ministers have gone to an extent of saying that there is some urgency in the issues they raise or there is some importance in what they say. However, they do not go into detail when telling us what urgency and importance there is in what they have in mind of which they are afraid to disclose to this House. This is the argument we have, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. We do not want this kind of treatment to be directed to hon. Members in this House because we are now in a new House or a new Parliament. We do not want this kind of language which has been used in the last Parliament. We would not like this kind of language to appear to have any kind of penetration into our new Parliament because it is going to discredit the whole system of running our Government. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a new Government I am referring to. It is only fair that those who do not understand what I am saying should from now onwards start to understand what I mean.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if it is true that we are working under the guidance of collective responsibility which I believe does not exist— This is because what happens is that we work under the guidance of collective irresponsibility. I have said this many times in this House. Many a time when we ask questions we are told that the Minister or his Assistant Minister in charge or any other person from any other Ministry is not here. Under what kind of collective responsibility is this?

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cheron): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Member try to define what he means by, "Collective irresponsibility"?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): That kind of thing does not exist!

An hon. Member: He said it.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Well, that is an opinion. It is "Collective responsibility" whether he accepts it or not but it is not "Collective irresponsibility!"

Mr. Karungaru: Sir, that kind of—

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member really in order to dwell on the same matter on which the Government Minister has apologized on one particular occasion?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): What are you referring to?

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipiti): I am referring to a specific case which I think he is also referring to concerning the Ministry of Works last Friday. On behalf of the Ministry I apologized and today the Minister concerned apologized. Is it really in order to dwell on the same item again although it has been withdrawn and an apology rendered by the Government?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): In any case, I want remind the House that we are dealing with an amendment which has been moved by the hon. Wabuge and seconded by the hon. Seroney: whether or not to leave the words after, "That" as they appear in the Motion on the Order Paper. We are not concerned so much about other things. I think the hon. Karungaru said that when I was speaking to Mr. Ndungu—so I think—and so I did not hear otherwise I would have called him to order.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is high time that the Front Bench Members were disciplined, but I do not know who has to do that!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): It is the Member for Embakasi. I have just ruled that that is not a matter for discussion at this moment.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are very serious but it appears as if the Front Bench Members are not serious at all. They should be conscious of what we are discussing.

It appears that the argument which has been brought up by the Members of the Front Bench on this question has completely and hopelessly failed to achieve any support from the Back-benchers in this House. We are asking something which is logical and reasonable which even they themselves support although they do not show—perhaps, it is because of their, "Collective responsibility" that they do not show their support.

An hon. Member: Who are they?

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, they are asking me who they are. However, they know themselves.

We, in this House, are entrusted to see to it that anything which we pass in this House is for the interest of this House and, indeed, the whole nation; and the moment we shift from this kind of thing we will find ourselves betraying ourselves as well as the whole nation. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is the kind of thing that cannot be excused; and, therefore, we want to make sure that whatever we pass in this House is quite clear, not only in this House but indeed also to the whole nation. This is the argument; and we do not want any Minister to come and pretend that he is not aware of what we are doing because we pretty well believe and know that he is aware of what we are doing but he is just pretending. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if we do not have pretenders we shall, no doubt, make a case to be understood.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what is wrong with us asking what we have now asked for— We understand from the Ministers who have spoken earlier on that they have all the information at their finger tips. We therefore, hopelessly fail to understand why they cannot furnish the same information to the Minister concerned. In future they should do this. We want them not to make the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning look hopeless in the eyes of this House. We would like them to furnish him with full details of all the information as required by this House. In future if this mistake is repeated, surely, the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning will not have anybody to question him because he is a Minister whom we respect and with that high regard, he should also respect the integrity of this House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we do not want to be subjected to treatment by individual Ministries of this kind: "Oh! We are going to give verbal information on the Floor of the House" but we want it to appear in the report because this report is going to remain but what the Minister has in mind is fictitious because nobody knows what it is about. We do not want it to remain that way. This is the kind of impression that we want to correct and, correct, in advance.

Sir, since the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is aware that our problem, is a problem of the Ministries which are, perhaps, not co-operative—and which I would term unco-operative to his Ministry—he should try to seek more co-operation from the Ministries in question; and if he does that, in future we will not be subjected to this kind of argument which we have had this afternoon.

It has been mentioned by the Seconder of this Motion that if the Government is not going to give a hearing to what we are saying we will continue urging it to do what we feel is right and what we think should be done to improve the welfare of our people in this House; and it will be a matter of great concern and we will make sure that the Minister is subjected to this kind of argument every year. Having seen that the Minister is capable, I am sure that he will be able to put the situation right beforehand.

Without saying much more, I fail to understand why the Minister, whom we respect, does not at the same time listen to this House. If he has been listening, surely, he should have noted that when he made his Financial speech we criticized him enough—his Ministry—and other Ministries involved—which have similar problems—and of which he is responsible because he appears to be the overall Minister. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if he is not going to make sure that in future we shall not question him, surely he will be exposing himself to a state of exasperation, although I would not like him to do that in the near future.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we are here to support the amendment because we believe that it would not take more than a day or two before the Minister gets the information. Before the Minister agreed to co-operate and include what we are intending to incorporate in this report. Since the Minister is expected to give us a fair explanation to this one, I would like him not to behave like other Ministers—they behave like, "Collective Ministers" and this is the treatment we had. If they try to work as individuals, surely we will be able to put our situation right and do so in time.

I would like other Members to contribute to this and urge the Minister to agree with us without being arrogant to us, because if he becomes arrogant we will also become antagonists of his.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I naturally rise to oppose the proposal that we should adjourn the debate.

Let me say this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that the wording of the Motion, and I do hope that the Member for Kitale West, whose intention I understood to be is a proper intention, I do hope that he, too, will appreciate the points that I am bound to make. I believe, we can get an understanding on this matter, provided that we are all agreed that what we are seeking is to do a service, a job, which the rest of the country, which we represent, expects us to do.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the part I find difficult to accept in this Motion is because the Motion requests that we withdraw these printed Estimates and revise them. That means that we have to withdraw these printed Estimates, rewrite them, take them for reprinting and we will not be able to discuss this thing for quite a couple of weeks. Let us not say that it is days, because the request is for withdrawal of the printed Estimates, these Estimates, and for them to be rewritten out and to be reintroduced in this House. I believe that this cannot take us just two days. It will take us, at least, two to three weeks. Mr. Deputy Speaker, if it will take us two to three weeks to prepare the Estimates, to re-do them the way the Member wants them, because he wants us to copy a certain format, which appeared in 1957/58. Now, he knows this, he may be expert in it, he was an associate, but it will take us two to three weeks. It will take another time, about a week to get the thing printed, distributed again to the Members and we will be well into the month of May before we discuss these Supplementary Estimates. I want Members to appreciate this point, that these are for Estimates of money, which we should be spending now, because we have entered in these commitments. We have had to because, in the case of the Tripartite Agreement, it was an agreement which we have entered into with the Employers and the Unions. Mr. Deputy Speaker, in the case of recruitment of primary school teachers, and this takes the whole amount of £700,000. In the Ministry of Education and in the case of the programme in agriculture which takes £600,000, these are programmes in regard to planting, because they affect fertilizers and Guaranteed Minimum Return to farmers and Foot-and-Mouth disease control. This also included the taking over of the Karapokot, which I want to assure the hon. Member honestly that we have taken over. Mr. Deputy Speaker, these are programmes which the Government cannot let slip.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, what we are saying, now that the matter has come to Parliament, if we want to postpone this until May, because this, in fact, is what it will mean in practice, we will be delaying expenditure, to which we have already committed ourselves—those that are involved—because they are continuing programmes. They are not new things that we must do. I say this, in all seriousness because we do not want to postpone to that extent these expenditures, then we shall be overtaken by the new Financial Year because we are already preparing the new Estimates during this time. They will be printed and presented before the end of May for the Budget that is coming in June.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, let me say this, if we want them to overlap, we will have lost two to three months of Government programme of expenditure. I am sure none of us wants that. Secondly, we have been told that we should follow a certain format of presentation, such as in 1957 and 1958, I want to repeat what I did say, during the last Budget discussions, that my new Financial Year's Estimates, will, to the extent possible follow that format which gives the total number of people, the grade etc. I say to the extent possible because there is one little exception.

At the material time the hon. Member is talking about, the amount of staff employed by the Government, was not very much more than about 30,000. We are not talking about an employment within the Government of 90,000. Now, if we have to detail class 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, for every department, for 90,000 people, it will not—No, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I do not think that the Members want us to produce three or four volumes, the size of these books here—However, I do hope and I want to say this because I am going the farthest possible way to meet these requests, which are genuine requests, let us all agree. These are genuine requests. Therefore, I do hope that I will present, in the new year's printed Estimates, details which will show, in regard to each Vote. If we talk about Personal Emoluments, for instance, £75,000, it will be shown in the explanatory note that this is in regard of payments of X number of people of grade Y, who are paid at the rate B. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I say that we will be able to print our new Estimates in that form and I also say that this is what we promised during the Budget Debate and that we are attempting to do it to the extent we can possibly do it. We promised this during the last Budget Debate. We did and we are not going back on it.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, these Supplementary Estimates, and because it is supplementary, and I want to explain this point, because we are all together; because it is supplementary on the Estimates which have already been passed by this House, it had to be prepared—at least we thought so—on the format as the original Estimates were prepared, in order to assist comparison. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is our reason and I want to say it frankly because nobody is saying that the request for the preparation of the Estimates in the form the Member for Kitale West wants them is unreasonable. It is quite reasonable, but as this was supplementary, the question did arise as to whether or not we should follow the old format or the new format which was proposed by the Members here. I want to say that, quite frankly, I, myself said, within the Committees of Ministers where we were discussing this matter, that we should follow the format which made comparison with the original Estimates straightforward. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that was the reason and no other reason. I want, however, to appeal to the Members here that since we have taken them seriously on the major request, and we are going to follow that procedure, they should in turn see from the immediate Supplementary Estimates that are included here, that these are authorized and that we discussed from format and decided to follow their format during the next Budget Debate.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Let me also say this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the information which the Member has asked for in the Motion, with due respect to him, does not warrant the withdrawal of the printed Estimates, because that is what he requested. This information is quite right. We can give it to him, we can table it here, and I want to propose to him and to the Members in this House that this information will be tabled here before we conclude any of the Votes involved in these Estimates in the Committee stage.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want to propose that because—take (a) in respect of the Tripartite Agreement, the Member is saying that was how we did it last year, I have, myself, owned up, and that is why we followed this procedure for purposes of comparison. It is not as if we are hiding anything. Regarding the Tripartite Agreement, I have a list here—where is that list—which is a summary of the numbers the various Ministries have employed and in what categories. Each Ministry will table this. Each Ministry will table its own list of detail but we have a summary here which shows 4,000 in the Ministry of Education, 145 in the Ministry of Tourism and Wildlife, etc. For instance, we have just about 400 people employed by the Ministry of Works. We can ask for details of (a), where they are employed and (b), what grade they are. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that information is available in each Ministry and it can be tabled here as we discuss each of these items.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like to propose to hon. Members that they agree to this offer, not because it is a confession, it is not a confession. It is information they have a right to know.

An hon. Member: It is out right to know?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): That is correct. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are not arguing the right of hon. Members to have the information. What we are arguing is that because we have the information and because it can be given, then we should not take the time of the country by withdrawing the whole of the printed Estimates, revising them and giving them in whatever form the hon. Member wants, so that for this particular Supplementary Estimates, because they are supplementary, we give the information as we require.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, in regard to (b) about training, these numbers and what training they are getting and where they are getting it, is available and the Minister of State in the President's Office will be able to lay it on this Table when that Vote is called. Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I would like to propose, therefore, is that we give more chances on this.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, when we come to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, we have here the rest of the people who have been employed, including the names, including the grades, including what they are paid and so on. We also have a list showing what rent we are paying for what offices at Lusaka and at Stockholm in Sweden. Therefore, that information will be laid on the Table here. However, let us not request this for the sake of getting that information so that we delay three weeks to get a re-printing of these Estimates because that is what the Motion asks.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in regard to what is called Miscellaneous, we shall do the same when the time comes. As regards the essential part of this Motion, which is the last part, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we follow the details such as were given in 1957 and 1958, I have promised that we will do so in the new Estimates. I have promised, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we will give the details in those new Estimates. I have assured hon. Members that the only reason these are presented in the format they are in order to be able to compare them with the original Estimates. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I want to appeal to hon. Members that in this spirit, we deal with these Estimates, we get the changes that are being sought in the new Estimates, and above all, that the information requested be demanded at the Committee stage, and that the hon. Members, as they know very well, under the Standing Orders, they have a right to move Motions until they are satisfied that the information they are seeking, in full detail, is secured.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, there is a question about time which is worrying the Member for Bungoma East. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the meaning of the Motion by the Member for Tinderet that the Supplementary Estimates should take more than one day, is that we shall have longer time than we normally have. I am saying this because if it was the normal time, we would vote at 6.30 p.m. on the same day. However, the House has ruled that we shall have all the time we require to scrutinize and question every Ministry individually. Therefore, we will have the time that the Member for Bungoma East needs in order to get the full facts.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Finally, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, let me say that I do hope that we can find compromise that way and that this amendment to the Motion can be withdrawn by the Mover so that we proceed and get the original Motion underway, we get into committee as soon as possible so as to question each department to provide the facts and figures that they need. I do hope, therefore, that the Member for Kitale East will see that we have gone 99 per cent of the way towards him and that he can make 1 per cent as a gesture—as a token of goodwill.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I oppose the amendment.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, may I move that the question be now put?

Mr. Migire: No! No! No!

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I am dealing with a point of order. I think we have started to repeat ourselves and, therefore, it is proper that the question should now be put. So, I will first put that part before I put the question.

(Question that the Question be now put, put and agreed to)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): So, I will now put the question of deletion.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, put and negated)

Mr. Mwangale: Division please!

(A number of hon. Members stood in their places)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Wait, I will first count them. The number required is twenty and they are less than that. Therefore, you do not have enough supporters. We are now back to original Motion.

(Debate on the original Motion resumed)

The Assistant Minister for Natural Resources (Mr. Ochwada): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, since we have debated extensively the Supplementary Estimates, would I be in order to propose that the question of the supplementaries be now put?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Is that the opinion of the House? I will put the question.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I am dealing with a point of order. Oh yes, I think possibly Mr. Seroney has in mind the fact that we have closed debate before we have a reply. Do you wish to reply, Mr. Kibaki, or would you rather I put the question?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Yes, you had better put the question.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. (Inaudible.) and therefore, we will technically have to go into committee to pass the Supplementary Estimates.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): This, of course, is done in the committee here when we start discussing the details and even though we put it at this stage, we will still have to go into detail, one by one, so that hon. Members can get the detailed information that they want. Anyway, I will now put the question.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Do we go into committee straightaway? Why do you not finish with the Motion first? I propose that instead of going into committee straightaway, since we have a similar Motion which we could deal with, one after the other in committee, that we will proceed to Motion (b) in Order No. 5, to facilitate our Business.

Therefore, Mr. Kibaki, will you move the next Motion?

MOTION

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 1 OF 1970/71—
DEVELOPMENT

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to move:—

THAT a sum not exceeding K£15,315,163 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1971, in respect of Development Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker, these Development Estimates, which Members have had time to look at, are, and I want to explain this in great detail because they are slightly different, from the Recurrent, that we have just been dealing with—These Development Estimates, Mr. Deputy Speaker, have been necessitated by the fact that there are three or four new areas of expenditure, that I will explain in a minute, which were not included in the Development Estimates, which we discussed last year. In addition to those, we have found, and this is the point I want to explain in detail because it is different from the Recurrent, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that with the greater efforts, projects falling under the various Ministries, it has been possible for us to work on implementation faster than had been anticipated when the Estimates were prepared. I want to emphasize this point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, because it runs right through the revision in the Estimates. It is that we have found that with greater efforts, the implementation of our Development Plan has been slightly faster than had been anticipated when the Estimates were first prepared. It has, therefore, been necessary for us to come back to the House, for the House to authorize a more rapid rate of expenditure, than we had anticipated, and the fact that we are implementing our Plan faster than was anticipated a year ago, should be a healthy sign.

I want to say this because in regard to Development Estimates, there is this particular major difference between them and the Recurrent Expenditure we have just been debating. I want to say, for instance, that it is for that reason, and I will explain in a minute, that the expenditures on roads, the expenditures on tourism, the expenditure on commerce and industry, the expenditure on water, the expenditure on lands, Mr. Deputy Speaker, for instance, agriculture, the expenditure on power and communications; all these, as I will explain in a minute, have been necessitated — The increases have been necessitated by more rapid implementation of projects already agreed to, by this House and which are continuing. In addition, there are the new items, which I will explain in a minute. In the case of agriculture, Sir, as Members will see in these Estimates, it has proved possible for us to have a more rapid implementation of two major projects, the largest of which is in sugar development.

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

It has proved possible for us — Mr. Speaker, I think the Members could be quieter or could discuss this matter more quietly, because there is so much debate going on, Sir, and rapidly, that we are not able to hear ourselves.

Mr. Speaker, I am saying that in the case of agriculture, for instance, it is because we have been able to implement faster, certain projects which, when the Estimates were prepared, we thought would take longer, and that is why we are coming back to this House. The major items are first and foremost, in sugar development, where it has proved possible for us, first to expand the sugar schemes that we have around Chemelil and Muhoroni. Secondly and more important still, it has proved possible for us to start on the planting and on the preparation for the Mumias Sugar Scheme, which, initially, we had thought would take us nine months, to get all initial work underway. However, now, we have moved so fast that the planting and work on the 10,000 nucleus estate and on the loan to the outgrowers, these we have to move ahead on, and more important, that we have to make the order for the machinery during May of this year, in order to keep the schedule of time that has now advanced, at least nine months ahead of what was originally estimated.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it is for that reason that these items look rather large, £350,000, but it is for that reason. Secondly, as regards the loans for development in the range area, this is the beef ranching area, where we are requiring £113,000. These programmes, when they started first, were taking us a long time, Mr. Speaker, to persuade people to adapt these programmes of enclosure, of building of dips, of organized group ranches; it was taking us longer at that time. However, with the experience we have now, as the Member for Kajiado South will know, this programme of development of ranching in various parts of the country; in Kajiado, in Taita/Taveta, in Kilifi, in all these places, Mr. Speaker, is moving much faster than we had originally anticipated, and this is the money that we are about to vote, Mr. Member for Kajiado South.

Now, we, therefore, have moved much faster on this programme, and I would like to propose that this is a matter which is wholly welcome, and which we would like to proceed on without very much delay. I want to say that for parts of this money, it is covered by loans from the World Bank and from the Swedish International Development Agency, and as far as the Sugar Development Scheme is concerned, by a little loan from the British Government. Now, therefore, it is not entailing any new additional taxations, because these are viable projects which will pay their way, and they need not be subsidized.

Mr. Speaker, as regards land settlement, there is a speedier implementation, but that again is not leading to any inconvenience to anyone. Mr. Speaker, in regard to the Ministry of Commerce and Industry, which is the other item that has taken a very large foolscap on page 20, as Members will see, we have about two of the main items here; again, we have advanced faster than we thought. First, on the paper and pulp project, the agreement, as everybody knows, was finalized soon after the Estimates had been presented; it was signed, we are now on the site and working on it. We have also now, collected all the money that is required for this paper and pulp project at Broderick Falls, that is $35 million; it has been assembled. We are able, therefore, to start construction. Perhaps more important, we have had to put down various percentages of deposit, on machinery that must be ordered at this time, not to lose a few months, because we do not want to lose any time; we have waited so long on this particular project. Therefore, we have this sum here of £259,000.

Under the same heading there is a new item and this is one of the four new items I mentioned I would explain. There is £153,000 required for the Industrial Development Corporation to enable them to go jointly with other investors in the development of the mineral that has been discovered in economic quantities in Kerio Valley, in the Rift Valley, in the Baringo District. Now, Sir, this is something we could not have anticipated. I want to explain that particular point. The quantities that were proved to be economic and that would pay us to exploit now fully, we had not know those facts when the Estimates were first prepared. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, this is why we have them in this regard, we have them here. There is a small item under this same programme on rural industrialization which, although it is going into preparation of those rural programmes, Members can expect that in the new year Budget it will be a much bigger item because we want to have this rural industrial development programme expanded in a bigger way.

As regards roads, which are taking nearly £3 million, Members will see explained at page 24—and this is, of course, one of the big items—that this is continuation of projects already approved. However, because we agreed to put out certain works to contract, which could not have been done by the Ministry of Works, it has proved possible to work faster than we had planned before, and I am sure this is to the interest of everybody and I am also sure that we will all want to approve this programme of trunk roads linking us on the one side with Ethiopia through Isiolo, linking us to the other end to Tanzania, at Tarime through South Nyanza, Suna, Isibania, linking us with Uganda on two routes, one that is just completed through Malaba through Tororo and the other that we are about to start on the continuation of Kisumu, Yala, Busia Road, and that one linking us further on, this way, to Somalia through the roads to Garissa and such others. This programme of trunk roads is moving faster than we had planned before. For the benefit of the Member for Kajiado South, the road from Kijabe through Narok to the end, which a contractor is dealing with, we hope, will eventually go all the way to link the Kisii and Masai, and we hope they will be come friendly when the road is completed and they can travel along a good road. Mr. Speaker, this programme is a programme that we want to complete. The fact that it is moving faster is something for which we should like to congratulate the Ministry of Works. I do not see them around here. I think the Ministry of Home Affairs needs to be congratulated too for keeping order in certain parts where and when we needed it. We needed their help at one stage.

There is a programme which takes about £½ million for building and works. Now, on Government buildings, which are again detailed here—I do hope that we have detailed them fully to the satisfaction of Members. On page 31 we have detailed the buildings that are continuing and which are moving a little bit faster than we had thought they would move. Therefore, the rate of payment to the contractors should be speeded up. This, of course, refers to the construction of all these items which are listed on page 32, Mr. Speaker. I hope Members will approve this.

In this same item we have included a request which has been long standing by the Members from South Nyanza: that we should take over the assets of Macalder Mines who would up about two years ago, and utilize them, particularly the power, water, the hospital and a number of other things, as a beginning of the rural development programme where Migori Division is included in the special road development programme. Therefore, this is being taken care of.

Mr. Speaker, in the Ministry of Health which, again, requires another £½ million, we have explained on page 36 why this money is needed. I want Members to note that at least £100,000 is required for the accelerated expansion of district hospitals which require to be expanded and which were being built, and which, thanks to the Ministry, under the new management, now have accelerated activity in that department. I personally, very much welcome this long-standing programme of having a hospital for every district and I am glad that this is moving faster than we had anticipated before. I hope that it can be completed in good time. It is a programme that we very much welcome and the expenditure is fully detailed on pages 37 and 38. All the items that are included appear there.

As regards the housing programme, again, we have explained here the reason for the expansion in the grants and in the staff houses in this town.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

In item 48, Treasury, we have shown here items which I want to explain here fully because, I think, they should be explained as fully as possible. We have included expenditures which have arisen as a result of Government policy of participation in various industries. Now, it is a policy which I know has the support of the majority of Members—in fact, all the Members in this House—it is a programme which we want to carry on a bit further were it not for the fact that we are limited by resources. It is a programme which we are carrying out with all deliberate speed, but because we must take into account all our other commitments we cannot carry it at very high speed. I would, however, suggest to the House that this is an area where we need to be cautious of the aims and objects and, above all, on the policy the Government is following. I would welcome greater interest by the House in this. This is the policy of participation in various industries. Now, here, Mr. Speaker, we have an item for participation in the East African Development Bank. It is an item which is an additional cost to us, and that is the bank for East Africa. We have an additional cost of £14,000 for the Kenya National Assurance Company. As Members know, the Government's aim is to control this particular assurance corporation. We have a Board to which the Government nominates the majority of the members. We did buy a few shares from people who wanted to sell so that the Government can, itself, become the controller of one assurance company. We have continued to allow other insurance organizations in this country because—I hope the Members support this policy—we would want that the variety, the choice is available to whoever wants to insure himself, his business, his wife or whatever he wants to insure. Here he will have a choice of service.

Members will recall that as a complimentary to this activity, recently we passed a Bill, the State Reinsurance Corporation Bill, which we have re-established and which is functioning very successfully, and which is saving us a lot of foreign exchange. Therefore, plenty of this money should be earning more money for us. In fact, it is being very well run, the State Reinsurance Corporation, under the very able chairmanship of a former Member of this House, Mr. Tom Okelo-Odongo.

In the case of the Kenya Commercial Bank, I do not need to labour the point because we have had a very full debate in this House when we had to pass the Bill vesting the assets of the National and Grindlays Bank into the Kenya Commercial Bank.

The only point I want to make, because this is vital for the Parliament to differentiate, is that the amount shown here will, in fact, not be expenditure out of the revenues. I want to emphasize this point, Mr. Speaker. There is nearly £1½ million and this will not be expenditure from the revenues that we had anticipated because, as I said when I moved that Bill, we negotiated with the previous owners of the National and Grindlays Bank that we would be lent this money and we would repay it from the profits we would make from the operation of the Kenya Commercial Bank. So it will not place an additional burden on the taxpayer of this country. It is a viable business and it is one that will be able to generate enough profits to pay for the shares which the Government is buying in it. That is the point I should emphasize.

The reason it is included here is because it is an expenditure by Government and whatever the source of money, this is an expenditure which has to be authorized, or requires to be authorized by this House as the supreme authority in the country.

It is the same thing, Mr. Speaker, as regards the East African Oil Refineries. This company is a profitable organization. When we negotiated a 50 per cent shareholding, the purposes were two: mainly to be able to have a control on what happens to this very vital source of fuel and, therefore, power in our economy; and to be able, equally, to know that the prices that are being paid for this very vital item in the economy are reasonable and are within the overall structure of development that we visualize in this country. Equally, Mr. Speaker, we wanted a shareholding because as it is known, this is a company which has the complete monopoly. There is only one refinery and all fuel that is used in this country is refined in one place. Therefore, it is logical under our policy that this should be controlled by the State.

Again, Mr. Speaker, let me say this, that the money we require in order to buy the 51 per cent of the company will be lent by the shareholders. In other words, they will agree that we may pay instalments from the profits that we earn. In this particular case, even more so that the previous one I mentioned, this is going to be more than possible because it is a very viable organization and we are sure to be able to pay our way without placing any additional burden on the tax-payer of this country.

Sir, I heard one Member, I hope I did not hear him correctly, applying for a job. However, I do not myself think that this is the right place.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Finally, Sir, as regard the purchase of other shares in the private sector, this item has been included. We shall probably not spend all of it but it has been included because we are in the middle of negotiation with another set of private companies. Members will know that we are negotiating for major Government share holding in the two other main banking organization in the country: Barclays Bank and The Standard Bank. We have, in fact, the second round of our series of meetings starting tomorrow. We expect that this House will authorize, that if these negotiations can be concluded before the end of this Financial Year, that subject to our coming back here and tabling the laws and everything else as we did before, that this is a right course of action, it is a policy that requires the support of all of us and should be pursued.

We are equally negotiating with the milling industry in this country, and Members know that, for the purpose that this is an industry which is essential to the very existence—as the Member for Busia Central is saying—of certain people including the Members for Busia Central who are addicted to certain types of food. Now, Mr. Speaker, it is—The Member for Kajiado South does not have to protest, we know his speciality! These negotiations have gone reasonably well and, again, I do hope if we can conclude them before the end of the Financial Year it will be all for the good so that we can start the new Financial Year with an economy where the Government has a slightly more say than we have today. In this particular industry, Sir, the milling industry, it is an area which is very urgent. The reason it has taken so long is that it is one that there are so many little mills everywhere, owned by so many little organizations, that it has taken a fairly long time to have a pattern of negotiation with them. Again, Sir, it is a field where we would like to be allowed to take part in, if the negotiations go well.

I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that Government will continue with this programme and, I hope, we will have the support of this House to continue in this way. This is the reason why these items are here.

Let me say this, Sir. The fact that these items are included under Vote 48, Treasury, is purely for the convenience of disbursements of money. I do not want anyone to imagine that the Treasury is now appropriating to itself the regulation of industry which properly falls under different Ministries. This is not so. The negotiations and the actual control will fall under the appropriate Ministries. For instance, mill, will come under Agriculture; fuel will come under Power and Communications, and so forth. It is only included under this heading for the convenience of disbursements so that it is not split up into little items under different Ministries. This is the only reason and I say this because someone did question some time ago, when he saw the printed Estimates, why this was so.

Mr. Speaker, it is for this reason that we are asking for these Votes to be approved. As I have said before, we have tried to have one Supplementary Estimate only during this Financial Year and I hope Members will see that we have tried to do it in a reasonable manner.

In these Estimates, particularly where they are new, we have given—I hope Members will note this—a little bit more detail than we had given in previous Development Estimates. Yes, we have. In fact, Mr. Speaker, the explanatory details, we have tried to spell, them out very fully. Anybody reading the section on Agriculture, which covers about six pages now instead of what used to be two pages, will see that every item includes where the money will be spent. All this is spelt out. We hope to improve on this presentation next time. However, we have begun already, particularly where the items are new.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to tire the House. I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): seconded.

(Question proposed)

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Olojitipiti): Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is a very straightforward Development Motion which everybody in this House ought to support. I am one of those who is on his feet to support the Motion.

Sir, our Kanu Manifesto, our Government and, indeed every elected Member, when we were in the field requesting our electors to give us their votes promised them that we were going to see to it that every part of the country was developed. We do not entirely depend on Harambee projects that every hon. Member is trying to initiate in his own constituency. The whole skeleton depends largely on the Government Development Estimate which the Minister is, now, presenting to the House and which he is requesting us to approve.

Indeed, we support this Development Estimate because our people at home are waiting for their country or their rural areas to be developed by this very Government. Mr. Speaker, I am very grateful indeed for most of the items that have been touched on by the Minister and I call the Development Estimate, timely. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is high time that our respective areas were developed. However, since the Minister has brought this Development Estimate and requested us to give way or to approve it, I think he has done a very good job and I take this time to congratulate the Minister for the good job he has done to bring this Development Estimate so that it will come into operation.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very happy indeed especially when the Minister touches on the Range Management. I am very much concerned about the Range Management in the cattle rearing areas.

An hon. Member: Declare your interest.

The Assistant Minister for Health (Mr. ole Oloitipitip): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have a personal interest but, at the same time, I have the whole of Kenya at heart.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when I say that I am interested in cattle, I am because I am a cattle rearer. I am the owner of 2,000 head of cattle and I need water for these cattle not only for myself but for the whole Masai District which has a number of cattle which are sufficient to supply nearly the whole population of Kenya with meat. However, how can we do it if we do not have water which is the major problem? How can we do it if we do not have dips to eradicate ticks which bring the tick-borne disease to our ng'ombe such as the East Coast fever. We have the Foot-and-Mouth disease all over the country. This is mainly because we have not been able to settle down and keep the necessary numbers of cattle and because we have been moving from place to place in search of water. We have also been moving from place to place in search of grazing land. Therefore, if I say that I have an interest in cattle, I have an interest because my own people have an interest in cattle.

It is the same thing with the milling industry. I know many friends of mine here enjoy that huge type of ugali and without Government participating in the industry, it is impossible for them to have all these things.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the roads I thank the Minister: the road from Athi River to Namanga is now about 70 miles long and it is near completion. This money is allocated to develop such roads. Of course, we want more roads. The Narok/Nyanguso road up to Ol-lori-odo; we want a big link there. My hospital at Loitokitok, also: it is not the only hospital that I want. I want another one at Namanga, Bisi, if possible at Meto, I want the hospitals not to treat the big fish but to treat the sick men.

Therefore, I think this is a very important Estimate for the country and, I think, every hon. Member is really very happy to see that the Minister has done a good job by giving us money at this time so that we can carry on the development in the country.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when it comes to the question of the respective Ministries, we have a chance, there again, to speak and tell the various Ministries what we really want them to do for the country. This is including my own Ministry.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to tire the House or to spend much of its time because I feel this is a very straightforward Motion which I think, every hon. Member wants to support.

Therefore, I beg to support.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to support the Motion but I would, also, like to make some observations.

I would like to tell the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning that when he plans, and I have been questioning his planning, the planning does not cover the rural areas.

An hon. Member: Are you not Mwai?

Mr. Koigi: Yes, I am Mwai.

Mr. Speaker, we have been singing songs in this House that the rural areas are going to be developed. I want to make a correction for the sake of some hon. Members here who think that some parts of the country are given money by the Government. I would like to invite some hon. Members to come to my own constituency and see that there is only one part of it which is developed—the North part of my constituency. When you go to the southern part of my constituency, in Gethi, Lower Muhito and Lower Gikondi all you find is that these people are very backward because they are remote from civilization.

An hon. Member: Do you come from Central Province?

Mr. Koigi: I do come from Central Province.

I would like to tell the Minister to use a lot of money in those areas so that they catch up with other areas which are developed. You will find in some parts of Fort Hall, especially the lower parts of Fort Hall, there is no rural development. The rural development is only concentrated in some portions of Fort Hall. Come to Kiambu and you will also find similar conditions existing. Go to other areas—go to Kitui—

An hon. Member: What about Machakos?

Mr. Koigi: —and Machakos. You will find that there are some areas which are not developed

May I ask Mr. Anyieni to stop talking to the Minister because I am telling the Minister what we want.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, in the rural areas, there are some parts, we all agree, where development has been carried out. In some parts—

Mr. Speaker, in some parts, the Government is going to use huge sums of money to make those areas developed. I would like the Minister to say where these huge sums of money are being sent and the areas which are being developed with the money. We are bound to leave some areas undeveloped. In Nyeri North, they are going to develop an area and so the other parts must also be considered. We go on borrowing money and when it comes to paying back the money borrowed, the people from all parts of Kenya pay this money. Therefore, we want this money to be dished out equally.

An hon. Member: You are quite right there.

Mr. Koigi: We want the money to be equally dished out by the Minister. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to tell this House that there are some Members who are laughing when I say that some areas are developed while some are not developed. I am sure, I am talking sense when I say this. Since we are ruling this country, we want rural areas to be developed.

An hon. Member: Such as Kitui!

Mr. Koigi: Not only Kitui. I have said, and I would like to repeat, in some parts in Central Province, Embu, Western Province and other provinces—

An hon. Member: Nyanza Province.

Mr. Koigi: —and Nyanza too. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to waste the time of the House, however, I want to make a summary. We want the money to be dished out to all areas. My reason for saying this is that we shall pay back the loans which are being borrowed from the international banks, local banks and so on—

An hon. Member: You want us to be further mortgaged?

An hon. Member: We have already been mortgaged.

Mr. Koigi: We are not mortgaged. You are mortgaged, not me.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You have only two minutes before the interruption of the business, Mr. Choge.

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. arap Choge): Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for giving me this opportunity also to air my views. I stand up to support the Motion, but I want to make a few observations in support of what the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning has already said. Sir, I would like to mention a few things about the tea development which comes under the heading —Ministry of Agriculture.

Tea cannot, actually be developed in the rural areas where there are no roads. I would like mostly to refer to my constituency which is Nandi South Constituency. The people in that area cannot carry tea leaves on their heads for about three or four miles and expect the tea to be in the factory on time. Therefore, the tea in my constituency and in many other parts of Kenya, Mr. Speaker, is very important. Unless trucks from the Tea Development Authority reach the farmers within a short distance from the farms, they cannot have their tea transported quickly and, therefore, tea will not be encouraged in the rural areas in an easy manner. They will always find it a difficult thing to have tea developed in rural areas.

We have also sugar-cane developed in some parts of Kano Plains and unless the roads are constructed going to those areas, it would be difficult because those areas are very muddy during the rainy seasons.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I see my time is up and therefore, I will have to continue tomorrow.

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ERECTION OF HOUSES AT AIRPORT/MOMBASA ROADS JUNCTION

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will the Minister, please move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to raise this matter on a Motion for adjournment regarding buildings that the Ministry of Local Government gave directives for them to be demolished.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, when the Minister for Local Government was asked a question here by one of the hon. Members, this is what he replied, and I would like to quote:

[Mr. Karungaru]

"The buildings mentioned by the hon. Member are, I agree, those on the plot No. These plots are currently registered as agricultural land. Permission to turn them into residential plots has been rejected by the Commissioner of Land Control Board of Nairobi because this area may later be included in the plans for extending the Embakasi Airport."

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this was not true, because when these people appeared before the Commissioner in question, and also the Board in question, their application was not approved, but not at all rejected as was said on the Floor of this House by one of the Assistant Ministers during the course of his reply to the question. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in that particular place there were eight other old residential houses, which are still there and have never been demolished. There has also not been any complaint from the former owner of that land nor has he received any notice from Government of its intention to demolish houses in that place.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this reminds us of the colonial times when we were maltreated. We appear to be subjected to the same treatment that we were always subjected to during the colonial days. This kind of approach must be arrested; and arrested immediately. Mr. Speaker, Sir, another argument is: near there, there is a petrol station and in the same place there are other residential houses, this makes the matter worse. That particular owner was not issued with anything related to demolition. Apart from that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is, near there, a railway line and we have not been told whether that railway line is subject to demolition. To make it worse, in the southern part, there is a General Service Unit Camp and residential houses are there. There is also a Tribal Police Headquarters Training School and some residential houses. The argument which was brought here the other day was that Government had the intention of extending the Airport to that particular place. The question here is: who was that very naive person who did not process the application to that land during the course of the time when the buyer was buying the land? Did he not have any idea of the future plans that Government had in mind? This is the question.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am also seeking a definition of the word, "shanties" or "shanty", in terms of the Minister for Local Government interpretation. This is because this Minister together with the Minister for Housing, appeared not to have understood what they are doing. They appear not to know why they are Ministers today. They fail to understand that if the indigenous people of this country did not vote for them, they would not be called Ministers and Assistant Ministers. These are the same people whom they are maltreating. Mr. Speaker, Sir, they have no shame for they have even gone further to subject themselves to be rejected by the nation. Who is that nation? Mr. Speaker, Sir, to make the matter worse these buildings were built during daytime, not at night. When I asked the Assistant Minister for Local Government the other day where the Minister himself was during the course of that time when the buildings were being built, whether he was abroad, or whether they were foreigners and came only to find some buildings had already been erected at Embakasi, he told me, "No, the Minister for Local Government is local". But, how local is he if he did not see those buildings going up, but only saw the buildings after they had been completed? Mr. Speaker, Sir, we do not want this kind of treatment. We want the Minister concerned to realize the hardships that our people face. If it was a Mhindi or a Mzungu whose plot was intended to be turned into a residential plot there would be no objection, but when it comes to an African, a fictitious objection is always, positively, raised. I fail to understand whom the Ministry is representing. Is it representing indigenous people or is it representing the foreigners? That is the question, Mr. Speaker, which I want the Minister for Local Government to answer.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other point is this. There are ten houses which have already been built and each of them has been built at a cost of Sh. 50,000. If you multiply that amount by the number of houses you get quite a good figure. But, who is going to pay that money? If the excuse was that when the Minister for Lands and Settlement applies his act of acquisition of urban plots and that perhaps it would cost the Ministry a lot of money, after all who is now going to pay them? To make it worse, Mr. Speaker, Sir, who is going to pay these people their money which they had perhaps borrowed from the banks and same money was, perhaps, needed for school fees, as they had great expectations that out of the rent collected from the said buildings they could get their money back? Now, who is going to pay them? Mr. Speaker, Sir, to make the matter more serious, for an African to invest Sh. 50,000 is a matter of life and death and the Ministry has no shame whatsoever. The Minister should realize that he is representing the people and he is not representing the idea of any other invisible kind of government. These are the people who have made you be Government, Mr. Speaker, and without them there would be no Government. But, these are the people who are now being maltreated, Mr. Speaker. How do these people now consider the Government and the Ministry of Local Government? These people still think that they are living under the colonial régime, when it is obvious that we are living under a different kind of Government, a Government of the people and for the people. It is the Government which is expected to treat the people who elected it with the kind of fairness which our people are not now enjoying.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is high time that the Ministry of Local Government—and if the question of collective responsibility is being subjected to this—woke up to work for the people. They should not think that if they please the foreigners, the foreigners will think that they are good, they are international figures or they are this and that. Even if you pretend, Mr. Speaker, that you do not have a problem at your house and yet you have it, do you think an outsider will come and solve your problem? The answer is, “No”, you have to solve your own problem. You are demolishing the houses, you do not provide alternative houses, so why do you do this? Are you really serious in what you are doing? The answer is, “No”. Now, I am making you serious.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to urge the Minister to re-consider his past conclusion, which I think was false.

With these few remarks, I beg to move.

Dr. Waiyaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are back on the Floor of the House to discuss yet again the question of demolition in the City of Nairobi.

We are concerned because we are dealing with people; we are dealing with their health; we are dealing with their livelihood; we are dealing with the education of their children and above all it is what we have sworn for, to deal with and look after, for the welfare of society and the just Government of men. That is why we are here. If we become active on their side and represent their views, no one can say that we are obstructing the Government because, after all, Government is them.

We have asked the Ministry of Local Government, time and again, from this House, to think what it is we are actually doing: whether, in fact, the Ministry of Local Government can boast of a proper policy and a proper programme? Every one here in the city knows that there is a shortage of houses; City Council housing another. Instead of the Ministry of Local Government pressing the Ministry of Housing to provide houses, they are contented to spend the rate-payers money to demolish what people have provided for themselves without even providing alternative accommodation.

Now, the question arises, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as to why this Ministry of Local Government feels justified in doing this kind of thing. If you speak to the Minister for Local Government outside this House, he says that he does not agree with the policy of demolition. He does not raise a voice against the City Council. What is more, he does not go to the Cabinet or we are not aware that he has gone to present a programme which the President and the Cabinet will accept for the sake of these people whom they are making homeless.

We have begged and begged and we know that there is partiality in this matter and I am accusing the Government knowing what I am saying. There is partiality in this matter. There are houses on European farms in my constituency and in Mr. Kivuitu's constituency, useless, oval shaped houses which are inhabited by what they regard as their labourers. Nobody says anything about planning on those farms. Yet, on a similar piece of agricultural land, in the Embakasi Constituency that we are discussing now, they come and threaten to demolish Sh. 50,000 worth per house; 10 houses in all! Can the Ministry of Local Government justify that thinking, the logic, the metaphysics of this; can anybody actually do that? In my constituency, I said the other day that some of the houses that have been demolished in the Mathare Constituency, were better than the C.I.D. Headquarters. I repeat it and I challenge anybody—any Minister—to come and compare! And, yet, the Government still feels justified to render more people homeless by destroying what is even better than their own C.I.D. Headquarters! Can anybody give us the logic, the metaphysics of this; can any sane person say that this was for the welfare of society and the just Government of men? What is more is that I am always marveling at these programmes because demolitions always come just before the rainy weather. Why is it that any Member of this Government should be interested in putting the children of other people—but not his own—out in the rain? Why is it? Have they no children of their own themselves? We are saying that there is partiality in this game because nobody, I have yet to be convinced, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that anybody will go and demolish houses in the Dagoretti Constituency. I challenge the hon. Assistant Minister to say that they will because if they do, there will be such a duel, such a fight that this Government will not resist. It is easy to go to the people in other areas of this city and call them squatters and say that their houses are shanties and ignore the Europeans and yet, just next door here, maybe, I do not know if the hon. Munoko lives adjacent, but he has never failed to see them when going home. He sees these things in Kangemi, he sees them in Kawangware. I want them protected because I believe in the policy of providing houses before you demolish. However, what we dislike immensely is that there is no policy except that one of destroying. This is what we dislike and we would like to have a definite definition of what the Government, the Ministry of Local Government regards as a shanty. This I would very much like to hear. If we do not get that, then, we can only assume that their programme is haphazard and that their policy is useless because it creates no homes but merely destroys.

We would also like to know whose policy it really is. Which Minister of this Government wrote a Cabinet Paper on demolition and presented it to the Cabinet? Which one? We would like to single him out because although they hide behind this whole policy of collective responsibility, surely there must be one or some of the Ministers responsible. It cannot be that the Minister for Foreign Affairs is responsible for Housing or Local Affairs. Can it be, Mr. Speaker, Sir? The people want to know who ever took it to the Cabinet and if there is anything in this land, in this city that causes so much frustration, then, it is this policy of destroying people's property and taking their corrugated iron sheets and timber without saying why. And now, they are even threatening to destroy stone houses and corrugated iron sheets. Is this not abominable, Mr. Speaker? Can it be of any worth? This is what we are asking; this is what we are pressing for. We would like to be given a clear policy on shanties, a clear policy on housing and we would like to feel that this policy is impartial; it does not favour the Europeans in what used to be called Lower Kiambu, that it does not favour some parts of this city and go against other parts of this city. For so far, Mr. Speaker, only Eastlands, where the majority of our people live, is being affected and yet it is the same Eastlands that stood up for this Government throughout colonialism and now. We do not know that the foreigners in Kilimani or Muthaiga stand up very much for our Government. It is the people who attend Kamukunji meetings who are for the President; these are the people who support this Government and these are the people we are rendering homeless. We are demanding a clear policy. I believe this is the fourth time and as I happen to know the hon. Munoko to be a gentleman, I hope that today, which maybe, is our last chance for reply or we will look for more if we do not get an answer. Maybe we will get a clear cut policy on what the Ministry of Local Government stands for with regards to shanties, with regards to houses that have been built without building plans. We also want to know Mr. Speaker—because there are accusations against the Ministry of Local Government—why is it that the City Council is being accused of holding back plans for building houses on this agricultural land? Can we get this clearly stated?

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Sir, I think we have to get the exact wording of the question which was posed here by the Member for Makueni. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question reads as follows:—

“Is the Minister satisfied that the buildings which are being erected near the junction of the road to the Airport and Mombasa road and which are so near the main road have been properly planned?”

Part (b) to it was:—

“Since they are going to be permanent buildings is the Minister aware that these houses will pose a problem in the event of enlarging the Mombasa road?”

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Members who have just spoken have gone far away from what the question asked for. They have gone into the whole question of shanties and their demolition. I am not going to touch on this, Mr. Speaker, because it is not the subject of the question as was first put.

Mr. Speaker, in my answer last time I made it quite clear that the plots, namely those on LR Nos. 7135/4/5, are held as agricultural land. Those people who tried to develop them were not doing so according to the conditions which governed the holding of those pieces of land. Whatever development they were carrying out had no approval of the City Council, nor approval of Government. If the developers had had approval there would be no question of demolishing the buildings after they had been erected.

Mr. Speaker, whether these people have spent Sh. 50,000 or more is a matter for themselves because it is up to them to make sure first that whatever development they carry out is according to the law. I am quite sure that the hon. Members agree with that aspect of it.

The developers of these two plots are a company known as the Embakasi Housing Company Limited. From what I gather there are about 300 members in this company, 195 of whose names we know. We have not been furnished with the names of the rest. The Commissioner of Lands has these names so that anybody can have a look at them. This company made an application to the land control board for the purchase of these two plots, but we have not been informed whether any purchase has been completed. We do understand that they were promised that this land would be sold to them, but up to now nothing has happened. If it has, Sir, then it has not been registered. The owner of these plots, Mr. Speaker, is Mr. Madathali M. Walji Jamal, and his company is trying to get them to sell the plots to them, but so far nothing has come out, and they may have to take legal action. I am not sure, but it is entirely up to them.

[The Assistant Minister for Local Government]

Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that these two plots are very close to the airport, and Government is thinking of expanding the Embakasi airport so that it can cope with the Jumbo jets, it is the wish of Government to purchase these two plots. In fact, Sir, if hon. Members had looked at the Official Gazette of 19th March, 1971, they would have seen that the Commissioner of Lands, in pursuance to Section 6 (2) and 9 (1) (a) of the Land Acquisition Act of 1968, has given notice that Government intends to acquire the plots in question and an inquiry will be held on 20th April, 1971, in Nairobi, for hearing any claims to compensation by those who have any claims to that land.

Mr. Speaker, because this company did not get its land approved as I said in my reply on the day this question appeared on the Order Paper, and because the authority for acquiring the land had not been given, and as these people went ahead to develop these plots as a housing estate, the City Council of Nairobi did issue notices of demolition. As far as Government is concerned—as far as the City Council is concerned, the company went ahead without proper approval of whatever they were going to do. The plans and the rest of it were not in order. That is why, Mr. Speaker, the City Council issued these notices.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Embakasi has raised the question of buildings which are in existence near this plot. It is true, Sir, that there are buildings—they are residential in some cases but, the fact is that they have not made up a case or, he has not pointed out that these buildings were not constructed according to plan and with the approval of the authority which was responsible. I think, Sir, that any development which has taken place previously in that place must have had the approval of the authority concerned. As we all know, Sir, in any area, even if it was suitable for a certain type of development, as time goes by the thinking changes and replanning is necessary and some of the things which were done then would be out of place now. This, Sir, in my view is the case now. While it was all right, perhaps at that time to approve building plans for development, housing plots for people to live there now are not appropriate. That is all, Mr. Speaker, that I feel has taken place in that area.

The question of shanties—defining shanties and all the rest, Mr. Speaker, does not arise under the question which was placed before the House. If that is required, Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is a matter which if the hon. Member is interested in he can give notice and they will deal with it appropriately.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mwicigi, you have one minute.

Mr. Mwicigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while we consider the three human basic needs covering food, clothing and shelter, I think our Government has forgotten the element of shelter in urban areas. If Government decides to demolish the houses they should not do it without the alternative. You have to find a place where these people will be put before you take the bulldozers to the area to clear these houses. For that I feel very, very critical.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is another point which we leave and this is the possibility of cheap houses. The standard which our cities are keeping is much higher, in many cases, than the standard of cities like London, New York, and Japan, because we insist on conditions which were put here by the colonialists and we are forgetting that our standard does not demand that an African must of necessity live in stone buildings. We can have cheap houses, we can buy cheap land and then we can erect houses for so many people who require this sort of shelter.

I feel that the Assistant Minister's reply was not good enough and he should come back with a better solution.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is now time for the interruption of business. The House is therefore adjourned until tomorrow, Wednesday, 31st March, at 2.30 p.m.

PRAYERS

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 206

RENEWAL OF CONTRACTS: NON-CITIZEN POLICE OFFICERS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs—

(a) how many non-citizen police officers had renewed their contracts from 1970 up to date;

(b) if any, whether the House would be told why they had been allowed to renew their contracts;

(c) whether the House would be told when these contracts would cease and who would be the last contractor.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Anybody from the Ministry of Home Affairs? Next Question, Mr. Wabuge.

Question No. 240

KENYANS FORMERLY EMPLOYED IN POLICE AND POLICE DEPARTMENTS IN UGANDA

Mr. Wabuge asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House whether he was aware that some of the Kenya nationals who were affected by Uganda-nization policy were working in Uganda Police and Prison Departments and if the reply was in the affirmative, whether his Ministry had any arrangements to absorb them in his relevant Departments.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is also for the Ministry of Home Affairs. Let us go on the next question. Mr. Seroney.

Question No. 213

ETHNIC BREAKDOWN OF PUBLIC OFFICERS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Seroney not here? Your question, Mr. Mbori.

Question No. 227

KENYA COMMERCIAL BANK FACILITIES

Mr. Mbori asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House what favourable arrangements had been established by the Minister in the Kenya Commercial Bank since its inception to enable the common people in Kenya to enjoy facilities so provided, particularly those people living in the rural areas.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cherono): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. In under four months since the Kenya Commercial Bank was established, I am pleased to report that the Chairman and the General Manager have already toured many of the Bank's branches and impressed upon the local branch managers the urgent need to improve service and lending in the rural fields. I also understand that limits granted to individual branch managers to sanction facilities on their own authority have, in many cases, been increased and this, it is expected, will greatly speed up the decision-making process in rural branches when they are approached for facilities by their local customers.

However, I would like to inform the hon. Member that there is still much to be done not only in the field of rural lending but the whole field of increased lending to the indigenous people. As I have already said, it is necessary to change the attitudes of the lending organizations and I am satisfied that the Kenya Commercial Bank is now moving in the right direction and with maximum speed.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from that lengthy reply given by the Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, will he tell the House—very definitely—when his Ministry will consider it necessary to make these Banks to grant lending facilities to wananchi?

Mr. Cherono: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am surprised to hear the hon. Member say that my answer was too long. As a matter of fact I think it was just about adequate.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have already indicated in the answer to the question what my Ministry was doing. We think that, although the hon. Member may not be satisfied, we are not suggesting that we have reached the position which we think is satisfactory. But I think we are doing so at a speed which we think is considerable.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware of the fact that though the local branch manager is supposed to know the local people who could be credit worthy whenever he is approached by a local person wanting these facilities, from time to time, the branch manager says, "No, I have to refer this matter to Nairobi", and of course, Nairobi being far away from the localities, the people in Nairobi do not know the habits of the local people? What is he now doing to instruct the local people to finalize this matter with branch managers instead of dealing with the head offices here in Nairobi?

Mr. Cherono: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought I mentioned, when I was replying to this question, that we are quite aware of what the hon. Member is referring to. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is the reason why, after the Chairman of the Kenya Commercial Bank and the General Manager had toured several branches throughout the country they did act on that point, as a result of which the branch managers have been given increased powers. They have been given increased powers, Mr. Speaker, and authority to grant loans. As I understand the maximum they could grant previously was Sh. 50,000 but now they can grant as much as Sh. 100,000. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is quite a considerable improvement on the position, making it unnecessary for the branch managers to refer matters to their head offices in Nairobi.

Question No. 229

MONEY COLLECTED BY MERU COUNTY COUNCIL

Mr. Muthamia asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he would tell the House—

- (a) how much tax had been collected by the Meru County Council during the years 1968, 1969 and 1970;
- (b) what, if any, was the percentage decrease per year, and what was the cause of this decrease.

The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Cherono): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I assume, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that in this question, when the hon. Member asks how much tax was collected he means graduated personal tax. If he did include area rates or cess or any land rate, I am afraid I do not have that information with me and it will take a longer time to produce it. However, I will answer that question on the assumption that he means graduated personal tax.

(a) In 1968 and 1969, Meru County Council collected £165,832 and £142,096.11 respectively. In 1970—as hon. Members will recollect—graduated personal tax became Government revenue and the Provincial Administration collected £92,182 in Meru District.

(b) The percentage decrease in 1969 was 14 per cent and 1970 showed a 35 per cent decrease on the 1969 collection. The cause of the 1969 decrease was the assumption by tax-payers of the lowest rate of Sh. 2 that they no longer had to pay it after the Budget Speech in June 1969. The abolition of the lowest rate was only effective as from 1st of January 1970. This abolition was part of the cause of the 1970 decrease. Another factor which caused the decrease was under-assessment.

Rev. Kalume: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, yesterday, during Question Time, you ruled that the question asked by hon. Munyasia could not be discussed here because he could get information; now—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You cannot ask a question like that. You can raise that after Question Time.

Mr. Muthamia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the reply given by the Assistant Minister, could he tell the House what this Ministry had done to train the assessors so that they do not under-assess or over-assess?

Mr. Cherono: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do admit that in some cases memories are short, but I can recollect that not long time ago my Minister, sitting opposite me, did indicate that he was doing something to correct the position the hon. Member is referring to and arrangements are being made to use qualified people and not in the sense of former qualifications, but competent people, as chairmen of the assessment committees. These officers will be completely impartial and will be fully instructed on the duties of assessing.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister, when he said that these officers will be very competent in the duties of assessing, could he tell the House how he will judge their competence in assessing?

Mr. Cherono: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry I did not hear the question of the hon. Member.

Mr. Araru: Mr. Speaker, I am referring to what the Assistant Minister said, when he said that these officers will be impartial and that they will be the chairmen of the assessment committees. How will he know that they are impartial, and what guarantee can he give the House that they will be so?

Mr. Cherono: Mr. Speaker, this is a human situation and I do not know how we can be expected to guarantee their impartiality. All we can do is to ensure that the sort of people who are appointed chairmen and members of the committees are people who, to the best of our knowledge, are men of integrity. That is all we can do.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that the members of that committee are usually the people who are ignorant and they are the type of people who hate the others and they do not assess correctly as is required?

Mr. Cheron: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is a very serious allegation for the hon. Member to make. I do admit that the machinery was not functioning satisfactorily. I also do admit that in certain cases corruption did exist, but that is no reason for condemning all the members of the committees throughout this Republic, saying that they are corrupt and ignorant. However, we have admitted that there is a case for improving this machinery and that is why we are insisting that the chairmen are people whom we consider to be competent and that the other members of these committees are people of integrity.

Question No. 241

TAX ON CERTAIN TYPES OF PROPERTY

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Kivuitu not here? Next question.

Question No. 230

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS, 1969 AND 1970

Mr. Muthamia asked the Minister for Labour whether he could tell the House—

- (a) the number of industrial accidents which were reported in 1969 and 1970;
- (b) how many of them were fatal and how many were not; and
- (c) the steps which are being taken to avoid similar accidents in future.

The Minister for Labour (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) In 1969 there were 6,482 accidents reported whereas in 1970 there were 9,851 reported accidents.

(b) In 1969, 242 accidents were fatal and 6,240 were non-fatal accidents. In 1970, the fatal accidents were 172 and 9,679 were non-fatal accidents.

(c) Our factory inspectors are entrusted with the duty of educating both employers and employees on safety methods of avoiding accidents. Not only that, Mr. Speaker; before any factory starts to operate, our inspectors go round inspecting to find out whether all safety measures have been taken. However, machinery being what it is, one or two cases just do happen and these cause accidents.

Mr. Muthamia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Minister, he has told the House that his officers are out to train the employers and the employees. Can he tell us, if these officers are training the employees and the employers outside, why there is a very big increase in accidents from 1969 to 1970; something like 4,000 accidents?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member must realize that Kenya is developing and the rate of development in Kenya means that a lot of factories are coming up every year. Some of these factories are owned by Africans who are new to the machinery. This is why there is an increase in accidents and there is going to be a bigger increase in future.

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Minister, would he tell this House what type of people are engaged by his Ministry to train the people in the factories? Are they really inspectors or are they labelled as medical assistants, or what knowledge do they have and how can we recognize them in the factory?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, this is a very funny question. How can you recognize a man in a suit, and know whether he is a police inspector or a labour inspector? What we do know is that— These people are trained inspectors from our office, but, in appearance, they look like anybody else.

An hon. Member: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply where he said that so many accidents have happened in the factories, has the Minister tried to investigate the causes of these accidents?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish I was in the same place, this afternoon, with the hon. Member; perhaps I could then understand him, but now I do not understand him at all.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Minister assure the House that, in all cases of industrial accidents, workmen's compensation is paid on time, because there are cases where the workmen's compensation is not paid for some years?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is true that these payments, which are paid to people who have had accidents and had their legs or fingers broken, have been delayed. We accept this, but this is due to many factors and we are seeing to it that this situation is improved.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Wabuge.

Hon. Members: Ah, no!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): May I remind hon. Members that it is out of order to shout, "Ah". It is disgraceful.

Question No. 239

VICTIMS OF UGANDANIZATION POLICY

Mr. Wabuge asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House, in view of the fact that Kenya nationals whose jobs had been Ugandanized are now back in Kenya and in view of the fact that most of them are living in hardship—

[Mr. Wabuge]

- (a) whether all have been registered as job-seekers and, if so, how many have been registered;
- (b) how many of the registered have been placed in employment; and
- (c) whether those who were traders in Uganda are being assisted by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry to start business out here.

The Minister for Labour (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) I am not in a position to confirm that all the Kenya nationals from Uganda were registered as job-seekers. Registration of job-seekers as hon. Members know is and was voluntary. Those Kenyans from Uganda who volunteered to go to my Labour Exchanges for registration numbered approximately 3,608. The majority of others chose to go back to the land in order to agree with Mzee's call.

(b) As we have not employed a special method of identifying these Kenyans from the other job-seekers at the time of placement it is difficult to say exactly how many of them have been placed in employment. The hon. Member can however, rest assured that quite a number of them have found employment under the same scheme.

(c) Mr. Speaker, the Ministry of Labour did and still is advising those who left Uganda and were doing their own business to approach the Ministry of Commerce and Industry and seek loans like any other persons who were already in Kenya. Since my Ministry is not the one which issues loans, it cannot tell this House how many people have been given such loans.

Mr. Wabuge: Arising from the Minister's reply, and in view of the fact that he has given us the numbers of the people who were registered and, further, he says under (b) that there are some who got employment, now, can the Minister tell this House how many people, out of the 3,608 who have been registered, have been placed in employment?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, I have said—and I hope the hon. Member will listen very carefully—that these people from Uganda came when the registration was just about to close and I had to use my powers to extend the time of registration in order to register them. The number of the people whom we registered and whom we recognized to have come from Uganda is the number I have given. After registration these people mixed with all the other Kenya fellows and went here and there to seek employment. Since we have no returns from the employers telling us "We have employed this person and he was working in Uganda", we could not get the proper number; even now we do not know. It is our hope that the majority of the people from Uganda have been employed. However, Mr. Speaker, there is one point I would like to tell the Members. Those people who were working in firms which had relations with other firms here, for example, Gailey and Roberts and Cooper Motors, we made arrangements so that they would get a transfer rather than anything else. So, these ones were employed. But the number I have mentioned consists of any other person who is just employed like myself.

Mr. O'Washika: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the Minister's answer, and since we know that many of the Kenya Nationals who came from Uganda have not been registered and they float about in large numbers in Nairobi looking for jobs, what does the Minister for Labour intend to do for these people so that they obtain employment in Nairobi since they do not have cards and when they are sent to labour offices, they are chased away?

Mr. Mwendwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is a point I want to make very clear. Whether a man came from Uganda and was employed in Uganda, the moment he landed in Kenya, he had to be treated like any other person who has no job in Kenya. We cannot give these people preference simply because they are from Uganda; we did not give them licences to go to Uganda. In the first instance, they should have got employment here.

Mr. Cheserek: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Minister for Labour, would he tell the House whether there were different registrations of Kenyans in Kenya and those from Uganda? Would he tell us whether our people from Uganda had different cards from those possessed by these in Kenya people because he says that when the people from Uganda were sent to Kenya there was still registration for Kenyans going on?

Mr. Mwendwa: I have already said that.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, would he tell this House how many of those people, who were chased from Uganda, who were business people and have come here and applied for loans to trade, have been given loans? Can the Minister tell us even one person who has been given a business loan by the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

Mr. Mwendwa: That is for the Minister of Commerce and Industry to say.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question, Mr. Kitonga.

Question No. 206

RENEWAL OF CONTRACTS: NON-CITIZEN POLICE OFFICERS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs:—

- (a) how many non-citizen police officers had renewed their contracts from 1970 up to date;
- (b) if any, whether the House would be told why they had been allowed to renew their contracts; and
- (c) whether the House would be told when these contracts would cease and who would be the last contractor.

Hon. Members: Your question is No. 207. What is wrong with you?

Mr. Kitonga: No, it is No. 206.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The Question is No. 207.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, I have two questions.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am asking you to ask the next question in the order we have been following.

Question No. 207

HOUSES FOR LOW-INCOME GROUP

Mr. Kitonga asked the Minister for Housing if he would tell the House—

- (a) when he would abolish the old colonial system of building the houses of low-income people in one residential area in various towns, particularly in Nairobi City; and
- (b) why these houses could not be built in the former European and Asian residential areas.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Mukuna): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) There is nothing colonial in building houses for low-income people in one area, and hence the question of abolishing the system does not arise. It may be of interest for the hon. Member to know that the siting of any housing scheme for any income group is determined by many factors such as: (1) Availability of land and its cost, (2) services and community facilities; for example, water, sewerage, roads, schools and their cost.

To reduce the cost of a housing unit to enable the low-income earner to pay the required rent, the land must be made available at a low price or free and the cost of services must be as low as possible. This can only be achieved by having high density areas where the cost of services are shared as much as possible.

(b) These areas are in small individual plots which are costly to obtain and the services cannot stand a high density population.

Mr. Njiru: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, Mr. Speaker, would he deny the fact that there are some areas given to some communities like the Aga Khan Community where you find that Africans cannot be allowed to live?

Mr. Mukuna: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my Ministry is not aware of such a thing, and if there is I would be very pleased if the hon. Member would let this House know and action will be taken.

Mr. Njiru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would it be in order for me to bring—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You are taking too long, Mr. Njiru. If you have no question to ask, you had better sit down.

Mrs. Onyango.

Mrs. Onyango: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister aware that in some houses, those which are low cost—the windows are so high up—in fact, you only find one window which cannot bring in fresh air, and that is why we call them the old fashion of colonialism? They are not the same.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The question is about the area. It is not about the structure but about the areas.

Mrs. Onyango: Mr. Speaker, Sir, even in those areas they are just the same. For example, the boys' quarters, the houses are three yards square—even a goat cannot enter those type of houses.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, that is quite a different question, Mrs. Onyango. Mr. Kitonga wants to know why African estates are built in certain areas and not in others. He is not questioning the structure of the buildings themselves.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Assistant Minister then tell the House what difference is there which defines the African areas, where the majority of our people live, and are the only areas where these low cost houses are built, whereas in the former Asian and European areas you cannot find low cost houses built there? This is what is meant, in our view, that certain areas are regarded for Africans; hence the colonial relic.

Mr. Mukuna: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is going to serve the Member in question well if I reply to his question and say that even in the African traditional set-up people used to live in villages where they shared a communal right.

[The Assistant Minister for Housing]

Secondly, today people can live in any area of Nairobi provided they can afford it. There is no discrimination at all.

Thirdly, because of the cost factor, people with similar incomes tend to group themselves together; for example those in shanties and slums.

The former European and Asian residential areas have a low density population. Each plot has its own services which are paid for by the owner of the plot. The people with low income cannot, therefore, afford to service these sorts of plots.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, may I know from the Assistant Minister what he means by saying that some plots are owned by individuals and are very costly. Does he mean that the Kenya Government cannot bring a Bill here so that we may reduce the cost of the land he refers to? Can he also tell us whether the services and communal facilities cannot be reduced through Government assistance?

Mr. Mukuna: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to advise my hon. friend to move a Motion in this House which the hon. Members of this House will pass and then we shall make it an Act.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mari): No, Mr. Kitonga. It is not necessary— Next question. Mr. Mulwa?

Question No. 201APROTECTION OF HINGES MANUFACTURERS

Mr. Karungaru, on behalf of Mr. Mulwa, asked the Minister for Commerce and Industry if he would tell the House—

- (a) if he was aware that a number of African owned factories, like the companies manufacturing hinges and shoe laces in the industrial estate had laid off their employees and would have to close down because of the importation of those articles into the country despite the fact that those manufacturers were protected;
- (b) if the Ministry was serious in encouraging those local industries, would see to it that the duty on imported articles, which were also locally manufactured, was raised to discourage further importation; and
- (c) why the Ministry had issued import licences for hinges when the manufacturers here had been unable to sell the ones in stock.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was going to request the hon. Questioner to declare his interest, and I would not like this question to be asked by anybody on his behalf because he has an interest in this question.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! What is that?

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): I was going to request the hon. Questioner to declare his interest before I answered the question. For that reason I do not want anybody else to ask the question unless he can—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is enough. No, it is not for you to decide who asks a question. So long as he has been asked by the Questioner to ask on his behalf, then he has every right to ask it, and yours is just to reply, Mr. Osogo, but not to say who is to ask it.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Is it not true that if a Member wants to ask a question on behalf of another Member he should wait until we have gone over all other questions?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Munyi, perhaps, has a point there. But what I said was that if it is known that a Member is going to be away, or is not likely to be in before we finish the questions, and he has asked another Member to ask on his behalf we do not have to wait because there is no point doing so. He will still have to ask somebody else to ask, and that is why there is no need to wait.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could I now ask the Minister to tell this House to what degree, according to his interpretation of the interest, he requires the Questioner to declare?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, I thought you have ruled that the hon. Member should ask the question. He is now asking a supplementary question before the question is asked.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Karungaru did not ask the question and Mr. Osogo did not even begin replying.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to ask the Minister for Commerce and Industry to reply to Question No. 201.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, I would insist that the hon. Questioner declares interest on behalf of the person for whom he is asking the question. I want him to declare the person's interest in this question before I answer it.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Osogo, I know this is not the first time you have tried to be difficult. There is no point here. What you can do is to rise on a point of order later on when the Member is here and ask him to declare his interest, or to substantiate whatever it is you have in mind. But you cannot say that because he is not here and as he has not declared his interest you are not going to answer. It is still open to you to do that when you see him, but the House is interested in this question. It is now the property of the House and it is not his property.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): The answer to this question, Mr. Speaker, will have a lot of bearing on whatever interest the Questioner is going to declare because he has asked a direct question for protection. I wanted him to declare whether he has any interest in the companies he is referring to or not so that I can give him a definite answer.

Mr. Speaker, I would request that you put this question off until he is present, please.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I will show you the way out, Mr. Osogo. Since it is clear you believe or you know he has some interest, in the course of replying you can point that out to the House.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Well, I hope when I point it out to the House, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Questioner will be able to help us in this. Mr. Speaker—

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think there is an important point, Sir, that it is for you to guide the House because the Minister is saying that since the hon. Questioner has some interest in the company— Has he no right to ask questions about his companies in this House? Could you guide us on this matter because it is a serious matter concerning us?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, Mr. Osogo is quite right to point that out if he knows this, or if he believes it is true that the Questioner has some personal interest. It is quite in order to demand that he should declare his interest. Unfortunately, he is not here. So, that cannot be done, but that is not to say that because of that and because somebody else has some interest he cannot ask a question. He can ask, provided that he is prepared to declare his interest.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Speaker, it has been the practice of this House that whoever asks a question, if he has any interest in it, he declares it so that the records are put correct. This has been done for the seven years I have been in this House, anyway.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The Ministry is fully aware that the new African industrialists in the Kenya Industrial Estates Limited are experiencing some difficulties in selling their products owing to foreign competition, but the Ministry is doing all it can to eliminate such disruptive competition.

As far as the protection of locally made hinges is concerned, the Ministry has banned the importation of all types of hinges except T-hinges which are not produced locally.

Similarly, the Ministry has imposed a ban on imports of all types of shoe laces which are similar to the ones which are produced locally.

(b) Raising the rates of customs duties on competing imports is not a solution to the problem because there are very many people in this country who still believe that imported goods are superior in quality to the locally made goods and are therefore prepared to pay any price for such imported goods. That is why the Ministry has decided to ban such imports instead of raising the tariff. Once a ban has been imposed, there is no need for a tariff increase.

(c) Some licences to import hinges were issued by mistake and when the mistake was detected, the licences were promptly cancelled.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would now like to point out that the hon. Questioner of this question owns a company, or is a shareholder of a company that manufactures shoe laces and he is also the said company's advocate.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has disclosed in this House that his Ministry had issued licences by mistake, are we made to understand that there are many licences which have been issued in the same way by mistake?

Mr. Osogo: No, Sir, but when the licensing officer was on leave the acting licensing officer did not know about the ban which I had imposed on hinges and so, by mistake, because he was acting and there were many licences for him to deal with, he issued a certain licence which was cancelled immediately the mistake was detected. Unfortunately, and I would like to make this clear to the House, the licence had been given to an African, who apparently had sold this licence to an Asian who imported the hinges. However, the African in question was too shy to go and tell the Asian in question that the licence had been cancelled, although the letter to cancel the licence was addressed to the man we had licensed, who was an African. So the hinges were imported but they have been lying in the customs depot for the last three months and I intend to destroy them!

Mr. Wanjagi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister, as he says, has discovered that the African licensee sold his licence, or transferred his licence to an Asian, what steps has he taken to penalize that African and withdraw the said licence and give it to another African?

Mr. Osogo: I think I should state that I do not have the evidence of the selling. I am sorry it was a slip of the tongue that I said, "Selling"; nevertheless, the licence was, "transferred" to an Asian. The only penalty we can impose is refusal of delivery of the hinges, which we have done up to this time.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 212

AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE EXCHANGES

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister for Power and Communications if he would tell the House—

- (a) when automatic telephone exchanges would be provided in Eldoret, Kitale and Nandi Hills township;
- (b) whether he was aware that requests in respect of some of these towns had been pending for more than 12 years;
- (c) why it was that small trading centres in the other sister states of the East African Community enjoyed the service of automatic telephone exchanges while large towns with municipal status in Kenya like Eldoret and Kitale had to put up with vague promises for years on end.

The Assistant Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Onamu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I wish to inform this House that provision of automatic telephone exchanges is dictated by the commercial needs of the same, Kenya Development Plan and the availability of funds for such service.

In pursuance of this policy, automatic telephone equipment has been ordered for use in Eldoret and Kericho. Work to extend the Eldoret Post Office to accommodate the equipment has already started and it is hoped that it will be completed early next year.

Kitale and Nandi Hills townships will have to wait for their turn in accordance with the established policy.

I am not aware that these requests have been pending for almost 12 years.

With regard to the alleged existence of automatic telephone exchanges at small trading centres in neighbouring states, I am afraid I can only speak of Kenya.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister saying that he is not aware that both Eldoret and Kitale have been asking for automatic exchanges since 1968?

Mr. Onamu: I am not aware, Sir.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is he aware of the fact that both these places are very far from Nairobi and Mombasa, and therefore they deserve an automatic exchange in order to speed up provision of telephone services?

Mr. Onamu: Yes, I am aware, but I have said that they will have their turn later.

Mr. Seroney: Can Assistant Minister tell us, according to the Ministry's plan, when Kitale and Nandi Hills could expect automatic exchanges?

Mr. Onamu: I would not like to commit myself just now.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 224

ADMISSION OF PUPILS TO SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Mr. Mbori asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House—of the 4,000 pupils who were granted admission in secondary schools in 1971, after 1970 Certificate of Primary Education—

- (a) why there could not be a higher percentage of the 10,000 pupils to join Form 1, in 1971;
- (b) the breakdown of the 4,000 entries by provinces;
- (c) the breakdown by sex.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I have no such figure of "4,000 pupils" in my office.

(a) There is a higher percentage of the 100,000 pupils to join Form 1.

(b) I cannot have a breakdown of a figure that I cannot lay my hands on.

(c) I cannot have a breakdown of 4,000 pupils as per sex because I do not have such a figure in my office.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am surprised that the Minister has refused to give the House the correct answer because I have the breakdown here.

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member is claiming that he has this figure, and this figure exists in Kenya, I would like him to tell me from where he got the figure because my figure is 43,000 and not 4,000.

Mr. Mbori: Arising from the Minister's reply, can he agree with me that this was misquoted from his office?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member got that figure from my office, I would like to know the officer who gave him that figure.

Question No. 206

RENEWAL OF CONTRACTS: NON-CITIZEN POLICE OFFICERS

Mr. Kitonga asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House—

- (a) the number of non-citizen police officers who had renewed their contracts from 1970 up to that date;
- (b) if any, why they were allowed to renew their contracts;
- (c) when these contracts would cease and who would be the last contractor.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) Since the end of 1970, only one non-citizen police officer has signed a contract with the Government, and that was his first contract after retirement. The contract was signed in February 1971, and the officer is an Assistant Commissioner of Police.

(b) Only when an officer's service is essential is he engaged on contract.

(c) The contract I have already referred to is for two years and will therefore expire in February 1973.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, can the Assistant Minister tell the House what necessitated the renewal of the contract of the Assistant Commissioner of Police he has just mentioned? What are the essential duties being done by this officer—who is a mzungu—he has just referred to?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we agreed to take him back because we felt he was essential to the services of this Republic.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, can he tell this House whether amongst the people working in the police force there is an African with the same qualifications as this European?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to generalize. There are some Africans who are doing the jobs of Europeans. However, in this particular case, the job that this man is doing at the moment—we need him for it and we shall need him for the next two years.

Mr. Lotodo: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that the Ministry has found fit to have the Assistant Commissioner of Police for another two years because of the essential duties he is doing, can he tell us which are these essential duties he is doing?

Mr. Matano: They are duties which concern you and me.

Mr. Munyasia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that there are some Africans who can man the duties being done by this mzungu, does he agree with me that he is trying to refuse an African to become the Deputy Commissioner of Police when the top senior officer is an African? If that is the case, why should the middle man be denied his rights?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member got me right he would have heard I said that there were Africans who were doing the duties which were held by Europeans before. However, this particular man for the duties he is doing, we still need his services. This is the reason why we extended his work permit for the next two years.

Question No. 240

KENYANS FORMERLY EMPLOYED IN POLICE AND PRISON DEPARTMENTS IN UGANDA

Mr. Wabuge asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs whether he was aware that some of the Kenya nationals who were affected by Ugandanization policy were working in Uganda Police and Prison Departments; and if the reply was in affirmative, he would tell the House whether his Ministry had any arrangements to absorb them in his relevant departments.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, the Ministry is aware and just before the recent developments in that country arrangements were being made, in consultation with the Inspector-General of the Uganda Police, to interview these officers with a view to selecting those found suitable for transfer to the Kenya Police Force.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, can he tell this House how many Kenyans have been absorbed into the Kenya Police Force as a result of his consultation with the Inspector-General of Uganda Police?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not have figures to show exactly how many people have been absorbed into our Kenya Police but I know that negotiations were going on and they are still going on. A few Kenyans have been taken on, and there are others who are still on the waiting list and they were still coming in; however, at the moment things have changed a bit and the future is not quite clear, but the process is still going on.

Mr. Araru: Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply that a few have been absorbed into the Kenya Police Force, can he assure this House that these officers who have been taken on have retained their rank and salary scales?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we consider each case on its own merit. There are some who come here and if we see that they fit into the way we are doing things here in Kenya, we take them in, but there are others whom we feel need a year or two before they can qualify. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I had said earlier on that, each case is considered on its own merit and separately.

Mr. Wabuge: Bearing in mind that the Uganda Police and the Kenya Police received training during the colonial period and the standards in the two forces were the same, can he tell this House why the Kenya Government insists on interviewing these people, realizing that the standards under which they were trained were the same? Why does the Government not take them in just as they are?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we are now seven years' old and during those seven years we have changed several things which are perhaps different from the things being done in Uganda or in other countries in Africa. Ours is a sovereign State: we have our own Republic to look after and therefore we have our own standards and when these standards coincide, we accept these people. However, where we feel that we must use a different yardstick to measure the standards, we are at liberty to do so.

Question No. 213

ETHNIC BREAKDOWN OF PUBLIC OFFICERS

Mr. Seroney asked the Minister of State, President's Office—

- (a) whether he would give an ethnic breakdown for Nairobi and each province of provincial commissioners, deputy provincial commissioners, senior district commissioners, district commissioners, district officers one, district officers and district assistants; and
- (b) what steps, if any, the Government was taking to rectify the ethnic imbalance in the provincial administration.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I answer I would like the hon. Member to apologize because he was not in when he was supposed to ask this question. In any case I pardon him. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Recruitment of the civil servants is not done on ethnic grounds. It is always based on qualifications and merit. The Government does not keep records of officers ethnically. All civil servants are considered as a group and as Kenyans. There does not, therefore, arise any question of rectifying the so-called imbalance.

I would like to add that if the hon. Member has any qualified people whom he thinks ought to join the provincial administration, would he please tell them to apply to the Public Service Commission for appointment.

Mr. Murgor: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to seek your guidance here; very often questions are asked in this House on the same lines and we have been told that sometimes, for security reasons, such questions cannot be answered, or sometimes we are told that civil servants are not grouped ethnically; however, can the Assistant Minister tell us, today, why this is so because we know exactly what the hon. Members in this House want to know? This is an exercise which is going on and there is nobody who seems to think about it and try to correct it. However, this thing is still going on and this imbalance is growing more because one side is receiving more weight while on the other side weight is decreasing. Can the Assistant Minister tell us what is wrong in giving us a breakdown? Every time we ask this we are told, "No", or sometimes someone tries to evade the answer. Can he tell us for how long we are going to continue asking for this breakdown?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is not for me to direct a Minister how he should reply to questions. We have had this kind of case several times before and at times a breakdown is given and at another time it is not given. It is up to the hon. Members to press for a reply. However, I cannot force a Minister to give a breakdown.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, reading my question as put down, has the Assistant Minister really answered my question because I have not asked what the Government policy is, but I asked for facts and figures or information? Under our Standing Orders, unless it is a very great secret, in which case the Minister is not bound to reply, I am entitled to insist that the Minister answers my question because I have not asked my question in the way he has answered. I am still waiting for my question to be answered.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to tell the hon. Member that I am also following the Standing Orders. Mr. Speaker, Sir, what the hon. Member has asked is what I have just answered. I would like to give the difference between the system followed during the colonial time and the one followed now. During the period immediately after independence people who had no degrees could, Mr. Speaker, Sir, jump from, say, one low rank to another very high rank. However, now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the situation has changed. We now have the Public Service Commission through which everything regarding recruitment of these officers is channelled. If one wants to apply for a vacancy which has been advertised either in the Official Gazette or in the newspapers, Sir, one has to do so in the normal way. I have already answered that question, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

Mr. Ogingo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what the hon. Member who asked the question wants is for the Minister to give the House the breakdown, ethnically, of these people who are in the service; we do not want the procedure followed in recruiting them and the rest of it.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, the question—especially the first part—requires numbers showing the ethnic origin of these officers. It has nothing to do with the method of selection. What is required is that, say, you state: there are so many “X” provincial commissioners, “B”, “C”, “D” and so on.

Mr. Munyi: Then, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not true that all the hon. Member would like to know is how many—which is different—posts of provincial commissioners we have in Kenya and also how many posts of district commissioners we have in Kenya?

Hon. Members: No! No!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, there is a difference— Order! Order! There is a difference between a Minister clearly stating that he is not prepared to give the information required and evading the question. However, what hon. Seroney and other hon. Members want to get is an acknowledgement that what the question is asking you is to give figures of ethnic origins. It is up to you to decide whether to give it or not. However, that is the information you are being asked for and has nothing to do with the total numbers of provincial commissioners or district commissioners.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like, for the information of the House, to remind the hon.

Member that the forms, which required a candidate to give the name of his tribe were abolished and do not exist. All one is asked to do is simply declare he is a Kenya citizen; that is all that is required. You simply have to say that I am a Kenya citizen and I come from such-and-such a place; the tribe is not sought. The word “tribe”, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is similar to “ethnic”. Therefore, “ethnic” or “tribal” is the same word. Those forms which sought tribal origin are no longer there, Mr. Speaker, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! Mr. Wabuge, what is your point of order?

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I am dealing with a point of order.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point of order is this: What happens when the Speaker has given a ruling, like the one you have given directing the Minister what he has to do, and he defies your ruling and goes on to say other things; what happens here, Sir? You have given a ruling but he is not obeying your ruling; what are we left with, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, this was not the kind of ruling which is mandatory. It was a direction; I was just showing him what kind of reply is expected from him. However, it is not the first time we have had an occasion like this from the same hon. Minister.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): However, the issue is there and Mr. Seroney can decide how to follow it up. Now, we go on to the next question.

Question No. 241

TAXES ON CERTAIN TYPES OF PROPERTY

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Kivuitu not here? All right, we will go on to questions by Private Notice.

(Question dropped)

RENEWAL OF WORK PERMIT NO. 774

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Before we go on to the questions, I would like to point out that the first question, which is Mr. D. M. Kioko's question, I understand that the Vice-President is to reply to it but he is coming a little later. He has asked that the question appear on the Order Paper tomorrow.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not trying to dispute your ruling regarding the information you have had. However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is the fourth day that this question has been called in this House. It was suspended for two days last week and today is the second time, within the second week, the question has appeared on the Order Paper. Now, Sir, a question by Private Notice, according to our Standing Orders, is supposed to be answered within 48 hrs.; how is it that the answer is still not available?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What I understand is that the Vice-President would like to reply to it himself, personally. He has said he will do this tomorrow. I know he is away from Nairobi. So we will wait until tomorrow and see what happens.

(Question deferred)

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

ARREST OF PEOPLE AT HILL CREST ESTATE FOR TRESPASS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Anyone authorized to ask Mr. Kivuitu's question?

Mr. Karungaru: Yes, Sir, I have been authorized to ask it.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I do not think you have been authorized. However, ask Mr. Mulwa's question.

(Question dropped)

DETERIORATION OF RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE EXECUTIVE AND THE LEGISLATURE

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of the Member for Makueni, I beg to ask the Minister of State, President's Office, the following question by Private Notice:—

Since it is evident that the harmonious relationship which should prevail between the executive and the legislature is deteriorating, could the Minister seek the sanction of this House to establish a committee to inquire into the problem and make the necessary recommendations?

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I am not aware that relationship between the executive and the legislature has deteriorated. It is not deteriorating and, to the contrary, the relationship is still very harmonious.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, Government is headed by the President, with the Vice-President and the Cabinet of the Republic of Kenya. This is the executive. We are one party, Kanu, headed by the head of executive. If the hon. Member is saying that the relationship between the Parliament and our beloved President, Vice-President, and the Cabinet is deteriorating, the onus is on him to say in what manner this has taken place. Let him produce evidence without using, with all due respect, the word "we". Let the person who raised this question give us evidence that this is the case.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the reply from the Minister, can the Minister deny the fact that there is actually the so-called "inner Cabinet" and the other normal Cabinet, and this is common knowledge to the people of this country? This division, Sir, has led to this state of affairs where, in fact, in this House several questions have been asked, and Government has deliberately refused even to divulge the answers as we have just seen from one of the Assistant Ministers.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, we are drifting too far. Let us confine ourselves to the question. You cannot introduce a different matter, as you are doing, Mr. Mutiso. That is not really connected with the question.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister deny the fact that during the course of time we were debating a matter related to what Mr. Gachathi had written to the university, there were a lot of things which were said by the Members of this House, and that was the time when the Minister was out of this House and that is why he is unable to understand the state of affairs facing us because the following day the said Permanent Secretary replied to the matter?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I emphatically deny that. This Parliament, with all due respect to the hon. Member, was actually opened by the President on 6th February 1970; and now it is only one year from the 6th February 1970. Now, the Member who raised this question is the one who has to prove how the relationship between Members of this House—on one hand, as the legislature, and on the other hand as the law-makers—has deteriorated as opposed to the relationship between the head of our party—the Head of the Government and its Cabinet; it is he, who has to prove.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No. What Mr. Karungaru was asking does not really introduce the Cabinet in this; he was talking about the relations between the Members of Parliament and the civil servants. That is why he quoted the case of the debate which was held here. He confined himself to that.

Perhaps Mr. Koinange would like to reply to that; it has nothing to do with the Cabinet.

POINT OF ORDER

QUESTIONS SHOULD NOT BE BASED ON AN OPINION

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order,

[The Assistant Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Sir,— Just a small point of order, Sir, because we have to deal with these questions, in this Parliament, which are an expression of opinion.

Now, Sir, the Minister says that in his opinion, as distinct from the opinion of the Member who asked the question, the matter is not what is alleged. Mr. Speaker, we are faced with a problem: how do we proceed when the question, itself, is a matter of opinion and the Minister has another opinion because no facts are alleged or stated? I do get confused because these questions have become very common?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No. Our Standing Orders do not allow us to ask questions, or to put questions which ask for expressions of opinions. That is definite, but it is not what the supplementary question by Mr. Karungaru asked. The supplementary question by Mr. Karungaru has actually given the grounds on which he maintains that there is this friction. He has pointed out, as an example, the debate which went on here. So, he is not expressing an opinion. He is using that as a fact.

RESUMPTION OF REPLIES TO QUESTION BY PRIVATE NOTICE

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): I agree with you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I am saying that the Questioner said that the prevailing relationship between the executive on one hand, and the legislature on the other hand—now, Sir, the executive uses the civil servants to implement what this House actually passes as law and they all work together.

Now, the question is: if one single person, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect, in the process of passing, or actually executing what this House has done—as human beings, if one single person or two people out of 10 million people or even 10,000 members of the Civil Service, commit an offence—one commits a crime—we must not use that to constitute the deterioration of relations between the executive and the legislature.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! Order! I think there is a misunderstanding here. My impression is that the Member who asked this question was genuinely interested in finding a solution to what has become more or less apparent from the speeches made here. I do not think he was using that one particular case which was brought here as his ground because that was a case which is being dealt with separately.

However, as Mr. Karungaru said some Members, probably, were unhappy about some of the statements made here, which indicated clearly that there was this friction; but I do not think we are getting very far on this, and our time is over anyway.

Let us hear your point of order, Mr. Mwithaga.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would I not be in order to believe that the question as it stands aimed at no question where the executive—as far as the part of the President and his Cabinet are concerned—would come in, but the intention was regarding the executive, which means the Civil Service, and the deterioration was between them and Parliament and that the Minister is now invoking other personalities and the Cabinet into this matter?

An hon. Member: Yes, you are right!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, it is just a question of interpreting the use of the words “executive” and “legislature” in this form. Obviously, it could include “executive” as the Cabinet, the President and so on; “legislature” as Members of Parliament, the National Assembly and so on. However, I think what the Questioner had in mind was the Members of Parliament versus the Civil Service. It seems that the way the reply was prepared took it that this was confrontation between the “Executive” (in capital) and the “Legislature” (in capital) which includes much more than the Civil Service as such.

So, we will go on now. Next Order.

POINTS OF ORDER

QUESTIONS, THE ANSWERS TO WHICH ARE READILY AVAILABLE IN OFFICIAL PUBLICATIONS ETC.—OUT OF ORDER

Rev. Kalume: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir; I stood earlier on a point of order when we reached question No. 229 and I was asked to sit down before I had made my point.

My point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, was that it was only yesterday when you ruled that if an hon. Member could get information from the Ministry concerned, and if that question was not of national importance, then he should consult the Ministry concerned and not bring the matter here in the House. Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in question No. 229, we have a similar case where someone has asked about the tax collected in the years, 1968, 1969 and 1970. Therefore, did you think that this was of national importance? Could the Member concerned not get the information required from the Ministry instead of bringing such a question here?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, I wish the Members would note what Rev. Kalume has said because it would help so much if the Members took the trouble to find out some of these things outside the House.

Mr. Araru, I hope you still want to remain in the Chamber; so, you had better just listen.

Quite often we have questions asked about which, with a little more effort on the part of the questioner, information could be obtained. As I said, I know, politically, it is satisfying to have a question asked publicly and be recorded, especially if it appears in the Press. However, we really take so much time on matters which could be sorted out easily. Therefore, I should, perhaps, also take this opportunity of putting one point straight. When Mr. Kalume stood up to speak he referred to Mr. Munyasia's question, and this reminded me of a point I made here, that if, according to our Standing Orders, something is easily obtainable from works of reference, then our Standing Orders do not allow us to ask such thing here. That still holds but in that particular respect I have thought about this and perhaps I required a bit too much in the sense that the records of the Registrar of Societies and so forth are not really readily available as such.

The kind of things which apply to this Standing Orders should be things like something you can refer to from a dictionary, an encyclopaedia, an atlas or from documents which are available to Members, like the Official Gazette, HANSARD and that kind of thing. It does not mean that if you went to an office and you asked for a document, and by paying Sh. 4 you could inspect it, then, therefore, it is readily available, it is not.

Let us get that straight now.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Sir, I thank you very much for this ruling, because I was under the impression that Government would make a fortune out of this. If 170 Members had to go to the Attorney-General's Chambers and each spent Sh. 4 to see the said Constitution, that department of Government would make a fortune.

Now, Sir, since this is not available and it is only available once you pay the sum of Sh. 4, would it not be in order, for the information of the House, that the document is laid on the Table, and then it is circulated for the Members to see?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You see, you have to justify why that must be done in this particular case, not in all other cases. All you could do, and what I thought Mr. Munyasia would do, is to follow up and try to point out what was contained in that document, if he wanted Members to know. However, to ask that a document be brought from a certain office and laid on this Table is asking too much because we have not asked for other papers to be brought from offices to be laid on the Table here.

TIME GIVEN FOR PRODUCTION OF PROMISED SUBSTANTIATION

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, a few days ago a certain Member, hon. Mr. Mohamed, made a very serious allegation, saying that a certain District Commissioner, Garissa, beat people on the streets. The Assistant Minister from the President's Office denied that. The hon. Member said he would produce documents, P3, to prove that these people were beaten on the streets by the district commissioner.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have been waiting for these documents to be laid on the Table. I have been waiting for a long time and I am getting very impatient. I am sure that the people at large are just as keen to know the truth of the matter.

I wonder whether it is in order, Sir, now to ask the hon. Member to lay these documents on the Table?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mohamed, what have you to say?

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, although I told the House that I would bring evidence to this House, the police Department had already opened an inquiry file and the P3 forms are in the file. If the P3 forms are required, then the Minister concerned can be asked to produce them because the Police Department will not allow me to take them.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order!

No, Mr. Mohamed, you promised you would bring those documents here. Obviously you must have had reason to believe you could get them.

So, will you try and see what you can do about that, failing which you will have to come and apologize to the House.

VOICE OF KENYA'S MISREPORT—REMEDY

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to point to the House and the Voice of Kenya. Yesterday, I answered a question here saying, "I" and I said "Yes". However, later that evening, on the broadcast it was all things I never said. I would like to know where the information comes from which was put out on the Voice of Kenya. It affects both the House and the Voice of Kenya. They said a lot of things that I never said.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order!

First of all, I did not listen, so I cannot say I know exactly what was said.

However, what you can do is to get the Voice of Kenya to put things right. This is a department of the Government and taking into account that Mr. Towett is a Minister of the Government, and whatever he says or he is reported to have said, carries a lot of weight, he should be correctly reported.

I think, Mr. Towett, you have to get the Voice of Kenya to put things right.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): I have more to add to this.

Usually, Mr. Speaker, there is a written answer that is given to a Member. If I come here and I do not read this written answer but I reply briefly, as I did yesterday, are the members of the Press to take what was written out and handed to a Member or what I said in the House? What is the procedure?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think we are taking too much time here.

If you are complaining that somebody got hold of a reply you had given to a Member and reproduced it, then that is a different matter. After all, when you gave that reply it was assumed that you were prepared to make it public. I do not think it was intended to be secret. So there was no harm done.

The Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Dr. Onyonka): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I would like to inform the hon. Minister that, although we have not communicated this to him already, action has been taken on this matter. I would suggest, therefore, that he get in touch with us.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We must go on now.

COMMITTEE OF SUPPLY

(Order for Committee read)

MOTION

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATE NO. 1 OF 1970/71— DEVELOPMENT

THAT a sum not exceeding K£15,315,163 be granted from the Consolidated Fund to meet expenditure during the year ending 30th June 1971, in respect of Development Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71.

(The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning on 30th March 1971)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 30th March 1971)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. arap Choge was speaking.

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. arap Choge): Mr. Speaker, when I was caught by time yesterday I was speaking on sugar development in the Kano Plains and the Nandi areas; those areas are Chemase and Kibigori. I am very grateful for what the Minister for Agriculture is doing in the area on the side of road development. However, I would like this extended to the top of Nandi Escarpment where the soil is very fertile and sugar-cane from that area is better than that grown in the Plains below the Escarpment. I would like to see the Minister do something about that.

The other thing I would like to touch on, Mr. Speaker, in the area is the question of the German loans because the Germans, from Chemelil factory, usually give loans in the form of digging the shambas for the people as also preparing the roads in the area. But they dig the shambas of the Nandi in Chemase area in blocks and you find that the estimate of the acreage of a shamba is about 10 acres per block, whereas it is really 5 acres. So, when it comes to the time of paying for the loan, the people find themselves paying more than the amount spent by the Germans, who gave the loan, gave them. I would like the Minister for Agriculture to look into this and probably tell his officers in the area to visit and hear the complaints from the people on the spot.

[The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services]

I would like also to say something about an important point which is mentioned in the Supplementary Estimates: plant breeding in Njoro and Kitale research stations. These stations are doing a very important job, raising the grass seeds for the farmers in Kenya. However, I would have liked the Minister for Finance as well as the Minister for Agriculture to give them more funds because they are doing a very important job. When they import grass seeds from places like Australia, I think this is a mere waste of money if our own chaps in Kenya can do something as to raising of grass seeds in this country. There is a kind of grass known as Destimodium Clover and I think it could easily be raised in Kitale, and we could get enough seed. The farmers could get a lot of seeds from Kitale. Unfortunately, however, we do not get enough seeds from Kitale and I see that many of the farmers in Kenya import, usually, seeds from Australia. I would like to see this thing discouraged and farmers should not be encouraged to go on importing the seeds that they can raise from grass research stations at the above-mentioned research stations.

I must say something about Foot-and-Mouth disease compulsory vaccination. I thank the Minister, and I think this should be encouraged by all the Members in this House, the county council and area council members who are in touch with people. This is a very dangerous disease and when it is prevalent in a district the ordinary farmer cannot sell his sheep, goats or cows to enable him to get money to pay for Harambee projects in the area, to pay for school fees. This farmer has to sell some of the animals in order to get money to pay the school fees for his children. When however, this disease comes up, Mr. Speaker, it becomes a discouragement to farming in the area. We who come from areas where the people keep a lot of cattle are very much in trouble when this disease is prevalent. So I say that every Member in this House should encourage compulsory vaccination against Foot-and-Mouth disease.

The importation of German heifers into national agricultural research stations usually takes a lot of time. They have to find out whether the animals can thrive in the area or not. I feel, however, having imported these animals from Germany would not be enough, they should also carry out experiments in regard to importation of animals from other overseas countries. We are very short of dairy cows in Kenya. Although this mistake was made by the white man, who ran away from here after Uhuru in fear, the farmers sold a lot of valuable animals to the Kenya Meat Commission and destroyed most of the other animals. I think what the Ministry of Agriculture is doing here is very important, in importing dairy cows into our research stations and carrying out experiments to make sure that these animals can thrive here or can make good dairy cows for Kenya. The experiments should be carried out on a large scale and probably with more species from different overseas countries. We are short of good dairy cows in Kenya. I am very grateful to the Minister and I would like to see most of these animals imported from overseas countries for more experiments.

Now I come to the National Irrigation Board who are going to get about £50,000 as a grant for Ahero Pilot Scheme. The rice seed from this area, I do not think, is the kind of seed that can do very well. You find there are many people who complain they do not want the local rice and would prefer the imported rice to the one grown in this area. I would urge that the Ministry of Agriculture look for the seed that was planted along the shores of Lake Victoria in the old colonial days, because that is the seed that did very well and the people liked that type of rice. However, for the rice that is grown in this area, we have had a lot of complaints and even I, myself have also complained about the type of rice that is raised from this place.

The other thing, Mr. Speaker, I would also like to mention is the tarmacking of the road from Eldoret to Kisumu, which has just stopped at Kapsabet, that is the tarmac road. The traffic between Eldoret and Kapsabet is not actually greater than the traffic between Kapsabet and Kisumu and we would like to see the road going through Kapsabet, up to Chavakali, so that the people from Eldoret, via Kapsabet, will enjoy the good road, through or on their way to Kisumu.

The other thing I would also like to mention is our secondary schools, which I mentioned some time ago—the allocation of secondary schools. We would like to see, Mr. Speaker, the Minister for Education allocating more secondary schools, even if it means it will be done in terms of population. During this Financial Year, we had about three secondary schools, and when you put the secondary schools in Rift Valley together with those in Nyanza and Western Province, they come to about ten, whereas one province has about eight secondary schools, and others have more. We end, therefore, Mr. Speaker, by finding that the students who did very well in the Rift Valley—in Kericho and Nandi areas, who had about 28 points, 25 points, 24 points, did not find Form I places to do their secondary school education. Instead, the students in Nairobi and some other places, with 18 points or less, find places in secondary schools. I would, therefore, urge the Minister to see it, that the next Financial Year, we are not forgotten as was done during this Financial Year.

The other thing I would like to mention, Mr. Speaker, is on recruitment into the police force. When the police recruiting officers go round, when they visit district headquarters, it is no good asking girls from Nandi District to come all the way to Nakuru in order to be recruited into the police force, and yet the recruiting team had been in Kapsabet and Eldoret. There was no need to ask these girls to come to Nakuru, in order—I do not know what they wanted them to do in Nakuru because they had already been interviewed at Eldoret and Kapsabet. This system should stop because those girls could not find enough money to come to Nakuru to see the recruiting team again and whatever reason they wanted them to come to that place I cannot tell.

The other thing, Mr. Speaker, I have in mind is self-help projects, which have already been initiated by the wananchi, for which they have received aid from us, from Ministers, Assistant Ministers and various organizations. It would be better if the Ministry would also consider taking up some of these self-help projects.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I have—Order! I have a feeling that what Mr. arap Choge is talking about is not really contained in Supplementary Estimates; you have to confine yourself to the Supplementary Estimates. I think you are still out of order in what you are doing—You are now debating the whole issue as if we are dealing with the Budget debate. You must confine yourself to what we are dealing with here. Most of what you were saying is not specifically within the limits of this Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. arap Choge): Mr. Speaker, I had, anyway, come to the end of my speech. Thank you very much for your guidance.

I think, Mr. Speaker, I have mentioned the very important points which I had in mind and I hope that the Minister will also consider them when he comes to reply to the Motion.

Thank you, Sir.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much for having given me this opportunity.

In the first place, what I want to say on this Paper—It contains good things, and that in most cases it touches on projects which we, in this country, want. It is true that, Mr. Speaker, we do not want to stand in the way of development. Every person in this country wants development, and because of this we feel that any paper coming in this House for development should be supported by the House. However, Sir, having said that, it does not mean that any document or any Supplementary Estimates or Development Estimates brought here, should be supported just like that; we have to scrutinize everything.

As I have said, Mr. Speaker, this is not a good paper. In my opinion, Mr. Speaker, it is like poison coated with sugar; in other words, this paper contains a lot of things which every Member, looking at it, would make him say it is a good; but in my opinion, Sir, it is not. There are some items in this paper which, Sir, involve policy matters, which we feel should be brought separately rather than bringing them together with the Development Estimates. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, without wasting my time, I would like to refer to page 48, where it talks of purchases of shares in the East African Oil Refineries Limited. Now, here, Mr. Speaker, the House is being requested to vote over £3 million in order to pay or purchase shares in this company. Now, it appears to me, Mr. Speaker, that this House is being used as a rubber stamp. The agreement has been concluded; it has been signed, and now they are rushing with this document here asking us to ratify the agreement. In my opinion, Sir, before money is voted, we must know what are the terms: under what terms Government reached an agreement with this company. All we know, and other Members, I am sure, will bear me out—the only information we received—was from the newspapers. It was from the newspapers that we heard the Kenya Government had signed an agreement with the Oil Refineries, to purchase shares in the company.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I feel that on matters of this nature, before the money is voted or before an agreement is signed, we must be told what the terms are; they should not sign the agreement and then come and ask the House to vote money in order that they can purchase shares.

Now, another thing, Mr. Speaker, in my opinion Government must be very careful here. We all know that we want nationalization. We want to nationalize some of these companies, but this nationalization must be looked into very carefully—the terms on which we are going to nationalize these companies, how the companies are going to be run—it is not a question of saying that we are nationalizing the companies and, therefore, we want the money. In my opinion, Mr. Speaker, Sir, nationalization of this nature should be when Government wants to nationalize these companies—one thing that Government should do is this: in a company like the one in question, let Government nationalize it, but whatever money Government intends to pay this company should not come from the public but should come from the profit that the company makes. The Government should not ask the House to vote so much money for the purchasing of these shares. For example, last year—

[Mr. Wabuge]

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. In view of the facts that I stated when I moved this Motion, is the hon. Member not misleading the House by saying that this money is to be voted to purchase the shares? I explained that we have, in fact, secured a loan of the same extent as the sum now requested but that because it is an expenditure it needs authorization? Now he says that we are asking for actual money to be voted so that it can be spent?

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I really do not know what the Minister—the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning should know accounts better than myself. When you borrow money in order to purchase these shares, who is going to repay this money that you are borrowing? Is it not the public? This is the same thing as getting this money from the public to buy these shares. Therefore, there is no point of saying that you are borrowing this money and that the money borrowed is different from the money you already have in the public accounts. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, last year this company made a lot of money as profit—

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I think that the House should get the facts correct. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am asking for your ruling because the hon. Member is still insisting that despite the fact that we are securing a loan from the company and despite the agreement that the loan would be repaid from profits made in that company, we are asking for money to be voted which would, otherwise, have gone to some other public expenditure. Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not important that we get the facts of the matter straight rather than getting the House misled?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, what I understand from Mr. Kibaki is that he is not asking for this money to be voted but he is only asking for the authorization of the action that they have taken. This means that they have borrowed money but this money will be repaid from the profits the company makes. If you are talking about being asked to authorize some money to be paid in order to buy the shares, that is not the case. I hope that is clear.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I find myself in a very difficult position now. I do not understand— Although the figures are clearly indicated here; the Minister is telling us that he is going to borrow money to give the company so that some shares are transferred to Kenya Government. Now, whether you borrow money in order to purchase these shares or you use the money which you already have, it is still the same thing. I do not know how you are interpreting this, Mr. Speaker. I feel that whether we are borrowing money, as he says, it is still going to be the public's money. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I am allowed to go on I will be very grateful.

What I was saying, Mr. Speaker, is this. The company makes a lot of profit; for example, last year the company made so much profit. My argument here is that when this company is being nationalized by Kenya Government, or if Government is going to be a shareholder in that company, let Government not spend any cent from the public fund because what should be done—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Since you have ruled time and again that it is against our Standing Orders for any hon. Member to pass between the person speaking and the Chair, is it in order for my honourable friend to do that?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, it is out of order. I have noticed that hon. Members tend to forget this, but it is out of order.

Mr. Wabuge: What I was going to say is this, Mr. Speaker. Let the Kenya Government be a shareholder in this company, but whatever money is to be paid to this company should be from the profits. My argument here Mr. Speaker, is that Government could have spent this £3 million on new projects. This would be far better—

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I do hate to interrupt my very good friend, whom I respect and who is one of the oldest hon. Members of the Legislature. He is alleging that we are using money that was made available to us to use on new projects whereas, Mr. Speaker, the fact as is stated and as is known in this country is that the companies are agreeing that we pay them this amount by instalments. It is not available anywhere but it is purely that instead of paying it in one lump sum, it is lent to us by the company and, therefore, it is not available in the Exchaquer. We shall only repay from the profits. Now, he is saying that this money, that is available, could have been spent on some other projects when it could not have been spent, Mr. Speaker, because it is not there for us to spend. I explained this when I moved this Motion.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. The Minister has interfered with the hon. Member speaking on several occasions. Surely, Mr. Speaker, we are being asked to authorize the sum of £3.8 million. I do not see what the Minister is objecting to I think the hon. speaker was questioning this amount. I do not know what the Minister is questioning.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The difference there is that the Minister is saying that this money was not there. What they have done is to borrow the money from the company and they will repay it by instalments from the profits made by that company. Mr. Wabuge talks about the money being used on other purposes. There is no money to be spent. This money has been lent and it will be paid from the profits made from that same money.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think this is one way of trying—the Minister is trying to mislead the House here. This money is shown in this booklet. The Minister, might be trying to tell us that Kenya Government has no money at this moment but the company wants this money and he wants to get permission from this House so that, possibly, he might go somewhere else, borrow the money and pay the company. In fact that is what—my argument is, that the Minister, having the authority from this House, some time next year, on the strength of the authority we have given him, will borrow money at a lower rate and pay the company. This is what I am objecting to, Mr. Speaker. Such money could be well utilized in financing new projects which we people want and by this we creat employment.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! I really, do not wish to interrupt you but I think you are going too far, Mr. Wabuge in that unless you say you cannot trust that the Minister is telling the truth, you cannot say that after he Minister has been authorized to do so he will go and borrow money when he has, exactly, explained how the money is derived and how it will be repaid. This is just like saying that whatever we pass here—the Minister could choose to do anything else. You cannot argue that way. The point is that—from what the Minister has said, there is no money so that when you talk about money being used for something else—this money is not there.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not trying to dispute or to argue against your ruling; but in most cases when the figures are shown here, it means that is what the Minister intends to have. In other words, he wants the House to give him authority to either borrow money or use public funds for paying or purchasing these shares. Otherwise, if he says that the money to pay the company will come from the profits, then it should have been indicated here that we have taken over this company and that the take-over will be paid from these profits. This is not stated here. Therefore, it is clear that this is going to happen and so I am objecting to this in the strongest terms possible. Such things should not be allowed to happen here.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, as I was saying, when you go a little further on to “J”, where they say, “Purchase of other shares in the private sector” £3.5 million. Adding these figures, you will get £7 million, which the Minister is asking the House to pass so that he will be able, possibly to purchase other shares in the private sector. Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Minister was saying yesterday, there are negotiations, possibly started this morning, between Kenya Government and the bankers—the Standard Bank and Barclays Bank, aimed at enabling the Kenya Government take some shares in those banks. This money is intended to purchase the shares in these banks. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel if we want to develop the economy of this country, and at the same time when we talk of nationalization—here is where I say that Government must be very careful. The policy of nationalization is supported; however, we have to be very careful in the way of going about it.

Already these are establishments with workers in them. There are workers already in the banks and when you nationalize them you are not going to create more employment at all. Therefore, such projects, or such money that is intended to be used in effecting nationalization of these banks should be used for establishment of projects that can enable us to have more people employed. Sir, I feel that when we take over the banks, it would be advisable for the Minister to use either the profits which the banks make, or use Government loans, rather than asking the House to vote money, public funds. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I feel here the Minister has to be very careful, and therefore the question of using public funds to nationalize these banks, or whatever private institutions there are, is not a good thing to do.

[Mr. Wabuge]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another thing I want to say here is: now, the Minister tells us that we are going to take over the banks. However, I remember when we were discussing a Bill here—the National and Grindlays Bank (Apportionment) Bill, to nationalize or take interest in the former National and Grindlays Bank—I said Government should come up with a policy and that policy be decided at once and should be implemented.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

It appears to me that Government is sitting idle and that this approach is being initiated by the bankers. In the same way, the Standard Bank and Barclays Bank have made the initiative to ask the Minister or Government to take shares in their banks. This is very wrong because we are, in other words, only joining, or Government is only joining, these bankers on their own terms. This is not Government policy. I think the Minister should make a decision at once and have all the banks involved. We are here, going bit by bit; in other words the bankers themselves are the one's approaching Government saying: "Please, can you come with us on our terms?" Which terms is Government giving these people? If it is a question of having a genuine nationalization, Kenya Government participating in these banks, why do they leave out the Bank of Baroda or the Bank of India? Why can they not come together? From the information I have, I am told that these other two banks have refused and they are not going to allow Kenya Government to participate in their banking. The only banks which have now followed the idea of asking Government to participate are the Standard Bank and the Barclays Bank. This is a very bad policy, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and I, therefore, urge the Minister to make a policy to have all the banks follow that policy, rather than waiting until the bankers ask Government to join them.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as I said, this paper—the 1970/71 Development Supplementary Estimate, No. 1—when you look at it is a very good paper. It states something on rural development, road construction, and other projects like the sugar factory; it is a good document. However, it is a document which has poison in it but is coated with sugar outside so that when you take it you find, later, that you have taken poison. That is why I said this section should be removed. It involves Government policy, a national policy, which must come out as a separate document for us to debate, rather than putting it together with other small developments. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my quarrel is with this page 48 and without wasting much time, with your permission, I beg to move the following amendment:—

"THAT all the words after the word, "that" be deleted, and there be substituted in place thereof the following words:

"this House requests the Government to withdraw the Development Supplementary Estimate No. 1 of 1970/71 with a view to revision thereof; by removing therefrom subhead A of Head 9 (Commerce and Industry) and subheads H and J of Head 25 (The Treasury) pending a separate policy and details discussion by the House of the agreements or proposals concerned."

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, here is where my quarrel is. We want to know exactly what comes; are we taking over the East African Oil Refinery? And also, under what terms are we going to participate in these banking systems? The Minister should not wait until these bankers approach him. Let the Minister come here with a policy saying, "Kenya Government has decided to nationalize all the banks". Let all the banks, be it the Bank of Baroda, the Bank of India—let them come under one policy. Let us nationalize them and then we will know we are nationalizing them under our own terms and not under the terms of Barclays Bank or the Standard Bank. This is very wrong. We should not be the victims of these people just in the same way we were the victims of the National and Grindlays Bank, where we were given only 40 per cent of the international banking and 60 per cent on local banking—yet the Minister knows very well that if you want to make more profit in the banking systems you must control foreign money. In fact we would have been much better off if we were given 60 per cent in the international banking—Grindlays Bank International (Kenya) Limited—rather than being given 40 per cent so that they are now controlling all our foreign exchange here and we are only left with services like those of an office messenger in our country. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I feel that this is very wrong and the same thing should not be applied to the Standard Bank or Barclays Bank. If it is our policy to nationalize, let us nationalize all the banks in the country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, another thing which I want to mention here is that when you nationalize these banks under what arrangements or under what policy are you going to run them? Mr. Deputy Speaker, it appears there is a move to amalgamate the Standard Bank and Barclays

[Mr. Wabuge]

Bank. If the Minister accepted this, so that instead of having several banks in the country we only have one National Bank throughout the country, it would be very wrong. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am saying this because if you do not get on very well with the General Manager in Nairobi here, he will always ring his sub-branch manager at home and tell him that So-and-so is not a good person and, therefore, do not give him any loan. This is going to be very serious, Mr. Deputy Speaker. We do not want a monopoly whereby we have only one bank throughout the country. We must have different banks so that when they know that Mr. Wabuge is not good in the Standard Bank, he will turn to Barclays Bank and make a good name there. If my name gets spoilt in Barclays Bank I will turn to the Bank of India and when my name will get spoilt in the Bank of India I will come back to the Standard Bank. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, instead of having one bank throughout the country, we must have many banks in different names and with different policies; this is better than having them in the way they want them.

With these few words, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I thought it was normal for such Motions to have amendments. I do not know whether it can be strictly treated in the same way as Bills because some of us find it very difficult to follow the amendment since we do not know shorthand and we are left in the air when debating the amendment, because the hon. Member read so fast that we could not take in the words. Since the Motion was on the Order Paper, why was the amendment not tabled in the morning so that it could be circulated to hon. Members in order that they may know what we are debating?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Of course, that is not provided for in our Standing Orders. All that is necessary, according to the Standing Orders, is for the hon. Member to submit, in a written form, what amendment he proposes to move. That is all the requirement we have in the Standing Orders.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I stand to second this Motion, because I think it is a very straightforward Motion. Sir, having listened to the words used by the Mover, you will agree with me that this is a very genuine Motion, which I believe that the hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Planning will see the sense in and agree that the words proposed to be left out should be left out. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am saying this for the simple reason that we want a clear explanation as to what are the terms of this Agreement. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is because we do not want to commit the country to something which this House is not aware of. Mr. Deputy Speaker, normally, we get copies of any international agreement that has to be signed by Government. So far, we see that as far as the Oil Refinery Agreement is concerned, this agreement has already been signed and the Minister has not thought it necessary to do so; he has not been courteous enough to give the House the copies of this Agreement so that we can be in a better position to really scrutinize and be able to tell whether, from the intelligence of this House, that this is a worthwhile venture on the part of Government or not.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are now being asked to give the Minister a blank cheque, just to do whatever he wants to do with the money of this country. Mr. Deputy Speaker, quite often, it has been repeated in this House that many Government Departments have misappropriated public funds. Mr. Deputy Speaker, they have overspent the public funds on less valuable schemes or projects. This is why the House feels very much against giving the Minister the authority just to go and sign any agreement on the street without seeking the authority of this House or even furnishing the House with the details of the so-called agreements. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is why I personally feel that I am duty-bound to second this Motion and tell the country that we are here really to watch very clearly the behaviour of Ministers, particularly the Minister for Finance when he wants to use the public funds in any way he likes.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you will agree with me that during recent months we have noticed that when there has been the so-called nationalization— Whether this is true or not, Mr. Deputy Speaker, this remains to be seen. All that has been done is perhaps to find jobs for some good boys who the Government, or the Minister for that matter, would like to hold very big posts. Mr. Deputy Speaker, to the great surprise of the wananchi, in the so-called nationalized firms, it is common knowledge that the people who are often given these important posts are well known. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I will not tire the House by mentioning the names of these people, but I am sure that the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is well aware of what I am talking about. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is ridiculous because—

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member for Yatta in order to say that I am aware of all the mischievous allegations he is making, including the allegation that I am aware that he wants to apply, on the Floor of this House, for a certain job?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have not been saying anything mischievous. I said so because the hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is the gentleman who will dish out money when this nationalization takes place. So, Mr. Deputy Speaker, he is well aware of what I mean and if he pursues the matter I will really put him on the carpet. However, I will not tire the House by doing so.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, what I want to emphasize here is this: is it necessary for us, for example, to purchase 60 per cent shares of the National and Grindlays Bank Limited leaving them with only 40 per cent locally, whereas at the same time, Sir, we leave the entire responsibility, apart from placing the African Chairman there, who is only there to be directed by Government what to do, and who does not know precisely what would be the position of the entire bank when it comes to the terms of working? Mr. Deputy Speaker, if we do this and the bank tries to go slow in terms of trying to enlarge the business, you will never know. I am saying this, Sir, because when the banks may do so because it is less interested in that particular venture and can decide to go slow because this is a business enterprise. If they feel they have less interest in that particular concern, they will not hesitate because they have little to lose if they run bankrupt. Therefore, we, the people of this country, will now be faced with the problem of finding or writing off all this money which the Government has invested in this particular firm. I do not think that it is fair. If the Government decides, or wants to nationalize some of these banks, they should come out clearly and not halfway by buying 50 or 60 per cent of shares. Why do they not buy out the entire banks so that we employ the people working there and they become civil servants, so that if they are now fiddling about with our money, then we know how we can best handle them?

There is a danger, Mr. Deputy Speaker—when you harm somebody and you do not harm him enough or kill him; he will be more dangerous when he gets a chance to bite you. I am trying to educate the Minister for Finance and I am sure he can see what I am aiming at.

Sir, we understand, in these Estimates, that we are now required to give the Minister the authority to buy another 50 per cent share-holding in the amalgamated Barclays and Standard Banks. The question here which arises is: why is it that it is only in the British owned banks where we buy shares? This is the question. Why is it only in the British banks? Is it because there are some strings or is it because we must sing to the British tune? This is very alarming because the National and Grindlays Bank was a British Bank and these are the other British Banks in the country. This is where the Minister now wants also to commit the country. We have not been able to see the benefits accruing from the buying of the 60 per cent share-holding of the former National and Grindlays Bank, and yet we want to commit the country to another two similar British banks. There is a danger here and I wish the Minister could see it. Sooner or later he will be called upon to answer for these things when they go wrong. However, he is now happy because when we talk in this House, he believes that we are only making noise because he has all the "okay" to do what he likes. However, one day he will be brought on the carpet to answer questions on these things.

An hon. Member: What colour will be the carpet?

Mr. Mutiso: I think you will see it. It might be a red one or a green one.

An hon. Member: Will you bring it?

Mr. Mutiso: The other point which I want the Minister to take note of is: when he was moving his Motion previously, he assured the House that he was not going to have a monopoly of these banks. He says this is correct. Now, what do we see? If now the next move is to purchase a 50 per cent share-holding in the Standard Bank and Barclays Bank, and also put their good boys there as they have done in various other firms which the Government has nationalized—Supposing the Minister or his chairman, whom he has placed in one of these banks, do not like my face and I go there to ask for loan; what should I do? What will happen? This is the fear about which we are cautioning the country because once the Government, or certain individuals have some personal interest—dare say here that the whole aim is political. This is because sometimes these banks — If I am a good customer of the Standard or Barclays Bank and it comes to campaigning when I have no money, I can go there and because I am a very good customer the manager may give me an overdraft. Now it will be a different thing when the banks are controlled by Government and when the same Government, as we have seen in the past, is not in favour of some of the Members who are in this Chamber being returned to the House. The Government will freeze everything in the banks and, Mr. Deputy Speaker—poor you—you will not be able to get the finances when you are campaigning. This is what we are against, and unless we totally go for nationalization, this half-hearted nationalization is not good because it is not going to help us, nor is it going to take us anywhere.

Therefore, I think the sole purpose of this amendment is to ask the Minister, first of all, to produce a detailed statement showing: what we are going to gain when we purchase these shares from these companies; what will be the profit as compared to the present moment and, also, how the Government intends to enlarge these facilities in the rural areas. This is very important, Mr. Deputy Speaker, and that is why we have said that we are not entirely against the whole Estimates but all we want is the Minister to bring a detailed statement here showing all what is being requested in this Motion and I can guarantee him, if we are satisfied that this is to be in the best interests of the wananchi of this land, we shall give him an okay.

However, Mr. Speaker, I want to caution him. He has been very fond of rushing into these agreements whilst ignoring the fact that this House is the supreme authority in this land and that he ought, first of all, before he thinks that he should enter into such an agreement, to let us know. He should also furnish the House with the details of the said agreement so that we can scrutinize it and if we feel that it is in the best interests of the people of this Republic, then we shall give him an okay to proceed. However, for him to go and sign an agreement, as he has done with the Oil Company, only to come back here and ask for an authority when he has already done so, I think he is going behind the back of this House. I will not be a part to that agreement and I would like the Minister to know that this is not in keeping with the laid down standards of the National Assembly.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would not like to take much time tiring the House with all sorts of facts but I wanted to inform the Minister that it is very dangerous, in my view, to purchase these half bits of shares in these banks. We either nationalize them fully or leave them as they are because this is not good and he cannot convince the House that by so doing we are going to benefit more than before. All there is, is that the Minister is trying to play good to the British Government. He does not want to harm them as it has happened in the other neighbouring territories. He wants Kenya to remain a good base for the British people. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, if this is what the Minister has in mind, this is for himself and I can assure him that some time he will be called upon to answer to these things.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, with these few words, I beg to support the Motion before the House and recommend strongly to the House.

Mr. Mwigigi: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for giving me this chance to air my views on this Motion.

First of all, I would like to congratulate Mr. Wabuge, the Mover of this amendment and Mr. Mutiso, the Seconder of the amendment, for suggesting this amendment to the Motion. I have weighed up the two, the Motion and the amendment, and I feel that I should actually support the Minister's Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is good when Government is getting some opposition because the civil servants and the Minister should always know that this House is the supreme authority of state and they should always be careful when they are preparing their budget or doing other related things.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, first of all, I would like to thank the Minister for bringing these Supplementary Estimates (Development) asking for money because in the past we have had cases when the money had to be returned to the Treasury because it was not spent. This is a sign that there is something which is being done in that Ministry. However, I have just one quarrel with the Minister or with the Motion.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my quarrel is this. The amount of money requested is too small. There are a lot of things which can be done with a larger amount of money and to ask for £15.3 million for development—even for Supplementary Estimates—is very small, Mr. Deputy Speaker. If it was £50 million, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would feel more comfortable.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I expected an inclusion in the special development projects aimed at alleviation of unemployment. The House accepted a report on unemployment and I thought Government was taking this report much more seriously, but when I go over these estimates I do not find anything put specially to meet the unemployment situation. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the gravity of the situation on unemployment should push Government to do something about it.

[Mr. Mwicigi]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, last year, our high school leavers ran into about 26,000 students and out of that number, about 8,000 could get training or employment leaving us with 18,000 students. Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, we have 18,000 unemployed students out of last year's school-leavers, 15,000 students for the year 1969 and about 12,000 in the year 1968. This brings a total about 45,000 high school-leavers who are looking for employment today. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if we turn to the Certificate of Primary Education school-leavers, this is actually worse than secondary school-leavers. We have 168,000 Certificate of Primary Education school-leavers who left school in 1970 and about a quarter of that number will—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order, Mr. Mwicigi. You are wandering too far away from the amendment because you have already gone back to the original Motion. We are discussing the amendment at present.

Mr. Mwicigi: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for your guidance.

However, I would like to draw attention to the Minister that in the development projects something should have been done about unemployment.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if I may be allowed to go back to the Motion and the amendment, I feel that the Minister's policy of Government and private enterprise participation is the best policy to follow in this country. We have learnt by bitter experience from other countries and other governments where there has been wholesale nationalization because those governments had to learn later on that they lack personnel and other things and they had to get back the same people to come and run the industries. I congratulate the Minister for this wise policy of, at least, 50 per cent or 60 per cent participation in favour of our Government.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have one big concern in these Development Estimates. This is the fact that in our banks, today, there is surplus money to the tune of £25 million which is not being spent. We would like to know, from the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning, what plans he has about how the country can make use of this £25 million which is a surplus. Some of this money is in our Central Bank and it is not even bearing any interest. Why should Government not sponsor some projects at a low rate of interest so that the economy of this country can be expanded? This is not what is being done today, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Sir, I would appeal to our good Minister to consider appealing to these banks to lend money, particularly to the rural areas, where a lot of money is required for development. I would also appeal to our Minister to consider revising the exchange control regulations whereby foreign controlled companies could borrow money more than 20 per cent which is at the moment required by law. The money should be borrowed to be spent locally because this would help our economy to expand.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to support the Motion in question because—

An hon. Member: Which Motion?

Mr. Mwicigi: There is one Motion and one amendment and I am supporting the former, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that I am grateful for what the Minister has done. There are some urgent projects which have been included in these Development Estimates and, in fact, if you look at page 37 of the Development Estimates you will see that there are many hospitals whose progress should not be stopped. Operations and development should continue on such projects and I would not like to be associated with any delay—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I would like to have your guidance here. Is it in order for the hon. Member to speak both on the Motion—and especially to dwell on the Motion itself—and the amendment or is he supposed now to speak on the amendment?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The amendment proposes to leave out the whole lot of words which contain the provisions the hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is looking for. The money that we are discussing at the moment is the Development Supplementary Estimates No. 1 which covers the hospitals that the hon. Member, Mr. Mwicigi, has just been discussing and obviously it is quite relevant.

Mr. Mwicigi: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for your ruling.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if we support this amendment some of these hospitals will be badly affected and I do not want to be associated with such a thing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, page 37—

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Member says that if he supported the amendment the hospitals would be axed. Is that the meaning of the amendment which we are discussing now, Mr. Deputy Speaker?

Mr. Mwicigi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Tinderet should know that the way the amendment is put would mean a delay as far as these projects are concerned. What I am saying is that the following hospitals—including Homa Bay Hospital and Housing—Mandera Hospital, Garissa Hospital, Loitokitok Hospital, Marsabit Hospital and others, require this development money. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you can see that even Murang'a Hospital and Kandara Hospital are omitted here. But, in spite of that, I think the Motion should be supported as it was moved by the Minister. There is no reason for any delay in approving this money for this development. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, as I said, in the past we have had some cases where money has been returned to the Treasury because there was no spending.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with those few remarks, I would like to congratulate the Minister for what he has done because I feel that he has done the right thing. However, before I sit down I would like to point out one thing which I find in page 33 of the Development Estimates. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, Head D15 on the Ministry of Education there is a section D which is speaking about technical education and another section, B, which is dealing with secondary education. If you compare those two sections, B and D, you will find that there is only £39,000 which is requested for technical education as opposed to £100,000 for secondary education. I very much criticize this ratio. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Government of our Republic has not given technical education the priority it deserves. I would like to urge the Minister to consider this point seriously. He has done a good job in the past and there is no reason why he should not also take serious action on education.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support the Motion as it was moved by the Minister.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have listened quite a lot to this hon. friend of mine, the Member for Kitale West—

An hon. Member: East.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): The other hon. Member is telling me "East". Mr. Deputy Speaker, in all fairness, I am sure my friend was not serious, because, if he was here, when the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning was moving this Motion, he would certainly have agreed with me that there was no need for his Motion at all. Any Member, speaking on this amendment of the Motion, by the Minister for Finance, can only do so if he was outside this Chamber when the Minister was moving.

Mr. Wabuge: I was here.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): If he was here, then, there is something wrong with his understanding. The reason, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the Assistant Minister, who was, at one time, the president of the poor, and is now the president of the rich, substantiate that I did not follow what the Minister was saying when, in actual fact, I was here?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): For substantiation, the hon. Assistant Minister has expressed an opinion, thinking you did not understand.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he is the oldest Member in this Chamber, I guess, among the lot now, because he was even in the former Colonial Legislative Council. Therefore, I do not want to pick a quarrel with him and he should know that, was not a point of order and my presidency had nothing to do with it.

The point I am emphasizing is—and I am still the president of the poor, and I would challenge any hon. Member for what you said, in any public rally, including their own constituencies over this issue. Now, Sir, having said that, I was here when the Minister was moving the original Motion, which is now being amended by my hon. friend, and he went into details, explaining almost each and everything in the Development Plan here. At times, I heard a lot of Members agreeing with him, especially when the projects in their areas were being mentioned, there was a lot of applause for the Minister.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you allowed the hon. Member to speak and now he is speaking seated on his buttocks as if he is in a certain market somewhere in Kitale. This should not be allowed. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Member should realize that others have a right to contribute to any Motion and express their views, because we all do not come from one constituency.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the amendment here seeks, as a matter of fact, to kill the very development we are trying to initiate, by removing or withdrawing it and so forth, as is requested by the hon. Member. In my opinion,

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

Sir, I must declare my interest here. I have a sugar factory to be built in Western Province. What will I tell the Western Province people when I go back, when I delay this very development, which is going to supply them with some work and so forth? Will they not say that this Member is really out to kill us? Is it not fair, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that we have, as a matter of fact, accused some of the civil servants who sat on the development money and returned it to the Treasury and we should denounce them and I still denounce them as the killers of the people? Will I not be equally accused, or any hon. Member here, will he not be equally accused as the killer of the people, if we decided to delay the development, the money to develop the people we purport to represent here? Will it not, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Assistant Minister really in order to imply that, if an amendment is introduced here in this House, seeking more clarification on a matter that has been put before the House, it amounts to killing the people?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): What he has said, in the changing of the amendment is that, the whole lot of words after the word "that", which is the substance of the Motion, as proposed by the Minister for Finance should go out and there would be inserted other words, the effect of which will be to go back to the Ministry and reintroduce this Motion in a different form. This implies delay. The hon. Assistant Minister is saying that the people in his Province, would regard him as the killer of the people, by virtue of the delay. I think that is what the Assistant Minister meant.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. You have explained it in the simplest possible way which, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it on your ruling that the meaning of the word "delay" also means "killing", so that if anything is delayed, it means killing the people, because the Assistant Minister wants to imply that by seeking more information and clarification on the Development Plan, we are killing the people?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): If you are using the word killing, meaning to remove life. I was not thinking of that. I was thinking of the meaning that you cause them certain types of embarrassment, may be lack of work and that kind of thing. You can use the words "to kill" to mean that. I thought that is what the Member was saying. It would not be a physical killing.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I do not mean physical killing. If there is no development, for example in the Western Province, if the sugar factory at Mumias is delayed, as a result of withdrawing, and the subject matter here is withdrawing, it is not trying to seek information but to withdraw the whole Motion and, therefore, there will be a delay and if somebody could have been saved, who is in distress in Western Province, who could have obtained a job in the sugar factory there, thereby, helping his children to go to school or help himself or help his family from hunger, and if such a man gets into such a problem to such a stage that he may die, who is the killer? It must be the hon. Members of this House who have delayed the food which would have otherwise saved him. This is the point I am trying to express, Mr. Deputy Speaker. The food that should have gone to that man—and he dies we will be responsible. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would challenge any hon. Member here on this issue because, we, and particularly myself, have blamed the civil servants, who have sat on the development money, which we voted in this House to develop various areas and which was not spent and was returned to the Treasury, the result of which was that people in the area never saw development. For the information of the hon. House here, Mr. Deputy Speaker when we shall come to the elections, each and every hon. Member in this House will be subjected to questions by his own constituents as to what he has done. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am sure he will not be able to tell them what he has done because he will have been delaying—

Let me hope it is a point of order.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think the Assistant Minister has really made an allegation that some of the money has been returned to the Treasury and that there has been no development done. Will he substantiate that allegation to the Government of Kenya?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Sir, I have said this in the past and it is common knowledge. If the hon. Member would go into our library, he will just find out that some Ministries, like the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Works, the Ministry of Agriculture and so forth have returned their money to the Treasury. It is just a bit of small work; it will reduce his weight if he does that bit of homework. A bit of work will reduce his weight.

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

Now, Sir, this money has been returned and the people in various areas have missed some development. There, I still accuse the civil servants concerned as having killed the progress of the people. I will not, therefore, like to fall into the same pit or hon. Members should not fall into the same pit where their opponents in the next elections will point an accusing finger at them and say, "Here is the Member who delayed the development. The hon. Kibaki was trying to bring money to develop this area and the Member blocked it and here we have nothing done. Are you going to return this hon. Member to Parliament?" Mr. Deputy Speaker, some of us may not live to see the four walls of this House next time. They can see it now, but next time they will never see it. They can come to the Public Gallery and that will be after I have signed their ticket to come up there but not otherwise.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, you, me, and other Members who were here know that I used to tell some of my friends that they will never see this House and they have not seen it. I am sorry to say that some of us—if we have to stop the development—will not again see the four walls of this House.

An hon. Member: Where were you sitting?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): I used to sit right over there, on the famous "Liberal Bench". Mr. Deputy Speaker, what we are interested in here is to have development carried on.

I would not mind the details which the hon. Mover promised the House that he will supply them in the Committee stage. As a matter of fact we should be already in the Committee stage so that we can ask as many questions as possible and get as much information from various Ministries concerned. This will help our people to know that we are doing something. But when Members seek to withdraw the whole thing, which will subject it to being done again, and be reprinted and take more time; and then the hon. Member drives home to tell the people that he is their representative, I refuse to accept that. He is a representative of himself and not the people, because if he is a representative of the people, Sir—and any hon. Member worth his salt is a representative of the people—he should be the first person to allow any little money or any money that comes in the way of development to go through. This must go through.

Personally, Sir, I will not even mind if there is an overexpenditure by a civil servant in the interests of development; provided we see the development itself done, I will not mind. But when it is an overexpenditure which goes into somebody's pocket, or on some frivolous things which are not in the interests of the people, then, we have to object. But here, how can an hon. Member claim that he is representing the people and, at the same time, he wants them to develop when he is refusing the hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Planning to dish out the money to the various projects to save his people?

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, Mumias Sugar Factory is not even in my constituency. It is in Western Province and I know when this money is voted to go there, it will be used to employ all the possible people in Western Province and that will be progress in my area; a thing I shall be proud of, Sir, when I go to the voters and tell them, "Here we are, on such and such day we voted money for you and here is the sugar factory and you have employment".

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am sure those people in Masailand who are talking of cattle ranching, when this money is sent there and they have water for their cattle and so forth, the people in Masailand will appreciate it and say, "Indeed, the Members we sent to Parliament have brought something". What will they say when they find that the hon. Members here refused to let them have water in their area for their cattle? Sir, this is interesting because, I agree with the hon. friends of mine here that we are all politicians, and we know which side of the bread is buttered. Any Member who does not know which side of the bread is buttered, then, it is just unfortunate for him, but we all know which side of the bread is buttered. However, this bread which is being brought here by the hon. Minister for Finance and Economic Planning does not only have butter but has jam in addition; which unfortunately is being described as poison. If the hon. Member says that this is poison coated with sugar, let him lick the sugar and leave the poison. I do not think, nor do I agree with the hon. Member that this is poison coated with sugar. This is bread with butter plus jam for the consumption of our people we talk of as representing in this House.

Mr. Mutiso: That is your opinion.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Member talks of my opinion. It is not my opinion, it is the opinion of Yatta people who want progress but the hon. Member wants to feel he is big here by sitting on the money which, if we went even to Yatta and he spoke Kikamba and I spoke Kiswahili and told them how much money they were going to get and the Member wanted to sit on it for even one more minute they will know that their Member is not for them but for himself and probably for his wife. They know what they want in Yatta: they are not stupid people there. Mr. Deputy Speaker, we in this House, therefore, are responsible people. I am of the opinion and I can appeal to the hon. Members that this is development money and we should have the development done.

I must say, Sir, that specifically speaking there is nothing specific for Butere Constituency which is in this Development Estimate. But no Member can say that unless something is done in his area, nothing should be done anywhere else because development in various parts is building the nation. Butere alone can never be Kenya. So, when something is done in North-Eastern Province, it is development of Kenya. If something is done in Masailand it is a development of Kenya and next time it will be done in Butere. This is the spirit, Mr. Deputy Speaker: that we in this House, should look at things like that and stop thinking in terms that if there is nothing in Moyale, then the whole thing is not good: we must delay it and withdraw it. First of all, Sir, why should we throw it away: something which involves going into—

Mr. Mutiso: Who said we are throwing it away? What is wrong with you?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, could you order the Member for Yatta to keep his mouth shut because I am capable of making him look very small?

Mr. Mutiso: Question!

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Carry on. He has heard it.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I am glad he has kept his mouth shut. He knows me very well.

When you withdraw this Motion, it will mean that the Minister will have to go into drafting it again, go into the printing, stationery, circulation, until it is brought back again, and this, first of all will be a waste of time, waste of money and completely unnecessary. We are not, therefore, going to allow this, Sir; we who are representatives of the people. However, those who are representing themselves, can go ahead and block these Development Estimates.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, do you not agree with me that the hon. Assistant Minister is really imputing improper motives that those Members who have proposed this Amended Motion genuinely before the House and those who support it are representing themselves? Is this really proper?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Well, it is not an improper motive. He is only giving his views. After all, the explanation that he has tried to give that any Member who is willing to delay the expenditure for development is only representing himself, is only an opinion. I mean, it is not improper motive.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you very much. There is nothing else because the Minister explained, and I am also explaining and I have declared my interest on Mumias which I want to come to. The hon. Member and any other Members blocking it, Mr. Deputy Speaker, are not helping the people but helping themselves. The public should know who their enemies are.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, I even wish they would bring a Division so that we may know—

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, is the hon. Assistant Minister right in trying to intimidate Members of this House by calling them the enemies of the people—I mean those who disagree with him?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not know in which way he can intimidate. He has said one very strong thing that the people should know who their enemies in this House are, but then I will give an opportunity to hon. Seroney or anybody else who wants to show the opposite side of the picture when the time comes.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Any hon. Member may rise, but for now let me submit very strongly that we are here for the progress of our people, and this progress is being brought in terms of money by the Minister and then we block it, I submit very strongly and very emphatically that those who oppose it are the enemies of the people, and I wish we could go to a division so that we may have their names recorded for future reference.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I think we must have this cleared. This is not the first time that Motions of this nature have come before this House, but it is, in fact, in my experience, the first time that a ruling has been given that the implication that an hon. Member introducing an amendment to a Motion of this nature before this House is being an enemy of the country. Can we get a ruling from you, Sir, that in future, or even in the past, those Motions which have been opposed here and amendments introduced, all those Members who have been in favour of the amendments have been enemies of the people?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You have got my ruling quite wrong. I said that the hon. Member was giving an opinion as to what he thinks the effect of delay in this kind of Supplementary Estimates will be. He thinks that those will be the enemies of the people, and I said that I will give whoever wants to dispute that view an opportunity to express himself here. I did not rule that when you introduce an amendment of this kind you are necessarily an enemy of the people. In any case, those words never came from the Chair. It is a debating point that the hon. Shikuku is putting, but he is doing so very strongly. It is for whichever hon. Member who wants to fight it, to dispute it, strongly.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I would like to speak—I told them I am still the president of the poor people. Now they can feel it. If they want to dispute it let us go out to Kamukunji also. I will put them down.

Now, Sir, the point is that we here, I submit, have a duty to perform. This duty is to the nation and for that reason, Mr. Deputy Speaker, amendments—I do not agree with my hon. friend, but I agree with your ruling—can be made. Some can be destructive and some can be constructive. One of them—not all are bad—which is bad is this one which seeks to remove the food, in my opinion, to which I am entitled, from the mouths of our people. Somebody else is trying to delay it. I do not want it to be delayed even for a second. Anybody delaying it, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is doing so because he himself is all right. But those people who are hungry and those who are unemployed, those who have no school fees to pay for their children and those who have no future—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! I think you are now imputing an improper motive. If you say that they are delaying it because they themselves are all right when the other people are poor, that is not allowed. That is an improper motive.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I agree with you there, but what I said was that we want—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): I withdraw that part where I said that because they are all right themselves. I leave that, but I insist on the former stand, that I, and all other hon. Members who have the interests of the people at heart will not delay any money in terms of development, and the Minister is going to give us full explanation when we come to the Committee stage.

Wishing not to delay that food from reaching the mouths of the people that I represent and those of other areas, I wish to oppose the amendment very strongly, and if those who want to delay this development want to go ahead I wish we could have a division so that we can record the real enemies of the people.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, can we get a ruling from the Chair whether these words which have been used here repeatedly are really in order, that there are some hon. Members who are enemies of the people?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I have said repeatedly— You can get sensitive about this kind of thing. It is strong and if it affects you, obviously you do not like it. You can get very sensitive, but it is not out of order to express an opinion in this House, except when you impute an improper motive in whatever you say and when the words are unparliamentary. The word "enemy" in itself is not unparliamentary. This is all I have been trying to say. If you catch my eye I will certainly allow you to call him an enemy too.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, do you rule that the hon. Member using the words "those who are opposing this Development Plan are the enemies of the people" is not imputing an improper motive?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I do not think I can explain any further to the hon. Mutiso. I have tried my best to explain that the hon. Member was expressing an opinion which may be valid or invalid, good or bad. It is for the other side to demonstrate how terrible this opinion is. That is what I am saying. It is not a matter for ruling from the Chair.

Mr. Seroney: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker. I would like to begin by saying that I accept fully the challenge of the Member for Butere to have a Division in this House at the conclusion of this business. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the Member for Butere has said that we are going to find out the enemy. I am going to demonstrate both to the Member for Butere and the House who the actual enemy of the people is.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, we are being misled in this House and there is a conspiracy on the part of certain Members of this House to mislead the House. I am going to show how this is being done.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, this amendment before the House is a procedural device to obtain an amendment or removal of certain items within this Development Plan. The fact that it has been put in terms of a withdrawal is because the hon. Mover and other Members, like the senior Member, the Member for Butere knows, under our Standing Orders there are certain limitations to how you can deal with Estimates. Therefore, all the Mover of this amendment is seeking is to remove certain items which have not been agreed to in policy lines by this House. It is no good Members from the Front Bench trying to tell the House that we must accept the Development Estimates in full or else we are delaying development. This is arrogant blackmail which we cannot withstand. None of us is trying to stop—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is it in order to describe or to insinuate that there was blackmail when somebody was expressing his opinion; and furthermore to state that there is a conspiracy which in itself is an improper motive? Can the hon. Member tell us the Members of this House who have conspired—where and when?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): First of all, the word, "Blackmail" as used by Mr. Seroney and as far as I understand it was used to mean that there will be a division so that you could expose certain names. If you are prepared to call certain Members "Enemies of the people" that is tantamount to exposing them to the people from this House. If he then subsequently calls your statement "Blackmail" he is quite in order to describe it as such. As to the word "conspiracy" I would like the hon. Seroney to substantiate in which way the Front Bench has conspired.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the words are objectionable I would like to withdraw them as such. What I was getting at—

An hon. Member: And apologize.

Mr. Seroney: No! What I was getting at, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Now that the tempers are getting a little higher than we expected, I would like to call for the use of milder terms. I think if we encourage the use of strong words, whether they are parliamentarian or not then, we possibly shall not arrive at the conclusion we want to arrive at.

Mr. Seroney: I withdraw the actual word—"Conspiring". However, what I should have said Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that there is an attempt by some of the Members who have already spoken to lead the House to the conclusion that any suggestion about disapproving these Estimates is aimed at delaying implementation of the acceptable part of these Estimates. However, I can assure the hon. Members that that is far from our intention. How long this move of the amendment delays this development money depends entirely on the Government because all that is required is for the Minister to say, "All right, if you object to those items mentioned in the Amendment we will withdraw those and pass the rest and discuss the others later on". That is all that we are asking for, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Therefore, I do not see the reason why anybody can tell me, the Mover or the Seconder of the Amendment, "Please remove the three items—it is what it amounts to—and we are quite happy with the rest".

The reason why I used the word, "Blackmail" is because we are being told that there is a package deal and if you object to any part of it then you must object to the whole of it. That is what constitutes the blackmail. As the Member for Kandara was saying, none of us is objecting to the question of hospitals in Marsabit or somewhere else; and none of us is objecting to development in any part of the country. However, we are saying that this House should not be committed to be a rubber stamp for agreements which are signed by the Government whose terms are not known to this House.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning went to Mombasa and signed a certain agreement which was reported in the Press, as usual, and we would like to know what that agreement consisted of. We want to study that agreement and see whether it is beneficial to wananchi; and see whether we, as representatives of wananchi, who have to authorize expenditure can, with a good conscience, endorse such particular agreement. I think we must put to an end this state of affairs. The Government has fallen into the habit of taking this House for granted. It is a pity that we have adopted the British type of Constitution where agreements or treaties by the state are never referred to this House. In America and other countries, all treaties and agreements between states are ratified by Parliament. However, when we made our Constitution we copied the British and allowed this question of agreement or treaty-making power as a prerogative of the Government such that Ministers can come to this House, like the Minister for Natural Resources did the other day, when he said to the Member for Kerio South, "It is necessary to lay an agreement between the Government and another organization on the Table of this House, but we will do you a favour and give you a few points of that agreement". Mr. Speaker, Sir, how can we exercise our power intelligently? We have been objecting to civil servants engaging in unauthorized expenditure. Now, if we are to authorize expenditure, are we not entitled to demand that we do so intelligently—knowing exactly what is involved? Is it wrong to say that we do not want to spend £3 million to acquire shares in Barclays Bank and the Standard Bank as we did with the Commercial Bank of Kenya whose record we cannot judge yet because we have not seen it operate long enough? Are we not entitled to say that monopoly should not be given to the Commercial Bank of Kenya? We are informed by our usually reliable source that the talks which are taking place between the Government on one hand and Barclays and the Standard Bank on the other hand are designed to bring about two things: the first thing is to bring about the amalgamation of the Standard Bank and Barclays Bank; and after being amalgamated the Government will take over 60 per cent of the share holding on behalf of the Commercial Bank of Kenya. It is surprising that the Minister should use the back-door method in nationalizing these two banks.

I am now referring to subhead H. If we agree with the Minister and vote for these Estimates the way they are he will not feel obliged any more to come to this House and discuss with us the details about the amalgamation of these two banks with the Commercial Bank of Kenya, because he will have already been given the money and, therefore, there will be no obligation, at all, to come to this House. In any case, we are going for a recess of one month and, all kinds of things will be done.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the hon. gentleman is a lawyer and he knows that under Banking Act 1968, I would have to come to this House, if there was a merger of two banks, because that is the provision of the Banking Act— Is he in order to mislead the House that I would feel that I did not have to come back or that I would not come back in this House? Is he suggesting that I would do anything outside the law or what is he suggesting?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I think the hon. Seroney ought to substantiate a little that it is, in fact, true because this is not an opinion but it is a statement which we regard as fact that the hon. Minister will not have to come back here to seek permission from the House. Can you substantiate?

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to withdraw that remark. I would accept it as an indication by the Minister that he will not commit this country as far as these banks are concerned before coming back to this House in which case there is no need—

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I stand to seek your guidance here. I have been a debater like any other hon. Member, but is it really allowed for an hon. Member to stand up on his feet and keep on making sweeping statements and withdrawing them every other minute?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): You know the effect of that kind of thing especially if you are a senior Member of this House. If you make a spirited and energetic statement which you are forced to withdraw in the next minute, it very much spoils the case you are trying to make. The Chair, of course, does not condone misleading the House. It amounts to this because the hon. Seroney surely knows that the Minister for Finance cannot enter into an agreement with either the Barclays or the Standard Bank without coming back to this House as contained in the Banking Act. I think that was a dangerous thing to say.

Mr. Seroney: If the Minister will have to come back to this House, therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, there is no need or urgency to authorize the expenditure of £3.5 million under subhead "J". Therefore, if he was going to come back to the House, in any case, there is no urgency to pass this item "J". He can wait and it can be discussed when he brings the Bill to authorize the amalgamation of these two banks with the Commercial Bank of Kenya. Therefore, he can safely accept the amendment as it has been put.

With regards to the purchase of East African Shell Company all that the amendment asks is that the rest of the Estimates which are unobjectionable should pass, but this particular item should be removed. The third item which the amendment asks to be removed, pending discussion by the House in connexion with agreement [Mr. Seroney] concerned, is this business of Fluorspar Company of Kenya which is supposed to operate in Kerio Valley.

The amendment before us is simply suggesting that before we vote any money to the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation, for instance, 51 per cent in this particular company, we want to be sure that the agreement in its entirety is satisfactory to the wananchi. It should not be meant to misuse or rather to put the public money into use other than into the very best possible causes. Therefore, it is no good for the Ministers and Assistant Ministers to tell us that if we object to this item and that item, we want to delay development. My challenge to them is for them to accept the amendment as it is and quickly delete those items and wait to see whether we are going to object to the rest of the Estimates because they are saying that we have to accept the rest. Let the Minister take his pen and remove those three subheads and he will see that we will accept the rest of the Estimates without any delay. If there is going to be any delay it will squarely depend on the obstinacy of the Minister for Finance and on the Front-benchers.

Coming back to the amendment, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I recommend this amendment to the House. I would like to warn the hon. Members not to do something they are going to regret later on. In the first Parliament many things were brought up and some hon. Members, like the Assistant Ministers who are clapping, accepted them because the first Parliament accepted many things which later turned out to be harmful to the country. Hon. Members in the first Parliament passed certain laws which we are trying now to find ways and means of repealing because they are harmful to us. Therefore, I am really asking the hon. Member for Butere, including other hon. Members, in the interests of their people whether they want to see banking becoming a monopoly. I do not know whether there is a bank in Butere, Barclays or the Standard? Whether that branch should be a branch of the Commercial Bank of Kenya; once it is started it will be controlled from here in Nairobi— An hon. Member has quoted an example about the difficulties we faced in the last Parliament. Those of us who were in the last Parliament had a great deal of difficulties because someone somewhere high up in the Government had gone around all the banks telling them not to give any overdrafts or to stop giving overdrafts to ex-Members of Parliament.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think the hon. Member is heading to the third withdrawal since he started speaking. Can he tell us or substantiate that some one in the top hierarchy of the Government went around the banks directing them to refuse ex-Members of Parliament a chance of getting loans or overdrafts from the banks? Can he substantiate that?

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my substantiation is based on my own experience and I am glad to give that experience to the hon. Members. I found that even a Government cheque like the cheque I had, in respect of the Social Security Fund, when I took it to the Treasury and I asked them to make some alterations in it so that I could cash it, I was told that there was strict instructions that I must take it back home and cash it there. There were other ex-Members—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! That is not good enough. The statement you made was that someone high up in the Government had gone around banks—and banks in this respect are the commercial banks—instructing them that certain people should not be afforded overdrafts or loans. Can you substantiate that particular clause?

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that was my own experience and the experience of my colleagues at that time. They said that is what the Government had said. They did not give the identity of the person. Therefore, how can I substantiate something which I do not know. I can substantiate the effect. The effect was that all Members of Parliament at that time and they ceased to be Members of Parliament—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order, Mr. Seroney! It may be true, I do not know, but the hon. Member is called upon to substantiate what he regarded as a fact when he made the statement. It is not the effect we are asking for. The statement he made was that there was some instruction by someone somewhere high up in the Government who went around the banks instructing them not to give ex-Members overdrafts or loans. That is the fact you must substantiate. The effect you found with your Government cheque in connexion with the Social Security Fund is another matter.

Mr. Seroney: I substantiated because that is what my fellow Members of Parliament told me. I was told by colleagues because some of them are my hon. ex-colleagues—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member says that he was told by someone. Being old enough in this House, it is normal that when you say that you were told by someone you must say the name of the one who told you, he knows most of the hon. Members who were here last time and he should tell us the one who told him and the one who gave the instruction.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The hon. Member for Yatta is volunteering from his seat. I do not know whether he is prepared to extend the same offer by standing up to show that he told him about that matter. Is the hon. Member for Yatta prepared to say that he himself told him about it.

(The hon. Mutiso stood up)

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): On the strength of that statement we can leave the matter there.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member fears, probably, because the person in question is his friend or something of that sort. Now, could we take him to task? He told the hon. Seroney, and therefore, he is the original source of information now, could we ask him to tell us which top man in the Government who went round the banks stopping loans?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The corollary is obvious. The hon. Seroney made the statement on the grounds that he was told by certain Members, one of whom is the hon. Mr. Mutiso. Mr. Mutiso has volunteered openly and by standing up—which amounts almost to a statement—can he now substantiate that there was such a thing?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a very clear case. I personally, Sir, went to my bankers—

Hon. Members: Who?

Mr. Mutiso: I, myself! Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, went to my bankers and tried to raise an overdraft for my election campaign and I was told, clearly, that there are certain Members who cannot be given overdraft because of their security. So, I was refused.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member says that he went to the bank and apparently he has collaborated with the hon. Member that he told him that he had been stopped by "a certain person". Now, we want to know the person who gave instructions, which when he went to the bank, he was told that he was not going to get an overdraft. Also, we would like to know which bank.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, no! That is not the position. The original statement which led to the second substantiation from Mr. Mutiso was that a certain Member of Government—a certain high up Member, no name—had gone round the commercial banks instructing that they should not issue loans or overdrafts to certain Members of Parliament or certain individuals. That is what hon. Seroney said and I required him to substantiate it. He failed to do that and hon. Mutiso volunteered to say that he had, in fact, told hon. Seroney. On the strength of that information, Mr. Seroney would have been incited to make a statement, because, in substantiation, you are merely asked to give evidence on which you base the statements you make. It does not matter if it is lame evidence; if it is poor evidence. That is the kind of evidence we have heard.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is an important point of order. It was alleged that there was a higher person. In the context of the words "the Government," because it was said "A higher person in the Government" the assumption is that it is a certain person in the Government. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, are we not entitled, in view of the seriousness of the allegation, to insist that the name of the person be given because it was alleged that they were told "A certain person high up in the Government". It is a person. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to seek your ruling in this regard that a substantiation should amount to a name being given.

Sir, we had the same problem here only a week ago and there is a Motion on the Order Paper because people were referred to in general terms. A Member of this House was required to give names. When he went further and gave only indications which were very specific—

An hon. Member: On a point of order—

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): No, mine is a point of order please! He gave indications including numbers of licences, which would give an interested party enough guide to check, it was still being required that he should give the actual names. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in view of the seriousness of this allegation, Sir, I would like your ruling that the substantiation should amount to a name because to say one was told, in my view, is not enough. Similarly, Sir, tomorrow I may say that the hon. Member for Yatta killed somebody and I will say that it was somebody who told me outside the House. Then, Sir, in this case where do we end in the name of respect of this House?

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning is right in saying that a name should be given. The words used were "A certain Member of the Government" meaning that it was a Member highly placed. Now, a certain Member implies that a name is known and that a name is hidden secret from the House. That is one interpretation. Of course, the difficulty will arise in that the hon. Member making the statement may never have been told because the man who actually made the statement was the hon. Seroney. So, we may now, be chasing our tails. We may never know the truth. However, what it does mean is that when the words "A certain Member of the Government high up" is named it obviously means that some name was given. If it was given, then, we will never know the truth. This is the difficulty.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order—

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): However, I think we are spending too much time on that. I think we will now— Hon. Mutiso was not the person asked to substantiate, although by virtue of his implication he was called upon to substantiate and, I think, we have gone as far as we can get in this issue. Mr. Seroney was speaking.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I must congratulate the Mover of the original Motion. I must congratulate him for the work he did yesterday in getting the House to approve, in principle, the Recurrent Estimates. He did this by giving certain assurances to the House.

One of the assurances was that in the next Estimates, there would be a breakdown. Now, it was our intention to include, for Development Estimates, an amendment requiring a provincial breakdown with regard to, at least, certain Votes like the Ministry of Lands where there are land adjudication teams and there were a lot of personal emoluments. However, we have not proceeded with that, but I sincerely hope that when the House goes into committee all the information available will be given to us. However, I would like to warn Members, again, of something which I do not know whether they noticed yesterday. This applies, also, to Development Estimates. All the Ministers who spoke said they had this information and they could put it before the House at the Committee stage. Now, the difficulty is that if this is suddenly produced in the House and laid on the Table, and hon. Members have no copies, we will not be able to discuss this intelligently. That is why we were insisting that Members should have this advance information so as to save time so that when we come to the Committee stage Members will have that information with which to discuss.

Now, about these assurances being given by the Government every time. I welcome the assurance already given by the Minister that he is going to bring a Bill before this Parliament. However, I would like this House to support the amendment on the principles I have underlined because we must emphasize the fact that we are not to be used as rubber stamps for agreements we know nothing about and that this Motion is not going to delay any development at all.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) left the Chair]

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) resumed the Chair]

Mr. Seroney: The person who is going to delay the development is this person who is using these Development Estimates as blackmail and saying "Unless you accept this package deal, you will get nothing". All we are saying is that we welcome development, but remove these items, then we can discuss them later at length. There is no urgency! If any, I would like to be told. I would like to be told, Mr. Speaker, Sir, what urgency there is about nationalizing the Standard Bank and Barclays Bank. There is no urgency; there is no necessity. I am told, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that these two banks say that they are going to amalgamate, anyway, whether or not Government takes over 60 per cent of them. All right, why should Government feel that they have to be in a hurry? Let these two banks amalgamate and carry on independently of the Commercial Bank of Kenya. There is no need for the Government to set any fears in them; controlling or otherwise. Let there be at least two banks which can compete against one another so that if you are dissatisfied with one you can go to the other. Again, there will be no harm to the country if we delay that instead of hastily going into it.

So, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we can discuss this matter next month or in the next two or three months. The country will not lose anything. In fact we have to argue in this House and be convinced that it is really necessary to acquire this bank. I am convinced that it is not necessary; we do not need them and it will be harmful to this country if they are absorbed by the Commercial Bank of Kenya. Therefore, I would not like any Minister to say that we are delaying development. We move this thing and carry on with the development.

[Mr. Seroney]

Also, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with regard to this Oil Agreement in Mombasa; let the Government lay their Agreement on the Table and, then we will discuss it and then we will find out whether we agree to authorize money to the Government to spend on that. And, also, this question of Kerio Valley; let the Government—the Minister for Natural Resources or whoever Minister is responsible—lay on the Table the Agreement. It is no good for him answering like he answered the Member for Kerio that it is not necessary. If it is not necessary for this House to look at the Agreement, then why come to this House to ask for money to implement it?

Therefore, I am saying, let the Minister for Natural Resources lay on the Table this Agreement with this American Company of his and, then, we will discuss that Agreement and see whether it is right to risk public money, namely, in the form of a loan to the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation to spend it on this venture in the Kerio Valley.

So, I do not want to say more. It hurts a great deal when Members of this House, even the senior Members, get up and try to mislead the House. The issues are very simple. No delay is required; no delay is sought. It is very clear actually what we want. The people who delay these things are actually not those who raised this amendment. So, I support the amendment

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the last few days, some hon. Members have suggested that they are more representative of wananchi than others.

An hon. Member: Who are they?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Like Mutiso!

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): I would like to say that we are equally representatives of wananchi. This question of suspicion and following everything that is being done by Government as if it is wrong, we might as well review some of the things that have been done in some areas where some Members are so critical of the Government.

An hon. Member: Where?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): At Yatta!

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): The hon. Member for Yatta has a furrow and has a number of other things done there.

Mr. Mutiso: No!

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): The hon. Member for Kitale West said that we should stop these items indefinitely; meaning that Broderick Falls Paper and Pulp Factory should be withheld—

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect, when I was moving my amendment, the Vice-President was not in this House. Now, is he in order to mislead the House when, in actual fact, my amendment is only seeking to remove certain Heads in the Development Plan which affect the Government when getting money or borrowing money to buy shares; is he right to mislead the House; I did not mention Broderick Falls?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): I am as clear as daylight. As a Government, we are not like children who pick up everything. Either we withdraw the whole thing or accept it. There is a chance, Mr. Speaker, for the Member to suggest at the Committee stage—what is item “B”; what is it representing. That is the way of how to make suggestions and incorporate those suggestions.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, somebody is suggesting that mining in Kerio Valley is possible. I would like exploitation of mining to be carried out; even if it is by so many companies, to exploit mines. Other Members say that we want to wait. Wait until when; until doomsday?

An hon. Member: Yes, that is right!

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Government has been very active on mineral exploration in the North-Eastern Province, Eastern Province, Kerio Valley and other areas; even the Coast. These things are being done. In actual fact, this Government has taken the majority of the shares which represent the public—the wananchi—for whom the hon. Members are speaking for; unless they were speaking for wananchi who are invisible.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, for all these years the Government has been accused of doing nothing—practically nothing! Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other day, we were accused that we overspend money. All right. When I visited, for example, Kisii, Kericho, Masai areas, one of the hon. Members told me, “Mr. Minister, could you make sure that you have security roads in these areas?” The Government had not budgeted, in the original Estimates, money for these areas and, when I tried to face the Treasury to provide money for security roads and not only in Kisii, Kericho, Masai areas, Turkana and other places, the Members come here and say that money was overspent; the civil servants are bad. Now, Mr. Speaker, if we have to go back and tell the people that the Members do not want to spend money on these security roads, and so, I withdraw the money.

Mr. Tsuma: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it my understanding that if we discuss in this House overexpenditure like the one which was brought here by our Public Accounts Committee, then the Vice-President says that we say that money has been overspent because security roads were built in Kericho, Kisii or Masai area; it is not true to say that we say that there is overexpenditure. It is true because there is—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is your point of order, Mr. Tsuma?

Mr. Tsuma: Is it in order for the Vice-President to say that we say that Government has overspent the money when it has not; why was there a Committee?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, you are expressing a difference of opinion, Mr. Tsuma. You do not have to agree with what the Vice-President says if he does not convince you, but he is giving you an example of a case where money was spent which was never budgeted for and this leads on to this situation where we have to pass Supplementary Estimates to meet these unforeseen expenditures, and so on.

Mr. Mutiso: He should have come before the House and asked for the money.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was giving an example of what the Members accused the Government of, overspending, in the other debate. That is why I am telling them, we are telling them that this is what we are trying to do.

Now, Sir, on the question of development, which the Member would like us to withdraw, any hon. Member who wishes to enforce his ideas, if those ideas are good can do so at the Committee stage. Who will prevent him from doing so and who will prevent him from asking questions relating to all items about development in the Supplementary Estimates? No one will do so. What we are saying is, we want to speed up development. In Kerio Valley, for instance, my friend the hon. Member for Tinderet, suggested that Kerio Valley mining should be delayed. There are about 200 people already employed there. If we are to withdraw this and tell the company concerned and others, "Stop" until we can discuss, then those people will be rendered unemployed. In this event we will be asked why the Government has not done this and that. So, Mr. Speaker, it is the question of really basing our arguments and ideas on things that matter.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, would you agree with me that the Vice-President is actually misleading the House by stating that the hon. Member, when he pointed out that the agreement of Kerio Valley should be made public before the House, and also by moving this amendment, this is tantamount to displacing the already employed 200 workers in that particular place when we know that these people have already been employed and they are not being paid with this particular money? They are already in employment. Is he not misleading the House by saying that by refusing to allow this Motion to go as it is we shall render people unemployed whereas, in fact, they are already in employment?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Again, you are disputing what is being said. Some of these points of order, really, I do not think are necessary.

Obviously if there is no money to continue, then the work will come to a standstill and people will be rendered redundant.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, I was as clear as daylight. For the information of the hon. Member, the hon. Member for Kitale West said, "by removal therefrom of subhead A of Head 9" which means "Loans and Grants to Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation for industrial development investment in Fluorspar Company of Kenya". Now, if that is withdrawn, Sir, naturally a person with a logical mind will know that these people will be rendered unemployed.

Again, there is no point in saying, withdraw that item and not this one. We want our people to be given loans, have industrial estates in our area. I would commend the hon. Members to go and see what has been done by the Industrial and Commercial Development Corporation in the Industrial Area. If they see this, they will come back fully convinced of what is being done by the Government.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I completely oppose the amendment.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move that the question of the amendment be now put.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The proposal made by Mr. Kariuki does not stop the debate from continuing. I feel we have debated this long enough now and we are still on the first part of the amendment which is to leave out certain words.

I will put this question.

(Question of the first part of the amendment, that the words to be left out be left out, put and negatived)

(Debate on the original Motion resumed)

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, may I move that the Mover be now called on to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think that is worth considering.

(Question, that the Mover be now called upon to reply, put and agreed to)

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will be very brief.

The Votes that have increased here, and I want to repeat this point in view of what has been said, these are continuing projects in development which are moving faster than was originally anticipated. We need the money in order to complete them during this Financial Year. We need to complete them because the faster we can complete development projects, the better for our nation, for employment, for roads, for everything.

Mr. Speaker, hon. Members will have noticed that we have tried in as far as it is at all possible here, to expand in those fields, in the rural areas, which Members have in the past asked us to participate in.

As regards the policy questions, the issue that has been raised by so many Members, on certain points about Government participation, I know that it is an agreed policy, I know, Sir, that it is actually so stated in the Kanu Manifesto, I know that it has been a guide of the party and of the Government. I, therefore, Sir, fail to see why we should have been required that in the implementation of our party Manifesto, in the implementation of a policy already agreed, that we should have come back for broad guidance; we already have that guidance. So we have taken it upon ourselves to implement that policy. It is for that reason that we did not regard it as being necessary that we should bring these things back here, every time one wanted to participate in a mining company, in an oil company, in a refining company, or any of these things. These are policies which are fully spelt out in our own party Manifesto, under which we have been operating and we are well guided by them.

Secondly, Sir, a lot of points have been made about the Government acting first and then coming to this House. Now, Sir, I want to say that in the Government nobody takes this Parliament for granted. Nobody at all. If we did, we would not have to come to this Parliament so regularly. Therefore, Sir, we do not take Parliament for granted, we take it seriously. I do not think anyone is suggesting, not even the Member for Tinderet, above all he would not because he knows why there has to be an Executive and why there must be a Legislature, that the day-to-day activities in pursuance of the Development Plan approved by this House, that we should keep coming back for detailed instructions. We would be failing in our duty. What would we be employed for if, in pursuance of an agreed development programme, every time the Minister wanted to decide whether or not a state corporation wanted to buy shares in some company where he is convinced for the strategy of development it is important, he had every time to come here, then very soon we would have no confidence in him. I am sure of this and I am sure the Member for Yatta and his friend, the Member for Tinderet, would be the first people to protest that the Minister is behaving in a petty manner if every time he had to come here.

So, Mr. Speaker, I am suggesting seriously that we have not overstepped the normal bounds within which the Executive should operate because we are operating within the Development Plan, within the Kanu Manifesto, within general directives which from time to time we get here—during the budgetary debate—by this House. Therefore, Sir, I do hope the Member for Kitale West was not serious when he suggested that we are trying to make the House a rubber stamp. No one is trying to do that.

Now, Mr. Speaker, in regard to the Estimates themselves, we are bringing Supplementary Estimates in order to avoid precisely what the Members told us to avoid last week when we debated the reports of the Public Accounts Committee. They told us, Sir, that we must avoid coming back here at the end of the Financial Year and say that we had to spend a little bit extra here because cholera struck, and we had to spend monies on this and that. They said we had to avoid coming back here at the end of the Financial Year. They want us to come during the Financial Year, and, therefore, the question of overexpenditure is avoided. Now, Sir, this is what we have done. I would have thought that having done what we were being asked only last week to do we were due for a little compliment. Mr. Speaker, we did not quite get it, but we have learnt not to expect too much. However, we think a little bit would have been nice.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Mr. Speaker, it is on this point that I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

FUTURE OF FORM IV TECHNICAL STUDENTS SCHOOL-LEAVERS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I will now call on a Minister to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the House do now adjourn.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to raise a matter relating to a reply which was given by the Minister for Education with regard to the question I asked about Form IV students who completed technical school in 1970. I am raising this matter despite the fact that I know there is nothing that this Parliament can do. We have passed a lot of Motions here on the substance of issues and nothing has been done. The best index is, at present, you can see the way Ministers are yelling in Parliament when we are discussing matters of national importance such as this one.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am finding it difficult to speak because the Ministers are holding their own barazas on the Front bench.

Mr. Mulwa: Can they not go out and leave us alone to talk here?

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, a Motion for the Adjournment, as far as I have seen, does not seem to bring anything. Not only that, but, in fact, substantive Motions in this House have just been left lying in the paper. But we will still continue talking because our views are being heard by those who want to hear.

The plan at present about technical students who finish Form IV and who come out from those places is that first of all they come out with a school certificate or, as it is now called, the Certificate of Education. They come out with something which is called G2, pre-technician examination certificate. Formerly they used to get a different certificate which was recognized abroad but this is now a new system, and is not known to the employer.

The present system, Sir, is that the Ministry of Education has escorted these children from Std. I to Form IV. After reaching Form IV they abandon them to the wild and leave them to decide on their own future. This is why I am protesting, Sir, because on reaching Form IV they leave and have to be employed through a certain machinery which was established through this House, a system of apprenticeship. In that system a child has to undergo apprenticeship for about five years. Mr. Speaker, the people who are supposed to train these children, these recent school graduands are the employers themselves. Now, these people are meant to replace the expatriates who have been supposed to be the only technicians in this country and these are the technicians who are giving them training so that they may replace them after five years. I want to know, Sir, who is that technician who would train somebody to replace him? Will he give him that particular standard of training which is required so that he may replace him?

Hon. Members: No! No!

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is something which is based on a very ridiculous and illogical approach.

Not only that but for these five years, you know, it is like feeding a big man with a teaspoon. You can see how long it will take him to get satisfied. These are the people who are picked from Form IV and they have to get this teaspoonful feeding of technical know-how, and that is why they are taking five years. My question is: why cannot the Government have its own schools for training these people so that they qualify more quickly? Is it not time that we had a crash programme on technical matters? Must we wait until we have them trained by these people, the expatriates, so that they can replace them? I think this system was a device by the expatriates in the Ministry of Education. For example, Sir, all the school inspectors are British and these are the chaps who are supposed to advise on curriculum and other matters. How do you expect them to advise on how our local people will replace them? This is the kind of thing we are finding throughout the Government, which is disappointing.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I wonder whether the Member speaking is not misinforming the House by saying that all the school inspectors are British when he knows very well that we have a Chief Inspector of Schools who is an African? He controls all these other fellows. I seek your guidance here Mr. Speaker.

[The Assistant Minister for Education]

Mr. Kivuitu: That may be the only one, otherwise there is Mr. Baumann, Mr. Noble. Do you want me to quote all of them?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the point I am trying to make is this: that we are depending on advice from these people so that we may have our people trained to take over from them. How do you expect this to be done when you have such a system?

Sir, you will also notice that there is only one Technical High School which has Forms V and VI. One such school in the whole of Kenya! Yet you hear the Minister singing, "We want technicians." It is only Nakuru which now has Higher School Certificate. Besides that we have places like the Polytechnic here, where you can only go if you are sponsored by a company which employs you; if nobody sponsors you, you cannot go there because it is too expensive. Why can the Ministry not do something so that we can have a crash programme? If we say we need technicians, why do we have a system which takes so long to get people to fill those posts, yet at the same time we cannot employ the people who are trained in the socialist countries. Besides that, Mr. Speaker, Sir, when these people come out of the school, and they have taken these five years, the salaries they are getting are ridiculous; some of them are getting Sh. 200 per month, and they are here in Nairobi, they are not provided with accommodation; they are not provided with anything, and a fellow is supposed to be in Nairobi, receiving training, receiving Sh. 200 for five years, and he is a Form IV person. What are we trying to do here; we are trying to discourage students from going to these schools.

Mr. Speaker, I do not want to take the time of the House on this issue, I want to leave it to the other Members, to express their views. However, I must express my disgust, that our Government, which claims that it intends to have technicians, its policy at present is, in fact, to discourage them and, in fact, to encourage the Whites to remain here.

I beg to move.

Mr. Mulwa: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, Sir. This is a very important Motion, Sir, and I hope the Minister will equally take it seriously. When we speak on these things, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to assure our Ministers that it is because we are very worried about the future of this country, particularly when we continue having children coming out of school, at a very early age, with no qualifications at all, but academic education, which is not giving them jobs anywhere. The biggest danger you can have in a country, Mr. Speaker, is unemployed people; to cause trouble. They do not need to have any guns. Therefore, I hope the Minister takes this in good faith, and starts cracking, to find out what he is going to do about this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I suggest the following: to start with, as far as technical education is concerned in this country, we find that most of the examinations are still overseas examinations, and I think this is a big set-back. Take for example the examinations—some of them—taken in the Polytechnic, City and Guilds, you find they are all overseas examinations, for which the students are trained there, as the hon. Member said, only when they have been sponsored by a company, and then the standards are based on England. Here I would like to see our own examinations in this country; if it is for engineering or for things like that, let the Polytechnic do it or the University here, instead of having City and Guilds; I think that should go. Equally, with insurances: with insurances, you still have to train here, and then go and pass an examination in Britain; the Chartered Institute of Insurances. Why do we not have a local one here? Why do we still have to depend on the British standard? That one I suggest, should go as well.

The same thing goes with survey; you find that students do their studies here, and they are expected to pass examinations from Britain. Why should we continue relying on that; is it because we do not have the people here; is it the professors; that our people cannot check the examinations? I am sure we can do it. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister is shouting to me, but I cannot hear what he is mumbling about. However, I suggest he listens to what I am saying.

Now, coming to what the hon. Member who moved the Motion dwelt on, on these people who are supposed to give a ruling as to what sort of education we should have here, I would like to say that I have a very bad experience, particularly with the Railways, which could serve as an example to the Minister here. With the Railways, you find there are some people—Africans—who were trained to be locomotive drivers; just that, and for an African to be trained as a locomotive driver, he has to be a holder of a School Certificate; this is just to drive a locomotive, which anybody who never went to school can do. Most of those Europeans who are doing it, and those who were doing it, did not have a School Certificate. However, for an African, he must have a School Certificate, and not third grade; it must be second or first grade. Since those people were trained, the first and second lot—I hope he is listening—and qualified as drivers, you find not a single one—an African driver—can drive the 90 Class Locomotive, none can drive the 90 Class Locomotive, because for some reasons, these Europeans, who are still on top, managing, you know, are preventing these Africans who have School Certificates; they are being prevented by Europeans who never went to a high school. Mr. Speaker, Sir, on that point I am speaking with authority because I was in the Railways and I know what it is to be there. I know people who were trained, they qualified as locomotive drivers and they are still driving the old locomotive engines, shunting at Makadara. Are these the sort of people you are relying on to give you details on how to introduce technical education? Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member does not know, then, I am telling him.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, now we have so many children who have passed their Cambridge School Certificate and they cannot get jobs. I am sure that the Minister will agree with me, Mr. Speaker, that he has no way and he has no method of getting these people jobs. What I will suggest is that Government should direct its mind into starting a crash programme to train people who have done the Cambridge School Certificate. Let them go back to school. Get some money somewhere so that we can train these people to do the work of electricians which is now done by Singhs, you will find that this profession is only manned by Sikhs and they will tell all sorts of lies to the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau and Immigration Department so that they can get their work permits. Just the other day, I had a very interesting incident where one employer said he was training somebody called So-and-so who was an African. When the person who was supposed to be undergoing the training was asked, he said that he does not know the man. All he wanted was to tell a lie to the authorities so that he could get a work permit. To your surprise, Mr. Speaker, I can tell you that he got the work permit to work for two years despite that fact that he was telling a lie that he was training an African. He gave the details that the man he was training was doing so well that within another two years he will be able to take over. There was nobody like an African being trained anywhere. There are very many jobs which could be taken by our young children who have done the Cambridge School Certificate provided Government takes this seriously and establishes one or two classes where they can be trained as mechanics, engineers and other professions.

With these few words, so that I can give other hon. Members a chance to speak, I beg to support.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Minister responsible for this portfolio will be able to answer these questions but I would like to answer the hon. Member who has just sat down. It is very unfortunate that he has quoted the example of the Railways because the railways is one of the departments in this country which is uppermost with the training of its employees and new intakes at its training school. There are over 250 students trained at the Railways Training School every year. Along with these are people who are trained within the industry. If he visits the railways workshops, he will see some people who started as illiterates and they have been taught by the railways to become literates and they are taking their places and getting their promotions.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is completely wrong to say that African drivers in the Railways Department are used as shunting drivers in the stations. This is not true. Today, the African locomotive drivers, drive passenger trains and goods trains between Nairobi and Nyeri, Nairobi and Kisumu and Nairobi and Mombasa. I cannot give the specific figure, Mr. Speaker, but if the hon. Member wants to impress the Government he should quote an example which is realistic. Quoting the Railways Department is really defeating his aims.

I would like to support the Mover of this Motion by saying that it is very important that a new outlook and emphasis is given to technical education because with technical education—I am sure that Government has already started doing something towards this—but it is very important that people do not just think that it is the grammar school type of education that is important. It is also important that in this country we do not also emphasize the academic side but we should give a new outlook to the young people by telling them that technical education is important. They will not realize that it is the truth until the curriculum in the schools in primary, secondary and college levels is incorporated in a very serious form. Therefore, I would very much support the Mover of this Motion, but I think the Seconder has given a very shameful example.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to support the Motion.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, thank you very much. I am very pleased to have a chance to say something on this Motion on technical education. Sir, it is shameful—When you go to our factories and garages, you find that we do not have people there and yet the people who have gone through technical education are being neglected. I, personally have an experience of having known some boys who qualified at Machakos Technical School, where after doing training for three years came to Nairobi to look for jobs and never had any. Yet we are short of technicians. These people who are technically qualified go round looking for jobs for a very long time simply because the planning of our Government is bad. In fact, they actually, required further training as if they were not fit, but no arrangements were made for them. Instead of factory owners and other garage owners taking an interest, they do not take any interest because they are not local people. They will always insist on having work permits for non-Africans or non-citizens who have been working with them so that they can continue while our own people are suffering.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we do not seem to have any proper plans for our people to be trained further and be able to be foremen in garages and so on. What these people are doing is to frustrate the few who have had the chance of going to technical colleges so that when they come out they are so frustrated that they discourage others. What I wish the Government to do is to have a plan for training more technicians and after they qualify, after four years, Government should have more colleges where they can go to do a lot of practical work as well as technical work. They should not be sponsored by foreign companies and they should not only be trained by foreigners. This is because they are these foreigners who are fighting hard to see that these technicians do not come and replace their fellow foreigners. The difficulty we are having at present is that we have British citizens to train Kenya citizens so that they can replace British foremen. It becomes very difficult for these to have proper training.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we feel that there must be a move— This is because this is a political exercise and must be watched politically so as to have an effect. They do not want to be Africanized; those trainers do not want their brothers to be Africanized, therefore, we must go into it more seriously. This is why I stand to support this Motion that our Government must do something seriously now. They should watch these people who are training our people because instead of training, they are doing the contrary.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kibisu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, like my colleague, the Minister for Power and Communications—certainly the Minister for Education will be replying officially—I would like to take this opportunity to touch on a few matters which I think are predominantly labour.

The hon. Member for Parklands as well as the hon. Member for Makuani, are both entitled to be concerned about the contribution on the school-leavers at School Certificate level in our labour market. It is a pity that the two hon. Members should really be looking at the past. It is not so long ago, Sir, when, in this honourable House, moves were initiated and steps taken to introduce an urgent law which—thanks to the wisdom of the House—has been enacted and upon which the Ministry of Labour is now acting. This was the Industrial Training Levy Act, which we are now in the process of implementing very speedily and which should be able, precisely, to answer a great many of the problems being raised by the hon. Members. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say, though, that training is traditionally known to have two values. One is to enable a person to do a job and two, to enable a person to do that job better. Our labour market is not geared to train electricians, masons or carpenters only, but it is also necessary in the process of industrial training levy to retrain some of our already trained individuals so that graduates— Mr. Speaker, I am sorry my time is up, I beg to support.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): First of all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to thank my hon. colleagues, the Minister for Power and Communications, the hon. Ngala and the hon. Kibisu who has just been beaten by time when he was trying to explain a very important point in connexion with this Motion. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Mover of this Motion, made a number of suggestions which I would like to assure him were noted. At the same time, Sir, I would like to say the following.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: What is wrong with your throat?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the original question, which was brought to this House asked the Minister for Education to disclose to this House what plans the Ministry has for the future of the students who left technical secondary schools in 1970. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in reply to that question, it was stated that those students who complete a four years' course in technical secondary schools and do well, gain entry to Nakuru Technical Secondary School where they receive an advanced level course which prepares them to gain entry to the University for training as engineers. Mr.

[The Assistant Minister for Education]

Speaker, Sir, it was further stated that those other students who do not gain entry to Nakuru Technical School are absorbed in teacher training colleges, for instance, in the Kenya Polytechnic and in the Kenya Science Teachers' College for training as teachers for practical subjects. Mr. Speaker, this is an example to show that we have arrangements in our Ministry to absorb these school-leavers. The rest of the students find their way to the local industries through the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau. There may be a few who are not absorbed in any of the institutions, but this is the machinery we use to cater for the students who leave our technical secondary schools.

Mr. Speaker, here, I must inform the House that under our present technical education system, we produce two types of students. One type are the students who go to our technical secondary schools for four years and their curriculum includes most of the academic science and practical subjects after which, at the end of the four years, these students sit for the East African Certificate of Education examination. Those students who do well are taken to Nakuru Technical School for a two more years' training course in order to gain entry requirement into our university here. The second type consists of those students who come from vocational secondary schools. These students undergo a three year course which is meant to fit them for employment in our industry. They are encouraged to adopt industrial outlook. The students are also taught to appreciate workmanship and this is the group which is easily phased out through the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau to our local industries as apprentices.

Mr. Mulwa: About how many?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): Quite a substantial number, Mr. Speaker. I do not have the figures but if the hon. Member is interested, I will be able to give him the number later.

Mr. Mulwa: Of course, you know we are interested.

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): I am just trying to explain the arrangements we have at the moment. I do not disagree with the idea that there is a need for improvement on our present system. I entirely agree with that and I admitted and said we agree that there is a need for improvement on our technical education in our technical secondary schools. Our Ministry is looking into this and it will do its best within the limited resources, to provide what the Members have suggested and what is going to be useful to our nation.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have, at the moment, about 250 students from these vocational secondary schools who are now undergoing a pre-craft course in our National Industrial Vocational Training Centre.

An hon. Member: Where?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): In Kenya.

Mr. Speaker, this is just to give the Members an example that our Ministry is trying to prepare or to provide the best facilities available within our limited financial resources, to give our students opportunities to be absorbed in the industries. However, as I said, we realize that there are certain bad things which need to be changed and which need to be looked into. We will certainly go into them and take into account what the Members have said.

However, I must make one point very clear here. The Members are under the impression that once a child has gone through a technical school, he is now qualified to be absorbed directly in an industry. This is not correct. He needs further training.

Mr. Mulwa: What further training?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): The hon. Member made another point when he asked: why should we teach our students a system which is used—and set them examinations which are done overseas? He must first, of all realize that the machines which these technicians will use are from those places he is talking about—overseas. Therefore, they must be taught the same— Since we do not manufacture machines, Mr. Speaker, we must admit that not until such time we shall be able to produce some of those machines and computers and others that we will be able to set local examinations for our technicians here.

With these few remarks, I think the hon. Members would be satisfied with my remarks that we have taken note of their points and certainly the Ministry will see what can be done to improve the situation.

POINT OF ORDER

ORDER OF BUSINESS—DELAYED ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, on Tuesday one of my questions appeared on the Order Paper and I understood Mr. Speaker, to say that the Ministry was not ready to answer it and it would appear on the Order Paper on the following day, which was yesterday. This question did not appear yesterday and I now find it is not on the Order Paper today.

May I know, Sir, what has happened.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Gatuguta, I am sorry but I understand a reply to your question has not been received yet.

[The Speaker]

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I also had a question which, I am sure you remember, you put off for reply but up to now I have not had a reply from the Ministry of Home Affairs.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Which question was that, Mr. Kitonga?

Mr. Kitonga: It was about a Police Constable. The Assistant Minister replying had the wrong number and the wrong name and that is why you ordered the question to be put off to the following day in order that the Assistant Minister could bring the correct answer.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Oh, yes, you are quite right, Mr. Kitonga. I did put off that question because there was an argument as to which was the right number.

Unfortunately, it cannot come now but I will give you an opportunity of raising it.

Mr. Kitonga: Thank you, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next Order.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 231

MOTOR ACCIDENTS ON NAIROBI/NANYUKI/MERU ROAD

Mr. Muturia, on behalf of Mr. Muthamia, asked the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs if he would tell the House how many motor accidents had occurred on the Nairobi/Nanyuki/Meru Road during the last two years.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. During the last two years the following accidents occurred on the main Nairobi/Nanyuki/Meru Road, the breakdown being as follows:—

	1969	1970
Fatal Injuries	66	64
Serious Injuries	93	114
Slight Injuries	125	141
Total ..	284	319

Mr. Muturia: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Minister, is he aware that in 1970 the accidents on this road increased to 141 because of a certain section where, when the road was being built, between Nanyuki and Meru, a certain farmer refused to allow the road to pass through his farm and, therefore, that particular stretch is becoming dangerous?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, I do not think these accidents are attributable to this farmer.

Mr. Umuro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Vice-President agree with me that in view of the fact that the Nanyuki/Meru Road up to Timau is completely out of order, and because of some favouritism there is a new road which leaves out the portion from Timau to Meru, and it is in a wrong place where the heavy commercial vehicles do not travel?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. Member ought to thank the Government. The road in part of this area is now being tarmacked. So instead of blaming the Government he should thank the Government. This is his particular area. The next phase—

Mr. Speaker, I hope the Member will not accuse the Government of overexpenditure.

Mr. Kivuitu: Arising from the Vice-President's reply, Mr. Speaker, could we know why, if the reasons are known, there has been an increase of so many accidents within this year, that is from 1969 to 1970? It seems almost to have doubled.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, this is not the fault of the Government.

The reasons are as follows: people are—

An hon. Member: Drinking too much!

Mr. arap Moi: People are becoming wealthier and wealthier every day and, therefore, for the information of hon. Members, vehicles being bought in Nairobi alone, every month, number 2,000. Outside Nairobi they are 2,000 and—

An hon. Member: Baringo?

Mr. arap Moi: Baringo is within Kenya.

The same roads we have, Sir, are used by more cars that we now have.

Secondly, the reason is also that people being wealthier, they drink more and, therefore, they drive these cars recklessly. That is how the accidents are caused.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, will the Vice-President not agree with me that the fact that some of the traffic which passes along the Nairobi-Nanyuki Road could have been diverted to another route and thus avoid some of these unnecessary accidents. The Nairobi-Nanyuki Road is too crowded with cars.

Mr. arap Moi: While I do not agree with the hon. Member I can only say this. Some of the diversions in different parts of the country make it difficult for Government to proceed faster. If roads are transferred to different parts of different sections, then there have to be negotiations and the people may not wish to give up that portion. So things go slowly.

[The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs]

However, Sir, I agree with the hon. Member that it is time that certain areas where it is very difficult, improvements should be done to avoid accidents.

However, Mr. Speaker, accidents are not Government's fault.

Question No. 214

RACIAL BREAKDOWN OF DISTRICT MAGISTRATES

Mr. Seroney asked the Attorney-General—

- (a) if he would give a racial breakdown of District Magistrates of 1st, 2nd and 3rd class;
- (b) how many Special Magistrates there were and what their racial breakdown was;
- (c) what plans, if any, there were to promote African District Magistrates to 1st Class Magistrates.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

(a) For the information of the hon. Member, there are no District Magistrates with 1st class powers and all other District Magistrates are citizens.

(b) There are six Special Magistrates who are Europeans.

(c) The Judicial Service Commission intends to fill seven vacancies for District Magistrates with 1st class powers by promoting District Magistrates with 2nd class powers, and it is expected that this will be done very soon.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Attorney-General's reply, could he tell this House why they have special magistrates and where do they sit and listen to the cases?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, we still have special magistrates because there is a need for having this class of magistrates.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Attorney-General's reply, will he tell us when these seven vacancies for the first class magistrates will be given to the Africans since the vacancies have been there for quite a long time or is it like a long story?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know what the hon. Member means by a long story. The question has just been asked by the hon. Member and I have already given the reply.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. Will the Attorney-General answer the question of how soon the vacancies will be filled by Africans and leave the other business aside?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have just said that the Judicial Service Commission will consider these cases—I am not going to say that it will be very soon just to satisfy the hon. Member. This matter has to be discussed. We have to consider these cases because, after all these people are going to sit in judgment upon their fellow men and we must not make rushed decisions.

Mr. Mnene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Attorney-General tell this House what has prevented the filling of the seven vacancies because I know—I have been working as a magistrate—that these vacancies have been there since 1966 and yet they have not been filled?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, these vacancies have been there but we have not had suitable candidates to fill these posts. The hon. Member says that he knows—he was a magistrate and we cannot appoint him a magistrate while he is sitting in this House.

Mr. Mnene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure that the Attorney-General knows that I, together with those who are still there as second class magistrates, have been conducting our work properly and in such a good manner—wait, I am telling the Attorney-General—and the African magistrates working as second class magistrates, and third class magistrates have been doing so well that they did not fail. They went through so well, compared with the resident magistrates just because they were so good. Why does he say that there are no people to fill these posts?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, you will allow me, although that was not a question, to clear the air. Hon. Members who are familiar with our laws— It is surprising that lawyers have not been asking these questions because they are familiar. The hon. Member has been blowing his own trumpet. It would have sounded better if I had said that those magistrates have been doing very well. I am not going to say that. The only thing that I wish to say, Mr. Speaker, is that we now have qualified African lawyers. We are not going to appoint people to sit as magistrates to be made a fool of by the people who are qualified. We must be satisfied that the people we appoint as magistrates are people who are going to be able to face qualified lawyers in courts. I am not going, Mr. Speaker, to appoint people as magistrates just because they are Africans.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Gatuguta, before you ask your question, I have seen the reply and it looks rather too long. The reply covers two pages of papers and you will probably be given the total amount that you want and the paper will be laid on the Table or you will be given it in writing.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is very important that the figures I have asked for should go on the record. I think it will only take the Minister two to three minutes for him to read them through. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if you allow me, Sir, I would like to ask the question.

*Question No. 253*TOTAL COLLECTION OF 1970 GRADUATED PERSONAL TAX

Mr. Gatuguta asked the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning if he could tell the House—

- (a) what the total graduated personal tax collected in the Republic was during 1970;
(b) what the breakdown per district was.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

The total collection for the districts, including Mombasa and Nairobi is K£5,188,966. The Municipalities of Kisumu, Kitale, Eldoret, Nakuru and Thika retained their collections and so they are not included in these figures, Mr. Speaker.

As regards part (b) of the question, the breakdown—I understand, Mr. Speaker, that I could read the figures—is as follows.

Marsabit (including Moyale)	72,000
Total	Sh. 103,779,315.35

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since it is quite clear from the Minister's reply which I think is a very good reply that most of this money—over Sh. 62 million were paid in the form of graduated personal tax in Nairobi and since we all know that Nairobi is composed of people from all the districts, will the Minister tell the House whether some of this money from Nairobi will be returned to the districts where these people come from in order to develop the districts.

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member knows that there used to be a system whereby 50 per cent of the graduated personal tax collection from Nairobi and Mombasa used to be dispersed to various districts. There were then complaints that that system was not working. The hon. Member will then recall that this House agreed that the essential services run by the various county councils, that is, education, roads and the health should be transferred to the Central Government. The natural consequences of that decision was that the source of revenue that went to finance those services should naturally go to the Central Government Consolidated Fund. Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Member is now asking that over and above that new arrangement he would still like some other arrangements to be made for payment out of Nairobi and Mombasa to the other county councils, I am not aware whether he is still saying this or not after I have given him this new detailed information.

Mr. Njiru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Minister, since it appears that some areas do pay more money than others, would the Minister tell us whether the areas which pay more money will also get more money for their services?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member knows where there is this difference in the amount of money paid by various districts. It is the obvious fact of different levels of development in different districts, the obvious difference in the sizes of population, for instance, there is no point in comparing the population of Kiambu District and that of Mandera, and the hon. Member knows these are the differences. Mr. Speaker, the services are, in fact distributed in roughly the same proportions as these figures indicate, as far as the money collected from the graduated personal tax is concerned. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member can rest assured that this is being done.

Mrs. Onyango: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell this House why some civil servants do not pay graduated personal tax in the places where they work. I am asking this because in places like Kisumu you find that civil servants like the district commissioner or the provincial commissioner do not pay graduated personal tax in Kisumu but it is deducted here in Nairobi and the money remains here.

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the gracious and hon. Lady the Member for Kisumu Town has a very important point. This has been corrected in that now that the graduated personal tax accrues in the Central Government Consolidated Fund, we are making sure that monies which should be paid in a district where a particular person is working is paid there. The reason why there has been centralization of deductions is that most Ministries have centralized payments so that it is much easier for them to maintain their accounts. However, we will make sure that, and, in fact, we are making sure that graduated personal tax is remitted to the district where a particular person is working. Once in a while, in the Civil Service case, Mr. Speaker, we might lag behind for a couple of days when people have been transferred. However, these are normal headaches in an operation which involves this scale.

Question No. 246

EXTENSION OF KITALE DISTRICT
HOSPITAL MATERNITY WARD

Mr. Wabuge asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether he was aware that the maternity ward at Kitale District was so small that it could not adequately cope with maternity cases in the district. If the answer was in the affirmative, had the Ministry any plans to extend the maternity ward.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my friend, the Minister for Health, I beg to reply. We are aware that Kitale maternity ward should be extended and, in fact, its expansion is considered along with the others in the Estimates now being prepared.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could we know how large the intended extension of the ward will be?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have been taking statistics of the rate of occupants of this particular maternity ward and as the hon. Member knows, there is an alarming increase in the Kenyan population and Kitale is one of the leading places in this particular expansion. I do not know whether this is a distinction for which they should be congratulated or whether it is something they should be ashamed of.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply and in view of the fact that the present maternity ward was built by the colonialists at the time—as the Minister rightly said—the population was very small compared with today's population which has raised to about five times so that the mothers find it very difficult to get accommodation in the ward, will the Minister, having accepted that there is need to extend the maternity ward, assure this House or rather give an indication to this House as to when Government intends to expand this maternity ward so that the colonial maternity ward disappears.

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Member for Kitale West is as usual confusing two basic problems. He is worried about the history of what the colonialists did. Mr. Speaker, he ought to be happy that he has a maternity ward because there are many other places without any. What we are doing, therefore, is to consider the needs of Kitale along with the needs of districts which do not even have a maternity ward to speak of.

Question No. 242

DIVERGENT STANDARDS OF EDUCATION
IN SCHOOLS

Mr. Kivuitu asked the Minister for Education if he would tell the House—

- (a) whether he considered it a reasonable educational policy that schools in the country which purport to pursue socialist policies should provide extremely divergent standards of education; and

[Mr. Kivuitu]

(b) what measures the Ministry was taking to correct the disturbing state of affairs which existed at that time.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I know of no school in our country that provides extremely divergent standards of education. The truth is that all maintained and assisted schools, both primary and secondary follow the same syllabuses and do the same public examinations and are as far as possible provided with the same grades of teachers. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer to part (b) of the question is: when I know what school is, or schools are, not following instructions from my Ministry, then some action can be taken to rectify wrongs there are.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from what the Minister said when he tried to reply, is not correct that in Nairobi, there are schools which are called "A", "B", and "C" and in each class teachers are of different qualifications? In fact, those teaching in class "C" are of poorer qualifications and poorer quality than of class "A". Also, Sir, Nairobi itself has better teachers than outside it.

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what the hon. Member is complaining about is the difference in the performances in our schools. Our schools are graded (a) according to how long they have been there and the passes they have had including the efficiency and (b) admittance standards between class "A" and class "C" and their performances. A school has to mature and so some are more mature than others. Every school, Sir, is conditioned to be classified as "A" when its performances, teachers and the pass of the marks are all taken into account.

Mr. Kivuitu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sorry to interrupt, but I really would like the Minister to reply to my question without trying to mislead the House because I think he is trying to mislead the House. The question I am asking him is why there are these high-cost schools. In certain classes of schools in Nairobi there are better teachers. Now, he is telling us that as a result of having those classes, people are doing better. I am asking him why these schools should have better teachers and better facilities which enable them to have better standards?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not a problem of policy. The hon. Member's original question referred to policy; "divergent" policies. Sir, we have no such thing as divergent policies. Now, what is happening, Sir, is that in municipal areas, such as the City of Nairobi, teachers are recruited by the City Council. We are not, as a Government, directly responsible for teachers in municipal areas. We took over primary education in the rural areas and we have not, unless it is the wish of the hon. Member that we do it now, yet taken over the running of schools in the municipal areas in this country.

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply is the Minister trying to tell this House that the Minister for Education is not responsible for schools in municipalities and as such the standards of schools in Nairobi, Nakuru, Thika, Mombasa and all that is determined by the respective local authorities and the Ministry of Education? Also, Sir, is that why you have schools in Nairobi which charge exorbitant fees to bar the African children from going to those schools and not even to accept—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ask your question, do not make a statement.

Dr. Munene: Okay, Sir. Now, would the Minister tell us why we have different fees in different schools, in these municipalities, than elsewhere and as this encourages better teachers in some schools to bar poor Africans; the poor Africans are, therefore, in the lower class?

Mr. Towett: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would advise the hon. Member, before I reply to his question, to bring his children to Nairobi if he wants to. However, the question is that I did not say we are not responsible. I said that we are not "directly responsible". Here, the word "directly" means that we do not employ teachers for municipal area schools. They are employed by the bodies or councils that govern those areas. However, the teachers can be recruited through us. So, it is the responsibility of each better equipped council to employ its own teachers.

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, do not make a speech Mr. Koigi.

Mr. Koigi: My point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is we know that in this country we have nine high-cost schools which are different from other schools. Would the Minister deny this?

Mr. Towett: I do not deny that, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

QUESTIONS BY PRIVATE NOTICE

HARASSMENT OF Wananchi BY A EUROPEAN FARMER

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I ask my question, I would like to make a small correction. The person in question is Norman

[Mr. Mutiso-Muyu]

"Peckover" and not as his name appears on the Order Paper. Therefore, Sir, I beg to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following Question by Private Notice:—

Since on 29th May 1970, the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs, while replying to my Question No. 482 agreed that Mr. Norman Peckover had harassed wananchi on and around his farm; and noting that last month the same farmer shot at but missed a woman known as Kavuu Ngingu while collecting some charcoal near the same farm, is it not high time that this particular farmer was deported?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Efforts were made to trace the woman, Kavuu Nzingu, without success and there is no report made by her to Sultan Hamud Police Station concerning this incident. However, on 19th January 1971 a woman known as Kase (?) a woman of Masika Mbindyo reported to Sultan Hamud Police Station with a letter from the secretary of the Kanu branch, Emali, alleging that she was abused and chased away from the farm by Mr. Peckover, who is also alleged to have shot at her, but she was not hit.

Police investigations were carried out and it was found that this woman was on the farm of Mr. Peckover on 16th January 1971 and after cutting some wood was preparing to burn the same for charcoal. It was at this stage, she alleges, she was abused by Mr. Peckover and one of his employees, and as she was running away, she heard a shot but she did not see any fire-arm with Mr. Peckover. The woman lives near the railway's landhies which is about 20 yards from the farm. All persons interviewed in the area deny having seen any gun shot. As the hon. Member can see, it is not possible to prove that Mr. Peckover did, indeed, shoot at Kase a woman of Masika Mbindyo, let alone one of the names of Kavuu Nzingu. However, let me state that we have been closely watching this farmer since the time complaints were first made about him.

As I have said time and again, firm action will be taken against foreigners who ill-treat or abuse the people of this country.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: In view of the fact on the 29th May 1970 the Vice-President accepted that the European farmer in question fought a game warden, consequently he set his dogs on an African and thereafter he set his dogs on a police constable in a police station, is the Vice-President satisfied—in view of these acts of this particular European farmer—that these acts are proper? Is it not high time the Vice-President deported him?

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is wrong for the hon. Member to misinterpret what I said. I said that the matter which was asked at that time concerned—what I replied to the question arising from the circumstances then. However the activities and crimes which were committed by the farmer in question were taken to court. Therefore, the outcome of the case was the decision of the court and not of my Ministry.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, realizing that this is a serious matter and the hon. Member for Kilungu has alleged that the said European did try to shoot a woman by the name of Kavuu and not Kase now, would I, Sir, be allowed to ask the hon. Member to substantiate the date this mzungu tried to shoot this woman?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not think that is necessary because you have been told of a case where a woman alleged that she had been shot at, even if it is not this particular one.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, while I am not disputing what the Vice-President has said, we have slight differences, but what I am trying to find out is whether the Vice-President does not consider it high time, because of the activities of this particular farmer, that he deported him. I am prepared to lay on this Table documents from a higher authority disapproving continuous residence of this particular farmer. I am trying to find out, because of the continuous bad activities of this particular European, against Africans, whether the Vice-President, does not consider it high time he did something about this particular farmer?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member says that he had some letters—

Dr. Munene: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member for Kilungu has alleged that he can lay on the Table some letters from a higher authority, and I thought the Vice-President is one of the higher authorities, could we have those papers laid on the Table for substantiation?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is that you were referring to?

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said I am prepared, if the Vice-President is not prepared to take steps against this particular farmer, to lay documents on the Table from a certain authority in the administration disapproving continuous residence of this particular farmer in that area.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I can now understand what the hon. Member means. I agree with him that there have been some adverse reports about this particular farmer, the hon. Member is referring to, but I think the best solution is not always deportation, because I think that is what the hon. Member wants. However, I would ask the hon. Member, who is the hon. Member of the area, when he sees such things happen to go directly to the European and find out from this particular farmer himself why he does this always and this would help us.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What is your point of order? Please make it brief because we have not time.

Mr. Mutiso-Muyu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have made some effort to find out why he does this and I have also tried to make an appointment with the Vice-President in his office, on this issue, but he has done nothing.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we should not fear certain personalities. I am visiting one of these areas on 19th and 20th April and I will be prepared to see this farmer and see if he will shoot me.

Mr. Muregi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Vice-President is not of the opinion that deportation is the only answer, what is he prepared to do against this particular farmer if the citizens around are not satisfied with the continuous residence of this farmer?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have said that the situation will be watched and if this is discovered not to be the truth, then he will be left alone.

Mr. Munyasia: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would I be in order to ask the hon. Member, through the Chair, to allow me to pursue this matter on a Motion for the Adjournment?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is taking time for nothing.

EXTENSION OF WORK PERMIT NO. 774

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Will the Minister revoke the extension of Work Permit No. 774 dated 19th March 1968 which was accepted for renewal on 11th March 1971 for two more years?
- (b) What action is he contemplating taking against the applicants and officers who flouted our Africanization policy by issuing this permit?

(c) Why was the co-operation of the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau not sought by the Immigration Department in the matter?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. I do not, at the moment, intend to revoke this entry permit as suggested by the hon. Member, Permit No. 774, issued in the name of Mr. Kantilal N. Shah, of the Pan African Insurance Company. He is a qualified person, holding a degree in Commerce and also passed one of the examinations, the Chartered Institute of Insurers. He is also an expatriate qualified and experienced in technical professions and people with technical experience are still required in other places to assist in the running of the complicated businesses like the insurance. The declared Government policy is to Kenyanize the commercial sector, as quickly as possible but not to unduly upset the economy of the country by Kenyanizing, beyond the capacity of the commercial sector, to replace the expatriates with trained citizens.

No action is contemplated against either the applicant or the officer, who authorized the issue of the permit, as it is considered that it was issued in the best interests of both Kenyanization and the economy of the country.

Entry permits are issued and extended by the Department of Immigration under the authority of the Immigration Act with the full co-operation and advice of the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau, where it is considered necessary.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: While I do not want to tell the Vice-President that he does not tell the truth about this affair, would he discharge the feeling that there has not been any corruption in this affair of giving or extending this work permit?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I deny this emphatically.

Mr. Jilo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising out of the reply by the Vice-President, was he suggesting to this House that, because this gentleman has two degrees, this is the reason why he was issued with a work permit or is it the policy of the Government that people with degrees will continue to work in Kenya, just to hinder the Africanization policy?

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I just said that the person in question is a qualified person. I know a number of people who, today, particularly our people, would like to have accountants because they have difficulties over Income Tax and for some other purposes.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it not true that this company did indicate, in 1969, that this man would be replaced by an African when his work permit expired in 1971? In a letter written on 6th June 1969, the same employer had indicated, and I quote: "Mr. K. N. Shah, who is the head of the correspondence department, will be replaced by Mr. G. Kariuki, when Mr. Shah's permit expires". This was in 1969, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Now, I wonder whether the Vice-President is satisfied that there have been satisfying qualifications that have allowed this man remain, because the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau, in 1970, told the same employer, by this letter, that this Asian, could forthwith be Africanized by the Kenyanization of Personnel Bureau. I have the quotation here with me.

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question here is not about the issue of the work permit. I know very well what has been going on in that particular company. It is a question of the management and this particular man. That is why the trade union has been complaining about walk-outs and walk-ins. Therefore, the question of a work permit does not arise. The question which arises is that there is bad public relations between the management and the workers, which I hope the hon. Members will assist, if they can, in rectifying, together with the trade union leaders.

Mr. Boy: Arising from the Vice-President's reply, if the Vice-President as he says, knows that there is a dispute between this particular man and the employer, has he taken any initiative in his Ministry to investigate whether he can Africanize that particular man, before issuing the work permit?

Mr. arap Moi: Definitely, I have investigated this case and I am glad that the management and the workers have resolved their grievances very recently.

DELAY IN DELIVERING DEAD BODIES TO KISUMU MORTUARY

Mr. Okudo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs the following Question by Private Notice:—

Could the Minister tell this House why the four dead bodies, a wife of the Headmaster of Mwer Secondary School with her son and a man and his wife from Bunyala, which were collected by the police in the afternoon from the scene of a motor accident at Boro in Siaya District on 4th March 1971 were left lying outside Siaya Police Post for two days and a night before transferring them either to the mortuary or to Kisumu for post-mortem?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

On 4th March 1971 at about 1.30 p.m. an omnibus Registration No. KMG 544 which was carrying about 28 passengers and which was travelling to Bunyala, overturned some five miles away from Siaya Police Patrol Base. On receiving the report, the officer in charge of Ukwala Police Station visited the scene and found three dead bodies. The injured people were all taken to Siaya District Hospital. On the way to the Hospital, one other person died. The bodies of all four dead people were then taken to Siaya Patrol Base, as Siaya District Hospital does not have a mortuary. Inquiries were then commenced in order to have the bodies identified with a view to performing a post-mortem.

The following morning, that is 5th March 1971, at about 9 a.m., after identification, the bodies were transported to the new Nyanza Hospital. It should be noted that it is very essential that witnesses be traced to identify the bodies to the doctor who will eventually carry out the post-mortem.

In any case, the bodies were not left lying for two days and a night, as can be seen from what I have said.

Mr. Okudo: Arising from that answer, could the Assistant Minister tell the House what is the use of these dead bodies being taken to Kisumu Hospital, after it was already known that the people died from the accident, for post-mortem?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is usual when somebody is dead, that doctors would like to know the cause of that death. That is why we must have post-mortem.

Mr. Okudo: Since it was known that they died from the accident when the omnibus overturned what was the reason for carrying out the post-mortem when the relatives wanted to remove these bodies and transport them to their homes?

Mr. Matano: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the fact that somebody is found dead after an accident does not necessarily mean that the cause of death was the accident. It may be that he died of shock, heart failure or many other causes. The doctors are very keen to find out exactly why that person died.

APPOINTMENT OF SUB-CHIEFS IN SOY AND TURBO

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister of State, President's Office, the following Question by Private Notice:—

(a) Is the Minister aware that the District Commissioner for Uasin Gishu District

[Mr. arap Saina]

(Eldoret) has undermined the recommendations of a panel which interviewed the sub-chiefs for Soy and Turbo areas by recommending and imposing two candidates who are unwanted by the people?

(b) Could the Minister nullify the entire selection and the unsuccessful installation of the sub-chiefs?

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply.

(a) No, the district commissioner did not undermine the recommendations of the panel in any way whatsoever.

(b) No.

Mr. Kurgat: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Assistant Minister explain in detail who accompanied the district commissioner on the day of the installation of this unwanted sub-chief?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very thankful to that hon. Member. One of the Members of the panel was hon. arap Saina, the Questioner. The chairman of the county council in question was also present on that panel—

Mr. Kurgat: On a point of order. I think the hon. Assistant Minister did not understand my question. I asked "on the day of the installation" because as I understand there was an installation of the sub-chiefs. Was the district commissioner accompanied by the sitting Member or somebody else?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what is important, and this is a fact, is whether the Member for the area was present when the interview was carried out. I have answered that and said, "Yes, the hon. Member was present during the interview". Also the chairman of the county council in question and other leading personalities in that area were present and they approved the names of three people.

Mr. arap Saina: On a point of order, is the Assistant Minister not trying to avoid the truth by not stating to the House, that the panel selected, at Soy, Mr. arap Too as candidate No. 1 and Mr. arap Tuwei as candidate No. 2 and in Turbo they selected Jonathan Some as candidate No. 1 and Luis Mbano as candidate No. 2: and, the district commissioner having seen that the unwanted candidates were the people he was supporting, allowed the chairman of the county council and his group to organize a lining-up which almost caused chaos and that I had to ring up the provincial commissioner to cancel the lining-up? Was this not a violation of the panel's recommendation?

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, that is contrary to what really happened. The truth is that in Turbo, interviews were held on 11th September 1970 and the final selections were carried out because there were 34 candidates who applied for the post in Soy while there were 45 candidates who had applied for the post in Turbo. As I have stated clearly, Mr. Speaker, the recommendation which was submitted by the panel is what the Office of the President considered.

The first candidate who was appointed in Soy was considered. In the other place, the candidate who received the highest mark or who proved to be the most capable is the one who was appointed.

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question which was put to the Assistant Minister was: was the Member for the area present on the day of the installation of the sub-chief? We would like to hear the reply. He is replying to the contrary.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in actual fact, that is not a point of order. However, it is not necessary that a Member should be present during the installation day because he might be on that day, engaged elsewhere. What is important is the day when candidates are interviewed. This is the most important fact. Even myself, if I want to be present, I should like to be present when the candidates are being interviewed but the installation day is not so important.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We still have six questions to go through.

Next question.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Nthenge, your question.

An hon. Member: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We still have six Questions by Private Notice, so do not take the time of the House.

RESTRICTIONS ON PUBLIC MEETINGS

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister of State, President's Office the following Question by Private Notice:—

Since, during the last recess, Members of Parliament have been refused licences to hold public meetings, will the Government instruct district commissioners that Members of Parliament and Kanu officials have a right to holding public meetings during the next recess without restrictions imposed on them by public officers?

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. No, the district commissioners— Mr.

[The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office]

Speaker, Sir, I am replying to hon. Nthenge's question.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the answer is: Kanu and Members of Parliament have a right, like anybody else, to hold licensed, and I repeat licensed, public meetings. The restrictions only come about once any individual contravenes the conditions of the licence or when the prevailing security situation does not warrant the holding of such meetings. The usual control of public meetings is warranted by the need to preserve public order, so that people can go about their daily business feeling secure. There is no intention in any way, to restrict Members of Parliament holding public meetings.

In actual fact, Members of Parliament are encouraged to hold meetings, to join everyone else in educating the people for faster development.

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Assistant Minister tell us whether the district commissioners are going to be ordered that we should be allowed to hold meetings when we ask for them, and not be cheated by saying that there is insecurity every time we apply.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to emphasize this, and say that district commissioners have been told that Members of Parliament are people who have been popularly elected by their own people, and they should, however, Mr. Speaker, follow what has been said in the regulations, that they should apply for such meetings, and as soon as they apply, Sir, I do not see the reason, why they should not be granted permission.

Mr. Abubakar-Madhubuti: Is it true, Mr. Speaker, that if one applies for a licence, and the name of J. M. Kariuki appears in the licence, President's Office has directed that the meeting should be cancelled?

Hon. Members: Yes, tell us!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, really, this is asking a general question and I think there is no need to introduce an individual by name.

Mr. Mulwa: Would the Assistant Minister tell us, for example in Machakos District, what security risks have been there, for instance in the past few months or so, because we could not hold meetings there.

Mr. Munyi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think my good friend, the hon. Mulwa, is one of the Members who have been holding meetings in Machakos, and I know very well that whenever he asks for a meeting, Sir, permission is always granted.

Mr. Mulwa: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. A few days ago, Mr. Speaker, I, in fact, asked a question about answers given by Ministers being evasive, and you said we might discuss how to get around this. There was a question again yesterday, on the same ministry, and, Sir, you remember that the Minister of State, President's Office, the hon. Koinange, started dragging the President into my question, when I asked about the deteriorating relationship between the Executive and Legislature; he started dragging the President into that question. Mr. Speaker, I wonder what you have in mind about these sorts of answers, given by the Ministers here; like this Assistant Minister, who is saying that I have been given licences when for sure, nobody was holding meetings in Machakos, and so he is evading the simple question I have asked him.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is not a matter I can really settle now, but as I said, we will have to think of some ways of going about this. I would only appeal to Ministers to be more direct; just listen to the question and reply to the question, and not to give unnecessary information.

I think we must go on. Mr. ole Leken, your question.

HARDSHIPS THROUGH CURRENCY EXCHANGE BAN IN EAST AFRICA

Mr. ole Leken: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning the following Question by Private Notice:—

Since the recent currency bans have already caused inconvenience and hardship to wananchi who could not change their moneys due to the short notice given, and particularly the unsatisfactory exchange system—

(a) What steps is the Government taking to see that a proper currency exchange system is introduced between the three sister States and a three-month notice given, therefore, to avoid unnecessary hardships?

(b) Would Government consider as a matter of urgency, supplying foodstuffs to the currency ban victims at Rombo, Loitokitok, Namanga and Meto areas, until the currency problems are amicably solved by the Kenya and Tanzania Governments?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. We are continuing our consultations between Kenya and Uganda, in order to ease the border trade, as the problem has arisen after the restrictions on the movement of money. As regards the particular areas mentioned by the hon. Member, in fact, Mr. Speaker, after he had spoken to me during the week's grace given by Tanzania, we authorized the district commissioners and the district officers to deal with the exchange of monies, for people who were holding Tanzanian money, and I understand the operation went reasonably well; we cannot say it was 100 per cent successful. Therefore, we have already taken quite substantive action.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Mr. ole Leken: With due respect to the Finance Minister, could he tell the House the reason that led the provincial administration to instruct the District Commissioner down at Kajiado, and the District Officer, Loitokitok, not to accept any Tanzanian currency, before the date of the expiry of the notice?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we seem to have two different questions and contrary information. Mr. Speaker, we in the Treasury, and I am saying this because I know it and I followed this matter up after the Member had spoken to me, authorized a substantial sum of money to be remitted to the District Commissioner, Kajiado, so that he could give the same to the district officers, so that they could exchange Tanzanian money. This was well before 27th March, which was the final day which Tanzania had given, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Marwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, due to the hardship which has been caused by the askaris of the Customs' Post at the border, because when our people are crossing into Tanzania in a bus, they are asked to produce the money they have; for example, if you have Sh. 200, they take the Sh. 200 in Kenya money and keep it, and then they give you a chit or give you Sh. 20, to go and use in Tanzania; when you come back, Mr. Speaker, you are not given back that money. How are our people going to be helped, so that they are not robbed of their money by these people?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, we must, as an hon. House, we must measure what words we use. There are no instances of anyone being robbed, Mr. Speaker. If your money is taken from you as a traveller into Tanzania, you are, in fact, given a receipt, and you are entitled to claim that same sum of money later, Mr. Speaker.

The point is, that Tanzania, as a sovereign State, in its own wisdom, has decided that the importation of other currency into Tanzania is restricted, and one has to abide by certain decisions. There are inconveniences, but, Sir, there are also sovereign decisions, which we are bound by.

Mr. Boy: Arising from the Minister's reply, is he aware that Kenyans who cross the border to Tanzania, if they have Sh. 40 in Kenya currency, it is taken by the Tanzania Government and they are given a chit to go to Dar es Salaam and get their money there and the fare from the border to Dar es Salaam is over Sh. 50? Is that not robbery?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said we are holding consultations to try and deal with the precise question which Mr. Juma Boy has now presented. It is a hardship to travellers. Both ourselves and Tanzania accept that this is an unnecessary restraint on the movement of persons between the two states, and we are holding consultations on how to ease the situation. But, Mr. Speaker, the restrictions, having been imposed, we are, as of now, having to observe them. One does not have to travel to the Tanzania capital to get his money, but he can lay claims, even if he is in Nairobi, and the money will be sent to him if he has documents as proof.

Mr. ole Leken: Mr. Speaker, many people around the areas that I have mentioned have no friends around the border area, and thousands of them still hold Tanzania currency. What steps is the Minister taking to see that these people get Kenya currency in exchange while negotiations with the Tanzania Government are going on?

Mr. Kibaki: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I agree this is a genuine problem. While we are negotiating it is still illegal today, until there is an amendment, for anyone to export Tanzania currency back into Tanzania. Therefore, what the Member is asking us to do now cannot be done until there is some agreement reached because we will not be able to repatriate that money into Tanzania. While I agree that there is inconvenience we will take the action he wants us to take after we have agreed that such money collected in the normal course of border trade will be allowed to be repatriated into Tanzania, otherwise, if we did it we, ourselves, would be breaking the regulations. We cannot afford to do that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question. Mr. ole Sompisha?

CLOSURE OF MAIZE AND PRODUCE STORES AT KILGORIS RURAL CENTRE

Mr. ole Sompisha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Agriculture the following Question by Private Notice—

[Mr. ole Sompisha]

- (a) Why did the Maize and Produce Board close its stores at Kilgoris Rural Centre on 28th February 1971 while a lot of maize is grown in this area thus making it necessary for the maize harvested there to be transported to Kisii and Kendu Bay?
- (b) Will the Minister order immediate re-opening of this store since Kilgoris residents are now faced with a shortage of maize as their maize is being exported to other districts?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The Maize and Produce Board was directed by the Trust Land Plot Allocation Committee to dismantle its stores at Kilgoris Rural Central in December last year and to move to a new site which was to be determined by the same committee since their previous plot had not been officially allocated to the Board.

(b) The production of a marketed surplus of maize in this area does not warrant maintenance of a fully fledged depot and a more economical system has been adopted which operates in similar districts, particularly Turkana, Marakwet and West Pokot. Further, I would like to inform the hon. Member that the Maize and Produce Board normally appoints buying agents who are authorized to retain such produce on payment of a price differential to the board and to sell to consumers at controlled prices in cases of maize. Such agents include three in Kilgoris Trading Centre and 39 in other parts of the district. Furthermore, with the impending change in future to a free type of marketing, the board would find it most uneconomic to maintain smaller depots throughout the country. Hence, it would not be possible to order the immediate re-opening of the stores at Kilgoris.

Mr. ole Sompisha: Mr. Speaker, Sir, as the Assistant Minister has alleged that the Trust Land Plot Allocation Committee directed that the stores be dismantled, is he not deliberately running away from the truth as the store was closed down by the board in protest because the health authority ordered the board to dismantle grass-thatched shanties around the main stores?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not aware of the information the hon. Member is offering to me. All I am aware of is what I have told him.

Mr. ole Sompisha: Well, I believe that the Assistant Minister did not, in fact, try to find out the truth because he says that the Trust Land Plot Allocation Committee did direct the board to close the store while I know that the board closed the store in protest against the shanties they were told to demolish. How can I make the Assistant Minister tell the House the truth since he is deliberately speaking a lie—something which is not there?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): That is out of order. He has said that he is not aware of what you are saying, and that is not telling a lie.

I think there is nothing to reply to here.

Mr. arap Saina: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that Kilgoris is at the margin of the drought-affected area, could the Minister try to make future plans to increase storage so that maize will be easily available to the people of this area?

Mr. Khaoya: While I agree with that, we have every intention of keeping a store in the area, we would like also to appeal to the farmers to grow more maize to warrant the facilities of a store. For instance, the storage facilities which have closed down had a capacity of 7,000 bags. Up to the time of closing them down we were only receiving 4,500 bags from the District of Narok. Surely, this is not very much. In that particular case, if we find that we have very little maize what we do is to appoint certain agents in the area and in this particular area we had Mr. H. E. Dobo, Mr. Mohamed Elimi and Mr. Matashi to buy this maize and keep it in case there is any need for local consumption.

USE OF WATER FROM GORAYALE PUMP

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of Mr. Y. H. Mohamed, I would like to ask the Minister for Agriculture the following question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Is the Minister aware that the new water pump of Gorayale is now functioning; and
- (b) Who really owns the pump, the Livestock Marketing Division or the people of the area?

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) The Minister is aware.

(b) We have instructed the provincial administration to look into this problem with a view to allowing the residents in the area to use the water.

Mr. A. A. Mohamed: Arising out of the reply, Mr. Speaker, is the Minister aware that the Livestock Marketing Division sometimes stops the local people drawing water for their own use?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, I am aware, but then we have to examine the purpose of this water. The Livestock Marketing Division is a department in the Ministry of Agriculture which is charged with the responsibility of buying livestock from these areas in which case we are helping the farmers. The idea is that the stock, once bought, should be kept at certain strategic places, and surely we cannot do so without providing water. So, the whole purpose is to provide water for the animals which have been bought by the Livestock Marketing Division. So you cannot just say that the water should be free to everybody. Preference will be given to the Livestock Marketing Division animals, and if there is any particular need in an area we can consider allowing the use by the residents.

Mr. Araru: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. Arising from the Assistant Minister's reply where he says that preference will be given to the animals of the Livestock Marketing Division, does he realize the situation of water at the moment in the drought-stricken areas before he says that they first consider a Government department and leave other people? To whom do you think these animals belong, because you only consider the Livestock Marketing Division animals?

Mr. Khaoya: Mr. Speaker, Sir, you cannot have it both ways. If the people in the area want Government to help them in buying some stock, Government has the responsibility of buying the stock and keeping them alive until they are taken to the slaughterhouses. That is why we provide watering points for these cattle.

The question has not arisen that the local residents would like to have the use of the water. I have just said that we have instructed the provincial administration to allow them to do so, but all the same, preference must be given for the particular purpose for which the water was meant. If the area wants water in the general sense then they will be considered like anybody else in the country in terms of the requirements of water.

MONEY ALLOCATED FOR SELF-HELP PROJECTS IN KWALE

Mr. Boy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wish to ask the Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Is the Minister aware that a sum of KSh. 37,000 allocated through the Community Department for various self-help projects in Kwale District has, with the exception of the portion given to schools which has, however, been reduced by KSh. 2,000 in each case, been withheld?

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. arap Choge): Mr. Speaker,

Sir, I beg to reply. The answer to the question is: (a) I am aware that a sum of KSh. 37,000 was withheld because the Provincial Planning Committee had not given its approval. But I can now assure the hon. Member that the money has been released to various projects as originally allocated, and the question of reduction does not arise.

(b) Since the Community Development funds have not been set aside for the construction of the district commissioner's Beach Rest House, I cannot order the stoppage of its construction.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Let us go to the next question.

WITHDRAWAL OF TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE FOR COLLEGE STUDENTS

Mr. Cheserek: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to ask the Minister for Education the following Question by Private Notice:—

- (a) Would the Minister tell this House why travelling allowances for college students were withdrawn recently?
- (b) Would such a move not discourage brilliant students from joining the teaching profession, bearing in mind that the country is experiencing acute shortage of secondary school teachers?

The Assistant Minister for Education (Mr. Mbai): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. (a) It is not correct to say that college students' travelling allowance has been withdrawn. What has been done is to integrate students' travelling allowances with other cash allowances to make one consolidated allowance. From this allowance, which is given to each student in 12 equal instalments payable to them at the end of each month, the students make their own budget on how to spend their money. This allowance does not include the railway warrant given to each student who chooses to travel by train.

Part (b) of the question, Sir does not arise.

Mr. Cheserek: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Assistant Minister would he agree with me that the students taking courses in colleges such as Kenyatta College, Kenya Science Teachers' College and other institutions, are just the same as those students learning in high schools and it should have been necessary for the Ministry of Education to give them travelling allowances when going for their holidays and when they come back to school as well?

Mr. Mbai: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it has been a general practice of my Ministry to pay students in our teacher training colleges allowances to cover pocket money, clothing and travelling allowances. In addition to that they are given railway warrants. This, Sir, is meant to make the students in these teacher training colleges not to experience difficulties when they travel or live in these colleges. Sir, I therefore, do not agree with the hon. Member that we should as well extend this kind of assistance to other students who are in the places the hon. Member has mentioned.

[The Assistant Minister for Education]

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We shall go on now.

VOTE 2—THE STATE HOUSE

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, it was agreed here that before we come to talk on the Votes of each Ministry, every Ministry will provide the details and bring them to this House. Could we have the details from the Office of the President before we start on the Vote?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): That is not what was agreed on. I think you misunderstood what was agreed on. What was agreed on was that if a subject that you do not really understand arises, you can stand up and ask the Minister for Finance what it is all about. We cannot provide all the details on each and every one of the subjects.

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, I do not know whether the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning will deny this because it was agreed here and it was confirmed by him that every Ministry will provide the House with the details required. Those are the details we want, and if they are there, could we have them? We are not in any way at all trying to block the whole thing. All we need is only the details in order that we do not waste time asking for explanation. If the details are there, let us be provided with them.

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): It is understood even now that the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning undertook to provide more details in June when we shall be having the Budget. But in this one, if you require details, it is necessary for you to stand up and ask for them. I am sure he did not say that he was going to cyclostyle the details and supply them to Members. I think you misunderstood him.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think I am quoting the correct words used in this House. I wonder whether I would ask, through the Chair, that these details be brought here because we left everything in the hope that we shall get the details. Even yesterday, Sir, it was asked, when we are going to be provided with the details some of the Ministers said that they have the details; could we have them?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): He has the details now if you want them.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, it was agreed, as the Member is saying, that when each item is called the Minister under whom the department concerned comes will have the details to supply to the House. When I stood, for instance, I said I had these details and when the Minister for Commerce and Industry stood, he also said he has them. So we will supply them as we go along, Mr. Chairman, when they are asked for because we have them. We will give them.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, on the Personal Emoluments of The Office of the President, I would like to have the breakdown of each officer, where they are serving, what grades they hold and so on.

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Is that on Vote 1?

Mr. Amayo: Yes, Sir.

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): No, we have already passed that. We are on Vote 2.

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Which breakdown do you want, Mr. Amayo?

Mr. Amayo: I want the breakdown of this Subhead 101, which reads: "Additional provision is required due to filling of vacant posts for which part or no provision was made in the original estimate." Which ones were these?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Member knows that we have established two new embassies, one at Lusaka, in Zambia and the other at Stockholm in Sweden. The one in Stockholm will take care of all the Scandinavian countries; that is Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Finland. We have in each of these places an ambassador, First Secretary, Third Secretary, a commercial attaché and the usual complement of typists, etc.

The item he said was not originally provided for because a governmental decision to open embassies there was taken after the original Estimates had been printed. This is the reason, Mr. Chairman, Sir.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Minister did not tell us how many mission hospitals are involved and how this sum of money is going to be divided?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the hospitals that will get this additional help are: Maseno, Kaloleni (this is Kaloleni of the Coast and not Kaloleni of Nairobi), Kikuku, Tumutum, Chogoria, Maua, Kaimosi, Kendu Bay, Kepussoa, Ngao, Gutu, Nkubu, Gaichanjiru, Nevodo, Mathare, Nyeri, Kaplong and Kenuek.

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): And Ngao!

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Yes, Ngao vile vile. I think the Member for Tana North is quite happy!

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, are they getting equal amounts or how is this amount going to be divided between them?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Member for Tinderet may know, or may not know, that the missions have mission secretariats; those run by the protestant missions, there is a secretariat of the National Christian Council of Kenya, and there is also a Catholic Secretariat.

Now, the Ministry deals with these two secretariats so that each year the missions that have high priority are given various sums, but all of them are getting this help by agreement between the people involved and the Ministry so that the question of priority is pretty well taken care of.

Mr. Amayo: Now, Mr. Chairman, Sir, what I rise to question is this: as some of these hospitals are under the National Christian Council of Kenya and the others are under the Catholic Secretariat, who decides on the priority; is it the Ministry or the so-called missions?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Member will know if he talks to his friends at Kendu Bay Hospital.

These missions put their requests to these two secretariats and, because, in addition to the subvention from the Government, the missionaries themselves have some moneys to disperse, they deal through these organizations for very many of their needs. So, they are the right people to consult with the Ministry of Health and decide whether this year it is Kaimosi that should get Sh. 5,000 or whether it is Kendu Bay that should get Sh. 5,000 and the other one get Sh. 4,000. Normally, there tends to be sums related to the size of the hospital because it would not make sense to say that a dispensary should get the same Vote as a hospital which has 200 beds.

Mr. Seroney: I can see that there are £58,750. Can he give a breakdown to justify this?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, these were people who were taken on because this is one of the departments where we were able to take a substantial number of people as quota of the Kenya Government's Tripartite Agreement commitment. I do not think the hon. Member wants the names; but I would like to tell him that there were 22 rangers; 21 senior clerical officers; 32 clerical officers; 21 copy-typists; 7 plant operators; 46 drivers; 100 forest guards; 11 storemen; two laboratory technicians and the general labour takes care of the rest.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Minister has mentioned the question of drivers. While on one hand we have drivers, how can we have them without vehicles? Whoever made any plan at all to have a vehicle without providing a driver for it— Can you tell us about the question of drivers in the Forestry Department with regard to their increase? Do you mean to tell the House that one vehicle is supposed to have two or three drivers? Let me put it in a sort of a simple way so that you may understand it better. If you had 20 vehicles and you know that you are going to have five more vehicles, you had to plan for them long beforehand. So, how is it that out of the Minister's reply he has mentioned quite a big number of drivers? Where are these drivers from? What has happened of the drivers who had been driving these vehicles? Can we be told?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Chairman, Sir, these people were taken on under the Tripartite Agreement. The reason why this item—the Tripartite

[The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning]

Agreement—keeps on appearing is because the said Agreement came after the Estimates had been prepared. With regard to vehicles, the fact is that these people who were taken will be used in various new sections in the Ministry. Therefore, if the Member is asking the reason why we have not provided here for additional vehicles, I would like to tell him that we have not done so because we have already a number of vehicles which are required, or additional ones will be covered in the new Estimates— They are already well covered by this Estimate.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the people who were touring the hon. Member's constituency are not the ones who have been recently recruited. Those are the normal employees of the Department. The ones who were recently recruited are: one senior clerical officer, six clerical officers, one storeman, three field assistants and one laboratory assistant.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to know the number of foreign experts and advisers and where they are posted.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the list is available and can be given. What has happened, Mr. Chairman, is that under the agreement with the Scandinavian countries, we have to supply housing for the people we get to work for the department of Co-operatives. These are mainly at the provincial headquarters but the bulk of them are here at the Co-operative College. Mr. Chairman, there is a breakdown somewhere for the Co-operative College which is separate on the other side. So, these experts are people who are working with various co-operatives in the field, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Ogingo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I notice that an additional sum of £10,000 is required in respect of purchase of replacement transport. Would the Minister be kind enough to tell us the number of vehicles involved in this replacement programme.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I did not get what the hon. Member is saying. Can he please repeat what he said?

Mr. Ogingo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I notice that there is an additional sum of £10,000 which is required against the purchase of replacement transport. What I am asking the Minister to tell the House is the number of vehicles involved in this replacement programme.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not have the number here, but as the figure is given here—another £10,000—it is in the region of another 15 vehicles. Now, Mr. Chairman, Sir, only those vehicles that are unserviceable will be replaced. The procedure, Mr. Chairman, is that these vehicles have to be inspected by the Vehicles Unit of the Ministry of Works, by qualified people. They have never written-off vehicles unless they really are unserviceable. As a matter of fact, Mr. Chairman, the complaints we get are exactly the opposite to the effect that we are leaving vehicles in the field which have served their full life.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, surely, when these Estimates are brought the Minister or the Department concerned must know where these replacements are to take place. Can the Minister tell us where these replacements are to take place on these 15 or so vehicles?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, these are vehicles to replace those that have become unserviceable. Therefore, they will only go to the place where the unserviceable ones have been. This is the sort of logical inference, Mr. Chairman.

Where are these officers—education officers and seven assistant education officers—to be stationed?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, they will be placed in the places I will mention but they will serve wider areas and districts. They will be, in fact, working throughout the Republic. But, in this final phase of this programme, we will open up new places in Mombasa, Laikipia, Siaya, Marsabit, Mandera, Samburu and Turkana.

HEAD 32—PRIMARY EDUCATION

Subhead 101—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could the Minister tell us how many teachers, under this subhead, are involved.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the additional provision is required to fill in vacant posts for which sufficient provision was not made. An allocation to this effect is required and the number we are aiming at, as given here, is for Kitale Primary School, Nyeri Primary School and the Hill Primary School at Eldoret. These are the schools which we inherited and we intend to continue them as they were in the old times. Original allocation was not enough and the number of teachers may be increased, but we do not know yet. This depends on the number of teachers we require to keep these primary schools going. These are old primary schools and if we want to have them with double stream classes we should have them, but we do not know the number of teachers needed yet.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, I have been wondering whether this subhead has anything to do with primary schools in the rural areas. If so, can the Minister tell us whether this scheme covers the primary school teachers?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Yes, it covers all the schools.

Subhead 282—UNICEF Supervisory Scheme

Mr. Ogingo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to say something in connexion with the subhead especially as regards the sum of £13,100 which is going to be spent in paying salaries to supervisors of primary schools. We would be pleased, Mr. Chairman, if the Minister could inform the House how many additional supervisors have been appointed.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, we have shown that the original printed Estimates were underestimated. The number required is 13 additional supervisors and 15 assistant education officers who will be appointed during 1970/71.

[The Minister for Education]

HEAD 33—SECONDARY EDUCATION

Subhead 101—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, Sir, can the Minister give us details as to where these teachers are going, how many vacancies there are and the categories of these secondary schools and the provincial breakdown of these secondary schools.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, we have 30 additional classes in Form I and we have 40 classes in Form II; we have also 30 classes in Form III; 30 classes in Form IV; 14 classes in Form V and, lastly, we have 14 additional classes in Form VI. These are the additional classes which are there now in the country. We want this money to maintain these classes which are already there.

Mr. Seroney: I said, Mr. Chairman, Sir, that we wanted the provincial breakdown of these vacant posts.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): These are all teachers of one category because they are going to teach in our secondary schools.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, what we want here is the Minister to give us the breakdown on provincial basis. We know that these teachers are going to teach in secondary schools but we want to know where they are going to teach on provincial basis because as we know, in some provinces there are not enough teachers.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, these 216 teachers we require are not teaching now. Although the classes are there now, I do not know where these teachers will be posted because I do not have the figures at this moment for the classes I have just referred to. However, we can provide them.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think if the Minister would agree with me since these classes are there, they must be in a province somewhere in the country. Although he has not appointed the teachers yet, can he tell us where these classes are in terms of provinces. I am sure they are somewhere in the provinces.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, as I had said before, I do not have the figures with me now, but they can be supplied by me later on.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I did not bring the list containing the names of these particular schools, but I can supply the list tomorrow or the next time we meet.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Chairman, Sir, can we know, if the Minister does not mind how many of these special schools are in the country? We would like to know their number, if he cannot tell us where they are located.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): As I said earlier on, Sir, I cannot give a number or a figure that I do not have.

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Chairman, Sir, since the word "special" seems to be creating or calling for all the questions, can the Minister explain what he means by "special schools" so that hon. Members know exactly what these words mean?

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the words "special schools" mean the schools where you have the disabled, the cripples, the blind and the deaf—all those who need special treatment.

Mr. Mwithaga: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am seeking your guidance. Will you agree with me that this is most unusual for the Minister for Education was specifically directed in the way he was going to answer this question? Despite the fact that the Minister (Inaudible.)

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, will the Minister tell the House how many students are going to get these bursaries and where they come from? Can he give the breakdown of the students on provincial basis?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, bursaries and scholarships— The previous number of 38 students of division three has apparently gone up by 50 per cent. Bursaries for seven students who are studying overseas were withdrawn.

Mr. Mbori: Mr. Chairman, will the Minister tell us how these bursaries and scholarships are awarded?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): I have a scholarships committee which selects students who have applied for bursaries.

Subhead 101—Personal Emoluments

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, could the Minister tell us the number of personnel involved for which he is asking for £702,024. What is the number of personnel involved? Can he also give us a breakdown on a district basis?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Under this subhead, Sir, "District Education Boards", because of what we call the Tripartite Agreement my Ministry had to employ 3,700 unqualified teachers and 80 per cent of them were School Certificate students. That is why we require this money. I think that answers the hon. Member.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, what I want now is this. Under the Tripartite Agreement we know the Ministry of Education took over some untrained teachers to build up their percentage.

Now, could the Minister give us a breakdown on district basis?

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, if I were to start giving the breakdown it would take a very long time. However, if the hon. Member wants the figures, they are there. These were based on the percentage, 10 per cent of the teachers in each district.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I do not know what the Minister is trying to tell us. We are voting money to pay these people and he is here to ask the Parliament to give him authority to spend this money.

We want the Minister to give us a breakdown of these figures. I know the number is there. If the number is there, why should he ask me to go and look for them? I want this information from him and he must tell this House what we want to know. He is the man in charge.

The Minister for Education (Mr. Towett): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I have numbers for every district in my office and I can supply these tomorrow.

Mr. Wabuge: In view of the fact that the Minister knows that when we were debating the Supplementary Estimates the House was insisting on details and even on breakdown, and the Minister for Finance said this could be supplied at this stage. We are now being told that we should go to the Minister's office so that we can get the required figures. Now, Mr. Chairman, what can we do? If he has the number why can he not tell us what the number is? Where are we now, Mr. Chairman?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): He does not have them at the moment. He can always supply them. We are not getting very far with this. He can circularize the figures.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, since here it appears to be contrary, may I know what this means. I know I am a Member of this Parliament but it says, "Salaries and Allowances to Members of Parliament". As far as I am concerned, I know the Members have had no additional salaries as such. So, could this not be relevant to the salaries of the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker rather than the Members of Parliament? And should it not be put in that way?

May I know from the Ministry concerned where additional salaries of Members arise here?

The Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. Muliro): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Speaker and the Deputy Speaker are Members of Parliament.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Chairman, Sir, the Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services is confusing the House and misleading it too.

What the hon. Members of Parliament were given was a consolidation of their allowances and not salaries. There were no additional salaries at all.

So, Sir, could the Minister correct this because this is what the public has assumed, and this is what they have thought: that the Members of Parliament had additional salaries when, in fact, it was only consolidation of their allowances. When they look at this paper here they think it is true.

Would the Minister concerned please make the correction?

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Chairman, Sir, it is all explained here that on 1st January 1971 this House under the Remuneration (Amendment) Act of 1970, (No. 25), carried out the exercise which made the salaries go up. There are some people, in this exercise, whose allowances were very low but this has now been raised; there were some whose allowances were pretty much average, but these too have been raised. With this averaging, surely there must be some increase.

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Chairman, in fact, I do not know why Members are becoming so sensitive about this. They will recall that Ministers and Assistant Ministers did not get allowances but they are now receiving these allowances from here. We now get cheques from Parliament; we were not getting them before. This is the additional money.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, what I wanted to know is on the question of "Members of Parliament". The office of the Speaker is known as such, the office of the Deputy Speaker is also known as such. The offices of the Ministers and Assistant Ministers are also known. So—

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Order, Mr. Amayo!

Mr. Amayo: What I am asking—

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! I know what you are asking. The point is that all Ministers, Assistant Ministers, the Speaker, and the Deputy Speaker are Members of this Parliament. This term is being used to cover all.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I had seen one of the Assistant Ministers here and I thought he was going to reply. The Member has asked for the breakdown of the few posts which are vacant posts, which are being filled. They had not been provided for. These are mainly in this Department of Land Registration. Here there has been pressure, even from some Members of this House, that registration of land in Western Kenya, in the Coast and parts of Eastern Kenya should be speeded up. This Ministry, which had been able to operate with a certain complement of staff asked that they should be allowed to fill those posts half way through the year, the posts that had been vacant when the scale of operation was much smaller.

Sir, I am sure that the numbers could be given. I do not have the actual numbers here but I do know that this is how it did arise.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Chairman, when the Minister comes here and asks for £34,000 for vacant posts, surely we are entitled to know the number of these posts. Why is the information not available here?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am sure that the explanation is there. The Member does know that one cannot carry a full list, particularly here where there are posts which are in an establishment already approved, but they had been vacant. Normally, one would not carry this, but we do carry these lists where there are new things.

Therefore, it is for that reason only that we do not have the number; it is not that anybody is refusing to give details. I, myself, wonder whether the Member will be very much wiser even when he gets the list.

[The Chairman]

in the case of Commerce and Industry and sub-heads H and J of Head 25, the Treasury. The specific amendment that arose when policy speeches had been made was defeated in a vote here. Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, would the Minister tell us where these secondary schools are sited on district basis for which he requires £100,000?

Subhead B—Extensions and Improvements of Existing Hospitals

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, on subhead B, will the Minister tell us the existing hospitals on which the improvements are going to be done?

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okero): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the information is to be found in the explanatory details on page 37. Unless the hon.

Member wants me to read this—the explanatory details, quite frankly, give further information, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, under the subhead B—the Minister for Health refers me to page 37—the information I see talks about extension and improvement to the existing hospitals but this information does not mention which these hospitals are. He must be having some hospitals in mind which he wants to improve.

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): It is fairly marked there that the extensions and the improvements will be to the existing district and provincial hospitals.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think we might now be dealing with the wrong subhead. My question is related to subhead B. I want the Minister to tell us—£78,000 cannot do the extensions and improvements to all the district hospitals and provincial hospitals throughout the Republic. The amount is not enough. I want to know which are the hospitals to be extended and improved.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okero): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think the hon. Member would appreciate that we have to continue improving the existing hospitals in our Republic. The programme is a continuing thing and one cannot say, straightaway, that when we improve hospitals some of them will not be improved. The information that the hon. Member requires is one that would be made available quite easily, I think, when he discusses this in the Ministry. I can remember that it is only this afternoon that the hon. Member was told that we have, in our Ministry, planned to extend the maternity unit at Kitale. All the information that he now requires could not, possibly, be sandwiched in a publication like this. Therefore, I am quite happy to say that this sum of money is required to carry out the work of extensions and improvements in the hospitals that we have in our Republic.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Chairman, Sir, we need specification here because I remember that a few months ago it was recommended that Nyeri Hospital should have a laundry. Nothing has happened and that is why we are asking this so that we can know where this money is going to be used. We want the Minister to give us an analysis by saying "we are going to do this and that", Mr. Chairman, I told the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning that it must be specified as to where money is going to be spent because the public is asking what this money is doing. We want to be told in black and white so that when they say things should be done, we make sure they are done.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okero): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I must apologize that I cannot assist the House much longer on this particular point. What I want to say is that the information that is required is available. It is not information that can be included in a short explanatory note like this. If an hon. Member wants to get the details of this information, these details are available but cannot be available, here, this afternoon.

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): We cannot get any further on that point. If hon. Members want further information, perhaps the Minister might give the details that you want. I hope this is what the hon. Members want.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I think it was agreed here that a Minister moving his Ministry's Vote would be aware that the House needs a breakdown on such items. They should have the breakdown; if they do not have the breakdown, they should be sent back to their Ministry to bring the details and then move their votes at some other time. They are the people delaying things here. We want the breakdown because it is the work of hon. Members to see that when money is allowed to a certain project that money is used on that project. If this thing is not done, we are able to come in this House and ask why. When we are told that the breakdown will come later on, how many times have we been told that details will be brought here and nothing has been brought in this House? We would like to get the breakdown of these—

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Chairman, I want to remind the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning that when he was moving the two Supplementary Estimates he told the House that before we come to the Committee stage he would have every Ministry's breakdown, explanations, and details laid on the Table. Now we have come to the Committee stage without these details. Are we going to be promised details and then when we ask for them we are told that they will be brought another day?

The Minister for Labour (Mr. Mwendwa): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I really do not know what the hon. Members want. If it was said here that the extensions and improvements will be to some hospitals, then there would be questions. It is clearly shown here that this money is for improving the existing hospitals. Therefore, I, as an hon. Member of Kitui Central, know for certain that Kitui is one of the existing hospitals. If therefore—of course yes—there is any improvement required in Kitui Hospital which the Minister fails to do I will be able to question him. We are told that it is not the new hospitals that will be improved but the existing hospitals wherever they are in the country. Therefore, every existing hospital is covered.

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, can you help us here because hon. Members are asking the Minister for Health to give a breakdown but the Minister said he does not have the information. Now, Mr. Chairman, another Minister stands up and says he knows that Kitui Central is one of them. Could the Minister tell us how he came to know that his constituency is among those which are going to be improved. We do not know and the Minister—

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! I think the best solution out of our problem is for the Minister to circulate the details to hon. Members. I think this is the only solution, otherwise, we can go on and on asking for information which is not available.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I know the Minister has just said that Kitale is one of them. However, when you look at the amount of money being requested here, it cannot improve even one district hospital. This amount of money is not enough. Mr. Chairman, when I moved the amendment here, the Minister clearly said that each Minister was going to produce a paper containing all these things. If we are being told that we shall be supplied with the information when we have passed this Vote, where shall we be, Mr. Chairman? Could we be told exactly where we shall be? Shall we go back to this Vote after we are supplied with the information or shall we say we do not want to pass it. This is what we are interested to know, and you had better help us here. If the Minister supplies us with the information and we are satisfied, we shall pass the Vote. If the information is not supplied to us, then we shall reject this Vote. It seems as if they want us to pass this Vote before they supply us with the necessary information. If the information is given to us when we have already passed this Vote, where shall we be?

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): We might help, Mr. Chairman, Sir, in relieving the hon. Member for Kitale West by saying that Kitui Hospital is getting something from this amount for the extension of one wing. I am told that Kakamega is also going to get something small for extensions. I have also been informed that Nyeri is going to get something small also. At the same time, Mr. Chairman, Marsabit is going to get X-ray equipment because the building is now ready as supplied under (A7) above.

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, could the Minister for Commerce and

[Mr. Amayo]

Industry give me the reference where he has Kakamega in that same paper that I have here. Could he give us the details because I do not know from which paper he got Kakamega. I am talking about that paper he has in his hands because that is what we want. He came, bravely, to the Table and read the paper and that paper is the one we want. Could we get that paper?

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): Mr. Chairman, I was not reading any paper. I gathered this information from the—

Mr. Amayo: You were reading!

The Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Osogo): —file of the Minister and I have given the information. If the hon. Member wants the information to be circularized, this can be done. The Minister did not want to come up and reply and, therefore, he gave me the information to supply to the House.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, now that the House is left in a vacuum, knowing very well that when I first raised this point the Minister for Health himself said Kitale is one of them, and now the Minister for Commerce and Industry has a different list which does not contain Kitale, could we be told which of the two lists is the correct one?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): I think the only answer to our problem is to have the Minister circularizing the Members, otherwise—

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman—

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Order! Order! Otherwise we will be pushed on to the position where I have to put the specific subheads to a Vote. That is, B, in Head D 16. This is the solution to our problem when this kind of situation arises.

(Subhead B agreed to)

(Subheads C and D agreed to)

Mr. Ayah: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, I am seeking your help here. I am not referring to specific items but to what we have been generally discussing. It seems that the Minister for Finance was less than frank, or otherwise he has been let down by his colleagues because when he was moving these two Motions, he said clearly in this House that the details will be supplied. Now, we are in a position where we are being told that the details cannot be supplied. Are we not being hoodwinked a little because the House is now put in a very embarrassing position? We are anxious to pass this Vote, but at the same time we want the details which were promised to the House. What are we going to do about this, Mr. Chairman?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Of course, this is a difficult question for the Chair. The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning did say that he was going to see that the details would be given. However, I suggest that we can get nowhere by obstructing the particular subhead and that we should resort to a demand that these details be given. There are always ways of getting this kind of information.

Mr. Ogingo: On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, Sir, since we are being told by the Ministers that they will circularize this information later, perhaps after we have passed this Vote shall, we come back and discuss this because this looks rather unhealthy?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): I think the information on this will have to come later.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order, Mr. Chairman, the hon. Member for Kisumu rural is saying that we were less than candid. Is he not using unparliamentary language, when we promised what we are already giving, and in this regard, although it has been voted and finished, we are talking about equipment for provincial hospitals? Are we really saying that if two or three forceps have not been voted for a particular hospital, another hospital should therefore not get them? We are discussing supplementaries—the main Vote will be there.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, Sir, what we want here is this: before we pass this Vote, we must be satisfied with the information. Now, there is no point, Mr. Chairman, in us passing this Vote just like that before we are supplied with the information. This will not help us at all. In fact, if we did this, it would mean that we are being used as a rubber stamp. This is what it amounts to. Mr. Chairman, the Minister for Finance and Economic Planning did clearly promise this, and this is why my amendment did not go through because hon. Members took his words, in confidence, that he would supply the information. The information has not been supplied and all that we are saying now is that if certain equipment is going to be supplied to one district hospital—we have no quarrel about that—we want to know where this equipment will be sent to. We are not interested in knowing everything: for example, we have not said that because Kitale does not have certain equipment we are not going to pass this Vote. This is not the case, we are going to pass the Vote but we must know where the money will be used. However, Mr. Chairman, how are we going to know this? What is the position as far as this concerned, Mr. Chairman? We want your ruling on this.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, if I might say so, because I am being quoted about this promise, we made the promise. Mr. Chairman, we cannot expect the Minister for Health or the Minister for any of the Ministries to bring ten or 15 files here. Therefore, Mr. Chairman, Sir, where it is humanly possible, one goes through this, checks the items which are new and which are likely to be matters of detailed question. For new equipment for hospitals already existing, Mr. Chairman, we cannot expect that the Minister would have known that was a matter of detail he would be required to produce—which hospital is getting a new tray, which hospital is getting five more forceps, which hospital is going to have an X-ray unit. Mr. Chairman, we have promised to circularize this. The Member for Kitale is saying quite rightly—it is not a controversial matter. I think we are not being unfair in asking that a matter which is not controversial, but is for information, we be given time to circularize the information.

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order—

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): No, I think we had better get on now. We have— Order! I think the time has come when the Chair must make some kind of ruling. I think we can go on and on questioning this but we are getting nowhere with those kind of points of order. So, the Minister has undertaken, now, to see that the details are circularized to Members. If they are not circularized after we have passed this, then we can always raise—in a Motion—a query why this was not done. This is the only way out at this stage.

Subhead E—Training Institutions

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Chairman under—I am not disputing the money—the reference has indicated that the money is for Nakuru Medical Training Centre and Housing, we had been made to understand that this was going to be a school and now the Vote shows that it is going to be a centre. Now, could we be told exactly what it is?

The Minister for Health (Mr. Okero): Mr. Chairman, the word “centre” may not be considered an appropriate word by the hon. Member for Nakuru but this is, in fact, the Medical Assistants’ School with the housing as it is provided for under this particular item. We are doing all we can to speed up this work and I hope the hon. Member will be pleased when this particular project is completed.

Mr. Mbori: Under the same subhead, Sir, could we be told how many of these institutions exist and the various areas where they can be located and approximately the sum of money proposed to be spent on each?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): That is the sort of detail that will be circularized.

I think the Member for Butere should talk about Butere. Now, regarding subhead A, Sir, I can see why Members are insisting that this information should be released because for several years—the Vice-President knows, as he is in charge of Police—Nakuru, which had been earmarked for police housing, nothing has been done hitherto and yet Eldoret was done before Nakuru. Can we know how much money will be spent on the proposed staff housing for Nakuru?

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Mr. Mwithaga the details are available. I think we are spending time that we should not be spending. On page 42 there are all the details about housing and Nakuru is out of it. Well, it is not there and that is that.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, I can see under J, the Minister is asking for K£3.5 million for the purchase of other shares in the private sectors. Now, would the Minister explain to the House which other sectors these are?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): As and when they come.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, in addition to what has been said on the item, I explained when I was moving the Motion that we are negotiating with two banks—Barclays Bank and the Standard Bank—together with the milling industry. We have tentative contacts with one or two other organizations, which maybe we need not mention them now because the discussions are only preliminary. We are committed on this and the negotiations are pretty well advanced. However, Mr. Chairman, what I did promise to the House was that certainly, in the case of banks, any of the changes that will be brought about will be debated here because there will be need of an amendment to the Banking Act or Investing Act; whichever way the lawyers eventually decide it should be done. However, that is the present position.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Chairman, now that the Minister has indicated the private sector—there are three now which he has in mind—could we be told how much share each private sector will require in terms of money from this amount? For instance, how much the Standard Bank wants, how much Barclays Bank wants and so on?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, the figures will be laid. For instance, with regard to those we have already negotiated, the figures are stated in these Estimates. However, for industries where we are in the middle of negotiations my friend, the Member for Kitale West—he is my friend because he used to be an executive officer of one party and I was an executive officer of another party and; for a long time we used to look at each other with very evil eyes but we are now friends—knows that as a matter of strategy it would quite improper to begin to anticipate what price you might pay for something you are negotiating to buy.

An hon. Member: That is commonsense.

Mr. Gatuguta: Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would not ask the Minister the breakdown of these figures because he has given, I think, a satisfactory explanation. However, my worry here, Sir, is the tendency of our Government paying cash money to buy shares in these banks. Now, would it not be possible for the Minister, on behalf of the Government, to negotiate so that this money can be paid by the profits? This is a large sum of money and is going to buy some shares from private organizations—

The Chairman (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Mr. Gatuguta you are raising a policy issue. That is not the idea, although the Minister might volunteer to inform us about the issue.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would want time to reply because it is a very important point.

Mr. Chairman, Sir, I would like to reply to the hon. Member, although this could have been done in the general debate. However, we are doing precisely what the hon. Member for Kikuyu wants us to do. In the industries, where we have participated, we have not done what he is saying, that we produce money out of the pockets, from the Consolidated Fund, and pay. What we have done is to negotiate that this money is loaned. For instance, Mr. Chairman, Sir, in the case of the East African Oil Refineries, we have negotiated that we shall repay this over a period of five years. Now, we have not, therefore, had to put out the money. We will repay as we earn the profits. Perhaps Members may be happy to hear that we have already been earning a little profit since January and, therefore, we are already in a position to pay some instalments. Therefore, we are doing precisely what he is saying—that we will pay from the profits. The reason why the items are here is that this amounts to borrowing and any borrowing or any expenditure, even if financed by loans, has to get the approval of this House; we are doing precisely what the Member has asked us to do.

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Chairman, what I would like to know is about these private sectors. So long as the negotiation has not been finalized, what will happen when he finds himself in a position where he might require more money?

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Chairman, Sir, for the negotiations which are in progress, we will not require a Vote higher than this. However, for the future, and that is sometime later, this year or 1972, naturally we shall require more money and we will have to come back to the source, which is this House.

BILL

First Reading

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION

BILL

(Order for First Reading read—Read the First Time—Ordered to be read the Second Time today by leave of the House)

Second Reading

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION

BILL

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Supplementary Appropriation Bill be now read a Second Time.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Bill formalizes the matters over which we have deliberated in the last three days and arrived at some finalities today. Mr. Speaker, I do not, therefore, think that it would be proper for me to take the time of the House in view of the business on the Order Paper, which is waiting, going over matters which we have deliberated, in very minute detail, during the last three days.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Mwithaga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I will be very brief too, although I did not have time to speak on the Motion.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister knows very well that the Resolutions have been passed by this House and, therefore, he does not expect a lot of fight in this Bill. Now, the only thing, Mr. Speaker, and the Committee has experienced this during the course of scrutinizing the items which have been passed, is that the House will continue to want details of operations, where money is involved. This is because in all Appropriation Bills or the Bills where we have to provide money, some of the questions we get asked in the country, when we meet our constituents, are very difficult to answer. We are expected to answer these questions for and on behalf of the Government.

[Mr. Mwithaga]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the Ministers want to take the responsibility of answering those questions, then, it would eventually mean, Mr. Speaker, them coming to the field and answering the questions I get daily regarding the money the Government has spent on development projects, and other things, we should, therefore, be equipped by being supplied with adequate and timely information so that we can help the Government in advising our constituents on this issue.

I am sure the Minister for Finance is capable of doing that. However, promising such a thing to the House and then not doing it will subject him to scrutiny and fight over this issue in this House when we come back after this recess. Therefore, let us not be treated as if we were required to Vote for the Bill so that the Bill goes through. We must be well informed and well equipped. There is no question of secrecy in this matter. After all, if a post office is to be built in Bondeni, Nakuru, what secrecy is there? After all it is being built to be used.

These things should be specified and itemized so that we know exactly what is being done, in what constituency, at what time and how money is spent there. That is another way of rallying the minds of the people to support the Government because they will know what is going to be done in areas, when it is going to be done and how much money is going to be spent there.

Therefore, in the hope that the Front Bench, which seems to be very well disciplined today, will continue to co-operate, I beg to support.

Mr. Seroney: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I think the performance of the Front Bench today was most disgraceful. I say this because they seem to take this House very lightly. It was only yesterday that a Minister of the Government, a senior Minister, gave an undertaking to this House which, apparently, he had no intention of carrying out. It seems as if the hon. gentlemen on the Front Bench do not hesitate even to use tricks to obtain what they want—what they want being our votes.

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): On a point of order—is the hon. Member not imputing improper motives? We promised to give information and we have given it except the information with regard to two items where we promised to circularize that information, and now he says that I gave the promise merely to get the Motion agreed to. We have supplied the information which we promised to give, except the information with regard to two items, which we have promised to circularize. Is it not imputing improper motives to say that we deliberately told a lie or used tricks or whatever language he is using in his crooked mind?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, two wrongs, Mr. Kibaki, do not make a right. Perhaps Mr. Seroney used too strong a word when he said that the Front Bench was using tricks. I really do not think there was any trick as such. However, he is right to express his dissatisfaction if, on the part of one or two Ministers, he did not get what he expected. That is what I thought he was doing.

I hope he will not go too far in this.

Mr. Seroney: I sincerely hope, Mr. Speaker, that our Ministers will learn to take their undertakings seriously and that in future, when a Minister or an Assistant Minister, on behalf of the Government, gives an undertaking in this House, whether in the course of debating a Motion or in answering a question, such undertaking should be taken seriously so that, in future, we will be able to trust whatever the Ministers say in this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister for Finance promised, the day before yesterday, that in future the form of Estimates would be different. He just defined the Estimates which we are discussing now—he said that they are prepared in the same form in which the original Estimates—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, is the hon. Member in order in going back to talk about the Estimates. The Bill has been moved. Are you satisfied that the hon. Member is debating the Bill when he talks of the Minister promising this and that? Is this anywhere in the Bill? We are discussing the Bill now.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Shikuku, you are right. Let us stick to the Bill. We must try to avoid speaking about things which we could have spoken about at the right time before we finished the last two Motions.

Again, since this Bill relates to what has been debated here for quite a long time, I really do not think it is necessary to take so much time on it.

Mr. Seroney: I am discussing the Bill which is before the House and if the hon. Member will read it, the Estimates are incorporated in the actual Bill. So, I am discussing the Bill.

Mr. Gatuguta: On a point of order, I beg to move that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think I will now put the question.

(Question, that the Mover be now called upon to reply, put and agreed to)

The Minister for Finance and Economic Planning (Mr. Kibaki): Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have promised various things, as the hon. Member for Nakuru was saying here, and we intend to honour the promises fully.

Mr. Speaker, in view of the remarks made by the Member for Tinderet, I would like to put on record that we have, in fact, in the Committee stage, supplied all the details that were requested except with regard to two items, namely, distribution of new primary school teachers by districts. The Minister has promised to circularize that information for the education of the hon. Member for Kitale West. The Ministry of Health has also promised to circularize, by minute details, information on the new forceps and the new items that will be bought with the £78,000 for the district and provincial hospitals.

These were the only two items and, as you can see, they were formal items which no one in his normal thinking would have expected to be controversial items. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we did not bring these files here but we have promised to distribute that information.

It is, therefore, Mr. Speaker, quite an extravagance of language for an hon. Member to stand here and say that the Front Bench has behaved disgracefully or even to go further and say that people were using tricks.

Mr. Speaker, we are not used to those kinds of things. Some of us are not so ingenuous as to cook up any of those kinds of things. If what he intended to do is to teach us what might be done, some of us are beyond learning!

Therefore, I would like to suggest, Mr. Speaker, that we learn in this House. Ministers, in all seriousness, are in fact, trying to supply all the details that the Members want. This is because, from every point of view, I personally would feel happier, with my own Ministry, if all details are known to Members here. I will then get questions which will help me by highlighting what the Members regard as having priority.

Therefore, none of us has any interest, whatsoever, in holding back any information which the House may require because whatever money is to be spent is public money from taxation and one of it is to be used for individual benefits by any particular person in this House, whether he be a Front-bencher or a Back-bencher. Let us establish that minimum feeling of confidence, that if I say, honestly, that certain information is not available but I can give it later, it is for the reason that it is not available, but one is happy to give it later. There is a minimum of understanding, even between the adversaries, which is necessary if the rules are to be followed.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to move.

MOTION

REFERENCE OF A MATTER—REFUSAL TO SUBSTANTIATE—TO THE COMMITTEE OF POWERS AND PRIVILEGES

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move the following Motion:—

THAT being of the opinion that the refusal by the Member for Kilifi South to substantiate the allegation he first made on 17th March 1971, and subsequently repeated that some Members of Parliament and Assistant Ministers had hired out Transport Licensing Board licences to non-citizens contrary to Government policy of Africanization, is a gross contempt of the House; this House accordingly resolves to refer the matter to the Committee of Powers and Privileges, which is hereby directed to summon and examine the said Member for Kilifi South and other witnesses with powers under section 9 of the Powers and Privileges Act, and report with its recommendations to the House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am not going to labour on this matter very much because it is known. On 17th March 1971, the hon. Member for Kilifi South did say in this House— To refresh the minds of the Members of the House, I will quote exactly what the hon. Member said in this House, being the Minister for Power and Communications:—

“Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not say things without knowing them. After all, this is my Ministry. Therefore, if the Members will not be embarrassed I will table a list which will give details of Members, even Assistant Ministers, who are being used in this way. I hope Members will not be embarrassed. I will produce the list.”

Sir, if I may quote again— He said this when he replied—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Why quote?

Mr. Tsuma: Some of you, of course, like the Attorney-General, might not be remembering this. He said this when he was giving a supplementary answer to hon. Njiru's Question:—

“In the Ministry and Government, we very much deplore the fact that many Africans apply for Transport Licence Board licences, and they are given by the board, but they do not use the licences themselves. They hire these licences to Asians, Arabs or Europeans. This includes, with due respect, some Members of Parliament and high ranking officers, and so on.”

Sir, as you have heard these quotations, this House is ridiculed very much and this information has reached the countryside. Even the laymen on the streets have challenged the Members, and the papers have even written commentaries, like that of Mr. Ng'weno, and even a Member of Parliament went to the extent of writing to the Press— this was in the paper of yesterday—and saying that he knows this has happened. If the hon. Minister was not in a position to give the list, he was not even able to come forward and give the list—

Sir, this is a House of men and women—ladies and gentlemen—who are grown-up, and they are the people who have been elected. If, we, in this House could not be told where we lead our Government to corruption, then the country will have had no leaders at all. We expect hon. Members in this House, under the Standing Orders, to be in a position to give any information and substantiation of whatever they say. This matter does not concern the Members of Parliament who are Back-benchers alone but also concerns the high ranking officers. Who are these high ranking officers? It concerns the Assistant Ministers. Who are they? Even if they were my friends, and I wanted to give them their names, what is wrong, Mr. Speaker, any hon. Member giving out the details—the names—so that we are able to know where we stand and then we may be able to defend our own House?

Sir, this is a serious matter. You, as Mr. Speaker, on the Chair—this surprised some of us although we have not been in this House for a long time—did promise when you were asking the hon. Member to give the information, that you would check from HANSARD and if you found that you were wrong you would apologize to the House. You took the trouble of reading through the HANSARD and when you came back here you were honest in saying what you had read and you were supported by an Assistant Minister, hon. Martin Shikuku, who had done a bit of homework. He also pointed it out to the House.

If you promised that you would apologize, or otherwise ask the Member to substantiate, what went wrong and made the Member unable to substantiate. He is a senior Member of this House and a friend of mine, and I have been with him in another party in the past. I have all respect for him and I would hate to see such a reliable gentleman telling the House today that he was referring to “some Members”. I read this and quoted it because it is in the HANSARD and I want everybody to be sure of what he said that he was referring to “some Members”. Now, when you say, “some Members of Parliament and Assistant Ministers”, are we really able to forget that bit of language that we learnt, that when you refer to particular Members you refer to particular Members that are known? We know these were the Members that he was referring to. Must we be left in this sort of position? We cannot, Mr. Speaker.

Very sincerely, without even having to waste time, I would like to say that this is a matter that has ridiculed this House, and unless the Minister wants to tell us that you were not telling the truth when you referred to the HANSARD, in another way—

An hon. Member: But he does not write the HANSARD.

Mr. Tsuma: Look at him! Go to the Chambers and draw the laws. Do not come here to confuse the House.

Mr. Speaker, did that not amount to—by refusing to listen even to your own words—a refusal of the justice of the House? Did that not amount to defying you or the Chair? In another way, he meant to say that you should resign from that Chair because you were not telling the truth. When will you tell the truth? This is a serious matter and this House should definitely demand that the hon. Member should come to the Committee of Powers and Privileges with all the witnesses so that he can tell us whose the names are.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Are you one of them?

Mr. Tsuma: I wish you were one of them. Mr. Speaker, the Attorney-General is asking if I am one of them—I wish I were; I would have to come. Even if I am I want to come, that is why I am asking him to name them.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to waste time on this because it is a matter that is very well known. It is a matter that the House should deal with, so there is no question of anyone trying to be funny, trying to say this and the rest of it. We want to be honest unless we mean to say that we have no confidence in the Chair. I am shocked that a Member of the Front Bench, a Minister, should ridicule the Chair. It means he has no confidence in the Chair. This is a thing we can never have in this House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I want to give this matter to the House so that other Members can air their views on it, I beg to move and I ask the hon. Martin Shikuku to second.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I painfully take the Floor because the hon. Member in question is a very old

Member, and for the information of the House, it was he himself, with other friends, who taught us the Standing Orders of this House. Those of us who, for the first time, had come to this Parliament in 1963 know that it was Mr. Ngala, the late hon. Mboya, hon. Nyagah and some others who really taught us the Standing Orders of this House. However, Mr. Speaker, to my surprise I note—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to know—is the Assistant Minister seconding the Motion?

Hon. Members: Yes, of course. Why not?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): How extraordinary!

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. friend of mine, Mr. Charles Njonjo, should realize that I am an hon. Member of this House, not by sheer coincidence but elected; elected twice, too. I am, therefore, here supporting a Motion before the House in connexion with our own colleague in this House who, in the final analysis, is actually trying to accuse the Chair on the basis of interpretation of our Standing Orders. It is strictly stipulated in our Standing Orders that a Member must substantiate whatever he says here. It does not say an Assistant Minister, a Minister or the Attorney-General, it is a Member of Parliament. Anybody who is a Member of Parliament here must substantiate what he says in this House, failing which, he must withdraw and apologize. If he does not withdraw, he must face the Chair and he is confined within the rules for the Speaker to discipline him. He can only discipline him by having a Substantive Motion like the one brought before us and then the Speaker and his Committee will put the hon. Member right or bring him to his senses.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is no doubt in my mind that the hon. friend of mine, Mr. Ngala, knows what he is talking about. He is one of the smartest Ministers we have here and, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am determined to take my hon. friend by the horns because he should know better. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member says that he knows his Ministry, and I believe, that he knows his Ministry. He therefore knows the Members and the Assistant Ministers who are involved in this dangerous, destructive method of frustrating the policies of this popularly elected Government. He said that he would lay the list of the Members involved on the Table. Mr. Speaker, Sir, when it came to the laying on the Table of the list of names of the hon. Members here, he laid the details of T.L.B. licences. In other words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we, Members of this House, are T.L.B.s. We are not T.L.B.s; we are hon. Members, whom he promised to lay the details of, and not T.L.B.s—the numbers of T.L.B.s he was reading here. At any rate, we, in this House, are not known by numbers. We are not in the army, where it is said, "Number 3004"; "Yes, Sir!" We are known as, "The Member for Kilifi South, the Member for Baringo, the Member for Baringo East, the Member for Baringo West or the Member for Butere". We are not known by the numbers with which the hon. Member was trying to abuse the intelligence of the House, claiming that he was laying down the list of names of Members. We are not known by numbers here.

The other thing, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is that he said that Assistant Ministers: he did not say some of the Assistant Ministers, but he said, "Assistant Ministers"; in other words, all Assistant Ministers in this Government are T.L.B. licences hirers or sellers. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is an abuse on the integrity of the people who elected us here; an abuse on some of us here who have not even seen a T.L.B. licence form. It is an abuse, Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the integrity of the House because we are all hon. Members and when he talks of hon. Members, he is also an hon. Member and therefore, a T.L.B. licence seller. Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is something we cannot agree to. We must know who among the hon. Members here is a T.L.B. licence hirer. This is the responsibility of the hon. Member to tell us. At any rate, some of us, when the worst comes to the worst, shall table it and he will find that it is not only confined to the Assistant Ministers and Members of this Parliament, but it goes as far as to the Ministers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to go on and say that this Motion has nothing to do with the Minister as such, but it is to clear the integrity of the House. Any Member of Parliament who has the integrity of the House at heart, will definitely support this Motion so that we have those names—and they are very few, Mr. Speaker—who are hiring these T.L.B. licences to frustrate the Africanization of trade in this country, so that the country at large could know them rather than having everybody condemned in this House when he has nothing to do with the T.L.B. licences. It is only those who are probably involved in this affair may vote against the Motion, but anyone who has nothing against the Motion, who has not sold any T.L.B. licence, I have no doubt in my mind that he will support the Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another reason why I support this Motion is that we have Standing Orders which were debated, accepted and passed by this House. If we have to allow one hon. Member to get away and break the Standing Orders, then there will be disorders in this House. The Standing Orders of this House must be upheld and followed; and it is in this spirit that the Chair and the hon. Members can remain respectable. However, if the hon. Members can make any allegation and get away with it and refuse to apologize, refuse to take the Speaker's orders, and refuse to meet the needs of the House, then, the House should not be here. I agree with the hon. Mutiso when he said that the hon. Member and any other hon. Member worth his salt should not be here because he will not be an hon. Member. There is no point in asking any Back-bencher or any other Member to substantiate any item when any other Member— We are all Members who are equally elected and we are respectable hon. Members and, therefore, we must maintain the dignity of this House by following the Standing Orders.

The Member in question failed intentionally. I must give credit to the Speaker, who tried to persuade the Member in question to withdraw, although he refused to withdraw and he also refused to substantiate. Now, where do we go? Now, it is beyond withdrawal or apology. It is a question that the world and the country must know: who are these Members who are elected by the people and have become a stumbling block in the progress of the people?

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am speaking on this Motion with all sincerity because I do not believe that some of us should be sacrificed on the altar because of a few people who have misbehaved. We must know them and this can only be done through this Motion.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, before I propose the question may I point out that it is desirable that we should conclude this Motion today in a matter of less than 15 minutes. There is no need really to go into details because some of these things are the ones which will be investigated by the committee if it is to do this work. So, there is no need even to explain anything since Members already know what it is that is being talked about. However, what is necessary is to agree on the action—whether or not to commit the matter to the Committee of Powers and Privileges.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Kanja: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is a matter which is very straightforward and I have no personal grudge or enmity against the hon. Minister who is a very old Member of this hon. House. However, to leave the Members of this hon. House with a stigma—that they are corrupt and are hindering the progress of this entire nation—and who are supposed to be the custodians of the same people is a very disgraceful thing. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to call upon the hon. Member for Kilifi South to tell us the names of those hon. Members, or dishonourable Members for that matter, who have become “Trade Licensing Board hirers” for foreigners in this country. What is there to be hidden? Let us know the facts now before it is too late otherwise, we are all going to be termed as corrupted people. Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have not been elected to perpetuate the interests of foreigners; yet the hon. Minister is, by implication, trying to label the entire House that it is only here where we work for the interests of foreigners. Why should poor Kanja be told by Nyeri people that he is hiring licences to Patel and Smith. I have never done it and so I have to be exonerated from the blame, otherwise, I cannot understand the logic behind the whole thing. The hon. Member is an old man; and surely this hon. House is composed of hon. elders—if you like to call them so in the African language which can probably be understood better by an hon. old man like Mr. Ngala who has been in the House probably as far back as when I was in detention—and so, why should we be condemned wholesale and put in one bag labelled, “Trade Licensing Board hirers for foreigners”? Are we here for the interests of the foreigners or for the interests of our own people?

I do not have to labour much on this because the matter, as you have ably put it, is going to be put before the Privileges Committee. If I may not prejudice the hon. Minister, I hope this Privileges Committee will find him guilty and will Table the names of those dishonourable Members in this House so that we can tell the entire nation. If it is Waruru Kanja let the entire nation know and if it is hon. Ngala let him stand condemned but we cannot have the whole House condemned because of four or six Members who have decided amongst themselves to get rich quickly because we know they are selling those Trade Licensing Board licences. Whoever has done it should be condemned and not the whole House.

With these few words I call upon Mr. Ngala to tell us the names of those Members who are involved.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all, I would like to thank the hon. Mover of this Motion for bringing the Motion to the Chamber. I have no enemy in this House and I would like to be very frank in stating that my stand in refusing to give the names still stands. But, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to give the reasons for this.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, first of all, it is wrong to give any impression that I have put the whole Chamber into one basket. I gave an example of four names only out of a House of 171 Members. These numbers which I gave are identical to four out of 171 Members, Mr. Speaker. So, for anybody to get away with a feeling that I am blaming the whole House, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to deny this very firmly because I gave four examples only. Therefore, I would like to say that if hon. Members would like to put these four Members as equal to 171 Members this is their own shauri. But, I have given four Members only.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, the other point I would like to point is this. I am surprised to hear that “Some Assistant Ministers” means all Assistant Ministers.

An hon. Member: Did you say, “Some”.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that I reject any person who has a suggestion of putting words to me when I did not say them. This is because, Mr. Speaker—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President’s Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think we should not take too much time on a matter like this. What is your point of order, Mr. Shikuku?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President’s Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point of order is this. The hon. Member is denying that he did not say “Assistant Ministers”. It is in the record where he said, “Even Assistant Ministers”. He never said, “Some Assistant Ministers”. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Minister said, “Even Assistant Ministers”. What does that mean in English, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is a matter which can be looked into by the Powers and Privileges Committee.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that I am not blaming all Assistant Ministers and I made this quite clear. Also, I am not saying “All Members of Parliament”. But, Mr.

[The Minister for Power and Communications]
 Speaker, Sir, how will it benefit the Members of this House if I only give four names to the House? Mr. Speaker, Sir, when a Transport Licensing Board licence is given, this is made public in the official Kenya Gazette and this is circulated regularly to Members of this Parliament. When it is known that it is possible, especially where an hon. Member has a number which is indicated in the Official Gazette, surely this is the information which is in circulation between hon. Members. Hon. Members do not need further instruction or knowledge because it is the kind of information which is regularly distributed by the Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure these hon. Member, for example, the hon. Kanja, who has said that I should not give the impression that all of the hon. Members are corrupted. If any person has gone away with an impression that I have created a feeling that the hon. Members are corrupted, I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I did not intend to affect the feelings of all the hon. Members. I know that the hon. Members here are very honourable, that is why they are called "hon. Members". However, there are only four hon. Members—I have given these numbers—I said the bearers of these numbers are being exploited by the foreigners or by Asian companies. I have given their numbers.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that the Government wanted to give a warning, and the Government has already given a warning, and the Government is not interested in giving the details of the four names only. I would like to say this thing is confined to four names out of the 171 hon. Members of this House.

Mr. Amayo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the Mover be now called upon to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think Mr. Ngala you had better say your last sentence.

The Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I am glad you have given me a chance to say my last sentence.

I would say that the whole thing was confined to the names of four hon. Members. It is wrong to allege that I have blamed the whole House. It is wrong to allege that I have blamed the whole Cabinet or all the hon. Members. That is wrong and it would not benefit any hon. Member—I mean making these names available, will not help the hon. Members because the hon. Members can get these names from the information which is already circulated in the Government Official Gazette. They can do their homework and they will get the information—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since this Motion is very important, can we go up to Seven o'clock so that we have enough time to discuss this Motion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I do not think that is necessary because what will happen is that hon. Members will start talking as if we are debating the Report of the Committee if one is to function. If the matter is handed over to the Committee, the Report will be brought to this House and then it will be debated here. Therefore, considering that we do not have sufficient time, in fact, I would advise the hon. Tsuma more or less to reply formally.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to thank the hon. Members who supported the Motion. In view of the fact the matter is known, I do not have to waste time of the House.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question of the Motion put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is now time for interruption of business. The House is therefore adjourned until tomorrow, Friday, 2nd April at 9 a.m.

The House rose at thirty minutes past Six o'clock.

Friday, 2nd April 1971

The House met at Nine o'clock.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) in the Chair]

PRAYERS

NOTICE OF MOTION

LAND OWNERSHIP AT GOTINI IN
KWALE DISTRICT

Mr. Boy: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to give notice of the following Motion:—

THAT, in view of the fact that the 500 families at Gotini in Kwale District happen to be within the Kwale Township, and in view of the fact that these families were on that land before the Kwale Township was established, this House urges the Government—

- (a) to recognize the ownership of land occupied by said families; and
- (b) allow the land adjudication committee to give the said families land title-deeds.

ORAL ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Question No. 245

STATUS OF GATUNDU HOSPITAL

Mr. Wabuge, on behalf of Mr. Ebu, asked the Minister of State, President's Office if he would tell the House the status of Gatundu Hospital: whether it was on self-help basis, Government aided or both.

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. The Gatundu Self-Help Hospital started originally as a self-help hospital. Government has since taken over the recurrent expenditure of the Hospital. The Gatundu Self-Help Hospital is progressively growing; it has, and will continue to expand. In its extensions and improvements, the self-help efforts will continue to be welcomed.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the Hospital has now been taken over by Government, just as much as other hospitals throughout the Republic, would the Minister now direct that all the funds which are directed to that Hospital be put into the Consolidated Fund so that they could be utilized on other hospitals throughout the Republic?

Mr. Koinange: No, Sir.

Mrs. Onyango: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would the Minister tell this House how much money has been donated ever since the Gatundu Self-Help Hospital was started?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect to the hon. Member, I do not keep here —in the President's Office—the accounts of the Gatundu Self-Help Hospital. However, the accounts are definitely kept in the bank. The whole thing has been done on a voluntary basis.

Mr. Umuro: Mr. Speaker, Sir, could the Minister tell us what is being done with the money which is collected for the Gatundu Self-Help Hospital every day, since the hospital has now been taken over by Government?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the question of "being collected"—I think the words "collected every day" are, actually, slightly misleading. However, the Member should have said, "the donations which have been received". These funds are kept in the bank for the purpose of expansions to the existing Hospital, which is all the time expanding.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the answers given by the Minister, that he cannot tell the House why the money which is donated or collected towards the Gatundu Self-Help Hospital cannot be distributed to other district hospitals throughout the Republic—we need this money since Government has taken over this hospital—could the Minister—could the Minister enlighten the House as to why he cannot tell us this?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, although the name of the hospital is Gatundu Self-Help Hospital, the patients who attend this hospital come from all parts of the country. They do not all come from just around there, they are definitely welcome and receive treatment just as those who are nearby. This example of a self-help hospital is what is required for every province and every district; the people should start their own self-help projects in the form of hospitals or schools, etc.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the fact that the hospital, almost every week, receives a lot of money which is not, possibly, accounted for, would the Minister now stop Government assistance so that the Government money given to the hospital could be used to construct another hospital where it is most required?

Mr. Koinange: No, Sir, it is impossible to stop the inflow of the people's wish. If the hon. Member, with all due respect to him, initiates a self-help hospital or school in his area, gradually, the willingness of outside people to support that hospital will grow in proportion to what is being done by the local people.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, my question was that the money which Government is now contributing towards the Gatundu Self-Help Hospital, should be stopped so that it can be utilized on other hospitals in the Republic because the hospital is now receiving more donations.

An hon. Member: Can you stop it now?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I said, Government is helping in the recurrent expenditure and the money contributed will mainly be used for the expansion of the hospital. The expansion of that hospital is still going on. Therefore, you cannot stop that aspect of Government meeting the recurrent expenditure and at the same time you cannot stop expansion because the hospital is becoming popular through the good services it is giving to the people.

Mr. Kanja: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Would the Minister agree with me that the Gatundu Self-Help Hospital has attracted so many donations from within this country and outside the country because His Excellency the President initiated this project? We would be happy if the President will, in future, only initiate national projects and not constituency projects so that the entire nation can enjoy the privileges which the President is enjoying from other areas?

An hon. Member: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the Member has not accurately recorded that the President has only initiated these self-help projects at Gatundu. Mr. Speaker, Sir, that hospital was started by the members of the Gatundu Self-Help Group who actually arranged among themselves that such-and-such a room would be built by such a location and so forth. The President himself gave assistance to one area; he paid about Sh. 60,000. He gave Sh. 45,00 in Mombasa; he gave the same amount, Sh. 60,000, in Embu and also at Chogoria Hospital. He did not start these self-help projects in only one area he has actually been starting them all over the country and he has always been supporting them.

An hon. Member: And Machakos, the same!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You are taking too long on this question.

Mr. Mwangale: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Minister, would he tell us exactly whether the contributions that His Excellency the President makes towards the self-help projects like this one of Gatundu is simply a "haphazard business", that it is not planned such that each province gets an equal share of the Presidential gifts towards the self-help projects or whether he is only concentrating on Central Province?

Mr. Koinange: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very sorry that the hon. Member has used the word "haphazard". If you are contributing towards any project, you are actually contributing to that project according to your wish at that particular moment, after evaluating the whole area and the need of that particular project. That is why you find that the Sh. 45,000 His Excellency the President gave to the Muslim Girls' School at Mombasa differs from what he contributed to Machakos Hospital and Chogoria Hospital. For example, if the hon. Member was actually asked to contribute, he would not give a thousand shillings to every place where he has to donate. You have to contribute proportionally to your ability.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We must go on now. Next question.

Question No. 243

DISMISSAL OF EMPLOYEES BY SECURICOR (KENYA) LIMITED

Mr. Kivuitu asked the Minister for Labour if he would tell the House—

- (a) whether he was aware of the wholesale massive dismissals of employees by the Securicor (Kenya) Limited which took place in September 1971, and which were effected without any justifiable cause whatsoever;
- (b) if he was aware, what were the reasons and grounds for those dismissals;
- (c) whether he would state the districts of origin of each of the dismissed employees; and
- (d) what action he had taken to safeguard the interests and rights of those sacked wananchi.

The Assistant Minister for Labour (Mr. Kibisu): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply. Yes, the Minister is aware that some employees of the Securicor (Kenya) Limited were affected as follows:

Those discharged during the month of September 1970; five—on grounds of drunkenness while on duty; four—on medical grounds; one—incapability to do clerical work and refusal to accept unskilled work as an alternative; one—on dishonest behaviour and one on absence without permission and sleeping whilst on night duty: total—12.

Those who resigned during the same period, 45; giving a grand total of 57.

All the employees who left the company were replaced in October and November 1970. As there are 2,000 security personnel employed by the company, the percentage of dismissals involved is neither wholesale nor massive, and this works out to, roughly, 2.25 per cent; these people have already been replaced.

[The Assistant Minister for Labour]

As to part (c), identity of district of origin is not relevant to this matter.

Part (d), under the circumstances, the Minister does not consider that there was a breach of any employment rights or interests of the wananchi concerned which require to be safeguarded.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, would he not agree with me that with regard to dismissals based on a person being drunk while on duty, there is no evidence whatsoever which is gathered other than looking at the fellow and saying that he is smelling of drink and yet he might not be so drunk as to be incapable of doing his work? This method is being used to throw away a lot of people out of their jobs.

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not agree with the hon. Member because there was sufficient evidence that the men were actually found drunk whilst at work.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from one of the answers given by the Assistant Minister, presumably for part (c), that he cannot give the breakdown of their districts; is he unable to get this information from their employment cards or what is the reason for not telling us their districts?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is not because I am unable, but it is a matter of principle: we do not employ and identify people by their districts.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, that these people were discharged and the reason being that they were drunk: could he tell the House whether anyone of them was proved by the doctor that he was drunk or what sort of evidence does he have?

An hon. Member: Medical evidence?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the implication is that the employer was satisfied that the men were actually drunk.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: That is exactly the reply I expected from the Assistant Minister, Mr. Speaker, Sir; that the employer was satisfied that these men were drunk. How was he satisfied; was there any medical check on these people? It is as simple as that.

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member for Baringo North is insisting on medical evidence, I promise to produce this at a later stage.

An hon. Member: Where is it now?

Mr. Nthenge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Assistant Minister's reply, is it possible now to go and get medical certificates of people who were dismissed sometime back if they were not examined at that time? How can he get a genuine certificate?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member is suggesting that the men were not actually medically examined. If he has evidence to the contrary, I will challenge him to produce that evidence in this House.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, how long will it take the Assistant Minister to produce this medical evidence?

An hon. Member: Tomorrow?

Mr. Kibisu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, after recess.

An hon. Member: Which recess?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Next question.

Question No. 232

TAKE-OVER OF KIBIRICHIA HEALTH CENTRE

Mr. Marete, on behalf of Mr. Muthamia, asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether, since Kibirichia Location of Meru District was far from either Meru District Hospital or Githongo Health Centre, the Government would consider taking over the Health Centre at Kibirichia which had been built by people on Harambee basis or upgrading Kirua Dispensary so as to cater for the inhabitants of the area.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Ministry of Health? Next question.

Question No. 247

FACILITIES FOR KITALE HOSPITAL

Mr. Wabuge asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether since Kitale District Hospital was built by the colonialists at the time when the citizens of this country were racially discriminated against, and since anything made for the Africans at that time was in every respect inferior, he is aware that the hospital lacks a lot of facilities that go with district hospitals; and if the answer is in the affirmative, whether he would tell the House what plans the Government has to modernize the hospital to be in keeping with the Kenya of today.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is the same Ministry. We shall go on.

Next question.

Question No. 251

LEASES FOR OYUG'S AND KADONGO PLOT OWNERS

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Mbori not here? We will leave his question until the end then. Next question.

Question No. 232

TAKE-OVER OF KIBIRICHIA HEALTH CENTRE

Mr. Marete, on behalf of Mr. Muthamia, asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether, since Kibirichia Location is far from either Meru District Hospital or Githongo Health Centre, the Government would consider taking over the health centre at Kibirichia which has been built by people on Harambee basis or upgrading Kirua Dispensary so as to cater for the inhabitants of that area.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of my colleague the Minister for Health—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can you see the hon. Members standing over there?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Unfortunately I did not see them.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of the Minister for Health, I beg to reply.

An hon. Member: Which question are you replying to?

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): For Mr. Muthamia, question No. 232.

The Government, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is considering this matter and, I am sure, the hon. Member will soon see that what he is asking for will be done.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we need your guidance here because we do not know what question the Attorney-General is answering on behalf of the Minister for Health. Is it question No. 232 or question No. 247?

Mr. Njonjo: I answered Question No. 232, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. arap Chumo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Marete: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! Will you wait, Mr. Marete, we are dealing with a point of order.

Mr. arap Chumo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, my point of order is: I thought we had passed question No. 232 and we should be on a different question now.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): We went back because there was nobody to answer the other two questions. We are now dealing with Mr. Muthamia's question; that is question No. 232.

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I may repeat what I said, Government is seriously considering this matter and arrangements will be made for taking over this dispensary.

Mr. Marete: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the answer given by the Attorney-General, since it is 20 miles from Meru Hospital to Kibirichia Health Centre and 17 miles to Uruku Health Centre, and in view of the fact that Kibirichia Location is a very densely populated area with a population of over 25,000 people, who through Harambee spirit have built this Health Centre, could the Attorney-General assure this House that Government is going to take over this health centre in order to assist these people.

Mr. Njonjo: First of all, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did say Government appreciates the efforts of the people of Kibirichia in what they have done to put up this dispensary. The question of taking over this dispensary, I cannot give an assurance here because it depends on whether there is sufficient money to do this. However, I am sure Government will do all it can to show its appreciation to the people of this area.

Question No. 247

FACILITIES FOR KITALE DISTRICT HOSPITAL

Mr. Wabuge asked the Minister for Health if he would tell the House whether, since the Kitale District Hospital was built by the colonialists during the time the citizens of the country were racially discriminated against, and since anything made for the Africans at that time was in every respect inferior, he is aware that the hospital lacks a lot of facilities that go with district hospitals; and if the answer is in the affirmative, whether he would tell the House what plans Government has to modernize the hospital to be in keeping with the Kenya of today.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to reply on behalf of the Minister for Health. Since Kitale District Hospital was built by the colonialists during which time—

Mr. Speaker, the reply is "Yes". We have a programme for expansion and improvement of district hospitals and Kitale Hospital will certainly be considered.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Attorney-General's reply, and in view of the fact that Government this morning has displayed its weakness, would the Attorney-General tell the House how soon the expansion and improvement to Kitale District Hospital is going to take place?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is a farmer and he knows that things cannot be done overnight. In fact, just now he requires some rains to come—the only answer I can give is that we will do this as soon as funds are available.

Mr. Wabuge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am seeking your guidance here as to whether the Attorney-General has the genuine reply to my question; and if he does not have it, could I, through you ask that this question be put off until next time when the Minister concerned will be here to reply?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, I think the hon. Member is just trying to be frivolous because I have the answer and the Minister for Health asked me to answer on his behalf because he was going to be late and could not answer the question.

Mr. Wabuge: Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has agreed to expand and improve the Kitale District Hospital, could he tell the House when he is proposing to have the work started?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, it was only yesterday that we very heartily passed the Supplementary Estimates and we are now going to work this out. I did say, "Yes" to the reply, and therefore I do not know what the hon. Member is chasing a wild goose for in this case.

Mr. Tsuma: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Attorney-General's reply to the effect that Kitale will be allotted some money from the Estimates we passed here yesterday, could he tell this House precisely whether there was any mention of Kitale among those other places which are going to be developed?

Mr. Njonjo: Could you repeat your question, please?

Mr. Tsuma: He does not seem to be attending, Mr. Speaker. However, I will repeat my question, Sir. The question is: since the Attorney-General has mentioned Kitale District Hospital as one of the hospitals to be improved, while we know very well that yesterday Kitale did not appear in the Development Estimates, could he tell us why he is now telling us a lie?

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, let us be quite serious now because I think the hon. Member is trying to be funny. Kitale is only a part of—

Mr. Tsuma: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it in order for the Attorney-General to say that I am being funny? Can he demonstrate how I am becoming funny?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Tsuma is quite serious in what he is asking. He is not being funny at all.

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was going to say this: Kitale happens to be a part of Kenya and I think the people of Kitale should consider themselves lucky in that they have a hospital. There are some parts of this country where there is not even a dispensary. The hon. Member is pressing me too much about the question of improvement of facilities. Mr. Speaker, I think we should be given a chance to start hospitals where there are no hospitals. The hon. Member should be thankful for the small mercies.

Mr. Nthenge: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not think the Attorney-General actually answered the question of the hon. Member. The hon. Member asked the Attorney-General why he said that Kitale District Hospital is among the hospitals to be considered while we know very well that it did not appear on the Estimates we passed here yesterday.

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, I did not say Kitale is in the Estimates; I only said that Kitale is a part of this country.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I have some doubts as to what the Attorney-General is talking about. Now that the Minister for Health is here, and since replies are normally given in advance, what would happen if we find that the reply the Minister has is different from what the Attorney-General has been telling us?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, if the Minister knew it was different, the best thing he could do was to hand over the information to the Minister who is replying. However, only one Minister can reply at a time.

Mr. Njonjo: Mr. Speaker, I would like to add and say that, in fact, I am using the Ministry of Health's brief. I know the hon. Member is a Kamba by tribe, but I did not know that he is also a witch-doctor to read people's minds.

Question No. 251

LEASES FOR OYUGIS AND KADONGO PLOT OWNERS

Mr. Owala-Orwa, on behalf of Mr. Mbori, asked the Minister for Lands and Settlement if he would tell the House whether, since buildings in Oyugis Market have never been given leases, he could issue leases to Oyugis and Kadongo proprietors so that such owners of plots could be allowed benefits like traders' loans etc., for local development with immediate effect

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Gichuru): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on behalf of the Minister for Lands and Settlement, I beg to reply.

Out of approximately 50 surveyed plots in Oyugis Trading Centre, 14 plots have had their leases issued since 1956 and the owners of these plots are in a position to approach the financial institutions for traders' loans for development. Owners of surveyed plots in this trading centre who have not been issued with leases should approach the South Nyanza County Council who is the lessor so that the council may request my Ministry to issue the necessary leases.

With regard to Kadongo Market, I think the hon. Member means Kabondo Market as my Ministry does not seem to have any record of a market bearing the former name. If, as I assume, the hon. Member means Kabondo Market, then I wish to inform the House that out of ten surveyed plots in this market, eight of them have had their leases issued since 1956. The hon. Member may advise the traders concerned in these two markets to utilize the leases they already have for development loans.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister aware that he is misleading this House by referring to Oyugis Trading Centre in his reply and yet the question is very clear because it refers to Oyugis Market? In addition, is the Minister not misleading the House by bringing in Kabondo when the question clearly refers to Kabondo Market? Why should the Minister not do his homework properly so that he can give the proper answers relating to the question asked?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think it is unfortunate that the Member has decided to use the wrong language and say that I am misleading the House; I am not misleading the House. If the hon. Member does not know the geography well, he should go back to school.

Mr. Lotodo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Minister is giving different names and the hon. Questioner is disputing that these are the right names. In what should the House believe now, the answer by the Minister or the names mentioned by the Questioner?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am sorry, I did not hear what he said because someone was talking to me. I was not able to hear the names he used; however, you can still ask a question so that he can clarify.

Rev. Kalume: Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the Minister in order to tell the hon. Member, who comes from the area in question and which he knows very well, that he does not know his geography well? In fact, the hon. Member was once an education officer and he does not need to go to school again.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, you can live in an area and not know it very well.

Mr. Owala-Orwa: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the Minister has the wrong names, may I ask that this question be postponed so that it can be answered by the right Minister because he has mentioned names which I happen to know. I have travelled to these places and I know that they are different names from the names originally referred to in the question and the answer does not refer to the right places.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Will you name them?

Mr. Owala-Orwa: These are Oyugis Market and Kadongo Market.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You say it is Kadongo, but not Kabondo?

Mr. Owala-Orwa: I say it is Kadongo Market. Therefore, I request the question to be referred back so that we can get a proper answer from the right Minister who knows these places?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am answering this question from the briefing I have received from the Minister himself. Therefore, there will be no difference whatsoever.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to seek your guidance. The hon. Questioner has put his question very clearly; he is talking about Oyugis Market but the Minister is referring Oyugis Trading Centre and at the same time questioning about Kadongo Market; in fact, he is referring to Kabondo Market in his answer. Mr. Speaker, Sir, will you guide us as to where we are heading to?

Mr. Gichuru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I have given my reply. If the hon. Member requires another reply, I think it will be necessary for him to ask another question.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): There is no point in following the question further having reached that stage—

Mr. Amayo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, arising from the Minister's reply, can he agree or disagree that there is Oyugis Trading Centre, where we used to have some Asian traders, and that is the place he referred to in his reply; that is Oyugis Market? Can he deny that there are such two places, one is a trading centre and the other one is a market? In his reply he has only mentioned the trading centre while the question seeks a reply in connexion with Oyugis Market. In Kadongo there is a market and one mile away there is Kabondo Trading Centre. I come from that place and there is no one who knows more geography about that place than I do.

Mr. Gichuru: I thank the hon. Member for explaining to the Questioner. I have fully answered the question.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think we are not being serious as we should be here as far as this issue is concerned. Mr. Speaker, are you satisfied, in spite of the spirit I can see in the Front Bench, that the hon. Minister is in order to insist that the reply he has given is correct when he is talking about a different thing? Is this really in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): What we will do is to give Mr. Mbori another opportunity of asking his question if he wishes.

I think before we go on to the next Order Mr. Ngala had something to lay on the Table. He was necessarily away at the time when he should have done that.

PAPER LAID

The Sessional Paper No. 3 of 1971, Kenya Government Guarantee for a loan to the Tana River Development Company Limited by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

(By the Minister for Power and Communications (Mr. Ngala))

BUSINESS

CORRECTION OF TITLE OF A BILL

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Before we move on to the Motion, there is a correction to be made there. The hon. Members have the corrected title of this Bill. The title is different from what appears on the Order Paper, and it should read as follows: "The Rent Restriction (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill." It should not read as "The Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendment) Bill." Hon. Members should note that alteration.

PROCEDURAL MOTION

EXEMPTION OF BUSINESS FROM STANDING ORDERS: RENT RESTRICTION (AMENDMENT) (No. 2) BILL

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move the following Motion:—

THAT, this House orders that the business of the Rent Restriction (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill be exempted from the provisions of Standing Order No. 33 (today Friday, 2nd April 1971, being a Private Members' Day) and Standing Order No. 99 to enable all the stages of the Bill to be taken today.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not want to waste the time of the hon. Members; I am very grateful that the Sessional Committee, the Chairman and its Members, agreed last night that this Bill should come to the House because of a very slight oversight which occurred when we last went for our parliamentary recess. The purpose of the Bill is to enable the Tribunal to run smoothly.

Therefore, I do not really want to waste a lot of time as I will be speaking on its three stages, explaining the little amendment that we want to put in the Bill.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Muniy): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to second this very important Motion. It was only last night when it was unanimously agreed that this Bill should be brought to this House. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if the amendment is passed the wananchi are going to benefit, especially the wananchi in the countryside, in the towns and in a City like Nairobi, who are being exploited by landlords.

Therefore, with these few words, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to second, and I am sure hon. Members will do the same because this is a very important matter.

Hon. Members: No, we will not!

(Question proposed)

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to oppose this Motion.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, this is because today, as you can see in the Order Paper, we are also supposed to adjourn to go into recess.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there are very important Motions on the Order Paper, and today, Sir, is our day; I mean the hon. Members' Day, when we have to move important Motions for consideration by Government. Now this is, Mr. Speaker, a tendency of Government and, as we know, this particular Bill has been on the Order Paper for many days here—almost every day it is on the Order Paper—and Government did not consider it fit to bring this Bill on. However, they kept it deliberately to wait until today—yet they know Friday is Private Members' Day—so that they can consume the time of the hon. Members of this House.

Mr. Speaker, you remember last time we cautioned Government on this, for trying to utilize the only day, Sir, that we have to air our views and move our Motions, which are very important to our electors. I think, Mr. Speaker, this Motion must be rejected so that Government can learn from their own mistakes, because since we opened this Parliament, Sir, Government had time to bring this Bill. If they thought it was urgent, if they thought it was so important, why did they not bring it when they had their own days? Mr. Speaker, I think Government is trying to sing or, rather, trying to underrate the intelligence of the hon. Members of this Chamber by bringing things underground; things, Mr. Speaker, which, in my view, are aimed at trying, perhaps to take up most of our time, so that some of Motions on which we want to take Government to task may not be discussed.

Mr. Speaker, I think the House will agree with me that if this Motion does not go through though it is important, though it is urgent, we are not the ones to blame; it is Government. Let them, now, Mr. Speaker, learn that they ought to have brought his Motion in time, Sir. Although the hon. Minister for Housing is shouting—we all know that this is not the time for he has tried to warn us or to shout like that. In fact, Mr. Speaker, if he is sensible enough, he should try to be good, otherwise I can assure him he is not going to get this Motion through.

Mr. Speaker, I know many Members want to speak, and therefore I beg to oppose this Motion strongly.

Mr. ole Marima: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I arise to support this Motion.

Hon. Members: No!

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. ole Marima: Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Members would allow me to give my reasons for supporting this Motion, we would save the time of the House and we would move to the Motion we consider appropriate for this Private Members' Day.

Mr. Speaker, it is with consideration to the Sessional Committee, and if we owe any apology to the House, this we give, but we considered it is important that we should give it, no more than ten minutes, if we are not going to argue, to waste the time of this House because this Rent Tribunal has not been sitting since 1st January and the people suffering are our own people. The reason why it is not sitting is because there was an amendment—this House passed the amendment—to the original Bill. However, it required this House to pass this Bill, so that this Tribunal can sit; our own people, the people we represent, the people we are fighting to get into business in the small and big towns, are the people that are suffering. They are being exploited.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, realizing that we are going for a month's recess, we did not want to cause any more suffering to our people. It is important that we do not argue or waste time; in fact, we had to take this Bill out of the Statue Laws so that we could talk on it as a small issue, The Rent Restriction Bill. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, if the hon. Members— We owe the public apologies, on behalf of the Minister who did not bring this early enough. If we disagree with this, we cause suffering to our own people. However, we are all humans and we make mistakes. We cannot say we should not rectify mistakes or we cannot say people should continue to suffer because somebody has erred somewhere; we stand to correct, but we cannot afford to let our own people suffer for yet one more month.

Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order; since this is a Procedural Motion, Sir, would I be in order to ask that the Mover be called on to reply?

Hon. Members: Yes!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Well, it seems to be arousing quite a lot of interest and so many Members stand up at the same time; so I think we will wait a bit and see because there are so many Members wishing to speak.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to support this Motion.

An hon. Member: Why?

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): Mr. Speaker, I will try my best to convince my hon. friend and other Members in the House.

Mr. Speaker, we have been told here that the Sessional Committee, which met last night, discussed this matter and agreed unanimously that this Motion should be brought to the House today. The Members of the Sessional Committee are elected Members of this House and are elected by this House to be Members of the Sessional Committee. They have the mandate of this House to plan Business for this House. Mr. Speaker, the opposition to this Bill is an indirect opposition or an indirect no-confidence in the Members of the Sessional Committee.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I voted for the Members of the Sessional Committee and I have full confidence in them. Sir, if it was not for the Motions that are following this one, this Bill would take a very, very short time. I know, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that there is a Bill in my Ministry which has made wananchi suffer a lot. We have a proposed amendment to protect—

An hon. Member: No! No!

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): If, Sir, the hon. Member can allow me a hearing, I do not demand that he agrees with me but I only demand that he hears me; I only want to put my case.

[The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry]

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is an Act in the Ministry which is making wananchi suffer because when it was passed here, the time when it was supposed to come into operation was not specified. As we know, the majority of the wananchi who elected us to this House are tenants; they are not landlords. If the wananchi—the tenants—who are appealing against too high rents filed cases today, the landlords would win. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if this House is to protect the landlords and enable them to exploit the wananchi, then the House must decide whether we are elected by landlords or by tenants. I am saying this, Sir, because there is already a law but the law cannot operate, the cases which were brought to court are being withheld so as to safeguard the interests of wananchi. Sir, if it is the question of saving time, Members can agree on this and then we proceed with the other Orders. It is only a question of the date to sanction when the Act should have started to operate. This can only take about five minutes, but if we do not hurry it up we can go on discussing this Procedural Motion for the whole day. So, what I am appealing to hon. Members to appreciate is the fact that what is involved is only fixing the date on which the Act should have started operating.

I would like to point out here that the mistake is not in the delay to assent to the Bill but somebody's mistake. Sir, Mzee was at the Coast and somebody did not send the papers for Mzee to sign and as a result the law cannot help the mwananchi from December last year. What we are now doing is to help the mwananchi who has been exploited since December. Why should we go on leave leaving mwananchi to be exploited while we are on holiday at home? I think, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we should support this Motion so that we can proceed with other Orders. Now, why are we going on leave and leaving wananchi to be exploited? What we are doing is to help wananchi who have been exploited from December. I think, Sir, we should pass this Bill quickly and go on to Motions.

With those few remarks, Sir, I beg to support.

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, with all due respect to Members of the Sessional Committee—I understand they were elected by this House—I would also feel that if the Sessional Committee is so considerate it should also consider that this House needs time, and whatever decision they make they should know they are a minority and consider it without any emotion.

They may have had emotions because some of these people, for example, the previous speaker, probably do not have property and therefore they do not consider that landlords also, matter. They have also to be considered seriously. However, we feel that whether you are a landlord or a tenant, any issue which comes to the Parliament must be considered seriously. Everybody, Sir, who is a Member of this House must be given an opportunity to study a Bill properly, and when we come here to debate we should consider everything with cool minds. Now, if we pass a Bill within ten minutes, why do we not give the same Bill to the Government without having to pass it here. We are not children! We come here to represent people, both landlords and tenants. Therefore, when we come here, we have to speak for both parties. It does not matter what you may be. I feel it very strongly, as the previous speaker over there said, that we should not be treated as children. If today is a Members' Day, it must be considered as a Members' Day. Whoever in that Sessional Committee, does not give consideration to hon. Members of this Parliament and instead considers himself as a Member of the Sessional Committee while at the same time he was simply elected by Members of this House, I feel it is very unfair. Members of this Committee do not have to command us. I think it is high time these people were removed and we got people, on that Committee, with cooler heads who would really consider Members' Day to be Members' Day. After all, Sir, what is a fortnight? Somebody says that this Tribunal has not been meeting for the last three months. Now, what difference would it make if they do not meet within one month if that is the urgency? The Sessional Committee feels that just because we are going out today they can put us in their pockets and say, "Okay, it is in a hurry; just consider this and do not bother". Is that the way we should be treated as Members of Parliament who are supposed to represent thousands and thousands of people outside when we come here?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member in order to say that some people are being put in other people's pockets?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am sorry I could not hear you Mr. arap Moi—I mean that I did not hear what you said.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): I said that the hon. Member said that Sessional Committee Members have put other people in their pockets. Who can enter in somebody's pocket?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Did you say that Dr. Munene?

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, what I said is that Members of Parliament are being put in the pocket of the Sessional Committee's Members; I did not say that Members of the Sessional Committee have been put in somebody's pocket. However, Sir, I said Members of Parliament are being ordered to sort of think in the same way as the Members of the Sessional Committee. Those are two different things.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, let us get this straight. The Sessional Committee was appointed by this House. It acts on behalf of the House. You may disagree with their decision but you cannot start accusing them of doing things in bad faith or anything of that sort. They decide on these things in the light of what they think is right for the House. That is why the matter was brought here so that you can agree or disagree with it. However, do not accuse them of not doing their work. They have definitely done their work.

Dr. Munene: I agree with you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and that is exactly why I am disapproving what they approved last night because they are not supposed to order this House. We are supposed to order them and therefore we are disagreeing with their decision; we are not going to be told to do this by just a few Members who have been selected to be on the Sessional Committee, who are trying to tell us that there is so much urgency whereas this Bill has been there for the last three months. Why did not the Sessional Committee find it difficult to bring this Motion—

Mr. Kivuitu: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think I would like to seek your guidance here. The hon. Member is keeping on harping on the fact that this matter has been discussed by the Sessional Committee. However, this is not a Sessional Committee's Bill; it is a Bill brought by the Government and I do not know why the hon. Member keeps on harping around the Sessional Committee's decision as if that is what brought us here? We are discussing this matter on merit and not on the decision of the Sessional Committee. I want your guidance on this matter, Sir.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, you see, all that the Sessional Committee had to do was to take a decision believing that it was the correct decision but no decision becomes effective before it is brought here. That is what the Sessional Committee has done. So, Members of the Sessional Committee's decision has nothing to do with this. The explanation which you should follow up is that of the Minister as to why he thinks this Bill should come up today. However, it is not the Sessional Committee which is to blame.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member speaking has suggested that the Members of the Sessional Committee should be removed. I know, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

Hon. Members: No! No!

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): He said it, Mr. Speaker, Sir, and I can quote it tomorrow. He said it and I can see he is agreeing. I do not know why other hon. Members are disagreeing. Sir, what I want to find out is: since Members of this Sessional Committee were elected through a Procedural Motion, is it in order for the Member to express "no confidence" in a matter like this? Now, since this is not a Substantive Motion against the Members of the Sessional Committee, is his speech in order?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, it is completely out of order because it cannot be done. The Committee was established by a Motion of this House and only a Motion of this House can remove them. So, that is completely out of order.

Mr. Kitonga: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, would I be in order to ask the Member to declare his interest because the way he speaks indicates that he is a landlord?

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Dr. Munene: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think my speech should not take a long time, but with all due respect to our hon. "Chief," who has declared his interest to be a chief when he has been removed from chieftainship, I should be happy to say that I am a landlord. However, Sir, I am also a tenant. I sleep in somebody's house, and so I pay rent, and at the same time I have a house to rent.

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to oppose.

Mr. Lotodo: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to oppose the Motion very strongly.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to oppose the Motion. I do not see the slightest justification in our being rushed from 14 days to one day.

Mr. Speaker, the hon. Minister from Machakos, or somewhere down there, had sufficient time to bring this Bill to the House. This creates a doubt why we should go through all the stages of this Bill today. We have been here for more than a month and the Minister did not see any point in bringing this Bill earlier because he was waiting for the last day. This is because he knew that there is something, somewhere which if the hon. Members are given sufficient time, they are likely to find out.

The Assistant Minister for Commerce and Industry (Mr. Anyieni): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, the hon. Member is, as a matter of fact, suggesting that there is some improper motives in bringing this Motion. Is it in order for him to impute improper motives on the side of the Minister for bringing this Bill today? He says there is something hidden. What is this thing that is hidden?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is against our rules, Mr. Lotodo, to impute improper motives.

Mr. Lotodo: Mr. Speaker, I was expressing my own opinion.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): You cannot do it that way.

Mr. Lotodo: Then I apologize.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to oppose the Motion.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, we in this House are aware—we are aware that some of us are landlords and some of us are tenants. However, what we are supposed to do is to forget our own selves and think in terms of these people who are outside this Chamber. The Bill which we are supposed to pass, and whose publication time is being reduced from 14 days to one day, is in my hands. It is just made up of—I would talk in terms of lines (one, two, three, four and five)—five lines.

Mr. Speaker, if an hon. Member who was elected to this House cannot read five lines, and he passed his English Test, then something is wrong with that Member. Mr. Speaker, that may give way to other people doubting how he managed to get his way into the House. Was it through favouritism or through some other means? However, the point here is—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, I think this hon. Assistant Minister has a tendency of provoking other hon. Members.

Hon. Members: Are you provoked?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, are these hon. Members in order to shout me down.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Let us have order.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, the Assistant Minister said that the hon. Members who are opposed to this Motion should be doubted as to how they came into this Chamber. Is it allowed, Mr. Speaker, that one can imply that we came through the back door, because this is what he is suggesting simply because we are opposed to what the Government wants us to do?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Hon. Members have the right to hold their own opinions.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Mr. Speaker, hon. Members have the right to have their own opinions. I did not say what the hon. Member is trying to put into my mouth. What I said, and I am always careful, being a very senior Member in this House, is that if an hon. Member worth his salt cannot read these five lines—

An hon. Member: And make sense out of them.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku):—yet he passed the English Test which everybody in this House had to pass, then there is something wrong with that Member. I am entitled to say that because it is my opinion that this Member did not really pass his English Test, if he cannot read this short Bill. The urgency in this Bill is that the Bill is intended to help the people whom we represent from exploitation by landlords. For example, my hon. friend, the landlord who was speaking had an interest. He knows that if this Bill is pushed through today and it becomes law, then he will not be able to exploit the people. Therefore, if there are Members who are landlords and who know that if the publication time of this Bill is reduced from 14 days to one day they will not be able to exploit the people, and therefore they are using their position to stop this and perpetuate the exploitation, then the country should know who their enemies are.

Mr. Speaker, I am not a landlord and I am not intending to be one. However, what I believe is that I am essentially and primarily elected to this House to do nothing but to safeguard the interests of the people who elected us here. It will be very shocking, tomorrow, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to see from reports that we did not pass this Bill so as to safeguard our people but took an action resulting in exposing them to the exploitation of merciless landlords, some of whom are in this Chamber—it is a very absurd thing.

Mr. Speaker, the Bill itself reads: "The Rent Restriction Amendment Bill 1971". What we are asking is that this should be deemed to have come into operation by 1st December, 1970. That is the amendment, and it is all. We want the exploiters to be dealt with from 1970. What is wrong with having this Bill backdated to 1970. There is nothing more to it than that, Mr. Speaker.

I know the Standing Orders say that a Bill should be debated after 14 days have elapsed since its publication. However, there are other circumstances or instances whereby sometimes it becomes imperative or necessary that we should have the Bill debated in a shorter than the stipulated time.

Would you, Mr. Speaker, ask the hon. Members to observe the Standing Orders and keep seated when I am on my feet. I am on my feet, Mr. Speaker.

We know that provision is there, but there are cases where we require to stop this. We know, those who are in the Housing know the difficulties the tenants are faced with—the exploitation which we are trying to eliminate. The hon. Minister for Housing promised the House I think it was when there was a question in this House which stated about this exploitation, that he would bring a Bill to stop this exploitation. Now the Bill has been brought the Members do not want it. What do they want?

An hon. Member: They are landlords.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Well, Mr. Speaker, if they are landlords, we should be told—

Mr. Koigi: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, is the Assistant Minister in order to accuse all hon. Members that we do not want the Bill to go through?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): I am not talking about all Members. I am talking about landlords. Then hon. Koigi, who I know is not a landlord, is not in the group. However, this Bill can only be opposed by the landlords who have an interest which they feel is being threatened by the Bill. Therefore, those who are not landlords do not have to oppose the Bill, but those who do oppose are landlords. We are going to oppose them because of their exploitation of the people. The Minister is just meeting the wishes of the House, which he promised to do. That is all he is bringing here—an amendment to stop further exploitation. All those Members who want the exploitation to go on—we shall know them and the country will know who are the landlords here and who are the exploiters who are safeguarding the landlords' exploitation.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the issue on this particular Motion is being missed. Mr. Speaker, Sir, one of the problems which I see in this Motion is that it is the fault of the Minister that this Bill was never brought before. It is no fault of anybody else but the Minister and that is why he wants this Bill to be backdated to 1st of December last year. If we say the Minister is wrong, that he has been negligent in his work and that we do not pass this Bill today, who will be punished? That is the issue which we are debating. I think we should say this: If we say that we are not going to pass this Bill today and that we shall pass it later, there is only one thing we shall do to the Minister and that is to condemn him and that is all. Why not condemn him today and pass the Bill today so that we do not punish the tenants who are suffering.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is only one set of people that will suffer most and these are the tenants. Mr. Speaker, Sir, most hon. Members come from the rural areas and they do not appreciate the problems of the people in the urban areas who are suffering so much because this Bill has not been passed. The reason why they are suffering is that the Rent Tribunal Court cannot sit now and it has not been sitting for the whole of March because this Bill has never been brought to this House. Now, who is suffering? Is it the Minister who is suffering? Will the Minister suffer even if you do not pass this Bill today? The Minister has his own house and he will go and live there and you, hon. Members, are going to the rural areas and live there and only the tenants in the urban areas will suffer.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, for the whole of the month, I have seen very many tenants coming to my office and they all say that the police and the landlords have evicted them from the houses and they have grabbed their goods because they say that the tenants have not paid their rents or something like that. Mr. Speaker, Sir, having come from Nairobi where the problem is acute, and having known this problem, I feel we should pass this Motion now. There is no question of lawyers here, Mr. Karungaru. I did not deny you the right of becoming a lawyer and you could become a lawyer now if you want. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am—

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker. I do not have any dispute over the fact that the Member is a lawyer, but he should know that I am a bush lawyer now. Is it in order for the hon. Member, who has an interest to declare, to continue confusing the House that the Minister did nothing wrong and that it is up to the House to pass the Motion when we know that the hon. Member is a lawyer and he is after getting business from tenants and that is why he is supporting them?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! You are completely out of order, Mr. Karungaru. You are imputing an improper motive. If you thought Mr. Kivuitu had an interest you should have asked him to declare that interest. You cannot go as far as you went, alleging that he is doing this in order to gain business. That is completely out of order and you should withdraw.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I withdraw that, but can he now declare his interest?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): He told the House that people have been coming to his office. What is required more than that?

Mr. Kivuitu: Mr. Speaker, Sir, before I was improperly interrupted by that mover of the point of order I was trying to make this point: we have been elected in this House to represent the interests of wananchi. Where the Minister goes wrong we have a right to condemn him. What can we do since we do not have the army, police, chiefs or district officers? We can only condemn the person concerned and pass this Bill so that we can help those people. This is the problem and please let us not face this matter with emotion or questions of interest. There is no question of interest here. The problem, I can assure you, is very acute.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would urge hon. Members to think seriously about this matter.

The Assistant Minister for Housing (Mr. Bomett): Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the hon. Members have appreciated the gravity and the need to pass this Bill, I move that the Mover be now called upon to reply.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I will now put the question.

(Question that the Mover be called upon to reply, put and negatived)

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): Mr. Speaker, Sir, a certain hon. Member is asking why a Minister should speak but let me speak like a Minister who is a Member of Parliament.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I would like to take the line that the hon. Member for Parklands has taken. We, who come from the rural areas, speak very, very vehemently over the question of landlessness and those people who are suffering through being landless. Here is a question which concerns the urban areas mainly of people who have similar difficulties of housing rents and what have you. There is a law, already in existence but it is the question of putting it on its proper footing. This law expired at the end of last year and it is not in operation. This honourable House, which legislators should give the Minister—instead of condemning him—the strength to help the wananchi. The Bill is asking this in very simple language. We who are representatives of the people—I have the Bill here—should help the wananchi from being exploited; we should give them the good fruits of Uhuru. The Minister must be empowered to put this Bill into operation. That is all that there is. It does not matter whether the Minister is wrong or whether the hon. Member talking now is wrong. What is wrong is that these people are having a hardship and we must lift this hardship.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I appeal to the hon. Members, in the interests of the country at large and the wananchi, to let this Bill go through with the utmost heed.

Mr. Mwicigi: Mr. Speaker, I am glad to speak on this Motion but I am very much surprised by the earlier remarks by the Minister when he was moving the Motion. He said that there was something that was left out due to oversight. He also said that there were some minor amendments to be made.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, if there was any oversight on this matter, then, who will bear the responsibility?

My second point is this, Mr. Speaker. Why were these amendments not made? I feel that Mr. Kivuitu had a very good point, that there was somebody who was responsible for this and that person is the Minister. I would like to know whether this Minister is, even now, genuine, because this Bill or the amendment has never been given any priority and it was only last night when the matter was hurriedly sent to the Sessional Committee so that the matter could be brought here, on our last day, and interrupt the order of the Private Members' Motions. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very surprised that the Ministry, which should be doing more than it is doing now in helping the wananchi, is responsible for the difficulties. Mr. Speaker, Sir, the amendment was passed last year. Somebody here said that His Excellency the President was at Mombasa. Why could that Bill not be taken to Mombasa? Mr. Speaker, why is this Motion being brought to the House at the very last day? I am questioning whether the Minister, himself, wants this Motion to be passed. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if he wanted the Motion to be passed, he would have brought it to the House as early as February. Why should he wait until the last day? There is somebody who is sleeping, and that person is not a Back-bencher.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very, very unhappy about the way the Ministry of Housing is running its affairs. I agree with hon. Kivuitu that wananchi are suffering. I also feel that before we proceed, we should pass a vote of no confidence in the Minister who is responsible. Let us discuss this thing—I do not need your help—Mr. Speaker, Sir, there is an error and this is one thing that the House has come to discover. What about other things, in the same Ministry, which Members of this House do not know? There is something wrong. There is some mistake which is taking place in that Ministry.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I was standing, originally, to oppose the Motion, but because of Mr. Kivuitu's appeal, that there is no use of punishing wananchi due to the irresponsibility of the Minister, I feel I should support it. The Minister should apologize to the House, and with that condition I support the Motion.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Motion is really straightforward. I am sure of it. It is my first time to see the Kenya Government bringing a straightforward Motion in this House; this Motion was brought in time and needs appropriate action immediately.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, let us forget any carelessness that might have been there and forgive the person responsible, whether it be the Minister or the Government itself. However, since we ought to sympathize with the wananchi, I would appeal to the hon. Members to be kind enough and agree that this Motion should be passed right now.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, somebody has said that I am not a landlord, I am a landlord all right, but I am a kind person. I have been in big towns like Mombasa for over 27 years and I know the problem of housing. All the tenants have been paying money to the advocates and have been waiting for cases to come up for hearing, but these cases never take place. I was even surprised to hear Mr. Kivuitu supporting this Motion. Surely, Mr. Kivuitu must be a very kind person because most of the lawyers want money to be paid to them for services they will never render to the wananchi. It is only Mr. Kivuitu, who is an advocate, who mentioned that he would like this Motion to be passed. Most of the advocates would not like it.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, let us not waste time today for nothing. Whatever you do, this Motion must pass, whether you want it or not. Why should we waste time? Let us behave like human beings and not oppose for the sake of opposing. If some Members are doing that, I will always act contrary to their wishes because this is a very straightforward Motion.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am appealing to my friends to support me—and I have very many supporters in the House—so that the Motion is passed.

Mr. arap Chumo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Members are not opposing this Bill. However, the principle involved, in the way this Bill has been brought into the House, is wrong. We all feel, and very sincerely too, that the wananchi who have been suffering since the expiry of this Rent Restriction Act should be helped. However, for some Ministers to come and say that if you delay this Bill you are making the wananchi suffer is completely wrong because you have already made them suffer since the end of last year. Since you knew that these people are suffering, you should have approached the Minister concerned and requested him to bring the Bill to this House—and he had all the facilities and all the means to bring the Bill to the House. I think those who have opposed the Bill did not oppose the content of it or anything else, but the way the House is being pushed to pass this Bill. This is what the Members are opposed to.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, we said, at the beginning of this Session, that we wanted to change the Private Members' Day to Wednesday and the Ministers said: "No, we gave you Friday and the Government will not interfere". Many Members expressed their wishes that the Government should not interfere with the Private Members' Day. However, this is exactly what is being done every time when we are about to go on recess. This is one thing we should make very clear to the Government. We want to see this Bill passed, and we are very sincere about it, but we also want to make it known to the Front Bench that they should not use the Private Members' Day for Government Bills when they have all other days when they should bring their business to the House.

Honestly, for somebody to say, like the hon. Member for Butere, that anybody who opposes this Bill does so because he cannot read, is not true. One opposes because he can read it.

An hon. Member: Are you a landlord?

Mr. arap Chumo: Yes, I am a landlord at home. I am not a landlord here. Landlords can also oppose, as you say, but we are not saying that we should help those landlords. We want to help our wananchi. However, this principle of bringing the Bill to the House at the wrong time should be made very, very clear to the Sessional Committee. It was not only yesterday when you knew that the wananchi were suffering. You should have known this for a long time.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to reserve my observations.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Muniyi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, since we have had a lot from Members and there seems to be no opposition to this Motion, may I move that the Mover be called upon to reply?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think we can consider that now.

(Question put and agreed to)

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, on the principle of "condemn the Minister and pass the Bill", I would like to regret the oversight and say that this is the first one that has ever happened in my Ministry. Therefore, the argument of "no confidence" does not arise at all.

However, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the House is entitled to a little explanation. What really happened, Mr. Speaker, is that when we amended the former Bill to give it a permanent fixture, we were delayed before this Bill was assented to by His Excellency the President. This could happen even for a matter of hours to make it a day and if a day goes by without giving the continuity of a previous Bill, then the amending Act falls down. It is this oversight that I was explaining and I am sure that the Members who sympathize with the plight of the wananchi will support the Bill in order to enable the Tribunal to sit and decide on many cases which are pending at the moment.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, with my regrets, I hope the Members of this House will really take this matter seriously which has come from a colleague who has not done this before.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, with that spirit and with the spirit of "condemn the Minister and pass the Bill", I beg to move.

(Question put and . . .)

Hon. Members: The "Ayes" have it!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am not quite sure myself. I think I will put the question again.

(Question put and negated)

Hon. Members: Division! Division!

(A number of hon. Members stood in their places and demanded a Division)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Resume your seats please.

Now, I will put the question again.

(Question put again and the House divided)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): The Tellers for the Ayes are Mr. Anyieni and Mr. Mutiso and those for the Noes are Mr. Muniyi and Mr. Tsuma.

Will the Tellers move to their positions now, the Ayes to my right and the Noes to my left.

Order! Only the Tellers should move now.

All right, you may now proceed to a Division.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Abstainers, please give your names to the Clerk.

PROCEDURAL MOTION

REDUCTION OF PUBLICATION PERIOD:

RENT RESTRICTION (AMENDMENT)

(No. 2) BILL

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am very grateful for the assistance that the House is trying to give to enable this Bill to go through and enable the Tribunal to function.

Sir, I beg to move:

THAT, the period of publication of the Rent Restriction (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill be reduced from 14 days to one day.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Ayah: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. We are not finished with the Minister yet.

[Mr. Ayah]

Sir, I have no intention of supporting this Motion. I feel that the arguments have been advanced in a previous Motion. I said I personally did not see any reason why this thing is being rushed through the way it is being rushed. Other arguments have been raised saying that some people are suffering throughout the country, especially in the urban areas and that if we pass this Bill today, these people will suddenly stop suffering. However, Sir, I am concerned that all of a sudden the Minister has found out that these people are suffering. He has had a chance in the last three months to have this matter brought to the attention of the House, have the reading done in the normal way—14 days—but he has chosen a most unfortunate day to have us, not only spend all our time which we could have used for discussing Private Members' Motions, but to have us argue over something which is originally his own mistake. I gather that hon. Members have already condemned him and I want to add my vote in condemning him for having been careless, not only himself personally but the whole of his Ministry. I want to urge my hon. friends that it is no good—because we have this before—just condemning a Minister that he has been careless. It is appropriate, because this is the occasion, that we should show the Minister and any other Ministers who in future might choose this kind of method to bulldoze the House into these hurried passages of Bills. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to urge my hon. friends that this is an occasion when we have, in principle, to exercise our caution because if we do not, then I think the Ministers will continue—I do not want to condemn all Ministers, I want to condemn this particular Minister, that he must not bring to the House, in a hurried manner, something he has had in his files, in his office for a full three months. He is, in fact, the Deputy Leader of Government Business.

With those few remarks, Mr. Speaker, I beg to vehemently oppose.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am surprised to hear this from the Member for Kisumu Rural who is very close to Kisumu and knows very well that the tenants keep on running from one advocate to another seeking protection. I should have expected him to be the first person to exercise his powers to see that this Bill goes through, not for the benefit of my hon. colleague the Minister, nor for the benefit of anybody else, but for the benefit of the wananchi. I do not see why we should argue against personalities or against each other. I agree with one hon. Member who said that in principle we do not accept this method. It is equally true, and my colleague also knows this, that at the Sessional Committee meeting Members expressed that this method should not be allowed but because of the urgency, the need to help the tenants and those who live in urban areas as well as the City of Nairobi this Bill should be allowed in this way. It was only to help the tenants and to protect them from the landlords. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we should not speak in the language of the landlords but rather in the language which will convince others not to penalize the tenants. This is so because of the non-existence of this particular clause. We want the people to know that the Members do understand their problems; we are here to make sure that justice is done.

I would like to thank the Member for Parklands for highlighting the problems which those people face and I should have expected the Member for Embakasi to support him—

Mr. Karungaru: Oh, no!

An hon. Member: He has become a landlord.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): His language now has changed.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, can the Vice-President substantiate that the Member for Embakasi has ever been a landlord, as he is implying?

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I did not say he is a landlord, I said he has changed his language and he looks like a landlord.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, are you not satisfied that the Member who is speaking is making a categorical allegation deliberately and this has nothing to do with me changing from this or that? He is making an insinuation and do you allow such an insinuation in this House?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order!

Really, I do not see the insinuation here. Perhaps you do not like being called a landlord. I can see that, and I would ask Mr. Moi not to call you a landlord.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, one "looking" is not "being". However, could it not safely be said that one could be a representative or a spokesman of the landlords? He does not have to be a landlord but he can be a spokesman for the landlords. They can have somebody to represent them.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Mr. Karungaru, has not proved himself a spokesman of the landlords.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, in expressing here an opinion that by the looks of him— If he does not look like a landlord, there is no harm done. I suppose he must be struggling at least to get a house, to buy a house in Nairobi—

An hon. Member: And rent it.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): —and rent it to others.

I did point out that the Member for Parklands has seen these problems because being a lawyer he has seen the problem much closer than, possibly, the hon. Member for Embakasi. The hon. Member for Embakasi does not hold that office and cannot, therefore, know how big that problem is.

For this reason, Sir, we should exercise our powers in passing this Bill so as to enable those concerned with dealing with rent control to help the tenants who are suffering, not only in Nairobi but in Kisumu, Nakuru, Eldoret, Mombasa, Thika, Nyeri and other towns. This should be the feeling of the hon. Members. The hon. Member for Yatta, of course, must have some of his constituents in Machakos or in Nairobi—

Mr. Mutiso: I am the president.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): If the hon. Member is the president, then he is not fighting for them. He should now be using that authority to be the spokesman for them.

With these few remarks, Mr. Speaker, let us allow the First Reading to go through.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that this Motion is more or less related to the previous one is it not time the Mover was called on to reply?

Hon. Members: No!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): It is quite true that the two Motions are related and having agreed on the first part, there is no need now to hammer on this one. You should decide quickly.

So, I will put the question.

(Question, that the Mover be called on to reply, put and agreed to)

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

BILL

First Reading

THE RENT RESTRICTION (AMENDMENT)

(No. 2) BILL

(Order for First Reading read—Read the First Time—Ordered to be read the Second Time today by leave of the House)

Second Reading

THE RENT RESTRICTION (AMENDMENT) (No. 2) BILL

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move that the Rent Restriction (Amendment) Bill 1971 be now read a Second Time.

In doing so all I am asking the House is to add to the already amended Act a few words so that it will read: "The Rent Restriction (Amendment) (No. 2) Act, 1971". I want us to add, in section 1, the following words—

"and shall be deemed to have come into operation on 1st December 1970".

This is the only amendment that we want to make to the Rent Restriction (Amendment) (No. 2) Act, 1971.

Sir, I beg to move.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki) seconded.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I want to say a few words on this Bill—

An hon. Member: Speak like a president!

Mr. Mutiso: Sir, the hon. Member there is telling me to speak like a president. He knows pretty well that I can speak like one.

The reason why the House has been so difficult towards the Minister is because he has failed, totally, to convince us on the grounds on which he has been delaying this Bill until today, when he wants to take up the time of the Members, knowing very well that Friday is a Private Members' Day. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is no use for any of the hon. Members to suggest that we are not seriously taking the interest of the tenants to heart when we oppose the move by the Minister. Mr. Speaker, Sir, it is because we feel very bitter about the delaying tactics by the Minister for Housing and the Government on knowing very well that for the past few months—as has been stated by several Members here—the courts that deal with this question of tenants, have not been sitting. The Minister and Government have been aware of this. Now, today, which is Private Members' Day, they found it necessary to come and take most of our time. This is where Sir, we felt very much aggrieved. The attitude that has been shown by the hon. Members does not in any way imply that they are not aware of the problems of the tenants.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I, personally, have a special interest in this Bill in seeing it passed. As some Members might have said, I am the president of the Tenants' Union and I am therefore the one who is more concerned in seeing this Bill passed. However, I oppose the move by the Minister on the grounds that the Minister has been dragging his feet; he knew of this problem and he could not take action at the time when it was due. This is why I oppose the move by the Minister.

Sir, the Bill is very important in my view. The Government could not rectify the mistakes that have been there by the mere reason that something had elapsed and that they needed ratification. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am sure the House will agree with me that the Bill is important. However, I doubt, Sir, whether the Minister will get away with it. Although it is an important issue that should be passed I think because of the principles involved, because of the fact that we want Government not to repeat this mistake every now and then, we should block the Bill. I am sure, Mr. Speaker, Sir, that the House will not pass this Bill, particularly the Third stage. I am afraid, as much as I would like to support the Bill, we consider the principles involved. I do not know whether the Minister has convinced the House or he will be able to convince the other Members to give him support. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I wanted only to say that the tenants in this country have been, for a long time, exploited and many of the exploiters are on the Front Bench there. It is on this point—

Mr. Kanja: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, can the hon. Member, Mr. Mutiso, substantiate that the hon. Members sitting on the Front Bench are the exploiters of our people?

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is common knowledge. Most of these Ministers are landlords; they own houses in Nairobi and in other towns—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! They might be landlords, but it is quite out of order to call them exploiters. You might expose what you think they do wrong but not say what you have said. That is unparliamentary here.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I withdraw the word "exploiters" but, of course, they have no guts to deny—

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the hon. Member has withdrawn the word "exploiter" but he says that we have no guts to deny that we are landlords. Now, since we have many Ministers here, could he be specific and tell the House who are landlords? I am not a landlord.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! We are taking time for nothing. Whether Members here are landlords or not is not really relevant to this issue. The amendment required has nothing to do with people being landlords at all.

Mr. Mutiso: Mr. Speaker, Sir, because I know many Members want to air their views, I beg to reserve my opinion.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I stand to support this Bill for the simple reason that it is asking this House to accept a small amendment, which reads: "This Bill will come into operation on the 1st December 1970". Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not see the reason why we should waste a lot of time. We still have a lot of work on the Order Paper to do today and, therefore I would like to appeal to the hon. Members that we should not speak for the sake of speaking. The reasons have been given and the Minister has been criticized enough. He is a capable Minister and he has been in politics for a long time, and so he has learned a lot. Therefore, he will not repeat the mistake of delaying these sort of things. If he does, then that will be the time for him to be condemned.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this Bill is too short and so we should limit our speeches to be also short. This is because this is one of the shortest Bills which have been brought to this House.

I do not want to waste time, and so with those few remarks, I beg to support the Bill very strongly—

An hon. Member: You better sit down now.

Mr. arap Cheboiwo: I have not finished, Mr. Speaker, Sir. Will you please tell hon. Koigi to sit down, Sir, because I have not finished? When you say, "with those few remarks"— I think this has been the practice that when the Member speaking says so, everybody thinks that is the end of it. Sir, I wanted to say, with these few remarks, I beg to support the Bill very strongly and appeal to my colleagues to follow suit so that we may finish it and then move to the other business.

Mr. Koigi: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support this Bill. I feel we have created a habit in this House of talking about things which are not necessary. Our hon. friend here tells us that the Bill is reasonable and that we should pass it. He then later says that the House should block it. This is contradictory. There is no need for contradiction.

With these few remarks, I support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think the hon. Members have had enough debate on this Bill and therefore I beg to move that the question be now put.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Yes, I think we should entertain that.

(Question that the Mover be now called upon to reply put and agreed to)

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I am grateful to the hon. Members for giving me this support. I also feel it is time we finished the debate and I do not want to waste their time.

(Question put and agreed to)

(The Bill was read a Second Time)

LEAVE OF THE HOUSE

FOR TAKING COMMITTEE STAGE OF A BILL

(Order for Committee read)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Do we have the leave of the House?

POINTS OF ORDER

LEAVE OF THE HOUSE REQUIRED—FOR TAKING MORE THAN ONE STAGE OF A BILL AT ONE SITTING

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Speaker, Sir, I object. On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, the leave of the House is required and it is not necessary to state reasons if there are many Members, but even without doing so, we would like to get time to study the original Bill so that we can speak intelligently next week at Committee Stage. Therefore, I oppose the leave of the House being given in order to go through the next stage of the Bill. (A number of hon. Members stood in their places)

An hon. Member: Sit down, Mr. Karungaru!

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Order! We are trying to—

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): I know you are dealing with a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, but the main point is, on the sequence— The order had already been called; the Speaker was on his feet, in fact, you were going out; and therefore I submit that the point of order raised by the hon. Seroney is out of order because it is too late.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! The position is more complicated than that really, in the sense that I should have asked for the leave of the House before I left the Chair. In all fairness, therefore, that was the proper sequence which, unfortunately, I did not follow and, therefore, Mr. Seroney was quite right in drawing my attention there.

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir—

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Is it related to what we are doing right now?

The Assistant Minister for Local Government (Mr. Munoko): Yes, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I thought that in the first Motion, we did enable this Bill to be taken all stages on the same day; if you look at the Motion it reads: "All stages to be taken on the same day". So, I think, Sir, we have already had the leave of the House to do so.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Now, this is a very important point really which Mr. Munoko has raised. "By leave of the House" which appears at this stage, and I think this explains my natural reactions—why I just moved away—is redundant because it does not really apply after having agreed that we go through all the stages. Then, it follows that there was no need for the leave of the House to be sought. The leave of the House would only have been required if we had not had this kind of Procedural Motion which really authorized us to go right through all the stages. The mistake is in the Order Paper and not in the action we have taken.

HOUSE HAS NO POWER TO EXEMPT BUSINESS FROM STANDING ORDER NO. 99

Mr. Seroney: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, we have had this argument before. I remember previously I drew your attention to the fact that the House, under our Standing Orders, cannot exempt business from Standing Order No. 99. Are we being invited every time to flout our own Standing Orders? The Standing Order says quite clearly that you can exempt provisions of other Standing Orders, but as far as Standing Order No. 99 goes you cannot exempt and we are really flouting our own Standing Orders.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to register the strongest possible objection to this and my learned friend, the Attorney-General, ought to know better. Let him study Standing Order No. 99.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Njonjo): Might I draw your attention, Mr. Speaker, Sir, to Standing Order No. 99, which says:

"Save with the leave of the House, not more than one stage of a Bill may be taken at any one Sitting."

Now, earlier on, during this debate, we did resolve, as it were, to suspend this because we agreed that the Bill should go through all the stages today.

Mr. Seroney: No! We must ask for leave of the House again.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): Order! Mr. Seroney has a point in what he says, but what has happened, and apparently there was no objection then, was that during the debate on the University of Nairobi Bill, we actually acted as we are acting now. I do not think there was any objection because the argument was that there was urgency, and exactly the same situation has arisen. The whole idea of agreeing to bring this matter here—and Mr. Seroney is a Member of the Sessional Committee and should know what went on—was because it was urgent and because the aim was to get it through.

Now, as far as practice is concerned, we have done this before, but—

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, are we going to continue making mistakes simply because we made a mistake once? I want that to be made very clear because I did stand intending to object to the leave of the House being given and somebody told me to sit down because there was another stage when we would be required to give the leave of the House. This is what we are now objecting to.

An hon. Member: Are you sure? He is not sure.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I think what we have to consider here now is just the question of urgency. If Members feel that this is not urgent yet it means that, at least, for the next four weeks, everything will still be at a standstill—if the Members really feel that there is no hardship which necessitates this decision—then that is up to them to decide. However, there was no point in going through all the processes we have done during the whole morning and then to come and stop at this point. There was no point at all. We might as well have waited until we come back from our recess.

Mr. Kanja: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, if I got it right, the implication I gathered was that we made a mistake when we were discussing the University of Nairobi Bill; and since two wrongs do not make one right, if we have gone wrong once, why should we go wrong for the second time knowingly?

Mr. Karungaru: They can never! We cannot have it.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No! Here I am stressing that there is no point of urgency. What happened at that time, it was pointed out that there was this urgency and, in fact, the Members accepted that we should go through all the stages —which we did—and it is in the same way, in my view, that there was urgency here and that is why we agreed to take Private Members' Day for this purpose.

However, what is now happening is that I am being told that there is no urgency; something that could have been done even earlier. The Members could have even dropped the Second Reading of the Bill. There was no point in going through the Second Reading and only to shelve the Bill again. It is just a question of urgency now.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, following up the argument by the hon. Seroney, when he referred us to the Standing Order number 99—

An hon. Member: Standing Order No. 199.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Standing Order number 99 is what I am talking about!

Could you, Mr. Speaker, Sir, ask the hon. Members to keep the peace? I will call you names if you continue talking like that as if you are in a market.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Sir, Standing Order number 99 is quite clear, and that is why the hon. Munoko is quite right— It says:—

“Provided that the provisions of this Standing Order shall not apply to or in respect of any Appropriation Bill or Consolidated Fund Bill.”

Mr. Speaker, Sir, this is not an appropriation Bill and therefore we are quite right in what we are doing.

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, in view of the existing confusion in the House over the Standing Order in question, could you not use your discretion on whether this thing is urgent or not?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I am sorry, I did not quite follow your point of order, Mr. Kariuki. Could you repeat it please?

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): My point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is: in view of the existing confusion over the Standing Order in question, could you use your discretion on whether this thing is urgent or not, and if it is urgent, we proceed?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I agree we have to follow our own rules and I cannot just defy our rules. The provision which Mr. Seroney is basing his argument on is Standing Order which clearly states that we cannot exempt business from Standing Order No. 99. However, the only thing I can do is just to appeal to hon. Members to consider this as an urgent matter. If they do not think it is urgent, even after they have gone more or less through it showing that they thought it was urgent and they even shelved their own Motions in order to deal with this, then I fail to see the reasoning there. I am saying this because there was no point, in the first instance, in starting on this at all unless we intended to go through with it. Having passed the Procedural Motion, I took it that hon. Members seriously thought we should get done with this. What it amounts to is that we shall have—in my view—wasted a whole morning because we have resolved nothing and we shall have to come back to it again when we come back from our recess, and yet at the same time we argue that the matter is urgent, saying that some people are suffering and so on. I think we should look at it from that point of view.

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, since the House has already made a decision on this matter because hon. Members have already debated this issue, giving their views and objecting to the Bill in the third stage, basing their objection on our Standing Orders, is the Chair not trying to convince the House to go against the Standing Orders? I am asking this, Mr. Speaker, Sir, because the House has already considered this and made a decision on the matter.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, I am not trying to persuade anybody to defy our Standing Orders. I am far from doing that. After all, I have to defend and enforce the Standing Orders. I am not trying to do that; all I was doing is looking at the issue as an unexpected problem and dealing with it as an emergency. However, I do not think we should take so much time. If hon. Members object to this, I am afraid I will have to abide by the Standing Orders.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Nyagah): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, I do not know whether I am in order or not to appeal through you to the hon. Members that since we have gone about five stages of this Bill in a very serious debate, we resolve that despite what Standing Orders are, at this stage we should go through all the stages of this Bill. Am I in order, Mr. Speaker, to appeal to hon. Members, through you, that we should finish the remaining bit?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): This is what I have been trying to do—appealing to the hon. Members—but I do not know how successful I have been.

Mr. arap Chumo: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, since hon. Members have objected to our taking Committee stage of this Bill and there is no other Standing Order which we could follow, would I be in order to suggest that we proceed and, because this Bill is very urgent, we come back next Tuesday and finish up.

Mr. Mulwa: But we have objected to the Bill, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I did not quite see the people who objected. Who objects?

(A number of hon. Members stood in their places)

(Leave for Committee Stage refused)

(The Bill was committed to a Committee of the House tomorrow)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): All right, I am sorry. Next Order.

MOTION

ASSISTANT MINISTERS TO BE DEPUTY MINISTERS

THAT, since this Government intends to train its promising men into actually effective leaders of tomorrow's Kenya, this House calls on the Government to introduce a Bill for amendment of the Constitution of Kenya in order to delete the words, "Assistant Minister", and substitute in place thereof the words, "Deputy Minister".

(Mr. Mwithaga on 26th March 1971)

(Resumption of debate interrupted on 26th March 1971)

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): May I remind hon. Members that we now have only one hour remaining. Today we are having a Motion for the Adjournment of the House and normally hon. Members want to have time to speak on this Motion. I do not know how we shall go about it. I am saying this because if we are to go through the next Motion, for instance, that is also going to take some time. I do not know what the feelings of the hon. Member concerned are.

Mr. Mwithaga. Mr. Mwithaga not here? The Motion had been moved and seconded and Mr. Migure spoke and concluded his speech. So, the debate was going on, but what I am worried about is the time for the Motion for the Adjournment.

Mr. Mwangale: Mr. Speaker, Sir, would I be in order to suggest that we debate this Motion on the Adjournment straightaway, and leave the Motion by the hon. Mwithaga, in view of the fact that he has absconded the House at the moment.

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): No, do not accuse Mr. Mwithaga because even if he was here, other people would be speaking but he would not until he is called upon to reply. So, if it is the wish of hon. Members, we will skip the next Orders and move straight to the Motion for the Adjournment.

(Motion deferred)

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE: TO A DAY OTHER THAN THE NEXT NORMAL SITTING DAY

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I beg to move:—

THAT, this House do now adjourn until Tuesday, the 4th of May 1971.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Mr. Speaker, Sir, is it parliamentary language for an hon. Member to shout from one end of the Chamber here, that, "We have fixed you." Is that parliamentary, Mr. Speaker?

The Speaker (Mr. Mati): I did not hear anybody saying so. In any case, nobody has been fixed here.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Speaker, in moving this Motion, I am again trying to appeal to hon. Members to be careful. During this Session which opened sometime in February, many hon. Members have thought it fit to accuse the Government, to accuse the civil servants and to accuse everybody—

Mr. Mutiso: They did so genuinely.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi):—unfairly and unjustly. Mr. Speaker, Sir, if anyone thinks he is an angel then definitely he is not right at all.

[The Speaker (Mr. Mati) left the Chair]

[The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki) took the Chair]

I said earlier on, when we adjourned last time, that the best thing a leader can do is to show a steady leadership or to show that he can lead, but not go merely by rumour or gossiping about other things which cannot help wananchi.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to state in this House that I am standing up now to defend the civil servants. I would like to speak on their behalf as the Leader of the Government Business by saying that whatever they have done in the past throughout the country, working overtime, working during their private time to put through the Government matters for the good of wananchi; the civil servants should be congratulated and we are proud of them. I have stated in the past that the civil servants and the hon. Members of Parliament are complementary to each other. This should be the theme of the unity which His Excellency the President of the Republic of Kenya, Mzee Kenyatta has all the time been preaching.

I have also referred in this House that bitterness and talking against, that is, the hon. Members talking against each other or using a language which can disappoint others, will not help to preserve the dignity of this House. Making such remarks that one can fix the other one. Who can fix the other— Making such remarks such as that some hon. Members have been pocketed, there is no one who has pockets large enough in which any one in this House can fit. Even the hon. Chief Kitonga cannot do so despite— Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is a wonderful opportunity for the hon. Members to go back to their constituencies because we are expecting the rain to fall so that planting and some other things can be done at an appropriate time. Some hon. Members feel that we should continue with sitting. I do not know— They are suggesting, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that there are some other people who can plant, that is, excluding themselves. I think we are the people to set an example, but we should not use others to do the job. That is the language of the capitalists because a socialist must participate in doing the work, he should not leave others to do the work. I do work myself. I would like the hon. Member to accompany me to witness that I clean my cattle, send them to the dip—

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I wish the hon. Members to do their best during this recess.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to move.

Mr. Murgor: Thank you Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

Mr. Mutiso: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, has the Motion been seconded? Is the hon. Member seconding?

Mr. Murgor: I am not.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): We do not want any further confusion. If the hon. Member is not seconding then he will have to lose his opportunity. Are you prepared to second, Mr. Murgor?

Mr. Murgor: Yes, I am prepared to second.

An hon. Member: You have been caught!

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is no reason why I should not second this Motion because I also want to go on recess.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Murgor: I want to go and do some work at home.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, thank you for giving me this opportunity. I hope, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that during this recess, a lot of our friends here on the Front Bench will also do a lot of home-work. We are told of civil servants being attacked here, when in actual fact, even Ministers themselves criticize civil servants, when they should be the people protecting them. Why do we have to sing the same song, the Front benchers and the Back benchers? We have Ministers who are in charge of Ministries, but as an hon. Member said the other day, some Ministers are complete rubber-stamps and I agree with him entirely. Why, having been given responsibilities by the President, you do not look after your Ministries; you just remain there to be guided, and then when you come here and find Back benchers complaining, you also join them? We do not know where we are.

Hon. Members: They are rubber-stamps!

Mr. Murgor: Therefore, I hope, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that during this recess the Ministers and their Assistants will have to think twice and see what they can do, because you have the civil servants there, you have made them— An hon. Member said here the other time, that Government is not now the Cabinet Ministers, but top civil servants. There is some justification in that because if you can come here and criticize civil servants, and you are the men who should be helping them, then I do not know where we are.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, again some people do not seem to think or to see that things have changed in this House. In the last Parliament, there were Members of Parliament who could not speak their minds because they were afraid of certain Ministers, but today, that situation is completely changed.

Hon. Members: Hear! Hear!

Mr. Murgor: We are here— We were elected to come to this House, not to speak through other people's minds, but to speak our own minds, and not to be threatened; there seem to be some threats. Even if you criticize Government or you do— Well, Government is there; it ought to be criticized if it does things wrongly; it has to be put right. If you are just going to shrink yourselves and not tell Government where it has gone wrong, then the country will be going completely the wrong way. We are here to put things right; we are here to see that the wananchi get what they should be getting, and we should when we come here to speak our minds speak the minds of the people at home — The majority of the people here in Nairobi do not know what is happening in the rural areas; we know what is happening, and when we come here, we speak their minds, we speak what they think, what they want and then we are threatened. Sometimes, you hear some people being told, "Okay, if you speak more—"

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Matano): On a point of order, Sir; I noticed two gentlemen passing near the Chair there, without bowing; the first was the Assistant Minister, Mr. Cheronon. He came to talk to you and he did not bow to the Chair, and now I have seen the Attorney-General also passing near there without bowing to the Chair.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is this the new system now or what is it?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, I do not think that that is the confusion which had existed before. However, I think, they possibly were still in the state of confusion themselves.

Mr. Murgor: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, some people here are told "If you talk more against the Government here, your constituency will have no development."

With these few remarks, Sir, I beg to support.

(Question proposed)

Mr. Lenayiarra: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I thank you very much for this opportunity and I would like to say that I support the Motion very strongly because we should go home and be with our people for this one month. This opportunity, usually at the end of each Session, gives us a chance to draw the attention of the Government to various problems, on which the Government should be very careful, during the recess.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, at the moment we have one big problem and that is the problem of the drought. It is now known that people in various parts of our country are starving; people in those areas have no food. They do not have even food to eat. We appreciate the steps taken by the Government to provide them with some food and we thank all those who contributed money, be they companies, organizations, individuals or other people and, on behalf of our people, Sir, I would like to thank them very, very much indeed. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to point out that the food which is being given is not enough. It is not enough! Sir, I do not know what we can do in order that when I say something which affects the people where I come from, it should be taken in by the Minister or the Government as a true report from a true representative of the people. I do not know what we can do, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because many times we come here, we go to the President's Office or anywhere else and give reports about famine in our areas, but these reports are not taken seriously. In our district today, Sir, over 52,000 people is the official figure of the famine relief victims. Sir, the figure is 52,000 people and yet in a month we are getting 800 bags of posho! Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this is about two pounds of posho for every person per month. Now, how can a starving person live when he does not have anything else. Let us just imagine, Mr. Deputy Speaker, how our people can live on such rations when all our cattle have died? All our cattle have died! Sir, the remaining cattle are very weak, they have no milk, they have no meat and cannot, therefore, be sold. These people have nothing else left. Why is the Government not taking this matter seriously? How can a person live on two pounds of posho in a month? Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, last week-end when we went home we found that, although we are getting these 800 bags, there are people who are just about to die. We, therefore, organized a meeting and collected some funds with which we bought food. What is the Government doing to help us? If the Government has the money and food, what is it doing to see that these lives are saved? This matter, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is very serious; it is very serious, indeed.

I understand, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, that there is a committee known as the National Famine Relief Co-ordination Committee. Now, why cannot Members of Parliament be allowed to sit on this Committee so that we give it a true picture of what is happening in these areas? Why cannot we be allowed to sit on this Committee, Sir? How can people who sit in Nairobi—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the Committee on food is sitting in his area during the week and the hon. Member is here, can he split himself in two so that he is here while at the same time he is supposed to be attending this Committee? No, Sir!

Mr. Lenayiarra: That was not a point of order. It is possible for me to go and sit at home and then come and sit here. I am interested and I am very serious about this.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Minister, with all due respect, should not laugh at this matter. This is not a laughing matter. It is a very serious matter. I saw people, Mr. Deputy Speaker, who were about to die from famine, last week when I left home, and there was nothing special which was organized to see to it that they get food.

Mr. Seroney: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am not quite happy about this particular adjournment. This is because adjournments, in the past, have not been good for this country because it always seems that when we are in recess, wrong things which we do not want to happen, happen, and it is not possible to raise them in this particular House.

It seems, to me, Mr. Deputy Speaker, that this Government, as we have seen, is lacking, not only in efficiency, but it has a lack of co-ordination. Sometimes, one hand of the Government does not know what the other hand is doing. An example which we have is this question of inefficiency in the Ministry of Housing—where the Minister is, in fact, been let down by his own officers who do not do things which should be done, in time. Again, the Cabinet sits and arranges a programme for the whole year but then, there is nobody to co-ordinate this programme and make sure that all the urgent things are done within the programme which they have issued, themselves. That is why, every time we want to go into recess, we have a Motion to exempt—

The Assistant Minister for Lands and Settlement (Mr. G. G. Kariuki): On a point of order, I think we should take this matter very seriously, particularly this Motion. Is it in order for the hon. Member for Butere to keep on asking whether the hon. Member is married and if he is not married he should go home and get married?

Mr. Seroney: I can see the tactics of my friends. They want to expend my time so that I do not say what I am going to say.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, all I am saying is that if we had greater co-ordination on the part of the Government and if we had somebody in the Cabinet who co-ordinates Government business on the Civil Service level, then some of the difficulties we are experiencing here would not exist. So, although I reluctantly agree to this particular recess, I hope that when we come back the Government will have been sufficiently rested and that they will show a greater efficiency and co-ordination than they are now showing.

I also want to say another thing, Mr. Deputy Speaker. That is about the talk on the question of loyalty. I want to emphasize that, as far as I am concerned and as far as Members of this House are concerned, our loyalty is beyond question. Whenever we point out mistakes to the Government, it does not mean that we are disloyal to the Government. In fact, if we were not loyal to the Government, then we would not show them these mistakes but we would go and exploit them outside the House to undermine the Government. That is not our intention. We are loyal to the Government and will go on being loyal to the Government of His Excellency the President and the Vice-President. Therefore, let no one who is incompetent, let no one who is defeated in doing his job run behind the President and say, "People who are criticizing me are, in fact, criticizing you." We do not want these people who hide behind the President. When we criticize people, they should accept the criticisms squarely.

I would like to say another thing about the Provincial Administration. I think it is the general feeling of this House that the system of Provincial Administration should be scrapped. It is anti-democratic and I think we should, soon consider to replace it. Meanwhile, we keep on hearing constant rumours, for instance, that in North-Eastern Province, and the Coast Province, the provincial commissioners there do not get along well with Members of Parliament and even Ministers of those particular areas. I am only going to say this: We in Rift Valley have not asked for a reshuffle and we do not want this provincial commissioner from Eastern Province or Coast Province to be transferred to Rift Valley Province. We do not want, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the rejects from the other provinces.

With these few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support.

Mr. D. M. Kioko: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am seeking for your guidance here. Since one hour that was to be spent discussing this Motion was taken this morning by other businesses; I wonder whether we may be allowed to extend our time to one o'clock.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): If the House wishes that we should go up to one o'clock the Chair has no objection. Is that the wish of the House?

Hon. Members: Yes.

Mrs. Gecaga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, when the Mover of this Motion was moving it, I listened very carefully to what he was saying. He said that there has been a lot of criticisms in this House and I think that he meant that the Back-benchers have been criticizing Government or the Front Bench. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I feel that if the criticisms are genuine, Government should accept them fully and put right what has gone wrong.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, during the past few weeks the Back-benchers have been confused because some of the Assistant Ministers on the Front Bench who have been happily wearing Government's coat have been changing it from time to time to criticize the civil servants. The civil servants are also in Government. We have been wondering—when we sit on the Back Benches—who the Government is and who the Ministers and Assistant Ministers are. If the Vice-President who is the Leader of Government Business could sort out this during the recess—

The Assistant Minister for Co-operatives and Social Services (Mr. arap Choge): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Is the hon. Member aware that an Assistant Minister in his capacity as an Assistant Minister is also a politician or a political head in that particular Ministry?

Mrs. Gecaga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am very well aware of that but I still think that Assistant Ministers should criticize 80 per cent of what Government does and support 20 per cent of what it does. This is where I feel we were confused and it should be made clear to us so that we know who the Government is and who is not Government.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, another issue is about the debate we had this morning on the Motion brought by the Minister for Housing. I think we should not criticize the whole Civil Service but somebody in that Ministry made a mistake of not seeing that that amendment was signed. That was very wrong and the Minister should take action to see that such a thing does not happen again because we do realize the seriousness of that Act.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there is one point that I would like to raise. In the country a lot has been said about cholera. We know that this could be very serious if the disease invades the City of Nairobi. We know that many of our people live in Eastlands and we know where they go to get their meals. We know that to demolish these premises is not to save our people but is putting them to hunger thinking that probably we are cleaning the city. I would like to ask the Government to use some money to provide water in such places, instead of spending money treating those people who are likely to be cholera victims, by inoculating them. If this water is provided, these people could wash their utensils and, at least, have some hygienic facilities such as washing the utensils after eating their meals. I am not talking about the places where they live, but I am talking about places where they go in the morning and have their breakfast before they go to work. In the evenings, when they leave their places of work, they pass through the same places and have something to eat.

[Mrs. Gecaga]

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I believe that this Session has been very, very healthy because even on the last day, people seem to be in a very good mood and this shows that we have been working together as a team.

With these few remarks, I beg to support the Motion.

The Assistant Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Khaoya): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would like to say that the weather this year has been very, very unkind. It has been very, very unkind indeed, but we, as farmers in Kenya, should do all we can to see that we make good, at least, what the weather has spoilt in the country. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I notice that today is 2nd April, when the rains are still dodging, in fact, so much so, that in some places, you would think we are still in December. When we go home—and I am sure we have had quite a number of people who have attempted to bring about rain, some of them have come from as far as Western Province and others from Mombasa. All I would like to say is that let us pray to them to succeed, because if they succeed, everybody will have succeeded. We know that the meteorologists tell us that rain can only come from nebulous clouds or cumulus nebulous clouds, but that does not stop anybody from trying. In fact, we, in agriculture think that if anybody can try and succeed, we would only be too glad. However, I would like to appeal to the farmers throughout the country that while the weather has been unkind, to try their level best, if we should get any rains, to do whatever planting they can, do it quickly, do it properly, the way our extension services are advising the country. We have very many of them, in fact, for the information of the House, we have about 15,000 agriculturalists in the country and these should be able to give the necessary knowledge for planting coffee, maize, looking after cattle, etc. I should also recommend to the House that when we go out, we should not be discouraged by the weather, let us advise the farmers to keep on trying in the hope that, at least, we shall get a good crop at the end of the year.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, my second point is that the Government has tried as much as possible to give some loans, such as Guaranteed Minimum Return and others to the farmers. I know these loans may not be sufficient for the needs of the farmers throughout the country. However, when the loans are given out, the most important thing to remember is that Swahili saying that: "Kukopa ni harusilakini kulipani matanga." That means that borrowing is like a wedding. I should like to advise the farmers in the country to take that example we have had from four leading districts, which have done very well in loan repayments and I am proud to name them. Baringo District has been leading this year, followed by Embu and Marakwet Districts have done very well, Nandi has done extremely well and I am glad also to announce that Kiambu has been pulling up their socks, of late. These districts have done very well in loan repayments and when they do that, I would like to take this opportunity to appeal to the other districts to remember that when we give them loans, these loans have to be repaid so that the following year, we can use the same money for giving to others who are waiting in the line just like those who have been able to get the money this year.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, hon. Lenayiarra has touched on the point of famine relief. I know this is a very sore point, Mr. Deputy Speaker. The country is going through a very tough time, indeed. Let us not, ourselves, bring in any more problems on this matter. We know that the problems we are facing are not problems of our own making but they have come about because of the drought. There are quite a number of people who are doing all they can to provide food for the famine victims. I know we cannot give everybody food but whatever little that is done, I think we should be thankful to those people who are contributing, either in terms of money or in terms of personal efforts. It is important to keep on thanking these people because they are doing a useful work and when the hon. Members go back to their constituencies they should also join in the line of helping either by giving a little money, giving a coat or a tie, or even giving your chai or anything which you can possibly offer.

With those few words, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Komen: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for giving me this opportunity to air my views on this Motion.

First of all, I would like to point out to the Government that they are now trying to mistreat the Dorobo people. Yesterday, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I had a delegation which came from my constituency which told me that the Dorobo people had been victimized by this same Government to which they belong.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, there has been a lot of forest burning in the whole country. This does not mean that all these forest burnings started from the Dorobo country. There has been forest burning on Mount Kenya, Mount Elgon and other places but nobody was victimized in those areas, Mr. Deputy Speaker. It is only my people who have been raided by forest officers, district commissioners and other officials saying that the Dorobo people are the ones who are burning forests. Does it mean that we went to Mount Kenya or to Mount Elgon to burn forests there? Does it mean that the Dorobo people are responsible for the fires which have been burning in the Gilgil area and other places? Government should come out clearly and show the Dorobo people where they should live. If we are not going to be allowed to live inside the forests where we belong, or rather where Dorobo belong, which is our right, then we should be showed where to live or else, soon or later, we shall know what to do with the forests. I am telling the Government that these people are now homeless and have no shelters. This is a very bitter experience. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, because Mr. Kariuki has a comfortable place to live in, he cannot sympathize with the others who have no shelter.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the other thing I would like to touch on is about the impending recess. When we go for this recess, I would not like the Government, the civil servants and the Ministers to sit in their offices without watching what their officers are doing, to criticize the Members of Parliament. I do hope that they will not go to the papers to criticize us. Transfers of provincial commissioners who have been rejected in some places should not be effected, Mr. Deputy Speaker, during the recess period. We do not want these people, Mr. Deputy Speaker. We, in the Rift Valley, stand firm and say that whether it is Mahihu or Mathenge, they are not wanted by us. We cannot have those people who are quite useless who could be sacked or even made secretaries to hon. Koinange. They should not be provincial commissioners nor politicians—

The Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Koinange): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I very much object to this House to touch on the names of individuals when the President, who appointed those people as provincial administrators, is still satisfied with their work. I very much object to anybody to mention them here using those terms.

Mr. Komen: It is okay, if you can tell them to try and avoid coming there, I do not mind. We will thank and compliment you for that.

Another point Sir, is that when we always go into recess, we see a lot of things happening.

An hon. Member: On a point of information, Sir.

Mr. Komen: No! No! I have no time.

Sir, I want to ask those people who belong to Gikuyu, Embu, and Meru Association—because we do not want a lot of misunderstandings—that when we go into this recess—gentlemen please do not continue to take things in the system you used to have. Please play it cool. Do not show that you are going to do some things in kichinichini. We do not want that. You go to your meetings privately and do not try to bring up the other things which ended a long time ago again. I am warning you on this. You always try to say that we are united in one Kanu but if you can separate yourselves and show that you really want unity of your own, gentlemen, such a thing cannot exist in Kenya, and we shall not tolerate it.

Hon. Members: You are right.

Mr. Komen: Another thing, Sir, I do not object to anything; actually you can preach any religion but please take the laws into account. Do not misuse the laws that you have been entrusted with. If the laws are with you and you misuse them saying that because others cannot do anything, you can do better than them, actually we cannot just sit by and watch.

With those few remarks, Sir, I beg to support.

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Gichuru): All I would like to say, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that there has been a lot of exaggeration about famine and I want to give the House the information that our Army is doing a lot to distribute food and I hope that we shall not get the news that some people are dying here and there in this House again. They may be dying of cholera or something else, but certainly not through famine, because there is plenty of food in the country—as the Minister for Agriculture said the other day—and we are distributing it as much as we can.

Mrs. Onyango: Thank you, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, for giving me this time to support this Easter Recess. This is the time we should go home as we have been told time and again that we should go back and do a bit of farming; cultivating and so on and so forth. Now that the rain has come, after a long period of drought, many people at home have done quite a bit of planting. I could only submit that this time, when we go home the district commissioners who are always very difficult to give licences for meetings should be informed that when we go into recess, it should be the time that we can meet the wananchi and tell them about the Government policies. If a meeting is scheduled and you go to a place for it and then suddenly you are told that the meeting is cancelled, it will really mean that the so-called person who is trying to cancel the meeting will not really be trying to help the person who will be representing the area to spread the Government policies. This is the submission that I would like to put forward to whosoever is responsible; that all of us would like to meet wananchi whenever we go home. We would not like anybody to come in our way and start saying, "Oh, when so and so goes to meet the people, he goes to do this and that". We are here to represent the people and it is the people who should tell us what they want to hear from us.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, another thing is when the recess is on everybody tours the country and you may think that something unusual may happen. This is what we are going to tell the Government, and I am talking to those people who are responsible, and say that we would not like something unusual to happen. These unusual things are things like death, sabotage and such things. I want to say that whenever we go on recess it should be a peaceful recess, not a recess of trying to impose some things in the minds of the wananchi.

I want to come to Kisumu and say something about police dogs. Whenever they get hold of somebody they patrol around with this person until morning, until he gets tired. These people should be told that whenever they think you are really drunk you should be taken to the police station immediately, they should not walk around with you until you are tired. The offenders should be told they are going to be arrested and taken to the police station; they should not be arrested and taken round and round.

I want to object that this is the time when Government should choose people to be used in certain areas. Time and again, especially in my area in Kisumu, you find that the people who have been rejected by the wananchi are still bringing reports here and there and these reports are not of the kind that will bring peace. They disturb the peace of the wananchi.

With these few points, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I support going back to the shambas, but I want to make a few points here before I go back to the shamba.

One point I would like to mention is about recruitment in the Kenya Army. I appeal to the Minister that he should now start recruitment of women. I do not think he knows that the country would like to see recruitment of females. This is very important. There should be women in the Police Force. Perhaps, this has not happened all the time because the Minister for Defence is not a policeman; however, I can teach him if he does not know this.

In the Kenya Government, we have district magistrates who have been second class magistrates for a long time. There are vacancies for them to go higher. I appeal to the Kenya Government or to the Attorney-General to promote the present district magistrates to be first class magistrates.

I must say, Sir, that I very much hate the behaviour of the Ministers of the Kenya Government, the way in which they answer questions during Question Time. I think the answers are drafted by the Permanent Secretaries and some of the Ministers, not all, do not even ask their Permanent Secretaries how they should answer these questions in the House. They just come here as clerks and do not seem to understand anything. We need—

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of order—

Mr. Kitonga: Some, not you.

The Minister for Defence (Mr. Gichuru): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think it is bad to generalize some of these things.

Mr. Kitonga: I am sorry, all of you know him and so there is no quarrel here.

Sir, I appeal to my friends the Ministers that when they answer questions they should do so with dignity and behave as Ministers of the Kenya Government because members of the public are always listening to what the Ministers say here. That is why I appeal to the Ministers to answer properly, without joking.

I also appeal to the Kenya Government to consider the disabled people, those who are blind and other disabled people who have been given a chance to go to school, they have been educated but are not given employment. I appeal to the Kenya Government to consider these disabled people for employment.

There is something else I must say. I hate the behaviour of some judges in Kenya as well as the behaviour of some resident magistrates. Every time you go to the courts you find they are quarrelling with the people, some look at you as if you are a ghost and this is very bad.

The Assistant Minister for Information and Broadcasting (Mr. Kase): On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, is it not against our Standing Orders to criticize the behaviour of members of the Judicial Department unless on a Substantive Motion?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): I was just waiting to hear what he was trying to say and then stop him.

That is not allowed, Mr. Kitonga.

Mr. Kitonga: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I would not like to go contrary to the Standing Orders. I apologize for what I have said and leave it at that.

I will go ahead now.

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Your time is up, Mr. Kitonga.

Mr. Mwangale: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I have two very serious statements to make. The first one is in connexion with the political developments in this country in reference to our previous Parliament. It was obviously characteristic of the previous Parliament to have political groupings either on an inter-tribal, tribal or personality basis, and this had developed to the stage where this House was almost uncontrollable. There was control from certain sections, individuals and what-have-you, call it what you may: the long arm of the Government.

I want to issue a very serious warning to us, as Members of Parliament, if I may be allowed to do so. We are coming to the same stage although this hon. House has desperately been trying to avoid a situation like that from existing here. This House, and I want to congratulate this House and this Parliament, has succeeded to do one thing: to avoid personality cults, tribal groupings, inter-tribal groupings of all kinds. We treat Ministers and individuals as individuals.

There is a very serious affair developing in this country now whereby some people are deliberately violating the Constitution in reference to not only individuals—and I want to cite a particular case—but also in issuing orders so that certain Members of Parliament will not enjoy the rights to which every free mwananchi under His Excellency's leadership can enjoy. This is simply because there is power politics, power politics which in itself is a dirty game. I am afraid that some of us or all of us will be caught in the crossfire. I am pointing out this, not in reference to J. M. Kariuki, for that matter, because there is an unfortunate situation existing now whereby certain people in certain quarters are prepared to suggest that there is something called "inheritance for power".

Sir, we have in our own Constitution regulations, what have you laid down and we want those statutes, laws, whatever they are, applied to every individual equally. And, one thing: we will not, Sir—and I want to repeat: we will not, Sir—and it will be a big mistake, a tragedy if this House develops into the same type of inter-tribal, tribal groupings and personality support as was here before.

From my own personal point of views, Sir, if we can continue the way this Parliament has been going since last year, to be sincere, genuine, prepared to represent this country, we have a very, very happy future for this country. But should we allow a situation whereby a few individuals can violate the Constitution because they happen to have the machinery, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am prepared to state that the future can be bleak and I do not want to be caught in the crossfire because I have the interest of this country at heart. We have the leadership, the best leadership that any country in the world can provide and we should be proud of it.

Thank you, Sir.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I am glad that you caught my eye! Or I have caught your eye.

Sir, this country is not going to have a short life, this country is not for the people who are living today. People die but we have never heard of any country which dies. When we take heed of what is said, then we can analyse the situation.

We have been asked to go on recess. Honestly speaking, we are going to say that we accept that, but over and above this fact there are a few things that have to be pointed out.

We do not give the Government a blank cheque. We certainly do not. We know we are going to leave the Ministers in the Ministries, we know there will be other instruments to run the Government but we, Members, are going out now to see the people in the places where they live. We do not want anybody in this country to go and misuse the power which this House has entrusted on them. I am giving this warning to whoever is concerned as custodian and implementor of the laws we have enacted in this House. If things are not done the right way, then honestly, we will be charged with collective responsibility which I do not believe all of us enjoy. The Front Bench has already failed to establish a suitable approach. Many times we have seen these things happen. It was only this morning that we were told there is a matter of great urgency, of great importance, and so forth but we were not, at the same time, told why the same Minister who moved that Motion brought a Bill and did not realize the anomalies contained in this whole issue. He brought everything here in a hurry but did not realize the shortcomings involved in the question. Today, he wanted to give us the same treatment. The Minister comes here the very last minute saying, "Oh! Gentlemen, hon. Members, this matter is of very great urgency. You had better speed it up". Sir, I am not going to accept that treatment. The manner in which some of these things are employed—

An hon. Member: The public will suffer.

Mr. Karungaru: Anyone can say that somebody is suffering: but who is to blame?

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Yourself.

Mr. Karungaru: We are the people—Honestly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, here, I would like to answer the Assistant Minister who has said that I am the one to blame.

He has been sitting on the amendment and yet he knew pretty well that there was a shortcoming in this particular Bill. He did not make any effort or any attempt to bring the amendment. This morning because he knew that we were going for a recess, he brought his amendment. He should be ashamed of such an approach.

Mr. Kitonga: Mind you, the Minister is very near you.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am told that the Minister is very near: if he is near, then he should open his ears so that he may hear me properly.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir—

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): On a point of order. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is the hon. Member right in alleging that I am as deaf as anything and that I need a bull-dozer to pull out whatever I have in my ears: is he really in order?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No, I think, I did not have the impression that he thought you were deaf. He thought that possibly the ears should be wider open than they were: I do not know how he knew it.

Mr. Karungaru: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I am being provoked by the situation that the Minister has created of coming nearer and which had made me arrive at a conclusion that he is rather deaf.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Now, that we going to recess, I must thank the hon. Members for this lively Session we have had. We have seen in this House, Sir, the way Back-benchers and the Front-benchers have co-operated on some Motions and also differed on others. This showed a sign of democracy which is very essential for this country.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, having said that, I wish also to go further and state that in this House we have not done all that we were supposed to do, but we have at least made the public know the system of this Government. We, in Government, Sir—this means Members of Parliament, Assistant Ministers and Ministers—have only one party so far in the country. Therefore, we cannot all the time think alike: we differ at times. Here in this Session, Sir, at least one thing has been made quite clear, namely, that we in this House have been misquoted in certain quarters to the effect that we have all denounced civil servants. All we have done in this House is, we have pointed out that some of the civil servants have not done the things they were supposed to do and on this I am prepared to say that I will never regret that because there are facts to show that some money for development has been returned without being used; there are facts to show, Sir, just like the other day, where some few civil servants have thought they were greater than hon. Members of this House: we have facts to the effect where one of the civil servants was daring enough to tell us that he did not care about us. Despite that he even had to write in the newspaper replying to us on what he did. These sorts of things, if we point them out, somebody says, "Oh, you are in Government and you cannot do this".

Sir, I am in Government with the feelings of the people. I would not have been in Government unless the people of Butere wanted me to. Therefore, I am not here to go against the Butere people. So, I am not here to go against the feelings of Butere people, otherwise I might find myself one day out of this House if I go against their feelings. Therefore, if this Government goes against the feelings of the people, then the whole shoot—the whole of us Members—can be out of this Government, with the exception of the Nominated Members, of course. However, those who are elected and who think that because they are here and try to go against the feelings of the people, they will find themselves out in the cold. It does not matter whether they are Ministers or not. I have seen some Ministers lose anyway.

Therefore, the point remains that the people of this country are the bosses and Mzee himself says that wananchi are the bosses and not ourselves. Here we speak the minds of the bosses.

The Assistant Minister of State, President's Office (Mr. Munyi): On a point of order, Sir, is it not time?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No!

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): No. We are going on until 1 p.m. my hon. friend.

We are here, Mr. Deputy Speaker, as servants of the masses and we speak the minds of the masses. However, immediately we shall cease to do so, we will find ourselves out of this House.

[The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs]

Now, the third point, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, is that I was very much disappointed and hurt this morning. I know the Standing Orders are there, but some of us who fought for independence thought that once you are independent you can mould things the way we like in order to suit the people. I think the Standing Orders—I understand the hon. Kivuitu, hon. Seroney, hon. Nyamweya and some lawyers are on the Committee to look into the Standing Orders. I hope that they will not forget that clause—clause 166—to be amended because the Standing Order number 99 provides that we can go on with the business, but the Standing Order number 166 stops it. That part should be removed because if it had not been for that, the exploitation of the people by the landlords would have ceased today, but because of that and, because of some Members who stopped that Bill from being read a Third Time they have allowed the landlords to kill or to frustrate and muzzle the poor tenants who are outside this House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I say I was hurt because it is the people we represent that we are trying to save, but then, some of us here forget that they are here for the people and stood up to stop what we were trying to do. I hope they will be ashamed of themselves and one day, they will have to pay for it dearly by being kept outside these four walls.

Therefore, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I beg to support.

Mr. Kivuitu: Thank you very much, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir. I begin first of all by saying that I do not support any adjournment of this House coming so soon, but I will support this one because everybody seems to be supporting it.

I think, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, it is time we thought that the Parliament should sit for a longer period per year than we are doing at the moment. I do not see the reason why we should sit for nine months out of the twelve months so that we are able, for example, to debate things like the Budget fully. Sometimes we are as it were—I do not want to use any unparliamentary language. Sometimes we do not feel that we are getting fair play in discussing matters relating to the Budget because some Ministries are put together and through the system of the guillotine, they just pass through without any comments. This is very bad. We should be able to debate fully every aspect which affects the funds of this country and, for that reason, I would prefer that we have a longer period per year for discussions in this House.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the other thing which I must now mention is about the authority of this House. Many times we have passed Motions in this House and these Motions have never been implemented. This is just because this House is not respected by those who are on the Front Bench because if they respected the will of this House, then they will definitely endeavour to implement what is passed in this House. We have the example of the Motion on the Trespass Act which was passed the first day we were here—the first Friday we sat in this House—and what happened to that Motion? Nothing. I think the time when we shall discuss the Bill which is coming entitled, “The Statute Law (Miscellaneous Amendment) Bill”—I am going to oppose this Bill thoroughly and I will use everything that is within my power to make sure that this Bill does not pass through unless a provision is made for the amendment of the Trespass Act. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, this must be taken into account, otherwise, we are going to have a tug-of-war if it is not. This is the only way to show these people that this House has the power to do things. We must block what they want until they give us what we want. This is how we are going to do things from today onwards and this will be one of our tactics in future and you must take this as a warning.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, the other thing I would like to mention is that every time we go into recess, somehow, certain things which we do not like happen and this has been said very often. In particular, Mr. Deputy Speaker, there is always a move, whenever we go into recess, to have shanties demolished. Where do these people go after these shanties have been demolished? Nobody takes them anywhere but they are left in the open to live with the flies, with the rats, with everything. Not only this, Mr. Deputy Speaker, these poor people give birth in the open which is very dangerous to health. They are the people who are citizens of this country and they are also human beings like ourselves. These people are citizens of this country and what they are experiencing is very disappointing, Mr. Deputy Speaker. Mr. Deputy Speaker, when the citizens of this country are suffering so much, what do you find the non-citizens doing? They are playing golf when the fellows who are citizens of this country are suffering there in the open. Mr. Deputy Speaker, the non-citizen in this country plays golf, enjoys a bottle of whisky and generally enjoys a bath of his own or even in some have swimming pool. What are we doing in this Parliament if we are not for the people who are owners of this country. It is high time we had a different approach to our way of doing things. If we move people from a certain place because it is a shanty dwelling place, let us show them where they are going instead of leaving them in the open like that. Mr. Deputy Speaker, this is a serious matter. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, the Minister who is responsible for this is the same Minister who rushes here at the last moment to bring us this kind of thing and expect us to pass it. Mr. Deputy Speaker, despite all our efforts to make this thing pass, it failed. However, Mr. Deputy Speaker, the hon. Minister had time to run after the shanties but could not afford time to bring a Bill in this House to protect the tenants. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I speak with a great deal of disappointment and disgust on this kind of thing.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, finally, I would like to say that it is high time the report on civil servants' salaries came out. The civil servants have been waiting for this salaries report for too long and particularly the junior officers and they are being very discouraged by the delay. Mr. Deputy Speaker, I think it is time that this report came out so that we have the morale of the civil servants boosted up.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with reservations, I beg to support.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Mr. Speaker, Sir, I rise to support the Motion for the Adjournment in order that I may, perhaps, try and fulfil the wishes of the hon. Member for Embakasi who is sitting next to me here, and at the same time to fulfil the wishes of Government to see that all those who are concerned about what has been expressed by the hon. Member for Embakasi and the hon. Member for Parklands, is taken care of. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I want to make one point very clear. The question of demolishing shanties was a Government decision and so long as I am a member of that Government—and I share the feelings and also the policies, in other words, I enhance the policies of that Government—I have no alternative but to carry it out. If I am told to hang the hon. Member for Yatta, I will gladly do so. Mr. Deputy Speaker, let us not cheat ourselves. I belong to the Kanu Government and if I did not want to be in the Kanu Government, I would resign. However, as long as decisions are made and I am part of that Government, I shall execute the decisions without fear, favour or anything. I want to make this very clear. The other day, I set up a committee and I am going to see that during this recess these two hon. Members join the committee which is operating in Nairobi. We shall discuss the ways and means how best we can settle this issue. I made a statement on behalf of the Government— One of the hon. Members is saying that it is too late— The hon. Member for Embakasi will be putting on colourful shirts and ties by this time the self-help programmes which will be initiated by the Government will be going on. I am sure that next time he will help me. Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, he is looking up at me with direct eyes. I was laughing when he was attacking me because I am above his simple attacks. He has been shouting, “shanties”, “shanties!” Who does not know that the question of the shanties is a serious one? Is it really something that must be said every now and then? The hon. Member for Embakasi is one of those privileged few because in his constituency, you have Uhuru Estate, Starehe Estate and all these estates going up in his constituency. I am not going to let this go on. I am going to ask the hon. Member for Parklands to support me and the Government so that next time we have a new estate erected in Parklands. This time we are going to deny—

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order— Will you sit down? On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, can you agree with what the hon. Member for Kangundo has done, threatening me that unless I stop talking about shanties, he is going to move some of the buildings which are proposed—he is pulling my coat—to Parklands? Is he in order to say that in the form of a threat?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): No! I do not think he meant to say so very seriously. The Minister is not entitled to threaten any hon. Member especially on a matter like this one of shanties. Of course, I cannot speak very much because I am affected.

The Minister for Housing (Mr. Ngei): Coming back to the question, if I may say this, I have said that the Government is taking a very serious view of this matter and we are moving on. I am glad that the hon. Members of this House are very concerned as far as this issue is concerned. I can assure them that next time they come back they will find that we have done something. I would very much like to appeal to them to do their part too. If they can play their part by telling people not to come into towns in great numbers leaving some to work at home, I shall be very glad.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, lastly—

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member for Mbita will give me time, I would like first of all, Sir, to take this opportunity to thank His Excellency the President for his very generous act of releasing Mr. Oginga Odinga on 27th of last month. I am sure the hon. Members will agree with that—

An hon. Member: Will you give him your seat?

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, can you protect me? The hon. Member for Butere ought to know that my level of thinking and his are slightly different. I would like to say here that I am trying to express a very sincere thanks to His Excellency the President. All the hon. Members in this House and the public outside, including the Vice-President are very thankful. Some of us have had very friendly chats about this matter in the past. It is true that this thing has at last come to reality. This is the kind of thing that one likes to talk about.

Secondly, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, if the hon. Member for Kandara would like to surrender his seat to some one, that is his problem.

Now, Mr. Deputy Speaker—

Mr. Mwigigi: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker; would the Member for Kisumu Rural, first of all, reject totally this request of his seat before I consider the Kandara Seat?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! That is not a point of order. Mr. Mwigigi, and you know it.

Mr. Ayah: Mr. Deputy Speaker, I would like hon. Members to take these things rather seriously. I am not jockeying for a verbal battle with any Member here; I am trying to express certain views, I am talking of jockeying, not joking, Mr. Member for Butere; this is a matter of English. I understand you passed your English.

Now, I would like to move to my second point. The second point: I want to support very strongly, what the Member for Bungoma East said, Mr. Deputy Speaker. We, in this National Assembly, and the whole of this nation have had a most vigorous year—1970—and I must thank hon. Members of all persuasions and all stations in this House, Ministers and Back-benchers, that we have started this year in a most harmonious and vigorous manner. This House, in my opinion, Mr. Speaker, I have been very proud to belong to, because Members have taken life pretty seriously.

However, I would also sound a warning, not just to anybody here, but to ourselves, as the Member for Bungoma has said. In any situation like ours, there seems to be too much of they. I have heard people saying, "They are doing this to us, they are doing that to us, they are doing—". We belong to this nation all of us. Now, if there is any occasion that anybody thinks the Luo or the Kalenjin or the Kikuyu or the Giriama are doing something bad, first of all, it is in our own interests, as a nation, that those Luo people or those Kikuyu people or those Giriama people should, first of all, examine themselves and find out why people are calling them they. On the other hand, Mr. Deputy Speaker, it should not be easy, we should not take it to be an easy thing that we should always be referring to other people as they. I want us to continue the situation we started with this year; that we co-operate. We are lucky that we have vigorous leadership and if we are not going to use this opportunity to weld one nation together, I can foresee a very, very bad future for this country, Mr. Deputy Speaker.

I have nothing else to add, Mr. Deputy Speaker, except to say that I request hon. Members to take it seriously, that we are now present here, at this moment, to shape the future of this country. We have all the instruments of power in our hands—some people have it more than others—but it is all for the good of the whole nation, and there should not be any occasion when anybody should feel that he, and not the other, is the right person to do something.

With those few remarks, Mr. Deputy Speaker, I beg to support.

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, in winding up the Motion, I have noted a number of views expressed by each individual Member regarding the behaviour of Ministers and Members. I would like each Member to examine himself. It is known that when you point at somebody one finger, three fingers are pointing at you. Therefore, we all make mistakes, people make mistakes, but I would like to say one thing that if, as two hon. Members spoke of unity, and when we speak of unity, the unity of the nation is something which must be expressed in practical terms and not by lip-service.

Now, Sir, regarding the implementation of the Government policy, I would like to urge Members—I have written to provincial commissioners, as Leader of Government Business—to allow Members to attend District Development Advisory Committees on Saturdays and Mondays so that you can plan for your own districts and then not blame the Government for something which you hon. Members can suggest at district level. This will help the Government to know what can be done in those areas. Therefore, hon. Members should take this wonderful opportunity.

Secondly, Sir, one hon. Member suggested that Ministries should work at a double rate and added that when some hon. Members go to their constituencies some Ministers will do mischief. I do not think, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, anyone intends to do mischief. I would like to say that the House knows very well that there are Ministerial Committees and I have suggested, on various occasions, that if an hon. Member wants a number of Members to be attached to each so that they can discuss about what happens in each particular Ministry this provision is there, it exists. This could help hon. Members to know what is happening. I equally wish to suggest to hon. Members that the Estimates Committee which is in existence should be made use of so that some of these things can be examined.

One hon. Member made a suggestion that the Ndegwa's Commission Report dealing with civil servants' salaries should be out. I would like to assure hon. Members that it will be out before the House sits again in May. I would like the hon. Members to support the civil servants in order that whatever will come out of the Commission's Report, the House will give it maximum support. As I said before, it does not pay us to denounce civil servants when they deserve credit for what they have done.

The Assistant Minister, Vice-President's Office and Ministry of Home Affairs (Mr. Shikuku): Not all, Sir!

The Vice-President and Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. arap Moi): Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, some hon. Member praised policewomen who have been trained in my Ministry. I would like to tell the House that we have trained about 500, most of them from the National Youth Service, and others from different parts of the country. I would like to ask hon. Members in this House to attend a reviewing parade which is going to take place at Kiganjo, probably in May or June. We should give hon. Members adequate time to watch the parade of these girls who are very capable.

Again, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, Mr. Seroney raised the point that criticism does not suggest disloyalty. This is known that the Government would like hon. Members to criticize it. However, there are some criticisms which are not genuine criticisms but are made merely for the sake of opposing things and some Members do this. Only today on the question of housing, the Member for Embakasi spoke very vigorously. I thought, Sir, he was going to speak vigorously for the benefit of the people living in Embakasi but instead he chose to oppose something which could have gone a long way to help his people. I would tell him and other Members in Nairobi that if they still want shanties in this City, the best thing to do is to go about the issue in the normal way the African people deal with matters. Let the hon. Members meet with members of the City Council together with the Ministers concerned and discuss and find out what can be done to alleviate the situation, instead of each one criticizing the Government. In this way, they will be able to see what can be done.

Mr. Karungaru: On a point of order, Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, and with due respect to the Vice-President, do you agree with me that he is now treading in very dangerous ground? Mr. Deputy Speaker, of late, we have been told by the Minister for Housing of the Cabinet's decision and if he is aware of that one, why is he trying to contradict that decision?

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): Order! Of course, the Vice-President knows that the ball is in the court of Government and not in the court of the Members from Nairobi. He was actually saying a little politics; he was not (Inaudible).

Mr. arap Moi: Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, I was suggesting a very practical way of solving this. The Government has the money—The Ministry, as Government, has the money, but how should we go about it; how should we build this? That is why I was suggesting to the hon. Member to be more realistic and see how this could be speeded up.

Mr. Deputy Speaker, Sir, with these few remarks, I beg to move.

(Question put and agreed to)

ADJOURNMENT

The Deputy Speaker (Dr. Waiyaki): That brings us to the end of business today. The House is therefore, adjourned until Tuesday, 4th May, at 2.30 p.m.

The House rose at two minutes past One o'clock.

CONSIDERED RULINGS, POINTS OF ORDER AND SELECTED RULINGS—

Allegations—

- A very serious allegation—that Members hire their Transport Licensing Board Licences to non-citizens—Minister to lay a complete list of those Members on the Table, 864, 865
- Every hon. Member is responsible for the accuracy of whatever he alleges, 655 . . . cannot expect the Speaker to know all the facts so that he does a school teacher's business of correcting the facts, etc., 655
- If a Member is not sure about something, he had better not talk about it, 314 . . . if Member had no grounds to believe what he said is true, he should withdraw what he said, 674
- Once a Member makes a definite statement, and is challenged to substantiate, he has to do so straightaway, 291, 292

Business—

- Change in the Order of, 39

Conduct in the Chamber—

- Before Crossing the Floor Members should move to the Bar and bow, 1339
- Disgraceful for Members to shout "Ah" in response to a Member's speech, 1454
- Out of Order to pass between the Member speaking and the Chair, 1484

Constitution—

- A Member may disagree with a section of the Constitution, but the Constitution should not be challenged wholesale since all Members swore to defend it, 927

Content of Speeches—

- Out of Order to criticize the Sessional Committee and accuse it of doing things in bad faith, 1625 . . . the Committee was established by a Substantive Motion and only such a Motion can remove it, 1626

Declaration of Interest—

- If a Member thinks that another Member has an interest, he should ask him to declare it but should not impute an improper motive on him, 1630-1631
- Merely being a member of a board does not mean that one has a personal interest in it, 185
- You have to say on what grounds you think he should declare his interest, 1236; not enough just to say that because a Member interested himself in a problem he has a personal interest or a pecuniary interest, 1237

Documents—

- Become the property of the House when they are laid on the Table, 1020
- Members should not jump to snatch a document immediately it is laid on the Table, 1320
- Raising of a matter concerning a document circulated to Members by outsiders—not allowed since Speaker had not seen it, 879

House—

Contemptuous letter written by a civil servant telling other civil servants to disregard a resolution of the House—a serious letter which puts the House in a position of shameful ignominy, 1262-1263

Has no concern with speeches made outside, 962

Imputations and insinuations—

Absolutely improper to suggest that a Question was asked by a Member with the intention of encouraging people to commit crime, 1167

Condemning whole (Ministerial) Statement as being propaganda for some people—out of order, 670

If a Member thinks that another Member has an interest, he should ask him to declare it instead of imputing an improper motive on him, 1630-1631

Interruptions—

Interjections which interrupt Business are out of order, 1384 . . . if you interrupt again that way you will leave this Chamber, 512

Law—

Conflict between what Members want and what the law provides—there is nothing the House can do except to change the law when the time comes, 502

Leave of the House—

For extension of time for debate on a Motion—refused, 739

For taking First and Second Readings of Bills on same day—refused, 39, 40

Required for taking more than one Stage of a Bill at any one Sitting, 1643, 1644

Members—

Absolutely out of order for any Member to intimidate another, 1173

To be referred to as "Hon. Members"; out of order to describe them as "fellows", 727

Ministerial Statements—

Matter cannot be dealt with through a Ministerial Statement since a Question has already been submitted, 585

Members can only ask for clarification of what is contained in a Ministerial Statement, 670 . . . opportunity for asking for clarification does not entitle a Member to make a speech, 673

Time not ripe to make a Ministerial Statement, 961

Ministers/Assistant Ministers—

To be referred to as Ministers/Assistant Ministers—out of order to call an Assistant Minister "Junior Assistant Minister", 939

Motions—

A Minister can speak at any stage of—Motion for thanks for the Presidential Address—only, if he spoke too early he would not have a chance for answering points raised by Members relating to his Ministry, 106

Amendments—

Notice of intention to move should be given in writing and early enough so that there is enough time to discuss them, 1325

Anticipation—

Out of order to anticipate debate on a report that will still be brought to the House, 883, 888-889

Moving—

A Member can move his Motion at any stage of his speech . . . but if time goes before he does that, then there will be no Motion, 1027

Motions, Adjournment under S.O. 20—

Matter not suitable—not sufficiently urgent; important and therefore could only be adequately dealt with under Substantive Motion, 1084-1085, 1086

Newspaper Reports—

Out of Order to question whether something one has seen in the newspapers is true or false in the House, 657

Points of Order—

Frivolous Points of Order—

Argument under guise of point of order, 670 . . . You are expressing an opinion disputing what the hon. Member has said, 1519, 1520

Question under guise of a point of order, 364

Questions—

Answers to—

Absence of Ministers to answer, 721-722, 1373

House can only register its dissatisfaction over consistent absence of a Minister and his Assistant Ministers to answer Questions, 319

Ministers—

A Minister cannot say that because the Member who has submitted a Question is not in the House (and therefore is not able to declare an interest he is aware of) he will not answer the Question when asked by another Member on behalf of the Questioner, 1461

Cannot answer two Questions together, even if they are identical, 875

It is not for Ministers to decide on who asks a Question—any Member authorized by the Questioner has every right to ask, 1460

Out of Order for a Minister to describe a Question as "irresponsible" since all Questions are approved by the Speaker first before being asked in the House, 653-654

Should not answer what is not asked, 856 . . . they should be direct and only answer what is asked, 1554

Two Ministers cannot reply to the same Question, 1616

Asking—

Absence of Members to ask Questions—

If Members know they will not be present in the Chamber, they should make arrangements to see that somebody else asks their Questions on their behalf, 721-722

All that a Member has to do is to stand up and call the number of the Question he is asking and then sit down, 347

Every Member has the right to ask a Question—and when a Question is asked, it becomes the property of the House, 1173

On behalf of another Member—authority and time for asking, 357, 1021, 1022

On matters that are under the investigation by Police, 200

Time for asking . . . Member too late; cannot ask his Question, 723

Content of Questions—

A Question shall not refer to names of people unless they are necessary to make "what you want to say intelligible", 205

We do not ask Questions on matters which will be coming up again in the form of a Substantive Motion, 207

Out of Order—

If seeking expression of an opinion, 1473

If seeking information that is readily available

- from works of reference, official publications, etc., 1475
- Supplementaries—
 No need raising . . . "when the Question is so fully answered", 572
 No need raising, when a Minister has indicated he is not going to give an answer, 201
 Opportunity for asking does not cover making a speech, 205, 567, 574, 643, 1072
 Speaker only can say whether a supplementary question is relevant, or not, to the original Question, 191
- Speaker—
 Has no power to direct a Minister on how to run his Ministry, 952 . . . or even how to answer a Question
 Members should not interrupt when the Speaker is giving a ruling . . . "It is disrespect to the Chair and I am not going to take it lightly", 969
- Sub judice—
 Matter cannot be followed up, 1382
 Matter cannot be sub judice if not already taken to court, 199, 1170
- Substantiation—
 Adequate since the Member has given grounds on which he based his allegations . . . "You do not have to believe him, or necessarily agree with him", 1089
 Before making an allegation a Member must be sure of what he is talking about and ready to substantiate, 946. . . "You have alleged something and the assumption is that you know what you are talking about—you will not continue with your speech until you have substantiated", 922
 If a Member asks whether something is "true or false", it is assumed that he has some ground for thinking that it could be true—and therefore he should be ready to substantiate, 1375-1376
 Promised substantiation must contain names of Members involved (in selling their Transport Licensing Board Licences to non-citizens), 1257-1258-1259
 Reason for delay in giving promised substantiation, 800
 Refusal to give substantiation as promised—The worst challenge that could be put to the House, 1182 . . . the only thing open is for the Member to withdraw his allegation, 1182
 Refusal to substantiate as ordered by the Chair, or withdraw an allegation—serious matter which would be referred to the Committee of Powers and Privileges, 1260-1261
 Substantiation required, 722, 945, 946
 Time for demanding substantiation—immediately after an allegation is made, 1261, 1262

 "Exploiters"—Front Bench, 1641
 "Fellows" for Members, 727
 "Lies"—Minister's reply, 1558
- Voice of Kenya's Reports—
 Misreport of Parliamentary proceedings—remedy . . . the Member who is misreported should contact the Voice of Kenya direct and ask them to correct the misreport, 1477
- Withdrawals—
 When a Member withdraws, he has to withdraw with no conditions whatsoever, 922 . . . we shall not accept conditions when somebody stands to withdraw something he has said because that is not a genuine withdrawal at all, 946 . . . "If you defiantly say that you are not going to withdraw, then you will leave the Chamber", 947
- Speaker, The Deputy—
 (The Hon. Dr. F. L. M. Waiyaki)
- SELECTED RULINGS—
Addressing the Chair, 769
 It is not facing the Speaker that constitutes addressing the Chair, 1131
- Allegations—
 If a Member makes a statement in the House, which he regards as a statement of fact, then he is liable to be called upon, by the House, to substantiate, 531-532
 Members to desist from making allegations . . . "I would desist from making such allegations of serious nature unless absolutely sure of what I am saying, 595—You are using valuable time making allegations which, if called upon to substantiate, you cannot substantiate", 595
- Amendments—
 Not to anticipate debate on Reports still to come before the House, 917-918
 Standing Orders provide that they must be submitted in writing but do not require that they be circulated to Members, 1489
- Conduct in the Chamber—
 A Member may not cross the Chamber between the Chair and the Member speaking, 986-987, 1049
 Out of order for a Member to shout in the Chamber, 1121-1122
- Constitution—
 Out of order for a Member to describe the Kenya Constitution as "the so-called Constitution" . . . Members have sworn to respect and honour the Constitution, 1209
- Content of Speeches—
 General criticism of people who cannot defend themselves (Civil Servants)—out of order, 989-990
 Out of order to make misleading statements . . . "If you make a spirited and energetic statement, which you are forced to withdraw in the next minute, it very much spoils the case you are trying to make", 1510
- Dress in the Chamber—
 Member improperly dressed—ordered out of the Chamber, 1351
- House—

- Interruptions/Interjections—
 Members permitted to interrupt under genuine points of order, 914
 Members should not interrupt under frivolous points of order . . . "I will not allow that kind of interruptions to continue. . . . You will no longer interrupt the Member", 890
- Laying of Documents on the Table—
 If a Member discusses a document and purports to represent what it says, he is obliged by Standing Orders to lay it on the Table, 1287

Leave of the House—

For extension of time for debate (on a Motion)— granted, 459, 764, 1655

Members—

Should be referred to as "Hon. Members", 519

Ministers/Assistant Ministers—

All Ministers are Ministers all the time . . . it is not possible for a Minister or Assistant Minister to speak as a Back-bencher, 590

Points of Order—

Members not to stand on points of order when Speaker is dealing with one, 909

Points of arguments not to be raised under guise of, 902

When House is dealing with one, it must go through it before going to another, 911

Rules of Debate—

Once the red light comes on, the Member speaking should desist from continuing to speak, 768

Substantiation—

Allegation not an expression of opinion—a categorical statement and must be substantiated, 594 Before a Member makes a statement that he regards as fact, he must be sure that he can produce some kind of evidence on which he bases his argument or facts, 593

Failure to substantiate . . . "If you are not prepared to substantiate now, you will withdraw and apologize", 594

Not enough to give an opinion in substantiation
. . . once you have made a statement which we regard as a fact (that Government has diluted the authority of Parliament) it is necessary to give at least one or two examples on which you base your feelings or convictions, 909

Unsatisfactory substantiation—Unless you qualify your allegation you have not substantiated to the satisfaction of the Chair, 910

Unparliamentary Language—
